

Meeting Transcripts: LongBeachCC

Summary Information

Organization: LongBeachCC

Number of Meetings: 197

Date Range: 2014-01-07 to 2022-08-09

Included Meetings:

Meeting ID	Date
LongBeachCC_01072014	2014-01-07
LongBeachCC_02042014	2014-02-04
LongBeachCC_02112014	2014-02-11
LongBeachCC_03042014	2014-03-04
LongBeachCC_03112014	2014-03-11
LongBeachCC_03182014	2014-03-18
LongBeachCC_04012014	2014-04-01
LongBeachCC_04152014	2014-04-15
LongBeachCC_04222014	2014-04-22
LongBeachCC_05062014	2014-05-06
LongBeachCC_06172014	2014-06-17
LongBeachCC_07222014	2014-07-22
LongBeachCC_08122014	2014-08-12
LongBeachCC_09022014	2014-09-02
LongBeachCC_09162014	2014-09-16
LongBeachCC_10142014	2014-10-14
LongBeachCC_10212014	2014-10-21
LongBeachCC_11112014	2014-11-11
LongBeachCC_11182014	2014-11-18
LongBeachCC_12022014	2014-12-02
LongBeachCC_12162014	2014-12-16
LongBeachCC_01132015	2015-01-13
LongBeachCC_01202015	2015-01-20

LongBeachCC_02032015	2015-02-03
LongBeachCC_03032015	2015-03-03
LongBeachCC_03172015	2015-03-17
LongBeachCC_03242015	2015-03-24
LongBeachCC_04072015	2015-04-07
LongBeachCC_04212015	2015-04-21
LongBeachCC_05192015	2015-05-19
LongBeachCC_06022015	2015-06-02
LongBeachCC_06092015	2015-06-09
LongBeachCC_06162015	2015-06-16
LongBeachCC_06232015	2015-06-23
LongBeachCC_07072015	2015-07-07
LongBeachCC_07142015	2015-07-14
LongBeachCC_07212015	2015-07-21
LongBeachCC_08112015	2015-08-11
LongBeachCC_08182015	2015-08-18
LongBeachCC_09012015	2015-09-01
LongBeachCC_09082015	2015-09-08
LongBeachCC_10062015	2015-10-06
LongBeachCC_10132015	2015-10-13
LongBeachCC_10202015	2015-10-20
LongBeachCC_11032015	2015-11-03
LongBeachCC_11102015	2015-11-10
LongBeachCC_11172015	2015-11-17
LongBeachCC_12012015	2015-12-01
LongBeachCC_01052016	2016-01-05
LongBeachCC_02092016	2016-02-09
LongBeachCC_02162016	2016-02-16
LongBeachCC_02232016	2016-02-23
LongBeachCC_03012016	2016-03-01
LongBeachCC_03222016	2016-03-22
LongBeachCC_04052016	2016-04-05
LongBeachCC_04192016	2016-04-19
LongBeachCC_05032016	2016-05-03
LongBeachCC_05242016	2016-05-24
LongBeachCC_06212016	2016-06-21
LongBeachCC_07122016	2016-07-12
LongBeachCC_08022016	2016-08-02

LongBeachCC_08162016	2016-08-16
LongBeachCC_08232016	2016-08-23
LongBeachCC_10112016	2016-10-11
LongBeachCC_10182016	2016-10-18
LongBeachCC_11152016	2016-11-15
LongBeachCC_11222016	2016-11-22
LongBeachCC_12062016	2016-12-06
LongBeachCC_12202016	2016-12-20
LongBeachCC_01172017	2017-01-17
LongBeachCC_02072017	2017-02-07
LongBeachCC_02142017	2017-02-14
LongBeachCC_02212017	2017-02-21
LongBeachCC_03072017	2017-03-07
LongBeachCC_03142017	2017-03-14
LongBeachCC_04042017	2017-04-04
LongBeachCC_04182017	2017-04-18
LongBeachCC_05022017	2017-05-02
LongBeachCC_05092017	2017-05-09
LongBeachCC_05232017	2017-05-23
LongBeachCC_06132017	2017-06-13
LongBeachCC_07112017	2017-07-11
LongBeachCC_07182017	2017-07-18
LongBeachCC_08082017	2017-08-08
LongBeachCC_08152017	2017-08-15
LongBeachCC_08222017	2017-08-22
LongBeachCC_09122017	2017-09-12
LongBeachCC_09192017	2017-09-19
LongBeachCC_10032017	2017-10-03
LongBeachCC_10172017	2017-10-17
LongBeachCC_11072017	2017-11-07
LongBeachCC_12052017	2017-12-05
LongBeachCC_12122017	2017-12-12
LongBeachCC_12192017	2017-12-19
LongBeachCC_02062018	2018-02-06
LongBeachCC_02202018	2018-02-20
LongBeachCC_03132018	2018-03-13
LongBeachCC_03202018	2018-03-20
LongBeachCC_04032018	2018-04-03

LongBeachCC_04172018	2018-04-17
LongBeachCC_05082018	2018-05-08
LongBeachCC_06122018	2018-06-12
LongBeachCC_06192018	2018-06-19
LongBeachCC_07102018	2018-07-10
LongBeachCC_08142018	2018-08-14
LongBeachCC_08212018	2018-08-21
LongBeachCC_09042018	2018-09-04
LongBeachCC_09112018	2018-09-11
LongBeachCC_10022018	2018-10-02
LongBeachCC_10092018	2018-10-09
LongBeachCC_10232018	2018-10-23
LongBeachCC_11132018	2018-11-13
LongBeachCC_11202018	2018-11-20
LongBeachCC_12182018	2018-12-18
LongBeachCC_01222019	2019-01-22
LongBeachCC_02052019	2019-02-05
LongBeachCC_03052019	2019-03-05
LongBeachCC_03192019	2019-03-19
LongBeachCC_04022019	2019-04-02
LongBeachCC_04092019	2019-04-09
LongBeachCC_05072019	2019-05-07
LongBeachCC_05142019	2019-05-14
LongBeachCC_06112019	2019-06-11
LongBeachCC_07022019	2019-07-02
LongBeachCC_07162019	2019-07-16
LongBeachCC_08132019	2019-08-13
LongBeachCC_08202019	2019-08-20
LongBeachCC_10012019	2019-10-01
LongBeachCC_10152019	2019-10-15
LongBeachCC_11122019	2019-11-12
LongBeachCC_11192019	2019-11-19
LongBeachCC_12032019	2019-12-03
LongBeachCC_12102019	2019-12-10
LongBeachCC_12172019	2019-12-17
LongBeachCC_01212020	2020-01-21
LongBeachCC_02042020	2020-02-04
LongBeachCC_02182020	2020-02-18

LongBeachCC_03242020	2020-03-24
LongBeachCC_04142020	2020-04-14
LongBeachCC_04212020	2020-04-21
LongBeachCC_05052020	2020-05-05
LongBeachCC_05122020	2020-05-12
LongBeachCC_05192020	2020-05-19
LongBeachCC_06092020	2020-06-09
LongBeachCC_06162020	2020-06-16
LongBeachCC_06232020	2020-06-23
LongBeachCC_07142020	2020-07-14
LongBeachCC_08042020	2020-08-04
LongBeachCC_08112020	2020-08-11
LongBeachCC_08182020	2020-08-18
LongBeachCC_08252020	2020-08-25
LongBeachCC_09012020	2020-09-01
LongBeachCC_09082020	2020-09-08
LongBeachCC_10202020	2020-10-20
LongBeachCC_11172020	2020-11-17
LongBeachCC_12082020	2020-12-08
LongBeachCC_12152020	2020-12-15
LongBeachCC_01052021	2021-01-05
LongBeachCC_01192021	2021-01-19
LongBeachCC_02022021	2021-02-02
LongBeachCC_02092021	2021-02-09
LongBeachCC_02162021	2021-02-16
LongBeachCC_03022021	2021-03-02
LongBeachCC_03092021	2021-03-09
LongBeachCC_03162021	2021-03-16
LongBeachCC_04062021	2021-04-06
LongBeachCC_04132021	2021-04-13
LongBeachCC_05182021	2021-05-18
LongBeachCC_06012021	2021-06-01
LongBeachCC_06082021	2021-06-08
LongBeachCC_06152021	2021-06-15
LongBeachCC_07202021	2021-07-20
LongBeachCC_08032021	2021-08-03
LongBeachCC_08102021	2021-08-10
LongBeachCC_08172021	2021-08-17

LongBeachCC_09072021	2021-09-07
LongBeachCC_09142021	2021-09-14
LongBeachCC_10052021	2021-10-05
LongBeachCC_11092021	2021-11-09
LongBeachCC_11162021	2021-11-16
LongBeachCC_01042022	2022-01-04
LongBeachCC_01182022	2022-01-18
LongBeachCC_02082022	2022-02-08
LongBeachCC_02152022	2022-02-15
LongBeachCC_03082022	2022-03-08
LongBeachCC_03152022	2022-03-15
LongBeachCC_03222022	2022-03-22
LongBeachCC_04052022	2022-04-05
LongBeachCC_04192022	2022-04-19
LongBeachCC_05102022	2022-05-10
LongBeachCC_05172022	2022-05-17
LongBeachCC_05242022	2022-05-24
LongBeachCC_06142022	2022-06-14
LongBeachCC_06212022	2022-06-21
LongBeachCC_07052022	2022-07-05
LongBeachCC_07192022	2022-07-19
LongBeachCC_08092022	2022-08-09

Consolidated Transcript (All Meetings)

And 14 is communication from the Office of the Council Member. I lost the recommendation to direct the City Clerk to place an advisory question on the April eight, 2014 citywide election ballot, asking Long complaints from residents, constituents who were complaining that the banned fireworks ban was not being adequately enforced in their neighborhoods. And that raised a lot of questions for me. Is that how do we really deal with this outside of. I don't believe we can really hire another, you know, thousand police officers to effectually deal with the issue. And so as I look more into the issue, we started realizing that every city surrounding Long Beach actually legally has legalized safe and sane fireworks. These these are fireworks stands that are strategic, I believe, strategically located in the ports of entry into our city. And they are being supported pretty heavily by Long Beach residents. Safe and sane fireworks that are and I will preface that these fireworks are legal in the state of California and they are approved by the state fire marshal as, quote, safe and sane. I also started thinking about the the benefits that that this conversation could have for our local nonprofits. As many of you know, my my children are involved in youth sports, and I sit on several different community based boards. Beach voters Should the City of Long Beach allow the sale, use and possession of state approved fireworks within the city limits? Roslyn. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Yes, I introduced this item for consideration of this body to put this on the April ballot. The Long Beach ban on fireworks originally went into effect in 1924, 90 years ago. And I would venture to say that the conditions of the city and the reasoning behind the ban are really unknown at this point. There have been several attempts to to discuss this matter and to deal with this matter as a city council over the last 90 years of believing 1960, 1970 and the last time this council addressed this issue was in the in the eighties, the last 4th of July received many And every organization in the city is struggling to make ends meet. Fundraising needs are tremendous. And the question was raised, well, why are we supporting a lot of these residents? Why are they supporting the youth organizations and the service organizations in other cities where we could actually be our organizations in this city could actually be benefiting from those dollars. And so I think it merits our attention. But more importantly, over the last 90 years or so, and every time that this issue has come before the city council, it's been the council making the decision. I know that this would be a robust conversation among the residents of the city of Long Beach, and I'm recommending that we put it before the voters on April. Well, it. A couple of things I want to hear from. I would love to hear from my colleagues on this matter. Well, when I hear from the fire chief or. Mayor Foust or council members, I thank you for the opportunity to briefly discuss this issue with you and express my professional concerns about making fireworks legal for sale, use and possession in the city of Long Beach, as was brought up in the 1960s. The state of California, under the direction of the state fire marshal and with pressure from the fireworks industry, enabled local municipalities the ability to approve for sale, use and possession state approved fireworks. These fireworks have been branded as safe and sane, but the slogan is far from the truth. In fact, it is important to note that the term safe and sane was created by the fireworks industry to give the impression of safety. The term is merely a marketing ploy, and the truth is that no fireworks or any other incendiary device are safe or sane. To illustrate my point, we all agree that we should not give matches to children to play with. In fact, the fire service across the nation has repeatedly educated school age children about the dangers of playing with matches. A lit match burns at 600 degrees Fahrenheit. A single lit match in the hands of a child or irresponsible adult can cause tremendous damage to property and to the health and well-being of people. To put this into perspective, a so-called safe and sane sparkler that are sold at corner fireworks stands when lit burns at 1600 to 1800 degrees. That's nearly three times slaughtered in a lit match. And as many of us know, a lit sparkler will continue to burn until the available fuel sources depleted in a situation that deteriorates from festive to dangerous. One cannot just blow out the flame. Light can be done with a match. In 2012, 9600 fireworks related injuries were treated in U.S. hospital emergency rooms. The trend in fireworks related injuries has been mostly in the range of 8500 to 9800 emergency room visits since 97, with the exception of spikes in 2000, which primarily coincides with the new millennium. One quarter, or 26% of the victims of fireworks injuries in 2012 were under the age of 15. In a typical year, the highest rates of injuries per million population applied to a wide range of age ages, including children age 5 to 19 and adults age 25 to 44. Males account for two thirds or 68% of fireworks related injuries. Three of five or 61% of the fireworks injuries in 2012 were to extremities such as the hand or finger, which accounted for 46% leg injuries, 11% arm, shoulder and wrist 4%. And most of the rest, or 34% of the total were two parts of the head, including the eye, which accounted for 17% of the total injuries in 2012. Eight out of nine or 89% of the emergency room visits for fireworks injuries involve fireworks that the federal government permit consumers to use. Sparklers, fountains and novelties alone accounted for one third or 34% of the emergency room fireworks visits fires involving fireworks. In 2012, an estimated 17,800 reported fires were started by fireworks. These fires resulted in an estimated 40 civilian injuries and $32 million in di rect property damage. During 2007 to 2012, 91% of the average of 19,700 fires associated with fireworks per year occurred outside of a residence or vehicle. In 2007 to 2012, four people per year were killed by fireworks. While the data from death certificates show that five people per year were killed by will, killed directly by the fireworks themselves. Now, these estimates may overlap a little bit because fireworks can actually kill somebody and also start a fatal fire in 2000 or using 2000 to 2010 data. The risk of fire death relative to hours of usage is higher for fireworks than for Cigaretts. Cigaretts are often cited as a primary contributing factor to residential structure fires in the United States each year. But this data shows clearly that fireworks pose a greater threat than a lit cigarette in the promotion of fire on Independence Day. In a typical year, fireworks account for two out of every of all of five reported fires, more than any other cause. Also, in 2013, the National Fire Protection Association cited the increased use of safe and sane fireworks to create incendiary devices for domestic terrorism. One needs to look no further than the recent bombing in the Boston Marathon. The terrorists responsible for this horrific attack used fireworks purchased from an approved local vendor to create the bombs that caused so much damage and injury. Lastly, allowing the sale or use and possession of fireworks in Long Beach would lead to an increased stress on public safety resources as well as nearly every other city department. A recent experiment along these lines took place in the city of Huntington Beach. Two years ago, voters in Huntington Beach allowed for the sale use and possession of fireworks for a two year trial study. The trial study ended this past summer, and according to the fire chief in Huntington Beach, they were happy to see the ban go back into effect. The result of the trial in Huntington Beach was a significant increase in calls for service for both the fire and police departments, as well as significant impacts to public works department in cleaning up the debris left by the fireworks citywide, according to Chief Macintosh, the pilot program resulted in an inability of four firefighters or police officers to determine which fireworks were legal and which fireworks were illegal, making enforcement of applicable state law and municipal code nearly impossible. The chief stated that the city looked like a war zone for over a week and they're still feeling the effects. The chief believes that as a result of their experience over the past two years, the current ban will remain in effect in Huntington Beach for the foreseeable future. In our city, there are a number of readily accessible fireworks shows that members of our community can see during the Independence Day celebration. I would encourage residents to leave the fireworks displays up to the professionals and not put themselves their families, neighbors or property at r isk of an unfortunate incident by a false security of using a device that has been branded safe and sane. Thank you. Any questions through the chief. So you're for it, then? You know. Hang on a sec. Hang on. Mr. Austin, you want to comment? Sure. I just had a couple of questions and. Well, you started your. And, Chief, I do appreciate the that the facts and the figures. And you're very honest, the editorial here, I don't expect didn't expect that you would be jumping over hoops to support this. It doesn't change the fact that access is pretty much unlimited. Any way to say the same fireworks to residents in Long Beach? The mere fact that every city surrounding Long Beach, Carson, Compton, Bellflower, Paramount, Lakewood, Hawaiian Gardens and Wall all recognize same for same fireworks is legal access. Is is is isn't really not the question here because our residents are buying these these fireworks. The marketing ploy that you have alluded to regarding safe and sane fireworks. Well, I'm looking at the California state code 12 599, which clearly has certain same fireworks time of sale. It's recognized by the California state legislature and by California law. And what is the does it work in surrounding communities? I'm not hearing about major issues in any surrounding cities where public safety or is being extremely stressed. I haven't heard any data from you to give us any any sense that we are using mutual aid to to address or respond to any of these other cities in their emergency needs during the 4th of July. And it just and understand your job is is public safety and to to to advise us and trust me, I'm taking your advice very seriously and under deep consideration. But at the same time, I think there's there's still something missing because it's all around us. And our residents have full access. Our police officers don't have and aren't really, I don't think, interested in really enforcing this. I think it's a public relations problem when, you know, our police officers are responding to a block party where you have a family lighting off, say, safe, and seeing fireworks and citing a family. But two blocks away, you know, they're laying off inmates and they're there there's there's it seems like the the the policy is really relatively discriminatory in terms of how we go about in arbitrary about where we we are we site and where we enforce the the fireworks ban or yeah, the fireworks ban altogether here in the city. So this, I think, is is something that that merits our discussion. And again, the question I guess I would have to you is, would you have a problem stating those points to the voters of Long Beach? You know, if this came before the ballot, these would be obviously great points to to consider for our voters to consider. The question is not whether or not fireworks are dangerous or or risky. I think that's pretty much known. I think that's the case. But but the question is whether or not the city of Long Beach should recognize safet y, same fireworks as other cities around us do. I mean, all of them. Right. Let me let me just respond a couple of things, Mr. Dawson. First of all, the city of Los Angeles does not allow fireworks right now. So big cities, a lot of big cities don't allow it. And, you know, to me, if you want to allow it, just put an ordinance together. I don't want to waste money putting this on the ballot. How much does it cost to put these on the ballot? For two measures, we estimated about 135,000. You can split that in half depending on the pages of each. You know, if you if you if you if you really believe in it, put an audience together. But before the council, let them vote on it. I don't think this is something that merits going to a vote of the people. And secondly, you know, you can't even play dodgeball in school anymore because of the effect on children. Mr.. Mr.. NEILL With his, with all this stuff about healthy foods, people want to eliminate big, big gulp drinks, anything over 12 ounces. You've got a big program. And I applaud you for this. In the north area. Mr.. Neill to make sure kids eat healthy. But we're going to put a 1700 degree flame in their hands. You know, and see how fast they can run. This is kind of ridiculous. This isn't this is safe. This isn't safe. And it certainly is insane. It's insane. I understand. Wanting to raise money for non-profits. Mr. Ross and I got that. I mean, there's got to be better ways. That's all I would say. I just. I needed to say this. This is to me. I mean, if you believe in it, put it before the council. I'm glad you got that off your chest, Mr. Mayor. I like to hear from my colleagues. That Mr. Andrews. You know, really messed up know. So I feel like, you know, my major concern about, you know, allowing fireworks in our city limits would be a safe concern, especially in Long Beach is a much larger and divided city than any of the surrounding cities concerning, you know, currently allowing fireworks. And like I said, you know, we're looking at a situation, especially with our young kids today. And I know if you guys have been around on the 4th of July, not only the 4th of July, we have fireworks in our community all the time. And it's not just fireworks. So what we really have to be really careful because we do want to send our kids in the wrong direction. And I know we can raise money much better for these nonprofit organizations than, you know, putting an ordinance in, but, you know, opening up fireworks in our city. That, to me is a serious concern about the safety of our community and our children. Thank you. One other real difference between the cities around us. They're contract cities. They contract with the county for public safety services. You'll notice that the cities that have their own police, fire departments, they don't. Almost all of them banned this because they directly have to pay for it. It's almost a free good for the contract cities. Somebody else has to deal with it. Mr. Dillon. Tha nk you. Well, first of all, I'll second the motion, certainly, if we can vote on it. I do think it merits an up or down vote. I would I tell you that, Mr. Austin, that I think we should, you know, consider that maybe an ordinance might be a better approach than than the ballot, although I'm open to to either one for further discussion. But I could see some benefits in the ordinance. It can be in case it doesn't go as well as you hope. You know, it's very easy to undo an ordinance. It's not not so easy to undo something that's been voted on on the ballot. The one of the concerns that I do have that I think could be addressed in either approach, but I would want to make sure it is is clearly there are some places in the city that it would be inappropriate to do this. And I know just in the third place where I could support this, the peninsula is crazy enough on July 4th, adding anything to the peninsula I could not be supportive of. So I think there needs to be some mechanism to take a look at different locations in the city. And if it's an if it doesn't make sense to have these fireworks that we ought to be able to zone it out, then the last thing I would say is that where there would be ordinance or ballot is we do need to have some kind of a revenue mechanism, because I do agree with Chief Tory that there is going to be some impact on public safety and we would need to make sure that we recoup those costs in advance from the folks that are selling these things. And we need to figure out what an appropriate price would be and then cover all our public safety costs. And if this public works cost of cleanup, we've got to cover those costs. So it should not cost the city anything to do this. But other than that, I'm certainly supportive of the conversation. Mr. Johnson. Well, thanks, Mayor. I guess my first question for the city clerk is, is tonight is the deadline for putting something on the April ballot, is that correct? Mr. Mayor and members of the council, yes. Tonight is the last council meeting, January 7th, prior to the statutory. Deadline of January 10th. Okay. And if I think one of my one of my concerns and I think Councilor Austin brings up a lot of good points and I hear your passion. So and I think you bring up a lot of good points. And certainly I've enjoyed fireworks as a young person and even as an older person. But I guess a city clerk, if we wanted to put this on the November ballot, that would be another option as well. Is that correct? You could, but I'm pretty sure it'll cost you quite a bit more because that would be consolidated. Oh, that's right. So but then I guess I misspoke. I meant that June election next June would be a possibility. It could be on the June as well. Okay. And the next question is for the police chief. You know, Chief, I think Councilor Austin has a good point, which is, you know, we certainly have gotten calls in the past from residents who are concerned with the current ban in the sense that they say, oh, you know, everyone's laying off fireworks. No one's do anything about it. And, you know, obviously, you have a lot of a lot of issues like crime issues. And certainly this may not be at the top of your list. So please comment on what's it like for the four P.D. on the 4th of July. And and how do you deal or how do we deal as a community with getting those calls and explain to people that we're not selectively enforcing our laws, that we're trying to be equal and typically not enforcing it in certain parts of town, anything like that, while at the same time recognizing, you know, your priority needs. Yeah. Thank you for the question. There is frustration on the part of the officers, as you can imagine, running from called to call for fire fireworks calls. Oftentimes, these calls will come out as a shots fired call. The officers end up responding. They're believing that it's something other than what it turns out to be. It's a relief when it turns out to be fireworks. However, they have to go, assuming that it's what the call said. So from a standpoint of of complacency, that becomes an issue for us on the backside. And looking at the number of calls for service, we anticipate that if safe and sane were sold in Long Beach, they would it would legitimize it in escalate the number of people lighting up fireworks. And while it would be legal, potentially, we still would get calls, annoyance calls, people lighting them off next door. They let them off to close to this or whatever, not because they have possession, but because of the noise as a disturbance to the person calling. So I anticipate that with a greater number of fireworks available in the city, we would have a greater number of radio calls to respond to as far as a priority, how they're handled. As I mentioned, there is frustration on the part of the officers and in some areas of the city were able to get a car out there and to be able to deal with it. But most frequently, by the time the officers respond, the fireworks have been lit off. The the people who let them off are gone and there's nothing but paper blowing and in the wind at the time. So it would be a workload issue from our standpoint. The fire chief laid out the safety issues and I won't go into that. But from our standpoint, much more of a workload issue. Thank you. Mr. Neal. Mr. Mayor, I actually appreciate the dialog and excuse me and my colleague bringing this for us to at least discuss and debate on on the validity of doing something like this. The conversation has kind of diverged into an idea, excuse me, in regards to an ordinance as opposed to a ballot initiative. And I don't want to speak for Mr. Austin, but I believe the question he was posing was to find out if if the citizenry was even interested in going in this direction, where of us doing an ordinance would give us some control. But it may be that the citizens themselves don't have a desire to to move in that direction. So there is validity both ways. I think the fact that we have to make a decision on this tonight, whether we're going to pursue the direction as as presented on the agenda or we make a decision to look at it as an ordinance would would definitely would buy some more time. It's something that we have to seriously consider, but I think it is a worthwhile discussion. Okay. Comes memberships. Or Mr.. You know the other alternative is to wait get a fuller report because I think before anything is rejected out of hand, I think it would be we haven't seen anything in writing and I've heard repeated stories about the problems in Huntington Beach and how they're very grateful that they've gotten the band off. But this still could go on if it was this sense of this council not to do an ordinance, but to go with the voters. It could go in June. I mean, it just seems like it's kind of last minute, last hour on something that has ramification in this city. You all are too young to remember. Had a horrible history with the bribing around fireworks because fireworks is big business. In fact, the councilperson for the sixth District went to jail over it and ruined a wonderful career that he had in the city. So my beaches had some bad history with fireworks and what it brings. So I would hope we at least have we're going to do this have a little bit more discussion then on the night of whether or not we're going to put it on the ballot or do an ordinance or whatever, give us some time so they can be looked at. That would be that would be my call. And I would. Just be the one. Mr.. Where would the costs be similar to do it on the June ballot? The cost would be similar provided that there's a June runoff, which you can decide whether or not there will be one or not. Is is the pope Catholic? Well, I think the mayor's race will be one out rape and the third district, there'll probably be a runoff. So what will be the deadline. For the June ballot? If I recall, it would be 88 days before June 8th. April 8th is 56 days. So somewhere around some around the end of March. Well, two months from now. Right. Because April to June goes back, two months of this date would be moved back two months. So would you guys be open to changing this motion to to to put in an advisory vote before the voters in June? Well, the strategy is analyze the potential revenues would be. The interview. Well, I'm certainly open to that. But but if we have almost two months, is there any more information that we can get? Can we have a suggestion for staff on what the fees ought to be and how much revenue we would need to generate? Could we could we get any additional information on any problems and maybe no problems for Lakewood in the surrounding cities that you mentioned? Is there an opportunity to collect a little more information? But but I'm fine with heading in that direction. And then one clarification is so would the ballot item be that the citizens would vote whether or not to give the council direction to then go develop an ordi nance to basically. Yes, it's that. It's an advisory question of shall we? Shall we not? Yes or no? If the majority of voters says yes, that gives the council direction to to then start crafting an ordinance. And I mean, this is just square one right now, to be quite honest with you. Okay. So I mean, if if I guess if truly, our our worst case scenario is that we spend $65,000 and the citizens vote no. All right. Well, I would like to have a little more information if possible, but I think shooting for the June ballot, I certainly feel more comfortable with an April. Mr. Parker. You may remember the City Council as proposed by Council member Austin. The advisory vote would be non-binding on the council, of course, so they could come back, and if the citizens were inclined to favor fireworks, the council would still be free to decline or not to adopt an ordinance. But cancel memberships keep. All right. We have any public comment on this. Any member of the public. Please identify yourself. Dennis Dunne. Let the kids have some fun. Fireworks are fun. I enjoyed them. My family supervised it and loved to see the smile on my face as I burned down a little cabin without sparkling. So the chief is grasping at straws, is particularly noted when he says, I couldn't believe it. Domestic terrorism is caused by fireworks. It's inspiration in that direction. I think that possibly maybe we should ban turkeys because we might get burned face Thanksgiving. It's why you can't play dodgeball. You might get hit in the head. Can we put. That on the agenda next week, please? All right. We have any. Mr. Mayor. Well, Mr. Mayor. Oh, I'm sorry. This is actually what I came down for and waited all this time, so. Yes. Good evening again. I drove through Lakewood where fireworks are allowed on July 4th last year. It was an absolute war zone. The air was thick with smoke, dogs barking relentlessly. Many of the streets were filled with people shooting off large fireworks in the aftermath. The streets and parks were absolutely littered with spent rockets and other trash. Our resources are already stretched to the max, according to public safety sources. How many fires will be started? How many homes destroyed? How many injuries will require paramedics? How many asthmatic will experience life threatening breathing problems because of the gross air pollution? How many parents will be frightened or harmed? How many irresponsible people will cause damage to their neighbors property? Who will be available to handle these situations? Are the groups that would profit from the sale of these fireworks going to pay for all these extra expenses of the city for public safety? Will they pay for the damages to property? How do they plan to atone for the loss of a child die or the heartbreak of losing a pet, or even the loss of somebody's life in a fire?

Will they be cleaning up all the trash that's left behind, or are they willing to shoulder this responsibility? The state is experiencing on e of the most one of the worst droughts in history, a powder keg for wildfire. A single burning ember can travel the distance of a mile. Don't we have enough of a mess? From the Queen Mary. Fireworks, visitors without adding more problems. All things considered, the city council needs to put this issue to bed and continue the ban. It's the only safe and sane thing to do. Thank you. Thank you. And excuse. Good evening, Mayor. Members of the City Council staff. My name is John Kelly, Vice President, TNT Fireworks. 555 North Gilbert Street in Fullerton. As you consider your decision this evening on 14, I'm here to provide you with a brief snapshot of the fireworks industry in California and in L.A. County. Of the 46 states that currently allow consumer fireworks, the most restrictive state law is, yes, California. Safe and sane, as defined in the California Health and Safety Code, have been legal in California. The elders in my tribe told me since the forties. So we are the toes, the forties and all kinds of numbers. Take your pick. All products are tested and approved by the California State Fire Marshal before they can be sold. They may not explode, fly into the air or dart uncontrollably on the ground. They must perform under a ten feet, ten foot height restriction, and six foot circumference are limited to under 500 grams of composition and are subject to strict packaging and transportation guidelines. State law allows them to be sold used to possess from June 28th, noon to July the sixth. It's important to understand the difference between safe and sane versus illegal or dangerous fireworks. Again, as defined in the California Health and Safety Code, once approved authority transfers to local jurisdictions to allow their sale and use within their borders. It is an opt in system. It's up to the city to craft the ordinance, set criteria for and issue the permits, set fees and administer the program. Currently, there are three 270 communities that allow the sale of state approved fireworks in California, 63 of them in Southern California, throughout Ventura, L.A., Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial Counties . 39 sell here in L.A. County. TNT is a wholesale distributor to 2500 nonprofit organizations statewide who sell these products as a fundraiser for the 4th of July. Most of the nonprofits are youth organizations, high school athletics, Pop Warner, Little League, church groups of all denominations, and finally service philanthropic and veteran organizations. Many rely on firework sales as a majority of the revenue for their programs. The past five years, there's been significant activity among cities bringing back fireworks in the state of California. Most recently, voters in Fullerton approved the overturn of a ban from fireworks from 1990. Westminster voters did the same in 2010. Villa Park, Brawley. Calexico, Stockton. Tracy, Lodi, Salinas, West Sacramento and Dixon all opened in the past five years. We know there are challenges i n education, administration and public safety when it comes to a fireworks discussion. There are existing ordinances in Southern California that can and do address those concerns. Want to comment? A couple of comments made. We're not talking about toys here. State law prohibits the sale to anyone under 16 years of age. Most cities have adopted 18 year old wire. Of course, sparklers have been banned in California since 1993. Injury statistics quoted earlier include all fireworks, which includes full CE, which are not available in California. Voters did not approve fireworks. And on Extra Beach, that was a council action by a vote of 5 to 2. There was a change in the council majority during the second year of that, and that council voted 4 to 3 not to continue fireworks. Thank you. Thank you. Any other comments? Celebration of a great American revolution should be encouraged. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Good evening, Eddie Rozell. As I look at 3509 Lewis Avenue in the seventh District, I want to thank Mr. Austin for bringing this thing up. I've been in the city of Long Beach for 39 years, and those 39 years I've been criminalized every July 4th because I'm one of those people that buy fireworks. I would say to everybody, please consider this. The gentleman just spoke right now, if his numbers are true, people want this. And why should I be spending money in Lakewood or in Bellflower when I could be spending it here in Long Beach? Now, I respect everything that our esteemed police chief and fire chief have said about this, but it is like the gentleman just said, it is a traditional thing. And again, before you dismissal of this thing, I think what Mr. Austin has brought up is very valid, a very good issue that should be brought up, like I said , 39 years and Long Beach and 39 years criminalized. Thank you. Next, please. Very good. Good. You? The clerk has the address. With all due respect, the book. I think that this motion is a prima facie case. Against the second hand smoke of marijuana is obviously. Unchecked in the gentleman's district. Thank you. Okay, Mr. Johnson? Well, it's hard to top that, Mayor, but I guess I want some clarification. But I think we've had some pretty good conversation. And my point of view is, I think, you know, I appreciate the councilor also bring this up. I think it is worthy of kind of robust conversation. Hearing the pros and cons, I'm not really eager to put on the April ballot. I think we just heard about it tonight, but I am interested in talking about it more. So is the consensus that we're saying that we're going to hear more from staff, get some reports, think about it, and then consider whether it put on the June ballot or actually sign up tonight. Put on the June ballot. I, I wanted to say on the motion. Remote motion is still to put it on an April ballot. Oh, but he may change it. Okay. Well, I guess. I'll ask both. Councilor, also, what do you think about perhaps take some time, maybe ask his staff to come back with the full report canvassing power station. Then we can come back at a future meeting with that. Maybe meets their needs or. We can have a report within 30 days. I think, you know, I would definitely be open to a friendly amendment to moving it to the June ballot with four, but with having a lot more information from staff in terms of what the cost will be, what type of potential revenues we could be looking at getting here. Is it worth it necessarily to pursue this from a fiscal standpoint? And we also have to address the cost of public safety. And moving forward with this, we would have to definitely have to, I think, compensate for that. So I'm open to an amendment to do that. To make sure that that'll be my friendly amendment. Let's be clear what exactly the amendment is. The amendment, as I understand it, from what I heard, is to ask for a report from staff on the items that were enumerated within 30 days, and that at that point, we would consider whether or not it would be put on the June ballot. Correct. Not making the June decision tonight, but waiting for the information, which seems appropriate. Okay, that's the motion. Mr. Mayor. Okay, Mr. Mayor. Members, cast your votes. Well, the city clerk has, quote. The deadline for the June election would be March. Seven. Okay. So we'll be having before March 7th. 30 days would be early February. That sounds familiar. Somebody said two months from today. This motion carries nine votes. Yes. Okay. Now we go to item 15 luxury. There are conditions on this one. This is recommendation to receive an f, receive the application of come and go market for an original ABC license at 33978 LAC Atlantic Avenue determine that the application serves the public convenience a necessity, and submit a public notice of protest to ABC and direct the city manager to withdraw the protest if a conditional use permit isn't granted. This is in District seven, Councilman Johnson. Well, thank you, Vice Mayor. I have distributed the conditions here, which are largely based on what the police department has recommended. I'll go ahead and make the motion to go ahead and protest. Upon its completion, a copy. The copy is completed. Then asking the city to go ahead and withdraw the protest with these conditions. Secondly, okay, there's been a motion and a second. Any public comment? Just one composer. We want counsel. First, I want to thank Councilman James Johnson for bringing this motion to the council. My name is Abdul Shareef. I'm the applicant. Councilman, if you look at this, I want council to take a look at these conditions, impose and. Originally. What I'm trying to do is just upgrade my type 22 or 21. The 20 that I have to currently have no conditions. And with the 21, basically just give me the opportunity to sell distilled spirits with these conditions. Pretty much console is stripping me with all the sales that I have now with the 20 and pretty much give me. Anything for the deceased spirit. I asked council to look at the conditions and I have a recommendation also if I may place give it out to just take a look at it. What? If you have something you can pass over the clerk? Okay, sir. Thank you. Okay, thank you. Any other public comment? KC None. Vice-Chair Just respond, I'm sure, coming down and I look forward to working with you over the coming months. I think the problem is we've had a lot of issues, frankly, at the establishment with vagrancy and so forth. But I think we can I think we can make some improvements and perhaps make change in the future. I would like to ask the police department, do we have any record of calls of service at this location or any history you want inform the council about? And someone from PD or licensing here. Good evening, Vice Mayor. City Council during the investigative period from December 2012 to December 2013. We show 24 calls for service with majority of those being unwelcome people. Usually unwelcome people means people are loitering the area. Yes, I think, you know, that's the challenge. So I think if we can get some of that problem activity decreased, I think perhaps in the future we can visits and the conditions. It certainly actually, sir, we can have a back and forth. But you've had your public comment. Okay, sir, thank you so much. Any other council comments? None. Any other public comment? See, now there is a motion on the floor.

Members, please cast your votes. I mean. Yes. Motion carries five votes. Next item. Next item is to recommend to find that excavations are immediately required for the general health, safety and welfare of the city. It cannot be delayed. And this is so a portion of West Belfast Boulevard between Stearns and Abbey Field Street, some of which has been reconstructed District Court. Thank you. We'll go to item six. Quick read. Item six is a report from the office. Councilwoman Jeri Ships Key and Councilmember Gary DeLong with a recommendation to request the city manager to direct the airport director to provide a report on how the City of Long Beach will participate in discussions with the FAA to reduce helicopter noise. Councilmember Schepisi Thank you, Mr. Mayor. In January, President Obama signed into law what is called the Los Angeles County Residential Helicopter Noise Relief Act. That, among other items, requires the FAA to look at a variety of ways to reduce helicopter noise in Los Angeles County, including mapping new routes to avoid homes, looking at flying at higher altitudes and developing a complaint system. The law was put forward by the federal legislators who share the concern of residents in the city of Long Beach, who live in neighborhoods that are begging for relief from the constant noise from helicopters. And what I would request, I think I. Mr. West. Yes, Mr. Rodriguez. Okay. Yes. Yes. We could hear from staff, because I met with Mr. Rodriguez today and they are going to issue a report. But I think that would be an order rig ht now. Yeah. Mayor, members of the city council will be more than. Glad to issue a report as to what we have done. Up to this point. And will we be doing in the future with this issue. So we'll be issuing a two from four. Okay. All right. I would make a motion that we request the city manager to direct the airport director to provide a report on how the city of Long Beach is going to participate in the discussions with the FAA to reduce helicopter noise. Motion the second. Second. All right. Any council discussion. And remember the public question, just the council on this item. If so, please come forward. Identify yourself if you see the yellow light. You have about a half a minute left. Thank you. The first two members of the city council. My name is Diamond Sievers, and I reside in Bluff Heights. I'm also a member of the Bluff Heights Neighborhood Association, and the masks are on the board of the Los Angeles Area Helicopter Noise Coalition. I'd like to first express my appreciation to Council Membership Scheme and DeLong for bringing this issue of helicopter noise abatement back to the city Council's attention this evening is my hope that the Council unanimously vote in support of Long Beach as active participation in resolving the helicopter noise over our schools and our homes. During this year, the FAA will be holding meetings with residents and the helicopter industry to determine if voluntary members excuse me, monitoring measures have made significant improvement. With regards to helicopter noise in L.A. County, the FAA will only be required to pass mandatory regulations if the voluntary measures are not successful. The Los Angeles Area Helicopter Noise Coalition has participated in all major efforts related to helicopter noise since 2011, and no tangible, voluntary solutions has been found thus far. The issues are further complicated due to the lack of a county wide, a complete system, a lack of any criteria for determining if progress has been made or any baseline data. So it will be problematic to determine if significant progress has been made during the year. It is therefore necessary for Long Beach to be very active and vocal throughout this FAA process. Two other issues I'd like to quickly address and point out to the City Council, which may impact aviation noise and Long Beach. The first one is that the city of Santa monica and the FAA are in a debate regarding the future of the Santa monica Santa monica Airport. If Santa monica Airport is closed or if the runway is shortened, there may very well be a large number of aircraft looking to relocate in L.A. County. Long Beach already has approximately 60 helicopters housed at our airport. And although Santa monica has only a small number of helicopters, I would suggest that we should certainly would not want additional helicopters, and we would want to be vigilant with regards to any additional fixed wing aircraft using Long Beach as a home base. In addition, there has been a propo sal to open a new heliport at L.A.X. A decision regarding the heliport has not been made. And I would suggest, again, that this could negatively impact helicopter activity over Long Beach. The Los Angeles Area Helicopter Noise Coalition has submitted a letter opposing the request for a helicopter heliport in LAX. A copy of that letter is being emailed to the city council members, but I took the liberty the same name and brought you copies of the letter. I thought it might be important for you to look at that as we approach this issue of L.A.X. possibly adding to the confusion and the noise over L.A. County with a new heliport. Again, I greatly appreciate the city council and the Long Beach Airport staff working on behalf of the residents in Long Beach. And I would hope that the action of the Long Beach City Council tonight to actively participate in the upcoming FAA meetings will become a model for the other cities in Long Beach, excuse me, in L.A. to emulate. Thank you. Thank. Thank you. Mr. Councilmember. Should. Yes, Mr. Mayor, I'd like to thank Councilmember DeLong for co-sponsoring this and like to point out to the public that the city of Long Beach was one of the cities supporting the 2000 313 Los Angeles Residential Helicopter Noise Relief Act. So the city has been on record for quite a bit that we'd like to participate and support this. So with that. We have a motion in the second on item on item six, please cast your vote. Councilmember Now motion carries seven votes. Item seven Cllr Cary. Yes. Thank you, members. Now on the ordinance, the same motion. Yes. And I still like to make my comments. Oh, good. Thank you. I wanted to thank the city staff. This is something that I didn't want to just take a quick vote on, given the amount of work that's gone into this and John Thomas has alluded to it. This is long in the process and city staff in the Planning Commission are to be thanked for their diligence in developing this ordinance and adhering to the spirit of the original Council agenda item, which was I don't know how long ago, probably two years now. I'd also like to thank you, John Thomas, and other advocates for your input and support along the way. It takes that kind of community stamina to hang with us when this kind of public policy is developed and how long it does take for built out cities such as Long Beach. Adaptive reuse can be an important tool for revitalizing business corridors and residential buildings, thereby stabilizing communities. I think Mr. Thomas was clear in his testimony. It's especially true today in post redevelopment environment where older buildings, if tended to, if, if revitalized, can contribute to improving blighted areas. And that's what we would look forward to. Underutilized sections of a block can be reactivated and serve as anchors for new business activity, creating pedestrian traffic and sales tax revenue. Adaptive reuse is also an economic multiplier that creates jobs again in a post redevelopment environment. These are the opportunities we have to look for in other ways, and I think we do that here with this ordinance. A recurring theme and adaptive reuse or any type of development, for that matter, is the need for a permit process to be efficient and predictable. But adaptive reuse regulations also need to be flexible when it comes to applying today's building codes to 50 year or plus 50 plus year buildings. We're not talking about reducing safety requirements, and I want to assure those of you that might have concerns about that. But there are codes that can be overly burdensome and end up chasing good developers away from a project. I believe this ordinance achieves these goals and the timing could not be better for the real estate and construction industries. We in Long Beach have an impressive collection of older and historic buildings to prove to rival any other city in Southern California. I know we're all very proud of that. And now we have the tools to cultivate these treasures and invest in their future. Thank you. Thank you. All right. The same motion and same second on there was on the audience. Speak for matter. Make it quick, Mr. Duncan. I already asked twice. Republican. I think you know a difference, too. I think that the preservation organization is a vast waste of money. Millions of dollars squandered. We should advance and progress with modern buildings. The old buildings look ugly. And that's why they ought to be torn down that are because they are ill constructed or have rats in them or something like that. A parking lot would provide more revenue and be more business oriented. And a new building. A new building, not an old building done over again, but a new building will provide more jobs for people's interaction and would be even look better. Thank you. Mr.. Then to the point as usual. Members cast your votes on the ordinance. Please. Motion carries nine votes. Okay. We open at the public comment. We have seven members of the public. Please come up here. Identify yourself. You'll see a green light when the yellow light comes on. It means you have about 30 seconds left. Please stay within the 3 minutes. The report from Public Works with the recommendation to authorize stadium exit, a funding agreement with the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority to provide funding and widening of Atlantic Avenue and Willow Street. So moved that. There's been a motion and a second. Any public comment on the item saying none. Please go out and cast your votes. Councilmember Andrews. Thank you very much, Vice Mayor. You know, the project is definitely, you know, welcome to because this is a particular area in one of the most used intersections in the central area, you know, and in both the left and right lane terms will alleviate a huge, you know, difference in our community and commuting, you know, as well as, you know, helping to alleviate a lot of the traffic congestion there. So I would like to thank everyone who involved in and making this happen. So I'd like to move to approve this item. You get in a motion to approve the item by Councilmember Andrews. There's a second and there's no public comment. So we're going to go ahead and take a vote. Right up. Councilman Burgess. Motion carries nine votes. Yes. Okay. An exciting place to recommendation. Declare an ordinance, and many of them is municipal code relating to electronic cigarets and similar devices read and adopted as read. And report from the Office of Vice Mayor Robert Garcia with the recommendation to designate the park at Alamitos and Seventh Street as Robert Gunpowder Park and refer this item to the Parks and Recreation Commission. Mr. GREAT. Mr. Vice Mayor. Thank you. You're welcome. There. Over the last few years, we've been working hard on the creation of a new greenspace and park over at 17 Alamitos. And it's been referred to by the community as well as those who have been working on the site is Armory Park. And the Armory Park site is a has a long history here in Long Beach. And I want to start by talking a little bit about that and kind of what led us to this point that I do think this is a special night for for Long Beach and for the legacy of someone who has contributed so much to Long Beach. And there are very few people in in the history of our young city who have done more for not just arts and culture, but for the world of medicine than Robert than Dr. Robert COMBINER Bueno is risky, but ten years ago I began working with the Craftsman Historic Group as well as neighbor, different neighbors in the community to discuss the possibility of shutting down a parcel of Alamitos at seventh. And Alamitos, where we're Martin Luther King Boulevard also meets years later. They came up with a plan that then became became really a city plan, which we adopted. We went out, we got funds with the state and others and were able to get enough money from the from the state, from other transit funds to put together enough money to essentially take the parcel that is currently there at the street and close it down and create a parcel, a green space for the city. When this groundbreaking happens later this year, not only will we be eliminating the most dangerous intersection in the city of Long Beach, but we will be creating a new green space adjacent to the Museum of Latin American Art, adjacent to PM, and also creating green space in a community that has very little access to recreation and green space. In fact, it is one of the most dense neighborhoods in the city. There are still challenges there. And the fact that there isn't a lot of room in place for for young people to play has always been a challenge for for the neighborhood. So what this will do is we're really taking what was a dangerous intersection and creating a new park. The park will include a small skate park. It will include a top lot for families. It will include open greenspace. It will include opportunities for outdoor art and fes tivals, as well as areas for people to have a pedestrian walkway and to enjoy this kind of small green area in a really urban urban setting. Also, about a eight or nine months ago, we began a process to come up with a name for the parcel. So we had a series of meetings, including a community naming meeting and encourage the community to give their input on what to name the park. The conclusion of that discussion was we that the community and working with our office and other partners really felt that the best way to to honor the incredible legacy of the the the main benefactor to this neighborhood an area would be to name the park after Robert Combiner. And as we all know, Dr. Combiner not only facilitated the growth of one of the largest HMOs in the country and started his practice here in Long Beach, but also created and established through his job. Atrocity, the Museum of Latin American Art, as well as the the Peace Museum, which is right just adjacent to the site as well. Pacific Islander Collection. That's there. Five years ago, Dr. Gunn Binder passed away, but his dedication to Long Beach has been consistent. He has invested when you think about the investment that Dr. Gunn Byner has made to the arts in Long Beach, the way he put Latin American art into the national discussion and made Long Beach the center of that is something that's admirable. This will be the first major public space in the city and in the country named after Dr. Graham Byner. In this way, and I think it's a moment of of celebration for certainly his family, the museum and all of those that have been involved and have been touched by his generosity. And I want to end by saying that I think that Dr. Combiner is certainly best known for his philanthropic contributions. But we should never forget the thousands of people that he helped in Long Beach through his medical practice, through reaching out to low income communities, through the free clinics, through him providing oftentimes free health care to all of those residents in these in these communities. And so his contributions really stem from not just his philanthropic work, but the work he did to make a Long Beach a healthier place and his vision of of a healthier Long Beach. And so the idea of creating and naming a park, which is the important piece of having a healthy community. After Dr. Gunn Byner, I think makes a lot of sense. So. So with that, I'm going to go ahead and make the motion to record, to name the the park at Alamitos and seventh Robert Gunn Binder Park, and refer the item to both the Parks and Recreation Commission and the Housing and Neighborhoods Council Committee. Okay. Councilmember Lipski. Yes. Mr. Garcia Was there any consideration of having the Robert and Josephine campaigner Park? Because Josephine was an extremely important asset not only to his work, but set up numerous charitable organizations as a result of their partnership together. And I think the family certainly would be very honored i f both the father and the mother were included in that. So is there any way we could explore that opportunity? Well, you know, the this actual naming went through a pretty extensive community process, and this is the name that they decided on. I think there certainly will be ways at the site to honor to honor her. And I and I understand what you're saying, but this is what went through the community process. So it's one of what I'm presenting to the council. Okay. Well, hopefully we'll get the community to to go to the Parks and Rec Commission, because it would be a gross oversight to keep her out of the naming of that park. She's very responsible for his success. Good motion. And the second any member of the public was just council on this item, please come forward. Larry. Good you Kirk as the address. I support 100% with the councilman accountable for the fifth District bishops, he said. I think it was an oversight. I was not involved in that process whatsoever. But I think obtuse would be the word to describe this council's actions. If you said if you did not, in fact, remand this back to the process. And had them consider that and then bring that forward. There's nothing to lose that will be there in perpetuity. You don't put it on as a Band-Aid or something or afterthought. And it really I don't know who was responsible for and how this often got, you know, pushed through. There have been a number of dubious things relative to naming people, naming things after people and so forth that haven't been well-thought out. But you have an opportunity to to do what I think most people, decent people would expect. And since the barn isn't on fire, remand it back from whence it came, from where it came, and have them revisit that, then bring it forward. Thank you. Thank you. Any further any further comments? Okay. I just want to say I knew Dr. Gunn by her personally, and I have a great deal of respect for his work in this city and his legacy. And so I appreciate the the honor he made me receive. Okay, members, we have motion to second. Cast your votes on item seven. Motion carry symbols. Yes, I make look read the. Report from financial management with the recommendation to adopt a resolution approving the annual and Five-Year Reports for the Transportation Improvement. Three The Parks and Recreation Facilities Fee, Foreign Impact Fee and the police facilities impact. Okay. Item six, click or read item six. This is a report from the city manager with the recommendation to authorize the city manager execute documents with Global Green for professional technical assistance to conduct a sustainable neighborhood assessment for the historic Virginia Village Market Street Neighborhood District eight. Straws. Yes, Mr. Mayor, thank you very much. I pulled this item because I think it is worthy of our hearing here in the public. This is a endeavor that is very important to North Lawn Beach communities, particularly those neighborhoods surrounding the Market Ave nue corridor. I wanted to let staff report exactly on what this Global Green Initiative is actually all about. And so I turn it over to the city manager. Mayor. Councilmember Andrews This is a project that's very near and dear to Councilmember Austin's heart. And I'm going to turn it over to our sustainability manager, Larry Rich, to tell us what's happening. Thank you, Mr. West. Good evening, Mayor, and members of the Council. One of the things that we do in the Office of Sustainability is always looking for grant opportunities to pursue either for funding or, in this case, technical assistance. And so and this particular grant opportunity, the organization Global Green reached out to us and invited us to apply for a program that they're doing that's called the Sustainable Neighborhood Assessment. This is the third year of their program. In the past two years, they've selected in each of the years, seven or eight other cities around the country. This year they were looking for another seven or eight cities. And so Long Beach applied. We in working with the Development Services Department and looking into previous planning efforts, we selected a neighborhood in in the eighth District in the vicinity of Market Street and the Virginia Village right there at Market and Language Boulevard. And so what this is all about is we previously interacted with Global Green to create our green building policy for both municipal development and private development. And in that policy, we use a tool called the Lead Checklist LEED being leadership in energy and environmental design. So at this point in the city of Long Beach, we've got more than 30 LEED certified buildings, some of which are city owned facilities such as Fire Station 12 or the gas and oil building that was recently completed. There's a there's a different product that we're not as familiar with that's called LEED for Neighborhood Development. So over the course of this grant technical assistance, we will be doing a assessment of this neighborhood around Market Street with a mind to what sort of strengths the neighborhood has, what sort of green opportunities exist. And we will be provided with a report and assessment at the end of the process that will make recommendations to the city about how it might proceed with development projects in that neighborhood to introduce green elements such as pedestrian friendliness, stormwater improvements, open space linkages and so on. The technical assistance involves an intensive three day site visit by the Global Green Experts, where we'll do. A city team will be assembled to work with the Global Green team. We'll do a walk the neighborhood to get a feel for what's going on, on the ground, review the existing plans that have been completed for the area, run through the the lead for neighborhood development checklist to review opportunities there, hold a couple or a stakeholder meeting and also a an evening community input meeting and then tie all that infor mation together in what I've seen done for the other cities that have completed this process, a 20 to 25 page report that then comes back to the city and it'll be on us to implement recommendations that are made in that report. So that's a kind of a quick overview of what we're talking about for this neighborhood. We're excited in the Office of Sustainability because, as I said, we don't necessarily have experience with the lead for neighborhood development tool. So it'll be a good learning experience for city staff and hopefully we'll pick up some things through this process that will be applicable to neighborhoods across the city. That's the end of my report and I'm ready for any questions. Well, I'll just give you a comment and say, you know, I'm looking forward to this. I know many of our residents are looking forward to it. And as you say, stakeholders as well in the area. I think this project will this assessment will help tie in Virginia Village. Which has already seen significant city investment. On that with the Forest Wetlands Project is coming to Earth as well. And so Market Street is a is a is a priority for this. My office and you can count on my full participation in my office is full participation in this assessment process can make it successful. Thank you very much for your hard work. I want to move the item. Mr.. So move the second. Move and second seconded. Any member of the public will suggest council item 639 members cast your vote. So item six. This motion carries eight votes. With the item 18. Support from the Office of Mayor Bob Foster with the recommendation suspend the suspend the Council meeting of April eight due to the. Thank you, Mayor. This hearing involves the financial management department. The recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record, conclude the public hearing and adopt a resolution amending the master fee and charges schedule. Mr. West. Yes. Vice Mayor, members of the Council. Leah Erickson, our budget manager, will provide the staff report. Good evening, Mayor and council members. Today's city council's approval is being requested for the second quarter changes to the master fee and charge schedule. This schedule is updated at least twice a year to meet City Council's policy on user fees, which calls for full cost recovery whenever appropriate. The last time City Council amended the fee schedule was on September 3rd of 2013 as part of the fiscal year 2014 budget. Attachment A to the report includes seven departments with fee changes. And these fees include items such as in the clerk's office, increasing the fee for providing express passport services by a dollar to reflect the United States Postal Service's fee increase. It also includes fees for the Belmont Pool, the new outdoor pool. And these fees were based on a comparative analysis of other outdoor public pools. And it was meant to update and standardize the fees and related to the use of that pool. They should be noted, those those fees will be reviewed with the opening of the permanent Belmont Pool, and they are going to be retroactive for January 1st, 2014. In the police department, there's a number of general fees that are just being rounded to minimize use of change. So they're being rounded to the nearest whole dollar. And in, for instance, another example would be public works, charging a fee to cover the cost of printing no parking signs that are used in temporary construction zones. So like I said, seven departments do have fee changes as part of this this report and myself and members, representatives from those departments are here, if you have any specific questions. Okay. Thank you. I'm going to move on to any sort of public comment on the hearing. Seeing none. I'm going to go and close the hearing and take it behind over here to the council. Councilor Morgenthau. Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. I just had a couple of questions for staff. One is, I think there's something in here. Why must the HIV AIDS health education classes start 30 minutes later than the closing time?

To. Council Councilmember Lowenthal we will have Dr. Bitch Kushner from Health and Human Services here who can answer that question. Councilwoman Lowenthal. The question was why the classes start a half hour. Later. Later than. Than the closing time of. The health. Department? Yes. Probably. It's more of a. Function of availability for the clients that are ordered. To take the course. That's the only reason I could give. Okay, that's. That's fine. I just thought that was peculiar. Peculiar? Sorry. The second question I had is under the news rack removal. And Dr. Kushner, I don't think that's your expertise, but if the owner fails to cure the violation within the stated number of business days, the news rack shall be removed and stored in a designated place. So Long Beach Municipal Code states that the owner shall pay the expenses of removal and storage of the newsroom. I'm just curious, do we have do we still have difficulty with the news rack removal? I know we did some time back. And I know you're proposing an $85 retrieval fee per rack, but is that based on the administrative work that it requires or a difficulty in compliance? Honorable, lone, tall. The cost is to recover the actual physical work that an employee has to go out to remove the rack, put it on a truck, and take it back to the yard and store it. So that's our retrieval. That's all retrieval. I mistook that about the. Administrative. Fee. Perfect. Thank you. You think you can spiritual escape? Yes. Think I'm the Marine face. I would not be more prudent to wait till we've had the audit on him. On. The Marine face before we. You've got indication here about. And see what it says. Page. Yeah. Cover administrative processing costs are proposed by the Marine Bureau. 10% increase for temporary slip late fees. I thought that we were going to have a complete audit of those fees. And wouldn't it be more appropriate to wait to the audits done before any change of any fee related to that? Councilman George Patton Director Parks, Recreation, Marine. I think the fees that we've got identified here for dry, dry boat storage and they aren't related to the audit. The audit, I think, deals more with what was being charged to the Marina Fund in terms of maintenance. Well, the temporary slip they would not be related to someone is using. That's a late fee. I understand that they charge, but that's cumulative on top of the other fees. I'm just asking if we're going to have an audit of that at that time. It might be appropriate to come back with all the increases suggested increases, because I would think the auditor would audit anything related to that. I don't believe that was in the scope of the audit. The auditors not here. So. We're going to have a response to that. I know that the order is not here. Well, I think that wasn't part of the audit scope. The scope was to look at the maintenance charges that was charged to the Marina Fund, not so much the slip fees and whether or not they were appropriate or the increases in slip fees. Container ships could do anything additional. That's why I think you got somebody. O'Donnell. Just two questions. Does this does this change the fee structure to the launch ramps at all? DAVIES, etc.? I don't believe so. Okay. And what about residential restricted parking permits like those around the colleges. For permanent. Purpose of. Residential preferential parking? Right. Typically, I believe at 30, maybe 65 now. Do they go up to 65? I'm trying. To. Councilmember O'Donnell, there are no changes to the parking fees. Great. So parking in lawn traps are left out. Thank you. So let you finish this, Mr. Vice Mayor. Where are we with the emotion? No. The hearing? No. Is there emotion? All right. Any other questions will entertain emotion. Moved in second move against memberships seconded by Mr. O'Donnell. Any public comment? All right. Eight questions. CNN members cast your votes in hearing our number one. Motion carry seven votes. Yes. Thank you. Members. I probably need to comment on this because I didn't even know it was up. But you'll notice that the nameplate in front of me, says Admiral Bob Foster, Starfleet Command, which has been my lifelong dream. But they film Star Trek the movie here about four or five years ago. And and the know they made some improvements to this room. And if you watch the movie it outside the windows of San Francisco but it's in this room but they sounds. Like a campaign. They went out they found. Out that I was somewhat of a Trekkie. And the producer said, if I would have known that, I would have made the admiral who did the court martial. I would have said Admiral Bob Foster. I said, that would have been really great. So before they left, they gave me a nameplate that said Starfleet Command. So people have been calling me Admiral tonight, and I just kind of ignored it and I thought, What the heck is that going on? So anyway, that way explanation. Are you really are tricky. I love the look like the old Star Trek, right? And that's good. And I really enjoy the old star had some great themes in there. But anyway, that's neither here nor there. We're not going to solve that tonight. All right. We have public comment. I think that's correct. Greg in public comment. John Music Mrazek. I hope happiness. Right? The report from the police department with the recommendation to receive and receive the application of state side crafts for an original ABC license at 42428 Atlantic Avenue and determined that the application serves the public convenience and necessity. And submit a public notice of protest to ABC. And direct the city manager to withdraw the protest if a conditional use permit is granted. This is in District eight. Councilmember Alston. Thank you very much. I am going to move this item on so moved second and just with a condition that that I do support the the recommendation to uphold the protests. But this is a business that we are looking forward to seeing in the Bixby Knolls area on Atlantic as part of the Renaissance that is occurring. I have met with the owner, Miss Arnoldo, and I'm very impressed with the business model that will be coming forth. But because this is coming before the conditional use permit process, we have to uphold the protest. And but I do look forward to working with her as well as other local residents, to find a balance for for good business in Bixby Knolls and quality of life for our residents. So I would ask for your support. And there's a motion and a second. Any public comment on the item saying that please cast your votes on the. Yes. Motion carries eight votes. Thank you. Automated reports from the office council member James Johnson and council member Steven Neale with a recommendation to adopt a resolution supporting April as National Child Abuse Prevention Month. I maintain this report from financial management with the recommendation to receive and file the fiscal year 2014 first quarter budget performance report. Second. There's been a motion. Any second concern for Austin? Yes. I guess this question is for city staff. I reviewed the the fiscal year reports for 13, for 12 and for 11. And they seem to all have a lot more information than this one does. Is there any specific reason why the particulars for fund balances, percentage of funds spent out of those funds and revenues aren't reported . I'll turn this over to our budget manager, Lia Erickson. Good evening, Councilmember. Basically because we're projecting that everything is on track. We did not decide. We decided not to show all the detail since we're really not projecting any deviation. We do note that revenues and expenditures are on track and that their spending is in line with past years. So it would be. Safe to assume. Based on that comment, that no departments are over budget over 25% at this point. That is that is correct. We are not projecting any departments to b e overspending their budgets. Okay. Thank you very much. Okay. Thank you. See no other comment from Council on this. Any public comment on the item? Think again, Mr. Vice Mayor, Gary Shelton. You know, every once in a while, the planets align like the. Moon and the sun and the earth and maybe strawberry and. Mars. And it's kind of like that tonight. You see me down here at the microphone, I think a whole lot of times more than I wish I had come down here. So I wanted to just express that I normally won't show my face at nearly every item like this, but there are some times when a lot of things just sort of land on the same night that piqued my interest are and this is one and I really appreciate council member Austin's notice that that it was very very short report and the staff's answer to that but the main reason I'm down here tonight is that every quarter when I'm able to when it looks like the budget is on track, I come down to remind the council that when Assemblywoman Lowenthal was in the seat at District number one, the housing trust fund was created. And that was I have it in my texting. I'm not going to reread it something like 12 years ago. And there was a little bitty half of a phrase in there that said when the housing trust fund, which was designed to provide opportunity for housing for extremely low income members of our residents in our city, as well as moderate or and over moderate income residents of the city that could provide housing opportunities. There's been no additional funds put into that for the past nine years, and it sits right now at $166,100, which isn't quite useful for anything. Staff has identified that last $266,000 to be used for rehabbing downtrodden mobile homes, which I guess is all right. But the phrase in the ordinance was, if available, and the way money becomes available for the housing trust fund is if the transient occupancy tax fund overperform and then money that's put into the general fund for that isn't used for something else. First we discovered that when the first time that that actually was an occurrence and there was money that appeared to be available, it was used instead for paying police department overtime wages, which was going to argue with that last year. In December, the year end report for the October year end showed that we were some, well, $545,000 overbudget at the time, and that was rolled over. It indicates that there was actually a purpose for the roll over now of of even more money than that which was for the CalPERS fluctuation reserve. I guess so. But I'm just here to remind you that one of these days there will be money available for that housing trust fund unless you, on any given Tuesday night, decide to take that if available out of the ordinance and make the housing trust fund really supply money for housing the way it was designed to. Thank you. Thank you. Any other public comment on the item since there is a motion on the floor? Please cast your votes. As a council memb er, Johnson. Motion carries some votes. We're going to move on now to a beloved item 1990. Item 19 is a report from Health and Human Services with the recommendation to execute a First Amendment to an agreement between the state of California and the city of Long Beach for the provision of HIV, AIDS, health care services. And 11 is recommendation draft resolution certifying the results of the primary now, meaning election to be moved second. And second. In any member, the public would just council item 11 say none. But it's good you. Larry GOODHEW Clarke as he addressed the four related items here. And I'm certainly not going to speak on each one of them, but I would take I want to take 3 minutes, but just and combine it all. But I do want to take if you'll allow me about 40 seconds to follow up and a relative to that great deal, the the the newest millionaire. And there's something very sweet about it. Remember, the guys came to they came to this country with $0 and were really poverty. They were living on food stamps. The mother had severe cancer and so forth. Fast forward to today that they signed it. Zuckerberg had the guy over to his house for lunch and they had been working on the deal for a few months into that, running up for that. They decided to sign the deal and they picked up the phone and they called their respective legal teams and said, meet us over here, will sign the paperwork. And the guy said, Listen, I've got a better place to sign that. And Zuckerberg said, Fine, here we go. They hopped in the car, went about 20, 20 minutes, 20 miles away, and it was a vacant building. And that was the only obstacle. Is there any relevance to. Yes, it's just a sweet thing to keep in mind. All of the vacant buildings, the Social Security office where he used to get food stamps and like Martin Luther King, he took the contract that that sealed the deal, signed it to the grill and the door and signed it. So that it's just a sweet thing on this. I'm going to make this suggestion. If the city clerk and the city attorney can fashion what I'm about to say into something that is acceptable. Now I know the state the city declares a state of emergency many times. I'm going to suggest that the city, this council. After listening to the city fashioning and having the city attorney examine it together with the clerk. Declare a state of emergency. Postpone. The election for one year, during which time the city will hire a retired US federal judge. Obviously not from the ninth Circuit. To help bring this, we put the city back on a sound footing. And a year from now. Go back to the public. And that's based upon the fact that every day I hear from more and more people and. Both sides of the aisle. The overwhelming sentiment is the two choices we have in terms of the mayoral election, and that's all I'm talking about, the mayoral election. The two choices are simply putrid, period. And I find it astonishing. That within what was once a great city, we can't fin d two people again. Regardless of what side of the aisle we got. It was a good year. Time's expired. Thank you. I think we know your sentiments on this. Thank you. I'm quite sure you do. We know that you are quite done. All right. Members, we have a motion in the second on item. Item 11, please cast your votes. There are four resolutions. Associated with that in a letter that so moved on. All of them. Yeah. Let's do it. All right. Okay. Mr. City Attorney, can we move? Yes. So moved. Charlie. Okay. All right. Yes, ma'am. Mr. Vice Mayor. Thank you. I actually just wanted to acknowledge I think we have a pure in the audience to watch this. We have our new incoming school board member, Megan Curran, who was here. And we also have our councilmember elect, Robert Arango, who is here as well. And so I just wanted to point out that their. Congratulations to you both. Congratulations. Councilmember Lowenthal and I wanted to extend my congratulations as well to both of them and looking forward to working with you both. Thank you. Good luck. Nice job. All right, members, cast your votes on all four. Motion carry symbol. Yes. Thank you. We'll now go to new business. Mr. Andrews? Item 12 item calls a recommendation to adopt plans and specifications for the Naples Island permanent seawall repairs. So moved a motion and a second. Any public comment on the item? Mr. Goodhue. An up. Very good. You click as the address. I support the concept in chief and I've studied the plan for doing it and moving forward in this first phase. And I think it makes it eminent sense. And I think also the mitigation plan for this first section makes sense. I'm not sure about the mitigation for the balance of the program, but at least for this sense that makes and for this first phase, it makes sense where the problem comes up. Excuse me. 1/2 and. Where the problem. Surfaces is in the the funding of it. And I support using tidelands funds. But I think the city is going to find itself in a position of not being able to use those tidelands funds pending the given the specter of the pending indictment and arrest the Vice mayor.

Commissioner. Coastal Commissioner Garcia. There are some details handed out here relative to that, and next week I'll go further into it. But I think the city needs to examine methods of financing at it other than the Tidelands Agency, because I think the requisite authorities that have the ability to do so are going to put the foot on the neck until they clean up the corruption that is set forth in not only here, but this comes on the heels, of course, as you know, the chief counsel for the Department of Boating Waterways caught the city trying to illegally use money to benefit friends of Bob Foster in the Long Beach Yacht Club. That does not instill confidence. So I think it's foolish to move forward counting on the Tidelands funds until they get a master in here to clean up the shop. I think they've come to realize now that the potential dollars that we're ta lking about here are approaches, approaches that which has resulted in the increase in the incarceration of the people in Bell. The instant issue here that brings it into focus is to S and the Marine stadium that was put forward that saying it was an epicenter of crime. The police reports clearly that are in your hands now showing that there's no crime. The building is secured at night with iron curtains, £200 each. All of both of which are chained with chain and steel at night. There is no crime. It was a ruse to make a gift to $300,000 to a few select people. That is going to hold up, I believe, the use of tidelands funds. Thank you. Vice Chair Councilors if I can, to point out as a city manager, we have no idea what. Mr. Good he is talking about. Any of the allegations just made are just made up. We have no idea. We never heard about this. So I just want to make that very, very clear that we have no idea what he's talking about. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Break the chains. Good evening, Council and vice mayor. I appreciate you letting me speak today. Maureen Poe from 144 7:00 Naples. Since 1939, the present Naples sea walls have been standing and they've stood the test of time. But more than 18 years ago, the city had prudently paid attention to the cries from homeowners in the Naples Improvement Association, and they had done several studies. One of them was the Cash and Associates, and one of them was the Moffatt and Nickel Report. And when I was president of the Nhia, they came to a meeting and they told people that we have walls that are deteriorating and we have to do something about them quickly. And they had an estimate that it would cost about 78 million to do the entire island. And with neighborhood volunteers, we came together and formed a seawall committee and about 20 people have consistently, once a month for 18 years every month, come together to provide input and to work with the city. And public works has been very receptive and responsive to our requests. And talking about these public seawalls, the city council is always provided us with continual funding during that time period to work on road repair. And there was a study done by the State Lands Commission and the city. There was a study prepared by transit systems and that particular one, the gentleman who was doing it, could even pull the wall pieces out by hand. So it was at that point it was in imminent danger of failure. And so six phases of a project were established at that time and moved ahead. Tetra Tech developed the phases in pieces and then the Coastal Commission looked at it. And through the help of Councilman DeLong and through continued help of our vice mayor here, he worked on the committee on the commission, the Coastal Commission, and helped to formulate the ways that we could get a project through that would be on the water side, because we were looking at the birds that nested the created creatures in the water. We looked at the public access and m ake sure that public access was being addressed. And so the plan that has been finally come up and it's taken more than eight years to pull it together, is now before you. And we know that we don't want to spend any more money on studies, and we know that this is a good use of the Thailande fund for public access to our waterways and the Coastal Commission blessed it. And we'd like you to bless it tonight. Thank you. Thank you, Maureen, for all your work and the other public comments. Sea none believe there's a motion on the floor for item 12. Please go and cast your votes. Motion carries them both. Yes. Item 13 Its recommendation to adopt plans and specifications that authorize the city manager to contract with Hrb Inc. for pipeline replacement. It's not here. We're done. Okay. We're going to move on to the regular agenda, please. Item 11. Item. Item 11 is a report from the office councilmember Steven Neal in councilman Alaskan with the recommendation for recommendation receive and file a report on the status of alcohol nuisance of the alcohol nuisance abatement ordinance. And Mr. Councilman Neal. Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. In 2012, Councilmember Austin and I embarked upon an initiative to address public safety, health and safety issues in North Long Beach. And I wanted to come back and give us a brief report. I also want to thank this body for allowing us to go forward with that project. Our Masters of Social Work intern Michelle Diggs from Cal State Long Beach is going to be reporting out on the North Long Beach Liquor Store Modernization Project. Michelle has done excellent work on this project and also other assignments that she has had in the ninth District. And again, if you would, indulge us for a few minutes. Councilmember Neill, before we start, we do want to bring up a presentation that Michelle is going to be providing. So if we could get item number 11 brought up on the screen, that would be helpful. And with that, I'm going to turn it over to Michelle. Thank you. Okay. Hello. My name is Michelle Dix and I'm a graduate student in social work and my graduate placement has been in the office of Council Member Steven Neal for the past nine months. I was brought on to work on systems change work and have had the opportunity to work specifically on the outreach related to the Alcohol Nuisance Abatement Ordinance. I've been asked by Council member Neal to provide the public with an update on the status of the work that has been done by Development Services and the Office of Council Member Steven Neal. To begin. Here is some brief background on the Alcohol Nuisance Abatement Ordinance. The ordinance was sponsored by council members Neal and Austin in July 2012 and eventually adopted by City Council on August six, 2013. The spirit of the ordinance was to address long standing nuisance issues related to alcohol outlets and contain performance standards for legal nonconforming liquor stores. The resolution to begin implementation in North Long Beach began January ten, 2014. Prior to implementation on January 10th, a significant amount of outreach was conducted. Two letters were sent to each business and property owner, which included a description of the new requirements and the deadline for compliance. It also included information on the Corridor Beautification Program, which provides a $2,000 grant for exterior improvements. Eight businesses apply for this grant. Additionally, Development Services staff visited each store on two or more occasions. After the January 10th deadline, even more outreach was conducted, which included site visits, letters and phone calls. And there was a significant level of multi department coordination between council offices, planning code enforcement and Business License Bureau, all working together to implement this ordinance. Currently there are 26 legal non-conforming liquor stores in the program in the initial implementation area of North Long Beach. To date, all liquor stores have made some improvements, and many have achieved full compliance with an ALE requirement. Under the ordinance, there are a number of general anti nuisance and operating standards that we require any good business operator to follow. We require that liquor stores. Do not result in any adverse effects, jeopardize or endanger health, peace or safety are operated and maintained in accordance with all applicable local, state or federal. Laws. Are operated and maintained in a neat, quiet and orderly condition so as not to be detrimental to surrounding properties and occupants and do not result in repeated nuisance activities. More specifically, the audit required. The ordinance requires the operator to provide exterior lighting and security measures, including security cameras, to the satisfaction of the chief of police. No more than 10% of the square footage of the windows and transparent doors of the premises shall be covered or obstructed. We require the removal of all existing, publicly accessible exterior payphones to detract loitering. Any graffiti found on a premises must be removed within 24 hours. Operators must display the building address on all sides of the building, facing a public right of way, including alleys. As of January 2014, of the 26 remaining liquor stores in North Long Beach, 11 stores are on track to fully meet the new requirements. 12 stores are nearly compliant and will reach total compliance in the near future, and there are three stores whom have yet to meet the requirements. For stores that are not yet fully compliant but are taking steps in the right direction. Staff will continue to work with operators to bring them into full compliance. Staff will continue to conduct more outreach to revisit any code enforcement issues. Stores that do not achieve full compliance with the operating standards may lose the ability to continue sale of alcohol. This is an image of the El Camino market prior to the new standards. The issues were no cameras or security system deteriorating paint signs and coolers in the window and bad lighting. This is an image of the same market after implementing the new standards. The store now has new paint, new security system, including cameras and new recessed lighting. They also removed illegal signs, advertising and colors. This is an image of a liquor mill market prior to the new standards. The nuisances included excessive signage, coolers in windows, no security system and mixed match paint. Since the Angel implementation, the liquor store has cleared its windows, remove signs and coolers, adding new exterior paint and a new security system. Clear windows are particularly important as residents feel safer in and around the premises, and business owners have more visibility, which contributes to less criminal and nuisance activity. This is an image of K and J liquor in-market prior to the new standards. The nuisances included deteriorating. Paint, a non-conforming nonconforming phone. No security cameras, misplaced coolers and excessive signs in the window. This is an image of the same operation after implementation of new standards. The pay phone has been removed, which has stood as a magnet for attracting criminal behavior and drug dealing. They also have a new. They also have a newly painted exterior security cameras and have removed excessive signs and coolers. The City of Long Beach will continue to work with business and property owners who have not. Fully complied with. The annual stores that display. A pattern of chronic noncompliance will be subject to a due process hearing in front of the site plan, review board and possible revocation of their ability to sell liquor at the subject location. To report any nuisance activity of liquor stores, please call code enforcement at 5625702633. The Office of Council Member Neal has published this report for the public. A copy of this report is available in the lobby and can be found at WDW that inside District nine dot com. Thank you. Thank you. And I turn this over now to Councilmember Neal. Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. I'd really like to thank the office. First of all, I'd like to thank this body, first of all, for going ahead and giving us the votes to move forward. Of course, my colleague and dear friend, Councilmember Austin, the Office of Department of Development Services, the Coalition for Healthy North Long Beach, and the City of Long Beach Police Department. And really, I like to really thank with shail for her hard work on this project. She's been a tremendous asset to our staff over the last nine months, and I wish her much success on all of. Our future. Endeavors in which I really appreciate the work that you've contributed to the district. Thank you very much. So with that, I would like to move that we receive and filed this report. Cancer Boston. Thank you. And I'll be short because I know we have had a long meeting thus far, but I think it merits a congratulations to our council member, Neil, his staff, t he development services staff, the community who work so hard to make this initial ordinance come to life and implement it and make it work. This obviously will contribute to removing blight, nuisance abatement or reducing loitering criminal activity around liquor stores. It's going to result in a better quality of life for our neighborhoods and safer neighborhoods overall. And I'm just happy to have been along for the ride. You know, this is something that is has been very important to both Councilmember Neil and myself, recognizing that we're going to transform our communities. We have to start with these liquor stores is not a panacea for crime. It's not a panacea for for illegal activity. But it is a giant step forward toward progress. And so I'm happy that we have made this progress. I'm happy that we now have 11 compliant stores, 12 near compliant stores and three more stores that really need our attention really soon. And I guess that necessitates a question or we raise the question. You know what, I understand the three stores are not compliant. When will they when are we going to react to to to to get them there? We would like to get those 12 remaining stores fully compliant. In the meantime, we continue to do outreach to those three existing stores. But once those 12 stores are fully compliant, we intend to bring the hammer down on those three and begin the revocation process. That in itself is is going to be slightly lengthy. So we want to pay attention to it fully and try to resolve that quickly. The whole point of the issue now is that it is a benefit if we go through the revocation process, they are required to go into a copy which is much more controlling than what their current situation is. So we tried the the carrot approach and if they continue to not comply, it's time for us to move on. Well, job well done. And last but not least, I want to thank those liquor stores that stepped up to the plate and now compliant with the Angel Ale. I mean, that's big as well. Thank you very much for everybody. Okay. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? CNN members, please go and cast your votes. Motion carries seven votes. Yes. Okay. Item 12 item calls a recommendation to adopt plans and specifications for the Naples Island permanent seawall repairs. Item eight report from City Manager and Police Recommendation to authorize City Manager to execute all documents necessary to accept and transfer fee title to 300 East Willow Street, also known as Schroeder Hall from the United States of America District five. It was with great pleasure. I'd like to make the motion to our second city managers to. Q and if we can, Mr. West, you and I talk today. Apparently, we've had a problem over there with some thievery of copper wire. And so I'm hoping that there can be some budgeting for some security because there's obviously remaining facilities we don't want vandalized because it's a very important structure. And I want to thank the city manager and c ity staff. This has been a long, long process, but I think it's one that's going to serve the city of Long Beach very well. It's going to save the city tremendous amount of money because we are going to have an east side police station where we don't have to pay rent. And I think it's going to be a valuable asset for the community. I want to thank again Mr. Andrews and others who worked on helping resolve the facilitation of the requirement that the Federal Government put on us in terms of accommodating homeless services programs in the city of Long Beach. And so again, I would ask for support of this motion. The motion. And second, Mr. Andrews. And I also really, you know what the community engagement in education, bringing people together. We came up with a plan to let the MHRA make the district their home and we're providing service to the people in need. And we will have a world class coffee shop that will service surrounding community and we will be creating jobs. And I've never been about what we can't do, but it's about what we can do. So through prayers and guidance, we can make, you know, Long Beach a better place to live and play. And thank you. Thank you are a member of the public was just counsel item eight senior members cast your vote tonight an eight. What? Motion carries eight zero. Item nine Quick Read. And well-paid workforce, it is essential that we look to our own procurement process as one path to move our local economy forward. Thus for us, this. Evening is an ask that we. Look to create a policy that ensures that major. City CIP. Projects include specific provisions for local. Hires, meaning mostly not out of state. And include. A training and or apprenticeship. Component to ensure our return is not only a new or improved physical asset. I.e. a new building. But also an enhanced workforce in effect creating a doubleheader with our public dollars. Other communities have such. Policies. And we too should look to create a policy and language. This has the potential to be the policy that keeps giving, quite frankly. So I'll make my motion here. The motion is to direct the city manager to report back to the City Council within 90 days on the development and implementation of a local workforce training and hire policy. This should be done again within 90 days. And you know, the city management can go look at other communities, see what they've done along these lines with regard to the policies they've adopted. You can look at examples. You can read review the dollar threshold. What dollar threshold might be put in such a policy, and some of the other points that the such a policy might include. So with that, I've made that motion. Mr. Mayor. Canada's a motion and a second Councilmember Austin. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And I am proud to join with my colleague, Councilmember O'Donnell, in supporting this item. You know, since the beginning of the Great Recession, Long Beach has lagged, unfortunately, behind the county and the state in unemployment rates. Currently, we have an 8.8% unemployment rate compared to 8.2 for L.A. County, any statewide rate of 7.1 in California. And while we're spending millions of dollars to improve our infrastructure, we should support Long Beach residents, which we all support. Long Beach residents should be benefiting from those jobs that are created here. It's up to our city council to set the policy, and we have an opportunity to say we want our tax dollars spent wisely and benefit our residents of Long Beach who pay these taxes. We need to make good jobs a priority for our city, and this is a good step in the right direction. So I thank you for bringing this forward and asking and allowing me to sign on the support. Okay. Thank you. And the third cosigner, Councilmember Lena Gonzalez. I also want to thank you, Councilmember O'Donnell and Councilmember Austin as well. Yes, I echoed the sentiments about that. I think this this policy and just this is a great starting point. Point as far as discussing local hire and and making sure that we're mindful in this policy. And so I look forward to seeing the research that comes back and look forward to working with city staff in our and our members out here in the audience as well. Thank you, Councilor Tauranga. Thank you for bringing this forward. It's a very important discussion that we're having here, because as the economy moves forward, we need to look at our employment market and people who can look for jobs. And certainly we have opportunities here. But I also want to discuss the opportunity for others, some of our stakeholders in the city who might want to also participate in this. It's a policy, and I think that we need to look at involving other individuals in this. I would I would suggest that we also involve the Legal Aid Foundation. They have experience and expertise in this area that perhaps we can provide. They could provide us with someone, staff and us as a counsel with some assistance in in redrafting such a policy. So if there's no opposition, I would like to make a friendly amendment to that motion. Well, I don't know that we should specifically include or exclude any group. There'll be a variety of conversations with regard to the development of this policy. I'm open to city management talking with Legal Aid or any group, quite frankly. Okay. Okay. Councilor Richardson. Thank you. So certainly thank you so much for bringing this forward. I think it's a great idea to begin by, you know, reaching out and seeing what we can do to spend our tax dollars wisely, as Councilmember Austin mentioned. I have a few questions about the process and what you guys might have in mind, Councilmember O'Donnell, or what your approach might be. City Manager West. So based on this recommendation, it seems pretty general to me. And I remember there was a motion associated with the downtown plan a few years back that was very similar. You know, the motion was, Hey, why don't you come back with some re commendations, Mr. City Manager, on how to address local a local citywide local hire policy. And then a memo came back and the memo said that it wouldn't be employment, be able to be implemented here in the city of Long Beach. But this recommendation is very similar, and I want to ensure that this recommendation doesn't end up in the land loss legislation. I want to make sure that this is real and that there's a strategy. So I guess I guess the first question is. Ms. City Manager, how would you approach something like this? I couldn't answer that at this time. This is the first we're hearing about this. We if we did, the previous thing that you're talking about was just specifically identified for the downtown. I know that the council has asked for information on plays in the past. We have had reports on that. Last year we could resurface that. But again, I'm just interested in hearing what the council direction is so that we can go forward and heed that direction. Sure. So if we were to craft a policy, a citywide policy, would departments like the Port of Long Beach or the water department that that are independent authorities? Would those be governed by something like this? I might have to turn that over to the city attorney. Mayor or members of the council. Councilman Richardson. The answer to that would be no. They would need to take a separate. Action of their board as they have independent jurisdiction under the charter. Actually, I think and these are the kinds of questions we want to explore, and this is why we're kicking it into the city manager's hands. And again, I don't know that Mr. City necessarily agree to that, because what if you made it an ordinance, then it might be applicable to those to those other organizations. I believe we have some other ordinances that are applicable, so we don't have to answer that question tonight as much as that's a very legitimate question. And those are the kind of questions we want to explore by sending it over to the city management team so that they can develop a potential policy and absolute responses when we send it over. I just want to I think he wants some direction, and I appreciate you folks bringing this on. But, you know, before we vote on it, I just want to be able to ensure that what we're voting on is real. What we what happened with the city met with the downtown plan. I remember it was a motion to pull out that out of the downtown plan and craft a citywide policy. So I just want to have have some clarity on what's the difference between this and that to ensure that this is a real effort. In addition, I'm sure that there will be a process to negotiate with, you know, stakeholders as as Councilmember Yanga mentioned. I would imagine the LLC Building Trades Council will be a part of that. I would imagine a number of the trades we're here would be a part of that. So I guess I'd like to better understand what that negotiation process would look like and that and understand that this mo tion gives the city manager the ability to go out, identify those stakeholders who are mentioned, and begin to negotiate and craft a policy. Then the the portion that talks about local workforce training, I think that's really important. I think that's the most impressive part of this of this recommendation. In terms of my predecessor, Councilmember Neal worked with a number of folks to try to integrate clergy and to do an outreach to Pacific Gateway and try to place folks into apprenticeships . I'd love for for something like this, if we're going to have this direction to really look at that pipeline, how folks, kids from North Long Beach or Central Long Beach or whatever can actually land apprenticeships and do work building our city. And that would be a that's a great vision. And I just want to ensure that while we have the opportunity to talk about it, we're very clear about what it is that we want to do. So again, thank you so much. And I think veterans is another piece we can we can look at integrating. So thank you so much for that. And I just wanted to be able to to give that that direction. Thank you. Councilman Andrews. Yes, thank you, Mayor. You know, I want to. Thank my colleagues for really also bringing this to the floor, because this is a great policy for Long Beach to uphold. You know, the lack of jobs that hurts our city and our nation. You know, it's a part of the economic recovery. You know, we need more policies in place to get people back to work so they can put food on the table and so they can recover as well. So, you know, we only. I get his our. Neighbors and and our neighbors. Need our work. So this is the thing I'm really looking forward to seeing that does come to fruition. Thank you again. Thank you. Vice Mayor, I want to. Thank you,

Mr. Mayor. And I, too, would like to thank my colleagues for bringing this forward. But I also wanted to celebrate Councilmember Andrews, regardless of what project it is, every project that would come up, he would always ask for and make an amendment when appropriate for local hire. So you may have felt like a broken record, but it seems like the council has heard you. Sir, thank you for being that consistent voice for local hire, which I know we could always count on Councilmember Andrews for raising that issue. My question when you come back, Mr. City Manager City Manager West, is if you could let us know what the dollar threshold is and what is or is not counted in that figure. That would be important when we consider what other cities have done. I think it was mentioned in the item that other cities have similar policies or counties or government agencies and be helpful to know what their threshold is. Yes. Thank you. And then the other piece, Mr. City Attorney, I know that you were leaning forward to answer. I personally would like to know for our enterprise funds, whether it's the port or water or gas and oil. If it were an ordinance, would it capture those agencies as well. In certain. Departments? It may get to those. As Councilmember O'Donnell pointed out, the the exception would be if you're using tidelands funds or restricted funds, there may be issues with the local hire requirement, but we. Need to address that and look at that while we're developing a policy. They can. They've done it on the Joe Desmond Bridge, for example. So those can work. We just have to be able to word it carefully. So that it would be fit within the ordinance. Thank you. Thank you. I'm going to open this up now to public comment. So please come forward and we'll start with the mayor of Carson City, Jim dear. Thank you, Mayor Garcia, and distinguished. Members of the City Council. I'm glad to see that you're made up of a dynamic group. My established friends and my new friends. I'm here to testify before you as to our experience as your next door neighbor. The city of. Carson was the first. City after Los Angeles started a public I project labor agreement. Policy where some of the projects we instituted. An ordinance to create the place for all public funded projects that have any public money in them in the city of Carson. And our experience is it's been extremely successful. You might have read in the Beach Business Journal, the economy in Carson is now starting to take off like a rocket. We expect that to happen in Long Beach as well. What's good for our neighbors? Good for us. And I know that when you look at this report that would be coming back, I'm I'm sure you're going to ask your a great staff here in the city of Long Beach to bring back a report that will give you the adequate data and the information you need to make a wise decision. So I encourage you tonight to order your staff, direct your staff to do just that. Bring that report back to you within 90 days. And I must say that. Our project. Labor agreements in. Carson have created not just jobs for our residents in our city, but people that are looking for careers. And project labor agreements have projects that are coming in. Underfunded. I mean, under budget, fully funded, under budget and on time. And it creates a curse for people in Carson, as well as people living in Long Beach, working in Carson. So as you contemplate whether or not you should do this, think about it as a long term strategy for your community. You're creating jobs that are well-paying. You're creating careers for your residents. And you're creating a good future for your city. I just want to encourage you. To go forward. With the recommendation. And if you have any questions for me, I'm very easily reached by any of you. If you have any questions tonight, let me know. But otherwise, thank you very much. God bless you. Take me right here. Next speaker, please. Good evening. Newly elected mayor and newly elected council and veteran councils, city staff and public, that's here today. I urge the city council to look at doing this. President for yourself, for the record. I'll get. Yes, Tom, if I represent. I nternational Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 11 urged the City Council to look into a city wide project labor agreement. And across your proprietary departments, local hire a strategic local hire policy and the veterans component to it. I know a lot of project labor agreements that have had thresholds of local hire, disadvantaged youth, taking advantage of project labor agreement and veterans taking advantage of a play project. A lot of successes have come to it, and I'm sure when, you know, you start to negotiate it, you're going to see where the successes have come. City of L.A., Port of L.A., your port, the Middle Harbor, the Gerald Desmond Bridge, the airport and local cities surrounding Long Beach. So we urge you to look at doing this city wide Bill. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Cast members. My name's Frederick Piedmont Brown. People call me Piedmont. I live at 1891, Britton Drive, right across the street from many Grand Elementary School, and this is quite a little bit of my background. I came to this town 35 years ago. I knew no one and I worked on the Wells Fargo Bank here. I did the convention center. I'm going to date myself now, the Vincent Thomas Bridge, the Badger at Avenue Bridge. And then about 17 years ago, I put my name on a ballot, and now I'm the president of the largest local ironworkers in North America thanks to Long Beach, to catapult me into a position where I am now and this local hire really works. We have a program for our veterans and for our female ironworkers also. So I congratulate you guys in looking at this, and I hope you move forward in the right direction. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Mr. Mayor. Council members. Members of the city staff. My name is Mike Covic, and I also represent the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. I am the director of Veterans Affairs. I have behind me 32 years of honorable and faithful. Service to this country in the United States Marine Corps. I'm the former sergeant major of the first Marine Division where I led 28,000 Marines and sailors. My plea to you is I am in direct support of the citywide project labor agreement. Not only do we specifically talk about what it promotes in terms of local hires, but let's take a strong look at our military. Our military is downsizing. In its downsizing fast. Your sons and daughters, our sons and. Daughters of this community. Are rapidly returning back. Nothing more discouraging for them to come back home and not be able to find employment. We at the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, we are keeping pace and trying and attempting to. Lead the way. 50% I repeat, 50% of our apprenticeship classes are. Currently being filled and we are moving forward to having them filled by. Veterans. Who are in fact, actually your local hires end up helping to put language into those project labor agreements to support that. Are a. Percentage of those people. Hired from. Local are veterans from our community. I know and understand all too well the dilemmas that America's heroes actually face on a daily basis. Moreover, more importantly, if we don't have the employment to support these men and women, it aggravates something else. And that's veteran homelessness. I just had the pleasure of attending the Unite for Veterans, and our first lady, Michelle Obama, actually intelligently spoke very, very direct and very eloquently on the fact Los Angeles County is home to some 12,000 homeless veterans. Currently, we can help exasperate and help mitigate this problem by actually encouraging and actually enforcing a citywide plea, because not only us in the building trades, but there are many of our other brothers and sister unions that are out there encouraging. Veteran hires as well to. In terms of their apprenticeship programs. Thank you very much for your time. Thank you. And for your service, sir. Thank Speaker. Good evening. Good evening, Honorable Mayor. Ah, well, City Council. My name is Chris Hannon, the Los Angeles Orange County's Building Construction Trades Council. First of all, I'd like to start by thanking Councilmember O'Donnell. Councilmember Austin Councilmember Gonzalez for thinking of the Long Beach residents as a component in constructing your capital projects here in Long Beach, a career in the building trades, joining the joint labor management apprenticeship programs. 100% best thing. I've ever done with my life. It's available to Long Beach residents as well. The Building Trades fully supports directing the city manager to report back. On a local hire. Policy on a local workforce training policy and to remember to demand the best for Long Beach residents when you're looking at local workforce training demand. Joint Labor Management Apprenticeship Committee. This evening I have members and representatives here from IBEW Local 11 laborers, local 1309 Plumbers, U.A. Local 78 Operating Engineers, Local 12 Ironworkers, Local 433 and Sheet Metal Workers, Local 105 And in an effort to save a little time. You know, we're here for the same thing. You know, we encourage this and we're 100% behind you. Thank you. And gentlemen, I just want to say, I know you represent a lot of men and women, but I wanted to say also tonight that I just want to thank you. I think we've had a great experience in Long Beach with project labor agreements. If you look at projects that are either happening right now or there have been completed. You guys have done a phenomenal job of ensuring that those projects were done in a responsible way. And so I think this council has had a great relationship with all of you, and I think the projects have, in most cases, come under budget and on time. And so thank you all for that. Thank you. They're built to last as well. Absolutely. Can I speak? Next Speaker. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Council members and city staff. My name is Rick Foss. I'm with the sheet metal workers. Local one of five. First of all, I want to commend you on making the motion to adopt this and move this forward for the city and city manager. To review and. Report back. But I also want to take a step further. We have an apprenticeship training program in the city of industry. I've had communication with a couple of city council members in the past and things didn't seem to work out. But I want to propose to you if in this 90 days, if city councils and the mayor is interested or the city manager would like to tour that facility and see that kind of training, what it takes to get in that opportunities available, be in contact with a few of you if you'd like to take that opportunity to research a little further rather than just how it works. Also, let's look at part of the training, and that's one of the opportunities that each city council member can take the opportunity to view this or visit OC. And with that, I'm going to conclude. Thank you. Yes, sir. Good evening. I'm Wiley Baker, Jobs First Alliance. Congratulations to everyone. Completely different look tonight. Welcome. I'm here to support the project labor agreement approach. I've worked with many of these and many projects. I worked with public sector, the ports on their players, as well as the private sector, BNSF Railway, Occidental Petroleum and their facilities. So, you know, we know these work. The best thing about it to me is, of course, that. By doing it. You give the challenge to the contractors and labor unions to find the qualified people for you and identify those people, get them in and train them. It's really not that. Easy to gather that all together, get them tested and get them through the process. So I think that's a great benefit of having this, that you really can turn this over and it happens and you get audited. And interestingly, the 30% goals turn out to be 40 and 50% many times. So I think that's a great part of it. The local hire in the veteran part, in the long term unemployed, it all makes a lot of sense. I know mention of the Gerald Desmond Bridge. The challenge there I think partly was federal funding because in federal funding they don't allow that type of agreement. So they had to carve out the federal part. But the state and local part is there. And I'm sure if there's any. Challenges or. Issues with the State Lands Commission, it's something that we can all get our arms around and deal with with them and resolve any issues, I'm sure, going forward. Thank you very much. I appreciate you taking your time for this. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor and City Council. My name is Damon Skinner. I live at 800 East Cartagena Street, Long Beach. I come before you as a lifelong Long Beach resident and a construction worker. I was severely impacted. By the economic downturn. And I commend. Councilmember O'Donnell at bringing this forward and all the support he has received from the council. And I have nothing but support, and I can bring a lot of support from. My family for it

ms that bring jobs to Long Beach and good paying jobs at that. Thank you. Thank you. Thanks, Speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Suzanne Brown. I'm a senior attorney with the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles in the Long Beach office. I don't want to sincerely thank the council members who brought this item before us tonight. It's a very exciting opportunity to hear this talk in Long Beach. I want to thank Councilmember Urunga for offering legal AIDS assistance. We have significant expertise in creating local low income housing requirements. We would welcome the opportunity to come to the table with other community partners on this. I want to recognize Councilmember Richardson for bringing up the fact that we have been talking about this for many years. And so it is great that finally we have something concrete moving forward. One thing that I just want to mention is that the other sort of critical piece of this discussion moving forward is an economic development policy for our residents, is that we not only have a local hiring component, but we have a low income or disadvantaged resident component as a targeting in the play. That's how we can really be sure that we are not just getting jobs to Long Beach residents, but that some of them will also go to those most in need. So I look forward to helping craft that language with the city. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor, and all the city council people. My name is Jack Smith. I live at 50 Elm Avenue. That's in the East Village in the second District. We've been here before. A number of times in trying to get local hires. I was a bit confused by the references constantly made. The previously. This evening with the. Speakers to play. I did not hear Mr. Councilwoman O'Donnell use that term. I think the questions of what are the. Threshold at which a. Local hire would apply is very important in this, and a play would not. Always apply to. A number of jobs in the city. Also, the devil is in the details with the instigation of Councilman Andrews and hard work by then Councilman Garcia. We got a local preference ordinance passed for housing. Loopholes. Loopholes prevented a number of Long Beach residents from taking advantage of the housing that the city taxpayers of Long Beach built. People from outside Long Beach moved in despite the. Efforts of that local. Preference for housing. So local preference for hiring. Every single rule has to be looked at. What's the loophole? And it has to be considered and try to close as many of those. Loopholes as possible. Thank you. Thank you. Next week, please. Very good. You have a courtesy to fully support the local hires. And let me suggest that we make sure that when we begin to resuscitate the marina rebuild plan, that we hire only local people to do that instead of flying people in and paying the price for it from out of out of state. Up in Washington, we've got a big disaster to clean up. It's going to take a lot of m anpower. But we should be able to find the requisite talent here in the city of Long Beach to do that. We've got the budget. We've supposedly have the money for it. So money would not be an issue. And I've got to believe that we've got talent in the city of Long Beach to do that without flying them in from out of state. Thank you. Thank you. I'm going to go now. Club when more. Come, please come forward. I am Francis, Emily Dawson Harris and I reside in District one. And I want to commend Councilwoman Lena Gonzalez and Councilman Patrick O'Donnell, as well as Councilman Al Austin for this phenomenal jeopardized item. It's exciting and it's much needed. Wholeheartedly support the local workforce training and local hiring policy. When I'm out and about and I'm out and about on the basis of down the sidewalk on the metro line, and I'm everywhere, everywhere, all through the city. Although I live in District one, I consider myself a resident of several of your districts because I have a church home and one and friends and another and my wife. But I wanted to say, there's a tremendous need to have jobs available for people with disabilities. There are people with disabilities that do work. I don't know what percentage you're going to have in this policy to have such people that are disabled, that are able to work and look forward to working and should be given the opportunity to do so. Also, I speak to quite a number of young people. It's so heartbreaking that they're working two and three or four jobs, trying to go to college, trying to get an education, trying to move forward. So I don't know if this policy, if you can set aside a specific number for hiring for persons that are struggling and perhaps in the jobs that are there, I mean, working at McDonald's and this and that, it's not cutting it when you've got an allowance on your back. Sound of part of this you can look into having the availability to have jobs for people that are maybe only able to work part time, but it'll be a tremendous blessing from it. Thank you. Thank you. And with that, I'm going to close the public comment portion. And I do have a couple more council comments before we go to a vote. Councilmember Price. I am supportive of us requesting a report regarding this particular item. I do request that that staff prepare a report that's very objective in terms of the threshold standard that we're talking about. The language that was used was major projects. It's very important. I think, that we have a threshold that we can feel comfortable is a threshold that's reasonable and not a detriment to businesses who want to operate in the city. I think the aspects of this potential policy regarding local labor and training are absolutely positive and beneficial to our residents and our workers. I've actually had the opportunity to tour a lot of the facilities where our laborers are trained, and I think they do excellent work, very quality, high level work. I think that's great. But at th e same time, I want to make sure that we set forth we don't set forth policies that hinder people from wanting to do business in the city. We have a missed opportunity if we're setting forth policies that would impact the hire ability and the the ability of a business to receive a benefit from doing business in this city. So that's very important. And when we're looking at comparisons with what other cities have done, I think it's very important that this report should include both the positives and the potential detriments to impacted stakeholders, including businesses and contractors who would be involved in those bids. So with that, thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Mongo. I want to thank everyone for coming out tonight. And for those of you who briefed so many of us in advance on the important issues facing the community and the opportunities, I echo some of the words that Councilmember Price stated with regard to ensuring that it's a threshold that's reasonable. And I hope that all of our communities will get educated on what prevailing wage is, so that when this item comes back to the council, that we're all on the same page in terms of what it means. Great. Thank you. Seeing no other council comment, I believe there is a motion already on the floor by Councilmember O'Donnell. And so with that, that the call for the vote, please cast your votes. The motion carries nine votes. And I keep trying to vote and I. Keep forgetting that I. Exactly. Thank you. And thank you all for for coming out on the item. Now we're going to go back to our regularly scheduled agenda. We had two big items to start. And so we're going to take this. Take this back and I believe we are at public comment. Motion carries eight votes. An exciting new business report from the Office of Mayor Robert Garcia, with the recommendation received for the new list of city council standing committees, authorities and memberships. There's just one change to it. Small change under the gateway cog. Councilmember O'Donnell will be the mayor's alternate.

And with that submitted, can I get a motion? Some of it has been in motion any second. And we'll start with Councilmember Price. This is not our new business, is it? No, no. Oh, this is for your new business. Okay, so. So take us both off. Take off. Thinking as both offer me. Your new business. Okay. Great concern for your ranga. Did you have something for that? For the item or your new business time. Please? Yeah. I want to express my appreciation to the mayor for considering me for this work, but I will defer to Council member Patrick O'Donnell and that in that change. Great. Thank you. Is there any public comment on the item? Senior public comment than members. Please cast your votes. Motion carries eight votes. Thank you and congratulations to everyone. Moving on to the next item of new business. More new business. Item 32 is a recommendation from the city clerk to adopt California format or six Lucille All Council member appoint ments as required by FEC Regulation 1870 5.5. Item ten Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine and Public Works. Recommendation to authorize City Manager to accept a donation of 30,000 from Friends of Bixby Park to be utilized for enhancements to Bixby Park and increase appropriations in the Capital Project Fund in the Department of Public Works by 30,000 District two. And I'm not sure this I'm going to turn this over to Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I want to thank you for allowing me to pull this item. Concerning Bixby Park, unfortunately, our friends of Bixby Park are gone. So I wanted to publicly thank them for all of their passion, dedication and advocacy on behalf of this park over the last several years. The Navy memorial grant being just one benefit they brought to the park that resulted in the installation of historic light fixtures that have made the park safer. And in addition, the Friends of Bixby Park has initiated a monthly park cleanup, a gardening club, events for children and adults such as First Saturdays, Music in the Park, and most recently worked with Parks and Rec and my office to host a Bixby Park improvement day on Saturday, September 6th. Their active engagement as a group of residents and business owners makes all of us in city government more effective and responsive, and they provide a tremendous partnership to us in the city in order to make Bixby Park much more user friendly, safe and inviting. So I'd like to thank them even though they're not here in the audience. Just let it be on the record that we recognize them. Thank you. And with that, I'd like to move the item here. There's been a motion in a second by Councilmember Austin. Any public comment on item ten? See? None. Please cast your votes. Motion carries eight zero. Item 12. Thank you, Mr. City Attorney. I have a procedural question, Charlie, on the language access item, the budget oversight committees recommendation was received in file. Am I able to make an amendment to that. As part of that? As part of the budget process and the approval process? The action by the B or C was to receive and file. However your your recommended change would not be from the B or C would be from you as an individual council person for the budget for consideration by the body as a whole. So no, you can't change the recommendation of the B or C, but you can make your own motion to amend the budget concerning that item. Okay. I appreciate that. And Mr. City Attorney, just for clarification, I think that would happen that that would happen could happen later at a later later item or in the same item later, later, I believe, when we actually passed the rest of the budget. Is that correct? That's correct. So you can we can pass the B or C and then address language access at a later item. And with so from these items, if it's not under item 1.11, which item would that be? When you get to item 1.14, adopt amending the proposed recommendation to adopt the motion, amending the fiscal year budget and or item six where you are adopting the appropriations ordinance. Either one of those items, you could make a motion to amend everything else that's already been approved at that time. Okay, so either an item 1.14 or 1.16, we can make that amendment. And Mr. GROSS points out he's correct. You could also at this point make an amendment to the box recommendations by yourself or one of the other council members could discuss it. But the box recommendation sits as submitted. Right? You are a former councilman, so I would amend it. I'm sorry I misunderstood you. No, that's okay. Then I was not articulate when I asked that question. So that was the question, which is we can make the Bossie recommendations and make an amendment to one of them for the council's consideration. Okay. I also have a couple of people that have queued up. Okay. So just for clarification, Vice Mayor, you well, we have the motion we have as before for the Budget Oversight Committee. Was there a motion that was made on this yet? No, there has not been a motion made. There are a few items from the Budget Oversight Committee that I that we'd like to bring forward to this council. Great. And then. So if councilmembers want to speak before then, we're out. What I was hoping is perhaps you could review all the items on the Budget Oversight Committee, what the recommendations are, and then I'll. I'll open it up for the the members that want to speak on the item. Is that possible? Yes. At the other end of the spectrum. I apologize. For. The shuffling around. As you can see, as paperless as we try to be, we have mounds of paper and and it's little difficult to find things. So if I can, Mr. Mayor, go over the B or C recommended items we have recommended to the boss. He recommends the mayor's proposed budget recommendations and also recommends the following for from the Infrastructure Systems Replacement and Technology Reserve. There is $1,000,000 in that. In that account that has been designated. The BOC recommends to reprogram this for infrastructure divide by $9, and any exceptions to infrastructure can be proposed by individual council members to the City Council for approval on a case by case basis, which is how it has been done before. And so if I can go through the list of the divide by $9, I will do that. So the first item is $1,000,000 from infrastructure systems replacement and technology reserve. The second item is $1 million from supplemental funds for streets. The third item is $1 million from the supplemental funds for sidewalks. The fourth item is $800,000 funds set aside for stormwater compliance. We have an assurance from staff that the $200,000 that we need to meet our obligations for the next fiscal year, we have and we have that available. And so this would be over that. And so we're recommending the $800,000 be reprogramed and there's a remaining amount of $50,000 from the VAC fund, 250 of the 300 the mayor had recommended in his proposed bud get. That leaves 50,000. So we're recommending that all these items totaling 3.83 $3,850,000 be reprogramed for infrastructure divide by $9. That was the first item the city prosecutor had come forward and made a recommendation for $58,280, $37,500 for the truancy intervention program, and $20,780 for high speed copying and scanning equipment. The BAEZ'S recommendation is to have this these resources available to the city prosecutor, however, make them available through his year end surplus and have a reassignment of his year end surplus to pay for this $58,280. Those are the items coming out of the EEOC. And then also just for clarification and then I have a couple of members questions. It's my understanding of the vice mayor that the the infrastructure dollars are being divided for council specific projects include could be street sidewalk infrastructure could it be park infrastructure could go to various types of project needs in in the district, is that correct ? Yes. Okay. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you. So in the box recommendation, I know that you took up language access. Were you planning to speak on that item later? Yes. So according to the city attorney's recommendation, we would we made a recommendation. You're right. We made a recommendation to receive and file. And so we'll make an amended recommendation to add $100,000. And we can do it at this time with the box recommendation. So I'll go ahead and make that motion now or make that statement now. So that so you're amending your your so I'll second that. And I would just add that staff took the additional step in their report to the EEOC. I thought they were very clear about the motion that was made in the direction that was sent to the EEOC. I think that, Vice Mayor, you were very clear on it and you reinforced those specific deliverables that were in my motion. And furthermore, it articulated how an additional additional funds would be spent. So I want to ensure that, you know, with this recommendation that staff is going to follow what the recommendation recommendation was to allocate that additional funds to additional web pages and voicemails. Right. So the discretion would still be with staff. Correct. And they did do a great job, as you noted, in reassigning as you had instructed and hoped for from the last council meeting, reassigning some of the line items to make a more efficient strike at those those outcomes. So sure. So I will second that. But the other thing I wanted to chime in on, I think it's incredible that, you know, a number of council members expressed interest in more divide by nine funds to meet needs, infrastructure needs of their district. I notice that it says that on a case by case basis, program dollars would come back to city council. How is that different than what we do today? That's not that's how we do it today. Okay. So I remember when we initially funded the BSA program we carved out, and I know it can be tricky at times to ensure that infrastr ucture dollars are spent on infrastructure, but the Council at that point did take a step and say and they allocated a small portion to in case a circumstance like a Be Safe Park program and things like that did come up and we handled it all in one fell swoop instead of wasting time, bringing case by case by case to the city council. So the funding for it was in Parks and Rec infrastructure. They allocated a portion of it to additional park programs that year should the council members choose to utilize it. So the question is, have that come up in your discussions and and maybe I'll just put it out there just for general consensus. How does the Council generally feel about if we were to say, you know, we want to reserve 20%, 10% in case a council member chooses to support a park program like the Great Be Safe program that's gone two years, two years citywide. What what do you what do you think? Yeah. So our history has not been a designated percentage of that amount. I think in the past when it's come forward, council members bring that forward. It serves a couple of purposes. One, really to illuminate us on the different uses. I think we certainly learn from each other in the creative ways that you've been able to use infrastructure dollars to really support safety, but also it has infrastructure aspect to it as well. So hearing it and making that recommendation to the full council I think is instructive. It's not so much to diminish the individual council members discretion, but really to be more instructive on how these dollars are used. But in the past, my my recollection is that it had not been set aside. Mr. WEST Mayor, Vice Mayor, the count the last time we did this, the divide by around on the council specifically set aside for the be safe for the. Safe. Programs list was used for the be safe program that that was that just could go forward and wouldn't have to come back to the council. The make clarification the last time we did this I believe it was a $200,000 each to each council district. And the and I actually made the motion half of it went toward programs. If the council member desired to do so and so be safe was part of that. But we also did other things in our district recreation related to to with that with those funds and so with. Who we are. Just give it one sec. So actually I don't remember the exact phrasing of the motion, but I think the motion allowed for some of the infrastructure part dollars to be programmatic. An example example is, you know, some of it were still materials and supplies that went to the parks like a soccer ball or replace a thing at the park that really need to be replaced that isn't necessarily bolted down in infrastructure, but they do support the programs that are there in the material, you know, material costs. And just another thing, note, in Council District nine, even though we have the ability to spend 50% of that 200,000, we only spent maybe 15,000 of it to support programs. We didn't spend cl ose to that much. Right? So it was more so having the flexibility to make that decision. So let me let me take this back to Vice Mayor Lowenthal, and I have some additional comments after after this. And then if staff wants to do an A clarification, they can. Vice Mayor. I appreciate Mr. West's clarification. You're absolutely right. For be safe. There was that specific carve out. And if that's the interest of the council, certainly you can you can make that determination in your own district. I mean, these are not very high dollar amounts there. Well, so let me maybe I can bring some clarity to this. And if we're on the same page, so what we have in front of us is discretionary infrastructure, dollars for for infrastructure and or parks per district. Within that, there could be some discretionary part programmatic dollars that you could use for park programing, as you know, as that is being worked and discussed with with the parks the Parks Department as an end to move US dollars forward. We in the last time we we broke up the programmatic dollars I believe the the programmatic dollars didn't exceed a certain amount. So they were ensuring that infrastructure was being done. I think the last round I think it was $100,000. That's not correct. So I don't know for do we want to just leave, put a number one, two up to $100,000 on the programmatic side by summer. Per district. Per district, yes. Okay. So that's that's what we have. So that will allow everyone to add additional park programs. They'll be safe if those are if that's the need. Okay. And Mr. West, do you recall or the our finance bureau, how much of of infrastructure dollars were actually programed for for park programing? I'm going to give that to George Chapman. Vice mayor, members of the city council two years ago was $100,000. And some of that money did roll over last year. It was for Be Safe and it was 200,000 total for the programs. So it wasn't 100,000 per district? I believe it was. It was it was the district's discretion to use that up to that amount. But each. District did not, for instance, the council district to use $17,000, 17. Five. The maximum was 100,000 yet. And in fact, you didn't have to use any of it for programmatic dollars. You can put all of it just to streets and sidewalks, if you if I recall. And that's at the discretion of the council. Correct? Were there any other. I have some additional questions or comment from counsel or should we go through those right now? Yes. Okay. So we have what we have. Those were all the book recommendations, correct? Vice Mayor? No, we have the language access. Okay. And we still have the language access. We have language access. And then we have a recommendation that I think we'll take up with 1.14 on shifting Park Ranger Course Center. Okay. Did you want to finish up all the recommendations for for B or C? I'm sorry. And then we'll get to these comments. We can do that. Okay. Could continue. We can certainly do that. So we disp ensed with items comprising $3,850,000 for our infrastructure divide by $9. This as recommended by Bossi and also the city prosecutors request of $58,280 under language access. What we would like to do if we look at staff's. Recommendation. Exhibit A? Exhibit A, thank you. No, I have it. And I don't know if everyone has a staff has a chart. Thank you. I think it plays it out. So we'd like to go ahead and revise the PSC recommendation from Receive and File. And that was a received file of $149,704. And we'd like to go ahead and revise it in this way with the total being an additional $100,000 to the staff recommendation. And so what we'd like to recommend is to approve $97,000 of the staff's recommendation, holding back 52,000, itemized for recorded telephonic messages, and then taking the 52 that's held back from the staff recommendation, along with adding $100,000 from the. Bear with me 1/2. I want to call the fund by its correct name. My left side. Here we are. Artificial turf conversion. Take $100,000 from the artificial turf conversion, which currently is $1,369,000, and assign that to language access. And so this will allow set aside to allow staff to determine the allocation of $150,000 for phone line translation and moving toward a single line access where there's no wrong door. As Councilmember Mongo had put it earlier, instead of 91 lines, let's move toward a single line. And then based on the staff's assessment of needs, so this is still the $149,000 IT staff recommended with an additional $100,000 from the Artificial Turf Conversion Fund, which staff has assured us that the turf conversion will take place even with $100,000 less. And that's our recommendation. Okay. And those are all the bills we went through, all the PSC. And the Ranger item. They're not a B or C item, but they would be an amendment that Councilmember Mongo and I would like to make to the 1.14 item. Would you want to wait a 1.1 for or. I can mention it now. Okay. So Park Rangers has been an item that members of the community has raised with us. I think there is consensus among our council toward public safety. I've mentioned this before. We find that it's a little odd that they report to Parks, Recreation and Marine, even though they are park rangers. And we'd like to recommend that we transfer the existing cost center to Chief McDonald to the police department. And then at that time, I think the Chief will have flexibility to to incorporate the park rangers into the police program, have a better ability to assess what additional needs might exist in the parks, but also have a coordinated effort with Mr. Sharpton's pilot program for park security. Right. Excellent. Thank you. Okay. So those are the recommendations. I have a couple council comments on this item. And just as a reminder, there will be other there's a few other items are there there are opportunities for a larger council discussion, if so, need be. Councilmember Price. Thank you. I appreciate the recommen dations that I was just handed from the PSC and appreciate the work that went into formulating these recommendations. I will say I speak for myself when I say I'm not ready to vote on this item. And the reason for that is, as I have indicated in the past, it would be my intent to see if some one time dollars can be allocated to public safety, specifically to address the issue of residential burglaries and beefing up that detail and working with residents to develop a strategic, comprehensive plan for how we can tackle those as a city. I have talked with the chief about it and I know that there will be a presentation to the Public Safety Committee on Friday regarding, you know, how money would be used in regards to that particular goal. Where would that money be spent? What type of impact do we believe it would make for the city? As I've indicated on many occasions, the issue of crime as it is, is an issue citywide. The issue of residential burglaries is an issue citywide. And although it doesn't qualify under some definitions as a violent crime, residential burglaries are in fact violent and can be very violent. And so I would like to see some recommendations in terms of our use of one time dollars towards over time to address the specific issue of residential burglaries. I also heard the recommendation regarding the park ranger program. I think that it makes a lot of sense to have the park rangers report to the police chief and come originate from that department. I am in favor of exploring the possibility of having a park ranger program or enhancing our park ranger program. I am looking forward to learning what some of our options might be in that regard, and that's why I think it's premature at this time, at least speaking for myself to adopt the BRC recommendations, because they don't as presented now include any allocation of funding for public any additional allocation of funding for public safety. So thank. You. Thank you. Councilmember Mongo. So two comments, one comment in conjunction with my colleague who isn't here at this time. Earlier in the body, there was a discussion about the infrastructure funds and the. Insistence that they are maintained as infrastructure funds. I think if you had any or Councilmember Lowenthal had any other comments, but he was specific that his intent in making that recommendation and being the second on that recommendation was that they would stay for infrastructure and that any non infrastructure item would be brought back to the full council. Because it's important that at our this was me speaking at our retreat, we talked about infrastructure as a citywide issue that impacts every single constituent business owner and visitor . And so we need to ensure that each and every decision to pull from infrastructure funds is itemized and will fit, while 100,000 each doesn't sound like much. That's $1,000,000 rounds up to $1,000,000. So we need to be very careful about that. And then specifically, I'm in agreemen t with Councilmember Price and we do need to look at public safety. I think one of the reasons that I made the recommendation to move the park rangers over to PD is also that we are setting aside $2.2 million of discretionary funds for the chief to be able to evaluate and assess and potentially ramp up in the hotspot areas or more appropriately, depending on the level of hotspot, apply overtime of police hours for that and or residential burglaries. Great. Thank you, Councilmember you Ringa. Thank you, Mayor. Knowing that one size does not fit all. I'm wondering if when these discretionary funds are allocated, some areas are larger than others. Districts are larger. More are issues with infrastructure, more sidewalks, more streets than other areas. Is there a process by which if all the money tonight expended in some districts, or if I choose not to expend all that all the money in one year, is there a carry over that? Is that possible? So there's the process right now. And please correct me if I'm wrong on this. Is it depending what part of money we're looking at, so our general infrastructure dollars that we have. So we have a system where a percentage of the funds that we have within the budget, not separate of this fund, but the general money that's in the budget right now. There is a piece of that is done by by needs, a percentage of it actually done by citywide need. And then there's a piece of it that gets broken up so that each district has a floor of money, but then the need goes citywide. And so that is divided up in the budget. Currently, that's been a policy. Is that correct, Mr. West? Correct. We have money in the budget for streets and sidewalks for that prop C, measure R, prop A, but the one time money would not be helped. Those standards and any I believe any additional money that would not spent would just be rolled over like we do all the time into the budget. This is something we work with the Bossie the the latest policy the bossy was to at least if not expend the money allocate that money within the 12 month period. So it's allocated because many times it can't be spent within that 12 month period depending on the project, but certainly to allocate it so you know where it's going. Councilor Austin. Thank you very much. I wanted to just address a couple of of the comments that were made here. Councilmember Price mentioned the theme, the need to invest more into public safety on top of the the allocation that we've already recommended in this budget. And I do support that. I'm not too sure that I support, you know, putting police officers unnecessarily in parks. I would I would I think we have a unique opportunity. And if we want to invest more, we need to be smarter with our resources and look at possibly putting cameras in our parks. That technology, I think, will go a long way to addressing public safety concerns of many of our residents. And so if there is a one time use I'd like to see put into it in addition to what we want to do, I'd like to see it go in that direction and identify some of our troubled parks and and address need specific and to the city. Councilmember Mango's point regarding infrastructure. When we decided as a council a year and a half ago to appropriate $200,000 per council district and then give Council members the discretion to use infrastructure dollars for park programs. We said that we were investing in human infrastructure as well. Are our children in some areas of the cities that does not have don't have the same opportunities as others to engage in youth sports because their park resources aren't there. And so we have to give the Parks and Recreation Department an understanding that every district is different. Not all of our districts are. This is not a cookie cutter approach necessarily understanding that that that we have to give our parks and recreation department some some resources to do after summer programs. I think that went a long way toward addressing some of our public safety concerns, to be quite honest with you. In some areas of our city and work, I can tell you Wonder's in my district it's something that that our youth obviously support of but for many of our residents as well because they saw the benefit. We also programed a peace basketball program which targeted 18 to 25 year olds. That's a demographic that's actually left out in terms of a lot of programing. And it went a long way. And this this hundred thousand dollars was actually rolled over two years. And I think we spent maybe $60,000 in total doing summer programs at two parks as well as as that. And so the the investment was minimal and we got a big return for it. And so I understand the point regarding infrastructure. It's a priority for me as well because, you know, I have one of the larger geographic districts this this this particular budget may or may not be as equitable as it could be, but it's something that I'm willing to support if we put it to the vote tonight. Thank you. Councilmember Gonzalez. Yes. So I want to say to that thank you to the BBC for putting this together because I think it's great. I know personally the infrastructure dollars have been well used in the First District, so much so that my predecessor has spent all of our money. So I have to. We added security cameras at Drake Park. I'm looking forward to adding them at Washington neighborhood, the Be Safe program and two parks, which is wonderful. So I really see the value in the 3.8 million being divided by nine. And I know that the I think we're going to talk a little bit more about the park plan versus just the park ranger. I don't know if Vice Mayor Lowenthal was going to go into that a little bit more, just so we can get some clarity as to what that entailed. Exactly, because. The park plan. Mr. Chapman, is here, I believe, you know. Yes. He'll be. Here soon. He'll be retrieved. So while he's coming, there were two programs that our director of parks had proposed.

One was more like an ambassador program and this pilot project. Mr. Chaplin, if I can have you describe it, what the security proposal is and how they would be different from what our current staffing is now. Yes, I'm sorry. I was out of the room for a second, but the Park Patrol, it's a pilot project that we're currently instituting at Bixby Park. And these are young adults who have been working for our department, probably on an average of five or six years 23, 24, 25 year olds. They were chosen because they are assertive. They're not shy about engaging with people. So their job is to engage with residents, with patrons of the park, inform them about park programs in a positive way, and also look for behaviors. They were trained by the police department to look for specific behaviors that are unlawful and report those to the police. They can either engage people such as if they find someone smoking, they will walk up to that person and tell them that smoking is not allowed in the park. It's illegal to smoke in a park. Most times people will cease that behavior. If not, then the park patrol folks or staff are trained to call PD and the police department come out and stop that behavior, whether it's an arrest or a citation. So well-trained. We have a follow up, another follow up session with the police department for more training. But in essence, they're trained to engage. How many individuals do you have again? We had about 12 to 13 people that were trained by the police department. So we're rotating and they are at the parks right now. They're at Bixby Park and should be seven days a week weekdays from 430 to about nine or eight 4430 to 830, and then weekends from 10 to 6 every day. Mr. Mayor, can we have Chief Learner describe the relationship between the security group? I want to call them security detail, but they're not part of our patrol. And how it's working with PD. Absolutely. Deputy Chief. Yes, mayor. Vice Mayor. Thank you for the question. We based the program based on our downtown guides. As you know, with the DPA, the downtown. Guides has. Been an outstanding program for us. They're our eyes and ears, and they've been very successful in dealing with. Not only crime issues, but specifically. Quality of life issues. And if you look at the challenges that we face both at Bixby Park and a lot of the parks that we get complaints from our constituency, from the majority of them are quality of life issues. So we are working with Parks and Rec. We developed this program, as Mr. Champion said, we train them. We're going to continue to. Train with them. Communication and coordination is the key. And I think although the program hasn't been around very long, I think thus far it's been very successful and I'm really looking forward. To seeing how. Successful it is and maybe move it to other parks in the city and in vice. Mayor, if I may add, these are staff people that are walking the park 8 hours a day on a Saturday and 8 hours a day on a Sunday. They are literally getting to know all the patrons, the regular patrons that come in. And again, like I said, they're informing them about recreation programs, about programs in the city. If it's a homeless person, they refer to the homeless coordinator for services and they are recognizing some of the trouble area, like the drinking and where that drinking is coming from, which potentially which liquor store. And we're working with the police department to address those kind of things. So it's really I think it's so far successful. Thank you. Those are the questions I had. Appreciate it. Thank you. Okay. And then I have Constable Mongeau up next. So I just want to make a couple of quick comments. Coming before this council in several weeks will be a street infrastructure plan brought to us by our parks and our public works director. And one of the things that the plan will show is which. Historical districts have had the amount of money necessary to invest in infrastructure, and those districts will be allocated less funding than districts who have taken care of themselves, which theoretically would have less need. And so one of the challenges we have here, when we start taking infrastructure, money and spending it on program, is that then it creates a false need in certain districts where they then would theoretically get a larger share of the annual 18 million of ongoing funds. So whether the 18 millions emergency funds, measure C funds, all of that, there's 8 million citywide and with the streets plan, it will be proposed based on need. And the districts that are going to have the highest need are the districts that have been less invested in. And I'm not saying that your districts are less invested in. I'm saying that there are five of us who are inheriting districts along with a lot of other components. Summer programs are a high priority for me. I was a sports director at the Long Beach YMCA for many years. I feel that these programs are the best thing to keep people out of the back of our black and whites. And so I'm invested in those things. I just feel that 25% of our one times is probably too high to set aside for programing by district. That's my comment on that. And I have the most streets and sidewalks, so I definitely identify with you. You're right up there with me and we're both in a tough position that we're both going to have a lot of need coming in this next round. So. With relation to Mrs. Price. Do we want to make a friendly announcement regarding the. Okay. So earlier today we made a recommendation from the BSE that states that should the city prosecutor's office come in with some savings, that they would be able to set that money aside for up to $50,000 in expenditures for their need. So what I think Councilmember Price and I would like to do is if the Long Beach PD is going to be able to come in under budget, the under budget amount would be approximately 2% to fund what he would need fo r the $350,000 residential. Gwen, help me out here. Sure. Residential burglaries. Detail and strategic plan. So should that money come in at year end? Closing in September. And we'd like to first reserve up to $350,000 for this program as a friendly amendment. Would that be something you'd accept? Could we go ahead and wait for item 1.1 for. Yes, and take it up at that time. And just also, as a as a side note, I think that Councilmember Austin, the amount I know that we that right now the amount is $100,000, but the amount spent is actually usually no more than about $25,000. And so they're very comfortable bringing that 100,000 down to, you know, 25, 50, let's say 50,000, which is half the amount, I think that takes care of some of the concerns and will certainly cover the BSA program in some of those neighborhood park districts that need the money. So there's no disagreement with that. We'll move on to Councilmember Andrews. Yes, thank you, Amir. You know, I'm really I want first of all, I'd like to think the B or C, you know, for working very, very hard with this budget. And I'm really I'm overly excited about, you know, park rangers because the fact that by having those park rangers, I don't know of any individual ever go out of those parks. And a lot of people are crying about the, you know, the danger and some of the problems that we have in our parks. And I think with these park rangers, they are which Mr. Champion has really put a good program together. This would be great because these individuals, they do not engage. And from that seen into the police, I don't really think we need to have policemen, you know, in the parks themselves. But I think this new program, Mrs. Champion, is speaking about these individuals who are being trained by the police so they will know how to get things done. I think this is a great idea and I would totally support something of this type. And I, I really see that this is going to help our parks for our safety. And when we talk about, you know, home invasion, which is probably one of the number one crimes we have today, this would relieve a lot of our policemen from being in the parks. At least they can work on the situation where we're having most of our problems and that's home invasion. So I think these things will work out themselves if we do it in the right way. And I want to thank Mr. Jabu and the police department for working together to make these things work. Thank you. Okay, let's get to a vote on this item. I think I may have another comment. Are you still up upcountry, Richardson? Okay, go ahead. Thanks. So just wanted to chime in again on. Thank you, Councilmember Gonzalez, for asking more clarity on the ambassador's program. I was unclear as well on what it was. So so my my question is, how much does that how much does that cost? A year to run the Park Ambassadors program. For permanent council councilmember members of the City Council. It's part security. It costs about $58,000 year round. No w, there's there's another model where we can scale it back during the winter months. Yeah. And just do you know, weekends in the winter months and full time during the summer months. And that's about 36,000%. And so that that pilot was funded in this past year. Well, it wasn't funded. It was we have a vacancy. And the one site, a supervisor vacancy. So we're using money from that vacancy right now. Great. I'd like to ask that. So the the business district not hurt. I heard someone mention I think it was Deputy Chief Luna mentioned the guides downtown, the business district in uptown that Highland Park is actually a part of their launching in ambassador program in a month. That's essentially what you just described. And considering Highland Park is a member of that district. I wonder if there's a way that you can partner to leverage the dollars that help in part with the assessment dollars to see if they can work together on on this ambassador program this year. That that's something that we can look into. But I think we certainly can look into it. Great. Thank you. That's all I have. Okay. And then last comment and we're going to go to a vote. Councilman Mango. So earlier, I believe it was, Councilmember Durango made a comment related to not being able to allocate all the funds of the one time by the end of the year. What happens to those? I'd like to make a friendly amendment that any funding from 514 that isn't allocated by September 30th be allowed to roll over so that the new council members that have those concerns are been able to be met. Okay. Make that motion. We're okay with that. That that does cause issues for us financially to roll money over like that. Can we. Councilmember Mungo, can you restate that? So Councilmember at Durango earlier we were discussing that there were funds divide by nine from last year that may have been allocated for something that's either not doable or when we do find out what of that is doable, then it may not come in at that price. So let's say, for instance, a council member inherits $100,000 project which is allocated to a particular street, and that street's not available to be done. But when it is completed, it's only 75,000. So that 25 would roll over and still be allowable for the councilmember in any of those areas. So any one time not finished by September 30th yet becomes available, would then carryover? Is that what we need? Okay. Under that scenario, I retract what I just said. That would be no issues at all. Okay. Okay. And Councilman Price. He motioned in, seconded. Yep. Got to replace. That. Thank you. Yes. I would like to make an amendment to the motion to reduce the PSC recommendation of 3,850,000 by 300,000 for that remaining 300,000 to go to the Long Beach Police Department for overtime for residential burglary detail. Second. There's been a motion and a second. So in essence is a substitute, correct? Because we already have a motion. And so. There's a motion on the floor and this is a su bstitute. Unless this is considered a friendly amount. I believe would be used to do this would be a substitute. So so unless. The author of the original. Desires is to be a friendly amendment. Right now right now we have a substitute on the floor. So and I'll review what the actual what the motion is in a minute. So Vice Mayor Lowenthal and then I want to review what the substitute is and where the vote is. Vice Mayor I might actually like to make a substitute substitute motion. So we had extensive conversation about councilmembers interest in infrastructure divide by $9. I don't believe it's this council, the majority of this council's interest to reduce that by 350,000. Prior to your coming in, Councilmember O'Donnell, Councilmember Mungo had made a recommendation which we will take up in item 1.14 to allow the Chief to utilize his year end surplus when his budget to actuals are calculated, his year end surplus to be designated for residential burglary. And I do believe that that is a better way to go. And so my substitute substitute would be to revert back to the language of the original motion and work in Councilmember Mungo's recommendation at this point to allow the chief of police to utilize his surplus for for the purpose of residential burglary. Okay. Okay. That's been seconded that that's the motion on the floor. I have one last council comment and then we're going to move to I think we have one comment and then the vote. Councilor O'Donnell. So what you're saying is if they have a surplus, they would be able to use this money. We're not sure if they will have a surplus. Correct. Let me amend it for the. You're absolutely right. So they may not have a surplus. The other alternative is for the chief to utilize some of his existing resources and then wait until January when we do our year end totals for, ah, one time oil revenues. That's your. Motion. That's my motion, right. Yep. And what I'm saying is he doesn't, he doesn't know if he'll have a surplus. In his own budget, but we I will, I'm willing to add to that to go ahead and have this council consider during our January year and total of our one time dollars under oil that those revenues be designated as the 350,000 be designated for residential burglaries. I guess my my my concern is residential burglaries a problem today? And my concern is that we get funding to it today and not that the chief hopes he has funding for it in the future. So we differ. I mean. Right. And that's why he would have the opportunity to frontload his need today with the 2.2 million under police over time and then backfill that in January when those resources do come in, which we do project to have some surplus. But we have the opportunity to fund it right now and address this issue right now.

Today, because I have neighbors who are calling me and I am quite concerned about the uptick in residential burglaries. I want to address it in mind. If I might ask the city manager to allow the chief of police to come up to answer just one question for me, I'd like to know from him what his projections are. My understanding from speaking with our finance folks is that they would come. Under. My only concern with us now we're budgeting. You know, you're kind of guessing that you're going to have. A see if I could make just. One, I just holler. I'd like to deal with actuals and what's going on today, not what might happen. And now the vice mayor has made a question of the chief. And so if the chief wants to respond and then we're going to go and go to a vote, a public comment and a vote. Yeah. Just to just to be able to address that. As of right. Now, we're projected to come in to about come. In under about 400,000. But as you know, 400,000 and the size of our budget, that that could change tomorrow with. One unusual occurrence. So to to be able. To to count on that, I think is. Is a push. What about. Okay, Councilmember Austin? Yes. Thank you, Chief. No one is more and more supportive of public safety than myself. And I recognize the need to to address. Initial burglary. I'm not sure we do it with one time funds and with overtime. We haven't heard a plan in terms of how we address this one. With all due respect, when Chief McDonnell was here, given the PD budget overview, I mean, he just told you he's on he's over budget right now and he's expecting or projecting a surplus. But I heard that he had a he had what he needed to do with this and understanding that. And I'll just be very, very frank with you. I have a concern with with the budgeting and running our police department on overtime, purely overtime in every profession out there. When we we we people get stressed out if they're overworked and we're adding this means we're adding two more hours of overtime to a police officer, you know, beat overtime. You know, I'm concerned that they're going to be stressed and make bad decisions and that's that's what any profession if you over overdo the overtime. And so I think we've we've we've actually been very generous and we've given our police department what they need in this this budget right now. And so I would actually have to speak against this this motion. It is not speaking against public safety. It is speaking against the use of $350,000 that that, I believe, can be made up during our mid-year adjustment. Okay. I'm going to go to Councilmember O'Donovan, going to public comment. I can talk. Thank you. Just a question. Would you be open to say right now we use the infrastructure money, then they come up with a surplus in January that we then divert that money back to to infrastructure and use the surplus money for the the services provided in the interim. Would you be open to that? COUNCILMEMBER Mayor, we were just talking about that myself in the budget manager that perhaps rather than dip into the infrastructure at this time, we do believe that in January when we come up with the uplands oil money, there will be $350,000 excess there. If the cou ncil could make a decision now to allocate that, that's the first expectation on that money would be $350,000 that we've got. That's the nature of the substitute substitute motion. And and then we could just tell the chief to begin this October 1st started acknowledging that he's going to get $350,000 from the uplands oil in January. Okay. So so the substitute substitute is, as mentioned by Vice Marie Lowenthal with the first 350,000 that we are going to get out of the out of the uplands oil that will go to the residents. Okay. Just just to clarify, though, so this means that the chief has the ability and the dollars to institute a very proactive program to address residential crime burglary across the city. We're talking about Dodge. So I want to ensure that there's going to be have the dollars. In the chief is consistent. With that desire. He can start October 1st. And if you're ready, he can he can tell you exactly what he's going to do. I don't need to know exactly. I just want to know that that's what we're going to do. That's the October 1st. Got it. Thank you. Thank you. Now, I'm going to go to any public comment on this. This particular item, I think there was somebody that was up here on the set, please come forward. Good evening, everyone. My name is Jan Victor Anderson and I'm with ECI Communities for Environmental Justice and also part of the Language Access Coalition. So thank you again tonight for discussing extensively this amazing budget that will make the city run amazing. Right? We truly appreciate biking here. Lowenthal added $100,000 to the language access policy. But that's not all we need. We need another 110,000 to fund a third of the original policy. So that's 100. Since there's a lot of numbers, I'm gonna repeat it. That's 110,000 extra that we need to fund just a third of the original policy that we asked for. Way back when, when it was approved. And so we need your leadership tonight to allocate that extra

110,000, because the community cannot wait. These are these are doors that are being closed to them, like you're talking about this open door because they can access the resources. And we need you, as our city council member, is to take action and represent the community so that they can not only access resources in our city, but also to fund their health and their well-being to be able to live in this city. That's that. And that should represent all of us. Thank you so much for your time and. Good luck with the budget. Thank you. There's a motion on the floor that's been made. Member Please cast your votes. Substitute. Substitute? Correct. Thank you. Motion passes nine zero. Okay. Next item, which I believe is 112 Vice Mayor. Item 14 Report from Health and Human Services Recommendation to authorize City Manager to execute all documents with the State of California Department of Public Health in the amount of 4,540,000 for the Women, Infant and Children Nutrition Supplemental Program Citywide. There's been a motion an d a second count from customer your income. Thank you. And I just want to note that commend the Department of Health Human Services for bringing this forward and to the city manager for bringing this forward for us toward the documentation. I think it's an excellent program. It offers a 20,000, 26,000 families in Long Beach to receive these much needed services to increase access to healthier food that would otherwise be lacking. So I want to commend them for that. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Andrew. Yes, thank you, Mayor. And I also would like to echo that premise, Councilman, your anger, because I think programs, one of the most important programs offered in our city, and we have a few locations in our sixth district, you know, which are very, very busy. But all I'd just like to say that these programs do save lives and am very, very, you know, happy to support anything that they're concerned to do in any district in the city of Long Beach. Thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Austin. Yeah. I'd also like to just congratulate the Department of Health and Human Services on receiving this grant. It's a sizable grant, $4.5 million. It's going to touch a lot of lives. But more importantly, I think it's our conscious right now that there are a lot of families in poverty in our city that that are in need. And so this will go a long way to address that. Thanks. Thank you. Public comment on the item. Say nonmembers, please cast your votes. Motion carries nine zero. Next item. Item 14. I'm sorry. Item 15 Report from Long Beach Airport Financial Management and Public Works Recommendation to Award Contract to Kleinfeld or West for airport consulting services in the amount not to exceed 1,000,005 District five. Okay. So council members, if. If I may, item 1.1, I move to recommend to adopt resolution approving the fiscal year 15 budget for the Long Beach Harbor Department as adopted by the Board of Harbor Commissioners on July 14, 2014. Also on each item, if we could ask for any public comment between the items. Yes, I will do that. And there's been a motion and a second by Councilmember Austin. Are there any members of the public that wish to address us on that item? Okay. But if you want to just walk us through all these and that's that's. When we can do that. Thank you. I appreciate that. All those in favor. I. I. I. Do you want a recording? So I think we'll do recorded. I think we'll do on budget. I think we'll just do recording. This recorded both. Councilmember O'Donnell. Councilmember Andrews. Motion carries seven zero. Thank you. Hearing item one point to make the motion to recommend to declare an emergency to exist. Sir. Second case. Been in motion in a second. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address Council on item 1.2? Item 21 Report from Long Beach Airport Financial Management and Public Works recommendation to award the contract to Griffith Company for a total contract amount not to exceed 300 I'm sorry, 3,230,000 a nd increase appropriations in the Airport Enterprise Fund by 3,365,000. District five. Of. Which has been in motion by council members seconded by Councilmember O'Donnell. Any public comment on the item? Seeing none. I'm sorry. From Boston. This is a pretty sizable amount of money. I would just love to get some background from a staff report. Absolutely. Mr. West. Certainly. Our deputy city manager, Reggie Harrison, and Carolyn Lowe and Jeff Sedlak. From all from the airport can answer. That. Mayor and members of the city council. There it is. On. So you're you're correct, Councilmember Orson, this is a considerable amount of money for these two taxiways that were built in the 1920s and thirties, and they're in need of substantial repair at this time. A part of the costs for this project also goes into the manner in which we're going to repair the project to be environmentally friendly, to be sustainable. So we're going to actually use a lot of the material that's currently on the site to be a part of the rebuild of this of these two taxiways as well. So the FAA has worked with the airport staff and has granted us amounts to cover that, to cover that cost, as well as a small amount of PFC charges, passenger facility charges that will also be as a part of this project. But FAA has been very much working with our staff, with our engineering staff and operations staff to oversee this project. And they really feel good about moving forward with this. So will our airport operations be disrupted in any way? Well, the construction is underway. So these taxiways are primarily used by the general aviation community. There will be minimal disruptions there. We anticipate that throughout this process we will schedule the work they're done in a manner in which the community can continue to enjoy these taxiways and there'll be no impact to the commercial airlines. Well, Mr. Harrison, I just want to say, you know, you sound like you really know what you're talking about and you're doing a great job as the interim airport director. I think it speaks volumes about Mr. West, our city manager, and the depth of his his management bench. Thank you very much for that report. Thank you. Seeing no other actually counts on Councilwoman Mongo. I just want to thank all of the airport staff who have taken me on tours of the airport to see exactly what's going on and how it will be happening. It's very important that we take all things into consideration. And I think you have been exceptionally informed and professional. Thank you. Thank you. We've done public comment members. There's a motion on the floor. All those in favor of the motion. Please raise your hand. Motion carries unanimous. Next item. Thank you. Item 22, report from police. Recommendation to receive and file the application of rounding third sports bar for a premise to premise and person to person. Transfer of an Alcoholic Beverage Control license at 4133 4135. East Anaheim Street District four. Okay. Thank you. Let's give them a round of applause. And three, a round of applause for her incredible work. Now we're moving on to the regular agenda I had mentioned earlier. Are we going to move up number nine and then continue on? So item number nine is up first, Councilmember Andrews. Thank you, Mayor. As you guys noticed, this has been denied. So this is one of the every night. But again, this is another important and very, very exciting award that we're going to, the proclamation we're giving out tonight. And this is for a young lady by the name of Jenni Rivera. I know every one of you individuals. I knew her. And like you say, she has been a icon to the city of Long Beach. You know, it's a great honor to bring this item. Councilman Landers, I think the item needs to be read first. Okay. Let's try and have Adam read it. Item number nine is communication from Councilman Andrew. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilwoman Price and Councilmember your UNGA recommendation to refer to the Housing and Neighborhoods Committee and the Parks and Recreation Commission to consider naming the public right away. Park located on Wallet Avenue at 12th Street. Jenni Rivera Memorial Park. Yes. First of all, I'd just like to make this motion. Okay. Thank you. Okay. Right now, I'd like to add this before we get started. I just would like everyone to know that this is a great honor to bring this item forward tonight and to have had pleasure to know Ginny, as well as working with her family and on this item. Jenny was an amazing young lady and really gave her all. I don't think people really knew how much she gave back to the community. I'm donating Children Hospital to send in trucks full of gifts and clothing to Long Beach Mother and Children's that was victims of the domestic violence. And Jenny kept giving. I first met Jenny in July of 211 when I honored her with the start of probably, you know, offensive pain. Jenny was proud and she was truly a proud jackrabbit and proud to be from the city of Long Beach. This Long Beach Girl was truly an inspiration to us and all of her stars and the Walk of Fame and mind me of keeping reaching out for our dream, no matter where it comes from and what circumstances it might around you. To this day, millions of people mourn the tragedy and the loss of Mrs. Rivera's life. On December the ninth, 2012, by honoring Jenni Rivera with the Memorial Park, the city of Long Beach will be paying a tribute to the great citizens of her city and a remarkable entertainer, inspirational leader and amazing ambassador for all and the city of Long Beach. Now, I would like to show a short video in her memory. I will speak. Can I please call an assistant up here to the podium for you? Are they. Here? I think we'll get to the video first. We wait till after the video, please. She meant to the Latinos over. And. The style of music that she makes is so beautiful. When you listen to it, it makes you feel like it's. A better place in this world. I believe that when

God. Gives you a lot, it's our responsibility to give back. I want the fans to know that with what they give me, I am able to give here and. And they love him so very much. Thank you, guys. My fans always tell me that when I visit them, it means so much. But what they don't know is that it means more to me. She really. Was a strength. Of humankind. She was a force of nature. She used to show up to hospitals, how people that are in their death beds and give them a boost. I said to them.

Your body stay here, but I commit the illness in your general desire. Our relatability on this ill son. And you actually never seem to smile. They haven't seen you haven't seen her smile smiled at all. We made her smile. You know, there's always somebody going through more than you're going through. I needed them to see that. I had hope for them and I had faith for them as well. We were all in on this together. They are courage. People who didn't know Jenny River to go back and discover. What she. Was all about. Because you'll just discover what we're all missing so much. And that's how talented she was. I think people related to her music and her as a performer. Because her songs were about real stories and she went to in her life and what the everyday woman goes through. I don't understand any of the words she's saying, but at the same time it feels so good. That it captures your voice, is soothing to your ears. This young lady here has done things for our community. For your community? What matter? To let everyone know. Don't ever, ever give up on your hopes and dreams. And I want to thank you again for coming in today. So now I will take the time to honor this very, very special, such an Rivera. You had to get that. Okay, you guys. Yeah. All right, baby. Jenny and I love you back. I was the nerd that played. In the marching band. On this same. Field and haven't been here since, and it feels really good to be able to come back. And I would play my music then and I came back. Because of my music. And that feels really good. Thanks to all of you who have considered little old me from Long Beach, California. For a start here at Poly High School. And thanks for remembering that I came out of here. I don't forget it. I'm still a poly jackrabbit. Very emotional day. It's beautiful to go back. In a in a. Time machine to the past. And I remember everything I went through as a child and and the beautiful squad I came to where there was where they taught us that you are to learn and go forth and serve multiple. Sites and your look at the. Though. No. Too bad that I split my. So the London. Money for anything you give away. Like I love flowers. Oh. Yeah. Withholding control. Better than anyone doing. Boy. Yang's not used. You come. You can come. Kay. Thank you. And as part of that, I do believe that we are going to have someone from the family that's going to come on up and say a few words as part of the councilmembers presentation. I think Rosie's coming up. Please come f orward. Hello. It's an honor to meet you here and all these councilmen. Thank you so much. My sister received many awards in her life. Many nominations sold millions and millions and albums. And her music took her around the world. But she never forgot. She was just a girl from Long Beach. Due to a young pregnancy, she had to leave poly high school. But she mentioned that she'd come back one day and just seeing her smile. That's one of the most beautiful, genuine smiles I've ever seen. The honor that she received by poly high school was a true joy, and I'm thankful to Long Beach for doing that while she was here. And now that this park has been named after her is a huge honor. And like I said, she traveled the world. But to know that her her town has honored her is better than any Grammy or better than any award. I wanted to thank Long Beach and let you know that the family is ecstatic and we want to be completely involved in whatever we can. I have told the children they cannot be here today, but they will be there. The if if it's named after her, they will be there and they like to plant trees and do fundraisers, maybe have a community day just to be able to continue to support our community and not just have it named after her and be empty, but really do something for the community. We, our whole family will be completely involved to honor her and honor the city that made her. She became a great star, but it was Long Beach that built Jenni Rivera. So thank you very much. Thank you very much. Thank you very much for those words. And obviously, on behalf of on behalf of the city of Long Beach and to the whole family. Our hearts go out to the entire family and all the other friends. I do have a couple of councilmembers. I want to make some comments and there is a motion on the floor already. So Councilmember Arango. I want to, first of all, thank my colleague, the Andrews, for bringing this forward, because there's not that many opportunities that we haven't seen on which to name parks or important people. And certainly the iconic figure that Jenny Oropeza worked in, or better yet, if you read it, was that's another person that generated better words to this community. It really speaks volumes about what contributions she made not only here in Long Beach, but to the world of music as well. And her name will live not only in her music, but also in this park. And so I'm looking forward to that celebration. And we have this pilot program, this this kid with our mutual greatest prosthetic equinox voters easily register women to promote the McCain memorial that Jenni Rivera. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. I also want to thank Councilmember. De Andrews for bringing this forward. I had the pleasure of meeting Miss Rivera at Poly High School as well. And what I got from that was that she was a real person. She kind of told you from the heart what she was feeling. And she was very passionate as a mother, as an artist, as a Latina, but mostly as a

Long Beach resident. And I always remember that. And so I think the Andrews, for bringing this forward. I know that she was also such a huge loss to the community, but a tireless advocate for victims of domestic violence. What I failed to mention earlier, you know, when we had the domestic violence presentation, is that all of her work, she was a spokesperson. For the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence in Los Angeles, and she also founded a charitable organization, the Jenni Rivera Love Foundation, and all of those dedicated to women, children, especially here in Long Beach. So all of that put together is reason enough to certainly name a park after her. So thank you. Thank you, Councilmember. Councilwoman Price. Thank you. Thank you to Councilmember Andrews for bringing this item forward and for asking us to cosign it with you. It's rare for us to be able to name a park or an area of the city after someone who is young. And it's always very tragic when that happens. But in this situation, the vibrancy and the energy and the youth that she brought forth is a great representation. And to have that in the city of Long Beach, I think, inspires just the energy that she brought to the table, which was a lot of energy, a lot of service, a lot of goodwill and a genuine pride in this community. So thank you for bringing this forward. And I'm proud that we are doing this tonight. Thank you. And Councilmember Austin. Yes. I'd like to also join with my colleagues in thanking Councilmember Andrews for bringing this forward. This Rivera was an international star, but also an ambassador for the city of Long Beach. She represented our city across the around the world. And a little known fact is that, you know, she she recorded most of her music right here in Long Beach in eighth District, right here on Market Street, where the family still actually has a recording studio. And they sell a lot of her her music and family music there and opportunity to meet her father and her brothers about a year and a half ago. And, you know, like I said, I think this is an honor befitting of her her her great, great career and her representation of the city. So thank you again. Thank you, Councilman Richardson. Thank you. I just want to wanted to chime in and again, on the on the Andrews night, just say great job and what a beautiful tribute your staff put together in that video. And and also, I wanted to just say that, I mean, tonight we've heard about domestic violence. Tonight we've seen college educated women who are a great example. And we're rounding that out with another great example of really maintaining a commitment to the community. And so Jenni Rivera was a great example. I think she is exactly the type of people that we should name our parks after folks that that our young folks can who will play at this park will be able to aspire and look to as an example. So that said, I look forward to the Housing Neighborhoods Committee, you know, going ahead and improving that so that we can move forward. Thank you so much. Thank you. With any public comment on the item. When is not. Good evening. Okay. I mean, I embrace certain values, so the streets are safe. My name is this in? I'm from the sixth district. Is a promoter and promoter. And I'm a promoter of voting at this contract. You talk about I say, let me circle the Andrews bore awareness opportunity competition is to momentum to quintal a company. That first of all, I'd like to thank my Councilmember member Andrews, for giving us this opportunity and to be part of the community to study. Compartilhar see this, get the angle to comment. On me familiar. But I'd like to share some ideas with you that I've shared with my family. Jessica a lovely star, Jenni Rivera for years now that I contribute to a community. That I know that the artist Jenni Rivera was and is a great contributor in our community. But I mean, we are. K k number four we don't on control para podemos identificados conejo. But I would have liked for the name to be a bit more general for all of us could identify with her. But I have to say. Keppel yara mucho a los grupos. L.A. hit their. E I as Newcrest debuted in film sticker I as victims are willing to pay them a sticker. For example, I know she supported a lot of groups like LGBT T and the victims of domestic violence. Immigrant style. Gasoline umbrella park. For a helpless la senora. Or I parker tolerance here. And for example, I would have liked the park to have been named the Great Lady or Tolerance Park. Damien Bonner, Una placa con. We know that there are contenders Historia. And also put up a commemorative plaque that tells her story. Honorable or a tree. It's a song part is a mysterious but contributed commercial. But sonic beware. The intro witnesses you get them being reckoned. Moscow, Canada, La Comunidad de los Angeles. Les Gusta La La La Musica. The Wonder. And those are just some of my ideas that I would like to contribute as part of a person that lives in the sixth District. And I would also like to acknowledge that not all of the Long Beach residents like Banda Music. LLC, Inter Punto LLC and the Punto is the kind of market Castro Ricardo in Atlantic Helicopters.

Katsuyama Peace. Park. It's time we the squid out. Of your window now. And the next point I'd like to make is that our park that's on Atlantic and 14th, that is called Peace Park is not well taken care of and it's been abandoned. This unfortunate mantra is the park lobby. Then all of a persona, skills and drogas. Okay, wind in progress. And unfortunately this park is either people are living or going there that use and sell drugs. In those years, this koala, let's call up poly and let's do this to the end. This is done exploited those. I city poly personas the lunacy. Weirdness and then on school days or students that go to poorly are exposed to these people Monday through Friday. You should those this list be the poor perverted bogan must have been

children as a bargain item in his but okay let's see the asker. Your list blew the trial less dominant consideration. So I'd like to ask that you please pay more attention to that park. And I hope that you can pay attention and consider the ideas that I brought to you which are massive. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. But again. When I noticed. As the council members. Good evening, council members. And the rest of it will not settle the streets. My name is Andres and I live in the 66th District. Is the crooked the main one of his family independently. If they gave for normally and are getting phone numbers on a mutual limit. And according to my independent point of view, I think it's a bad idea to name this park. Jenni Rivera I know she's helped Long Beach a lot. The settlement is improvement in all of we're not. Unfortunately, we always imitate what's bad and not what's good. Yeah, you know, mutuality, little or nothing can add up. She helped the city of Long Beach a lot and many people, but. I'm mentally there because at the end of the day is when a person get in to say Alzheimer's. I said, I'll call you. And unfortunately, the idea that people have of her is that she induces peop other people to be alcoholics. And it is another way to suppress that commando. On the stage. She's always drinking. Normally there but a person. And so it would be a bad idea for the rest of the people. This event. Nothing, nothing better but almost every other your mother. But again, it's not, say, police park or lumberjack beach, the Parks Department Park. And I don't know, I'm nobody. But I would like to see the park named something like Long Beach Police Park or Long Beach Fire Department Park. In Park City. I'm not saying the. Park of the Unknown hero. I don't know. If there was a minor unit, little jet then over the airport. And there's also an athlete from the New York Jets. I can't remember the name right now, but he gives a lot. He still may do a little commentary asking for the arrested okay capital and forget about it because there was some but I almost forget this was emperor. I'll call. Overseas. And I would recommend if it's possible that you watch the parks better because some of them are used for alcohol and some for drugs. Thank you. Thank you. Any other public comment on the item? CNN there is a motion on the floor. Members with Gordon Carter votes. Yeah. You. Motion carries eight zero. Thank you very much. We're going to go ahead now. Go back to the first hearing, Madam Clerk. Yes. We haven't taken concert calendar, have we. And now we will do hearing. I think. You can. Say yes. Hearing number one. Item 16 is a communication from Vice Mayor Sudhir Lowenthal, Councilwoman Susie Price and Councilman Andrews with three recommendation one to request that all youth under the age of 17 be admitted to Belmont Pool and other city pools for $1. Second requires city manager to report back on the cost to expand the summer fund program.

And third, explore with the Long Beach Transit the possibility of a special bus or busses dedicated solely to taking people to and from Belmont Pool. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I'd like to make a few comments, but would also first like to make a motion to approve this item. Thank you. The Belmont Pool has been a city asset and symbol of our great cities regional aquatic stretch stature for more than 45 years, hosting local, regional and even Olympic competitions. With the closure of the plaza earlier this year, the temporary pool continues. This tradition of supporting community aquatics and the new pool will most assuredly reintroduce Long Beach to the national and international swimming community. However, to reinforce the pool's image, the Belmont Pools image, as a citywide asset that all of our residents feel connected to and proud of, we believe the city should make it easier for our youth to swim at Belmont and every pool, for that matter. As the so-called aquatic capital of America and a city committed to being a healthy community and certainly our brothers keepers, it is in our best interest to encourage our young residents to become lifelong swimmers no matter their economic, cultural or geographic status. And for these reasons, council members, I urge an eye vote from you. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you, Vice Mayor Lowenthal, for bringing this forward. I have said repeatedly in the Belmont Pool discussions that I started participating in in June and have been very actively involved in until today, that I want the Belmont Pool and of course, any other facility we have in the center but in the city, but especially the Belmont Pool, to be a facility that every child in the city feels is theirs, regardless of it being in the third district, I want every child and family in this city to feel that this pool is their city pool and that they are welcome here and that there is no encumbrance to them being able to use the pool such as a financial one. So I think this is a wonderful item and I encourage my council colleagues to support it as well. Q Councilmember Andrews. Yes, thank you, Mayor. I want to thank our Councilwoman Lowenthal for bringing me in on this also, because as we find out, a lot of in our cities, a lot of times the dollar doesn't sound like a lot. But when you have a family for a dollar an awful lot and I know, you know a Kings Park, we have a problem, you know, just with the kids being able to afford to go to the pool there. So, you know, like I said, I think that this is one of the great things because it provides fun and challenging ways our children stay fit. You know, one is swimming is probably one of the most athletic, you know, challenges that you'll go through. So I always my favorite saying is my kids, they are tired, kid is a good kid. And that will definitely keep them in good shape and keep him out of trouble. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. I want to than k you for bringing forward this motion. I think involving our youth in our community and specifically in swimming at a young age is a great resource for our community. And I support this idea. Thank you. Members, please go ahead and cast your vote. Bush and Kerry eight term. Thank you. An extended plea. Item 17 is communication from Councilman Austin Chair State Legislations Committee Recommendation to request City Council to support Proposition one. The Water Quality Supply and Infrastructure Improvement Act of 2014. 21 is a report from the City Manager and Parks and Recreation Marine with a recommendation to authorize the city manager to. Oops. Wait a minute. 21. Sorry, I went a little late. To report from the city manager with the recommendation to receive and file the fiscal year 2015 budget for the Long Beach Downtown Parking and business improvement area. So moved its motion in a second share any public comment and item 21 was seen and members, please cast your vote. Mr. Mayor, I just wanted to I know that Craig Cogen is here in the audience from the downtown Long Beach Associates, along with his chairperson. Yes, up. Yes. I can't even see that for. I think that's Hilda said. Sorry it's late, but I want to thank you both for being here. You stayed here the entire meeting. The Dolby is a great partner in the downtown and I appreciate your efforts to host community forums on various topics of importance to our residents and businesses. And thank you for being here. Thank you, Councilman Gonzalez. I also wanted to say thank you for being here and sitting with us. I see that your economic development plan is, you know, bolstering and it's getting better. And we're really excited about that. And I also have to say, thank you so much. Your homeless outreach program has just progressed and partnering with you in so many different aspects. So thank you very much, both of you, for all that you do for our downtown. Thank you. There's a motion on the floor. Members, please cast your votes. Motion carries nine votes. 22. 22 is a report from the city manager of the recommendation authorizing an agreement with Long Beach Area Convention and Visitors Bureau for an amount of $3.9 million for fiscal year 2015. Thank you, Mayor. I'm 25. It's communication from the city manager and financial management with the recommendation to execute all documents necessary to implement a 15 year sales tax incentive agreement with Hunan Toyota of Long Beach. Mr. West. Mayor Council were pleased. To present this item tonight. For whom? And Toyoda Mike Conaway will walk us through it. Mayor Garcia, members of the city council, this item brings forward the first sales tax incentive agreement from the Department of Economic and Property Development. Human Toyota, formerly Beech. Toyota intends to relocate its car sales operations from 4401 Pacific Coast Highway to 3399 Willow Street at Redondo Avenue, human to Saudi, intends to significantly expand and renovate the new site at a cost of $4.2 million, not including acquisition cost. Beach Toyota, which human acquired in 2008, enjoyed a sales tax incentive agreement that was originally entered into in 1996 and which expired in September 2013. Mr. Nathani requested that the expired sales tax sharing agreement be renewed and the sales tax basis of that agreement was $135,000, above which sales tax revenues were shared equally. To facilitate discussion, Mr. Nathani agreed to double the sales tax base to $270,000 and requesting to equally share sales tax revenue above that amount until the earlier of reimbursement of the $4.2 million renovation costs for 15 years. Kizer Marsden reviewed the request and concluded that based on prior sales and conservative projections or the 15 year period, the facility should generate nearly $12 million in local sales tax to the city, of which approximately 4 million will be shared, with whom Toyota and approximately 8 million will be retained by the city. This amount is nearly 4 million more than the sales tax base staff believes. The sales tax incentive agreement is a persuasive economic development tool and is widely used by other cities. Staff recommends that City Council authorize the proposed sales tax incentive agreement and Mr. Human Assadi is in the audience this evening and is available to respond to counsel if requested. And additionally, I'm available to answer your questions. May. Move. Again. Okay. There's been a motion and a second. Councilmember Price, I mean Councilmember Mongo. Thank you. This is going to be the first of many sales tax agreements that are going to come before this council. I'm really excited that we're going to attack increasing our sales base here in Long Beach so that we can afford the important things that we need streets, sidewalks, trees, public safety and all of those things cost money. And to do that, we need Long Beach residents to purchase their cars, purchase their groceries, purchase their gas inside the city limits of Long Beach. We're really proud that Hooman has chosen to stay in Long Beach. We know there are a lot of potential areas he could have moved to and we are thankful to have you as a partner and we look forward to doing more deals like this in the future. So bring us some more business. Thank you. Thank you. Scott Trumbo. O'DONNELL Yes, thank you. And I just want to congratulate Mr. Herrmann. He's a good man. He does well for our city. He's a volume dealer. That means he sells a lot of cars and that tax comes back, back into our coffers and pays for our streets, sidewalks, libraries, etc.. And I thank him for his commitment to our city. You just mentioned it. He could have gone to a number of other cities, but he chose to stay in Long Beach, cost him a little bit of money to do it, and it took him a couple of years to do it. Not not on the fault of the city, just in tact on matters with regard to how dealerships are located. But he was very committed to moving inside the city limits o f Long Beach, and we look forward to more good stuff from him. So thank you. Thank you. Councilor Andrews? Yes? It's Mr. Herman here. I'd like to congratulate him, but I've never seen him before. Oh, you don't have to sit that far in the back, young man. Okay. Congratulations. And thank you for coming to our city. Yes. Councilor Rice. Thank you. I wanted to take a moment to acknowledge that one of the items on our agenda tonight is going to be talking about economic development and sales use, sales and tax to use. And there is a report in here that I'm sure we'll talk about later, but it was developed by John GROSS and Mike Conway. And they do talk about the importance of the city of Long Beach, focusing on three premier areas of sales and one of those is auto sales for new vehicles. So this is really a great thing for us to continue to incentivize and work with businesses to bring in this particular industry to the city of Long Beach. And I want to thank staff for their report, and I think it ties in with this agenda item. So thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? Say no seeing, no public comment. There's Councilman Richardson. Thanks. I just want to get in and say congratulations and looking forward to seeing you grow and expand. And I've seen your commute commercials for a while. So this is this is pretty awesome. Congratulations. Thank you. With that, there's emotion on the floor. Please cast your vote. Councilmember Andrews. Motion carries nine votes. Yes. Excellent. Now we're moving on to item number 20, Mr. Clark. Item 20 is a report from Parks, Recreation, Marine and the city manager's office with the recommendation to authorize city manager to proceed with revised requirements for the proposed Belmont Shore Beach and Aquatic Center for additional estimated cost for estimated cost of $1.3 million. Item 24. Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine Recommendation to Authorize City Manager to. Quiet down in the in the audience, please. Thank you so much. Recommendation to authorize city manager to execute a right of entry permit and execute a joint use agreement with the Long Beach Unified School District to rehabilitate the baseball and soccer field over overlay at Howden Park District nine. Okay, Councilman Richardson. I'm going to I'd like to move this item. I just want to say that. Thank you. I just want to say quickly that a lot of work and staff time has gone on behalf of Parks and Recreation to work with our school district so that we can better understand and realize that Jordan High School and Highland Park are really one complex serving the needs of our community. I'd like to and I don't know if we need to do a drink. I mean, you want to give some remarks. Just that again, we appreciate the relationship with the school district. This will help both us and the school district. They will get the field up until 6:00, then we get to use it. They are investing money into the field of a long term relationship. We also have a joint use agreement with their pool. So it's a symbiotic relationship that we really do appreciate. They're going to be working on fixing the infield, new infield and the fencing. It's just going to look dynamic once they're finished with it. Okay. And with someone from Long Beach Unified, want to just chime in? Hi. I'm Tova Corman. I'm the executive director of Facilities Planning and Development at Long Beach Unified. I just wanted to say thank you for taking this under consideration. In addition to the field improvements, we are going to be putting in new dugouts, very protected dugouts. The school district is also doing a lot of improvements. $160 million worth of work, an outdoor pool, new gymnasium. And we're adding an additional gymnasium. And we would love to consider. Joint use in the future with the city. And I think that's our goal for this area as well as just for the district as a whole. So we thank you for your consideration. If you have any questions, I'm happy to answer them. Okay. Thank you. Any other public speakers on the item? Yep. School board member. Please come forward. Good evening, Honorable Mayor, Council members, executive staff and community. My name is Megan Kerr. I'm the member of the. Long Beach Unified School District Board of Education who represents this area. So welcome to the neighborhood. I want to thank Tova Corman. We did have a district staff member here who got ill about an hour ago and she had been here and Tova throw up, threw on a suit and got in her car so that she could be here to answer. Any questions. On their day. Off. We didn't have school today. I speak tonight in strong. Support of this item. As it will not only provide a necessary regulation field for our. Jordan High baseball team, but because it will also provide. Updated and renovated recreation space for our North Miami Beach community. The renovation of. Jordan High School is the largest Measure K project and will provide students. With the most technologically advanced learning space in the district. By partnering with the city. In this way, we can assure that our students will also have access to high quality athletic facilities as well. During baseball season, the district will provide the maintenance of the space and the community will still have access to this space in the evenings and weekends. I support the terms as stated in the agenda, as they represent the most cost effective solution, as well as allowing us to qualify for potential state funding for the project. This is a great example of working together for the benefit of the whole community. And I look. Forward to additional joint use opportunities. I respectfully ask for your support of this item as presented on the agenda. Thank you. Thank you. School Board Member CR And any other public comment on the item? Carson Richardson You mean that you made the motion early, right? Okay. So no one. I see no other comments. All in favor, please raise your hand. Motion carries unan imously item. We're going back now item 15. Item 15 Communication from Council Member Austin Councilmember O'Donnell. Councilmember Durango Recommendation to request city manager to include to schedule within 45 days an airport airport noise ordinance study session to educate the entire council as to the history, importance and background. M26 is a report from Public Works with the recommendation. Authorize a contract with CG construction company an amount not to exceed $18 million. An emotion. I can't remember. Andrews Was there a second? Item 26. Their second. It's her second. Second. Thank you. The CDC. Thank you. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you. So with these bus shelters, I have a number of questions about this process. Five years ago when we began. Well, when we began this process of contracting out, that's. Item 27. Or so. This is the J.C. Taco I'm sorry, KBS taco item is 27. That's why I didn't second the motion. We'll dispense with tricks soon enough. So, members, please cast your vote on item 26, which is for concrete repairs and related improvements. And I'm a yes. Thank you. Motion carries a vote. Yes. Item 27. Councilmember Richardson. Item 20 is communication from Councilwoman Price, Councilman Andrews and Councilmember Richardson. Recommendation to require city manager to write a report within 60 days identifying the fiscal impact associated with installing a looping system. There's been a motion and a second councilmember price. Thank you. I would like to thank Bram, and I don't know if I'm pronouncing his last name right, but Khokhar for introducing the hearing loop system to me through a letter that was sent to my office in September. Additionally, in May of 2014, Richard Hernandez, chair of the Citizens Advisory Commission on Disabilities, recommended to then-Mayor Foster and the City Council members the installation of the hearing loop system within city facilities. This system would allow people with hearing loss to fully participate in civil civic activities and to contribute to the productivity of this great city. And I think we need to explore the financial impact of installing such a system throughout our city facilities. I think you. Thank you, Councilmember Price. And since we have our public speaker cued up, Councilmember Andreescu, would that be okay? Go ahead, please. Please state your name. MAXINE Barton. I'm with the Hearing Loss Association of America Long Beach, Lakewood chapter. And I want to thank the councilwoman, Susie Price defenders and Rex Richardson. For. Bringing this back on to the agenda. This matter has been going on since the last city council. I've given each of the members a packet. Giving the history and. What's transpired thus far. And my only comment and I would like to add, since you're considering a new civic center, that all of the developers, when they submit their bids or proposals, include looping within certain areas of the building. So that the general public that frequents tho se areas are able to hear. It's great that you have the captioning. But with regard to the captioning, there's a seven minute delay so that people with hearing loss can not only always follow it. Right now, there are 48 million people in the United States with a hearing loss. One in seven adults, one in five teens, and three and five returning veterans within. By 2003, that 48 million will have doubled in order to have proper representation. We need to have. Facilities that allow this unseen disability. To go forward and let the general public participate in all of your events. And. City affairs. So I thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. And I've listed at the bottom of my packet for the city manager. And did you get a copy of my packet? Good. Yet it I've listed references. U.S. here now USA has it has twice presented a proposal to the city council and I've listed. Brown Kakar. Who is the state looping chairman of the State of California. If you go anywhere in Europe, you were looped. If you go to three, the city council where looped looping as. The technology of the future very. Inexpensive and it certainly. Is. An improvement over. What is provided now under the ADA. By the city for people with hearing loss. Thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Andrews. Yes. Thank you, Vice Mayor. First of all, I think Councilwoman Price for bringing forward this with this item being cosigner and hearing loss is a tremendous barrier to effective communication. I'm very supportive of seeing how we can acquire looping systems in our city public facilities to assist our residents that are hearing impaired. And I want to thank you again, Mrs. Price, for being a part of this. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you. Councilmember Price. I think this is definitely in line with the work that we're doing around becoming better advocates for language access in our city. I'm going to support this item and I'm proud to sign on. My belief is that everyone has access to should have access to our government. And this would be theoretically, I'd love to see what the costs would be to implement. I would imagine it's going to be a lot of senior citizens, a lot of caregivers, a lot of disabled folks that might take advantage of this. So thank you. Thank you. Are there any other members of the public that wish to address council? Thank you for the opportunity. My name is Warren Willard. My partner, Rick ARCHBOLD, and I operate a business called Hearing Now USA, and we install hearing loops all throughout Southern California. I wanted to give you an opportunity to ask any questions, specific questions you might have about hearing loop technology. But primarily, I wanted to let you know that Long Beach has an excellent opportunity to become a leader in Southern California municipalities and providing quality hearing to those that have hearing impairment. We call it Silent or the invisible disability. And it's rampant. It's all around us. I've suffered with hearing disability for a number of y ears. I retired from another business and decided this would be my mission. We are also the firm that loop the first facility in Long Beach, DRC offices. So I want to thank you for your consideration. We look forward to working with the city in any way possible to help make this happen. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Tengku Imam, you know, like mayor and council members, I'm glad that you have taken up this issue, but I won't repeat what I had been already given. I tell that the City of Cerritos had already located, and there are as many as 17 more cities in California. In California. They have looped. Their council chambers. And also, I find there are 36 other cities in the whole USA. They also love their council chambers. And there's not only that in Europe you have to do that happening. And I'd like to inform. That some of the cities, what they are using about the funding that capital city received, community grant and a home grant from the U.S. Department of Housing. And they have been using those funds that qualify for community enhancement projects. And this project qualifies under the category creating decent living environment by removing existing barriers to help improve accessibility to persons with disability in accordance with in accordance with the ADA. I think Golden City absolutely had already senior center salmon growing in the senior center. They're also going to loop their library and they are performing arts center. So if they left it on and on, that's what it did. I have got some at the door of a hearing association. We don't sponsor any vendors. We can I can only give you a list of some of the member and some of the information about this technology. If they want to pursue I have those papers so they can go there. And I also I also gave the names of the cities who have it. And Turkey can always contact them for that information. They can also contact the city engineering city of Cerritos. They will provide a lot of help on this one. By the way, my name is Veronica Carr. I live in the city of Cerritos. Of course, I have been advocating the cause because I am I have been suffering and I have been just feeling isolated. I thought that we should help this community. Thank you. In the papers for the city. And so, Mr. Cathcart, I. Would like to. May I ask you to give that to the City Clerk? To your left. We already give you, dear. Pass. Yeah, sure. Now I don't. Any question if standing there, I mean. Is it the same packet that that. No, it's not. Okay, we may not have it. Yeah, our thing. Okay, that's fine. I mean, I have got the names of the city. You have something else you need to worry about. The papers. For the. Um. Yeah, I mean, they're talking all about the technology if they want to review it. But this is definitely a new technology. This is the only one which is helping us like this one. It's a wonderful building, but because of this reverberation, we were virtually lost. We were not knowing where the sound is coming fro m, which way we should look. We were only reading this and then barely I could hear and the council member asked him talking something. Okay, that's fine. But time he has to look down his paper. So we were lost. What is happening? I well, I would suggest council should take up the funding because really it's about the quality of life for the resident. It's about it. It's about giving the equal opportunity to the minority they have not able to do is happening. So. Thank you. Your time. Your time is up. Political process. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Corker. Thank you, Councilmember Austin. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I just want to commend Councilmember Price Andrews and Richardson for bringing this forward. I want to thank the speakers who have come out and speak in support of this looping system in our public facilities. You know, whatever it takes to to to open up access to to residents to participate in government. I support I can imagine on a personal note that this looping system might even help a council member or two. So thank you very much for for bringing this item forward, and I plan on supporting it. Thank you. Seeing no further public comment or member comment members, please cast your vote at Miss. Motion carry eight zero. Item 21. Item 21 is a communication from Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Lowenthal Chair, Budget Oversight Committee Recommendation to approve the revised Financial Policy on Fiscal Impact Statements. Item 23 is a report from the City Manager recommendation to execute an amended and restated lease with legacy partners. One. Long Beach Ocean Gate for the use of city owned property located under the Queensway Bridge along West Seas Highway District two. Okay. Vice Admiral Lowenthal. I. Item 22. 23. No. 22. I'll make the motion. Okay. Vice Mayor Lowenthal, there's a second by Councilmember Andrews public comment. Mr. Good who come forward. Very good. Hugh Clark, as he addressed if my reading of the attached information for the council is correct. Included in his expenditures. There's a half a million dollars for chairs. I don't know if anybody's priced that out. I don't know what you're buying them for the Kardashians or who you're buying them from. But a half a million dollars of chairs there. This is the item 23. We're on item 22. I'm sorry. I thought you were on 23. Okay. Thank you. We have a vote now. The motion that made. Please cast those. Bush and Kerry, seven zero. Okay. We're now actually going to hear item 38 because there's members of the public that are here for it. And so there's been a request from a council member to move that up. So Will we will move item 38 next. I remember 19 report from city manager recommendation to receive report and provide direction to staff on the options, addressing bio technical and various other alternatives for the bluff, erosion and Enhancement. Phase two Project District three. Thank you. I'm going to turn this over to our city staff. Mr. Mayor, council members, this has been be fore the city council several times. This is a project that actually started in the year 2000. I'm going to give it to our assistant city manager, Tom Modica, to walk us through where we are now, what we were asked to do by the City Council and what recommendations are tonight to proceed to complete the Bluff Project. Mr. MODICA Thank you, Mr. City Manager and Mr. Mayor, members of the Council. Tonight we have a fairly detailed presentation about this project. As the manager mentioned, it does go back a long way. I want to provide a lot of history. I want to provide some context about what had happened in the last year or so. Some of you were on the council during that time and some were not. And tonight, we're asking you for some direction as well. We've done a tremendous amount of study on this on this issue. And tonight, we're asking for some direction. So to go back, getting the slides up here. Okay. So I'm project background. November 2000 is when this all started and Tetra Tech completed a master plan for development for our overall BLOCK Erosion Enhancement Project. So we went out to the community. We did targeted outreach, met with a number of groups. And the real purpose of that master plan was to identify a number of things. But failure was one of them. Erosion that was undermining some of our sidewalks and public access, public safety hazard from potential collapse of the bluff, dying and sparse vegetation, vegetation. And then also some of the seismic concerns that we have of the bluff and the possibility that a major seismic event would result in the collapse of our historic bluff. And so a number of geotechnical studies were done both in 2000 and then throughout a number of other years. 2000, 2000, three took a little bit of a hiatus as it was a master plan. But when it started to come to the funding options, we did additional study in 2009 and in 2010. And so there were a number of projects that were recommended in that master plan, some of which were engineered solutions, like what we're talking about in terms of stone walls and shotcrete. But others were not. There was the 12th place erosion improvements in 2007 and 2008. The fifth place and seventh place erosion improvements in 2010 and 2011. We had phase one of stone walls and sculpted shotcrete in 2011. We also then had started phase two from 20th place to Redondo with sonar and sculpted shotcrete in 2014. And then we also had the Bixby Park Bluff improvements, which is now a completed project and is getting pretty rave reviews from the community and from others. And so that one was part of that master plan as well. And so for phase one and phase two, phase one was approved by the City Council on November 16th, 2010, and that included so nailing and shotcrete on a specific part of the bluff. And that was completed in 2011. Phase two was approved for construction by the Council on July 19, 2000, July nine, 2013, with a contract awarded to Drill TEC. And we really only are looking at those engineered options for the areas where our city engineers really set are. And that's a critical area for an engineered solution. It turned out to be only about 45% of the bluffs. So it's not the entire bluff phase. But that project not only dealt with seismic stability and bluff, erosion and stabilization, but also included the replacement of the sidewalk railing, major landscaping and the full replacement of the irrigation system. So what you have here is a site map. You can see far to your right on that where it says phase one complete. That was the phase one that was done in 2011. And then the other three phases here that are part of phase two. And so on April 29th, 2014, the City Council voted to pause the project and request some additional information and directed staff to conduct an engineering analysis, which we did through a peer review. We brought on three different biotech or geotechnical firms to basically look at the assumptions that are our first geotechnical engineering firm made to determine had we made the right decision in choosing, shotcrete and saw nails as the appropriate and engineering solution. And essentially that peer review did find that that was an appropriate solution. However, there was some other feasible bio technical alternatives for selling out areas that had not received shotcrete. And so on July 1st, 2014, the Council directed staff to review and evaluate those bio technical options and also to complete the park construction project. And so really focusing on those unfinished areas of the bluff and then continuing with the construction. So I'm pleased to provide an update on the construction. It's actually looking very nice out there. This project has taken a while, but we have seen tremendous improvement out in the park. 3700 new feet of sidewalk and historic railing have been fully installed in Bluff Park. That railing is galvanized steel guaranteed to last 25 years and is really an attractive feature out there along the entire walk. Now, for 3700 feet, we're going to have either existing or improved landscaping as we get a number of people who enjoy that that park. And the irrigation system has been completely replaced and receding. We'll fully to fully restore our bluff park is scheduled to begin very shortly. The irrigation system was in terrible condition, requiring constant repairs and due to line failures. We've installed more than 4000 feet of four inch main line and 8000 feet of three quarter inch to three inch lateral lines. And recycled water is will be used for irrigation in the park. So when you see the sprinklers on, please know that that's reclaimed recycled water. So here's a picture of our new sprinkler system functioning. And as you can see on the right, the grass is already starting to come back, will be doing additional seeding and trying to get even more to come back. But we are making good progress turning that back into a nice community asset. On the right

you'll see that the concrete as directed by a council it was and we want to be pleased it wasn't stained. Some of it in some areas was either gray or it had a first coat. And so we've completed the standing of that. So that's beginning to look much more natural and what we're expecting for plant coverage, one that was clearly heard by staff when the council considered this back in April, was that there was concern that there wasn't going to be plant coverage when when we talked about that project, there really wasn't much established or what had established that died. So we went out to the community and talked with the community about what that plant coverage should be. We are designing this project for up to 75% plant coverage and hopefully even more than that, if we can get up to 100%, we'd love to certainly do that. The current plan is to use native plants. non-Natives actually give you a little bit more coverage, but they don't add any ecological value. And the public input that we heard was to go with native native plants and then use an adaptive management strategy to try to maximize plant success. I'm happy to report the majority of the planning on the bluff has been completed and the plants are thriving and that we went through a process already to enhance our landscaping plan to be more drought tolerant, colorful plants, and then create that increase that plant coverage area. So looking at some of the plants, you know, this is a sample of the selection we have Island Morning Glory shall we? Island Snapdragon Caribbean Island Mallow on the bottom beach Evening Primrose Sea Pink and Beach Strawberry. As you can see in the next one on the top of the of the entire bluff, we have an opportunity to do landscaping there. And the point of that landscaping is also to have it flow over and to help cover the shock route from the top. And we have two other areas for planting, one in the middle of the bluff and one at the toe of the bluff. But here you see a number of plants big evening, primrose sea, pink beach, strawberry blue eyed grass, coastal poppy and maritime. Santos And in the next slide, you'll see the planter pockets. This is all of phase two has new planter pockets designed to have plants actually in the shot create itself. We've seen this work in other areas very well. If there is appropriate, if it's done appropriately. And so clockwise from upper left corner we have showy island snapdragons and Katherine's lay splatter pod and island. Morning Morning Glory. So I want to give an example of what that would look like. This is Island Morning Glory in a different setting. But the point of of using a landscape architect and going out to the community is to pick a palette that will actually work and establish and also provide a lot of coverage like what you see here. So looking at the total look design, these are the plants that are going to be at the toe. You'll see we've done some planting already. And the idea is that these are going to gr ow over time to really help cover the foot of the bluff or the toe of the bluff. So these are lemon lemonade, Berry, Catalina Island Marrow and Holly Leaf cherry. So I want to give some examples of what Shark Creek can look like and when it's during constructed and after construction. You'll see in this example, you'll see on the left the during construction and after construction. In this example, it's fully covered. Going to the next slide. This is an example from Dana Point where it originally looked very bare. And as you can see with the native planting on the right, we've got very full coverage. It's very actually difficult to see that Chuck Reed is even there in that example. And on the next page, this is from Agoura Hills, you'll see construction on this on the left. And then after construction, again, very difficult blends in. And that's really the point is to use it as stabilization, but also have it blend in. So talking about the. Current conditions, you'll see we've begun plantings. We've got plantings in the. Planter pockets at the toe and and at the top. And so the really. Who were coming to ask you tonight that's the update to where we are with the project. We do want some additional direction on the in the two areas to be completed. So that's phase two, area one and phase two, area two. And you'll see them on that slide. And so what we're asking for is we've brought you four different options as we've gone through our study process. And I'll talk a little bit about that. And we're seeking some direction options before the council include two one complete the original project. We looked at two bio technical options. One is steel mesh and the other is cellular confinement. And then we looked at a major regrading alternative as well. So going through each option. Option one complete the original project we had three independent geotechnical engineers confirm that soil nails and shot create are an appropriate solution for the project they are used elsewhere. What's important to note is that these bluffs in the areas we chose are unique in that they are not a gradual slope. They're not 2.5 or 3 to 1. They are about half a foot to one. So what that means is for every half foot avert of horizontal, you're dropping a foot in vertical. And so that's a very steep slope and that really is recommended for an engineered solution. Shot Create is also a very cost effective option. It has at least a 75 year effective life lifespan and requires pretty minimal annual maintenance. And the whole point is that the vegetation will cover the concrete as it grows and fully establishes itself and expected to achieve that and no greater bluff coverage than in other areas. And so one thing I'd like to show is a rendering and this is what we're expecting Shark Creek to look like afterward. This is this is the designs and this is the goal with the 75% coverage and more, if we can get it. So we also looked at bio technical options. The June 23rd peer review rep ort indicated that some bio technical techniques have been used. They are mostly used in inland areas rather than in coastal areas, but they can be adapted to coastal areas and they can also tie into the soil and also provide that structural solution that you need , but also may have some esthetic qualities as well. And so the bio technical techniques can be applied to the site, especially in areas that are that ratio of 1 to 1 or flatter. And so we went through a bio technical review process. We researched those erosion control methods applied throughout California. We interviewed experts with knowledge of those bio technical methods and experience in implementing them, and also brought on some consulting expertise in that area as well. So we looked at a number of different criteria. We looked at having, you know, the durability and seismic stability. We looked at erosion control, we looked at vegetation and planting quality, including the irrigation construction and maintenance costs, the implementation time and the regulatory permit requirements. And as we went through that selection process, a number of bio technical methods were screened out because they didn't meet some of those criteria. And so with bio technical option one, what that would be was a high tensile steel wire mesh that would be layered down and anchored to the soil an ounce. The slope would be hydro seeded with grasses and flowers and cut outs would be made in the mesh to allow for small shrubs to be planted . We expect that to be about a 15 year effective lifespan, but requires a lot of maintenance to keep it up. It has about an inch of topsoil on it, and so that topsoil tends to move around and the plants can't really root as well as in other models. And so we do expect there to be a plant failure rate that will be somewhat high and you'll have to get out there and do significant annual maintenance to replace those plants. This is what it will look like. You'll see from the side, you'll see the soil nails, you'll see the taco mesh that's on top of it. It's not a regraded option, if you'll see, it has that fairly steep slope and then you'll have large shrubs and medium to low shrubs at the toe. On the next slide, you'll see what it looks. Up, up, close. This is the technology. This is the telco mesh. And then what did it look like? This is a rendering of what will look like during construction. And then the next slide will be what it looks like after plant establishment and construction. And you'll notice on the lower left hand side, you can actually see that there's some of the tech mesh. That wire mesh is still visible even when it's constructed because it only has an inch of topsoil. It's expected to slip off in some areas. So you will see some of that a mesh under bio technical option one. And then this is a final example of what it could look like in a different area. This is a bio technical option that's used along a highway. So biotech me option two is one that we're soil would be imported to create a more uniform slope of 1.4 to 1. We don't expect that would impact the park or the beach. We would have steel mesh laid down very similar to option one. And biodegradable or synthetic vegetative cells would be placed on top and anchored to the mesh. And then that gets filled with about 4 to 8 inches of soil. So there would definitely be a lot more soil for plants to take hold too. And with that, you can get a wide variety and larger plants to be planted. We expect that to have a longer life, about a 25 year effective lifespan and not as much maintenance because the soil is going to hold a little bit better to the slope. You'll see in the cross-section that it is more of a uniform slope. It still has the soil. Now there is some soil fill that has to be done, but it is a more uniform uniform slope. On bio technical option two This is what it look like during construction. You can see the mesh is laid down and then it's filled with that 4 to 8 inches of soil. And then that's what it will look like after construction. That's an artist's rendering of what we expect it could look like once it's fully constructed. And the plants that established construction method, this is the wire mesh and then the the netting up on top that that covers it. And then this is just an example of of what it looks like in a different area. We're not we're not recommending this for our area. Obviously, this wouldn't be a suitable vegetative area on our bluffs. But it is an example of what what option two is look like in another area. So we were asked as we went out in this community process to really look at a different option, a regrading alternative. It is something that we had looked at previously. We had looked at that in 2000. We're asked to provide a little bit more information and take a look. And so we did that as a part of this review. The current slope conditions really are too steep to have just a planting option without some sort of engineering solution. We've seen some other bluffs. Redondo Beach, for example, has a two and a half foot to one slope. That's a very gradual slope. Our bluffs in some areas are about half a foot or 0.6 to 1. So a very different environment. And so in order to create this kind of regrading alternative, we'd have to import soil and compacted and create a very uniform 2 to 1 slope that wouldn't encroach either toe feet onto the beach or 20 feet into Bluff Park or a combination thereof. And that really is the minimum necessary without having an engineered stabilization solution. So some of the impacts of that is that you would have a staircase at 20th place. You're going to have to reconstruct that stair staircase in order to more conform to the slope of the bluff. You would still have to have concrete. Even with that regrading option, you would have to have a retaining wall, you'd have to have additional concrete or shotcrete on the sides. Essentially, you're going to have a very steep slope and you're going to have a gradual slope that comes out to the beach and then returns back over. And so there are opportunities for that soil to slough off on the sides. And so that needs to be engineered, otherwise your solution won't work. So you're either going to have to have a drainage trench, a concrete shotcrete, create. There's there's a number of other options, but they'll have to be an engineered solution on the sides. You do get a wide variety of larger plants. It's it's a more it's a natural environment so that you can plant on it and you have additional soil. There is a high risk of trespassing, though, without an additional fence. And what we've seen in Redondo Beach, as you can see on the next page, is they do have that two and a half slope to one. And that's what it looks like in Redondo Beach. But you can see there is a fence that is erected in the middle so that people stay off the bluff. And that's a current problem that we have as people tend to traverse our bluff and cause more erosion, the impacts of that regrading. You would have to import a bunch of soil and it would require approximately 2100 truck trips in order to bring in that amount of soil to achieve that solution just in those two areas. We talked about that construction of a wall or trench. So you you're going to to mitigate the horizontal erosion. You're definitely still going to have some concrete on the beach. And depending on the exact solution, you're going to have to go back to local coastal development permit or an amendment to the local coastal plan. So this is an idea that we looked at in 2000 and after looking at it again today, you know, we we did want to pay some attention to it. We wanted to look at it. But it is not one that staff would recommend. Wrapping up, I want to talk a little bit about the cost estimates and the fiscal impact. There are a wide variety of cost estimates for these different options. The completion of the original project is the most cost effective at $1.3 million for both areas. The bio technical options range for 4.3 million. For a bio technical option 1 to 7.75 million for bio technical option two. And then the regrading option is expected to cost 5.4 million. And these are in addition to what we currently have budgeted, we currently have a $5.8 million project budgeted for the bluff. That budget is essentially exhausted and this would be on top. So all four of these options are going to require additional tidelands funds or general funds in order to cost to provide those solutions. Each one of those has a maintenance estimate associated with it. Then the completion of the original project was shot. Create is the lowest maintenance option in about 11,000. The bio technical option one is the most expensive at 26,000, and then bio technical option two for cellular confinement and regrading or both estimated about 19,000. So I want to talk a little bit about the fiscal impact. As of today, oil is today was sellin g for about $50 a barrel. That's very different than where we were two or three months ago when oil was at $100 a barrel. As you know, staff will be coming back to you by the end of the year as we promise to provide additional information on oil, to look at a longer range plan. Our capital plan, our five year capital plan was based on oil hitting a benchmark of $100. And so if we're not at that benchmark, we're going to have to reprioritize and look at what funds are available. So due to the anticipated funding shortfall for any of these solutions, we are going to need additional funds appropriated from either existing tidelands projects or if. We're looking at a very expensive project. There's going to, you know, the possibility of general fund because the Tidelands funds are already currently obligated. There's no additional funds that could be programmed without impacting another project. We would say that this project would take priority over other projects in the Tidelands because it's an unfinished construction project. We're in the middle of construction and we need to complete those two areas in order to complete the project. And so we think this is something the Council will need to consider when evaluating the potential options. And so the last two slides here, timing considerations. Area one has already experienced some noticeable erosion after recent storms. So as I mentioned, it is important for us to get directions that we can move forward with a solution. They do have different time estimates. The completion of the original project is the quickest it can complete within within 2015. So next year we can we have a contractor on board. We are we just need to find the additional funds process, a contract amendment, and they can get started with the work by our technical options. One and two we expect would be done by 2016. They would require an extension of a current permit and then the ability to engineer and design and go out to bid for those. And the regrading alternative will take the longest. We expect that not to be able to be complete until 2018, potentially, as you go through the a pretty elaborate coastal development permit process. So on our last slide here, the four options for you to consider completion of the original project bio technical option, steel mesh power, technical option, cellular confinement and the regrading as you mentioned in our staff report, after spending a lot of time on this and listening to the community and and looking at all the engineering reports, we are recommending completion of the original project. We feel that's the most cost effective option as it has the lowest capital cost. We believe it offers the most protection up to 75 years of protection. It is one of the fastest to implement and we know the neighborhood is very interested in getting this project completed and it can be completed in 2015. It has the lowest maintenance cost at 11,000, provides the seismic stability. It importantly will match the other areas. We do have short create in other areas and that will match that other area. And we hear very loudly and clearly that there needs to be attention paid to making it look better than what it is today. And we're committed to doing that. If the Council chooses to move forward with that, we're going to pay a lot of attention to making sure the plants establish and cover and eventually well blend in. And so with that that end staff's report, and we are available to answer questions. Thank you. Councilwoman Price. You. I want to thank the Bluff Park residents who are here. And I have a presentation that I've prepared as well. But I would like to hear from public public comment before I do my presentation. But in advance of that, I want to thank Tom and Eric and Andrew for your work on this. The city manager's office has been extremely diligent in following up and providing me with the information that I needed and specifically staff. Really. Reached out to the community at my request with specific community members who wanted to have an opportunity to meet one on one. And I want to thank you for that. That was a special request that you honored for me. And I think hopefully it meant something to the folks you met with and and that even though you're not recommending what they wanted, that they appreciate the time. So with that, I'd like to hear from the public before expressing my my thoughts on this issue. Okay, great. Should we do public comment? If you want to comment, please come forward and line up on the podium. 3 minutes. Please say your name for the record. And please first. First speaker. Good evening. My name is Jim Corbett. I live in Belmont. Shore and we have a wonderful resource. And having a free newspaper delivered every Thursday that we get to see what is going on in our city. So last Thursday afternoon went up and I don't live near the bluff. I drove up and down ocean and one of the things that I noticed driving up Ocean is that you actually can't see the bluff, so you have to drive down Junipero, get out of your car, walk along and actually take a look. So it was really good seeing the presentation from the vantage point of the bike path in our future pedestrian path. One of the things that I notice is what has been completed looks nice and I can actually envision, as Tom presented, how the growth of the plants are going to drape over and we're going to see something really nice. And then you look as you stand in the Middle East Sea, right, is what's going to be completed on the left that you can see the Shot Creek not completed. And that is what was presented in the paper, in the ad. And it's pretty ugly. And then on the extreme left at the museum, you can see dirt. So somewhere in the middle is I see what is going to be projected. So I would like to move the council to complete the original project because I think that is the most affordable and it's going to be the most time effective as far as getting i t completed. Thank you very much. Thank you, sir. Next speaker. My name is Joe Garver. I live in Belmont Heights and I work on coastal zone management issues. I've worked with the legislative staff and committees on policy, and I more often work with community groups and non nongovernmental organizations on permitting and enforcement issues. I wanted to add a little bit to Tom's history presentation and make some comment about the cost estimates. But first, let me make a couple of observations. Kind of the inconvenient truth. Chocolate is prohibited on coastal bluffs like this, and it's prohibited for a good reason. That concrete cover prohibits native habitation and it prohibits coastal processes. And those those are important policy considerations and why the prohibition on coastal and coastal armoring was included in the Coastal Act. And I'll make this observation that your local coastal plan recommends regrading and revegetation not only for all your coastal bluffs, but specifically for that area of the bluffs. I'll also mention that the progressive engineers, the new trend in engineering is using ecosystem services. An example may be in the Long Beach or near along Los Angeles River. They are tearing out concrete out of the river so that they can use flood plains for natural flood control, create habitat to, you know, quality of life improvement in disadvantaged neighborhoods, and get the same flood control that they get with concrete. This is the way things are going now. Don't get me out of there. So get to the history book. Listening to the community outreach, which I appreciate, and the level of community support for revegetation. It was only when the staff came back at the 11th hour and told the community that somebody at the Coastal Commission had told somebody of city staff that encroaching on the beach or regrade the slope was prohibited. This is ironic, I agree. It is prohibited regrading and encroaching on the beaches clearly allowed. And now we see that. Yeah, you'll have to go get a permanent like in the staff report, but it's not prohibited. So this was a huge mistake. It led to a comedy of errors. This error was repeated in the peer review report. The experts were told not to consider regrading because it was prohibited. But this is the best and fastest solution and. In the. Expense report and I'm running out of time, but there's a lot of overestimation to the expense report and this can be resolved in this project. Woodchipper, if you follow the pattern of what they did in Redondo Beach and solicit the help of NGOs and experts on these projects and get plants and materials that you can get a discount from people that are experienced in this stuff. The budget in Redondo is a fraction of what we're talking about here. Thank you so much. Thank you. Thanks, Michael, please. Hi. My name is Anne Dulcie and I was invited to speak about my experiences at the Beach Bluffs Restoration Project in Redondo Beach. I did go on a Cal State Long Beach graduate and I lived in Long Beach, in fact, on Coronado Street, north of Anaheim Street, way back when. And I got a degree in marine biology and I'm a marine biologist, actually married to a geologist who. Got his degree at Long Beach State and works for Signal Hill. But I'm a resident of. Redondo Beach now, and I am passionate about natural systems beyond the ocean. And that led me to get involved in the Beach Plus Restoration Project, where I served as co-chair. And there we assembled a group of agencies. Cities, county officials, non-profits and also the local citizens. And we assembled a plan. Actually, what we did is we managed to get grants. We had no tidelands money. I mean, your budget is just astounding to me. Kind of makes me drool. Yeah, but we we used about under $100,000 for our project, and we restored the land. We didn't do any amount of vacation. And there are many sections in that area that are very steep. It's flat on top, relatively flat on the bottom, and connected by a very, very steep area. And yes, indeed, that fence goes through. There's big sections in between where you can access the beach and there are some issues. So we've tried to work the plant, but what we did is we utilize. Local native plants to the coastal beach area, not not from inland coastal sage scrub, but the dune plant. And a lot of these plants have deep roots. The annuals tend not to be, but their perennials are deep rooted. They root feed. Yards into the soil. So you don't need to bring in any additional. Fertilizer or. Soil on top. An inch or two is not going to do diddly squat. These plants are designed to live in the harsh conditions of the sandy areas and they handle the salt. Salt bush is an excellent plant with a deep rooting roots, and it grows very well in this bluff, steep bluff situation. And in this area in the summer time, they go dormant. Education is required. We have set up signage to that effect. These plants, as any plants need to be watered for a good year on a regular basis until they become established. And once they're established, they do quite well during a really bad drought like we've had of late. You may want to augment water with them. Our biggest issue with non-natives and that needs to be addressed on an ongoing basis. And we used a nonprofit, LA Conservation Corps to help with that project. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening. City Council Riba Birmingham. I live on the Bluff First Street, so as a member of the CERT team, I'm very concerned about safety. I know that we're overdue for the big earthquake and I do not want my house to end up on the beach. I think that the current plan is fine. I think we're well underway way and to stop at this point and do something that's completely different when this one is completely acceptable and seems to be the least impactful to the the Long Beach family budget is the way to go. So I would really urge the City Council to look a t the work that was done by the staff. I'm glad that the staff has heard people's comments about the native plants and the woman that just spoke had really good points. It can be pretty, it can be safe and it can be affordable. So I would urge the court to please the court, the council, stay the course. Thank you. Thank you, Riva. That's great. The next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. And City Council. My name is Sonya Coffey and I'm a resident of the fourth District. And I'm here tonight representing the Surfrider Foundation. I'm a newly appointed vice chair of the Long Beach chapter. And the chapter as a group here in the city does not support the use of additional short creek for the remaining phases of this project. We do appreciate the staff's presentation and it was helpful to see the imaging of what the project could look like. But we do have some concerns, especially considering the first phase of the project and how the plantings and the irrigation failed in that in that process. And we would be worried with having an additional, additional expanse of concrete here in the city right on our oceanfront, that we would see a similar similar happening, not by any intention of staff or the city maintenance, but it is a concern because the short creek is not anything that promotes or supports a natural habitat. This organization here, we're dedicated to protecting our beaches and the enjoyment of the beaches and ocean for all. And so we would support something that really is more native and more natural. Definitely understanding that there are seismic concerns with the project there, definitely understanding that there are significant costs associated with the bio technical alternatives that were presented. We would ask the City Council considering those to rebuild the project if possible, since the current contractor does not want to work with the Biotechnol alternatives to rebid that project and see if we can get something more cost competitive. Some of the other speakers here presented other options of gaining funding for this projects grant funding the help of different nonprofit groups. Surfrider is here standing, willing and able to help in any way that we can promote a project that is more sustainable to the community as a whole. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name is Roger Trickey. I come here as an industry. Professional in construction and also a resident of Bluff Park. I live at 44 Paloma. Right. And have a view of the park and the construction project from the front of my home. We've been living with this for over a year. It's really very disturbing to me that we stopped the project. When I heard it was happening and saw the plans for doing it. I was very pleased. I thought it was something that was long overdue. Having walked the park every evening prior to this last year, you know, it was just it was disturbing to me to see the disrepair and, you know, one of the most wonderful parks in the whole city really just, you know, deteriorating. And it needed that slope stabilization to really fix it. And I was extremely happy to see that happening. I was very disappointed that the council voted to halt the project and even more disturbed here recently to find out that we have really withered away a tremendous amount of money, you know, waiting to get a solution out there. It disturbs me even further to think that would we wait even longer and spend more money? It. I also want to speak to the nature of a bluff. That bluff stands vertical. Because of the nature of it, it is weakly cemented sands. It's basically weak concrete. We're making it stronger so that it doesn't erode it. Sustainability. I practice that in my own profession. I am a lead LEED accredited professional. We have a practice in our construction group that that is very sustainable and I have a good mind to that. And natural solutions come with what nature provides. Nature provided us with a cemented slope there, and I want to reinforce that. The other thing that's kind of disturbing to me is all of these other solutions. Actually, one of them, I believe, does maintain the the vertical nature of the bluff that's there. But the other to the second by our technical and the regrading really destroy the nature of the bluff. I mean that that is truly the. Historic thing that we have out there. It really wouldn't be a bluff if we start changing the grade of it. So I really strongly urge you to put this project back on track, get it finished as soon as possible. And we're going to be a lot happier. And by the way, great job, staff. The presentation tonight was beautiful. Wonderful job. Thank you very much. Thank you. Thanks, Speaker. Good evening, Mayor. City Council. My name is Kelly Hyman. My husband and I are fairly new residents to Long Beach. We live in Bluff Park on Ocean directly across from this project. Before we moved. In or even made. An offer in our house, I saw. The signs for the Bluff Erosion. Project. I did my due diligence, read it all thoroughly, and my husband and I were in full support. I think somebody mentioned seismically. It's great that we're not going to fall off. And so we were thoroughly supportive of it, but very disappointed to see the project halted. This is not something I like to do. Come and speak in front of people in public, but. I feel very strongly about option one. Let's continue. Let's get it. Back on track. We've been patient because we knew that the project was the right thing for the bluff. And so we've endured, you know, the. Dust, the just the construction noise. I mean, the dust is beyond. I mean, if anybody lives on ocean, you know what I'm talking about. So we are in full support of moving forward with option one. Thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker. You're welcome to Long Beach. Glad you moved here. Good evening. My name is Isaac Waxhaw. And in front of you, you have a seven page packet. And if, uh. If you don't mind, I'd like to go to pa ge five, please. That's at the base of the Junipero ramp down to the beach. And this is a footpath that would be devastating. Absolutely devastating to any graded bluff. This is human nature. They love to take shortcuts. And this is this is an example of it. The proposed bio technical area one is only steps away from this. If we don't learn from this, we're going to do it again. The city has been struggling with footpaths like this forever, for decades. There are big signs like this throughout the bluff and people just ignore it. As you could see, they're walking. Right next to the sign. And again, it's human nature. We can't stop it. I believe that the foot tracks are more devastating than rain or wind. It's going to destroy and probably have destroyed the bluff a lot faster than nature did. And so when you vote. Tonight, I urge you to have this page open in front of you because it may come back. Some of the signs were taken off when when the Shark Week came up. And I hate to see these signs coming back up. If we have a graded slope, which actually doesn't look anything like the historical slope that we had there. In fact, you have a picture of that in there, too. So I'd also like to make a quick comment about the Tidelands Fund. I hear from a lot of people that it doesn't matter how much it cost. It doesn't matter how much waste there is because it's not our taxes. It's the Tidelands Fund. I think we need to have a lot more respect for it. Already we could see the fund eroding. I think that oil is just not going to be there forever or not profitable enough forever. And we have a whole load of very beneficial projects waiting on the sideline, and some of them are just not going to come to fruition because of waste. So I urge you, please finish the job we started. It's a great job. It's going to be covered with flora and vines. It's going. To. Thank you, sir. The time's up, unfortunately. Okay. That's fine. Thank you so much. Thank you very much, sir. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is Sasha Witty. And with a3214 East Second Street. Where to start? Regarding the bluff. I began going to community meetings with Parks and Rec and city staff years ago as plans were being made for the bluff improvements. I sat through more meetings at Bixby Parks Rec Room, going over, planting options and providing feedback. Then I can mentally count. There was talk of one or two small areas that would need chocolate. I'm sorry. It was a big pet project of mine when I was. Working in the neighborhood the last. Ten years. No one was particularly excited by this, but we were excited. It was limited in smoke and scope and focused with the Parks and Rec staff and all the natural plans that were to be incorporated to stem erosion and create beauty. Funding was an issue, so we awaited our turn for Tidelands funding. I was one of many that was very excited as the city finally broke ground. Then after a few weeks, I started getting phone calls, concern, phone calls and e mails asking if I had gone down to see what was happening at the bluff. I could not have been more surprised and shocked when I did make it past the work fences. I am saddened to have spent so much personal time trying to be a part of something positive and then in the end result feeling it didn't much matter. All those discussions that were had between the community and city staff over all those years. My personal desire is that the city honor the original intentions and plans to provide primarily natural landscaping and to avoid these vast expanses of concrete, painted. And sculpted. To try and mimic natural rock. My second desire is that the city consider the importance of communication to a community. If in the end there were changes that were essential and unavoidable, much sadness and drama could have been avoided if the city staff would have come back to the community to go over the changes prior to breaking ground. I would ask for that level of clear communication to all neighborhoods being impacted in the future prior to breaking ground. It is important that all those who do their best to participate in making a positive difference by attending community workshops and planning sessions do not feel that they have wasted their time, but instead feel empowered to participate once again. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Wendy Hahn. I live at three, two, one four East Second Street in Long Beach. I support a natural bluff. I am opposed to a cement bluff. You might ask, how did we get here? And Why am I standing before you tonight? Over the past 25 years, residents of Bluff Park, myself included, bordering neighborhoods and concerned citizens, worked diligently with our elected council representatives and city staff to design and fund a comprehensive plan for the rehabilitation of the bluff. After dozens of meetings and numerous proposals over those 25 years with city staff and numerous expert consultants hired by the city, we move forward with several pilot planning projects, and after a great deal of compromise, it was with great pride that our community believed the hard work was done and a sound proposal approved. We all took a collective sigh of relief. We now know we should have maintained a watchful and vigilant eye on this most significant city project involving one of our most precious assets, the bluff. The consequences of this lapse in oversight are well known to all here. It was the recent large scale cementing of the bluff. How could this have happened, you say? I cannot say with certainty. The contributing factors are certainly the retirement or departure of city staff that worked on this project for many, many years, coupled with an apparent loss of many of the historical bluff documents, plans and agreements. I am truly amazed at the lack of project management that allowed this to happen. Add to that the concurrent rehabilitation of Bluff Park, a seemingly never ending dusty eyesore. And you have a community that i s outraged that such a debacle could occur in our front yard. So what do we do now? We know that there are those that believe cementing the bluff is the only viable engineering solution. Cementing the bluff is the cheapest, most expedient solution. And even at cementing the bluff is the most esthetically pleasing solution. In other words, since the cementing. Is so far along and funds have been spent, let the city finish their job. Sorry, folks. I believe nature trumps cement every time. I believe there are affordable environmental alternatives to cementing. In fact, I know there are. I've worked on the Bluff Rehabilitation Project for many years now and have met with numerous experts hired by the city and none ever advocated massive shot creating. This is never come up in the past. I ask you if cementing was the best solution, why was it never presented as an option during all those years of meeting and planning? I opposed cementing the bluff. I support honoring agreements. I believe that a vibrant, healthy, stable and beautiful natural bluff is the one and only solution. I believe that we can and must do this. We all deserve so much better than a cement bluff. The bluff. Our bluff is a precious gem that all of us are charged with protecting and preserving. Thank you so much. We can do this. Let's do it right. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Thank you. My name is Alex Monte. I live in Bluff Park on First Street. And as most of you will agree, we live near one of the uglier bluffs in Southern California or beyond. And it's not for lack of trying. Over the last few years, over the last many years, many techniques have been used shoring walls, Gambians plastic, netting and vegetation, and more recently, soil, nails and shot create. We put in steep slopes and not so steep slopes whose vegetation has been trampled by walkers, a smorgasbord or more precisely, a showroom of bluff remediation techniques for other communities to learn from. In all this. Where is the master plan? What is our entire bluff going to look like 20 years from now? We've seen what it looked like about 100 years ago and the package that Mr. Watson left for you. There is an aerial shot from 1927 that shows what the bluff actually looked like at that point. It's a uniformly vertical wall across its entire length, not unlike the short creek sections that have been recently put up. Not a gently sloping grassy field, not an array of rare flowers, so that some would request in a recent grunion ad but a vertical wall what it had apparently been for the past 100 million years, including when it was an underwater shelf. And since we are in a historic district. Should we not look for historical accuracy? Honorable Council Members, Please do not allow yourself to be influenced by politically well-connected individuals into spending funds that we do not have and will not have with $50 a barrel oil. Please complete the existing funded project. Thank you. Thank you. Nex t speaker, please. And before I'm going to cut out the speaker's list, no one else is in line. Mr. Good here. You see, you're the last in line. I will cut off the speaker's list. Please. Good evening, Mayor. City Council. My name is Gordon and Cage. I live at 235 Loma Avenue. I have the dubious honor of presenting former City Councilman Gary DeLong photographs of what was happening along the Bluff Park Bluffs in April. And it was with his amazement at those photos that led to the work stoppage and pause. That led to a peer review, that led to. An identification of alternatives that you're considering this evening. And I'd like to start by saying, please consider any alternative except Short Creek. It's real simple. And I believe it's very important for you to consider this because it's a community park. And honestly, I believe that the folks in Bluff Park have been most significantly impacted. But it is a community resource of urban open space and access to nature that many people in our city rely on, and we have an opportunity to restore it. How often in this presentation did you talk or hear about restoration? Did anybody hear restoration from our city staff this evening? This is an erosion control project. This is stabilization. But it's not. With all due respect, and I would like to thank the new third district city councilwoman for her time, for her efforts, for her interest in this project. I genuinely thank you. You've made access to you and your staff. Incredible. And. We've had incredibly helpful city staff in this process of information, communication and exchange. Thank you to all of you. It doesn't change the fact that we have a wall of concrete that no one expected and we can fix it. So I'd like to say that Tidelands Funds got us into this mess, and Tidelands funds should be used to get us out. We have the money. It is available. It's set aside for other projects. And last time I checked, we don't have a new leeway sailing center yet. We don't have a new pool yet. We don't have a new pier. No construction has started. This is in the midst of an erosion control project. That should be a restoration and we can do it. I have committed to Susie Price that there are alternative funding sources in the nonprofit world that could be used to augment a possible shortfall of funding for this project. I have friends there sitting in this audience this evening who would be willing to plan and foster a restoration, a community effort that doesn't need shot crit, that doesn't need geotechnical angles and millions of dollars you've heard from and donkey from Redondo Beach. She knows how to do this. Other communities don't have millions of tidelands. Thank you so much. And thank you. Please vote for something other than chocolate. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name is Alan Ross. I live on First Street in the bluff. In my line of work, we have a common aphorism better is the enemy of good. You do a good job and you think you can tweak it a l ittle bit and suddenly you wish you hadn't. You folks and your predecessors for 15 years have done a very good job, just the sort of thing that we would hope for from our elected officials. You saw the problem. You gathered the resources. You called in experts. You listen to the experts, and you did what they told you to do. Earlier in the year, there was a question. You put a moratorium in, you called in your experts again, did we do the right thing? And I was here and they said, yes, you did. You did the right thing, perfect for restoring the bluff. Now you just need to have the political will to finish it. You've done everything right. You've done a very good job. And now we're told we can make it a little better. It's a very good job. That you've done for 15. Years. You just need to finish what you started. Don't spend any more money. Don't spend any more time. It's fine. Thank you. Thank you. Speaker Mr. Mayor. Council Persons I'd like to speak in favor of the first option of the plans, the ones that the staff has prepared. I'm sorry I didn't stay where I live. I live 25, 34, East First Street, a block from this bluff. I walk on the top of the bluff. I bike under the bluff. The bluff is part of my neighborhood. So anyway, I would like to speak in favor. Then I was like to speak in favor of my neighbors. You notice how many of us are here? We play together, we socialize together, we work together, we problem solve together. And obviously some of the people who have worked extremely hard at this feel that they have been led down the primrose path because the communications have not been good. So I would suggest that I'm in favor of this and I'm also in favor of the council looking at what really happened here, that the communication got so bad with the neighborhood that it didn't get resolved in the neighborhood, in a neighborhood that hangs together and has meetings together and really works together to try and solve problems so that we don't have this kind of division in the neighborhood. Thank you. Thank you, sir. And our last speaker. Very good. You click as the addressed shot. There's a but but ugly is the only way to put it. Period is about as inappropriate as the design for the City Hall. No imagination of I'd like to have it all flowers, but obviously that's that can't happen. But I've got a couple of suggestions that I've toyed around with. One. Well, I've always felt is wherever possible I would plant poison ivy all over the place. I'm absolutely serious to keep the element out. The trash is what? Well, for in there, period. And I think we put up signs and to the extent we can grow poison ivy, which is nice and green or even poison sumac, put it there. All right. I'm very serious on that. Also, take a section of it and consider using it as a rock wall. Work with those people that go into the rock climbing business. That's not me. I'm not that. But set off a section. It's a natural for it. And rocks are? I believe not. They're not exp ensive bringing in and they're easily, easily transported in and create a natural. You know, you go out into out into Yellowstone or any other place are tons and tons and tons of rocks people climb all over. Let's take a look at that. And then I would I would surround the poison ivy with window boxes with nice plantings over. But the attempt to plant them on the actual bluff itself, I, I think is a losing proposition. That's pretty simple. Again, nice and green with poison ivy line with window boxes and a section that would have boulders and work with the the those that are in the business of rock climbing to make it a nice athletic experience. Thanks. Thank you. Thank you for public comment. Thank you. All those that came out and spoke. I'm going to turn this over to Councilwoman Price. Thank you. And I think we have a presentation, so hopefully it'll get cued up at some point. And while we're waiting for that, I, too, want to thank everybody who came out. I am going to address it in one of the slides that I prepared, that your community is really a unique community in terms of the relationships that you all have with one another except for this issue. This issue has been an extremely contentious issue, and it has literally torn apart this community. And I'm going to tell you right now, we're all human and sometimes we do things we don't realize we're doing it. I've had judges tell me that in court, but sometimes when you're listening to someone and you disagree with them, you know, there's an eye roll or a snicker to your friend. And a lot of that has been going on and it's been going on not just tonight, but for a while now. When this topic comes up and it really curtails meaningful communication. I'm going to talk a little bit about this this process. I came to your bluff part community meeting, I believe it was in April, I think I don't remember it was Gary's last meeting with you guys. And it was a very heated meeting. Very heated. And people were yelling at him. I remember it was shortly after I'd been elected and I remember thinking, I think I may have changed my mind. Who do I talk to about this? But I do remember at one point, you know, someone yelled at him, you know, we pay your salary. You, you, we we deserve to have you be on top of these issues. I just want you guys to know that I calculated the number of hours that I've put into the Bluff Park issue, preparing for tonight just over the last two weeks. And you've paid me a salary of $6.75 an hour because there's a lot of work. And so I just I say that to you because I want regardless of how the vote turns out tonight, I'd like a little grace from you. And because it is an emotional issue and even tonight, you know, I received an email that was just very upsetting to me because when we spend time with you, I've met with every single person who's asked to meet with me except Isaac. Sorry, I couldn't squeeze it in, but every single person I've met with you as many times as you've want ed to meet with me. Just because we disagree on an item doesn't mean that I'm a bad person or that you. You know, it just honestly, we just we have to get over that because that's what's been dividing your community. So I'm going to address that in a moment. But all right. So the staff really covered a lot of this, but I just wanted to talk just a little bit about where we've been. So tonight's we've heard their staff recommendation. We got the Kleinfeld analysis in November, the memo from the city manager and in November. As well. Peer review report was in June. We all read that the memo from the city manager in May prior to me taking office and what we have reviewed, what I've reviewed in preparation for tonight. So I'm listing for you every single thing that I've read word for word. I've received over 300 emails from residents just since last week on this issue three that I will tell you right now, of all the issues that we have addressed in the last six months, this has been the issue that I have received the most feedback on. And I don't know why that is. I don't know if there was like an email campaigns going on or an ad and I don't know what was going on, but we received a lot of emails and we did our own survey through the third district. And let me just you know, it's it's astonishing to me that you would attempt to do outreach and then get criticism, because we've had people say, well, is that a true survey technique? It looked like it was weighted. And what kind of a who put that survey together? It is an opportunity and an effort by our office to reach out to people. And what I would like to do is really encourage you guys, I'm going to put some information on here for anyone who's watching at home. We put it we sent a survey out to about a thousand people. We started creating our own email lists in July when I took office. So we have about a thousand emails. We didn't reach out to everyone because we don't have everyone's email address, but we also put it on Facebook. We have about a thousand followers there. We tried to educate the people the best that we could. We sent an email to every association president and the third and asked them to forward the staff report. And we were able to get a lot of great feedback. I got, you know, some criticism from people saying, you know, well, did you have an expert put together the survey? No, I didn't. I'm a councilwoman who's your neighbor. And I'm trying to say, what do you think about this? It's really that simple. It's not a statistical analysis. It's public outreach. I've gone on multiple walks prior to being elected and after being in office with interested folks who wanted to show me and point out areas of the bluff. We've held a community meeting at the field office to talk about the different alternatives in the staff report. I met with and city staff has also met with bio technical or regrading proponents on multiple occasions beginning in August. Until last weekend who met with pro ponents of continuing the work since last week. Those folks have really come out. The ones who want the project to continue. I've had in-person and phone conferences with experts in this field who live in our community, not necessarily in Bluff Park, but throughout the community. It's a very contentious issue. The process began in the late nineties and the master plan was issued in 2000. Community meetings were held at that time. In 2009 and ten, full geotechnical investigation was prepared and soil nails and shot crit were recommended. In 2010, Council approved the use of soil nails and Shot Creek. Plans and specifications were approved by council in July of 2013 prior to me taking office. The process went through multiple entities. Coastal was involved. Zoning Administrator, City Council. Phase one was completed in 2011. City Staff and Councilman DeLong walked along the Bluff Bluff at that time and discussed landscaping. Presentation of Phase two was made to the Parks and Rec Commission in 2012, prior to Phase two being completed. That was completed in 2014. Where we are today, we entered into a contract with Drill TEC, which is the company that administered and implemented the shot create in 2013. We stopped the project midway in April of 2014. The company had to demobilize at a cost of roughly $80,000 and to mobilize. We will have to pay the company in excess of $150,000. Is that correct, Mr. Modica. Mr. Lopez. We can fact check that. But I think it's roughly in the 150 range. Of the 80,000, you're correct, is the original estimate that we had from our from the DeLay memo. I think we've calculated that, as you put it. And together, I think the the regional mobilization and demobilization together is about $420,000. So that is the cost of setting the project. So for anyone who doesn't like the outcome of tonight, the one thing you can walk away with is the city spent $400,000 to study the option I wanted them to study or we wanted them to study. Failure to honor our contract with drill tech will result in financial consequences. The costs will be near the original contract amount, which is over $4 million. The cost of canceling this contract. We have limited, realistic options. You know, when you take office, one of my colleagues here, I won't say the person's name has said to me multiple times, you don't just you can't hit reset every time there's a new council person in office. And that's true, because when we start a project, when we start a program, when we make changes to our staffing model based on whatever decision was made prior to us, and we come in and we want to unwind that, certainly we can do that. But there are financial and legal consequences to doing that. It's not as simple as just saying, what's the best thing? What do we want to do? Forget all the consequences. Let's just do what we believe. The best thing is there are legal consequences and financial consequences, and this is an example of that situation. We're in a positio n where we need to be extremely mindful of the costs that we approve. As a council, we are going into deficit years. Our oil revenues are down. Every single dollar we spend has to be justified. Every single dollar. That is our reality as a city. It absolutely is a reality as a city. We've heard arguments. You know, sometimes people think, you know, when you're an elected official, you have no emotions or response to things. That's not true. One of the things I've heard repeatedly is, you know well where her priorities are messed up because she's approving a pool and building the Naples seawalls and not spending the money on this project. Well, you know, personally, I don't believe that that's a very responsible argument, because you can make an argument at any time for whatever it is you feel passionate about. Let's say, for example, in a household, you could make the argument up. There's nothing more important in a household than the home that you live in. We should we should live in the best home that we can. That is absolutely something we should not sacrifice on or education. The education and the amount of money we spend on our children should be the utmost important, highest priority. We should spend our money on education. Well, you can make that passionate plea for just about anything. But the reality of life is you have to look at the totality of the situation and consider it all as a package. Naples Sea walls and the pool are completely unrelated to the bluff. With Naples seawalls, we have some safety concerns. Are we going to delay the Naples seawalls to pursue an alternative that has already that? And I'm going to address it in a moment. Would it make sense for us to do that? It would not. The pool is not being built, and it won't be built until we have money. And I don't know when that's going to be. But it's not like we are going to take money away from the bluff to build the pool. Money for the bluff has been allocated. A lot of money has been allocated for the bluff. When you look at Tidelands projects, a lot of money has been allocated for bluff restoration and now some are arguing it's not enough money. Our options are continue the shot create project that would result in us not breaching our contract with Drill Tech. We'll be able to come up with the money to do it now. Some of you may be taking that for granted. You know, let's just go with option one. It's not going to cost us any money. That's not true. We still have to come up with the 1.3 million or whatever it is because we hadn't anticipated. The amount of money that we were going to lose as a result of the study. And that's just a reality. And so we're going to have to come up with 1.3 million or somewhere around that number to fund this this project. And I think I think we might be able to do it, but that money is not just sitting there right now. We're going to be able to scrape it together. I think maybe we will have a consistent look along that portion of the block.

That's been something that's been raised by a lot of folks. Is that the shot create, if it's completed, will be more consistent than a patchwork of different applications. We can speed up. Oh, and we can spend any future money that we have on enhancing the vegetation, which I think is a really, really important, valid point. I'll just be the first to say that our city and most municipalities that I've been involved in, having worked for multiple municipalities as a city attorney, maintenance is not always the strong suit of city governments. And that's just the reality, because projects and creating new projects is always the priority. So maintenance is an I'm I'm concern. My biggest concern is what are we going to do about the vegetation and how are we going to make sure that we have thriving plants in that area? What's the city's plan for that? That's that's my biggest concern with this project. The project would finish in 2015. We can implement one of the two bio technical alternatives. That would require us to breach our contract. So we have the financial penalties. We'd have to come up with an additional 3 million to 6 million to complete the project, depending on which of the two alternatives we pick. Construction would begin in 2015, and there are some risks associated with these two options. And I'm going to I'm going to cite from the report and a couple of slides, but the stability is not guaranteed of either of those two projects. The third option is to consider the feasibility study, the cost and feasibility of the regrading option. We'll need to breach our contract. We'll need to figure out how to come up with the additional 4 million. The project wouldn't start until 2016 or 17 and we'd have to be okay extending the toe of the bluff or taking away from the. Beach. To regrade because we absolutely do not want to take away from the park. I mean, that is one thing that I've heard repeatedly, and it's something that's been echoed for years now, for over a decade. What are people saying? And by the way, we had a lot of responses to our survey. I'll tell you that number right now, unless it was already in there, overwhelmingly, people want it to continue with the Shock Creek project. I'll give you that number in just a moment. Over 120, I think, responses we received. Some have said the look of the shot, Crete is ugly. Some have said it is a completely subjective call. It is a completely subjective call. There are people in this room who thinks that it looks better. I see some head shaking, but I will tell you that there are people who have said it looks better and there are people who have said they don't like it. It's a completely subjective call. This is photos of it for those who haven't been out there. This is just from yesterday. One of the biggest arguments that we've heard and that I've talked to experts about is the stability. The shot create is the only application. The only application designed to provide long term stability an d erosion control that we have received expert analysis on. And this is so that in the event of an earthquake or changes due to sea level rise, we would have some stability there. We do assume some risks with all three of the other options. In fact, on page ten of the Kleinfeld report, it says, Without successful vegetation on the slope, erosion and superficial instability will continue. Hence, bio technical options hold greater risk for future instability than does the designed shot create slope. I think the decision in regards to what the best option is requires a review of the totality of the facts and circumstances that we have and based on the totality of the information that we have. I think the only reasonable and prudent alternative is option one, which is to complete the original project. So I will be supporting staff's recommendation. As I said, you know, this is. You know, how this process unfolded was not the best example of the city's efforts to conduct public outreach. They really I mean, I don't I don't want to criticize anyone that came before me because certainly I'm going to make many mistakes as well. And I don't really think it had to do with the with the the electeds or the staff. It was just the outreach process. I think that some people that I respect a lot who spoke tonight spoke clearly when they talked about how hurtful and painful it is. When you feel like you've been part of a process and really you feel like you were ignored. That's that's huge. And I want to talk about that because my commitment to each and every one of you is that we will talk about projects before they become a reality. We just last week, my staff and I and the city staff went on a walk through with Naples residents, and we went by every single tree that's being removed and talked about why that tree is being removed. And some trees had been removed prior to our getting there and the residents really wanted to know what was going on. And when we went there and we realized what the seawall plan was, those trees could not remain. And it was clear to everyone because we were all in it together. We were all learning together, side by side, what our limitations were. And that should have happened here. People feel that their concerns were ignored. And this has been a very contentious issue in the Bluff Park community. And I think that some people it's such an emotionally charged issue may have not been very respectful and emails and things. And I would hope that you guys would work together to make that right going forward. One of your residents told me yesterday, I asked her to tell me what it is that she loved about Bluff Park. Should I love Bluff Park for the diversity of residents, the incredible variety of historic architectural styles, the wide open expanse of the big sky. When you stand and look from the bluff, the small town feeling in the midst of a big metropolis, the proximity to wonderful and unique shopping and dining, the feeling of san d between my toes just steps away from my home and the ability to watch the sunset over the ocean while watching the Pelicans feed in the early evening. That is Bluff Park. And I hope that whether you agree with this decision that we're going to make tonight or that you don't you at least respect the time that we put into it and know that you're you're our office is always open and available to listen to you, and we will always meaningfully consider your options. So with that, I would make a motion to accept staff's recommendation. There's been a motion and second to accept steps. Recommendation. Councilman Mongo. I want to thank you all for being here tonight, but I also want to thank Councilwoman Price for first grossly overestimating her salary over the last two weeks. I have seen Councilwoman Price at community events, charity events, at least a few hours of singing in the boat parade together. Agenda Prep for today calls with colleagues on a myriad of issues, including standing water, lack of drainage, sober living homes, business licenses. And as you may have noticed, there's another 15 items left on the agenda which we haven't gotten to today. Thank you. For those of you who are out from my district who are still waiting patiently and being a part of this important process. The due diligence done on this has been exceptional. Thank you to the city staff for going through every single option. And you have my support tonight. Councilman Andrews. Yes. Thank you very much. I've been certainly listening this also. And I would just like to say for my Councilwoman Price. I know the efforts and energies put into this because she was left with quite a task, you know, and Jerry left. But I think she's done everything that was possible to try to please individuals. And I do not have to be any as long as I know you can't please everyone. But I think that her heart and soul is in everything she does for district. And I would like to commend you on the things that you're doing and keep up the good work. Thank you. Thank you, Mayor. We're going to we're going to go and go to a vote. I want to make a comment and then we're going to go to the vote. I want to just first start by thanking Councilwoman Pryce. I think that was a well-organized and thoughtful presentation. I've seen firsthand the amount of work that the councilwoman is putting into this job. It is she is everywhere, continuously working, meeting with residents, listening. I think her her experience as an attorney is serving the council and the community well. Also, I also want to thank city staff. I think you guys have done a fantastic job from Eric Lopez, Tom Modica. The whole team have done a great a great job on this project. And I want to say also, as someone that was here when the initial project came forward, stopping a project midway is very, very rare. In fact, I don't know that since I've been on the council we had ever done that. And I think that we did it because certainly there was a councilmember DeLong came forward with some suggestions, there was community concern, but I think it showed the due diligence of staff and the council to go through this process. We made an investment to ensure that we would come up with a solution that would be the right solution for the community. And so I want to thank staff for for doing and going back and doing the research and the additional work that it took because that is a very unique moment that we had, I think, as a city council. But like Councilwoman said, we came back. We're at this moment now and it just reinforces, I think, the work and staff's work up to this point. And so I want to thank you again, councilwoman and councilman, pressure on make an additional comment. I did. I just wanted to say that the survey that we did, we had 71, I think we had 123 or something to that effect, and 71% favored completing their original project. So okay with that, thank you. And let's go and go to the vote. Motion carries six zero. Thank you. And I want to thank all everyone that came out today. Thank you all for coming down. I know it's it's always difficult to come out to council meetings, but we appreciate your your voice and your input. Madam Clerk, next item. Hearing number one North required report from Public Works Recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the public hearing. Find that the area to be vacated is not needed for present or prospective public use and adopt a resolution ordering the vacation of the remaining portion of this third street, located west of Jackson Avenue. I remember 2010 report from Financial Management. Recommendation to Award a contract to Apple one Employment Services for temporary staffing services for a total annual amount not to exceed 2,750,000 citywide if. Emotion in a second. Any public comment? Not somber. Austin. Just wanted to kind of deal with the issue a little bit. Had a question regarding the the history of using temp services here in city hall. Is this this this annual amount of $2.5 million. Consistent with what we have done over in past years? It's exactly what we've done. I'll turn it over to Jason McDonald if he has anything more to add. No, nothing else to add in, Councilmember. That's consistent. And actually it represents a cost savings in the from the current contract period, we actually had a reduction of the charges from the temp services agency. So that actually represents a straightforward no no additional expenses from the previous period. And can you just just elaborate on what type of services are these temp services, this contract, what will it will provide for us. That these services are used citywide to fulfill requirements for clerical. Support on a temporary basis by. Providing support for positions temporarily vacant due to promotions, retirements, resignations. And are they paid salaries of normal city employees? The salaries are based on the non-career positions. Okay. Thank you. It se ems like a pretty, pretty robust amount for for this type of contract. I'll support it, but we'll be watching it in the future. A public comment. Oh, we did that already. I'm sorry. Seeing none. Please cast your votes. Russian k60. 23 Item number 23 Report from Human Resources Recommendation to execute an agreement with Voya for health care specific stop loss reinsurance coverage citywide. Item number 21 Report from Financial Management. Recommendation to Award a contract to Michael Palmeri to provide civic center financial consultant services for a total not to exceed 495,000 district to. Get a motion. Of. Any public comment saying non please cast your vote. Oh I'm actually contributing. I want to make a comment. The only concern I might have with this is that it's a sole proprietorship. What does that mean in regards to this contract? It means that council member, that this is just a single person. This was a bid contract. He was Mr. Palmieri was one of. Eight people who bid. He was he was not the only sole proprietorship. So does that mean that if something were to happen to this individual, we'd be. Well. If something happened to this individual, we would simply go out and select another consultant. I don't think that would be an issue to ask. Thank you. Okay then no public comment. Please cast your vote. Councilwoman Pryce. Bush and Kerry. Six zero. Please. I remember 2010 report from Financial Management. Recommendation to Award a contract to Apple one Employment Services for temporary staffing services for a total annual amount not to exceed 2,750,000 citywide if. Item three is communication from Mayor Robert Garcia recommendation. Recommendation to confirm Charter Commission's appointment. Okay. There's a motion by Councilmember Richardson and seconded by Councilwoman Gonzalez. These are charter appointments. So I'm going to actually begin by turn this over to Councilmember Al Austin. Thank you, Mr. Garcia. The civil service personnel, the Civil Service Committee met earlier today and made the recommendations to accept the Charter Commission appointments reappointment of Marc Christopher to the Planning Commission and the appointment of Gloria Cordero to the Water Commission. I move to adopt the accepted recommendations of the committee. Okay. We're going to we're going to because the chair of the committee usually makes that motion. If we can clear the two motions on the floor. And we're going to have Councilmember Lawson, if you can. Once the clerk clears those motions. So moved and then seconded by Councilman Richardson. I'm going to ask both. Are the nominees just for stand will briefly stand in the audience. I just want to say a few comments. Thank you. This is we have in front of us, of course, our nominee for appointment to the Water Board of Commissioners, Gloria Cordero, and a reappointment for Mr. Marcus Stoffels to the Planning Commission. I wanted to thank you on behalf of the Council both for serving. These are two obviously very critical charter committees that the city looks to for one or two, really lead our water agency, which is incredibly important. As you know, Gloria. And you and I have had some great conversations about kind of your vision and the way you view that agency and its and its role. And so I look forward to having you serve. And to Mr. Christophe, as you have gained nothing but a lot of support from those that have already watched you on the planning commission, you know, everyone from staff to other commissioners to the community is supportive of the work you've done. And for those of you that don't know, Mark worked here at the city for a very long time as our head engineer here at the city of Long Beach. And so Mark brings great experience from the city and obviously experience as a as a commissioner and his current work in doing a lot of other agency projects around the region. And so thank you both for serving. And if there's any message any. Oh, great. Here I have a comment from Councilwoman Gonzalez. I just want to say congratulations to you both. I know I've worked with both of you, both Mark at the city and then Gloria on many different projects. So congratulations. Okay. And is there any public comment on this item? Seeing none. Please go ahead and cast your votes. Bush and Kerry seven zero. Great. Thank you very much. Now moving on to item number four. Thank you. Thank you. Members. Item 17. Item 17. Communication from City Attorney. Recommendation to declare ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code relating to the City Attorney Settlement Authority. Read the first time and lead over to the next regular meeting of the City Council for Final Reading Citywide. The city to. Vice mayor, members of the council. Thank you. This this item before you this evening will increase the authority for the city attorney's office to resolve matters from $5000 to $50000 to any single person, firm or corporation. It will make it consistent with the city attorney's current authority for matters involving worker's compensation. The $5,000 limit has been in place since 1970, and we believe in working with the EDI and F committee that we will be providing them semiannual reports on any and all settlements that our office uses under this authority. So I ask for your consideration and support of this item. Thank you, Mr. City. Attorney. The motion was made by Councilmember Urunga and seconded by Councilwoman Mungo. Is there any member of the public that wished to address the Council on Item 17? Seeing None members cast your vote. Motion carries eight zero. Councilman Austin. Motion carries seven zero. Item six recommendation to receive and file report from the Long Beach City Prosecutor's Office on the Johns Exposed program. Mr. Roberts, I'm sorry. Councilmember Richardson, thank you. So in conversations with our city prosecutor, Doug Halbert, over the you know, in the in recent months, about a number of our key initiatives that are taking place around human trafficking, I learned of a very interesting program that he's brought forward and that I would I wanted to provide the opportunity for our city prosecutor to help inform the council about the Johns exposed programs. So that said, I'll turn it over to our city prosecutor. Well, thank you. Quick report on the Johns Exposed program. I sent a memo to the city council in late October explaining how my office is going to join some other prosecuting agencies in publishing the the pictures and the names and the charges of defendants who have been convicted of crimes related to prostitution, the so-called johns. The reason that our office started to do this is along the lines of other discussion tonight, it's generally realized that human trafficking obviously exists because there is a great deal of demand for it. In fact, the United Nations Office on Drug and Crime estimates that the total market value of human trafficking is $32 billion per year worldwide . In order to help law enforcement and other agencies trying to stem the demand. We've decided to take the step of making it public when people are arrested, charged and actually convicted of the crime of prostitution. The charges for human trafficking are very severe. 15 years in jail for human trafficking. 8 to 6 years for pimping the charges. Most charges, though, most cases don't result in those serious charges. They're misdemeanor prostitution cases, even aiding and abetting a prostitute, which in many times we realize is someone who may be a pimp. That case is handled as a misdemeanor because there's not enough evidence to file felony charges by actually exposing these people and putting their face in their name and open them up. Opening them up to public inspection, I think will hopefully help over a long period of time reduce the number of people who are actively seeking sex for for money. The idea of posting the names, I have to say, did not originate with my office. There were a number of volunteers with the human chain human trafficking task force that came to us. The police department also made some very good suggestions and sometime in early November we started posting them on our website and they are in fact posted on our website right now. We're going to continue to do it over the course of the year as more and more convictions are secured. And I just wanted to mention this. This is just one of many, many things happening. I do not pretend that this is going to change prostitution in our town overnight. I think this is one of 100 things the city is doing, that the city council is doing, that the police department is doing, that the community is doing that hopefully will show and bring awareness to this problem. When when a person engages in prostitution on the on the buyer side, they are quite often doing business with criminal street gangs. They are quite often putting themselves in harm's way. There are many examples of very serious crimes that result as as these crimes unfold.

So there are serious consequences. One more consequence is the publishing and posting of a name and a case number and a conviction charge and conviction date. The last thing I would add is that we do not make. We do not post information for subjects who are simply arrested or who simply have charges filed. We do it upon the conviction. So we make sure that either a jury has found the person guilty or they have admitted guilt in a court of law. The conviction is a public record. We do not want to invade the privacy of people who are charged, but once they are convicted, we do want to make that known to the public. And if there are any questions, I would be happy to answer them. But I want to thank on behalf of my office the support we've received from the police department, the city council and city staff in our efforts. And we join you in your efforts to reduce human trafficking. Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Halbert. There's been a motion and a second by Councilmember Richardson and Councilman Austin. So any member of the public that wishes to address this council on item six. Please come forward and state your name. Thank you. After new council members and a vice mayor. My name is Ginetta McAlpin. I reside in the First District, and because I have a tendency to cut to the chase, because I work with gangs in Long Beach for a long time. I'm going to speak as a resident of Long Beach. Although. Thank you for everything that the task force does. I want to commend you for taking this step forward to attack the demand side of human and domestic trafficking of our minors for prostitution, and to request that your next recommendation include changing the verbiage. From John's to statutory rapist. So that the punishment. Fits the crime. And I thank you all for your support of our children and Long Beach. Thank you. Thank you. DENNISTON I'm a little disheartened and perhaps ignorant at the points that were discussed, but I always enjoyed. Mr. Good you and on occasion on occasion he had some few as. Some salient points of interest, if not all the time, through high rise to a point of order. Because I've heard human trafficking mentioned more than five times, and that's what he was talking about, particularly relevant late massage parlors, which plays the dominant role. So perhaps we can give you a chance to discuss human trafficking, in particular the subject at hand. Thank you, Mr. Dunn. Seeing no further public comment. Members, cast your vote. Motion carries seven zero. Item. Item seven. Item number 15 Report from Police Recommendation to receive and file the application of Supermax for an ABC license. 4709 through 4711 East Second Street, District three. I'm going to turn this over to Councilwoman Price. Thank you, Mayor. I'd like to. I'm going to have a few comments, but I'd like to make a motion to approve this item. Thank you. And I would ask that the conditions we've just filed presented some brand new conditions that were just updated about an hour a go. And council members should have a copy of that. So these are the new conditions that we would be proposing for this particular item. And I'd like to note that at the request of several constituents that I spoke with, I've added number 16 with the hope and recommendation that ABC will consider this condition as one of the conditions that will remain on this license should the license be issued, and it said upon sale or transfer of the license, the conditions included herein will be subject to review and possible modification of operating hours and specific conditions of alcohol sales. Having said that, I want to thank the Long Beach Police Department for their report. It's my understanding that they're recommending recommending approval of this of this item and recommend recommending that Supermax be granted their Type 47 license. I want to note at the outset that Supermax is a long standing, positive, contributing business partner to the city of Long Beach and specifically to the third District. I want to thank the owners, operators and managers of the business for being responsible corporate citizens and for taking care of our community and specifically the residents and visitors of the shore. I want them to know that we have had a major outpouring of support from people who frequent the restaurant, who appreciate the efforts made by the ownership and management of Supermax to be involved in the community and to contribute in a positive way. And I also want them to know, as they know from operating in the shore, that there are a lot of concerns in the shore, obviously, about making sure that the shore does not become the type of district where we have too many bars or too many people that are not respecting the incredible balance that we try to maintain there between residents and businesses. So it is very important and I know Supermax understands this, that they adhere to that to the strictest standards in terms of their privilege to be able to sell liquor at that location and that that be a responsible commitment that they undertake. And I know that they will take that commitment seriously and they will pay specific attention to two potential concerns, like overpowering or encouraging irresponsible behavior. So having said that, I have no doubt that Supermax is going to be completely responsible with the license that they receive. They've been in the shore since 1990. They have three locations with type 47 licenses, 14 locations total. The restaurant was established in 1974 and by all accounts is a thriving restaurant that whose primary focus is serving food. They have had minimal de minimis, as what we call it in the legal world, calls for service from the Long Beach Police Department. And we understand that the police department is recommending approval and support of this application based on their investigation, even including their remeasurement today or I think yesterday showing that there were four residents within 100 feet. With a ll of that, it'll be my recommendation to approve this item and request that ABC impose the conditions that we believe are reasonable based on this business and their placement in the shore. Great. Thank you. There's a motion in a second by Councilmember Richardson. Did you want to comment? Councilman Richardson? Nope. Okay. We'll go to public comment. Any public comment on the item? Saying Yes, please come forward. Two extra time seemed hardly necessary. My name is William Holtz, was born in Long Beach. No disrespect to community hospital, but I was born at Broadway and Cherry at the Hermon Jones Clinic. I moved to Belmont Shore when I entered grad school at Cal State Long Beach in 1968, and have lived in the shore ever since, except for two years when when my wife and I purchased a home up by Eldorado Park. We loved the area. We moved back to the shore because of all the amenities. And also I loved the weather there. I was in my current home when Super Max first opened on Second Street Live and they've always been a good neighbor and acted responsibly. And I've used them to cater many parties for family and friends, and they've always been a good place to go to for affordable meals with guests. One minor drawback for the restaurant is that they couldn't serve real tequila margaritas. And I don't believe that changing their license would allow hard liquor, would have any substantive change in sobriety of their patrons. It's not an action to convert Second Street into Bourbon Street. It's more to recognize that the Shore remain healthy and thriving. Its restaurants play a critical role. Super Max is simply a family oriented Mexican restaurant. Proving this application would not change that. I don't understand the vehemence of some of the opposition to the application. Prohibition ended in 1933. We're still fighting it today. I think the application should be supported because it'll make the good restaurant a better restaurant, and that will only benefit Belmont Shore in Long Beach. Sorry to waste your time because it looks like it's going to pass. Thank you very much. Never a week is never a waste of time. Thank you, Mayor Garcia, for all you do for Long Beach. And thank you, Susan Rice, for all you do for the shore. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker. I just ate at your lovely restaurant two nights ago. I know I missed you. I was at a wedding and dancing. Oh, hi, Lisa Ramla. I'm a long time Long Beach resident. I'm on the Belmont Shore Business Association, and I am a resident of the Shore. I am 100% for letting Super Max have the new license, and my restaurant, La Strada, is located directly across the street. In fact, when people say, Where are you located? I always say, We're right across the street from super max. I've heard that I read in the article from some of the naysayers in the Greenwich Gazette that they thought that if this action was granted and they got this license, that other restaurant owners would now want to go get that lice nse. And me being directly across the street, I have zero interest in getting a liquor license like theirs. I get understand. Because they want to serve margaritas. So I, I hope it goes forward. I the naysayers also, I, you know. Anyway. Go forward. Thank you, Lisa. And next time you're going have to bring some of your lasagna, please, because. Okay, great. I see no other public comment and no other council. We have a motion on the floor by Councilwoman Price with conditions as submitted. Please cast your votes. Motion carries seven zero. Great. Thank you. And and thank you. I look forward to some good food there, but I think that's the place that got me through my college weekends. Let me move on back to the regular agenda. So I think now we're going on to where do we go here? Give me 1/2. Okay. So we're going to have our hearing continue that I'm hearing, but we need to have public comment. So let's do the hearing first and they're gonna go to public comment. This item requires an oath. Item one report from Financial Management. Recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the hearing and grant an entertainment permit with conditions on the application of Naples Restaurant located at 190 North Marina Drive for entertainment with dancing by patrons. District three can return this over to Mr. Modica. Thank you. And, Madam Clerk, if you would administer the oath. Please hold up your right hand. You and each of you do solemnly state that the testimony you may give on the cause now and pending before this body shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God. Thank you, Mr. Mayor, members of the City Council. The staff presentation will be handled by Jason. MacDonald, our purchasing and business services manager. Mr. Mayor, Council Members. Jason McDonald Purchasing Business Services Bureau Manager for the Financial Management Department. Tonight you have in front of you the application for Entertainment with Dancing for Naples Restaurant Group, LLC, DBA, The Boathouse on the Bay 190 Marina Drive in District three. All of the necessary departments have reviewed the application. The application and proposed conditions are contained in the packet that was provided. We are prepared to address any questions or concerns along with the police department regarding the application or those conditions. Our office was made aware of at least one complaint regarding this application. That concludes my presentation where available for questions. Thank you. Thank you. And now, as part of the hearing, we open it up for public comment before we take it behind to the council. See? No public comment. Councilwoman Price. Sorry, sir. I didn't see you back there. Please come forward. Good evening. My name is Mike Leshner. My address is 203 North Marina Drive, Long Beach. I am a yacht owner in the row of boats that are directly opposite the open patio for the Boathouse restaurant. Dating back to the middle of 2014. We've had some serious noise issues. We addressed those through the proper channels, through noise. The noise department. Noise department sent a letter to the restaurant asking them to perhaps make some revisions to their noise policies and nothing happened. So then we received another letter from the noise department saying, Well, you have to send a petition with six names. So we did. And I can tell you that it's not easy gathering names from six millionaire boat owners on the same petition. But we sent it in and of course, we heard nothing else again. We started to try to figure out why it was happening, that the city was not clamping down and what we thought was an egregious noise problem. And I began to investigate that the ownership of the restaurant and I won't make any broad based conclusions, but certainly one of the owners of the restaurant is the son of a Congressman, one of the owners of the restaurant is the son of a county supervisor. I grew up in the south side of Chicago. I'm not an idiot. I will say this. You are my landlord. I live there because I have a limited work permit. The gentleman who's going to speak after me. Paul is another major yacht owner in the marina. Between the two of us, in the years we have been there, we have spent $1 million. We tallied it. We have spent $1 million to have this space. All we ask is the peaceful enjoyment of our area. We are directly across from an open patio with no walls, no roof until 10 p.m. every night. We hear some of the worst music we've ever heard. It is an opportunity for anybody with a saxophone, a Coca-Cola band or everything else to make a racket. And we expect more from the city. We expect more from the marina. And I have given you each a packet which shows the the sign petition, the correspondence with the city. We've made every attempt to deal through all of the channels. And it's just been the strangest, strangest process we've ever seen trying to figure out how to get some peace and quiet, what we ask for. And I'll I'll make this sweet. We're not expecting to see anybody tonight in the entertainment license, and we'd like to see the boathouse do well. I'm a past board member at Pepperdine. I called one of our alums, Matt Carnaby, who's one of the owners, and we had a very nice chat and have tried to amicably make some suggestions of how we can get serve. Time is up. Thank you very much, sir. Next speaker. Hello. My name is Paul Franks and I also reside at 203 Marina Drive. We have a liveaboard permit. That is our home. We are less than a thousand feet from this particular patio that they're playing the music on. I don't again, I don't have an issue with them having a permit for entertainment, but I do have an issue with is the amplification this patio. I'm not even sure you could park five cars on it. It's very tiny. There's no reason to have amplification. And from inside my boat most nights. This stuff you can hear, it's booming through. Whether it's good or bad music, I don't really care. It's the volume of it. There's no need for amplification. You can't be more than 30 feet from the person playing the music on that patio and it's really annoying. I can't do. It's the equivalent of you having a rock band on your front lawn. And before you decide on this, I want you to decide. Would you have a rock band on your front lawn every night? You are my landlords. I pay a very large sum of money every year to house my boat there. And I live aboard that boat along with my wife. And it is an amazing volume. So what I'm asking for is just no amplification. I like the restaurant ether all the time. I think it's a great restaurant, but they don't need to be making that kind of volume. You cannot sleep with it. And many times I go to bed at eight or 9:00 at night. And you can't it's that it's that loud. So, you know, I think you need to ask yourself, would you have a rock band on your front lawn? And if not, you know, you need to think about it. Well, they can play it without amplification. And everybody on that patio can hear every note played. There's absolutely no reason. So what I'm asking for is just a restriction to basically say no amplification of the music. Anyway. That's about all I have to say. Again, you are my landlord and you are responsible for this. And like I said, we pay for that peace and quiet. We live there for a reason because we like living there. And that marina, it's been very quiet and we've lived there for years. And now suddenly every night until 10:00, we have an amazing amount of racket. Anyway, thank you for your attention. Thank you, sir. Mr. Good here. Do I need to be sworn in? This? I do. Larry. Good clerk has the address. I support the concept of having the music, but without the amplification. No good musician needs amplification. Particularly in an area that is essentially almost the same, identical to what is between this podium and you. And I'm going to suggest if there's if there's any. Single and musician or group. They cannot make pleasing music without that amplification. The club should not hire them, period. Thank you. Okay. Thank you. Any other public comment on this hearing? Yes, sir. Good evening. My name is Eric Johnson. I lived for for for all of Avenue in Long Beach. I'm one of the partners at the Boathouse. And I just like to say, I appreciate everyone's comments over the last several months. We've tried to work with some of the locals on some of their concerns. I appreciate Councilman Price's recommendations and suggestions on ways that we can work with some of the local residents. We want to be responsible business owners. We think we are. We're certainly open to suggestions and ways to make it better. The entertainment is important to our business. Al Ms.. Bay Landing is a dining and entertainment destination, so we want to work within that, but also be good neighbors. So I appreciate everyone's time and I do appreciate their comments. The enterta inment license is important to us. I just want to say that. Thank you. Thank you very much, Casey. No other speakers for the hearing. I will now be closing the hearing and taking this back for council deliberation, starting with Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I'm going to be recommending recommending that we approve this item. I have a few conditions that I've modified that I'd like to address right now and request that staff prepare a modified copy that has the following changes. In terms of the indoor music, I'd like to change the proposed condition that we have currently listed and allow. The actual clause will read entertainment activities indicated on page nine of your entertainment application shall be restricted through to Sunday through Wednesday until 9 p.m. and Thursday through Saturday until 1 a.m. and Sundays preceding a holiday Monday till 1 a.m.. So, Mr. MacDonald, is that a change that you can make? Yes, Councilmember, we can make those changes. And the second change and and I'm making a motion that we approve this item as I'm modifying it right now. There's a second bike comes from Boston. Thank you. The second modification that I'd like to make is directly in response to the residents who spoke tonight. You know, I do want to just. Say at the outset that I believe that this is a a business that benefits the city and the third district in great ways, that this particular business has been a good partner to the residents and to the community, and I believe they're going to continue to be. And I think that they are going to be very responsive to the concerns that that are raised. But in regards to outdoor entertainment, I want them to have the options that they need in terms of musical entertainment. But I do believe it's reasonable to limit the hours of operation. So I modified the outdoor entertainment clause to read. Outdoor entertainment shall be restricted to no more than three live performing performers and must cease by 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and will be allowed until 10 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. This actually limits the time that they'll be allowed to have outdoor entertainment by requiring them to attend the outdoor entertainment by 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday. There are going to be some exceptions to that and the exceptions will be on the following holidays. We'll have an exception. Music Outdoor Can can continue until 10 p.m. and that'll be on the following holidays. New Year's Eve. New Year's Day. St Patrick's Day. Cinco de Mayo. Memorial Day. 4th of July. Labor Day and Halloween or the Associated Sunday night when the holiday falls on a monday. So on those exceptions, Music Outdoor will be permitted until 10 p.m.. Otherwise, from Sunday through Thursday, music will have to end at 9 p.m.. Mr. McDonald Do you think those are modifications that can be made to the proposed up? Yes. Council member that we would be making modifications to the entertainment permit as applied for. Oh, I apologize for the entertainment permit. And those are modifications that can be made in some sense as they restrict the operating hours I'm sorry, the entertainment hours for outdoor music. Is that. Correct? Yes, that's that's acceptable for the original conditions. Okay. I want to encourage the business owners to continue to be good partners to the Liveaboard residents and to the members of the community and to continue to work with them. This entertainment permit is premised upon the expectation and the understanding that we're not going to have any major problems associated with these conditions. And should the conditions create a problem in any way, we're obviously going to revisit the conditions and take another look at further restrictions if necessary. So with that, I thank you, Mr. Mayor, of nothing further. Thank you. See no other council comment. There is a motion on the floor. Members, please go out and cast your votes on the motion as submitted by Councilwoman Price. Motion carries seven zero. Thank you. Hearing number two. Thank you, Madam Clerk. Next item. Item 23. Communication from Councilman Austin. Councilman Urunga. Recommendation to direct City Manager to delay any action regarding requests for an international customs facility at the Long Beach Airport until receiving further direction from the city council and until 90 days after the representation on the city council is completed. Okay, thank you. I'm going to turn this over now to Councilmember Austin. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And I want to thank my colleague, Councilmember Urunga, for cosigning on this item. He is a true champion for our neighborhoods here in Long Beach. I want to start out and I want to be very clear that this agenda item does not address the merits of building the customs facility at the Long Beach Airport. Surely we will have that conversation at some point, possibly in the future. However. But I am troubled. For more than two years. JetBlue and Long Beach Airport officials have had early discussions and have been discussing a federal inspection services and a customs facility. We've just learned that there have been a lot of movement. There's been a lot of movement, resources and staff time committed to this issue. With no direction whatsoever from the city council. There are even discussions with the Department of Homeland Security and financial feasibility studies prepared. And objections from the City Council. How much of this effort? More than a year ago. Now we have a formal request from JetBlue for the city to submit an application for customs facility. And it makes sense for us to cool the jets, slow down on this very sensitive issue. Actually, tonight is the first time this issue is even being publicly discussed by the council, let alone we take a vote. So what are we seeking to do here before the city manager takes direction from the City Council on how to proceed with this request? There should be full representation on the City Council. Now, just to put it in perspective, I don't think we would have moved forward on a Belmont pool project had there been no council representative in the third District most recently. And I'm sure there would have been serious objections with moving forward with the Civic Center project if there were no representative from the Second District or the First District at the time. And we certainly don't want to move forward with a medical marijuana policy that oversaturate the ninth District if the ninth District doesn't have a council representative there either. Many residents who live in a fourth district live directly under the flight path of the airport. And I believe it's undemocratic to move forward with this issue in any way when such a key district does not have a voice or vote on the city council. We must also give time for that representative who will be elected in just over a month to get time to have time to be brought up to speed. There's a lot that comes at you when you're a brand new city council member. And for that fact, I think we held up a lot of business for the city to allow five new city council members to get seated and to get their feet underneath them so that they could get caught up on the issues. I think we all the same consideration for this new new councilmember coming in. For anyone who may disagree with me tonight recommended action. I'm sorry. I simply ask, what is the rush and whose timetable are we working under? The request was made for the city council and the city to move forward. And so we are driving this process. Not any company, not any airline in the spirit of decency and fairness to more than 500,000 residents in our city who do not have a seat behind this dais tonight, it is only right to delay this action or any action or considering this request for a few months. All three candidates from the fourth District seat have asked the city council in writing to delay this issue until 90 days after this seat is filled. One of these three candidates will soon be our colleague on the council. We even have a letter here from former councilmember in the fourth District and now state assembly member Patrick O'Donnell requesting the same and supporting this agenda item here today as well. As is often the case, I fully expect there will be efforts this evening to offer friendly amendments and substitutes and substitute substitutes. And I just want to be very, very clear. The JetBlue's lobbyists and the JetBlue folks have been very active in contacting our city council members and asking for this timetable to be minimized. Let me state that I consider that any proposal that fails to recognize the need for a voice from the fourth District residents before any action is taken by our city manager or staff would not be viewed as a friendly amendment. It runs counter to the intent to have a democratic process on this issue. This is an issue that can impact thousands of residents throughout our city. And so let's make sure that all the Long Beach has a voice. Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Isom. Yeah. Customer your income. Thank you, Mayor. I want to echo the sentiments of my colleague from the eighth District. This is a too important topic to not have a full council on. So I too, I support the motion by my my council colleague to delay this action until there is a full, full city council on board. Okay. Think it comes from rearing someone to move on. I do have some speakers that we're going to go to. Of course, we have public comment, so we're going to go to have we have some I think there are some questions and speakers first and then we'll get to public comment, then we'll go back to the Council for deliberation. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I may have missed this. Was there a motion? There was not. Whether I believe that I may see a motion plugged in and think he said it, but he plugged into the system. So I'm sorry. I'm not even looking at the system. I apologize. Yes, there was a motion. Yes, we have a motion in a second. Austin uranium. Okay. I do have a few questions. And the first question I have is and most people don't need this, but just just for my own edification. Mr. City Attorney, if if you could just summarize perhaps what the distinction here is between this issue that we're taking up and the conversation that we're having and the concerns that a lot of people have, and rightly so, the concerns that people have about the noise bucket and and whether this actually impacts or any action such as this would impact that. Mayor, members of the council. Just to reiterate what was discussed at the study session on the airport there, the noise ordinance is not technically implicated by where the flights originate from or to. It is a cumulative accumulation of the noise created by the jets landing and taking off. So it is not related to or tied to this item before you this evening. Thank you. And then. For the city manager so that those of us who aren't privy to all of the work that you're doing or even the conversations that council may have had in previous council meetings, if this motion if this item had not been before us, what was the work that you would have done or what is the work you would have done? What's the process you would have taken? Could you describe that for us? Vice Mayor Council Members We would then begin, probably hire a consultant and go through a study to look at the financial feasibility of this, look at the geographic feasibility, look at how it fits operationally, administration. And then probably in about five months, in July or August, we would come back to the city council for the city council to set policy. Okay. Thank you. That's all I have right now, Mr. Mayor. Thank you. And except Councilwoman Mongo. I just wanted to make a statement about how I feel about my responsibility as a council person and how it differs from the letter written by a colleague that I respect and admire greatly. While I am elected by the members of the Fifth Dist riect, I think that each and every one of us have taken an oath of office to represent each and every person in this city, and that visits the city. And so when people come up to me and ask if I'm their council person, I say, of course, because I, I vote on $3 billion in budgets annually and the future and contracts related to millions of dollars in vendors, the pensions and benefits of hundreds of police officers, firefighters and public service workers and each and every one of those items is of importance to me. Specifically, I think that we as a council owe both our residents and our businesses a process this weekend while spending an additional amount of time in the fourth District, the place where I get my dry cleaning done, and my favorite frozen yogurt shop, which I spent a bit of time at. Residents often approach me and ask, Can you help with this? Can you help with that? Of course, because we as a council represent each and every one of you. While as a district representative, I take the lead on certain things related to cups or business licenses. That doesn't mean that my colleagues at any time would not vote for residents if they felt that I was not doing my diligence as a council member for the city. And so one of the challenges I have with the letter is it implies that the Fourth District is not represented, and I want each and every one of you to know that you are represented. I have lived in the flight path in two different locations. I have a multitude of family members who currently live in the flight path, as I've mentioned before. Every few months I remember as a child watching the screens from the windows and the soot on the cars from living in the flight path. And my parrot. My grandparents bought that land when the airport was just a little speck in people's eyes. And so he built that home that we lived in and. The difference can be, too, that often we buy our homes knowing and understanding the things that are there and the protections that are in place. And we need to balance that with ensuring that every business has the right to bring forward a request to this council and to be considered timely. I may not agree with some of the items before this council, whether it's the marijuana ordinance or the logic labor agreement or any other item. But the constituents are represented and every business is given that due diligence and the way that I currently read the memo from the city manager. This is a three year process. A delay of an additional three weeks is pandering. To this crowd because it's it's insignificant in a three year plan, which will take an exuberant amount of time. And so those that's my perspective. There is no way that our city staff would be able to bring back the information until the time at which our council members. Our new council member colleague will be seated. I have great respect for the three colleagues. I moderated their debate earlier this week. I think any of them would be able to digest this i nformation. They seemed very informed on the matter in front of the public that was there then. And I have confidence in their abilities now and then. So with that being said, I have no more comments. Okay. Thank you, Councilwoman. Councilwoman Price. Thank you. I have a couple questions for staff. First, I want to say that. I understand where Councilman Austin is coming from. I've talked with him about this issue. I know he's very concerned, as are all the council members. But he has he represents a constituency that we don't all represent. He has his own unique constituency and issues. And I've spent a lot of time talking to him about his concerns. And I do believe him when he says that this item is not about the merits of the proposal, but rather allowing us to be in a place where we have representation. And I think there's some validity there. And while I didn't think about that on this issue, I will say that this council has before it another very important issue, and that's the medical marijuana ordinance. And it's interesting to me, because the fourth District has a series of businesses that were negatively impacted by illegal medical marijuana dispensaries. They feel very passionately about that subject. And yet the current timeline that the council has in place for making a vote on that doesn't even include the fourth District representative being elected. And so I think there is a lot of merit to the idea of having representation from all of the districts, because although Councilwoman Mango may have her finger on the pulse of the Fourth District residents, I certainly don't. I represent the entire city, but my day to day obligation is to the residents of my district. So I think their councilperson would be in the best position to know what it is their constituents feel, and I think they would take that very seriously. So I think there's a lot of merit there. I also like and I hadn't heard it before, but the analogy to some of the big things that we voted on recently, we would not think for a moment about voting on the pool or the shot create issue if there was not a third district council person in the seat, because those are issues that heavily impact my district. So I think there I think he has some great merits on it, but I do have some questions for staff in regards to this process, and it's mostly just to educate myself on the process. So is there any work that the staff has to do before we vote, before we move forward with JetBlue's request, before we can actually move forward with JetBlue's request? Councilmember Mayor, first off, I'd like to make a comment that our airport director, Bryant Francis, had a long standing commitment outside the city. So he's not here tonight. We have our financial bureau manager, Claudia Lewis, with us to answer any specific questions. But this is a pretty general once I'll answer it. Basically, in order for us to go approach the federal customs facility, we would have to do our own study and get o ur own request from the city council. Whether the council views, whether this is a good idea or a bad idea to send an application forward. But we would need, like I said, about a five month time period to conduct a study, bring it to the council, and the council would take the next step. Now, would you need any direction from council to actually undertake that process. Given the item that we have tonight? I certainly would request direction. Yes. Absent this meeting, we would probably just process it. Okay. Okay. And in regards to this particular item, I would like to ask the maker of this motion. Council member Austin and your. Would you be open to a friendly amendment to move the time period to 60 days after the person is seated to give them the opportunity to get caught up? Because I do agree with some of the points that have been made that I think we should wait. However, given the relevance of this topic and how frequently it's been coming up during the campaign trail, I expect that our future colleague will be very well versed on this issue. So I'm just wondering if you're open to that. Mr. Austin. Well, I can tell you that when Councilmember Urunga and I first had this conversation early Monday morning before we could put our agenda item in last week, we were fully aware that, that, you know, our 90 day, um, ask could be seen as a little ambitious considering the fact that we have 30 days before we're 30 days out from an election and then possibly 60 days or even more after that. The 90 days was an arbitrary number to give us some cushion. I personally would be okay to a friendly amendment for 60 days, but nothing less. And if I knew that that I could get full council support on this on that I don't want to. Undermine the importance of delaying this and giving the fourth District Council member, the new council member coming in all of the room possible to to be fully brought up to speed. And when I say fully brought up to speed, they have to step up in office. They have to figure out a mechanism to outreach and bid and get community support or to have a town hall meeting with their constituents on this. And so when we do the 90 days out there, we thought that was fair. But, you know, if I'd be open if I thought that there was some if we can get some consensus as a council on this. And that's where I'm coming from. Council member Austin is I'm trying to find if there's a way that we can meet in the middle and effectuate the intent of, of this agenda item. You know, one thing I didn't mention carries a lot of weight with me is our former colleague, Assemblyman O'Donnell's letter. That carries a lot of weight with me because I don't think there is a single council member that I've studied in history that had his finger on the pulse of his community as well as Council Councilman O'Donnell did. And he is telling us from Sacramento, my constituents need to be heard. They need someone advocating for t hem specifically. That carries a lot of weight with me. I wasn't expecting to see this letter when I walked in tonight. I knew what your position was and certainly was sensitive to that. But I think to me, this this letter says a lot because he's the closest thing to a representative that they have right now. So, anyway, I appreciate you accepting that. Now, what about. Okay, I'm just going to stop there. Thanks for now. Thank you, Counselor Richardson. Thanks, Mr. Mayor. So just a couple of things. And, you know, I have my iPad up and I intentionally pulled up my my favorite game video game because I really didn't want to get into this conversation. But I think I'm going to jump in. So I would say that I'm serious. I got Star Wars. So I would say that, you know. This is a neighborhoods issue, the ninth District, not in the flight path, but they're on our neighbors flight path. Right. It's important to my neighbors. It's important to me. It's that simple. I think what's being asked for is reasonable. But I'm lacking a whole bunch of context in terms of in terms of like I'm not I'm not entirely clear that we would be debating this issue at the city council within the next 120 days or 90 days after the election anyway. I would need to just hear from the city manager. Like, when were you planning on bringing this to the council? Are we talking about this because this agenda item was placed on and we wouldn't have been talking about this otherwise. Councilor, mayor, council members. We'd been discussing with the city council privately, but also more importantly with JetBlue that we weren't going to accept any application for a Customs facility until we had a new airport manager, airport director in the seat and established. So basically we were getting ready to process that because Brian Francis had been there for has been here for enough time to initiate a study. Then given the interest in the city council and neighborhood, it's here before the city council. So we certainly at this stage would request if we if we went forward, we would want city council direction. I guess my question is when if this item hadn't been brought, what was your plan to bring to bring this discussion to the city council? See if we were interested. The Council would know that we're initiated it. But but the first time the council would see. The plan would be when the study was complete, probably. In July or August. Okay. So in in how you develop your plan. Are there? Is this just an inward analysis that you and all your airport staff do? Or do you have to do outward communication to customs or federal agencies or anyone else to express interest in the airport? I believe it's more internally, but that's. A question I'm going to refer. To Claudia Lewis. So if I understand. Correctly, the question. Is what type of outreach would we do? Is the study the study you're doing, are you expressing to the public or to other agencies that might have some scope, some sphere of in fluence on this decision? Are you expressed are you communicating with them about the study or is this something you can conduct in-house? So to be clear, there's there's no study going on right now. However. The the study would be done likely by an expert in the field. Who would look to. Other similarly situated airports bring in. Information regarding Customs and Border Protection and what the requirements there would be. So. So there would be outgoing. We would consult with those agencies to figure out. Absolutely. And that consultation, that process, does that cost money? Ordering the study would cost money. As had it been appropriate. Is there a budget for this? We would work within the airport. Parameters with their enterprise fund to do that. Yes. I would I would just say and I don't have any motions or any substitutes or any friendlies, I would just say this, I'm not in any rush to jump into this discussion. I'd like to have an understanding of like what's out there. If that means city staff do their internal due diligence without necessarily particularly expressing to customs or someone else that we're interested. I think I'd like to say I have the facts. I think what my colleague is is asked for in terms of allow the council to be full. I'm not sure if that would have happened any way before we had it, but I think it's a fair question to ask. I you know, I agree. I wouldn't want this type of discussion take place if I wasn't on the city council or someone with the ninth District wasn't in it. But I would say that I don't necessarily agree that the rest of the council would necessarily put on a medical marijuana in district or wasn't someone to sit in there. But that's just my own personal opinion. But but. But here's what I would say. Like. I want to get out of the signs and the jargon and the politics and see the facts. So if you do what, no matter what happens tonight, I want to see. I would want to see, like the facts from city staff, whatever analysis internally. I don't want you to communicate out to other agencies. I wouldn't want you to express that we're interested, but have the facts. So when the fourth district is seated, we're not having another conversation because so far this is us. We had a study session, we couldn't talk about this issue and now we're having a second council item tonight where there's no facts on the issue. When it comes back again, when the fourth District is seated, I don't want to be in a place where there's no facts. So I guess my question is, is there a clear line, a distinct line between conducting a full study that engages customs and expresses our interest and a study that we can do internally to tell us the bottom line facts about the thing, the issues that folks care about. But that's my question. Councilman, if I could answer that, first off, I want to make it clear that any study that we did would not go to Customs and express an interest in this. This would just be a fact finding study when t he council reviews it, it would not come with a recommendation. It would not say do this, or it could easily disappear in 30 days. If we find out it was financially feasible, then we would just stop and inform the council that we can't do this. But if it was financially feasible, we would continue it. But it would come to the council without a recommendation. It would merely say this is feasible. Does the city council want to take the next step? And the next step would then be to express an interest in this. We would not be expressing an interest through the study. The study would be fact finding. I also want to point out that what you're asking for, for staff to do an internal fact finding thing, we would not be able to do that. We couldn't meet your needs and that that's why we would have to go to an outside expert so we. Would not be. Able to to meet your needs in producing some type of an internal report that we can get to you. Without going to an outside consultant and taking the four or five months. I understand. So if this. So what would happen if this motion moves forward? Then after the fourth District councilperson was seated, then you would come back to City Council for permission to go out and do a study. Or you would wait until the 190 day or 120 days? We would we would wait to what the motion says, and I'll look to the city attorney. But if the motion says 60 days after the council member is seated, the study begins, we would keep this on a shelf. And in 60 days after the councilman receded, we would begin the study. If we got that direction, if the council said, if the motion said, come back to us in 60 days to see if we want to do it, we would do that. So it depends on what the motion reads from the city council. But again, at that 60 day point that the five month trigger would start, it would not start now. It would start 60 days after the member was seated. I get it. So really the question is, do you start your study now or do you start your study? Do you start your study essentially now based on direction or do you start the study three months after the fourth? This person is seated. Two months. Forgive me that that's the question. I mean, that's essentially the options that the council has today. That's a question. That's for the council to decide. We will respond to whatever, I guess. I think I think they're a quick point of information. And it was a report of information, as I mentioned in my opening comments. First of all, this this this agenda item request that that no action delay any action regarding the request until receiving further direction from the city council and and originally stated 90 days after a city council member from the fourth District received it. And I also want to raise the point that there was the airport did undergo a feasibility study. And there are facts laid out in that feasibility study for this council to consider it in point before that as well. Can we go back to the speakers list? What I'm go ing to do is I have a lot of people queuing up from before, so I'm gonna go to Mr. Andrews and then going go to this to the public, and then we'll go back to the council unless there's any objection from those are queued up. Okay. Unless you want to go for the public is up to you. Oh, no, that would be too late. I go first. Okay. Go now. Mr. Andrews? Yes, by all means, yes. I also. I and you know, Councilman Austin, I really, truly understand, you know, your concerns and your compassion. You know, about this item. But I mean, we all have responsibilities to our constituents. You know, I believe that we need to begin the process of gathering information because the city has never been harmed by having too much information. You know, it's information that we need. And I've heard a lot of speculation, but no facts. And I would like to hear what the city manager, the city attorney airport and JetBlue has to say. Even though getting this report would probably get back to this probably after 90 days, 90 days, but I'm willing to go along, you know, starting the process after 60. You know, that's a friendly amendment. Thank you. Okay. Now we're going to go over to the public and we're going to go back to the council. So, again, 3 minutes, please, everyone, just come forward. If you come forward, if you can just begin to line up at the podium and just make sure you give your name and address and we'll go from please come forward. How are you doing? Good. My name is Greg HERWICK at 2024. I am in the fourth District. I am not represented. I was very happy to hear about Pat O'Donnell's letter showing up. Thank you so much for being happy about it. We're happy about it because we are not represented. Pat was really tight within our community and pretty much everybody knew him as with or without the airport issue personally and for the people that live in my community. We don't need an international airport. LAX is not that far. Orange County is not that far. It's ridiculous that we would want to have bigger flights, noisier flights come into our community. It doesn't make any sense. Has anybody in the city council I know there's some new people here. Is anybody heard of the Triangle of Death? That's what Long Beach has basically been represented as this. More flights, more noise, more pollution coming through the middle of the Triangle of Death. That's basically how Long Beach is looked at. They long they line up from the pyramid, come over public schools. It's not about necessarily the noise or the number of flights. It's about the pollution. It's about how it affects our kids. The noise bucket, in my personal opinion, is a joke. If you live in the flight path or if you live on the take off or, you know, we're more on the landing side, it's it's it's a joke to the, you know, to the people in the community, the 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. flights. That's a joke as well. They they break that all the time. We had flights taken off at five, six, 7 a.m. on a regular basis

. There is nothing that controls this airport. And all you're going to do is make it bigger and get it more out of control for the people that live in the flight paths. That's it. I appreciate you putting on the snow day and picking up that slack from Pat O'Donnell and you guys coming out. But we need to be. Represented and before anything goes on, we. Need to be represented. Thank you. Next week, a police. Good evening, Honorable Mayor Council members. My name is John Deeds. I reside at 3600 Pacific Avenue. I have lived there for going on 45 years. But for the first 27 years of my life, I had a Naples home address. And just want to inject a little historic fact here. The last time that a recall effort qualified to go to a ballot. Was directed at my father, the third district councilperson and Tom Clark. And it was over there supporting. Jet service at Long Beach Airport. And with that, I will ask that you support Councilman Austin's motion. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Josephine Long. I've been a homeowner in the seventh District for about 25 years, and I opposed the international flight from the JetBlue Airlines. I love JetBlue. And as I look, I try to travel to them as much as possible. But as far as the international flights, I think they would only, as they previously said. More noise, more deaths, more traffic. More everything. That's not good for Long Beach. In L.A.X. is less than 30 minutes away. And so there's no problem going to there or any of the other airports that have the international flights. But I think the homeowners that live in in Long Beach, as I said, they don't agree with the fact that they do fly earlier and later. They note it and it's an inconvenience for the homeowners there. So I ask you to take it into consideration and please do not allow them to have the international flights. Thank you. Thank you so much. And because the city attorney will consistently remind me and remind us, I just want as a reminder, the item before us is on the argument about the motion on the floor, which is to postpone any action until after the fourth District person is seated. So we want to make sure that we're keeping the the comments to that action. Thank you, sir. John Dilatory addresses on file. Honorable Mayor, City Council. Thank you for the opportunity to speak. Everyone says, including everybody up there, that they will support and defend the Long Beach Noise Ordinance. The fact is, Long Beach has never successfully defended our airport noise ordinances. Our first ordinance adopted by the City Council in 1981 allowed a maximum of 15 daily flights. In 1983, 14, airlines challenged our ordinance in court. That federal district court determined that there were there was insufficient basis to support the 15 and up to to 18 1986. The City of Long Beach adopted an ordinance to limit the number of commercial carriers to 32. 1989, the ninth District Court invalidated the 1986 ordinance and ordered an increase to 41 per day that we have today. In 2000, two American Airlines challenged our slot distribution and alluded to their assault on our noise ordinance. If an agreement had not been reached with JetBlue to relinquish four slots to American, the paperwork was ready to file against the city. Mary Garcia City Manager. Patrick West. This direction to postpone any further discussion on allowing JetBlue a Customs facility should also apply to you and your staff. City management, no doubt under the guidance of Mayor Foster and now you. Garcia has moved this project forward behind closed doors since 2013. There are if you actually take a look, there are studies looking at this that says this is not really that feasible financially for us. That was done in 2013. Working in the dark without any public participation. And transparency is not why you were elected to serve as mayor. Please wait for the fourth District Council person to be elected. Then let's have an open discussion to see if it's even worth pursuing an international airport. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Dennis Dunne, a staff update. I beg your indulgence for 10 seconds. I was presented with this document with what I was required to get. However, this is not enough. The map with the districts, the phone numbers should be enlarged and put in the library. It put it in the lobby, not on a table. Forgotten it. Thank you, Mr. Dunn. Next speaker, please. David Lewis, 840 West, 28/7 District. Last week, I was at a friend's house down in Orange County. Disney fireworks went off. I was startled. Didn't know what. It was at first. He said It's. Disney comes with the territory. Sunday night I was in my backyard yard. The smell of the, I guess, gas coming from the refineries over the way was nauseating. I've lived in Long. Beach for 20 years. In Wrigley. For 15. Comes with the territory. We had boats backed up in the air and in the waters here. Years ago there was talk about the US. Comes with the territory. I recognize what Long Beach is. It's a trade place with the ports. Not only does. Our local community, our federal community, but the world. Economy depends upon movement of goods and services out of Long Beach. I almost have a fatal. Attitude about living in Long Beach. And I don't think it's fair. I don't think. That Long Beach residents should go through the health risks that we go through. But I recognize. That it comes with the territory. We're not going to be able to slow down. The commerce at the ports comes with the territory. Now there there. You know, JetBlue wants to have an international airport at the Long Beach Airport. And we all know what that means. We all know where that's going to what that's going to mean. It's going to mean more revenue for JetBlue, more revenue for Long Beach. But at what price? There comes a time when we have to put not our health, but our children's health first before revenue. I know that it's kind of hard to stop the wheels of. Money. Bu t that's what this is all about. JetBlue city of Long Beach making money. But at what price? Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. My name is Mario Cruz. I reside at 2315 Charlemagne in the fourth District, and I rise in support of Mr. Gurung. Mr. Austin motion to delay this vote. I appreciate his comments. As a resident of the fourth District, I have a voice and the residents of the fourth District have a voice, and that voice needs to be heard. I'm all for process, but there's also accountability. And with all due respect, none of you answer to my vote because I do not have a representative on this council. So notwithstanding your good remarks, you do not answer to me. Because I have not voted. And I want to vote. As far as time, it's not just the matter. Of bringing the council up to speed. There's the community consider. The community has to be about speed. You can't put a time limit on that. And certainly 60 days is not enough, in my opinion. So I would. Good asked. Asked Mr. Ralston in agreeing to reject the friendly amendment when he as much time as we can get to consider this very important issue for the residents of the Fourth District. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Yes. Good evening. Ron soc, formerly of the airport commission from 2000 to 2008. I don't know where to begin. Maybe just a few facts there. I've heard statements tonight that international flights mean more flights, mean noisier flights jeopardize the noise ordinance. The sooner that we can get to the point of studying this and showing that it will be, it's apparent that JetBlue is not asking for more flights right now. They're flying 20 to 25 flights out of their 32. They need to fill those gaps to make it more economically viable for them and for the city. And so they're simply asking for international flights, which are just the same number of planes, same number of gates. No increase. No increase in noise. And so some of these facts, some of these claims have to be dealt with because there is a serious misunderstanding in the community. And the other point that I want to make is that one of the things when I headed the commission that we stressed was that the members, as the council members, represent all the citizens of the city, not just their own constituents, as Stacy Mongeau pointed out. She actually those were thoughts that I had. And I can't see your timing, somebody sitting in front of it there. Okay. So JetBlue has been a proud partner to this city and they've done a lot for the city and they've not done damage to the city. And they are simply asking to have flights that will go to Mexico possibly, and it will not enlarge anything at the airport. I would just ask Councilman Austin and your anger to consider some kind of compression of the time period or if there's a way the staff can be given working on the studies even before the April election. That would be a great help. And also, I'm not quite sure city manager were the three year period. What's that's co mprised of. And perhaps at some point you could explain why it's going to take three years. Thank you, sir. Time time's all up. Thank you. Okay. Thank you so much. Next speaker. Good evening, honorable mayor and members of the Council, Kurt Gaston, president of the Long Beach Airport Association. Thank you for taking the time tonight to discuss and receive our all of our comments on both sides. Of this issue. On the motion before you on behalf of the Board of the directors of the Long Beach Airport Association. And the airport business. Community. We again are here to confirm our unanimous support of the city's airport noise ordinance. We support your effort. To conduct the required due diligence on the. Facts that we believe support. Permitting. Permit international operations at the airport consistent with the provisions provided by the ordinance and slot allocation process. We appreciate the due diligence you need to receive in order to properly. Vet out and improve international flights. However, we ask you tonight not to unreasonably delay the process that will provide you those facts. But instead provide a 60 day window. Of time that will both permit the fourth District Council seat to be filled while providing staff the opportunity to finalize or prepare the required due diligence as a roadmap for you to consider all the specific and relevant details and facts. During this time, the candidates for the fourth District can participate and will be. Able to review the relevant facts and attend any community briefings. So that at the end of the 60 day. Period, the formal application. Can be submitted to this. Council for their review and action. Please do. Not consider further restricting use as an operational activities at the airport. That would. Be permitted under that noise ordinance. So that noise levels would be artificially kept below. That which is permitted. And any. International flight operations will only use existing. Slots, gates. Parking positions and no new passenger holding rooms. The arrival and destination. Locations for. Aircraft that will bring. Commerce, jobs and economic opportunity into the city in no way restrict or eliminate your opportunity or obligation as well as ours to manage and mitigate airport noise by enforcing without any fear what has and should be and continue to be a healthy, well defended policy. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. My name is Jane Naito. I'm a resident of the eighth District and have been since 1998. Mayor and City Council Members. You were all elected by the residents of Long Beach to represent their concerns and needs. Currently, the fourth District has no representation. In fairness to them, I strongly urge you to withhold any discussion or review of JetBlue's request for a Customs facility until after a fourth District Council person is in place. I know a plane flying from Mexico to Dallas makes no difference in the noise ordinance. I know that JetBlue is currently not using a ll the slots allotted to them, so the noise level is reasonably quiet. I know that the minimum 41 commercial flights are signed and that only six of the 25 commuter flights slots are now being utilized. What I don't know is if adding a customs facility to the Long Beach airport will invite the FAA and other airlines to challenge our current operation. I was part of the neighborhood group that challenged the city and business entities relating in 1923 against quadrupling the size of the airport to satisfy JetBlue. Thanks to our efforts, we have a beautiful airport that everybody loves. In addition to waiting until we have a fourth District Council member, I urge you to instruct city staff not to have any more closed door meetings with JetBlue. Some discussions have already occurred, and this is why it's raised the level of concern in the neighborhoods. We would love the opportunity to work with city staff and the Council on projects that impact us instead of finding out later what has been decided. Please consider the concerns and needs of the neighborhoods and the residents that voted you in office before the concerns and desires of JetBlue. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor Garcia and members of the council. My name is Rob Mitchell and I'm manager of government and airport affairs for JetBlue Airways, which is based here in Long Beach at the airport. Two weeks ago, my colleague Rob Land, our senior vice president for government affairs, stood before you and expressed JetBlue's continued and longstanding support for the sanctity of the noise ordinance that governs operations at the airport. The request JetBlue submitted recently was a direct ask of the city to begin a process of fact finding due diligence and discussion. With the letter we submitted, JetBlue is not asking for nor expecting the imminent arrival of international flights at the airport next week. Similarly, with the request we submitted, we were not expecting the study of a reasonable, modest addition to the capabilities of the airport to be postponed for 90 days after the next councilperson from the fourth District is seated. Something that would take us to the end of summer before any work could begin, let alone a decision be made at acquisition of a customs facility at the airport will take staff work by the city. The motion before the council tonight prohibits staff from doing exactly what they are tasked to do all of the homework and due diligence in order to bring it back to council. For a policy decision later, staff needs to have to begin to have these discussions with engineers, architects and the operations team. How it is financed needs to be investigated. And then after all that, the Council must submit a request to and receive approval from the Department of Homeland Security's Customs and Border Protection before a lengthy construction project could commence. If this Council wishes to delay a request made by a solid corporate citizen and a request only to begin a process for as much as 4 to 6 months without any justification, then it certainly shouldn't. It should not stand in the way of the enormous research, due diligence and fact finding the city needs to undertake. JetBlue strongly supports that any delay this council votes on tonight explicitly avoid delaying the start of this critical investigatory work. The airport manager has a request from the majority tenant at the airport and undertaking the work I have described in no way rushes this process, nor does it force this council to act one way or another. If the city truly wants to be an international city, a progressive city, and a pro-jobs city, it must at least explore all the opportunities to do so. Long Beach has long been and will continue to be an airport with tight restrictions and a flight ordinance that enforces tight restrictions on flights. And we believe the airport is simply being utilized far less than these limitations currently announced allow. I urge the Council not to support the unnecessary delay and allow staff to begin the much needed work right away and shorten the minimum timeframe for which it can be allowed to come back to the council. Thank you very much. Mr. Mayor. Council members. My name's Joe Miller. I'm the chair of the Los Altos Center, adjacent neighborhoods in the fourth District. And I can't tell you how many hours I've spent in this chamber dealing with airport issues over the years. Long time before most of you have been here. And I can tell you that this is a very important issue for the fourth District, the fourth District residents. This is the thing that unites them as a community is their concern over the airport. And it's something that our councilman and now Assemblyman Patrick O'Donnell understood. In fact, that's one of the reasons he was elected, is because our former councilperson did not understand that. And that's one reason he was elected. And for him to reach out to you from Sacramento on this issue is very, very important. And no one understands the fourth District right now more than Councilman and now Assemblyman O'Donnell. And the fact that he's reached out to you is very important. And I can tell you from my neighborhood, this is very, very important to our neighborhood. And as the JetBlue person said, we want to be a progressive city. We also want to be a Democratic city. And we really don't have a voice here. And as other people have said, we really don't have anyone who is accountable to us. You know, Patrick would pick up the telephone, call us, talk to the neighborhood leaders, just as I'm sure many of you do to your own neighborhood leaders. None of you have my phone number. None of you can reach out to the neighborhood leaders in the fourth District, and we really need that. The other thing that Patrick did when the airport size was being debated, he worked with the other council people to come up with that. We don't have someone to work with you

u right now. We don't have a voice to tell you our concerns. We know that you talk to each other and you meet with each other. You you do that. We need someone on behind the dais doing that for all of us in the fourth District. And believe me, it is very, very important to all of us in the fourth District. That's why I'm here tonight, to ask you to please support Councilman Austin and councilman during this motion. And thank you both for bringing it forward. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Mayor and City Council. My name is Richard Ivey. I live at 242 East Bixby Road. I'm president of the Las Vegas Neighborhood Association. I love our city. I love Long Beach. When I was a student at Cal State, Long Beach, the professor would have to stop class twice an hour to wait for the planes to go over. I thank you, Mr. Austin, as and Mr. Durango, both representing our neighborhood in both the seventh and eighth districts. For your stance here tonight and how important this is. This is something that our noise ordinance is extremely fragile. And the impact that this could have if. Planes decide to come in here because it's convenient and it opens up an opportunity to mess with the noise ordinance, which I don't think the citizens of Long Beach fully understand how big a decision this is. If you mess with that noise ordinance, you could be looking at 100 to 130 flights a day. And I don't think the citizens of Long Beach. Are aware of how serious this issue is. And I would just ask that you not mess with it. Thank you. Next week, the police. Good evening. My name is Bill Goodell Outdoor. I reside in the eighth district, four, four, six five Cerritos Avenue. And I'm here to support Councilmember your ongoing Austin's motion or agenda item. Thank you for bringing it forward. I wanted to address a couple of things, specifically that Councilwoman Manga Mongo said earlier. You said that you're used to yourself as representing the whole city. I accept that. And you also said you represent the businesses and since the airport is in your business, then this district, that means JetBlue is your constituent. Correct? Okay. So basically, you you represent JetBlue among all of you guys. That would be your constituent. So I understand that seems logic to me. Well, they don't get to vote no. Maybe not with their voices, but with something else. Anyway, I didn't want no, I didn't want I didn't want this. I didn't want that. This reality. Sorry. Guys. Let's just try to. Yeah. Yeah. Okay. But anyway, I think it's reasonable to for you to suggest let's let's just keep the process going. Let's start the process. You said it's a three year process or. The three year plan. You forget that it's already been going on since over two years. City manager has said that there has been private discussions with city council members. Some of you, maybe not. All of you, but there has been discussion. The process has been going on for over two years and maybe just another five months, an d it's going to be completed. And for this to continue without the representation of the fourth District is just not responsible at all. You're suggesting that what? Just finished a process? We need all the facts. We'll get the facts in five months. We'll have the new councilmember here and we'll bring her or him up to speed. I would suggest that it's going to require a lot more than bringing her or him up to speed. You need to think of this person needing to be in the process. If the people of the fourth district really are going to be represented, their representative needs to be in the process from the beginning as much as possible to the end, not just be brought up to speed. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor and council members, Darryl Supernova, resident of the fourth District. Thank you for bringing this motion forward. Councilmembers Austin and Ranga after the study session on the 17th. I saw the mayor in the next day and I compliment him on his handling of one of the questions. And I said, You know what? I really like the way you reacted. You got out in front of it. You owned it. You addressed the fact that the city had made a mistake and talked to the city manager. You referenced him and said it was a personal. Issue and we took care of it. So first, I'd like to compliment. You, Councilmember, for getting out in front of this issue, owning it and putting it in front of the people. Also to I'll just react to a couple of things that were said. Council Member Mungo, thank you for taking up the slack. And to your staff, we are out a snow day. But again, she does not have a vote. So that's the issue here. Finally, there was a previous. Speaker said there's some type of question about the three year time frame. I just referenced our previous airport director said there was a three year frame. Our current airport director says. There's a three year time frame. These are the. Experts. And in today's Language. Business Journal, I think there's. An online edition. Now, Dave Willunga has. An article that. Has that same quote. So I just want to clear clarify that point. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. I am Dr. Marshall Zamsky, 3917 Linden Avenue. And I wanted to definitely support Al Austin and Roberta Yar'adua's motion. I think it's very important. My concern is that we elected you guys. And to be on the council to represent us and yet the world. The wheels have been turning for an awful long time and it seems to me that the foundations of our country are based on democracy, and yet our city council doesn't seem to have almost any input into the process. So my feeling is that to support this this motion and to say that the city council should be involved at every point and be able to veto anything just because one big corporation wants some wants to muscle their way around here. It shouldn't be. It shouldn't be allowed. And that isn't what we elected our representatives, our city cou ncilors to do. So anyway, that's. I just wanted to say that. Thank you. Thank you, sir. Next speaker. Yes. Joe Sopel. You have my address on file, Mr. Mayor. City Council members. Alan Roberto, thank you very much for bringing this forward. It's been said in here that we're going to give time for the candidate, whoever is elected, to be brought up to speed. But the truth. Is, none of you are up to speed. You know, we fought this a decade or so ago. And coincidentally, the same people who were saying build it, build a build it are the same people here who have stood in front of you tonight and two weeks ago and said, Oh, yeah, we need international flights. It's a good idea. What's a good idea for JetBlue? If I was, JetBlue would be the thing I would be doing international flights. In fact, JetBlue has been working behind your backs. It's been going on for at least the last year. They've been talking to city staff. They've been talking to other council members who want to listen to them. But really, it's been behind staff. Why is this such a good idea? We've got LAX, we've got John Wayne. What we have is one hell of a great municipal airport. We fought for it. We didn't want it to be industry standards. We want it to be what it is. That was the key word. Industry standards quadruple the size. A previous airport advisor president stood up in front of you a little while ago and said, it's not expansion. It's not going to get any bigger. The truth is, it will get bigger. There is more square footage going to be added. They've got to build a terminal for international flights. They can't do it out of what we have. That's just not going to happen. We can't afford it. Our our airport is perfect. It's a perfect. Relationship. Don't screw. With it. Leave it alone. We've got something good. Tackle the big, big issues like the marijuana issue or downtown. We've got plenty of issues to tackle. You know, there's quite a few people in here holding signs right now. Back in the old days, we used to fill every seat with a sign. And people were really upset and they had a lot of energy. And that's what's going to happen again if you proceed on this. Now, we're just talking about a little study. It's referred to as the the camel getting its nose under the tent. That's what we're talking about. I'm a salesman. I know when you're not going a door and you want to get in there, what you do is put your toe in there, you put your knee in there, get your butt in there, and then you're into that door. Don't let JetBlue do that. They can wait because whatever decisions you do make is going to last for a very, very long time. Don't be rushed. Thank you. Thank you, Joe. Next speaker, please. Larry, would you click as the address? I do not live in the fourth district, but let me say this. I've been very impressed with the counsel position from the ninth District. And when our good councilman Price becomes mayor, maybe in eight years or with luck, maybe even sooner. All right.

Depending upon how fast in the Ninth Circuit Court moves. All right. Consider moving into the third district with very sharp mind. I like your approach. I see. This is one. If this project goes through regardless of its merits. It'll obviously as the last speaker been mentioned, it's going to be there for ages. All right. So the barn on this issue is a barn. It clearly is not on fire. Absolutely. So take the time to review it thoroughly. In respect to Councilperson Mungo's. Volunteering to vote for that district, giving her background. The people need to feel they are represented 100%. And as one who lives in a third district, I would take great umbrage of somebody coming in from another area that had not studied as well and is very familiar with anything related to Alameda Play or the Marine Stadium. That's not to say that your work is not appreciated. But the fact is, these people deserve to have someone there that is their official representative. Who they can hold responsible. For whatever vote, whichever way that person votes. Thank you. Thank you, Larry. Next speaker, please. Cecelia Leach. Seventh District 3645 Myrtle Avenue. Thank you, Mr. Mayor, and all the council members for listening to all of our comments. I want to thank council members Austin and Ranga for putting this motion forward, which I strongly support as well. It seems to me that one option that hasn't yet been discussed is the option of not moving forward at all. And while there are some who may oppose, some may support that option, so far, the JetBlue representatives appear to be saying that this would simply delay the process and assume that the entire process would go forward. I think that that is not, as other speakers have mentioned, a democratic process. And we need to have all options on the table and we need to have all of the city council members here. To discuss those options. I also just want to register some surprise at Councilmember Mango's assertion that supporting this would be pandering to those of us who are citizens with signs in the audience of which I am one, which seems to be contradictory to her statement that she represents the entire city. Thank you. Yes. If you like. Speaker, please. Hello. Good evening. Hello. Hi, Mayor. It's been a while. Mayor Garcia? Yes. And council members first. You know, I had something very nice and calm to read to you, but I have to make a comment on some of the discussion that was going on earlier when Claudia and Mr. West said that there was no study going on right now. That's a key word right now. There were actually two studies done. One was presented to the council, and I'm not sure what happened to the other one. For Askar and Associates presented in November of 2013 and the Megadeal Economic Study made comments that wouldn't support any further economic development of the city. Both of them stated minimal economic impact. Mr. West I'm going to say that you should have asked the Council if they were interested in moving forward with this in 2013. They have been operating behind the scenes, doing studies, meeting with Homeland Security, taking it, doing term sheets and a lot of communication going in this direction while the neighborhoods have been sitting back there not understanding what was coming forward. So with that, that's that's my rant. And now I would like to say the nice things that I have to say, and that is to acknowledge that every district in our city deserves a leader that can advocate on their behalf, especially when such serious commitments are being considered. That's good leadership, and it's also the right thing to do. Imagine if the First District had not had representation over Pier J. The Green Port Policy, the Middle Harbor or other mega influencing projects from the Port of Long Beach that have daily impacts on Long Beach residents. If the Second District was not represented in discussions on our downtown plan, Civic Center ideas or the Entertainment District Studies, if the third district leadership was vacant without direction on the wetlands development, the second and PCH controversial plans, the Belmont Plaza Pool or the Naples seawalls, the fifth District. As homogenous as it appears, houses one of the most controversial aspects of our city, our airport, just as the port and the downtown belongs to everyone, regardless of their home district. So does the airport, which lies in the center of some of our most successful neighborhoods. The fifth has been faced with challenges with the transfer of McDonnell Douglas to Boeing, the massive reductions of Boeing, and then, of course, the direction of the Boeing development would take what it would take to best benefit and protect Long Beach and its citizens, the sixth District. It's a challenged community that bears the scars of poverty and the reputation of being outcast. Without a dedicated community person to lead, would they have found the solution to the loss of the Kroc Center at Shattuck Field or seen positive development within and around Cambodia town, the seventh District? In many ways a tale of two cities without a leader to champion the 710 expansion plan or the up and coming skate project. What would those neighborhoods be confronted with today? Ray I. Got a. Are you going to make me stop before I get to the district? It's not you know, I can I know I have to follow I have to follow the rules, actually. You know, the rules do allow you to give me 30 seconds. Right. But I'll tell you what, I don't have to go. What I'm going to do is as a as a as a deference. You are a former member of this body. I will let you finish, but I'd want the public to know that generally if it wasn't because you're in a formal council, it's very difficult to continue. So please continue. I appreciate that, Mayor. Our eighth district representatives have always been required to educate and lead our city when it comes to issues related to our Long Beach airport. Imagine if there had not been an ED toddler, Jeff Kellogg on board to provide direction. Thank you, Al. And thank you, Roberto, for taking the lead on this. And then finally, the ninth District, much like the sixth uptown, has felt isolated and ignored for many, many years without the leadership and vision of Jerry Schultz, Val Lurch, Steve Neal and now Rex Richardson. What would the conditions be up there today? Together. The nine districts make up our vibrant, diverse city of Long Beach. What happens to one district will eventually in some way impact the others, creating ample time for the next fourth district councilperson to settle in. Allows time for each one of you to better understand the history of our airport. Where I got. To. It gives you time. It gives you time to consider the pros and cons and the benefits and the risks. Thank you very much. Thank you very. Next speaker. Hello. My name is Richard Lindemann. I'm running for the fourth District Council seat. My address is 1605 Ohio Avenue. And I want to thank Alison. And Roberto Urunga for bringing forth this measure. And I think. Either 90 days or 60 days is probably a good thing. And I'll give part of my. Time to her so. It'll it'll work out okay. But I really appreciate it. And I think I truly think that we need to have a voice on the on the council. So I hope that you do pass this. And safety measure for us. Thank you. Thank you for your work. And I if there's anyone else wants to speak, I'm going to close the speakers list with you. If you're not up to the podium, please. No. Okay. I'm going to close I'm going to close the speakers list. You're our last speaker. Please begin. Hi. My name is Robert Casado. I live on a 2235 Miramar Avenue. I'm in the fifth District. Thank you for increasing the wattage on our lights on our street. We really appreciate that. I don't have any stats or any numbers here to show you or. To give you. What I do have is a love for aircraft. I grew up in La mirada, close to Fort and airport, always listening to private planes fly over. There was always air shows. I lived in Torrance for a while, close to Zamperini airfield, which was wonderful because there's always small aircraft flying Long Beach. I love Long Beach more than anything right now because it has a wonderful airport for short flights. For me, it's perfect. Sitting on my couch watching. TV, I can. Watch C-17s take off. I can watch F-18s go 500 miles an hour, pass the tower. I can watch. B-17s. B-29, super fortresses and any vintage aircraft fly over my house, you know, a few times a year. So my love for the aircraft, I turn into a schoolboy when I hear the radial engines of the Catalina airboats flying over just because it sounds different now, nobody does. That for 747 or 737. Or anything like that, because every jet engine like that of. That size sounds the same to me. My love for Long Beach is huge. I don't ever want to leave it. I love it so much. I love my fit district. I do a lot, but I honestly don't have.

Any numbers or anything here that's substantial. Except for a love of the aircraft. If you add more aircraft, more large aircraft, you're taking away the airspace from our pilots who have private planes, small helicopters, and you're taking it away from our World War Two veterans who sometimes come to Long Beach in those World War Two aircraft they fought. And so by taking up that space, you're taking away the love that I have for everything that is Long Beach and JetBlue. You just lost a customer. Oh, okay. Thank you, sir. That that concludes our speakers list and certainly, I think everybody for giving their comments. So we're going to go back to the city council and just so that we get a reminder of where we're at. City Attorney There is a motion on the floor just as a reminder from Mr. Austin and Mr. Rangel, which is at present. Is that correct, sir? That's correct. Mayor. The motion on the floor, as I currently understand it, is and I'm not sure if the friendly amendment was accepted, but it would be to delay. Further action for the direction of City Council and direct city manager to delay any request for direction regarding a customs facility until either 90 days or 60 days after full representation. So this would require the city manager to put an item on the agenda after 60 days. The Councilmember for the fourth district is in their seat for 60 days. Okay. So that so I'm not I don't care who made that friendly to Councilman Pryce did. So I want to be sure we know where we're at before we continue the speaker's list here. So, Mr. Austin. Mr. Austin, are you accepting that friendly 90. You know what? I want to wait to hear from the rest of the council on this. Okay. We accept the friendly women. Okay. So then the motion on the floor is as presented just for the record then. So I have speakers list councilman mongo. So let's start out on a positive note. I want to promote that this weekend we are having a fly in the Ford event at the airport and I hope that each of you will take an opportunity to revisit and appreciate the airport as it is today. Even if the vote did not pass tonight, that means that this would still be. Delayed at least through the study process through at least August. I want to make a couple of quick comments. Once elected. Knowing the importance of this item, I quickly met with the advocates and adversaries of the airport, including the Honorable. Where did she go? Where did she go? There she is. And Joe Suppo. And since then I have met with Joe, who, while I do not have his phone number, we do email occasionally and. I want to say that I do listen to public comment, and I really appreciate the comment from Mario Cruz, because while I do feel that every vote I take is a big part of this city's future, I always have such a positive attitude. I never considered the fact that the fourth District couldn't recall me. But it is true, and I appreciate that component. And that being said. I also want to support the person who said that the fee for landing after hours is not enough. I constantly hear planes land after that hour. Every time a plane lands after that hour, I get a call from my mother, of which I remind her to call the noise hotline so that the airline has to pay a fee to the library. But I cannot increase that fee without causing potential risk to the noise ordinance. And so that is why we keep the status quo in regard to that component. If it were my choice, it would be five to 10 to $15000 per violation as it escalated with multiple. Issues. So let me let me offer a. A friendly amendment. I would like to have the study back and then I want 60 days because I want to use that 60 days to go into my community and have community meetings. And so having 60 days before nothing happens, which makes no sense because right now the city manager said he's not coming back until August. And so. That is significantly more time than is necessary for our colleagues to get up to speed. So what I would like to do is I would like the study to begin immediately and then I would like the two from four to the council so that and I would like it published publicly on the three website. So then I can email my mailing list, schedule one or two community meetings to hear how the communities which many of my community neighborhoods also fall in this district. And so then that would give me the time to go out and do the legwork. Because one of the things that really. Frustrated me about other items that come before this council is that they are given they give us ten days and ten days is not even enough time to get a community group together to discuss these kinds of matters. And so I think it's actually about the same amount of time that you are asking for, but in backwards order. Oh, no, no, no. Okay, I'm not. Hey, guys. I want to make sure that behind the dinosaur real quick. So just so I'm clear, Councilman Mango is asking for a friendly amendment to Councilman Austin. Councilor Brosnan. So Councilmember Mongeau, I do appreciate the the brainpower that you put toward this and the willingness to to kind of meet in the middle. But I don't see that as a friendly amendment. And I will tell you why, because the the intent here is to get a fourth District Council member seated and then have that person as part of the process. In terms of whatever study there is there, there are going to be points and issues that that that we deliberate as a city council to give direction to the city manager on. And so that is the intent of the the the motion here. I guess. Oh, don't clap yet. I guess the challenge for me on that is when the city management and the staff who we pay a great deal of money to and trust for, if we don't like what they do, we then have the opportunity to then remove that city manager. But I do put a lot of trust in them and the work that they do and they do gain direction. So I'm going to make a substitute motion that we begin the study and then the motion comes before co uncil 60 days after that, so that I have time to go and reach into the communities and hear their feedback. Because while it's great to have a bunch of people come to council, I hear time and time again from the East Side that it is difficult for our parents and our soccer moms and all of the rest of them to make it down to City Hall on a Tuesday night at 5:00. And so I want to have those meetings in my community. Okay. Hey, guys. I want to make sure that we're we have a process that's respectful to it's hard to hear when there's people chatting. So I want to make sure that we're the council is able to deliberate fairly, but I want to make sure that I understand the substitute motion as I'm not sure. So the substitute motion was to begin the process of gathering the research now. And then the fourth district member sat and then six days after that, what exactly what happens? So I would like it to come as a two from four memo to the City Council posted on the website so that the community can deliberate for 60 days and discuss the ideas that are presented and or then make direction to the city manager to do additional studies. Because what I don't want is a bunch of meetings with no data. I don't think we can afford a customs terminal. I don't know where people think we're going to get ten, 20, $30 million. I don't know why there's a point of even discussing it if we don't know the facts behind it. So I would like the facts gathered. That's why. Okay. So there's. So just for the record, there's a substitute motion. And is there a second on the substitute? Yes, there's a second on the substitute. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. And now we're going to move on to the speaker's list, which we have. So we'll continue that. And ladies and gentlemen, I want to make sure that we got we are we want you to be respectful. The council was respectful when everyone spoke. I want to make sure that we're all respectful to this deliberation process. This is we go through this on every issue that is big. And it's very important to obviously all of you. But please give the council the respect that they so they can deliberate. I also want you all to hear the comments. So thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I. Want to reiterate that I support

Councilmember Austin on this and I understand the intent behind it. One of my residents, Mr. Salt, spoke, and I respect him and I have incredible respect for him. But I wanted to talk a little bit about a few things that he said, because he is one of my residents and he's someone who has a great deal of experience with this. This is going to be a long term process. And I just think that there is no harm in waiting for our full body to be here as we start this process together. And I appreciate some of the comments that folks have made about, you know, you don't know the history. That's true. That's true. Certainly people with much more extensive experience and history of the airport could have run for office, but they're n ot here. So the reality is that, you know, we took the as glamorous as it may seem, the process of jumping out there and trying to serve our communities. And we are trying to educate ourselves and understand the history. And I'm meeting with anybody who wants to meet with me on this issue. I've been meeting with everybody. And and I'm going to continue to do that. But I want to make it very clear that there is nobody sitting up here that knows the third district the way I know the third district. There is nobody up here that cares about the third district the way I care about the third district. I wake up every morning, every day. I represent the entire city, but I know my district in and out and I know what those people need. And I'm going to always fight for them. I represent the entire city, but I think just because of the introduction that I've received of the fourth District, specifically their businesses in regards to the medical marijuana issue, that they currently feel a void in representation because they had a very strong advocate for a long time and they no longer have that person. And I think that is a very valid point. And I told Council member Austin from day one when we started talking about this, that I would support him on this. The reason I offered the friendly of 60 is to try to reach some middle ground so that we could be somewhat united as a council. I mean, that would be my hope because I'm going to tell you right now that and I appreciate the mayor clarifying that the issue before us tonight is when we're going to start this process. It's not the viability of an international terminal. I mean, it's not whether we like JetBlue or not. I fly JetBlue with my family. I think they've been incredible business partners. I don't think that's the issue tonight. I think the issue is when do we start this process? I, for one, am completely open to exploring the idea. I'm not against this idea. I'm open to exploring it and studying it. It's just a matter of when do we start that process? That is the limit of the discussion tonight. And we're talking about a three year process. I don't think 60 days or 90 days, I don't think is is any amount of time in the big scheme of things. I will say that one of the reasons I recommended 60 Days was because I feel that the authors of this item didn't feel that strongly about the 90 days to begin with, that they were open to considering a different timeline. It's not that they were steadfast on the 90 days, and so it was really is a point of compromise to try to get us all together. But you know what? We don't all have to be together. We don't all have to be united. That's okay. It's nice if we proceed that way, but that doesn't always work out. So that's my recommendation. I will be supporting Councilman Austin, and I would hope that he would consider the friendly amendment even if it doesn't result in consensus. I would hope that he would. I think 60 days is going to be enough time for our new cou ncil colleague to engage and meaningfully take this on. That's just my opinion. Thank you, Councilwoman. Next up is Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Okay. And so right now we have the substitute. Is that right? Councilmember Price. I think the comments that you had made, were you asking about a friendly to Councilmember Mango's motion? I am checking for clarification right now, but I had made a friendly and. Councilman Austin had said he would like to wait until he hears from his colleagues to decide whether he'd accept. Just a point of order. I don't believe I can accept that friendly right now. But should it come back and the motion before us fell on that friendly, we could definitely have a favorable conversation about a friendly amendment. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you for that clarification. I want to thank Councilwoman Price for her comments. I agree with you. I'm not in favor of not seeking information. I do want to know and have this issue vetted. I think it needs to be vetted. But I also respect and value the opinions that you come to this council with tonight. While you might not be representative of the entire fourth District or fifth District or the entire city, you've taken the time to come out here. And and what I can hear is that you would like more time for this deliberation. I agree with that. At the same time, I also have never been in favor of stopping our insatiable quest for information, for knowledge. And I think that's part of why we're here as well. We're not here because we know all the answers or we have all the data I count on. And I think each council member counts on our staff and whomever the staff hires with council direction on the information that they bring back, there's just no way this is a part time council. And so I would be troubled if we actually put a halt to acquiring the knowledge. And so I'm not fearful of that. I'm not fearful of what the outcome might be. I actually like to more no more than less. And so, Councilmember Austin, given that this is something that you're working on, you feel very passionate about, each of us feels very passionately about it as well. I mean, none of us has a monopoly on any particular issue, but. Would you be open to? Councilmember Mango's motion, if I can recall it correctly, is to continue work. And have I believe she said have the two for from come back in 90 days would you be open to. No. Can you repeat that. The two four from would still take I think the city manager said five months. So that would be August and then that would give us time, 60 days, August and September to meet with our community. My fear is if we move this into the Christmas time, turnout from the community plummets. And so I was hoping to have really good, nourishing dialog with my constituents with facts in my hand. I don't want to have meetings that have no facts. And so I was just looking for data. And then 60 days, it actually comes out to the same or more time than our asked for, which is why I'm so c onfused of why the crowd didn't like it, because it it just makes no sense to me. I'm confused, I think probably because I was perhaps my being confused wasn't unique. Okay, now I understand that does sound like the right the same amount of time as Councilmember Austin had asked for. And so if we can focus on one key aspect that you raised, Councilmember Austin, which I think others have raised and concur with, is the seating of the Fourth District Council member. I believe it's very important. It's critical. And so if we can benchmark. Whatever motion it is to first that person being seated. But also make sure the staff doesn't stop its work. I'm what I don't want us to communicate is that we are afraid of continuing research and work. When the point of decision comes back, that council member will be here to provide direction, to provide input, to deliberate with the rest of us. We are not taking action. And so my question is, would you be open to a motion that whether it's council member Mungo's or your own, a motion that would ensure that the fourth District Council person is seated? Staff is able to continue its work that we are not putting a gag order on their due diligence, which is really in all of our best interest at least to have that knowledge. You don't have to act on the knowledge. I don't either. And then to determine a time frame when the item comes back after the person is seated, whether that's 60 days, 90 days, sometime before Christmas, I hope, because I agree. I think Thanksgiving to Christmas is an unfortunate time for policy items, but not for anything else. So would you consider that? The long and short answer is no because. Because the point, the spirit and intent of the agenda item was to halt any work that has been done up to this point. You know, I think it's important for the city council to have input in on the direction on how we move forward. We just got a letter last week from Jet Blue, right. Asking us to move forward again. They are asking us to move forward. Not compelling us, not pushing us. There's nothing in their letter that says we have to move forward at all. Be quite honest with you. So. So I like Councilmember Pryce and many other council members. I'm open to hearing the case, but I don't think we should be committing any more staff resources because we've already committed quite a bit up to this point without council direction. We need to make sure that there is clear council direction on how we move forward and proceed forward. And a fourth district representative needs to be seated. For us to do that. Okay. I know. They surprise me a little. So thank you, Councilmember Austin. I think that's. I'm I'm glad I asked the question and I have that clarification from you. For the most part, I agree with you. I mean, I'm not in agreement over staff stopping work. So if I can ask, Mr. West, what is this work that just I know you've said it a couple of times, but please reiterate it for me. What is this work t hat you're doing? I think it's clear that back in 2013, JetBlue approached our current airport director, Mario Rodriguez, and there were discussions. There were two memos that were sent to the city council regarding those discussions. At that time, there was a lot of things happening in the city where the Civic Center going. We had a lot of stuff going on at Tidelands. So I directed Mr. Rodriguez just to stop and let's wait until we cleared our plate a little bit to go forward. A few months later, Mr. Rodriguez left us for another position, and then we made the decision. I made the decision informing the council that we weren't going to take this up until Mr. Francis was seated. So Mr. Francis is seated. So this brings us to where we're at today. So at this stage, what we would do with the council direction would go hire an expert firm in the customs arena, and they would work with us to provide us the metrics where we could come to the city council and let you know whether this is something that can possibly be done financially. Can it be done administratively? Can it be done operatively? Can it be done geographically? Where would you put it and how would it operate and all that? Again, this would not carry any recommendation whatsoever. If we found out early on that it doesn't make financial sense. If it doesn't make financial sense, we wouldn't go forward with it. But after a five month period with this consultant looking at industry standards for airports and look at airports of our size throughout America that have done this kind of stuff, then in five months, we'd given that study to the city council. Then the city council would discuss that study and what to do with it. Okay. Thank you. So I would like to make a substitute. Substitute motion. And that motion would be to start the process or continue the process, as Mr. West has indicated, and come back in 90 days after the council district. I'm sorry, after the member of the council. It's a little late night after the fourth District Council member is seated. It's not. Okay. So, guys, ladies. Gentlemen, I can't continue that. Please. I just want to make sure we're being respectful. That's a different motion than the original motion. So I just want to make sure that we're being respectful. The difference and the key difference of that motion and the original motion. Correct me if I'm wrong, Mr. City Attorney, is that Mr. Austin's original motion would come back for an affirmative vote of the council before automatically moving forward. Is that is that correct? That's correct. The original motion asked for direction from the council prior to beginning the study is described. So that's that's a very different motion. So I just want to make sure that that we're very clear. Okay. So we have now a a substitute substitute. Is there a second on the substitute substitute? Okay. There is a second. Can you. Okay, so let me just get clarity. You got how many? How much time is this? 90 days after the p erson is seated in the fourth district. So the way I see this before. I mean. Well, hold on, Councilman. You're next on the Q. So, no, I don't I'm not I have questions about her motion. You can you can go into it because you're next on the Q. So I'm tracking this. So it looks like Councilman Austin's motion says, okay, folks, get seat in two months in the fourth District. Correct. And 30 days after the election, they'll get seated. Right? They'll get seated. They won't get seated the day they're elected. It's when they get seat. Two months from now, they get seated. Then three months it would come back to the council after after 90 days per your motion, it will come back to the council. So that puts us at five months. Okay. Or friendly 60. And then it and then it says five months later, there will be. That's how long it takes for the study to be concluded. The correct city manager. Five months. The study would take approximately five months. So five months. My calculation that puts us January 2016 is ten months from now. That puts us in January. Councilmember Vice Mayor, where does your so yours has us in 30 days. Know it? How many days after the election? 90. So 90 days after the two months it takes for the person. Not after the election. After they're seated. So after they're seated. Correct. They'll be seated in May. So that puts us at five months from now. So five months from now, that puts us in one August. So the question between the two motions are when the city council gets a vote on it. August or December. And the key difference between the two, I think, is it's also when staff would actually begin the data collection piece and so on. On Councilman Austin's motion, the data collection would not begin until sometime a few a couple of months after the council person is seated. But for that data collection to begin, it would first require a affirmative vote of the city council. The difference with Vice Mayor Lowenthal is motion is the motion. Would the process for the city manager would begin now, which, according to the city manager would take approximately five months. And so that the that the couple of months after the person is seated would fall around five months. And so it would be around the the August time period. So that's I think that's the difference. Here's here's the challenge that I want to I want to get to a place. I'm hoping that we can get to a place. And I understand you have a motion. And because I have the floor, I could second it. But I want to see if things are still malleable. Here's here's what I'd like to see. There's the difference between the two or is a difference of five months. And I need to have an understanding, like right now, the way I see this is very the council's very divided. I'd like to see if there's some middle ground and see if there's a place, if Councilmember Alston, like what do you really want to get out of this? Do you want to get this? January 2016 is where you want to take up this issue. Is t hat what you're trying to get to or in council vice chair more so I see this timeline is the same timeline that the that the city manager put forth. If he were to start today, it would take five months. So five months from today would be essentially the same timeline. So we've got a five month gap and I don't want to be in a place where we're being divisive. Let's meet in the middle. That's my

that's what I'm offering to be met in the middle. One person is saying January, another person is saying August, meet in the middle. Is that possible? There's no substitute substitute right now. You have a substitute. You can change it to meet in the middle. If I hear from Councilmember. Actually, just to clarify, let me clarify. I have the. Floor. There. No, let me clarify that. Is this a substitute substitute motion? There was a substitute motion by Councilwoman Mongeau. I understand we're talking about the substitute. Which has a sup which has a second. It has a second. It does have a second. It does. But I'm still listening, though. I am still listening, thinking I'm sorry I don't have. The I want to get to a place where honestly there's going to be a discussion about the international airport and we will have to take an up and down vote on it. And what we're talking about right now is whether we have when we take that vote between August and January and honestly, the ninth District, I said it earlier, we're not in the flight path. I want to be neighborly. I think there were some good concerns today about the fourth District not being seated. I would hate for those things to happen. I feel that everybody on the council here feels the same way. So what I'm trying to get to is I want to debunk and get past all the high energy here and get to a compromise. Can you guys meet in the middle? Mr. Mayor, may I just give a quick response to that? Absolutely. So what is really important for me is to not stop our learning process and to not stop acquisition of information. That's that's important to me. I'm troubled by our direction that we stop staff from doing their work or the work that I trust them to do. I have many items on my policy plate that I'm not ready to take a position on today, but my staff is still vetting it. They're not waiting until I'm ready to take a vote and things take years. And so that's my most important aspect to this motion, is not to stop staff work. I think that's irresponsible. I understand. So what I'm trying to hope I'm just driving a conversation that hopes hopefully gets to a meeting in the middle and if there's any, that's what I want to get to. If I'm I hope that we can have that conversation here and then I'm not forced to be in a place where I have to pick between the airport and the community. I think we can be reasonable and we can get to this point. And and you guys all control the motion. I can take no action right now, which is what I would have done, but I can't take any action. So this is ultimately up to all of yo u, and I hope that you get there. Okay. Thank you. I may turn this back to the next speaker, which is Councilmember Austin. Yes. Thank you. And and as I predicted, this would get caught up in the friendlies the most and substitutes and substitute substitutes. And this is normal par for the course for this council. I appreciate the everybody trying to get somewhere. I want to be very clear. I work for the city of Long Beach. I represent the residents of Long Beach, not Jet Blue. And I'm not compelled to to move their agenda tonight without a sport district representative seated. This is about process. And what the the current motion fails to do is fails to give the city, the fourth district representative, a voice at the table. The item that I brought forth would. Halt the process. It would wait until there's an election. But it would also bring this item back before the city council and allow the city council to be part of the discussion in terms of process moving forward. We would give direction there. The way this is now is allow staff to just do what they do, you know, and have their own process without our input. And I think that's wrong. So I would really ask this this council to step up and understand that that moving forward would be irresponsible and, in my opinion, undemocratic if we were to to vote on it in favor of the substitute substitute motion or the substitute motion. I want to get back to the original motion and the intent of what we came here to do tonight night. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you. I have so I have I have two more speakers. And then we're going to go back to the motions, which of which there are three on the floor. And I will repeat those and make clear clarify those before we move forward. Next up, I have Councilwoman Mango. Thank you. Councilmember Richardson, my motion is in the middle. And let me tell you why. My motion gives us information by which we can vet with our community to come back to the council in November, which is between August and January. And at that time, we can give direction for additional information or not. But what I don't want is for us to come back in 90 days to give direction to the city manager with no more information than we have tonight. And that's that's where I'm stuck again. I'm not here to advocate for one side or the other. What I'm here to advocate for is information and a place in the middle. And so. If that met what Councilmember Richardson was thinking and hopefully meets what everyone else is thinking, then maybe we'll vote down the substitute. Substitute and get to the substitute. Just a thought. Okay. And the final speaker we have council. Council member. You're Ranga. And then we're going to go to the substitutes motions and go down the go down there. So consider your anger. Okay, so now I'm all confused. No, I'm only kidding. Basically, what it comes down to is not. Whether we continue forward or hold it for longer or cut it shorter or initiate a process or not. Wh

at it's all about and what our original motion was or is, because it's still there on the table. Is to wait until a fourth district representative is seated. At that point, we start the process of informing staff or giving staff direction about how we want to study conducted. It's a council driven process as opposed to a staff driven, driven process. We provide we provide guidance and direction to staff as to what we want to see in this study. That's why we wanted to have to wait for a election to take place with a person to get seated, to get acclimated, and then once that happens, start giving direction to staff. What we want to see in the study, whether it's what's the effects going to be on the noise ordinance, what the effect is going to be in the flight, on the number of flights, all of that. Because that fourth district representative is going to have to have all that information in order to make a responsible, sound, informed decision. And if we and if we say that, okay, we do it now. Start the process now. That's a staff driven process. That's not what we're after. What we're after is a council driven process. And that's where we have to take control here behind these, not over there, with all due respect to my colleagues. So that's where I want to go back to my origin. Our original motion is to wait for the 90 days. If it's 60, fine, but 90 days after the person is seated so that that individual can become part of the process and helping to direct staff how we want the study conducted. Thank you. And I. I have one. I think I have one final person cued up. And then, Councilor Richardson, did you queue up again? So. That's right. I'm the guy who didn't want to talk about this. So. So. So I'm just I'm. I won't. I hoped that we got to a place that it was like a meeting in the middle, because at the end of the day, like, the council is going to have to vote on this how to vote on this airport, the motion that's on the floor. It doesn't take me where I want to go. I'm not going to be supporting that motion. And and I think so. I'm not going to be supporting that. And I appreciate Councilmember Mungo's suggestions. I would be open to considering that if, you know, I, I want to get to that point where we can talk about it, because it seems like there's been like maybe one or two people talking compromise, maybe three people in the council talking compromise. And we need to at least I think there's there's some entrenched sides here. And I think we need to get to the folks in the middle to make this motion. So that's where I want to be. So I won't be supporting the motion on the floor. Okay. Now I'm going back to I have I have summary low and thought of cued up. There you go. So if I hear you correctly, Rex, I think you're right. There are several of us here and probably all of us that would like to work toward a compromise. This isn't something that should be. Bare minimum votes. And so I'm willing to withdraw my motion and I will be supporting

Councilmember Mango's substitute motion. Can I do that, miss? Yes. We're just. We're. Madam Clerk. We're going to go ahead and withdraw the. The substitute. Substitute? And now we have a substitute motion on the floor, which is the manga motion. Okay. Correct. Okay. I'm going to restate it for you forward. Vice President, are you out? Do you have anything additional? No. So it doesn't have names next to the substitute, do they? Thank you. Mongo and Lowenthal. Okay. Thank you. Now, I'm going to go before I move on to Councilman Price, who's next cued up. We are on the substitute motion and I'm going to have Mr. Sinatra. Do you want to repeat the motion for the council? MAYOR Members of the council. The substitute motion, I believe, made by Council District five and second by Council District two was to direct the city manager to begin the study immediately. And that process would take approximately five months at the conclusion of the study. The study would then be provided to the Council in a memo form to be published on the city website and then would be brought back to the council 60 days after it's published. Okay. That's the substitute motion on the floor. I do have a short speakers list. I'm going to get through that. Councilman Price. I guess the trouble I'm having is. What. Are we foreclosed from doing? Outreach with our communities if we wait 60 days or 90 days? I mean, I guess that's what I don't understand. So for me, I feel like the staff is going to be doing their work. And unless I've missed something, it's not like they're going to be reporting back to us regularly such that we have this updated information. I think they're saying it's going to take them about five months to do their study and their their research and what they have to do. So I don't know that we would have actual, tangible information any way to do outreach with the community. So for me, you know, I would like to do outreach with the community as well. I just you know, in the big scheme of things, I just don't think we're talking about that much time. And I've communicated this to people that are proponents of moving this forward is that I don't know that this is the battle that's worth the fight right now, because all we're asking for is a little bit of time to allow the fourth district representative to be involved in the process. Let's say, for example, that staff starts this process and there is a legitimate concern or idea. I mean, sometimes my council colleagues have great ideas that I didn't think about. They're brilliant in many ways. And so and sometimes they highlight things that I would have never thought about. Let's say our new councilperson has an idea or thought of something they'd like the staff to explore or look into that they know is going to affect them. Or of course, they'll have the opportunity to do that after the study is done. But to me, it makes sense for them to be involved in the process like we are. We're all involved in the process to gether. And so I don't think we're foreclosed from doing outreach and doing that meaningful community outreach when we if if we wait. That's that's all I'm saying. I might be missing something here. I just I guess what I'm and perhaps it's because I don't know the history. To me, it seems like this is not an unreasonable request for for a delay. I just it seems reasonable to me under the circumstances. So with that. Thank you, Councilwoman Price, Councilmember Austin. Starting the work. Again. I'd just like to first of all, thank all of the people who have endured and stay with this all night here. Obviously, this is an important issue and the council is giving it the the time it deserves and the thought it deserves moving forward. I'm going to go back to the original intent here. And again, I think council member Urunga summed it up best. This is a we're trying to accomplish a council driven agenda here on on anything moving forward with the customs facility at Long Beach Airport. Again, the staff has been working on this issue for close to two years. There has been feasibility studies that I see you shaking your head. Council, I mean, City Manager West. Can you tell us how much has been currently committed in terms of resources to to to this to this to this effort? I can't tell you entirely, because the resources committed. Were back in October and November of. 2013, as I mentioned, because we had so much on our plate after we brought the memos to the city council's attention regarding the work that Mr. Rodriguez was doing with Jet Blue. I personally made the decision because our workload was so tight to just stop this until we until we had some time to put some time into it, get to the city council. At that time, Mario then decided to leave. I pointed Reggie Harrison with the same direction to not engage JetBlue, not to process this. So I can affirmatively tell the city council with, with all due respect, that no work on this has been done since November 13. Okay. Well, that's what we're showing. And thank you for that clarification. There was a feasibility study done. There was a consultant hired to do that feasibility study. That feasibility study is available as public record as I believe. And so to to satisfy somebody's insatiable quest for knowledge that our council and council colleagues may have. There is some information out there and there has been work done. Again, we are trying to get to a point where this is a council driven situation where we can eliminate all of the the the the the conspiracies out there. We can do this in a transparent way. The process will be clear. And so, therefore, I'd like to offer a substitute substantive motion to incorporate the original motion, but ensure that. That after 60 days the city council can provide is is in a position where after 60 days the city council can provide city manager direction on how to proceed forward with the request for international customs facility. Okay. Mr. City, attorney. M ayor and members of the council that I don't see any distinction between your original motion, which requires the city manager. Well, let me. Clarify let me clarify that. Let me clarify myself. The two steps to motion will ask for 67 days as opposed to 60. That that wouldn't be a substantial change in order to make it. Well. The original motion was 90 days. So I think the substitute substitute motion incorporates the friendly and we'll days to 60 days. The question on the floor would have been, had you already accepted the friendly amendment and you had he mentioned a couple of times he. Has not accept the fact. No. Can I be heard on that? Real quick. Just real quick. So I'm sure there's a back over to the person who has the floor. But that fully amendment was not accepted by the councilmember yet. Councilmember Austin, Susie Price had a point of view. Do you have a point of order? Well, I do, actually. When I originally made the friendly councilman, Austin accepted the friendly at that time. And as he did, he talked about how when he and Councilman Councilmember Urunga were discussing this agenda item, they talked about the 90 days, but that they weren't completely I'm in court all day long so I can transcribe things like it's nobody's business. He talked about how they they have they talked about the 90 days. They weren't tied to the 90 days. They thought that that was overly ambitious and that 60 days seemed reasonable. In my opinion, that was an acceptance of the friendly when then we did some confusing things. But when it came back to him, he said, I want to hear from the rest of the council. By that point, he had already accepted the amendment. Well, just Mr. City Attorney. I was under the impression that he did not accept the friendly amendment. But we can roll the tape. I don't think we need to roll the tape, but I think that I wasn't clear on whether it was accepted. I respect Councilwoman Price's position, but I think it was he wanted to hear it. I wanted to hear additional comments before I accepted their friendly stance. So that so the difference, as I understand the substitute substitute motion now incorporates the friendly it requests the further direction from the City Council, which was already in your original motion and changes it from 90 days to 60 days. And the subsequent change, in my view, is that 90 to 60 days of the motion. So that's correct. Okay. We're going to go through the motions. There is a substitute substitute motion that is essentially Councilmember Austin's main motion with the change from 90 to 60. Okay. Then we have a substitute substitute motion, which is the mongeau motion, which begins a process today or at this time, but then waits until 60 days after to come back to it, to come back to council for more direction. And then there's the main motion, which is the motion that we have before us, which is back to 90 days. All right. Those are the three motions on the floor. We're going to go ahead now. Go to two votes on these motions. Madam Clerk, are you. Are you correct? You ready? Okay, so on the substitute substitute motion, please cast your votes. This is the motion by Al Austin. Council member, Austin. Every motion carries for three. Okay. So the motion. The motion carries. Okay. All right. So now just just just to be clear. The City attorney. So I want to be sure everyone's issue like this is important that where everyone's on the same page. So do you want to repeat what past? Certainly, Mayor, members of the council, the substitute substitute motion passed 4 to 3 to withhold any action by the city manager until 90 days are until 60 days after full representation or until the 60 days after the fourth District Council person is seated, at which time the city manager will come back to the City Council for additional direction on the study for regarding a customs facility. Thank you. And what I want to just say, I know I haven't had a chance to say any comments. I want to make sure that a few things. One is, I want to thank everybody for coming out. I know this is an incredibly important issue to a lot of people, and it's important for us to hear all points of view on any issue before the council. And so I know it's contentious. I know it's emotional. I know that for a lot of you, you've been in this in this airport conversation for a very, very long time. That dates back before anybody was here, sat on this current council. So I understand that. And I also think it's important. I think staff understands that this is obviously clearly an incredibly important topic to a lot of folks, not just some of the council colleagues, but people in the community. And so as we move forward through this process, I think, Mr. West, the more that there's an opportunity to check in and provide, you know, public check ins about what the where the process is and where things are going, I think will serve everyone to ensure that people feel that there is a transparent process. And what I don't want what I don't want to happen is I don't want because listen, our staff works very hard and they have a lot of issues, not just this one that they're working on every single day. And they're also sometimes trying their best to get things done and bring information to the council and bring information to me as well. And what I want to make sure also is this is I think the more transparent we are in this process, I think it's not just better for the community, but it's Mr. West it's better for staff as well. I think everyone it's out it's out there and everyone gets a an even look into what's going on. So thanks again for coming down. We have a process and Madam Clerk, we're moving on. I'm sorry. Item. Yeah, we're. We're going to go to item 24 after a quick take a quick recess. So the one minute recess for a restroom. I'm going to roll the tape. Yeah. I want to know. How you do it. You know. Oh, my God. So I could. Like. I was going to ask her. She knows. Everything. But anyway

. Here is your time. You're doing all right. Oh, we love. I got the answer. Okay, so we're just like, Hey, we let it go. I want to catch. So I would conclude. I need to find out. When they we're allowed to go. Back here and talk to Mr. Brady. All right. Issue. Should. I have no idea what we're like. Yeah. Yeah. So there. Because I know I be able to hear. I just didn't want. Well. A better way. Yeah. I feel like. Yeah. So are you. Do you? Really? Oh, yeah. I feel like I'm going to. Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah. Be. Yeah. Where? People like you don't want. You got it right? No, not all. Well. It's not the. Okay. Why don't we go and back into session so I can have the council grab their seat? I would be like. Pretty. Okay. Madam Clerk. Would you like me to take a roll first? Vice Mayor Lowenthal Councilwoman Price. Councilwoman Mongo. Councilman Andrew's Council Member. You Ranga.

Councilman Austin. Councilmember Richardson. Mayor Garcia. I'm here. Thank you. Next item, please. Item 14 Report from Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Communications, Fire, Health and Human Resources and Police recommendation to execute a contract with the City of Los Angeles to receive and expand Department of Homeland Security Grant Fund for 2014. Urban Area Security Initiative Grant in the amount not to exceed 5,489,000 and increase and increase appropriations in the General Grant Fund in the Department of Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Communications. Fire. Health and Human Resources. Human Services and Police and Fire. Thank you. There's been a motion in a second by Austin and Andrews. Any public comment? Please come forward. Very good you suggest. We're talking about sizable sums of money here. And given the recent release of information from the wallet report that. Essentially says that Long Beach is has the second worst management in the country. I think it makes sense to ask for a amend this request and ask for a dollar amount sufficient. So the city can hire. A master. To oversee. The management of the city for at least the next six months. To make sure this money is well spent. I think the message will not be lost on the federal authorities. They don't like wasting money. And to, on its face, turn over large amounts of money. Where you've got malfeasance management. Even if we were the fourth worst in the country. It's a good business decision to. For them to hedge their bet. You can make the case. I think we should be able to get a good master for this city if we pay them at least. The same is where we are now. Blowing in the wind when we pay our city manager. Although quite frankly, I think I'd be willing to spend a little bit more. To get more confidence. So it makes sense. And I would hope this is a council. It it's not going to cost you anything to ask for it. The least they can say is no. And it will instill in them a little bit of confidence to say it will. Jesus, at least these people recognize they have a problem.

It's not that they don't know. All right. They recognize they have a problem. They're in a quandary. How to fix it. And maybe with these additional funds. We can fix that problem faster than the projected date that I see is now is probably August or September. Thank you. Thank you. Any other public comment? CNN members, please cast your vote. Motion carries eight zero. Next item 16. Item nine Communication from Councilwoman Mongo. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Councilman Andrews. Councilman Richardson recalled recommendation to cancel the city council meeting of August 4th, 2015, due to National Night Out. Thank you, Councilman Mango. National Night Out is a fantastic event that last year, once I was elected, was the first year that I could not attend, and we had several dozen community groups get together and host events in their communities. And I really felt like it was an important part of my role as a councilman to be encouraging the community groups to meet on National Night out and to stand up for themselves and public safety. And so I would hope that considering how long our council meetings go, it might just make more sense not to have one because we we thought last year we'd be out by seven and make the rounds. But Commander LeBaron and I weren't able to make it to any because of actually, I think he got out a little earlier than I did, but we were here so late that we couldn't attend any of them. So I hope that we will be supportive of getting out in our community and talking to the neighbors. Councilman Andrews. Yes, thank you, Mayor. You know, I'm glad that we brought this forward because I was wondering what it'd be like to attend the National Night Out. And then on Wednesday, the community comes together with, you know, with the various activities. And since I've been in my office, my staff members have always had to attend and volunteer if needed. So I'm looking forward to this myself, and thank you for bringing this forth. This is not going. Thank you, Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you, Councilmember Mongo, for bringing this forward. This is huge national night out and it continues to grow. We've got one of the best ones in the Gardenia Avenue BLOCK Club. You know, we've got a number of neighborhood associations who host them. And because I have come to city council meetings for the last five years since I was chief of staff as well, I've never had the chance to actually attend one of them. So. So I look forward to the opportunity of attending my first national night out because I will not be at the city council meeting. Should the city council vote on this item? Sure. Thank you. Next, we have a many Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I just wanted to appreciate Councilmember Mungo's effort to raise awareness and generate interest in crime prevention activities in our community. District to neighborhood and business associations have partnered with Long Beach PD to host National Night Out events in the past, an d I certainly welcome their collaboration this year. Hopefully if we are to take action on this, many of us will have an opportunity to visit these folks that are partnering with our police department. Thank you. Okay. Next up is. Sorry Councilman Rasta thank you. And I have myself attended many national night out so not since I've been on the council and you know I will be supporting this this motion. However, I do know that, you know, the reason we don't get an opportunity to do this generally is because this is this falls right in our budget cycle. And I was curious to know whether or not, you know, if the budget is going to be released on that day. Are you are we going to wait a week to comment on that? Or is there going to be a study session or anything like that? Yeah, there actually is going to be a study session, a pretty in-depth study session, from what I understand earlier in the day. Or it will be at four and then it will be over by the time the events start. At about 330. But I'm not I mean whatever time that it gets an upsetting but sure. Okay they'll figure it out. Nexus. That's it. There's any public comment on the item saying that please cast your votes. Motion carries eight zero. Item ten. Item ten, report from the city manager. Recommendation to increase contract with drill tech drilling and shoring for a total amount not to exceed 6,400,000 for the completion of the Ocean Boulevard Erosion and and Enhancement Phase two project. Complete the construction and increase appropriations for the Tidelands Operation Front in the City Manager Department by 1,700,000. Item 15, report from City Manager Recommendation to adopt three resolutions. First, to join the Victory Pace program. Second, to join the California first program. And number three, consenting to to inclusion of certain properties within the jurisdiction in the California Hero program. It was emotion, motion, a second and public comment. CNN. Please cast your vote. Oh. Was your public comment? Yeah. Please come forward. I thank you, Mr. Mayor. Thank you. Members of the council. My name is Alex Mitchell. I represent the hero program. Just wanted to let you know that the hero program. Has been in California for the last three and a half years. We're in. Over 20. We're in 28 counties, and we've completed over 29,000 energy efficient projects to make homes. Greener and more energy efficient. And this includes anything. From solar to water. Efficiency. We've done. Almost. $550 million in home improvements. And just in water. Alone, because that is a very important, timely issue. We have saved over 5. Billion gallons of water in homes and that's equivalent to 16 million showers. If you have any questions in regards to this issue. Please let me know. Thank you so much for taking this to council. Thank you. Next item, please. Cast a vote. Oh, with the vote. Sorry, it is late. Okay, let's go and take a vote. Mm hmm. Yeah. So motion carries seven zero. Okay. Next item. Item 30 Commu nication from Councilman. Councilman. Councilwoman. Mango. Councilwoman Gonzalez and Councilman Urunga. Recommendation to execute any and all documents necessary for a license between the City of Long Beach and the Sarris Regis Group for a short term use of former airport Lot De for a Long Beach ordered tent sale on May 15 through May 17th. District five. Jasmine Mango. As many of you know, I'm very passionate about working with our local retailers to ensure that Long Beach is receiving the amount of sales tax revenue annually that we should be receiving. Should Long Beach residents shop in Long Beach? What we have discovered is that in the car sales category we are significantly lacking. One of the things that we've done is we've brought together all the Long Beach car dealers and started a dialog among a dialog among them. And they have agreed that on the weekend of May 15th through 17th, they're going to do a regional car sale right here in Long Beach. And all of the revenue from the sale of those vehicles will come back to the general fund in terms of our sales tax percentage. So I think this is a big first step in first one, getting all of the car dealers in a room together that are usually competitors. It's been quite a process and I'm really pleased with the collegiality and cooperation among them for everything going from the logistics to the marketing. So thank you very much. This has been led by the Southern California Association of Car Dealers. Todd He's done a fantastic job and are major partners with Nick Worthington and Huffman and Timmins and the others. It has been just a rewarding experience and I look forward to them seeing Long Beach as the place where they want to do all of their business. Thank you, Katherine Gonzales. I just want to say thank you to Councilmember Mungo for bringing this forward. It is a really creative way to keep money in Long Beach. And so I just wanted to thank her for that. So. Okay. Councilmember Austin. Yes. I just want to congratulate Councilmember Mongeau and thank her for bringing this forward. This is innovative and will create a festive environment for people to spend money and hopefully the city will benefit from it. So I know you've been working hard on this for for several months. You've been talking about it, and it's great to see it finally come before the council. Thank you. The public comment.

CNN. Please cast your vote. Motion carries seven zero. Thank you. We're going to go now to announcements. Cam, just start off. I want to just begin by making an announcement that on April 26, I will be hosting with the Economy of the Pacific, a special abilities evening at the Aquarium. Next item. Item 24 Report from Public Works. Recommendation to execute an agreement with the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority in the amount of 260,000 and increase appropriations in the Capital Project Fund in the Public Works Department by 26,000 citywide. Okay. There's been a motion and a sec ond. Customer. Austin, do you want to speak to your motion at all? Sure. I just wanted to just encourage our full support for this particular item. We're really excited about this this grant from the MTA to put on a fantastic Open Streets event. It's unprecedented in the city of Long Beach. It is the route. It will be along Atlantic Avenue from Wardlow all the way up to Halton Park, and it will encompass three council districts. I'm looking very much forward to working with the Council District seven and nine, but with the entire city to make this a an amazing event. It's going to promote people to get out of their cars and on bikes. It's going to promote sustainable lifestyle, living throughout our community, something consistent with what we've been doing. And in my district and in other districts throughout the city for for several years now. This is a culmination. We're thrilled to have received this grant. And and it was a competitive grant. We actually beat out other areas throughout Southern California. They picked uptown Long Beach because of the exciting, exciting things that are going on in our community today. This is going to happen on June the sixth. You know, and I want to announce first Fridays. It's going to be June the fifth. And so it's going to be a lot of activity, particularly in the uptown communities. And I know Councilmember Urunga and Councilmember Richardson are are excited about this and working with our business improvement districts, the BCP, BIA, as well as the uptown bid to make this a and many neighborhood organizations to make this a fantastic event. So look forward to June the sixth and I hope you all can support this. Thank you, Councilman Richardson. I think Councilmember Austin said it best. This is a really exciting opportunity for us. We're really looking forward to June six. So I would encourage the entire city to come out. In a few weeks, we're going to do a joint council presentation with more specifics on what you can expect at Uptown Beach Street. So we're looking forward to that. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment saying please cast your votes? Councilwoman Mango. Motion carries seven zero. Next Item Item 25 Report from Public Works and Financial Management. Recommendation to award ten contracts for as needed traffic engineering, transportation planning and related technical and professional services. And enter into an agreement in an aggregate amount not to exceed $5 million for a three year term citywide. Item 14 Report from City Manager Recommendation to execute the First Amendment to lease with Golden 11 Golden Shore by city owned property adjacent to 11 Golden Shore District two. So your staff. Yes. Mike Conway, Mayor, members of the City Council, this is a request to extend the term of the lease to accommodate access to the golden shore development. This is Caitlyn's property has no other use than access to the property, but the owners of the property have been so kind as to increase th e rent substantially as of the end of the term. So I think the city is benefiting this as well. Ready to answer any questions? Thank you. Any public comment on the item? Okay. There's been a motion and a second. Please cast your votes. Motion carries six zero. I think probably the other folks are here for 28. So why don't I take that that next. Uh. Hold on. We just did. But we. We did 19. So why don't I take 28, which I think is the rest of the folks in the audience are here for 28, so let's do it. 28 Madam Clerk. Communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilmember Richardson, Councilman Andrews and Councilman, your recommendation to request the city manager and Pacific Gateway to complete a comprehensive study of what a local higher FSC program would entail and return to City Council within 45 days. Councilwoman. Yes. I first want to thank my council colleagues, Councilmember Richardson, Councilmember Andrews and Councilmember Otunga, as well as the minister's alliance. I know that from the play we were able to discuss local hire in length. And I think what we. One very important thing that we received from that was that we definitely needed a local hire policy or at least review one that was more comprehensive, that looked at not only just the construction industry, but other industries as well. And I am a council member that represents the 90813. And I know a lot of us have heard a lot about the 90813 and that it is upwards of 19% unemployment. And it's sad. And so I think this is not, you know, the whole answer to it, but it's certainly a really strong answer to unemployment and tackling that and seeing how we can work on that with public development and public dollars. And so I just think my my colleagues for doing that, I think the like I said, the local hire coalition for being a part of this as well and for continuing to work with us. And I think we'll be able to build something very strong here. So thank you. Thank you, Counsel Councilor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Thank you, Lina, for bringing this forward. This is this is some might see this as like clean up stuff from the play. But I really think that although this may not have the crowds, this is where the real juice is in terms of hiring our our residents there. This would cover not just construction jobs, but service jobs that the city that the city could look into as well. So I would want to just. The city's city staff have reported anything on this today. Just. Can we hear from Nick? Sure. Nick Schultz. No, we don't have a formal report for the council. We have had initial discussions related to the play with some of the local groups, the ministerial alliance and some of the council officers. And we look forward to continuing to work with those folks and develop a report within the 45 day request. I just want to thank the Council for for moving forward on this. And I want to say that this is an opportunity for us to include a lot of our pre apprenticeship programs

, particularly like like the Star program and the Ace Academy and YouthBuild and other other a lot of other programs into this. So. So thank you very much. And I encourage the Council to support. Not summary Ranga. Thank you, Mary. And I also want to thank my council members, my cup, my council member colleagues for including me in this motion, because I think it's more important that we have local agreements that are in line with project labor. Agreements mean that's how we get to be successful. And so I'm fully supportive of this and I'm looking forward to working again with our community groups and with the faith based groups. Faith based groups. Got a little list there. Some fun to work on this. Thank you very much. Thank you. Councilwoman Monk. I just wanted to make sure that this includes all types of jobs in the community, not just our labor jobs, but all of our local businesses. The benefit to a community where local hire is prevailing is not just in having your local residents have jobs, but also in the reduction of the commute for the whole region, the reduction of pollution for the whole region. So I just want to make sure that we look at incentives also for our local businesses to hire local and what percentage of their payroll would be local. Okay. Thank you. See no other comments. Is there any public comment on the item? Please come forward. Very good. Kirk has the address. I would suggest that if any outside were to look, follow this council meeting. And if you listen to the previous long three hour discussion on this other item and this, it would be positive proof that this is a dysfunctional organization where the left hand doesn't talk to the right hand. All of these have merit. This. This argues well for the fact that you jumped the gun. Because this could have it's actually this would mean more than just cleaning up. This could be an essential part of and should have been an essential part of Murray's right in. Without what you spent 3 hours talking about. I would suggest the left hand get to the right hand. And with all the money that this city is spending on communication, it would seem to me that you should start talking, communicating to each other. Let the left hand know what the right hand is doing. This has considerable merit, as does the other. There's no sense in horsing around and setting up two committees to commissions and wasting further time to do it. So I would suggest that we need some. Again, it goes to the issue. We need some better direction from the leadership of this city. Thank you. Next speaker. Good evening. Derek Simpson, again, executive director of Long Beach County Action Partnership. Though I've learned a lot in my life this last two months in this process has been quite the experience and education in terms of how we can do better about jobs in our community. And it's been because of, as the councilwoman said, the openness and the opportunity to sincerely share information in a way that we could m ake meaningful and sustainable decisions in our community. I want to thank you again for bringing this item to the agenda of the council tonight, because, as Mr. Richardson said, this is the juice. This is where I use the analogy as I was trying to understand how I could articulate it to you. I just recently bought a really, really nice camera and it does everything that I wanted to do, but I don't know how to make it do it. And I think that by reading my manual and understanding steps one through ten to get through any given process, it helps me get some absolutely wonderful pictures. I think in this case, with that play being a wonderful document, this indeed historic. This particular local hire policy will help us as a community understand how we get the results that it was intended to provide us as a community. So we really hope that we have that continued seat at the table to understand how this policy will help us understand better the play's implementation in our community and make the impact that it was intended to make. We want to ensure that each of you know that we're willing to share whatever information that we have and work with you to make this what it was intended to be. And thank you for bringing it this far with the support of your staff here at the city. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Alexander Hanham with the Legal Aid Foundation and the local hire coalition. In his recent State of the City address, Mayor Garcia encouraged businesses to invest in Long Beach and hire local residents. And with the play and with this agenda item, I think the council and the city have signaled that they're prepared to make that same investment. So we thank you for that and we're excited about that. We look forward to working with the Council to refine this policy to make sure that we can maximize that investment and the benefits to the city of Long Beach. Um. The local hiring policy can work if it's a three part policy, which includes a first class hiring program, local hiring policy for play construction and local hiring for non play construction. We're very excited about the possibility of a first source hiring program. Um, first source hiring can be a great way to, uh, give good jobs in certain sectors to local residents like the service industry. Like retail. Um. First force hiring cannot be used in conjunction with a play. Because unions are under legally binding agreements in the way that they hire for for a certain job. Um, if unions try to circumvent those agreements, then it can subject them to liability. They can violate their agreements. So it's important, in addition to the first source hiring, to have a play specific hiring policy to resolve the remaining questions that need to be answered to ensure that Long Beach residents get the maximum benefits from the play . Um, for example, the policy can spell out the requirements that a resident would need to, um, to qualify as a local resident or as a disadvantage d worker. Um, in addition, and more importantly, the policy can lay out the procedure that contractors must go through, um, to try to hire Long Beach workers before they open up jobs to residents of other cities. So before moving from Tier one to Tier two, what does a contractor have to show, have to demonstrate that they have done. Um, to try to fill those jobs that Long Beach residents. Um, it's our understanding that this policy will include a first class hiring program for non construction jobs as well as a program for play and non play construction jobs. Um, so we respectfully request clarification on that point. Um, but we're excited to work with the Council on this policy and we thank you for agenda item. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Ernest Roberts again, I think it's great that you guys are looking into the jobs coordinator role in a in a policy. I think that's very important. I can tell you that as has in our work in Los Angeles, we probably put something like 1700 people into the trades, into the various construction trades, the L.A. County building trades and the Carpenters. Um, and the processes in the policy would have to be really clear. I understand that there's been some confusion about the first horse, first horse hire and construction trades, and the first one does not work with union contractors. So even if the project is at $500,000 a union contract, it will still not be able to pull somebody off of a list. They're still going to have to go to the trades and get a dispatch. There's a lot of detail in this thing, but I think I'm glad that you're looking at this and I encourage you to use whatever expertise you can you can get your hands on. There's a lot of expertise here within our coalition and in labor to help you figure this out. A clear process of how the trades are going to move, I mean, move to get people from these colleges. You know, the apprenticeship programs are training programs in and of themselves. They generally don't need a lot of apprenticeship training. But I do understand that that's what you guys are doing and that's fine, but at least have a clear process of how that's going to happen and that's what the policy will do or does. So there's two parts to the policy as we see it, because the first horse hire stuff and then there's the stuff that deals with the construction trades and how that process, how the outreach, how the how the, how the, the network of agencies is going to contribute to this to the to this pipeline, which is why the pastors got involved in the first place. It's not unusual for them to see a lot of their congregation with significant issues that need need help in this area. That's why they're here. So just make sure that it happens. Also, for purposes of transparency, it might not be such a bad idea to think about having somebody from the community, somebody as knowledgeable about this as one of that six member panel for the oversight for the for the project labor a greement that will give some transparency, give some assurance to the to the pastors and the rest of the community that this process is open and clear. Thank you very much. Thank you. And I think our last speaker. Hello. Council Honorable Mayor Janine Pearce with Lane, Los Angeles Alliance for New Economy. I just want to applaud you guys for your vote earlier and applaud you for taking items. This item number 28, we would just like to say that we encourage us to look at a robust jobs program to ensure that our plan is really successful. And we'd really like to see a pre apprenticeship program that has a proven track record used as a model for what we can custom make for Long Beach. We want to ensure that low income residents are prioritized, as you already have. And and, of course, veterans making sure we have a carve out for that. At Lane. We have a proven track record of working with organizations like the Hospitality Training Academy as well as L.A. Trade Tech. And we would definitely like to work with Pacific Gateway in trying to make sure that our pipeline in Long Beach is strengthened to make sure that building trades can be successful. And not just in those industries, but also in the tourism industry where we, you know, have raised standards there. But we need to make sure that we're getting local residents into those jobs. And so I just applaud you guys and look forward to working with you on this. Thank you. Thank you very much, everyone, for coming in. We're going to turn this back to the council count tomorrow. Yes. Yes. Thank you. You know, I think especially in my district, I think without a doubt, the residents in this district, you know, that need the programs like this to get a jumpstart. And that's the needed to in order for them to succeed. So, you know, this is absolutely one of the ways that we can create, I think, really great jobs and thank all the our culture people bringing this to the diocese. Thank you again. Thank you. Councilman Ringa. Yeah. I, too, want to thank staff applicants for. However, what I've heard a lot about tonight is the input from the community in regards to not only the play, but the stadium as well. And what I'd like to see it for. From here forward, the next 45 days, your staff can reach out to the ministers, your clients to lean to. I mean, they're getting older. It's like, okay, thank you. To reach out and include them in this discussion because I think it's very important that we be as inclusive and transparent as we possibly can in this process. So I would encourage staff to please reach out to these other community groups that are in the audience as well and include them in the discussion. Thank you. We're going to go and go now to a vote. Obviously. Thank you to all the community that's been working on this. I know there's been a lot of a lot of meetings and hours and an interest. And I think just so that the community knows that things are important to note, that I think that we actually h ave a for us on the city side, we have an all star team on this. And I think we're all been very impressed with with Nick Shultz and his ability to do this. And I think he's very excited about the opportunity to bring something forward. And so we want to wish him and his whole team a lot of luck as we put this thing together. So with that is going to take a vote. Motion carries seven zero. Thank you. And now we're going to go ahead and go to 15. Item 29, Communication from Councilwoman Price, Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilman Richardson and Councilwoman Mungo. Recommendation to respectfully request the city manager to analyze the city city's current RFP process review RFP process used by other entities and report back within 90 days regarding recommendations to improve the city's procurement process. Councilman Price. Thank you. This is an item that basically requests staff to come back with some ideas on how we can improve our RFP process. We want to make sure that we have a very healthy and robust bidding process and that the scope of work that we put out there is relevant and accurate so that we have the best and most responsive bids. I also want to make sure that we take a look at our appeals process and determine whether or not we're giving folks sufficient time to appeal the process if they were not selected. Basically looking for efficiencies and ways to improve our RFP process. So I want to thank staff in advance for coming back to us with some recommendations. Thank you, Councilman Mungo. Second. As I mentioned at a prior council meeting, I feel that it's really important that more Long Beach contractors are encouraged to participate in this process. Specifically, we had a contract early on in our tenure where we were purchasing vehicles from outside the city and we were losing out on that. Sales tax revenue and that variance between the winning bid and the next bid was greater than we what we would have received in that sales tax revenue. But it's. Critical that Long Beach businesses have a fair stab at these events. So what we want to do is make sure that that's happening. So thank you very much. And I look forward to seeing a Long Beach component to this requirement. Thank you, Councilman Gonzales. Yes. Thank you. I wanted to thank Councilwoman Price for bringing this forward. I actually was on the same wavelength because I was going to bring something forward in relation to local preference, which I already know we have. But I just had a question about the specific local preference item that we already have. It says a ten. It's basically

Long Beach businesses get a 10% reduction. Can you explain that a little bit so I can understand that more clearly? Yes, Councilmember, this goes primarily for when we're buying good when we're buying things or things like tires and things like that, goods, goods, not services or consultant work. But we get I think it's up to $100,000 will provide a 10% preference to the local hire. So someone from a local business is 10%. Over the lowest bid. Then we'll go with the local hire. Okay. Do you think that because I know other cities have utilized a 2%, I guess like contingency. So if they're within 2% of the bid, then it would go to if it was like an out of city pers out of city business in Long Beach. If, uh, if, if Long Beach was within 2%, then it would go to Long Beach. Right now we're going 10% instead of 2%. So. But we can certainly come back and look at other other things that we could do to encourage local business, to give them more of an incentive or more of advantage and things like that. And we'll have a be able to discuss what other things we can do working with the city attorney. Great. And then what are we currently doing? I know I've asked before, um, as far as outreach because I've kind of gotten a few different answers and I'm not sure as to how we're outreaching to our local businesses for them to be included in the process. We'll provide all. That. Right now, we don't have our business license person here tonight, but he certainly will be able to do all that. We have Planet Bids. Specifically when we have large items like cars and things like that. If we don't get a bid from Ford and we're buying Ford's, you certainly will call Ford and ask why they didn't bid to encourage them to bid those kinds of things. But again, those are certainly things that will outline when we come back to the city council with the report. Okay. Thank you very much. Councilman Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. So I want to thank my colleagues for bringing this forward. I was you're right. I was approached by multiple council people. So I'm happy to see that they came together on one item. I want to make sure that in this process we explore expanding or maybe we BCB are might more minority owned businesses , women owned businesses and small businesses. As we increase preference, we explore that as we move forward. I mean, these are critical small businesses in our community. So to make sure that we actually place a value on that. Thanks. I do want to respond that we do have a very robust plan for that, and we'll bring it back to the city council if we want to expand it. Many times the low bid doesn't meet those standards, so we'll reject a little bit and then go through as many times. Many of our projects have been held up to two, 3 to 4 months going through that process to get. The builder that does all that. So it's incredibly important to us, so much so that we will delay awarding bids until we get the appropriate vendor. Perfect. Thank you. Councilman Ringo. Take him here. I also want to echo Councilmember Richardson's comments there in regards to maybe Libby. Libby. All those qualified agencies. My concern is that many times the reason we don't have a big pool of applicants into the is because they're unaware or can't complete the pre-qualification process. And that is, is that still in existence? Do they have to be pre-qualified before submitti ng a bid? You can submit a bid if you're not pre-qualified, but then you. Get qualified throughout the bid. So certainly a bid can be rejected if you can't meet the needs and requirements as we go, even if you're the low bidder. If we go through that well, I would want to also encourage our potential vendors out there to apply, first of all, and to complete the process of of qualification. Are you do you have pre qualification for bids and are say over a threshold? I'd say over 100,000 and or a million or anything above. Is there is there a threshold that qualifies or disqualifies some vendors from applying? Councilmember I. Wouldn't be able to answer that, but those are items we certainly will answer when we come back to the city council in. 45 days. Thank you. Councilman Mongo. I appreciate Councilwoman Gonzalez's comments. She reminded me of a discussion that her and I had had a while ago. I'd also like to ensure that we look at the contractors that won bids that had incentives for early payment and to insure that or to at least report back to us on what percentage of the time the city is able to meet those requirements. Because I know that sometimes you'll have a bid and a contractor will give a 20% discount for early payment. But if the early payment requirements are so stringent that the city can't meet those requirements, then we could theoretically be stuck with paying a higher price. So if that could be included in the report, it would be appreciated. Absolutely. Thank you. Thank you for that and the other public comment. CNN Please cast your vote. Motion carries seven zero. Next item. Item 30 Communication from Councilman. Councilman. Councilwoman. Mango. Councilwoman Gonzalez and Councilman Urunga. Recommendation to execute any and all documents necessary for a license between the City of Long Beach and the Sarris Regis Group for a short term use of former airport Lot De for a Long Beach ordered tent sale on May 15 through May 17th. Item number 25 Report from Public Works Recommendation to execute a public walkways occupancy permit with sidewalk extension parklet for sidewalk dining at Hamburger Mary's located at 330. Pine Avenue District one. Turn this over. Two staff. Our Amazonian. Honorable Mayor and honorable council members before you, there is a request to construct a parklet in front of Hamburger Mary's Restaurant and also authorization to have a permit for outdoor dining. Staff has been working diligently with consultant Mr. Brian Olszewski and the owners in the past several months and we're finally have our application ready. We were waiting for Pine Avenue Construction to be completed at this segment of the work before we could come forward with this application. So we're ready and we're ready and we support this application and we're looking forward for your approval. Thank you. I have a motion to approve and a second by Councilman Gonzalez and Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Councilwoman Gonzales. I first want to say thank you to public works. I know it's been quite a few months in the making and also thank you to Dale and have jewels. I see pause there, Brian. Thank you all really for the I know you've been very patient with us tonight and then just ongoing through the months, but I appreciate your hard work on this. I know that as we look at the bigger vision for downtown and the bigger vision for North Pine, this certainly fits that. And we're we're very excited to welcome this new parklet and all the success, I'm sure, that it will bring for you and your new business, the business, the addition to the business. And also just want to say that, you know, a lot of folks have been we have a lot of residents in the neighborhood and we want to make sure that the quality of life just continues to to get better. And I know that there we're continuing to work on conditions with you to ensure that we have, you know, everything and it's appropriate. That things are being handled appropriately there. So, again, I just want to thank you and hopefully I can get some support on the council to move this forward. So thank you. Thank you. Is there any public comment on the item? Seeing no public comment. I'm just going to. Oh, Councilor Brosnan. Did you say Jules was here? Yes. I don't see Jules. And of. Course. Yes. Okay. Okay. Okay. Any other. Any. Not seen no other. No public comment. I just want to personally just say just obviously that Dale and the Hamburger Mary's team and you know, you've been working on this for a long time, worked on it when we when when I was still on the council. And you're very patient in waiting for our Pine Avenue streetscape project to finish up. But I look forward hopefully to the installation before Pride. So right. So we can all enjoy a hamburger and and a Coke on the on the patio as we celebrate our pride this year. So looking forward to it's going to be an amazing addition to Pine Avenue. Actually, I'm incredibly excited about it. So thank you. And please cast your votes. Motion carries seven zero. Thank you. Get to building it. And now we're going back to. 21. Is it 21? Yes. Yes. Item number 21. Communications from councilman all hour, Austin Vice Mayor Susan Lowenthal, Councilwoman Stacey Mango, Council Member Rex Richardson. Recommendation to request city manager to report back to City Council within 45 days on the measures that the city is taking to meet the new water conservation requirements and request the water department to provide a report on Motion passes seven zero. Item number 27. Report from Public Works. Recommendation to amend agreement with Waste Management to provide residential recycling collection operations at an estimated cost of 350,000 per month on an interim basis, pending completion of a procurement process citywide. Is there a staff? Staff? Yes. Thank you, Vice Mayor. Council members are a million. Honorable Vice Mayor and council members. The item before you is for an extension of an existing contract with Waste Manageme nt that provides our recycling program. We had this item before you several months ago, and one of the conditions was that we put out an RFP for the for the continuation of this process. I'm proud to say today the RFP is online. It's been released. So we're looking forward to seeing the results back by July 1st. And we will. Check the data and come back with the proposed low bidder. So meanwhile, or requesting that you allow us to go on a month to month basis as we have done that in the last year, so we can continue our recycling program in the city. Thank you, Mr. Malloy and Councilmember Austin. I'm all to approve. Thank you. So any member of the public that wishes to address Council on item 27 seeing none. Members Cast your vote. Councilman. Motion carries seven zero. Item number 28 Report from Public Works and Financial Management. Recommendation to adopt resolution to execute a contract with Consolidated Fabric Fabricators Corporation for the purchase of commercial trash containers in an annual amount not to exceed

180,000 citywide. Motion carries unanimously of 13. Communication from Councilman Austin. Chair State Legislation Committee Recommendation to adopt. And support position as position SB 16 bill, a state proposal that will provide a new temporary funding source for state and local, street and road projects. Council Bros. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I'm pleased to bring before you an item from the State Legislation Committee, which we we supported in committee and encouraged your support as well. This is this bill we believe is going to be very good for Long Beach in terms of our infrastructure, addressing our important infrastructure needs. The League of California Cities has voted unanimously to support this particular bill, that it is a priority bill working its way through the state legislature. And essentially, in a nutshell, it will provide a windfall of resources for the city of Long Beach and many other municipalities, all of the municipalities throughout the state of California, as well as funding for local highways to the tune of a $3 billion raise over a five year period to Long Beach. That means a windfall of 50 to $60 million or 10 to $12 million a year for infrastructure needs. Currently, we contribute, I think, appropriate about $5 million a year toward infrastructure needs. So if this bill is successful in Sacramento, it will mean that we more than triple our infrastructure, our ability to address infrastructure needs, and we know we have them in every district in the city. And so with that, I want to ask for a staff report for Diana Ting and obviously ask for your full support on this . I'm going to make the motion. There's a motion. Can I get a second, please? Okay. Second, but Councilwoman Gonzalez. Mayor, members of the city council, Councilmember Austin covered most of the pertinent details about SB 16. It is a five year increase in an excise tax on gasoline and diesel, as well as an increase to the vehicle registratio n fee. And the funding, again, will fund local streets and roads as well as the state highway system and its for Long Beach assessment shows that we invest an average of $5 million a year in this in our local streets and roads. And as the bill is written now, we would be receiving about an extra 10 to 12 million a year that we wouldn't otherwise receive. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. Thank you. I want to speak to the community a little bit about how this bill actually really levels the playing field and helps put the tax burden of infrastructure on the people who are using it the most. I am one and several other of my colleagues who drive hybrid and electric and electric vehicles. And so this transition really allows the consumers of the most use of the road to take on an additional burden by leveling the playing field through not just gasoline tax, but really the VLF on the electric and hybrid vehicles. And while I am not supportive of higher taxes, I am supportive of correcting the taxation ratios to ensure that those who use the most are the ones who pay the most. And so I'll be supporting this idea. Councilor Austin. Thank you. I call for the question. I just want to just make one note before the council votes. Council member this, in my opinion, is going to be one of the top priorities for cities across the state of California this year. Quite frankly, we as a city and a community need to put our full weight behind getting this done in Sacramento. There are a lot of bills in the pipeline and probably very few that are more important for cities, in particular Long Beach, than the bill that's in front of us today. The truth is, is every time that we look at our at the bottom line in our budget and ask why we can't do more for infrastructure, why we can't get more streets and sidewalks built, why neighborhood streets are falling apart because we don't have the resources from both both Sacramento and Washington, DC. This is an attempt by Sacramento to give us some flexibility for a set number of years to be able to go after really significant infrastructure change. And so we're I know I personally am pretty excited about this. I intend to be in Sacramento often on this as I know well, our our committee our legislative committee in Sacramento as well. So I think this is very exciting legislation. And I want to thank Senator Bill as well as our state senator, Ricardo Lora, who is very active on this bill as well on on this issue. So I look forward to us being able to get this done and see a lot of dollars come back to Long Beach. Is there any public comment on this bill? CNN. Please cast your votes. Motion passes unanimously. Thank you. Next up, item 14. Report from Financial Management. Recommendation to award a contract to Bank of America Public Capital Corporation to provide master lease services in an amount not to exceed $111 million citywide. Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine. Recommendation to adopt a resolution authorizing the city m anager to submit a grant application to the Los Angeles County Regional Park and Open Space District in the amount of $623,600 for the implementation of Phase two of the de Forest Wetlands Project. Not summarized. Yes, well, I certainly rise in support of this this item, and for us, going after this much needed grant to help complete the phase two portion or actually get the project started for the Force Wetlands Project, this this area is going to be a a urban oasis in North Long Beach along the bike path. And and it's going to be a beautiful area for natural habitat and serene just just recreation. We are looking very much forward to this and I hope I'm wishing are our Parks, Recreation and Marine Department all the luck. And in getting this grant from the county of Los Angeles. Most of the forest with wetlands actually sits in a district. And so where my constituents are very, very excited about the the opportunity of creating yet another new greenspace and park in our city. Thank you, Councilor Richardson. Thanks, Mr. Mayor. So just a couple of things. And I started the conversation a little earlier with the Public Works director and parks director about this item and just want to clarify a few things. So initially, we cobbled together resources for many, many years to make this project happen. And then we went out to bid and the bid came back $1,000,000 too much to make the project to go ahead and initiate the project. So the direction was to go back, scale back the project a bit and to go back to bids so we have enough money to actually finish the project. The item today lists that we have $7 million on hand, made up of 1.5 million from California Coastal Conservancy, 3.5 million from L.A. and San Gabriel Rivers and Mountains Conservancy and 2 million from L.A. County, Regional Park and Open Space District. But the January 24th item from 2012 said that we had $7,717,593 toward the project, which is a lot closer to the 8 million where the bid came in, which if we received this other funding, we'd be there, wouldn't have to phase the project. So the difference is the amount of funds is just different. So I was hoping for an explanation. The new so what originally was dedicated was California Resources Agency. It had two and a half million. It's not listed in this item. L.A. Regional Open Space District had two and a half million. And on this one, it's 2 million. So that's that's half a million less. A few years later, that's listed here, L.A. and San Gabriel Rivers Mountains Conservancy is a million. Whereas it was 3,000,500. Listen, this item. And then 217,000. California Coastal Conservancy, previous grant and then 1.5 million from the same organization, California State Coastal Conservancy. I know that a lot of times we have to repackage things to make them balanced. I understand that. But $700,000 is too large of a number to not ask out in public what happened to those resources. Secondly, when we went out to bid on this and we said we wa nted to phase it into two phases so that we can move forward in a in a in a in a timely manner. The hope was that it wouldn't expand the cost to $10 million. The original bid was 8.5 million. With this council item list that the project, the total cost will be $10 million. Now, I know if we phase it, obviously there will be more costs over time. That's why the project is more expensive now. But would it make sense to not phase it and do one project scale the project back while we have $8 million here, scale it back and move forward on it now. So this is just a list of questions that I was hoping that we can have resolved today. Certainly, Councilman, I can answer that. The there is a discrepancy of $700,000 that was in the Public Works Capital Projects Fund that was used for design and construction documents. So the availability of that money is no longer there. And I would say this project is being scaled back so that we can get something done. I think it's an exciting project and we will get something done. And what's going to get done is 34 acres of wetlands habitat, the creation of trails, wayfinding signs, interpretive signs and landscaping. So what gets left out of this in terms of another phase which allows us to to pursue grant funding for the remainder of it is things like planting of the south basin, which is like $1,000,000 native enhancement plantings, that's probably another 380,000. So there's some major items that can happen with the current money. There's not eight millions not available or 7.7 is not available because of design and project costs and soft costs and a permitting and that sort of thing. Really the amount of money available is about 6.2 million. So we've got to bring scale the project back to 6.2 million. We think we can give you something really nice for 6.2 million and then build the other pieces in through the grant funding. And this is one piece of that grant funding which allows the wetlands to be accessible. Great. So just to reiterate, so now that we're taking this two phased approach, about 6.2 million will be the first phase. And then the other 3 million, three, $3 million that we have to fine will go to phase two. Can you just highlight again that? So my understanding phase one is primarily the nature center, which is the the entrance at the Forest Park in the ninth District and some of the, you know, beginning work. But really the south portion is the extra, the south portion additional planting and some of the nature trails. The second phase and my understanding. So the south portion is accessible to people. Right now, there's some invasive vegetation that really does need to come out and put native vegetation in as part of the project. And there's also the the levy native perennial grass plantings that we need to do at a later date. So those are kind of the major items. There's like two or $3 million worth of that sort of project. And that can also be done with the help of the California Conservation Cor ps. So you're getting right now with this is, again, wetlands, the creation of trails, wayfinding signs, interpretive signs, landscaping. And this actually connects to the the biggest wet wetlands that the county provided. So it is a great project and I wish we could do the entire thing. Unfortunately, the plants were done several years ago and there are escalation costs. So the way to. Do it is to get this first phase done. And I think we can find funds for a little bit easier with this first phase done. Thanks. So just one final question. So we'll be out to bid and finish with the we'll be ready to break ground when on phase one. My understanding is Public Works is ready to bid this. In two weeks. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? CNN. Please cast your votes. Motion carried unanimously. 18. Okay. Why don't we just go and do? That'll make most sense. We're gonna jump to the agenda item. Okay. So why don't we go to item number 23? Madam Clerk, if we can read the item, please. The military or there actually has a presentation they. Had. Prepared. I understand they want to do the presentation during item 23. Is that is that correct? However. Yeah. Okay, so go ahead and read the item and then we'll go right into the presentation. Communication from Council Member or Ranga Vice Mayor Lowenthal and Councilman Price. Recommendation to request the city attorney to draft a resolution in support of proclaiming Long Beach a Purple Heart city. Okay. I think, Councilman, do you want to make any additional comment at this time or just turn it over to the public? Yes. One of the important designations that this comes with is that anybody who comes to Long Beach will now know that the history that we have of our service men and women who have come through Long Beach, through its past history as not only a naval station, but also with our naval hospital and currently with our veterans hospital here in Long Beach with a designation that is pretty much like any like every other city that has a designation that's out there. Alliance Club City or a Rotary City. It's a designation that recognizes the work of these individuals who in in those organizations, but who also come to Long Beach, know that as a Purple Heart city, we have a history, a tradition of people who have served in our country and have committed to the ultimate sacrifice for our freedoms. So I would really love to have the support of my colleagues on the side of. Thank you. Councilwoman Pryce. I'm sorry, Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you. I appreciate that. I wanted to thank Councilmember Your Honor for asking me to co-sponsor this item and given certainly our city's role in history with World War Two as a naval shipyard, as the councilmember mentioned, an aviation manufacturer, and really our good fortune in having the veterans hospital here and Cabrillo Village is for our homeless vets, which I know recently we've made an effort with the mayor's help and support and leadership to e xpand homeless opportunities, opportunities for our homeless vets. I believe it's really appropriate that we support the designation of being a Purple Heart city. I'm very proud of our city and appreciate the local chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart for asking us to partner in honoring our vets. These are things that I think. We shouldn't take for granted, but we do because there isn't a single person that doesn't know someone that's served valiantly for our country. And I want to thank you for asking us to do this. I think it's an honor that you bestow to us. Thank you. Thank you. Councilwoman Pryce, thank. You very much. I, too, want to thank my colleague, council member Urunga, for bringing this forward. By taking this action, the city of Long Beach pays tribute to our city's sons and daughters who are wounded or killed in combat, defending the freedoms that make this nation so great for their service and sacrifice. They receive the Purple Heart medal as home to the former Long Beach Navy Base as the vice mayor just mentioned. It is fitting that Long Beach received the designation of a Purple Heart city. Long Beach has a proud tradition dating back many years of supporting and honoring our nation's veterans, active duty, military guards, reserves and their families an inherent part of the heritage, traditions, spirit and fabric of what makes Long Beach such a unique city. Thank you for bringing this item forward, and thank you for being here tonight. Thank you, Councilman Franco. One more introduction that I will make that I. I would be remiss if I did not mention Mr. Terry Gatlin, the Executive Director of Gold Star Manor, where all our many of our veterans reside here in Long Beach. And I want I want to also recognize him as well. Thank you. And I would like to. Enlighten. People here about your. Nice, beautiful city here. Mayor girl mira garcia. Councilman you ranga. Members of the City Council and Long Beach City residents. Present at this council meeting. Allow me to introduce myself as Joseph Del Rio, Commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Long Beach. Chapter 210. Foremost, I thank you for allowing me as a representative Chapter ten at this allotted time for your council meeting. At your Council meeting. My purpose and goal at your council meeting is to attempt to familiarize those present as to why your first city has been selected to become a Purple Heart city and to procure the formal approval of your city council and becoming your Purple Heart. See this joining approximately 200 other recognized, established Purple Heart cities foremost, allow me to briefly acquaint you with a significant, significant history of the Purple Heart and the patriotic role your city has played during all war engagements in 1783, the concept of the badge of military matter was first conceived by our first president, George Washington. The recognition of honor of those who had unselfishly sacrifice themselves in war by protectin g and assuring our freedoms. This unselfish sacrifice has been exemplified since World War Two by the awarding of roughly 1.9 million. 1.9 million. Now rename Purple Heart medals to deserving military personnel living or dead. And many of those being residents of the city of Long Beach and all having in common the unselfish service to our country and their commitment throughout the country's military conflicts. The City of Long Beach also has a long and proud standing history of being a strategic port of embarkation for military troops since World War One, a vital military installation for Navy and Marine personnel during World War Two, and then again becoming the port of embarkation for our departing military troops during the Korean War and Vietnam. The city of Long Beach at present is also the home of approximately 20,000 veterans. And viable location that the treatment for our war injured Purple Heart and non Purple Heart patients at the Long Beach Veterans Affairs Medical Center. Therefore, bearing in mind that the Purple Heart is, as we all know, it, is only awarded for wounds received in combat inclusive of death. We are requesting that the City of Long Beach declare and designate itself a Purple Heart city, thus honoring all recipients of the Purple Heart while remaining a most patriotic city committed to the recognition of the services made by all our military veterans and their families. Thank you for your Council's time and indulgence in considering our request. We shall see. We response. Thank you, sir. Is there any other public comment on this item before the council goes to a vote? Okay. Seeing none members, please go ahead and cast your vote. Motion passes nine zero. Thank you very much, sir. It's all. It's all done. And I think Councilmember Rank is going to come up with a certificate for you of recognition. And we want to thank you all for your service and for being here. And I think, sir, did you have something as well you wanted to say? I think. Yes. Mayor Garcia, Councilman Rangel, members of the city council and residents of City of Long Beach. It is my pleasure and distinct honor as commander of your established Purple Heart Chapter ten in the City language to thank you for having honored our chapter requests and this becoming your Purple Heart City. Therefore, on behalf of our Purple Heart Chapter two, Jane, it is. And it's grateful membership. We take great honor in the presentation to the special recognition award of. Rustic Recognition Award. To your fair city. And again, thank you for so graciously for coming. And undoubtedly, future sacrifices made by the Purple Heart recipients throughout our military service. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you very much. Thank you so very much. Appreciate your. Bieber. Okay. If I could please ask the veterans to stand, we'd like to take a follow up. But I'd also like to read this Certificate of Recognition presented to the Military Order of the Purple Heart Chapter ten. On behalf of the City of Long Beach, I would like to commend the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Chapter ten for your leadership in declaring Long Beach as a Purple Heart city, we are proud to recognize your service and commitment to our country. Presented today, May 19th, 2015. Thank you. Okay. Thank you very much. We're going to be moving on to item 26, please. Item number 26 Report from Financial Management. Recommendation to request the City Attorney to draft an ordinance establishing a pilot program to examine modification of certain elements of the current taxi permit and report back within six months citywide. Item 21 Report from Police Recommendation to execute all documents with the Housing Authority of the County of Los Angeles to provide supplemental law enforcement services for the Carmelita Housing Development. For an estimated annual reimbursement of up to $360,000. District eight. Commander Lopez. Vice Mayor Lowenthal, members of city council. The police department has had a contract with the Housing Authority of Los Angeles County since 1985 for supplemental services within Carmelita. The current contract before you this evening includes two full time police officers and services such as community policing, narcotics and gang enforcement. This contract would begin on July 1st, 2015, for 12 months with four one year extension options. Thank you. It's been a motion and a second.

Councilman Austin or Councilmember Durango. Would you like to address your motion? Sure. I move in support of the motion. The commonly doses housing development is located in a district. It's one of the largest housing developments in L.A. County. I think the community policing model at the Carmelita is pretty remarkable because most of the residents know the officers, the officers know the residents, they know the youth. And they've been, I think, pretty effective in minimizing crime in that location and building a solid community policing model. And so I support the motion and elsewhere the council's full support as well. Okay. So any member of the public that wishes to address the council, please come forward. I know you were waiting for some time, and I appreciate your patience. Okay. How you doing? I'm Dwayne Smith. Community organizer, feature leader in Long Beach. And on behalf of Black Lives Matter Long Beach, we we actually surveyed the Carmelita was in the eighth District about the relationship between the police and the community. And our findings were 65% of residents said that they had a negative encounter with the police. So we we we not only asked about the relationship, but their needs and their concerns and our findings were, well, I have other people here to tell you about the findings and just given a brief introduction. Hi, Councilor. Thanks for your time. I'm Dr. Jeff Middlebrook. I'm a professor of criminology and justice studies at California State University Dominguez Hills, and helped put together the survey in support of the work that BlackLives

Matter Long Beach was doing in the calm lead us to discuss and analyze police and community relations. And as my colleague Dwayne Smith mentioned, the needs of residents. Just want to run down briefly for you the quantitative information to supplement what Duane offered. And then behind me, you'll receive qualitative information, testimony from a commonly dose resident who can make it, and then a summary of other residents who could not make it by another colleague as well. So as Duane mentioned, 65% of residents had directly experienced or known someone who had experienced negative interactions with LV PD that they defined as detainment, arrest, brutality or incarceration. I want to break this down for you very briefly. Some of the more disturbing findings that we received, 53%, over half of the residents have been or know someone who has been affected by LV PD brutality or violence. 55% of residents, over half have been or know someone who has been arrested and released by the LAPD without charge. 4440 7% of residents, almost half, have been detained and released by LV PD without charge. All of those interactions, brutality and violence, being detained without charge or being arrested without charge would all fall under potential infractions of civil rights violations within the calm Alito's by the lby PD. My colleagues will now offer some qualitative information and happy to answer any questions that you may have. Thank you for your time. Thank you. Yes, Councilmember, your Urunga. What was the. The sample of your survey? The number? So our initial survey was 53 residents of surveyed this month, and notably the surveys began barely four days before Chief Luna introduced the proposal that you're considering tonight. So we had did not have direct communication with the LAPD, but there were officers on site when we were talking to residents and inquired what we were up to. And we we informed them that we are asking residents about their perspectives on community relations and community policing. And so and then the housing authority had called us directly. I believe one day after. And we're inquiring also. What what the surveys were entailing. But we were not sure if directly that information was communicated to Chief Luna or had an impact in the the resulting recommendation that you're reading now. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is Alan Sanchez. I live in Carlos and we don't get informed. We get informed three weeks after I guess when you are passed, it is when we get the we get the letter stating that it had been changes and I had encountered it with the cat and it wasn't pleasing that was coming. I was coming home from a 12 hour work and I had my backpack and my bike at that time. And, you know, I didn't know it. I had my my backpack with the illuminated because I work at the docks. So I was trying to both he got me off to doing come from work. He's like, Yeah, right. I'm like, What you mean? And I had an empty my backpack and had in my pocket. They put me in a position that if I was a criminal, you know, and for me or like I would confirm for work . I don't believe you think I might. They took the picture maybe, and they told me, you know what? You go home. And for me, that that, you know, like, that's bad for me because, you know, I got to be or, you know, looking out for them, see if they're there. I mean, go somewhere else, go around. You know, it's it's not I don't know. I just don't like it. And secondly, it's like, please don't find it. I'd rather you guys find other things for the kids that are growing up like sports or something. Useful. Useful. Then the money funding the police. Thank you. Thank. Thank you. It's actually. Yeah. I'm sorry. I just forgot to. I'll pass it on to my colleague. We've got the. Thank you. I appreciate that. Next speaker, please. Okay. Sure. All right. I'm going to continue giving qualitative information, including some of the surveys that we did. We asked people which of the following social issues are most important to you in the car? Alito's ranking among them, 85% said police violence. 85% said education. 85% said community violence, followed by housing, youth issues, employment, health care, elderly issues and food access. And then 7% was all other issues, including patrolling. So there's obviously a pretty large gap between what people are saying they want to see more of in the community. I'm going to go ahead and read into public record a couple of the answers that people gave a better understanding of. This is what are one or two things you would change about the LAPD, if anything, and why? Better understanding of the community. Don't assume blacks are up to no good the way they act toward black people. When LWB PD are called for serious issues, there are no investigations. Follow up investigations. However, they are response. They respond to petty crime the way they handle the people. Stop harassment patrols, not stops easily approachable feel like you could be next. Don't stop and harass and stare at black males all the time. Unfair treatment toward anyone, abuse of authority, profiling, overuse of power, use of force. Aggressive upon approach. One simply says killings. The other one is abuse of authority, harassment and judgment, excessive force, less driving on Carmelo's grass. So that's actually cars driving over the grass, the park areas that they have there. One says killing because I lost a loved one and know how it feels to lose someone you love over nothing. So basically I, I also participated in some of the surveys just to augment what some of those would say is that honestly, people are not really paying that much attention in terms. Terms of the political flashpoint as far as like Baltimore and whatnot. So these are not you really could not say that people's responses are in direct response to what's going on in the news, even though that we have had killings in Long Beach by police officers. But these would show pretty def initively that people do feel like there's profiling going on in the car. Alito's that there is an issue of to some extent a feeling of overpolicing, including people driving up on the ground. So I think it's a fairly reasonable approach to say that there are some other things that could be done besides augmenting a precinct within the housing development rather than using the $360 and future funds for these are for policing. Thank you. Thank you. Good evening. My name is Kim McGill. I'm with the Youth Justice Coalition. And well, I'm not a resident of Long Beach. We've been working closely with Black Lives Matter in Long Beach and several of the families here. We also coordinate a countywide coalition called STOP that addresses the law enforcement use of force, resulting in homicide countywide and works with families throughout the county. We wanted to bring a county wide perspective to this and we handed out the data to you that we think is particularly alarming. L.A. County. And this was also substantiated by a Washington Post article that was just released today. But in August, the Youth Justice Coalition released the data for L.A. County and found that L.A. County didn't just have an issue with use of force resulting in homicide, but led by far nationally in this issue, since 2625 people have been killed by law enforcement in L.A. County. In terms of Long Beach, Long Beach is number three behind LAPD and L.A. County sheriffs and the use of force resulting in homicide. And this is also significant given the fact that homicides in L.A. County are at their lowest level since the 1950s. So community homicides, not just in Long Beach, but throughout the county, have dropped to their lowest levels, as much as 50, 60% in most jurisdictions. But use of force resulting in homicide is actually up. So in 2000, if you looked countywide, about 3% of the homicides were caused by law enforcement. Now, 78% of the homicides are caused by law enforcement. And in several cities, it's even higher than that. We don't have the specific numbers of killings by division, but we can get you the list of all the killings that have happened since 2000. And we've put in a public records request to the district attorney and met with her several times about getting the actual incidents. This data is also substantiated by the coroner's office. We started our list by talking to family members, but then substantially with the coroner's office. I think there's some some specific things that are particularly troubling, which speaks a lot to commonly those I live in across the street from the public housing development in what's known as imperial courts. We have three injunctions and what's all of them within public housing. And we have three very similar projects where you have so-called community policing. In our public housing. What we've seen is a huge displacement of residents from Los Angeles, from Watts, particularly out to as far as Antelope Valley. We've seen residents that are picked up, especially for gang injunction violations, where they aren't even substantiated in court. They either get D.A. rejects or full acquittals. And yet just the allegation alone gets not only the individual, but oftentimes their entire family evicted from public housing. Similarly, we report through survey and meetings with members a huge distrust and increased concerns from residents regarding law enforcement, how they're policed in Watts. So we urge you not to follow the same troubling trends of so-called public community policing, which really leads to mass incarceration, mass displacement and gentrification of our communities. I would leave you with the racial data because I think that's particularly alarming. In L.A. County, African-Americans make up 9% of the county, but a 28% of those killed by law enforcement, Latinos, 53% of those killed by law enforcement, despite the fact that only 47% of the county. So we urge you not to support this proposal. Thank you. I think the speakers for their comments. Commander Lopez, if I might ask you a question, we are awarding this money to the county. So is it the sheriffs that that monitors does policing here? Could you explain that? So may I ask the commander. Vice mayor, this contract is with the housing authority of Los Angeles County. So they monitor what we do for them. Okay. It says the agreement will include the following. So the two officers are not police officers, they are housing authority officers. Vice mayor want to make it very clear that the Los Angeles County Housing Authority is contracting for lbe PD to provide police services. So so they're paying us $390,000 to provide services at Carlito's? Correct. And it's us that's on there, not county staff. Correct? Okay. Councilmember Austin. Yes. Thank you. And I spend a significant amount of time in the Milito, so I was there 3 hours Saturday volunteering. I know my residents. They know me. Some of these these complaints are new to me, and I will definitely look into them. I do appreciate your work and your interaction with the residents there. The Carmelita is doing a lot better than it has been over the years. There was, I can remember ten, 15 years ago it was not a safe place. Today we have community meetings and people come from across my district to meet in the Carmelita also because there is a feeling of safety there. To your point, we do have recourses and avenues for people to to deal with the police brutality. We want to know about it if it's happening in our city. You can contact Internal Internal Affairs and make a complaint. You can contact the Citizen Police Complaint Commission. We're one of the very first cities to have a civilian oversight committee or commission enacted by the voters here in the city of Long Beach to put those protections in place. Since 2010, there have been seven complaints related to police complaints from from residents in the car molinos. That's that's fact to the CBC, KPCC or to an in ternal affairs. That's that's over a period of five years. Seven complaints. That's the I'm not going to say that's good. But that certainly is not consistent with the with the data that you guys have provided with ourselves tonight. So I would I would invite you to to meet with me. I'd be happy to talk to you and really dig in and figure out how how we can get a better understanding of what is going on, if anything. But tonight, I think it just would be irresponsible for us not to accept this this contract. This is this is we do this with our port. We do this with our airport. We do this with other we contract with other entities to provide services. And this is a contract with the County of Los Angeles, the Housing Authority. And like I said, I think it would be irresponsible for this council not to accept it and move forward with it, because the track record of success is there. It's working. The alternative? I ask you, what is the alternative? And the sheriff's, you know, private security. I think our residents, if you were to lay those options out, they would tell you that they're pretty well served by LAPD. Thanks. Thank you, Councilmember Austin. Mr. City Manager. May I make a friendly recommendation? Not related to the motion, but. I think the staff report could actually be more clear than it is under recommendation. A couple of us write staff reports all day for our elected bodies in different cities and counties. And I read this five times, and it's not very clear that it's the city of Long Beach Police Department providing the services, and it's not clear who's contracting to whom. Not that it makes a difference in what these advocates were requesting, but I think it could be more clear. Take that to heart. Thank you. Was that all your comments, Councilman Austin? Yes. Okay. Thank you. And I thank you for your feedback. Members, cast your vote. Prices. Motion carries eight zero. Item 22 Report from Public Works and Financial Management. Recommendation to Award a contract to Cycle Hub for the bike share program for a total contract amount not to exceed $2,176,625 and increase appropriations in the Gas Tax Street Improvement Fund in the Public Works Department by $2,262,000 citywide. Item number 16. Communication from Councilmember Richardson, Councilwoman Price, Councilman Andrews, Councilmember Ringa, recommendation and request. The city manager and city prosecutor to work with the Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Board to develop the promising adults tomorrow's Hope Program and identify budget options in fiscal year 2016 to support a path. Young Adult Diversion Coordinator in the city prosecutor's office and separately the development of a path young adult workforce strategy. Thank you. I want to turn this over to Councilmember Richardson. Thanks, Mr. Mayor. So thanks to everyone in the community who who came out to see this. I know that there's an NBA finals game, but this is a very important issue. And so, you know, a matter of months ago, I was on a trip to Washington, D.C. with the federal pledge Committee, joined by the mayor and council members, Gonzalez and Mongo. And and we were really able to take a look at national standards and national policies and have a higher level conversation about where we are as Long Beach as leaders and where are some opportunities for us to to expand our leadership and personally. And there's a particular issue I want to talk about tonight at 31. I'm thankful for the opportunity to provide for family and contribute to society. But if you were to ask Mina, my wife, she wouldn't mince our words by telling you I wasn't her type when I was 21. And and the reason for this difference in character is is basically rooted in the concept of young adulthood. And so so I'm here in this position as a council member and blessed with this family because I was provided opportunities, opportunity to get an education, opportunities to have be supported by my family and many disconnected out of school and out of work. Long Beach young adults could use some of those same opportunities. So tonight I'm asking the City Council to consider creating a comprehensive path for all young adults, particularly those disconnected from work, school or other support systems. Last week, on Monday, June 1st, I hosted a community conversation to discuss these exact issues and how to help more young people succeed in life. We were fortunate to have our city prosecutor Doug Halbert, as as a presenter, as well as Brant Cohen, a special adviser to the U.S. attorney, assistant attorney general in the Department of Justice and the Children's Defense Fund. So I'd like to just show you a highlight video that provides an excellent reference on why we're bringing forward this item tonight. And this meeting, we're going to have a conversation on how we can work together as a community in a kind of way. Let's go take a look right now. And before I before I started applying, I would like to note how critical it was to the deadline, both for colleagues. There are no second chances. But the question of what I wish I had known I wish I would have known more about the management process. The financial. The job. Needs. Of the area before you choose and. Engage financially. The real financial. Burden of students start in kindergarten. How to manage my social load. The independence that you gained to go to college. You got to be pretty much. Getting things done. Nobody holding your hand. You got to show up. These types of initiatives only work when we're all working together, whether it's community, it's our faith groups, whether it's our public safety team. What is our. Our prosecutor's office? We're all working together. We really can make a difference. Too often, a bad decision turn into a loss of life or loss of livelihood unless they have opportunities presented to them. And so today's conversation is really about opportunity. According to the last census in 2010, young adults make up the largest segment of our population along the East Coast Pacific Gateway. The unemployment rate for folks that are 20 to 24 is 20.7%. That's almost triple the Long Beach. Young adults are also more susceptible to violent crime. In Long Beach, you represent a significantly disproportionate percentage of victims of violent crime. So a lot of these police department data tells us that since January 2014, 50% of all murders in the city of Long Beach occurred to victims ages 18 to 29. 43% assault with a deadly weapon. Victims are between the ages of 18 and 29. 38 for roughly 40% of all robbery victims are aged 18 to 29. And that's all recent advances in developmental neurological science tell us that the brain isn't fully developed until someone's in their mid-twenties. It's not 18 is not 16 is not 21. When you can drink is 25. The only people who really have this right are the rental car companies. Which are you extra if you're doing one? On the other hand, the part of the brain that deals with pleasure seeking, reward seeking, that's fully developed. And so you have this gap between rewards that give you behavior and the ability to sort of mitigate that impulse control. All right. So essentially, young adults look like fully grown adults. They talk like fully grown adults. They're like a car without a brake pedal. Right. It looks right from the outside, but then it really does sort of slow down, isn't fully there. Well, we also know now through the science is that the period of adolescence and adulthood is equally as important and is, in fact, our last opportunity. When when a young person steps into the courtroom and is in that waiting room, even in the waiting room, and it's sometimes a 12 year old, 13 year old, 14 year old. The type of experience that is, is traumatic and the kind of influences that they're going to have if they continue down that path. Again, like Brant said, the brain is very malleable. So it could be positive. It could be negative. And it's our job to switch that net from sweeping young people up and and criminalizing them to to making a wide net that puts them into mentoring programs. Is it those that are absent from school and they're in third grade, fourth grade, fifth grade, sixth grade, fall behind, 75% of chronic truants don't finish school. We also know that if you don't finish school, if you don't get a high school degree, how are you going to be competitive in the job market? The core issue, what is the root cause for this tension at school for this this young person is behaving in escalating to that. Before, it used to be a trip to the principal's office. And, you know, you would have a conversation in calling your parents and you would figure out what went wrong, how could that have been prevented? And there would be a consequence that it was all based in positive development. And now young people are going to court for these things that some people. Here in Long Beach, I can say that again for working now, I thin k for the first time in a collaborative way that's never been approached by any city, by having health department, police department, prosecutors, district attorneys, probation officials have a wide range of folks with the leadership that we have in the city of Long Beach with Robert Garcia, an education focused mayor, with people like Greg Richardson who are leading the charge in the city on the policy side. I believe we're uniquely situated to do something here in Long Beach that has not been done before. Having this conversation together in one room when. We're here all listening to each other, realizing that we have a stake in it. Imagine if the chief of police was held accountable, at least partly for graduation rates. What if the superintendent of the school district was held accountable, at least partly for the youth crime rate in the community? What if prosecutors were held accountable and were measured not by the number of convictions they secure of 18 to 24 year olds , but how many? 18 to 24 year olds are moved into mentoring programs, job placement programs, job training programs, and actually come out better for what they had done for. Thanks. So. So, as you just heard in the video, there's obviously interest and much that can be done to help our young people have the opportunity to succeed in life. So a few things that you might have heard or might not have heard, but young adults make up for the last since it's the largest sector of of individuals in our city. And oftentimes, they're confronted by a set of conditions that have serious enduring costs for individuals, neighborhoods, businesses and our and public safety. So as Brant Cohen mentioned from the Department of Justice, Justice, while individual individuals between the age of 18 to 24 are considered adults. Research confirms that the brain development continues through age 25. So what this means is that young adults are more susceptible to peer pressure, risk taking, impulsive behavior and most and more likely to misread social, social cues and drastically overreact. And this can lead to activity that has dire long range consequences affecting their future ability to gain employment, complete their education, and pursue life goals. In terms of the workforce, the unemployment rate in Long Beach, residents age 20 to 24 is almost triple the unemployment rate for all people in the city of Long Beach. More specifically, between 20 and 24, it's 20.7% compared to the rest of our city at 7.7%. And that's significantly higher than California and U.S. averages at 16.9 and 9.6, respectively. Young adults are also more susceptible to violent crime. You heard the statistics there and and they're posted behind me. But half of the murder murder victims last year were between the ages of 1829. So despite these issues, I personally believe that Long Beach is well-suited to take on these challenges and make a lasting, positive impact on young adults for a number of reasons. We've been at the n ational forefront of violence prevention, as is evidenced by our selection as a participant in the National Forum on Youth Violence Prevention and the development of our safe Long Beach violence prevention plan. Our city prosecutor is a national leader on diversion and successful community based prosecution methods. Long Beach is home to over 70 community, community organizations, workforce and education partners who are ready and actively engaged already in increasing successful outcomes for disconnected young adults. And our Mayor and City Council have placed a focus on education and boys and men of color by becoming a partner in Long Beach College promise, as well as accepting President Obama's My Brother's Keeper Community Initiative. We've come a long way, but I think there's more that we can do. We have a significant opportunity to advance public safety, save valuable time and resources, and cultivate the human capital of our future by responding to young adults in more developmentally appropriate ways through education, workforce development and diversion. Everyone must have the access have access to education, workforce opportunities, the Promising Adults Tomorrows Hope Program or path. In short, which our city prosecutor Doug Halbert figured out on a napkin after racking my brain for two weeks, is in partnership with our city prosecutor Doug Albert's office and the Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Board, and establishes two components . The first is a workforce strategy that will strive to ensure that all disconnected young adults, whether justice involved or not justice involved, will have access to quality, workforce training, education, mentorship and supportive services. And then the second is really focused around diversion. So I'd like to ask our city prosecutor just to highlight a few points around the diversion aspect of the PATH program. Thank you. Councilman Rex Richardson. I want to thank the city council and the mayor for giving me this opportunity. Also, let me start by giving apologies to the chief of police. If he's still here, who's going to be sorry to hear that? In addition to all the other things he's measured by, he's going to now be measured by graduation rates within the school district. And I made that statement really to pronounce what is already happening here in Long Beach. At least in the short time that I've been in office, I've noticed the city of Long Beach is working together in a way they've never worked together before. I look at truancy, for example, as a indicator of future crime. So why does my office work so closely with the school district? Because we know that these things are not separate. They are connected. We are connected to each other in many ways as far as diversion goes. Many of you may know that the city of Long Beach has been a leader in diversion for many years. The Community Service Worker Program was started by my predecessor, city prosecutor Tom Reeves, who started a pre filing div ersion program that allows persons who are cited for low level misdemeanor offenses, first time offenders. They're given an opportunity to perform community service in Long Beach in order to avoid having that citation filed in court. Now, the natural sequence of things is a citation. Is issued and filed in court, and often that results in a conviction on a person's record. A conviction often can lead to negative consequences that involve denial of financial aid harder to get employment. There are a number of things that follow a conviction. By having this pre filing diversion program. People in Long Beach are given an opportunity to clean out the wetlands. To help with beach cleanups and alley cleanups. They weed at the Martin Luther King Peace Garden. They help with the farmers markets throughout the city. They perform a number of tasks that help us get the city become more beautiful while at the same time avoiding a conviction and potentially facing jail time. That's one of the most successful examples of diversion here in Long Beach, but we've also championed a few others in particular this in this last year, we've created an anti recidivism class. We've also worked on a class focused on getting your driver's license back if your license gets suspended, because we've observed that a number of people will get a ticket if it's not paid the ticket results in their license getting suspended. If they get caught driving on a suspended license, they now could have 2000 or more dollars in fines. And they also don't have a license, which means if they drive to work, they're going to get potentially arrested, have their car impounded as well. So by helping them get their driver's license back, we're preventing future incarceration and we're preventing fines that then go unpaid and a number of other problems that result from the convictions. What I think is being proposed today is something that has not been proposed anywhere else that I'm aware of. I think Long Beach is well-situated, perhaps uniquely situated to do something that hasn't been tried anywhere, and that is to create a more comprehensive diversion program that actually moves people from a criminal justice system into a job path, a career path, a job training, a mentorship program that makes them better and helps them come out of the system better than they went into it. It's not going to be easy, but I think we're well-situated here in Long Beach. We have our own prosecutor's office, we have our own police department. We have a network of community based organizations that for years have been providing terrific services to the people here in Long Beach. And I noticed Jessica Canton is in the audience. She's one of those. And her organization has helped my organization and we've cooperated with them and collaborated with them in a way that nonprofits and prosecutors have not collaborated together in the past. So although we are a leader in diversion, and I appreciate the recognition for that , I think there's a lot more that we can do here in Long Beach. I'm excited to be engaged by the city council on this, and I look forward to working with every council member who I know has a sincere desire in their heart to make this work. And if it can work anywhere in the country, it can work here. Thank you very much. Thank you. Thanks. Thanks, Doug. So by making the cities criminal justice and workforce systems more responsive to the needs of young adults, we can change their trajectories for the rest of their life. And like. Like the life of myself and many others, we can make our communities safer and more stable for years to come. I want to thank Councilmember Price Andrews and you Ranga, for your support and co authoring this initiative. And I just wanted to add your input and some of that input has led me to just say say a brief thing about the potential fiscal impact of this. My motion tonight is just simply asking the city manager, our workforce board, as well as our city prosecutor, to come back and to go out and see if this is something that we can either find in our budget or something that we can seek through fully philanthropic or grant resources. And if it is, then I'd like to see it included in the next budget, and now will be the appropriate time to make a request as such. And you know, I received nothing but positivity from city staff in terms of their willingness to do the work and seeking something out for a cause like this. So that said, I'd urge the rest of my colleagues to vote in favor of this program. And thank you for your time. Thank you. Council Councilmember Tauranga. Thank you, Mary. And I want to thank Councilmember Richardson for inviting me to co-sponsor this bill with him this evening. Father Greg Boyle, the director of the famous agency of Homeboy Industries and in Los Angeles, has a famous quote. He says, Nothing stops a bullet like a job. And this is an opportunity for us to create jobs, for youth, to get them engaged in our communities, to make them viable citizens, and contribute to the growth and the wealth of Long Beach. So I'm looking forward to working with us, working this through, and also want to encourage my colleagues to support this item as well. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Pratt. Thank you. I, too. First, I want to thank my colleague, Councilman Richardson, for bringing this item forward. That was an excellent presentation. So I want to thank him and his staff. That was just very professionally done. So, Shauna, congratulations to you two. That was just beautiful delivery. So thank you for that. And I want to commend our prosecutor. He's he's a leader on many things. And this the idea that you can make diversion, a successful program in the criminal justice system is something that not all prosecutors embrace. I will say that because I've been a prosecutor for 15 years, but I do think that where there is a willing partner, the accused, the defendant, the suspect, the wrongdoer or w hatever you want to call them, when there is a willingness on their part to take advantage of the opportunity, which really is what diversion is. It's an opportunity. It's a gift to avoid a criminal consequence. And where there is that partnership and there has to be a partnership, where there's a partnership, diversion can be very successful. So, you know, as a prosecutor, I absolutely believe with every bone in my body that people should be held responsible for the decisions that they make. Absolutely. And especially when the decision that they make impacts the life of another and someone else is victimized as a result of their decision. They should absolutely be held accountable to the full extent of the law. I believe that. I do believe, though, that we have an opportunity and a duty as a society to reach out as early as we can to the young people in our society and try to educate them about choices and opportunities. And I say that not just as fluff, but for the last five years of my life. I speak every Friday to fourth, fifth and sixth graders in impoverished areas in the city, in the county of Orange. And I've been part of a program that does it every year, and I spend my lunch hours doing that on Fridays. And my goal has always been if there's just one child who walks away feeling inspired by my story, which a lot of people don't know, but it's an interesting path if there's just one child who believes that they even though they've had adversity, they can succeed and and make a life decision as a result of that inspiration or mentorship than we've succeeded. And we work in gang impoverished neighborhoods. Our entire program is focused on gang prevention and education and drug prevention education. So I think that trying to get to the youth is very, very important. And, you know, I. Fully believe. That people make bad decisions generally in life out of a place of insecurity or lack of self-confidence, that that really is what leads to people making bad decisions, whether it's the way they treat another human being or whether it's the decision to commit a crime. It really comes from a place of insecurity and lack of confidence. It's why we all lash out sometimes when we lash out at people, and it's why young people make bad decisions to join gangs or to get involved in criminal behavior. So. I think one way that you can give people confidence, you can tell them all day long that they're special and they can achieve anything they want in life. But one actual way that you can give people a sense of confidence is by allowing them to be successful in a job. Giving them the opportunity to learn a trade. Letting them have something that they can feel proud of. And so that's why this particular diversion program and this proposal is so interesting and intriguing to me, because it's beyond the community service, which I think is really great. We've actually utilized our city prosecutor's office and their community service programs in the th ird district, and I think that's a very valuable program. But I think that giving people something that they can be proud of is the number one. Preventative action that we can take to allow them not only to learn from the gift of diversion, but also for them to change their course in life. So I think that this is a really great opportunity. It's and I know the city prosecutor would agree. It's not every day you're going to have a prosecutor come out publicly in support of diversion. It's diversion has thought to be something that is necessary in light of prison overcrowding and in light of our our current criminal justice system. It's it's a it's kind of a a necessary methodology that we've utilized to clean out the courts. But diversion can be very, very beneficial and very helpful when there's a willing partner on the other side. And so I hope that we can utilize this program I'm very much in favor of. I know this is probably something that's going to cost money to the city. And I'm hoping and I would encourage our city staff and our prosecutor to look for grant opportunities because money is something that we don't have. But I think it's very important for us to invest in decisions that help our city. I mean, every item that we bring forward has some sort of cost attached to it. And I think it's important for us to evaluate how is this particular item going to benefit our city, how is it going to benefit our residents? And this has the potential for great benefit. So I'm hoping that there are other non general fund dollars that will allow us to fund this program and I support it 100%. The one thing I would ask the city prosecutor is, is there an opportunity for organizations such as the Conservation Corps to be involved in any of the job training opportunities? Because we have a strong partnership in the city with the Conservation Corps, and I would like to see them be included in this discussion. And to answer your question, absolutely yes. In fact, no organization, I think, is going to be left out of this discussion. I think they are very valuable participant and can provide a lot of service to a diversion program like what we're envisioning. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Andrew. Yes, thank you, Mayor. I first of all, I'd like to thank Councilman Richardson by allowing me to be a co-sponsor on this item and to hear our city prosecutors say that, you know what I think we got at this time? You know, this is one of the most important issues that I think I've done all year, because the fact that you guys realize what the night is all about, to me, it's like going and watching Cleveland and, you know, Golden State. But after I said this, I'm going to stay here and go through this. You guys, this is so important because you guys know, ever since I've been on this thing, all I talk about is jobs. And I know what you just said up there. Jobs can stop a bullet. This is so, so important to our young generation and the passionate that to secure the future for our youth. You know, last year, I create a similar program for youth with the Pacific Gateway and Long Beach Memorial Medical Center called the Heart Health Care Pathway Program. You know, the program was very successful with 25 youth and five of the youth were hired for employment in 15 of the youth decided to pursue a career in health care. You know, programs like this, it does work. And anytime you talk about jobs for our young future, you guys know that we're doing something. And I would not even want to think about what it costs money and not how can we put a price on our future? There is no price because look what we say when we do put that on our future. So, you guys, I cannot always think about building a future for you. You know, I use. But we can't prepare you for a future. So I want to thank you again, Rex, so, so much for this and for you, for the audience coming out. And, you know, at least here, not opinions. And I hope you guys totally support this item. And I want to thank you again. Thank you very much, Mayor. Thank you. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And I'm very excited about the program as well. Just from the budget procedure, I want to be sure that Mr. West does present whatever recommendations he has, especially if he's recommending any general fund impact. To me to go through the Budget Oversight Committee, I think that's that's the process. And so I don't want us to stray from that. And that's not a statement on how great this private project or program is, but it's just we need to stick to that process. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Just want to say thanks to my colleagues for bringing this forward. We don't often talk about this demographic, this age group. I know a lot of you are already doing work, central chore. Many of you in the cereal community I'll be cap. There's so much that we're already doing and to collaborate with our city prosecutor and existing agencies is just wonderful and I hope we can see this through somehow. I mean, I know as many people mentioned, it does take a budget and so I'm sure we'll be looking at that and seeing what kind of great opportunities are available. I know we'll be doing that very diligently, but this is wonderful work and I just hope that if it does come to fruition, that we we really publicize this as much as possible to give people this opportunity. Thank you. Thank you. Council Member Austin. Thank you very much. And this is a welcome agenda item. I'm glad we're having a conversation to deal with this very important age demographic in our in our city. I think it's often forgotten group. It's a group that has a very high unemployment rate and a lot of hopelessness right now. And I think, you know, we if we if we we focused like we're doing today, this with this and other efforts, we can certainly make a difference. I was most impressed with the the emphasis here and the mention of our partnership, our education partners with Cal State, Long Beach and

Long Beach City College. Because I think the best type of a diversion program other than having a job because I was once in this age demographic with a job, and I think that kept me out of a lot of trouble. But the other other component is education. And I would like to see certainly a greater emphasis on education because our community college system is a great resource here to to to put young people on a path to success. And so I did have some questions and I do appreciate Council Vice Mayor Lowenthal the attention to the process here, because I think we need to stay stay on process and not divert from that. This would be a programmatic cost and we say program. It means whatever we do to fund it. If it's a grant, if it's a general fund, it's going to be ongoing. And so that that that needs to be taken into consideration. And it would be a significant commitment. And I think we should be prepared to make that commitment, but allow the city manager and city staff the latitude to to figure that out. The the question I had regarding the position of the Youth Diversion Coordinator in this, and I guess it would go to the city city attorney or city prosecutor, how would that rule differ from would they be coordinating the CCW program and the anti recidivism program you have in the driver's license program? What above that? What else would they be doing? Well, certainly. Well, the discussion tonight is purely conceptual. I think one of the things you want to do is actually have a vision before you go out and seek grant funds. So as far as specifics of who would do what and what role they would serve, and none of that has been decided yet. And if the council isn't interested in us moving forward, we wouldn't even go to the point of trying to decide how we would formulate it. But I think tonight's a discussion about the concept and later on we can decide how that would actually function within my organization. We may have to move things around. We may combine what we do with CCW into a larger diversion program. And there are other organizations that may want to partner with us that may be able to provide services as well. So at this point, I don't know. This is more of a conceptual discussion. Okay. So so that that is what I kind of glean from this, that this was kind of open ended and we have the blink chalkboard to kind of create a position and create a role coordinating with your office in Pacific Gateway, is that correct? Through your office, through Cathay Pacific Gateway as a partner. Think this discussion would, after tonight's vote would result in my office meeting with the city manager's office and then approaching Pacific Gateway. But I don't think anyone has approached anyone yet, so we haven't even started that part of it. Let me let me just say I'm going to support this because I think it's necessary. And again, I do appreciate the fact that we are having this conversation to deal with this important demographic. As many of you know, I have put forth in my my district office resources to to to focus on this group through our Peace League that that is in its third season, second year. We're dealing with 40 or 50 young individuals who are who fit this this age demographic and addressing many of the same same areas of concern here through that process. And I would love to see some of that program and other programs that are currently doing that addressed in this as well. So thank you very much. I plan to support. Thank you, customer. Thank you. And I just want to make one last observation about this. The city council often gets criticized for the fact that they travel to conferences or they attend seminars or they go somewhere outside the city to learn something new. This is one of those instances where our council member went. To D.C.. Attended a conference. Attended a workshop. Learn something valuable, brings it back to this city, reports on it, and comes up with this idea. And Councilmember Richardson, I want to applaud you for being engaged in in your job, for being for being responsible, for being attentive, and for more importantly, bringing back the valuable information that you learn when you are out of the town. Because it's the present, not out of the town. Out of town that's out of the town. And out of town are two different things. But that you bring this positive program back to us. And I hope that in the end, we are able to. Adopt something that's going to be working for our community. Thank you. Councilor Richardson. Thanks. And and so, again, I want to thank all the council for their comments and just reiterate that, you know, this the intent here is to really give great flexibility to city staff, to our prosecutor, and to Pacific Gateway so that we can find something that works. I don't think that the finer details should be hashed out here at the city council. I think that we have experts and they've been working together for a long time in terms of our content public safety continuum as we see at City Council during the budget discussion in our city prosecutor. And and so I would say that this the intent is that conceptually this is where we want to go to particular focus is diversion and a young adult workforce strategy to particularly focus on disconnected out of work young adults. The funding I think we'll figure out I think we're pretty confident that we could sort that out. And then just the comment on the education piece, so on the item, it says combining occupational training, life skills development, mentoring, job placement and post-secondary education as an alternative to criminal prosecution. So that would include Long Beach, City College, Cal State, Long Beach, any of the educational institutions that might want to be part of this. And I would imagine there are a number of degree completion adult education centers that might want to be part of this. So this is sort of us making an affirmative, affirmative step in the right direction. Thanks. The ma yor let me know I was going to be next. Thank you for bringing this item forward. I'm really glad that the Workforce Investment Board is going to be a part of this because these are the standards that can be built into the federal grant we already receive from Workforce Investment Act. And so I hope that. I can't think of a next last name right the second, but that he'll build that into his budget because we all know what tough budget times we're facing. And so it's going to be really important to better utilize the nonprofit organizations that we partner with to ensure that these things are getting handled. It doesn't necessarily mean that we need a staff member inside the house of the city. Sometimes our community partners are even better at the things that that they do. So I'm supportive of this item and thank you for bringing it forward. It was great to participate in the discussions in D.C.. Thank you. There's a motion and a second before we vote. Is there any public comment before we vote? Okay. Come forward, please. Good evening, Honorable Mayor Garcia and council members and staff. Thank you. My name is Wendy Nichols. Julian, I'm honored to serve as the executive director for the California Conference for Equality and Justice. You don't see us here very often because we don't really do a lot of politicking. We do a lot of program work. But this project is near and dear to our heart and our mission of eliminating bias, bigotry and racism through conflict resolution, education and advocacy. I'd like to ask before I start, if just everybody who's in the audience still, who's here to support the PATH program, if you could stand so you can see how many people came out to support this. So CCG has been serving and located in the city of Long Beach for over 52 years. I've worked in the city of Long Beach doing work with disconnected youth for for 15 years. I'd like to ask you to support the PATH program as a proposal. That's a really big step in the right direction. It's the right step in the right direction from the perspective of an agency with a mission to eliminate bias and bigotry and racism, because we are focused on looking at systemic issues that particularly impact youth of color. And certainly the criminal justice system is one of those. The obstacles to success for disconnected youth and young adults in Long Beach are systemic and they're real. One of the systematic problems is the way that we deal with people when they have committed crimes. You heard about brain science, but common sense also tells us that young people make mistakes. The good news that you maybe didn't hear about the brain science is that also means that youth brains are more susceptible to rehabilitation. This effort is a way for youth who commit misdemeanors to be held accountable for harm that they've caused. And CCJ is here to offer those services which were funded to be able to provide around holding youth accountable and being able to help address the harms th at are caused. If that's a part of the program, we're willing to support the PATH program and very excited about the the potential collaboration between Big Win, Pacific Gateway and the prosecutor's office. Youth need to have an access to education. They need to have access to services and mentorship. And they don't need to have records that haunt them and create a barrier to success. And we believe that the PATH program provides them with a shot at education and employment. I'd like to also share with you that Pastor Gregory Sanders was here earlier and had to go to serve on an alliance committee. But he asked me just to share a couple of words, which is that as many of you know, he's committed to shifting the culture. Picture me and my bow tie and green glasses. He's committed to shifting the culture of our community by revisiting the long term consequences of disproportionate incarceration. He believes there is a benefit in substituting education for incarceration because no one is disposable. Let us, as a city, create a model of transition from young adults to adulthood that's reflective on their ability to rationalize their choices. Youth are worth investing in. The next generation is worth it. Thank you. Thank you. Speaker. Good evening. Mayor Garcia, Vice Mayor Lowenthal, city manager, members of the City Council. My name is Jessica Quintana and I'm the executive director of Central Cha, also a long, lifetime resident of the city of Long Beach. Very proud. Go Beach. So as you may know, Central Asia is a nonprofit organization. We've been providing job training, workforce development, higher education opportunities to our young men and women, specifically of color here in the city of Long Beach for over 14 years. We have been a consecutive partner of workforce development for the past 14 years. So what I'm saying here to you today is that this evidence based practice that our councilmember has brought to the council today works. We have over a thousand stories of success transforming the lives of our young men and women here in the city of Long Beach, helping them to go on to graduate high school, helping them with their FAFSA applications, go on to post-secondary education, helping them to become and understand what the role of a young man is in our community and what the role of our a young woman is in our community. And so we want to thank our Workforce Investment Act, Nick Schultz and his team, because, you know, they have been a true partner of our community based organization. They understand the importance of job training and workforce development. And I want to especially thank Councilman Richardson for bringing this here and and all the council members, because, you know, making a trip to D.C. and really understanding what is happening at the federal level really helps us here at the local level. And bringing this to work and being very bold really furthers our work as a community based organization, working in the forefront with our families and communities. Here is a challenge. You know, we we have a great, wonderful city, but we all need to understand and recognize we have very impacted communities. And so a lot of our young people are facing a lot of barriers to employment and education. So it's important that you all, as decision makers and stakeholders who have the ability to make change in our community and really take on an initiative like this is very bold and it's really helping our kids face forward and really get the hope and the help that they need. And I'd like to lastly say to our city prosecutor, Doug Talbot, which actually he should be Doug Kennedy, because he really does have a kind heart, you know. And so we have been able you know, we've me and Doug have had many conversations, you know, in regards to our youth. And what I can tell you is, Doug, you know, really in the end wants to help, you know, our youth in the city of Long Beach. And I think we are measured by the number of youth that we don't put into the criminal justice system, because we've had a high number, an incident number of really incarcerating our young people and adults in the city of Long Beach. And so that really needs to change. And so I think that I'm really confident also that it's time. And I think that, you know, the state of Washington is standing up and looking at Long Beach. And I think it's time that we bring those federal dollars, those state dollars to our community and really make a difference. We're very lucky to win $1.5 million of the face forward Department of Labor dollars to the city. And we're the only organization in the whole western area who won that grant because of the great work we were able to do and because of the great partnerships with the city and our city prosecutor's office and our health department. And I've seen Susan up here somewhere, but maybe she left already. But, um, so again, I just want to thank you so much. Our youth are here today. You'd be surprised. A lot of our youth were in our workforce investment programs from 2005 2004. They went on to lobby City College. They went on to Cal State, Long Beach. They worked for central China. So those are the commitments you got to make when you have these young people come through your organizations and they say, I want to work at Central Asia, but it's like you have to go to school, you have to complete. And they made it and they did and they came back. And so you'll see a lot of our case managers. Thanks to you. And I know. I'm letting you go a little bit over because you have a big group with you. So I appreciate. That. And I know I appreciate you consolidating. So so we've got to wrap it up. And we have our case managers who are who are very, very experts in what they do. And you'll see them running around with youth in their cars, taking them to job training and and working with our Long Beach City College and our construction training program and also in the court system, really representing our youth to divert them to make sure that they have opportunities and hope in our community. So thank you for your time. Thank you, Councilman Richardson, for putting this well forward. Thank you all council members for all what you do. And Doug. Thank you so much. Thank you very much. Thank you guys for coming. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor Garcia, vice mayor and city council members. My name is Maryanne Drummond. I'm a math teacher in Long Beach Unified School District. And I've been to I'm very much for this measure. I have volunteered for with CCJ for six years as a facilitator in the Building Bridges program and as a recruiter at Wilson High School for Campers. Over the years, I've had a lot of students who and certainly we take all different, uh, kids, but we have every year kids who go to camp, who have, are regularly truant, have low grades, um, and are heading toward bailing out. And every year after attending a camp, I witness these students have oftentimes some of the biggest turnaround in attitude in plugging in to school and making grades in in participating and then in returning to school to for training to become youth leaders and youth mentors. Really embracing the power of positive leadership and. So. And they learn human relations skills. They learn to become more connected to their community. They learn mentoring and training and camaraderie. And they become great volunteers. I've seen many a life path redirected through the programs that CCE does. And I guess I'd just like to stipulate that when we have groups like CCJ and so many in this city that together putting all of that power together to we can this can culminate into an incredible. Think in my opinion. So thank. You. Thank you. Hi. Good evening, Vice Mayor. All of the council, I. Councilman Richardson, I am so. My name is Dr. Jane Galloway from the third district. I am so excited about this measure. Our city prosecutor. This is such a visionary idea. I feel like I'm dreaming this because I've been working on the arts as intervention for at least 25 years. So I was actually not going to say anything tonight. But I think the fortuitous juxtaposition of all of these artists coming in here to talk and then this wonderful measure brings these things together. So I just want to plant a couple seeds. First of all, arts, diversion, brain development, multiculturalism all go together in a wonderful pot. The arts build. Different neural pathways, turn antisocial behaviors into pro-social behaviors, create visions for the future. So part of the workforce development can actually be through the arts and can also bring revenue in through this program. So I really just want to advocate for thinking about linking these two ideas that came up this evening. For a long time. I was a professional actress for 30 years. I actually got a scholarship, a Screen Actors Guild mid-career scholarship to get my doctorate. So the arts are I made a wonderful living doing that and now I hav e a whole other career. But what I wanted to say was this The movie industry is one of the largest exports of California, of the state of California, economic exports, post-production facilities, editing. All of the stuff that goes into putting a film together are perfectly linked in with this computer skills of the younger generation. They are a wonderful livelihood, very creative work. Also help people really learn to edit. We learned to edit our futures right by the choices we make. So I would say let's partner with the movie industry. Let's partner with people to bring funds in to really create careers. It's great to go to the farmers market. It's great to go to all this other stuff. I think this could be such an exciting program to really also bring the arts community and bring this wonderful work of diversion. I have worked with kids in this demographic for so many years and watch terrible tragedies and some wonderful successes. I'm very excited about this work. Thank you so much for bringing this forward. Thank you. Well, good evening. Honorable Vice Mayor and. Esteemed City Council. My name is Steve Neal. Address is on file. I would like to rise in favor of this item. I think this is one of the most innovative and creative things that I've seen come out of this council in some time. I had the fortune of hosting this event last week with our city prosecutor and the council member and the Children's Defense Fund. And the conversation that I was privy to has potential to be really groundbreaking. City Prosecutor Prosecutor Howard mentioned how long beat has the ability to do something that has never been done? I personally believe by going down this path, you positioned the city, the region to be in line for some federal assistance and federal dollars because this is very creative and innovative. I stand before you today as a member of the Ministers Alliance. We pledge our support to work with whomever and in moving this agenda forward. I also had the privilege of seeing Council Member Austin's Diversion Basketball League, and you're absolutely right, those gentlemen fit into this demographic. And if there's ways that we can produce opportunities to find work, to find career paths, to ply. The ability to change people's lives, I think goes a long way. I want to commend the author and all of the coauthors. You know, a few years ago, I took a fly on a young man that fit into that demographic. And today sits before you as a council member. So and believe me, he had some rough edges at that time. So folks do change and become positive influences in the community. And I just think this is a wonderful path to venture down and I hope that you guys will all support it. Thank you very much. Honorable Vice Mayor and City Council. My name is her Linda Chico, and I'm the board president for fostering a change. And this is Jennifer Elko, the executive director of Fostering a Change. And we're in complete support of the PATH program, fostering a change as a privately funded nonprofit that helps young women who are ages 18 to 24 , who've been aged out of the foster care system, and we help them with housing and resources and programs. And one of the components of that is trying to connect them with job opportunities, and that has been a challenge. So it's it's wonderful to see this this conversation happen. I think another very important statistic to remember, I hope you remember this, is that more than 70% of penitentiary inmates have spent time in the foster care system. And so that is incredibly important when we're talking about diversion programs. So we are in complete support. I want to thank Councilmember Rex Richardson and and the coauthors, council members of Price and Andrews and Suranga for bringing this forward. And then especially to our city prosecutor, Doug Halbert, who continuously looks for ways to help those who are most vulnerable in our community. And we really do appreciate that. So we look forward to partnering and helping in any way that we can to help our youth get on the right path. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Vice Mayor, City Council, city. Staff and community members. My name is Joanna Diaz. I'm here representing Greater Long Beach. Interfaith Community Organization. ICA. I just wanted to say thank you to Councilman Richardson for presenting this. I'm really excited and I believe we're really excited to to hear the support here. Where we're a nonprofit organization. Grassroots organization that's been working with our communities to act on their faith values and also to become more civically engaged. We feel this is an amazing opportunity. I did a lot of work on Proposition 47 that allows individuals to have second chances. So this is something that our community is looking forward to, right? Being able to prioritize those opportunities for our youth, for our community members as a whole, to be able to prioritize education over incarceration. Right. Also, along with our school system right now, I think it's an amazing. Opportunity to be able to. Kind of navigate away from some of that more militarized approach in some of our schooling. But I think it's an amazing opportunity to look forward to hearing some more of the details of the funding and some more of the logistics coming up. But I just wanted to say thank you. We're really excited and I'm all for this arena. Thank you. Thank you. Hello. My name is Alexander. I'm from the city of Long Beach and I represent Central Asia. At first I didn't know programs like this existed. And personally, I just want to say. It's good that we all deserve a second chance and that they're taking students that make bad choices and want to change their. Life around. And I'm going to have to, um, go ahead and disagree with Susie said. Because she said there are choices already made. And I just want to say she she knows she's never been into our shoes and what we see daily in. The in our daily basis. And. I just want to s ay thank you, guys. Thank you. Thank you much. My name is Dr. Leon Wood. I am the president of Success and Challenges, and I wanted to express our full support of this PATH program. We have. A large number of young African-American males in my city who are failing in school, who are not attending college, are dropping out. A program such as this will re-energize the community, redirect the youngsters and give them a chance and move them forward. The age of 18 to 24 is a very critical time in the life of African-American men at this time. Opportunities are not available to them. What our council was trying to do is bring some opportunities to the city to change the paradigm, to change how they lived, the change the the scope for their future. And so I fully support and you have the full support of success and challenges. Thank you very much. Thank you. And I want to thank the speakers for coming in support of the program. I think several of us have worked with diversion programs and and Alexander, I just I wanted to assure you that. That statement about the choices being made wasn't about the students that are involved in the process. It's just sometimes that choices are made for you that you had no control over. I think that's what the comment was, but I'm glad you cleared that up. We in agreement with you and the fact that you participate in a program like this tells us that despite the destiny that was handed to you, you are changing the course of that destiny. And that's what Councilmember Price, his comments were intended to convey. Thank you. With that, there's been a motion and a second is there's no further comment on the side of the dais. Members, please cast your vote. I mean. Yes. Motion carries nine zero. Report from City Manager Parks, Recreation and Marine. Recommendation to receive supporting documentation under the record. Conclude the public hearing and adopt a resolution amending the master fee and charges schedule by adopting a public sea wall. Mooring Lease Permit Fee. That's the first item. Thank you. Have to turn this over to staff. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the City Council. I'll be handling the staff report for this item. So when the city was required to or when the city put together the Naples Seawall program, it was an investment in our public sea walls. And we went to the Coastal Commission to gain approval. The Coastal Commission put a number of requirements on the project. One of them is to create a new lease program for the private use of public waterways in the city of Long Beach, specifically as it deals with the Naples area. There are six phases of the Naples Improvement Project. What we're really going to be talking about tonight is a program that will be created as we improve those various areas of the Naples Sea walls, creating a new fee structure for compensating the public for use of that of that space by a private entity. And it really is designed to only affect the areas of the sea walls where the cit y is investing and creating a new sea wall. So what you have in front of you tonight is a new proposed lease agreement, which is, in a sense, a fee and will be replacing the current fee that we have for that that users, private homeowners are currently paying for their docks. I want to talk a little bit about what that structure looks like, what the process was that we went through and give you an idea of what the magnitude is of this fee. So as we went through to create this proposed lease program to adhere to the Coastal Commission's requirement, we use the following criteria. We want to make sure this program will only affect those properties where new public seawalls are installed. We're designing this program so that the average user will pay approximately what they're currently paying. The new new lease program should generate at least the same amount of revenue as the current fees. We did a lot of surveys to look, to see, to make sure that the program is pricing is going to be competitive. Looking at the neighbors in the Naples area, looking at public private, looking at city of Newport Beach, looking at other market conditions, and a program will generate revenue that will cover costs associated with operations, repair and maintenance. We've had three public meetings gone out and spoke to the community about this new fee program, an ad and explaining that the old fee is being replaced by this new fee. To give you a magnitude of what the fee will look like currently, the the average fee, we looked at five different properties to determine an average fee. That average fee is about $205 a year. The new average fee, when we look at those five properties, three properties actually see a slight decrease. One sees a slight increase of about $8 and the other who had no boat before, which is now this is about a fee that is for the entire use of the dock rather than just a boat parking at a dock that sees an increase. And so with that, the new average will be about $215 as opposed to $205. So we believe that this is a very equitable arrangement. It's very similar to what we have today. And we'll be rolling out this lease program in as we do additional seawall investments unless otherwise directed by the Coastal Commission or by the Council. And with that, that I stand by to answer questions and we have our team here as well to answer more specific questions. Councilmember Price. Thank you. Well, first of all, thank you very much to your entire team. So Rachel Tanner and Eric Lopez. I consider us a team in this project. And for those who don't know, this team has been incredibly successful at facilitating a 1900 linear feet. More than 1900 linear feet. Redo of the public seawalls in Naples from the Revo Alto Canal, the from the Ravenna Bridge to the eastern portion of the Toledo Bridge. The project has been on schedule, on budget, and I go out there and do periodic site visits, and I'm incredibly impressed with how efficient that team has been. So f irst and foremost, for such a huge project that is very unique in its components. These these seawalls are incredibly unique. We have nothing like them anywhere else in the city. They're unique to the state, in fact, and the manner that the seawalls were actually put into place, the whole instrumentation was unique and tried out for the first time here. And I expect that after we finish phase one, we'll do a little presentation for my colleagues and and the public in terms of what went into the installation of these seawalls, but is an incredibly impressive operation. So I want to thank the team for being there. And most importantly, I want to thank you for the outreach that you've done with the community. As as the staff knows, outreach is it's very, very important to me. I think sometimes the best ideas get lost in the mix if you don't have sufficient outreach with the public. So thank you. This dock item is one such example. So I just want to ask a few questions before we as we move through the the presentation tonight. The first is and this is probably addressed to Mr. Modica. Is it accurate that the fees that were mandated by Coastal Commission only apply to the phase of the Seawall project that's just been completed? So if I remember the Coastal Commission recommendation or the condition they asked for it to be for the area of improvement for the entire Naples seawall or at the very minimum, the Naples phase one. When we put this program together, staff is recommending to just begin with the areas where this where the work is actually being done . So there's a nexus between the new program and the actual construction work being done. That certainly can change in the future with future phases, but that's how we're approaching it. And right now, as it stands today, the fees apply only to those who have who are utilizing the space in phase one. That's correct. You only get charged a fee and you and the new lease will occur when you reinstall your dock onto the public seawall. If you choose not to install the dock, there will be no fee. Now, some have speculated, you know, what happens in the future. Could this be applied to other areas in Naples? That's not an issue that's within the city's control. Is that correct? It actually could be a city council decision should you choose it. We are doing this upon a condition from the Coastal Commission, so that's really why we have to do this phase. We could certainly we're charging fees today. This is a different way to compensate for for public use. And it may come to a point in the future where the Coastal Commission requires it and everything else. But right now we are we are choosing or at least the recommendation before you is to do this section. Okay. So the mandate that's requiring us to recalculate the fees is a mandate that came from Coastal Commission, which is a statewide entity and not the city of Long Beach. That is correct. Okay. So in terms of future application or future mandates and i n terms of other areas, that's certainly something that the city could look at. But if it were to be a Coastal Commission mandate, it would come from the Coastal Commission. That is correct. Okay. And then in terms of the fees, we're talking here about a fee of an average of $215 a year, is that right? Yes, that's correct. Now, what about future fees? How how would the issue be assessed in the future in terms of lease renewals and what the fee will be in the future once the lease is up for renewal? So this fee is going to be in our master fee and charges schedule. The way it will work is we will sign a five year lease with the property owner, which will define what the fee is, how it's calculated. But the actual rate will be considered by the council as part of the master fee and charges schedule every single year. Our master fee and charges policy from the Council is that we apply a CPI increase. So there is some when they sign the lease, they'll know what the fee is in that year and it will be subject to review in the future by the council, you know, should they choose to increase it or modify it in some way. Is it fair to assume, though, that our process for determining whether or not there will be a fee increase will be the same process we use for fee increases throughout the city, for other uses of fees such as fees for the marina, etc.. Absolutely would be the same process and frankly, it's very similar to the process that has been in effect for for 15, 20 years. As we assess the current fee, that is also a fee that is reviewed by the Council as part of the master fees and schedule master. If he's in charge of schedule every single year. And then in terms of the lease renewal, is there going to be anything unusual about the terms of the lease or requirements for the lease renewal or anything that people should be on notice on now in anticipation of the lease renewal? Or do we expect that the lease would be renewal barring anything unforeseen? I believe it's the latter. It's there's a number of conditions that, you know, if that were determined to be where you were in violation of your lease, if you're operating in an unsafe manner for example and if we need to Alveda Helen and can explain what those are. But barring that we've actually attached a sample copy of the lease in the agenda item today that's very similar to what we'll be asking everyone, one to sign and they'll see the agreement before they sign it. Thank you. I know that I personally would not want to be dealing with Alveda on a violation of any because she means business. She's very nice, but she means business and I appreciate that consistency in business. So anyway, thank you very much. I have no additional questions. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And one thing I'd like to point out, Councilmember, if I may, part of what was requested is that we go out and do three different community meetings and talk about it and the feedback we heard the most. Once they understood what the fee was

, was to include something in the lease to help tell future homeowners that there are restrictions on the size of the boat. And we thought that that was a very good suggestion. And that's been incorporated into the leases that they know where to look for, that there is a restriction on the size of the boats that can be docked and can be safely navigated through the channels. So that's been included. Thank you very much. LOWENTHAL Do you have any comment? Okay. We have a motion any second on the first part of the motions or any public comment for this part of the motion hearing. CNN members, please go out and cast your votes. Seven votes. Yes. Okay. And I'll hopefully take a motion for the second part of the vote. Okay. There's a motion any second. Is there any public comment on the second part of the hearing? CNN. Please cast your votes.

Communication from Mayor Garcia and Vice Mayor Lowenthal, recommendation to request the city manager to convene a 12 member Queen Mary Land Development Task Force. Thank you. I'll go ahead and just begin. I think there's there's no question that one of our city's greatest assets is the Queen Mary. It's been a classic icon of our skyline. It's something that we know a lot around the world. We're known for, certainly as we travel and we hear people's love of the ship. We also know the ship is going right now through a massive renovation, historical renovation, which we're also very, very proud of. We have an opportunity, as we all know, that surrounding the Queen Mary is about a little over 40 acres of land that's adjacent that can be developed. It is a land that is in a in a development partnership currently with Garrison Investments, which has been a great partner with the city. They own that. They control the land lease on the land. But like a lot of great public projects, we I know myself and Vice Mayor Lowenthal, who represents that part of the of the city, believe it's now time to move forward, to really develop and think about what we build around the Queen Mary. We have this huge project with the Civic Center that we've that this council has been involved with. We have other great projects happening across the city, whether it's the pool or others that are happening in other parts of town. And so it's time to put together a community group to really advise development services and our city management team on this as we begin this process. The reason this is coming forward now is because Garrison Investments, which holds the lease on the ship in the land, has begun really intense conversations with the city over the last few months about their willingness to now move forward. They're ready to move forward, to develop, and the city needs to have a robust community outreach process, part of which will be this 12 member development task force. And so I want to particularly thank Vice Mayor Lowenthal. She's been working on this for a very long time. And as we all know, it's an important piece of of her dist

rikt. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor, and I appreciate the mayor's partnership, as well as his leadership on this particular issue, which didn't start just from the time he became mayor, but from the time that he was on the council. Many of you know, I've had a love affair with the Queen Mary since coming to Long Beach. It is an amazing asset that we should all be proud of. I'm proud of the fact that in the last eight years, the city's performed a comprehensive survey of the ship and its assets and developed a conservation management plan to ensure that the restoration and preservation follows best practices. Many of you that are here today or watching from home or will be reading about this tomorrow, will have been part of the community that's asked why has it taken so long? And I have to assure you that the first and foremost task before us, when the Queen Mary's history was turning a corner, was to be sure that we preserved her as an asset. We preserved the historic aspects of the ship. And I am confident that that is the approach that was the right approach to take and one that we did take. And I know that the city and its residents are committed to maintaining this international icon and city landmark in the best possible shape for future generations to enjoy. That's something that I think a lot of us share in common. We want that because she has an incredible story to tell that spans multiple generations and cultures. And I hope that narrative continues for multiple generations into the future. Beyond the welfare of the ship itself. One of the best ways to encourage more tourists and residents to visit her and learn her story is to invest in the property around her. We have over 40 acres that surround the queen that can be invested in and I think we should. Mayor Garcia and I have been discussing these development plans with Garrison Investments, which is the ship's operator at this time. And we're very motivated to see this property reach its potential. It's a critical place. It's a critical piece in our efforts to attract even more tourists, investment and businesses to Long Beach. So this is a good time and project for residents and experts in related fields to help the developer and the city reach its full investment potential. This certainly reminds me of our volunteer committees for the Downtown Visioning Team. I know several of you have participated in that effort and subsequent downtown plan as well as the Queensway Bay Development and Project. If we think about the narrative that's gone on in the downtown, starting from the downtown visioning plan, this is the next chapter in that long narrative.

This is something that began a very long time ago before all of us here were seated at our table on the dais. But it's certainly one that we have a true role in ensuring what the future of the Queen Mary can be. With all the changes coming to the pike. Many of these changes have come up recently. Good changes, Shoreline Village and

and the Downtown. I'm very excited about the prospect of this property improving as well and very excited about the opportunity for the community to continue to provide feedback for what the vision of this area should be. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Thank you, Vice Mayor. Next up, Councilmember Andrus. Yes, thank you, Mayor. You know, I think I like to thank the mayor and the vice mayor, because I want to thank for putting this item on the agenda tonight. You know, the queen mayor is one of our icon features in Long Beach. And the idea of the task force is a great indication that we will continue to move in the right direction to highlight our city's access. You know, since this community asset, I think it's a very important to have local community members on this task. And I'm very glad that you guys decided to look into this and make this one of our, you know, important items on the axis tonight. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzalez. I, too, want to thank each of you for bringing this item forward. I know it's been a long time in the making and we've been talking about it and it's finally here. So I'm glad we're moving forward with this. I just had a quick question about the selection process for the committee. I understand it will be 12 members appointed by you, Mayor. There's a few different, I guess, pots of expertise that will be selected as well. Tourism, hospitality, design, will there be will the members be part of those different or how will that be selected exactly? Well, I mean, I think the item is written down so that it were not too specific. We want to bring in people that have a variety of talents. But certainly I think the key component, of course, is residents. So they'll be downtown residents that actually are live with the impacts of any additional traffic or any issues there. But beyond that, we want to make sure that they're experts in a variety of fields and those are limited, but not to include but are not limited, of course, to hospitality and tourism and and other relevant architecture that would work. Thank you. Appreciate that. Thank you. Next up is Councilman Mongo. I too, want to speak on behalf of support of this item. I think that it's it's the right time. It's the right leadership of this city. And I know that the east side is looking forward to more. Types of events and things that we can come downtown and enjoy. The civic center down by the water that we're all going to embrace together. Thank you, Councilwoman Price. I, too, want to support this item and thank you and the vice mayor for bringing it forward. I agree that in terms of the economic development and the discussions that we've had as a council, there are specific categories of economic development opportunities that we need to target as a city, including retail sales and residential housing. And I'm hopeful that this space could be utilized to stimulate further economic growth and development. I do want to say, I think it's very timely that I'm really impressed with where the pike is headed. And I think Vice Mayor Lowenthal and the mayor and others who have helped bring the development of that project into fruition, because it's really coming together nicely. And again, it's targeting our chief economic development goal, which is to increase our revenue and specifically our sales tax revenue. So I think this is just going to add to the progress. And it is this is something that residents ask about all the time throughout the city. So I'm glad that we have something to report in terms of movement forward. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Turanga. Thank you, Mayor. I, too, want to lend my voice to supporting this issue. The only thing I have to say is what took you so long? I know that we've had a lot of important issues before us in the last year, and this is one of those situations that I'm very proud to lend my support to, and I'm looking forward to what arises out of the the task force, the recommendation they're going to make, because it's going to be going to complete the whole renaissance that we're going to be going through with downtown, with the pike, with the new civic center, and now including the Queen Mary. So I'm really looking forward to it. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember. And just to reiterate something the vice mayor said, because the leaseholder, of course, is gears is is a private firm, Garrison Investments. We're working on a on a timeline that works for both parties. And so we're both at the point now where it's time to move forward and and put a project together. Councilmember Austin. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I will support this. And because I think it is it's great to to build the task force. It's great to pursue economic development with input from our residents. I just want to remind you, you mentioned that stakeholders in the downtown will be included in this this task force. I would just not. Exclude anyone else from from the process, because we have this is a citywide resource. It isn't a six on the second district. But like our ranchos, they have board members and people engaged from all over the city like our airport as well. So this is a citywide resource and I would just encourage that you look beyond the downtown for qualified talent to be on this task force. Thank you. And that's actually part of the plan. So I encourage everyone to if there's fantastic people that please let me know, because we definitely want to do that. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I want to congratulate and applaud Vice Mayor Lowenthal and her leadership on this and you as well. Mayor Garcia, I think it's important, you know, the entire city seeing a renaissance, this important development happening in East Long Beach, in North Long Beach, in downtown. And I'm reminded of just this past week, I was in San Francisco on the waterfront and hanging out in a wind, checked out Ripley's Believe It or Not. And I went and visited an old ship that they had. And I was looking at a lot of the similarities that Long Beach has there. And and I was actually thinking about the opportunities on the other side of our waterfront. So I think it's really timely and I look forward to what comes out of this. Hopefully more fun. More fun downtown. Q Councilmember Superdome. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I just want to reiterate Councilman Austin's words that while we have downtown stakeholders, let's not neglect the etc's, too. Thank you. Absolutely. Thank you. Any public comment on the item has come forward. Very good you. I fully support this. I think it's absolutely essential. I think the Queen Mary is an icon. It's one of the reasons why a year ago I suggested when they were going through wasting the money and renaming the the downtown transit mall station, that it should have been the Queen Mary station. That's an icon name, iconic name that would be recognized around the world. Downtown Long Beach doesn't ring any bells. One of the things that we should also consider is adopting a paradigm not unlike Disneyland. Because one of the problems I discovered and I discovered this a couple of years ago, about 14 months ago when I was talking to a couple on the on going down to Del Mar or on the bus. And I said, Had you been to the Queen Mary? And they said, Well, we were going to go, but it was going to cost us $46. And then I got inside of that issue. And what had happened is because of the heathens, come down and get on there free. They destroyed millions of dollars. They incurred they destroyed and damaged millions of dollars worth of property. So they have to they had to recapture that. So now they have a program, what you pay to get on, you can deduct from what you buy. So I'm suggesting one of the things we do is we just like if you're going to board a cruise ship, an airline. You get fingerprinted. You get a little passport for the day or the period of time, and that will scare away the element that we don't want. Nobody should object to paying those dollars. And I think we should be able to get the cost of a photo and a badge down to a negligible amount. So the people to keep it as a souvenir. That then will offset the cost of that, because I think it's absolutely essential to build up that iconic symbol of this city. And it's just sitting there and it just needs good management. The only thing I'm concerned about is that we get people on there, that committee that have zero experience in business and they're only experience is spending government money. So I would want to make sure that we have people that have operated and been responsible for PNL operations on a successful ongoing basis. Thank you. Thank you. Any of the public comment on this item? Please come forward. I heard on a Unsolved Mysteries that the ship is. Haunted as one of you guys going to get Ghostbusters out there. Just a little joke there. All right. Thank you, sir. Okay, let's see. Is there a more public comment on this Queen Mary issue? Just come forward. Yeah.

I do like the idea of a fingerprint. I think we should. We work with the police department to run a criminal background check to see if anybody going on the Queen Mary is committing any acts of, for example, shoplifting or any other. Because we don't need a bunch of criminals on the Queen Mary. So I do. The thumbprint criminal background check. Thank you. Okay. Thank you. So with that, everyone. So with that, we're going to go ahead and go and please cast your votes. And if obviously, if anyone is interested that watching from the public, please contact my office or we're making the appointment soon. Please cast your vote on item number 11. Motion carries nine zero. Thank you, Madam Clerk. We're moving on to number 12. Communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Councilmember Urunga. Councilmember Richardson. Recommendation to request the city attorney to draft a resolution in support of comprehensive immigration reform. Councilman Gonzales. Yes. I want to first thank everyone for their patience, Rousey said. Although Supersu Paciencia. I'd first like to hear from the. I know everybody has been waiting a long time, so I'd like to first hear from the public. Public comment, please. But so you don't wanna make a motion or anything you want and then hears from the public. Did you make them? Okay, so we have a motion on the floor in a second. We'll take public comment on the item. Please line up. You want to do public comment? I'm Robert. I'm Robert Lawton. I think you're. You're. You're you're. Today's resolution on immigration reform should be tabled a, b, b before you is a letter from the organization called Flush the TPP dot org. The title of the of the of the letter is stop. The Trans-Pacific Partnership is I'm sorry, stopping the Trans-Pacific Partnership is immigration rights. This week or next week, Congress will be voting on the Trans-Pacific Partnership. Congress will not be voting on comprehensive immigration reform until 2006. Today's resolution should be titled It Should Be Tabled A simple and example of us. A simple resolution from the US, from the City of Long Beach would be the city of Long Beach. City Council is urging Congress to vote no on the Trans-Pacific Partnership. And then you could say more information from Citizen Dawg. In their letter, they point out that the event in 2005, there was a study for the Mexican government by the World Bank that showed rural, rural, rural poverty had risen from 35% between 1992 and 1994. 1994 was when they passed North American Free Trade Agreement, and by 1994, by 1996, it had rid the urban rural poverty had been risen had risen to 55%. By 2010, 53 million Mexicans were living in poverty, or half the population at 20%, mostly in rural areas, lived in extreme poverty. Now, after the free trade agreement of NAFTA destroyed jobs on both sides of the border, and then the Trans-Pacific Partnership is now the on steroids. And in the end, it is it's going to create more pover ty in in Mexico and and more of a border surge. And then then, then and then according to this, they have some statistics on the people who die in the desert, a very painful death trying to sneak into the country. And so so so is so when you consider that they're so so that there should be a statement about stopping the Trans-Pacific Partnership. Thank you. All right, good. You. Clarke has the address. Let me before expressing my view on immigration specifically, let me say I was at the Council, the Board of Supervisors meeting last month, which was referenced by earlier speakers today. And I was there when they personally witnessed three of the fifth columnists. Give the middle finger not only to ices, to not only to ice, but rather to the families whose family members had recently been slaughtered. By the recently released. Illegals in this country. The only action this council should take is one that would support the type of conduct. The George W Bush unfortunately did not had the guts to do the manifest. So enamored was he by his nanny. And to do what Eisenhower did back in the fifties, which is the use of the United States federal troops. To round up every single person in this country that is here illegally. Marched them back to the country from which they came. And in addition. Take them to the American consulate or embassy. Take them to the end of the line. Are those people that have been standing in line. Figuratively and literally. And have those people explain to them why they should be able to cut. Into the line and not wait their turn. The only people that could support that are the cells of fifth columnists that are in fact as dangerous to this republic. As is ICE's. Period. Who want to change the basic foundation of this country. And that's exactly what the people. The 3/5 columnists. And the Board of Supervisors did. And any person that supports anything other than marching them back. And having them get in line. It's just like somebody coming here and trying to cut in the head out of the line and saying, No, I want to speak. Follow the law. The law should apply to everybody. The only thing you should applaud again is using federal troops. Round up all the illegals. Send them back to the country from which they came. Have them get in line like everybody else. Thank you. Next speaker. Yes. I wonder, Bashar, again, I think passing this resolution is a grave mistake for one, as I mentioned earlier tonight. Your job is to protect US citizens allowing illegals to come in here and steal our jobs, dilute our quality of life. It's not protecting us. It is damaging us. Which you should be focused on the homeless, the unemployed, the veterans who are suffering, not people who come into this country as thieves and steal what's not theirs. I'm a veteran. My dad was better in two wars. I have a I have I have two sons. I've got a vested interest in my country. For you to come out and say that you're going to pass this resolution. When if you I ook back at the Immigration Act of 1986. We had all kinds of of guarantees. And what did it do? Nothing. It failed. In 1965, there was an immigration act. Where we were, where we were going to not destroy this culture in this nation. What did it do? It failed. And now you. City council members of Long Beach. You want to take it upon yourself to do something in this little town which the federal government has failed time after time to to solve. And you want to make it even worse. You want to take it upon yourself. To take back door. Some kind of right to somebody that's not not here legally and should not be here legally. They should not be here at all. It should be like the gentleman said before, said home, we are a nation of laws. You cannot allow illegal people to come in and destroy. Like Ann Colter said last week or this week on Bill Maher's program. Does The Invisible Man, Invisible Man, you believe in Jesus Christ does. What does he think about her book, Adios, America? She said, Yeah, no, look, Jesus agrees with this totally. If I see a homeless man on the street, I have to take him home and put him in my bed. This is my home. This is our home. This is where children live. When we grow up, we expect to have a life. A freedom. And we went through a whole Cold War dealing with freedom and trying to make people free. And that's the important. That's what made the United States the greatest nation in the history of mankind. Frankly, sir, we don't want to destroy that. Thank you. Excuse me. Excuse me. Before you get started here. Is anyone else getting in. Line up there? Because I'd like to get a consensus. Are we? Okay. Thank you. Go ahead. Okay. My name is Javelina Ramirez. I'm live at the district number six. I want to talk a little bit about me. I have been in this country for 26 years. I have three kids, 24, 20 and 18 years old. My kids, the older one, is a medical assistant. The second one is in his third grade at the Long Beach. The other one was a SEP that I, UC Santa Barbara has been volunteer for the last 20 years in Long Beach. I has been volunteer with the children's clinic. When I was Barney Lowenthal at the Fourth District, I was helping there and I was helping the part of the Drake Park. I was involved with some other organizations. Many of you know me for a long time, and that has been in this country. Like I said before, more than 24, 24 years. And I'm an American undocumented in this country. But I can tell you, I has been doing more things in this country. That many others that they call themselves citizens. I has been working in my communities really hard. I has been volunteer. I don't get it any money for that. My job is being a caregiver. I has been taking care of elderly people. I have to shower them. I have to change Pampers. I have to fit in them. I have to do all the those kind of chaps. I am by you. Those people who don't like me or who don't like us Latinos here and United States on the comment that I buy them to change number to another people. I would like to see them doing that kind of job. But I feel really proud to be here to had my three kids, citizen, three of them, and they are ready to vote. My daughter is 18 already. She I know the other two has been worried. My my daughter's is ready to vote in that I don't go to anywhere. I'm open to helping my community. I want to continue being here. Say. I don't know if you guys are going to like or not, but it is what I want to do, and that's why I am here. At this moment, I have to run to get my job because I make my job and I turi pm and thank you so much for listen to me. Thank you. Good evening, Honorable Council members and staff. My name is Laurel Almonte and I'm the district director for Congresswoman Janice Hahn. Congresswoman commends a Long Beach City Council as you consider adopting a resolution in support of President Barack Obama's executive action and comprehensive immigration reform. Congresswoman Hahn strongly urges the city council to adopt Councilwoman Lynn Gonzalez's resolution that is before you tonight. Our country was founded by immigrants, and throughout our nation's history, immigrants have made significant contributions in every sense. We in California have the country's largest immigrant population. We embrace the differences of our residents and with it the wonderful variety of the many cultures that make Long Beach, the second most diverse city in the United States, for way too long. Our current immigration system hasn't been working to the benefit of our country. There are approximately 11 million undocumented immigrants living in the United States, and as you noted, 900,000 make Los Angeles County their home the most in all of California. There have been more than 2 million deportations since 2008 separating families, leaving children behind without one or both parents. And this is just not right. Our immigration policies should reflect our family values and keep families intact. And that is what the president's executive action daka and DAPA do. Congresswoman is pleased that the city of Long Beach previously adopted a resolution in 2010 in support of the Federal Dream Act. The City of Long Beach continues to demonstrate the civil rights and human rights are democratic principles in the congresswoman urges this body, the Long Beach City Council, to vote in support of council woman's resolution. Thank you very much. Thank you. Okay. When I started this. Good afternoon. Honorable, honorable mayor and city council members. Mia. Mr. Bell, my name is goodbye. I live in the sixth district, so partly I'm part of many community groups, equally Zionist and coalition such as? I go along with Jimmy Barnett's coalition. I have lived for ten years here in Long Beach. I'm with you that I love this multi-colored and multicultural city. LDA There you stood up today on advocating and searching for Una for your Local four part local support in the city of Long Beach. Mantilla My area. So the m ajority of us know that executive actions that extended indirect, such as extended DOCA and upper extent imposed are being held at our ports. Is the situation in this situation is harming and creating an environment filled with frustration and a sense of false credibility for millions of people. Nor soon secreto can we be living in a non and the non anonymous do you know sexism against people with power and personal skills and support there who seek to rob and exploit us. Also, Antarctica signals the racism by using racist tactics. But our continuous support in order to continue to separate families in the negation of basic services is one party in mistrust, which are part of creating a sense of security in this country. Nosotros Then in Moscow, S.A. you have this that we must sit down and discuss this topic apparently in the very other sitting not at all that involves basic human services, independent responsibility that can not be denied by anyone. It is our responsibility that new generations, new voting generations, no san contaminados por la, but are not compelled by those people think without compassion and those filled with ignorance, the names of the heroes whose bodies we must protect the parents, amigos, vecinos, my siblings, friends and neighbors. But we must inform them that our work, they involve civic communities that involves community and city matters. But is our responsibility for the benefit of our country? Look, we are seeking we are seeking and asking some guarantees. The apology about will not be the guarantee for equality and peace. E-Passport on Mistral for our children. It still seems that I love where they come. This will grant us the confidence and strength necessary. But in order to systematically advocate in a manner that benefits everyone, yes, continue. And continuing to strengthen our economy, economy, social, our economy and social health. But I conclude to conclude clearly mañana. If tomorrow El Dorado were to become law, I would not qualify Yuka. So I am a mother of two immigrant daughters. Maya More yet my love for this city immigrant and my sense of civic duty may ask me to stand here today supporting the new generation of voters such as my grandchildren, my vecinos, my neighbors. Give me some eagles and my friends. Thank you very much for your time. Good evening. Vice Mayor and council members. My name is Marisol Barajas. I'm District Director for assembly member Patrick O'Donnell, and I'm accompanied here by my colleague. Alyson Gallagher as well. We're here to speak on his behalf to thank you all for having our office here today. And on behalf of the ASM Assembly member, I'd. Also like to express our appreciation to Councilmember Gonzalez for introducing this important resolution. As a. Classroom teacher with over 20. Years of experience, the Assembly member has witnessed. Firsthand the shortcomings of our country's. Immigration system, and the toy can take on undocumented students who want nothing more tha n to pursue a better life through education. He understands ensuring California's. Dreamers are empowered with the knowledge and skills they need to achieve their career goals ultimately benefits us all, and that these education opportunities have far reaching positive impacts on every facet of our society, from public. Safety. To economic growth. So once again, thank you, Councilmember Gonzalez, for your tremendous advocacy and for giving us this chance to voice our collaborative support for this comprehensive immigration. Reform, but most importantly, for the families and advocates that are here tonight. Thank you. Good evening, council members. Thank you, council member Gonzalez, for introducing this immigration reform resolution. My name is Sulley Sara, and I'm here on behalf of Senator Ricardo Lara to support the resolution, which will benefit not only Latinos, but also Cambodians, Filipinos and Pacific Islander immigrants throughout Long Beach. It's no secret that California is leading the way. On. Immigration reform, and Senator Lata is proud to see that the largest city in his district, Long Beach, is eager to lead in this. Regard as well. 1/2, please. Hold on 1/2. I'm going to be very clear and I'll say this once. We will be respectful of all speakers. Thank you. Thank you. We know that undocumented immigrants comprise nearly 10% of the state's workforce, contributing to a $130 billion annually to our state's gross domestic product. That's billion, not millions, and generating 2.2 billion in state and local taxes in 2010 alone. As most of you are well aware, Senator Lara is a champion for the immigrant community. He is the proud author of SB four The Health for All Act, which ensures that California expand access to health care for our most vulnerable communities. He is also the author of SB ten. The Office of New Americans, which will serve as a central resource agency within the Governor's Office for Undocumented Communities throughout the state. In closing, Senator Lara congratulates the City of Long Beach on your effort in the fight towards inclusion and equality for every Californians. And he wholeheartedly supports this resolution. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Brant, whereas I am a field representative and deputy press secretary for Congressman Alan Lowenthal. And unfortunately, he he couldn't be here today, but he asked me to read a statement on his behalf. I am here to support and thank Council member Linda Gonzalez for taking the lead and introduce her resolution supporting the president's executive actions on immigration. As many of you might know, I have worked very closely with the Long Beach Immigrants Rights Coalition, Echo and other local organizations advocating for immigration reform. As a matter of fact, one of my first events in the district during my freshman term was an immigration reform roundtable where I discussed with advocacy groups the importance of Congress taking action on the bro ken immigration system. I recently held a DAPA informational event in partnership with Long Beach Immigrants Rights Coalition, the Filipino Migrant Center and the Office of Council Member Robert Turanga. During my time in Congress, I have strongly supported comprehensive immigration reform that would provide a pathway to citizenship while securing our borders and fixing our broken immigration system. While the Senate passed a bipartisan bill by wide margins in 2013, the House leadership failed to even call a vote, though this bill would pass with support from both parties. While Congress has refused to act, millions of families across our country, California and my district, have live under the threat of deportation. I have repeatedly urged the president to use his authority and protect families until Congress passes immigration reform. In doing so, the president use his power consistent with his authority and in line with many of his predecessors, both Republican and Democrat. I was pleased that the president was indeed taking executive action to shield as many as 5 million people from deportation. Mothers and fathers and dreamers among them. I applauded the president, acting so that thousands of families in my district will not have to live with the fear of being separated. Unfortunately, on February 16, 2015, a federal judge in Texas issued an opinion ordering a temporary halt to two of the Department of Homeland Security's immigration directives, DAPA and Dacca. The decision was appealed by the U.S. Department of Justice. The appeal was later denied by the Federal Court of Appeals, dealing a blow to millions of immigrant families across the country that would have benefited from both directives. The White House has not yet announced what its next moves on the lawsuit will be. It is ultimately Congress responsibility to enact comprehensive reform, and rest assured that I will continue to urge my colleagues to take up bipartisan legislation to that effect. This is about parents, about families, and about children. Thank you. Next speaker, please. When I started this afternoon. My joker armed robbery. Garcia will represent them. Then Garcia and their representative. Claudia Rivera. My name is Claudia Rivera. Just so you know, the day I go, I am a leader of. I think I have lived for 15 years in this country. It doesn't matter. These are my three children. But I mean, sitting with you. It would be very painful to me. For me separated from them. I go to the deportation. Is mowing the lawn as a pandemic induced ban. It is very painful for me. For them to see. You get your company. Especially my daughter, who now understands. In an anti-immigrant stance, what anti immigration groups are saying? Better geography that gives this one by the opportunity that is. But I firmly believe that this is the country. Either end of Dreamers. He told us. When was I keep saying, you. Know, we all come here because of a dream. In me is. The symbol ism in my whole professional Mindi. My dream is to develop myself professionally. Yes. That that music autonomy. So that by this I can provide a better quality of life for my children. In that case, your senators were not you that I know sinister. Also prepare them in order for them to be better citizens for this country. You mean Akin in. Their first generation in this country? What if I would? Both importers had a solution. For this resolution. Gays and lesbians. Up, down. Comunidad Latina Latin community organizer, said, I would like to thank the crisis consul Lina Gonzalez. Lina Gonzalez. For. All you supported our community. Thank you. Oh, hi. My name. Hello. City Council and Mayor Robert Garcia. My name is Rebecca Ayala. I want my family to be with us. Not just my family. I want to. I think that the politicians are out there and that's why I like to support families all over the country have been all over the country. I want my country to be happy with the way their lives are now. People here also may agree. I'd like to thank the council members and Mayor Robert Garcia and especially Lena Gonzalez for letting us be here. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hello. Good evening. My name is Swimming Chair and I'm an immigration attorney with the National Immigration Law Center. So I'm here to support this resolution for economic and public safety reasons. National and local studies have shown that the DOCA program has had a significant effect on young immigrants ability to increase their earnings and expenditures, which results in greater contributions to the tax base. One national study found that almost 60% of DOCA beneficiaries obtain a new job after receiving DOCA and about 45% increase their earnings. This provides direct evidence of the economic boost provided by DOCA. The effect of expanded DOCA and DAPA would be even greater. The estimates vary, but experts agree that even modestly successful enrollment in the DAPA and expanded DOCA programs would add more than 2 billion nationally in taxes over the next two years. This money could be spent to improve infrastructure, education or other important local projects. L.A. County is home to an estimated 500,000 residents eligible for DAPA and expanded programs. This is the largest population of eligible residents in any of the nation's counties. These programs will help to lift immigrant families out of poverty and also provide them with the relief of knowing that they no longer have to fear deportation. Furthermore, law enforcement leaders say that darkened DAPA would make our communities safer by taking immigration fears out of local interactions with police. The Major Cities Chief Police Association, which is a professional association of chiefs and sheriffs representing the largest cities in the U.S., the Police Executive Research Forum, and 27 law enforcement leaders in areas ranging from Iowa to Texas signed onto an amicus brief in support of these programs. In their b rief, they state that deferred action promotes public safety by encouraging immigrants to come to court, to cooperate with law enforcement, and by providing a means to obtain secure and verifiable identification. So finally, I just want to say that we should reject the prejudice, intolerance and xenophobia that some speakers tonight are promoting. That would be moving us backwards at a time when we really need to heal from deep racial wounds. Instead, we should be moving forward towards policies of inclusion, justice and equity. Long Beach communities and economy shouldn't have to wait any longer. Thank you. Thank you. So before before our next speaker just wanted to show so we have about probably another 40 to 45 minutes of public comment. And so I know I know I have one or two councilmembers that have to also have to be leaving. So I want to make sure that we try to get through. This is a very important issue. I know. So I'm going to cut off the speaker's list at the very end. Who's the last person in line there, Senora? So we're going to cut the speaker's list there. I'm closing the speaker's list. And I know that we have a lot of people that are that are obviously supporting the item. So if we can, as best as possible, expedite, you have your right to your 3 minutes. So I understand that. But please, I want to make sure that people are here for for the process. So please continue. And we have the speaker list is now closed. Thank you. Good afternoon. My name is Maria Barrientos. I have been living in Long Beach for 23 years and I wish. Thank. Good afternoon. My name is Maria. Laurie and I have lived in Long Beach for 23 years. And since I came to this country, I'll always pay my taxes. If you would support the immigration reform, it would be beneficial for me along with my daughter, since we've always dreamed of having our own beauty salon. And this would be a business that would also help the economy of Long Beach because we would support other people in growing, along with providing a source of work for others. And they would also. If it's possible, I would like you all to support the immigration reform. Thank you very much for listening to me. Gracias. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Well. Good evening. And. Thank you very much for your attention. My name is Ramon Gonzalez. And. I've been here for 20 years. E e resident. I reside in District nine. You're going to need that. And I'm. Looking for an opportunity in order to achieve a dream. Career. To study, to prepare for a career. In this space. Why in this country. Is it based? Because fundamental. Because this country has. Foundation for freedom. In principles and. Principles in education, which along. The way. Has. Taken this country to a. Development of. Technology, of technology and and science. Patel. Because of this. Your offer for. This, I would offer my talents, my abilities. In this space in. Order to cooperate with this country. In this special community. Especially wi th this city developing new technology. Eat and. Participate or just is. Participating in groups. Your organization or. Community organizations. Benefit for. The benefit of all? And conclusion. In conclusion, I would I would ask for your support. But not for. A comprehensive immigration. Reform awareness and support that. Could give us that opportunity for me as well as for others who need it.

And in this way, we can show. A great potential to. Great potential that we can give to this country. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Yeah. That's just like to say that there will be no immigration reform coming up. Also, our system is not broke and our immigration laws are just simply not enforced. Secondly, America started as British colonies. We allowed immigration. But that's not what made America great. What made America great was our Constitution or rule of law. Every illegal alien that comes here is in violation of America's sovereignty and our rule of law. They have brought their criminality across the border. The reason they come here is because their nations are full of crime, because they have no rule of law. They brought that rule. They did not leave their corruption at the border. They brought their corruption along across that border. I as a legal resident, I as a citizen, a descendant of immigrants, I have the constitutional and civil right to live in a sovereign nation with secure borders. Every illegal alien that came has violated my civil rights, and they are the enemy of America. And they do not love America. They're just here for the money. It's just greed. If the money wasn't here, they wouldn't be here. This is the list of crimes that they want illegal alien criminals not to be deported, but brought back into America. In 1970, we were the eighth largest economy in the world. Half the population, a huge portion of our population. Stay at home, mom. We didn't have the crime that we have. We didn't have the water shortage that we had. We didn't have the deficit we had. It was a better California than all these illegal aliens have at it. Nothing. All they've done is turn our freeways into parking lots. The all they done is put gang bangers on the streets. We had safe streets until they came. This is the crime and the corruption they brought across the border and laid it here. Why in the world would you want to take felons? Car theft. All. Every. Every minor money laundering. And put these criminals back on the street. It is absolutely insane. This is not a nation of immigrants. This is a nation of legal residents. This is people who love the Constitution. I don't know what you hope to gain here other than put yourselves on our political radar screen. This, this. I'm telling you, this will be the confrontation point of all immigration in the future. This mean if you want this stuff downtown, when people come here on their holidays, go ahead and pass this ball thing and we'll have it. But I don't think people want to co me to downtown Long Beach as the legal immigration rallies. Endlessly and endlessly. And that's what's going to happen. What that what? I have no idea what you're doing. You have brought crime and corruption right in here, and now it's seeping into you. Illegal aliens, they only bring crime. They add nothing to this society. And if illegal aliens don't have to obey the laws, why should anybody? And we see that. And why do their children grow up to be gangbangers? We didn't have graffiti. We did not have gang banging in 1970. We were a society of legal residents and we respected the rule of law. You are going to destroy this society. This will not last. The times have sought to strike you. And we don't need to yell when we're actually making public comment one. And just to correct one fact. California now is actually the seventh largest economy in the world. So it has actually moved up a point. So go ahead. My name is Elliot. Information on file. I'll be brief. I just want to tell a quick story about a friend of mine who is is an immigrant. When he first came into the country, his status was, I think, in question. But eventually he he was a legal immigrant. And I someone who really inspires me because I know we're talking a lot about the effect on the system and the government. And, you know what? Immigrants contribute or don't contribute. And my friend, actually. Got his doctorate, went to college because of the immigration reform, because people gave him the opportunity. And he's actually now the current mayor of the city of Long Beach. And this December, he actually sent out an email to a lot of people who are supportive of him and followers of him. He's quite a patriot, something that we kind of have some disagreement on. I personally. Am a little bitter at. Some of the issues that has happened in this country. But he's somebody who loves this country. He loves this country so much. That he said this Christmas, he sent everybody all and everybody who's been following him an email saying that this Christmas, he's going to ensure working with our president, that all of our veterans that are homeless on our streets in Long Beach will have a place to stay. So when we talk about immigrants and their contributions, I want us to recognize that they're not that far from us, that they're an important part of our economy, that they're important part of our community. I also want to talk about a lot of the flag waving that's going on. There's currently a debate nationally about a flag that stood as a symbol of racism, that stood as a symbol of the ugliness. Again, I have my disagreement with the mayor over over the patriotism, because I'm a little bitter at the ugliness that we've seen in this country, because they're this country is based on a long history of telling people, no, you don't have the right to have the same resources I have. You don't have the right to be recognized as a valid human being. You don't have the right to do anything besides wor

k and not have the opportunity to education, not have the opportunity to have a diverse city council member. You don't have the right to create your own policy. And and I want I know that some councilmembers might have constituents who might be on the fence about this issue. And I just want us all to recognize that many of you have come from a place of struggle. Many of you have glass ceilings that you are some of the first in your generation to to represent people, to be elected officials. You weren't the right gender or the right color or the right whatever. And and I'm so glad that that we're moving forward on this. And I want to thank everybody who's been in support of this. Thank you all. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Richard. As far as my information is on file, the American labor movement has always supported human rights. I speak for the AMA, International Executive Council and our members in support of Councilwoman Juliana Gonzalez's comprehensive immigration reform. Since October, some 57,000 unaccompanied minors, the vast majority from Central America, have crossed the illegal into the United States. Many conservatives are blaming the crisis on President Barack Obama's Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, also known as DOCA, which allows people brought here illegally as children. Work, authorization or relief from their deportation. Conservatives say policy that the policy which newly arrived of newly arrived undocumented undocumented immigrants don't qualify for has acted as a magnet, pulling young migrants from violence plagued, poverty stricken countries like El Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala. But there's virtually no evidence to support this increasingly popular conservative talking point. Unidos Respeto mucho Podemos. Your God, I own a well, that Umana. Si, se puede. Si, Podemos grass. Yes. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Honorable Major and Council. My name is Jonathan Solorzano. I am a community organizer with the Long Beach Immigrant Rights Coalition, as well as a lifelong resident of the city of Long Beach and a current resident of the ninth District. So I'm here today to show support for the DOC programs and also the need for comprehensive immigration reform. As you've already heard from our community residents, this is something the city really needs to get behind, because the truth is, our communities are disillusioned. They are disillusioned because undocumented immigrants deal with a variety of problems from housing, work prospects, wage theft, family separation and discrimination. We know our nation's immigration system is broken. And while we know it's difficult for local government to influence federal legislation, you have the power tonight to vote and show the nation what a city who embraces its immigrants looks like. Our community needs you to take a stand. Just as the mayors of two of the largest immigrant communities in the nation, Mayor Garcetti of Los Angeles and Mayor de Bla sio of New York, as well as countless other other public figures have done so recently. And just to show you the support that is behind this resolution, I would actually like to ask those in the audience tonight to please stand. If you are in support of this. I would also like to take the fall to thank the following organizations for supporting this resolution, which are the Lumbee Human Rights Coalition, Greater Long Beach Interfaith Community Organization, Building Healthy Communities, Long Beach, CPC Lane. The Filipino Migrant Center, Central Maine. The Long Beach Coalition for Good Jobs in a Healthy Community Housing Long Beach Latinos in Action Clay then as well as 120 signatures collected from residents throughout this whole process. And we would also like to thank council members Lina Gonzalez, Suja Lowenthal, Roberta Ranga and Rex Richardson for sponsoring this resolution. And while we are thankful for those who are here, let's not forget the millions affected across the country and the thousands in our city and those deported in this current administration, including my own father. Thank you for your time, and we hope you'll vote in support of our community. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Well, I just learned something. New that Mayor Garcia was a recipient. Of the 1986 immigration amnesty. I remember the 1986 law, and I remember three things about it. We were promised it would be the last amnesty. We were told there would be 2 million recipients and it turned out to be almost 6 million. And we were told that the border would be secured. So there I'm sure people have heard the definition of insanity. Is doing. The same thing. Expecting a different. Result. Why would we do the same thing again? We'll get the same result. A lot of people say. That families are separated. Because of this. But in reality, any person who breaks the law. Is in jeopardy of having their families separated. Someone who goes to prison because they broke a law is going to separate their their family. The Social Security trustee. Report and this has been reported on by all the major news organizations, says that Social Security disability is going to run out in 2016. I'm not making that up. It's been reported. They're recommending a 21% cut in all beneficiary's benefits. Why would we want? To add more people. To be getting more of those benefits, are you? Going to go around and apologize to the people, the American citizens, when they have their benefits cut because you supported putting more people into the system. The Long Beach City Council should keep their focus on our veterans. Our foster children are unemployed. Our students are homeless and other citizens in need. And I saw a bunch of homeless right outside of this council chamber. You should not be voting to support something that the majority of Americans disagree with. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. It's been a long night. Thank you so much for allowing the public to speak tonight. I would just like to echo what Janet said. We have a problem in Long Beach in our communities with homelessness. It's burgeoning. In my opinion, that should be the focus of a city council. We have veterans that can't get proper health care. Veterans that are homeless. Living in poverty. These are our citizens. These are people that live on this soil. Americans. Unemployment's very high. It's a jungle out there for the American citizens. And in my opinion, that should be the focus of a city council, your own citizens that are suffering and it's getting worse. The homelessness on the civic property, I mean, it's jaw dropping. It's getting worse. That should be the focus of a resolution, in my opinion. And I would just like to add, our nation has over 400,000 foster kids, U.S. kids. The stats show they live in poverty. They're emotionally abused. They should be the focus of our society, our own suffering population. So I would just like to also add, we are a great nation because we are a nation of laws. And in my opinion, as a city council, a body politic should make resolutions that, say, uphold respect and obey laws. The citizens of the world, this sends the wrong message to our to the world smugglers that that Long Beach well will welcome your activities. So in closing, please, I would consider a no vote and think of our own suffering citizens. Look on the lawn of the civic center and and help our own Americans. Thank you. Thank you. Speaker, please. Well, you guys looked like you were a lot more interested in chicken coops and your ideas. But I like to say that I don't have any problem with with immigrants, legal people that come to this country legally. I had the problem with. Illegal immigrants, people that sneak across the border and they think that they can come here and violate federal law. And everybody's supposed to just turn their head and go. You guys are wonderful people, and I like all you. Illegals out there. Stand up if you're in this country illegally, stand up. There you go. There's open borders for you guys. I strongly oppose it. I hope you guys do the right thing. Thanks. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Okay. My name is Raul Rodriguez Jr and I was here earlier and this is why. I brought my constitution. And I appeal to your conscience. This is why I would like to have your attention. Because by you passing this resolution, you are in violation of federal laws, because this is. Under Article one, Section eight. Of the federal government. You do not have the right to pass in resolutions that are going to protect illegal aliens who are here illegally. They are lawbreakers. They cross the border illegally. They broke a federal law by doing that. And when they commit a crime in the state of California, that's another violation. So I'm asking you to vote no. On this resolution because you don't have the right to vote on it to begin with. Now, Ricardo Lara is a disgrace to the American people and the city of Long Beach. He promotes i llegal immigration. You can smile all you want. Mr. Garcia. I know that you're here. It's Doctor Garcia. Doctor? Yes. Dr. Garcia. You can smile all you want. But you know what? I'm putting you on notice. If you vote yes on this, we will do our best to get you out of office. Because you don't deserve. To serve the illegal. You deserve to deserve the American people. That's who you should be serving. That's your number one responsibility. Everyone to use. That's your number one responsibility is to serve the American people and not lawbreakers like the illegals behind me who are probably still standing. Maybe not. Anyway, the point I'm making is you should vote no on this resolution. I oppose it 100%. Now, they keep saying that the borders. Our broken. Well, the only reason it's broken is because we have a president who doesn't he doesn't know how to be a president. He knows how to be an emperor. And that's what he's doing. He is neglecting the laws of this country. He is violating our Constitution. By what he's doing. The courts eventually are going to put him in this place. The Supreme Court is going to put him in his place and tell him, you can violate our Constitution because it's wrong. So I'm asking you, please vote no on this resolution because you are not holding upholding your law. Your oath of office. And that's all I have to say. Thank you and God bless the United States of America. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please.

Today. My name is Jonathan Escobedo. And I'm here to talk about. The same thing we're all talking about here, immigration. I would like to say that I have a lot of friends that are. Illegal as well and that I've. Seen so far. They actually put more work into school than all of these people that have that are illegal here. I have friends then in heart transplants, but they can't have them because they're illegal. I have too many friends. I see them suffer. It makes me suffer. I just want you guys to vote yes. Have family members suffering like they brought up that we take their jobs when we actually take jobs that they are not willing to take. As illegal immigrants start from the bottom. They go all the way to the top by themselves. These guys don't know what they're talking about. They're being lazy. Some people be lazy. They have all the advantage of being legal. When we immigrants do not know no advantage, we take advantage of them, leaving us open spots at work. So that's I have more to say, but I'll leave it as that. Thank you. Thank you. And our last speaker, please. Good evening. Mayor Garcia and all council members. My name is Dora and I'm from Acle. At this time, I don't want to talking about all of our Constitution because all of you are still there, no more than me. I want to talking about Paul in Spanish first. I call these two areas LA Solution Killer. Lay them in cambiare. Get Reformative in DA Gil Congress. Honorable your local Obama. Good to know what they give you will not see on your attention. They look good about the interior. Get not them. Was there any other communes that want to sue that I do can't organize that would make you lazy on yelp political competition the ideal reception unit are would not coalition parent pianist cable dad. But I guess the point of contact. Let's see. We can have it for tomorrow. See to get is yet. But I if those anti-immigrant things cannot get in the porter. This will be much more eloquent in Spanish, but. I'll do my best. You are the. Solution. The law should be changed. There must. Be reform. Congress didn't support what Obama ordered. Don't complain. Take action. And you will call the attention of the interest groups. That today refuse to turn around to even look. Start with your own city and with your people. Begin to organize, use the legislation, and put pressure on the politician. Leave behind the deception. Get together with the coalition. But you have to vote so that you can count. There should be a civic network formed if you want to stop these anti-immigration. Laws that want to deport us. Thank you. Okay. Now I'm going to go back to back to the council, Councilmember Andrews. Mayor. Oh, because you didn't make comments. Yeah, that's right. Yes. Councilwoman Gonzales. That's okay. I first want to thank everyone who spoke. I think everyone, for the most part was very eloquent. I think I also want to thank my council colleagues, Suranga Lowenthal and Richardson, for bringing this forward with me. I first have to spend like maybe 2 seconds to give this energy. It really doesn't deserve more energy than that. But I find that some of the comments, it literally makes my skin crawl to hear the the level of hatred, the level of racism in some in some cases that is being portrayed by some individuals. And I just it just really literally makes me very sick to my stomach. These are not aliens. What's alien to me is that we call people. Aliens were alien. What's alien to me is that we still refer to people as less. Than we cannot be, actually. The public comment is over. So, sir, no more public comment. Now it's time for the Council to make their comment, please. Thank you. And so, as I was saying, it really is alien to me that we're still referring to people that way. With that said, an aside, there are real people, real faces. We've seen every single one of them in line. Their students, their mothers, their fathers, their workers. They contribute to society. They pay taxes there. You know, my mother is an immigrant. There are so many different people that contribute to not only the city of Long Beach, but to the the nation as a whole. And I think it's important that we're supporting this. We are the international city. So if somebody isn't interested in supporting this or they they feel that it's not a good idea to be hateful towards this. And what I would say is, you know, Long Beach is, like I said, an international city. There are different languages spoke here. We have the largest population of Cambodians o outside of the the country. We have almost 40%, over 40% Latino in this population. And what's important is that there are people that raise families here, like myself. We raise families. We have jobs, there are educated people. There are a lot of good things that are coming from our immigrant immigrant communities. Comprehensive immigration reform is needed so that families can stay together. Immigrant families contribute to the U.S. economy in a variety of ways. So it's time for them to be a part of our greater American society and for us to support them here in the city of Long Beach. Well, this is a federal issue. It is also truly a neighborhood block by block issue that is about families. Like I said, individuals, employees, they contribute to our society. The Council has taken supportive stances on specific immigration reform issues in the past, like DOCA, Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals. We've all supported also supported the DREAM Act in the past. In February, the Federal Legislative Committee made the Directive support comprehensive immigration reform. And today, I want to strengthen that by passing this resolution. I know we've all heard it before, but we really needed to take a stance as a city of Long Beach. While we cannot make these federal policy decisions at the council level, we can work to support our immigrant communities who are vibrant and active part of our city in so many ways. As a resolution states, immigrant communities contribute so much to our local economy. They are our fathers, our mothers, our students. They pay taxes. They are here to stay. They're not going away. Their families, they raise our families. All of the positive things that we can mention in a dignified, well-planned path that includes taking the steps necessary to become a full fledged citizen is a must. Many others took these steps, and we must honor that process. I hope that my council colleagues can support me at this time and I thank them. Thank you, Councilmember. Councilmember Andrews, want to put your second? Okay. I'm actually a councilmember, your rank who seconded the motion and then I'll go down the speakers less councilmember Orengo. Thank you, Mayor. I want to start by saying a few words in my native language. Spanish. You know, that is as good as. Yes, but I better go down to Tampa, keep an eye on us. So it is that is important to yourself, I must say. It's important that they never unite reform of the immigration game. I tried hard, but I told those barrelhouse Americanos. That was what the Multi-Course commandos played on was one of the Mohicans. Goebel told us that those places Gibson was extremely lucky in Long Beach, Samuelsen When I see that bicultural, bilingual eat mostly lost me as moderators there . So what if you read it and there in Westeros that it was common was a mass. You're so equal with the immigrants. I am the son of immigrants and I had just as much right to be in this country as you do. And I'm insulte d when people say. We have to look after our Americans. I am an American. I live here. And I'm going to die. I'm not going to die. So I'm going to support this issue because it's very important that we protect our rights, our rights to live in this country, our rights to work here, our rights to raise our families and educate our schools. And in case you haven't heard, because you live in a cave. All right, guys. Mark Mark Kirk. Mark Zuckerberg on June 5th, 17th contributed $5 million towards a scholarship for undocumented students to continue their college education. If you haven't heard. Presidential candidate Jeb Bush has stated flatly he supports immigration reform and he will do something about it when he gets elected. Presidential candidate Bernie Sanders said the same thing. Presidential candidate Hillary Smith. Hillary Smith. You'll hear Hillary Clinton. Well, we'll do the same in terms of immigration reform. It's coming, folks. It's coming. So you might as well be prepared for it, because all these citizens that not citizenry here are going to become citizens. You know what they can do? They're going to vote. Thank you. Next up next up is Councilor Richardson. And please for everyone in the audience, I know we've done public comment. I'm trying to keep our decorum and for everyone, please. So let's please be respectful of both. Those are speaking as we did during the public comment. So next, I have Councilmember Andrews. Do I actually have Andrew and then I'll go Richardson. Thank you. You know, it's amazing to sit here and listen to the comments from the various people because the fact that being a minority myself as a black man and I'm hearing these comments about immigrants. You know, I don't think any of the individuals asked to come here. If they say America Home, the great land of the. Free, why wouldn't you want to be here? You know, I think of so many things when I talk about, you know, I work at a school, Coco Brazil. I've watched those students. Who work harder than anyone I've seen there to let you know that a lot of their parents are immigrants and a lot of those immigrants a lot of those individuals are immigrants. I don't do this because of a political platform. I do it because I know it's right. We all have a right to live in America. Everyone has a right to be in America. And you should not have to live under the embassy of, you know, being an illegal. You please. Illegal. What is that? You know, like I said, I'm a believer in reform and, you know, immigration in the past in the United States. But the Hispanics and the Cambodian community, I've seen many families in my district separate and destroyed by current deportation policies. And there's nothing that I can do to help them. The Families United is the strongest that I know of, and we must protect the rights of all families to stay together. A family stays together, prays together. That is the only way you can live in a country like this. You have to give them a right to be together. You don't separate anyone from their family. I would totally support this issue. And the thing he brought to the diocese. Thank you very much, Lena, for doing this. Thank you. Next up next up is council member Richardson Jones. And I know I know everyone is supportive or not supportive, but if we could just try to get through the comments and please no side comments, I'd really appreciate it. I know it's difficult, but please. Councilor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you, Councilmember Gonzalez, for bringing this resolution forward and to all the cosigners for signing on to this item. So I know that so the city council is well documented on this. We've already sort of in our federal legislative agenda process, we've already demonstrated support and expressed that support to the federal government for comprehensive immigration reform. And in terms of the president's executive action, it's been said that we should focus on our residents or our jobs. But I understand where the president is coming from. I represent 56,000 people in the ninth District, and I represent all of them, whether they're documented or not. We all are one community. We're all when one portion of the community is hurting, the whole community hurts. We're all part of the same social fabric. And I get what the president is trying to do. You know, Congress has let this fester for far too long. And he took what action was in what was within his power to prioritize certain actions, to place a priority on families and communities. And that's smart. It's economically smart here in Long Beach, here in California. If we just move forward with with adopting DOCA, we would see almost $1,000,000,000 annually in revenue to our own budget. Is that something that we should not support as a local person who analyzes and manages the budget every year? It makes economic sense in terms of sort of the the culture in this country right now. I'm just sort of taken aback at the comments because, you know, just less than two weeks ago, we had folks sounding very using very similar erratic rhetoric that we've heard tonight go into a church and do something very violent and very, very based on hate, based on hate and ignorance. And very easily, you can take out the word you can use those statements tonight and swap out the word illegal for the N-word very easily. And this will sound very similar to that. And it's and it's just not okay here in here and here in Long Beach. So what I would say is I'm I'm an unequivocally unequivocal support to this. I think that Long Beach is is we have a responsibility just like so many states. Spoke up opposed to executive action. We have a responsibility to speak up in support of executive action. A part of the democratic process. When we go to DC, we tell them what our priorities are. As chair of Fed Ledge, we're going to express our priorities and express our support for this. So that's it. Thank you again for bringing this for ward. And I'm going to vote yes. Okay. Thank you. Next up is Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I concur with my colleagues. I'm very thankful for the passion of Councilmember Gonzalez, as well as your anger and others who've spoken tonight. And I want to thank all of you that have come forward, actually, those who are in favor and those who are not in favor. I actually thank you as well. It's a constant reminder that we have so much farther to go. You know, this morning, many of us read in the paper that Governor Nikki Haley requested that the Confederate flag be removed from the state capital. And I was reminded that it's never too late to do the right thing. In 150 years, we may have only moved incrementally. But we've moved in leaps and bounds in so many different ways. And I'm reminded even tonight from the Rich conversation that we've had sometimes boisterous, a lot of times very disrespectful, which is unfortunate that life is rich and it's textured and it's complex. Just as complex, rich and textured as the people living them. But we have a shared tapestry in our history. Whether you believe that we are a nation of immigrants or you don't. The truth remains that we actually are rewriting that history. Is one way of living the rest of your life. But I'm comforted knowing that a great majority of us don't choose to rewrite that history. We understand our shared tapestry, and we understand that it's unfinished. When you see people that whether they toil in their own countries or they toil in this country, certainly when I see them, I am reminded of my own parents who immigrated here. And whether they did legally or not is of no consequence. But I'm reminded of why people leave their. Nation of origin and why they leave their nation of birth. It's a very simple thing to understand, and it's because we want to protect our children and we want to give our children. What we can and possibly what we're able to give. And that's not different from when our nation was founded. People left Europe to give the same thing to their children. And so. I'm thankful for the discourse and the acrimony that I heard today because I'm always reminded that our job is never done. This morning's single act of removing a relic from a time in our history that shouldn't either be celebrated or forgotten for the worst of its four bearings reminds us, just as this conversation does tonight, that our tapestry is unfinished, whether we move by two degrees or 180 degrees. The fact that we have moved in the right direction is our common cause and our common celebration. And I want to thank Councilmember Lina Gonzalez and the co-sponsors, as well as my entire council for raising awareness and support for the plight of our immigrant families. You make up our tapestry. I'm proud to be a part, a very small part of that tapestry. I will never forget that. Many of us at this diocese actually are our children, sons and daughters of immigrants. No matter how many generatio ns removed. And sometimes it's that single act of bravery. And it's not ordinary courage. It's tremendous courage when people leave their countries of origin to come here for their children. But a single act like that changes the trajectory of an entire family. And I remind my son of that, that a decision my mother made when she was 16 changed the trajectory of my life and has. And so that's something to be celebrated, not not reviled in the way that we hear today. And, again, the discourse that we heard in the language that we heard is unfortunate. But I'm thankful for it because it reminds me never to get comfortable and never to look away from the ugliness that exists. Because the moment we look away is the moment we think our work is done and our work is not done. So thank you, counsel, colleagues. And like Councilmember Richardson said, the political jockeying between parties and between presidential hopefuls has undermined serious conversations on comprehensive immigration reform at the federal level and perhaps even stoked the fire of resentment. Some of that which we heard tonight in our communities rather than an honest conversation about those issues. I don't think it's a surprise for you to hear. I support our urging of comprehensive reform that reflects our nation's values, not just the values of a few, but our collective conscience. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you. I, too, want to thank my colleagues for bringing this item forward. I am the daughter of an immigrant, and I don't believe that this is a Latino issue or any specific race. We are a nation of immigrants, and immigrants in this country comprise some of the most hardworking and honest and dedicated people among our society. And I take a little bit of issue with any sort of allegation or assumption that there is a specific group of people that are committing the crimes in this nation. The reality is people are committing crimes every day. White people, black people, Latino people, people of all different colors. We've seen it in recent times. Some of the most horrendous crimes that we see are committed by our very own members of our community. So, too, to try to blame crime on a particular race or status is just wrong and it's factually inaccurate. So I do I do take offense to that because I don't think it's fair to label an entire community of people. Some of the people we heard from tonight represent some of the most hardworking people that you'll ever see, people who have 2 to 3 jobs to provide for their children so that their children can grow up in a land of opportunity. Those those parents should be commended for giving their children an opportunity at a better life. I had that opportunity. Many of my colleagues have that opportunity. And the parents that are working hard and doing their best to survive in this community and make their way through the community should be commended. And I do. I appreciate that. Tuesday nights are an exercise in democ racy, and I take no issue with the comments that that some have made. Are opposed to this item. That's okay. We have that every week. People feel very passionately about the items that are before us. That's okay. But at the end of the day, we live among among one another in a community. And we're all trying to do our best. And that is the bottom line. Every single person is just trying to do their best for their families and give their their children the best opportunities in life. And that is something to be respected and celebrated. I think that the reality of our country is that we do need comprehensive immigration reform. What the specifics of that reform look like and what the compromises and the provisions and the final agreements will be, is something that still has to be discussed at a national level. But the idea that we have to look at this as a nation and figure out where the uncertainties are and what needs to be refined is important. And so I support this item and I support the resolution being brought by Councilwoman Gonzalez and my colleagues to this body. And usually most of my council colleagues know that any time issues like this come up, my first reaction is always, what does this have to do with Long Beach and why are we getting involved? I generally like us to focus on things that impact our city alone and really have our focus be on that. But this issue does impact our city. It does and impacts a large number of residents in this city and a large number of children who go to school in our schools, in this city. And it's important that we're advocates for those children as well. And that's where my standpoint is when

I'm coming from this is, you know, what about those children and their future and the fact that they're here and we as a nation have a duty to look out for them as well. Thank you. Thank you. Next up, we have Councilmember Ringo. First of all, I am. I. I'm not unapologetic for my outburst. It was because I did have prepared remarks. But I just get too caught up in the moment that I had to say what I had to say. And I meant it all. Every bit of it. But I do want to give some thank you's to Congresswoman Janice Hahn, assembly member Patrick O'Donnell, state senator representing the representatives here to express their support of this issue. I think they recognize that it's an important issue, that one that needs to be supported and we need to support our president and working towards and our Congress towards comprehensive immigration reform. And I also want to say that to my mom and dad, who were immigrants here, who after 50 years became citizens and had the opportunity to vote for a rang up for their first vote. And before my mother passed two years ago in 2012, she died in November right around Thanksgiving. But she was very proud that she voted for President Obama and that she voted for him twice. So. When we look at immigration reform and we look at the opportunity for a path to citizenship, I think that the conversation is going to take a shift because there's going to be a lot of people out there wanting to change that conversation that we presently have now and the vitriol that we hear tonight. I hopefully will go away. I hope we'll go away. Thank you. Thank you. Next up, we have council member Austin. Thank you. And I do want to thank our Councilmember Gonzales for bringing this forward. I will be voting in support of this myself. We as a country, we've kind of kick the can down the road for far too long. The time for comprehensive immigration reform is now. The problem has been exacerbated because we have failed to address it as a country. Our president has tried to move, move, move forward and advance the issue. And it's become a obviously a very political football that has divided a lot of us. I appreciate the passionate responses and comments from my colleagues. I appreciate the passion from many of you who bravely came up here and testified today on this important issue. Long Beach is, as someone said, is the international city. It's a city of great diversity that we celebrate. And I don't think we would. I don't think we can honestly support breaking up families. People are. Here undocumented. Not because they chose to be here. A lot of them children are born here, too, to undocumented parents. They're in our schools. They are are part of our society. They are they're a shadow economy, oftentimes in our kitchens of our restaurants. We need to rectify that. And in doing so, we need to support a path to citizenship. And so thank you, Councilmember Gonzalez, and everyone else. And we I'm serving on this dais with children of immigrants and with immigrants themselves. That's the beauty of America. That's that's why we come to this country. That's why we're proud to be Americans. And so with that, I'm happy to support this and thank you for bringing it forward. I got sick to my stomach earlier as well, so I'm going to be excusing myself after this vote. But I wanted to stay around to make sure that I. I voted yes on this. Thank you. Thank you. Just I'll make a couple of brief comments and then we'll go and go to the vote. I'm maybe I'm I'm not sure this is part of the motion or not, Councilwoman, but I think it's probably appropriate that this, as being passed by the council tonight, would become officially also part of the federal agenda. Yes. And so I know is asking our government affairs director and some of the assumption is, Mr. City attorney, that this would then become part of that agenda, if that's part of the motion? That's correct. Okay. Thank you. And then the second thing I'll say is I just want to echo something that was mentioned earlier, and I think it's really important. You know, one of the things that I love about this country and I think I think this is the greatest country on the planet. It's the greatest country on earth. And one of the things that I love about this country is that we live in a democracy where people are abl e to have different opinions. And we can respectfully disagree. We can respectfully agree, but we have different opinions. And what what we should love about this great place that we live in is that whether we agree or disagree, we can do it in a way that's respectful and we can do it in a way that really lives up to the ideals of what this country was founded on. I there was a comment earlier about the Council focusing on on issues, on a variety of issues. And I just want to address those. I think they're important veterans. Veteran veterans were brought up in homelessness and unemployment, all incredibly important issues that the city works on continuously. And I'm proud of the fact that homeless homelessness is down in Long Beach by 18%. I'm proud of the fact that unemployment is at its lowest it's been in 15 years, that we have a great foster program in large part a lot of interest brought on to it because of Council Brough, Austin and others that and within the system that we have here. I'm proud that we have a goal to house every veteran in Long Beach that is experiencing homelessness by the end of this year. So these are all really, really great goals. I think these are goals that probably a lot of everyone in this audience can agree that it's the right thing to do. But I also think that supporting our immigrants for supporting the men and women, but especially the children that are undocumented in our country in ways that I think we're very reasonable there. These are ways that these are regulations that I think our president has proposed that are reasonable, they're humane, they're thoughtful. They're not radical in any sort of way. I think they're very American regulations are very American policies. And so I want to thank everyone for the conversation tonight. It's certainly been very, very vivid and very lively. But I want to thank Councilwoman Gonzales for bringing this forward tonight. And so with that, we'll call the vote. Motion passes nine zero. Thank you very much. Now we'll go on to the next item. So we're going to go back. Okay. So 1112, we're going to go on to item 13, I believe. Item 23. Item 23, if we can get the clerk to read in 23. Thank you. Item 19 is communication from City Attorney. Recommendation to declare an ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code by amending sections relating to livestock and other animals. Read the first time and later to the next regular meeting of the City Council for Final Reading. There's a motion and a second. Any public comment on the item? So good to you. Very good. Took our clinic as the address. Last week or the last time this council, this council considered this motion, I think it was another marathon session. And I thought if had any moment there, we would see Walter Brennan and Richard Crenna from the Real McCoys while in here. After listening to, what was it, 3 hours of whether or not what size? Hens, piglets, roosters and bees and animals we should have. It just struck me as being absolutely insane to devote that much time. And that was just the tip of the iceberg, apparently, if you've had marathon discussions like that before on that subject. But to me, that was just inane, considering the problems we face in terms of crumbling infrastructure, budget shortages. The crime, the reduction, the reduced police force, notwithstanding the good efforts they do. It just amazing to me. Absolutely no sense whatsoever. And I hope we don't have any further discussions on that subject. And more to the point. Where? To the point? That's really inconsistent with what the council was dealing with earlier today relative to the development of Belmont Shore and discussing last week about the about the river revitalization of the area around the Queen Mary, making it a premiere spot. Visitors don't come to see potbelly pigs or beehives or piglets or horses. In my view, in fact, I think I pointed out the absurdity. Of course, it was brought into sharp focus by said. I pointed out that probably sometime tonight or the day before there was a shooting within the inner range of the city hall. And lo and behold, 6 hours later, there was another one. Thank you. See no other public comment. Please cast your votes. Motion carry eight zero. Okay. Thank you. Now we're moving on to. Item 20. Hearing item one is a report from Development Services recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record, conclude the public hearing and declare the ordinance approving the Golden Shore Development Agreement. Read the first time and lead over to the next regular meeting of the City Council for Final Reading. Authorize City Manager to execute the development agreement and accept the categorical exemption. See Dash 15. Dash 049. District two. Sir. Modica Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the Council the staff report for this item will be made by Amy Bodak, our Director of Development Services. Mr. Mayor, members of the City Council, thank you for your attention to this item tonight. This is, in short term words, a good thing. A number of years ago, the City Council in the Planning Commission. Approved a significant master plan for the Golden Shore area of our downtown. And we are here for you to discuss tonight for your consideration entering into a statutory development agreement to allow that master plan to remain in effect for a period of up to 20 years. Because of the significance of the potential development and because of the potential length of time it would take for the development to be implemented. A statutory development agreement will provide both the city and the development interests assurances that we are still in concurrence with the master plan that we've already approved. The Planning Commission did take action on this item a couple of months ago and they are presenting the ordinance to you for your consideration today. We do have the development interests in the audience tonight, if you wish to hear from them o therwise. That concludes our reports and I'm here for any questions. Thank you. We do have a motion and a second vice president called. You have some comments? Thank you. I just wanted to indicate that I was happy to see this go forward and am looking forward to the development stages.

Councilman Gonzales. Concur with this. This is a great project. Looking forward to it. Councilman Andrews. Yes, thank you, Mayor. I think this is a very, you know, enthusiastic about this development because I know, you know, it will. Bring a lot of jobs and will be a new shining light, you know, on our downtown area. And I think a lot of it, if any individuals know about my background, it's all about jobs. And I think remember when Mr. Keyser was and he and I were speaking about things when we first put this into an ordinance to let you. Individuals know, he always I have a little plaque sitting on my desk. A job would stop a bullet. And I truly believe in that. And thank you very much for. Giving that to me. Yes. Thank you. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I've followed this project for some time. I'm glad to see that there's a local hire commitment. I'm eager to see this project move forward, so I'm in complete support. Thank you. Councilmember Ringa. Following in the footsteps of Richardson, I was exactly the same. Same thing with your point that out Canada. I love the the language there in terms of local here. Been following this one for a while as well and congratulations and looking forward to your project. Thank you. Was there any public comment on this project? Mr. Goodyear, please come forward. Very good work as it is. I support the concept in chief 100%, but I have some concerns and it's based upon what I heard at the Surfrider Foundation meeting last of ten days ago and something I have not heard a statement that has not come across. The lips of Robert Garcia or particularly Patrick O'Donnell now sampling one of those words being The surfing days of yesteryear are never returning to Long Beach in response to their demands to take down the breakwater, which obviously then decimates everything along the shoreline. So what I'd like to hear tonight. From the mayor. Is a statement. Members of the Surfrider Foundation. You need to understand. Though the breakwater will certainly be reduced in two specific places as per agreement with the Corps of Engineers, based upon the plans that have been gifted to the city by the eminent doctor. But Johnson, which comport with the plans of the of the consultant that the city paid to hire off a nickel. Rainwater will be lowered sufficient to get tidal flushing, but never again will we see the days of surfing, days of yesteryear. I have yet to see the manifest integrity of the mayor or Patrick O'Donnell. Let cross their lips. Folks, the genesis of the breakwater is irrelevant. It is not coming down. And until we hear that. I think it's ill advised to move forward with a plan like this because I don't think t he mayor can be trusted. Thank you. Thank you, Larry. Appreciate that. Let me just add, before Mr. Keyes or I just kind of skips here in case there was kind of wondering what the the actual plan is that they're trying to present. This is actually a pretty significant development parcel and project here in downtown Long Beach. It would, in fact, change the Long Beach skyline and add some significant really new skyscraper project here just adjacent to right off of Ocean Boulevard, adjacent to the the current building that occupies Kissell and Logan, as well as a variety of other great organizations. And so obviously, Skip, thank you for your hard work. Be great for the economy and for jobs and certainly will make a difference here in Long Beach. There's been a motion and a second. Please cast your votes for the project. Motion carry nine zero. Thank you. Thank you, Skip. George, good to see you guys. And I will now move on to the second hearing, please. Item number eight. A communication from Councilwoman Mingo. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Councilwoman Price. Recommendation to request the city attorney to draft a resolution in support of Women's Equality Day. Okay. Councilwoman Mango, is it? Yes. So thankful to have Councilmember Urania as my second on the motion. When the resolution comes back to the Council will be excited to share with you some exciting things. This is the 19th. This is the commemoration of the 19th Amendment to the United States that allowed women the opportunity to vote. And it's really important for us to recognize this historic occasion. So thank you for my colleagues for joining me in this important effort. Thank you. Council member You're invited to the second of the motion. Do you have any comments? I want to thank the thank the ladies for bringing this forward. It is quite, quite an event. And I look forward to working with you because you bring a different voice as elected officials on this council. Thank you for working with us. Thank you. And Councilwoman Gonzalez. That was very kind. Thank you. Yes, I I think Councilwoman Mango for bringing this forward. And I know I think many of us ladies here on the council, we use councilwoman because we're very proud of our gender and who we are. But certainly there are different challenges of being a woman, and the equality issue is always still a problem to this day. So I thank you for bringing this forward. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I wanted to thank the author of the motion, as well as the supporters and really council member. Your longest comments as well. Actually, that's very personal touch. I don't think we often recognize each other for the different points of view that we bring. And sometimes those can be a sign to nothing more scientific or profound than just our gender and and and our own experiences. But I do think we are very privileged in the capacities that the voters have given us. And for us to be able to commemorate. Any oppo rtunity. To bring equity is something that we can do and we should do with pride. So. Just shortly, among the measures of a just and civil society, I think most of us believe that the treatment of women is considered a very important milestone. We often take that for granted when we live in developed societies, but I don't think we can take that for granted. The 19th Amendment signified a turning point in a very male dominated society and political structure. However, we still struggle for equal pay, for equal work and qualifications, as well as updated family leave laws continue. They continue to be a hurdle, and I think most of us know where the U.S. ranks when it comes to family leave laws throughout the world. We have developing nations that far outrank our own efforts here, or at least our own accomplishments here for that level of equity. And I think we have a long way to go as much as we have to celebrate. So I want to thank Councilmember Mongeau for this reminder and our charge as elected leadership to continually reach for a more just and civil society and to not take for granted that because we have been placed in positions of privilege and equity, that that is the same for everyone. Thank you. Councilman Branch Yes, thank you, Mayor, and thank you, Vice Mayor, for that robust, you know, type of explanation you just gave. Because there's no doubt that the you know, the improvement of the women has improved every aspect of our lives. You know, to commemorate a day of this honoring women would be in my own honor to let you know, you know, honor that also. So with that said, I would like to give you my sincere gratitude of all my female colleagues for their contributions to this item and for all the work they do each day to inspire all women. And I want to thank you again. Thank you, Councilmember Supernova. Just on a personal note, I my mother wouldn't forgive me if I let this go, but she's still worth us. But she was born on August 24th, 19, 22 days before women had the right to vote. And she reminded me of that fact all my life. And she voted in I think your first election was 1944, and she actually voted in our April election just past. I think she voted. For me, too. She's a fourth District resident. Yes. All right. Keep it in the family. It's good. More votes. Councilmember Richardson just wanted to chime in and say I'm in complete support of this and I don't really see why it's necessary, because when I was raised, the women have run the show all my whole life and it's still that same way in my household today. So all jokes aside, I'm complete support and count me on the sign in sign up for the resolution next year. And councilmember Mongo. Yes. I was just sent an email from my staff asking me to read in Councilman Price's comments as she is watching this from her hotel room in D.C.. Except that it thanks me and I hadn't gotten to that. I want to thank Councilman Mongo and Councilmember Urunga for moving and seconding this motion an d for Councilman Mongo bringing this item forward with the ladies of the Council. It is my honor to support it, and although I can't be there tonight, I'm watching from my hotel room and very appreciative of the remarks thus far. I especially like Councilmember UNGA on his remarks and I want to remind him that. The meeting went long even though I was not there. Thank you to everyone and the women that have been in my life that have made everything possible. I'm very lucky to have such wonderful female mentors and male mentors alike. But we've come a long way. And as Vice Mayor Lowenthal alluded to, we have a long way to go. Thank you. And because Councilman Price was watching us because we had a hearing, so we figured we got to apply that with no hearing council meeting. We'll see how that goes. Just kidding. And let me move on to the vote. We have a motion with a second o public any public comment on this item? Okay. Please cast your votes. Councilman Andrew Motion carries 809, please. Item nine Communication from Councilmember Richardson. Councilwoman Gonzalez Councilwoman Price recommendation are received from a presentation on participatory budgeting in Long Beach. Okay. Go ahead, Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor, and good evening. And I want to just acknowledge our residents who are ninth District residents who came out tonight in support of this item. I know that it's it's kind of late, but when you're number nine, you're called on last. And sometimes it takes that to make sure that, you know, you are represented here. So so thank you. And this is what civic participation looks like. I want to begin the presentation with a short video on the participatory budgeting process that much of the council in the city has come to know over the last year or so and that we completed a few months ago. So let's go ahead and hit play. I am so excited about. This project because folks have. Literally invested hundreds of man hours making sure that this is a quality process and is a demonstration. For what could be considered a long and. Participatory budgeting to the democratic process that allows local residents to directly decide how to spend a portion of the public budget. It's real people will be real decisions about real public money. TB has actually been happening for over 25 years around the world, but it's relatively new here in North America and especially here in the United States . When I started with PDP about three and a half years ago, Chicago and New York were the only two not on the map. And they are the most important part of the process. They're the ones deciding how to spend the money and they're the ones coming up with the idea, developing the proposals. A lot of people, especially families, have reported increased skills and public speaking, negotiating, building agreement, contacting officials and consistently those with low incomes and less education. So it is actually a complicated process. You actually learn by diffe rent government. Many of us on the different committee of conservative delegates. We don't take your ideas and your collected. Into the footwork and research that you. Stand to create for people. The city. And those better proposals of what you think is playing out in the state. Participatory budgeting for me. Is about the power we've demonstrated where we can show that we do have an. Informed, empowered and engaged constituency that pays attention. I am participating in a program called Budgeting. I got it through a mega high school. I actually really liked them. You know, it makes me feel like you have a say in what's going on around the community. It makes me feel like I can make a change. I feel like I finally have a voice. Not just helping others, but all the way around. Now. I think some. People get excluded when public servants start talking about getting involved because they think that you get all their time and consumed doing things and then they'll have nothing to show about their accomplishments. But why do you power is that we have relatively great guys here and we are the mainstay in our community. And then Apple TV is on the back. Thank you. So. So tonight I want to share some outcomes and evaluation results from our PB process as well as I'd like to invite my colleague Councilmember Gonzalez to or Councilwoman Gonzalez to share her experience. I've also asked that Josh Lerner, executive director of the Participatory Budgeting Project, who's joined us from New York City, to share more about participatory budgeting and where that process is going. So let's start with the numbers. See? All right. Okay. I envision this going very differently. Ari, figuring out the technical issue? I hope so. Hmm. We're going to wait it all night. I'm going to give them their presentation. Thanks, Darrell. He. Tissue. We go into a couple other items and come back to this or do you want some time? Okay. We're gonna go to the next item so we can go and call item number 11. Item number 13 Report from Technology and Innovation, Finance and Financial Management Recommendation to Adopt Resolution to execute a master agreement with open counter enterprises for software, subscription, licensing and implementation services in an amount not to exceed 70,500 for the first year and 40,500 for this subscription fee for the second year citywide. There was a motion Bushmen Counsel Richardson and Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Any public comment? Okay. I'm just going to make. Please, sir. Go ahead. Good evening, everyone. My name is Sean Duren, executive director of the Uptown Business Improvement District. We're located in North Long Beach speaking on behalf of the Uptown Business District and also COPA, the Long Beach Council of Business Associations. In regards to the open counter software, we started this process about a year ago. We thoroughly reviewed the software components and its compatibility with city staff and also our fellow COBR members. We believe that Open Coun ter will streamline the process for opening up, opening new businesses in the city by being essentially a one stop shop where business owners can see the requirements, the fees and the processing time that apply to their type of business based on their location as well. We also believe that Open Counter will help coordinate the city's internal workflow across departments and help build better relationships with the business community, essentially making Long Beach a more business friendly and business easiest. We'd like to say environment. We believe that open counter will be helpful tool to the business, a helpful tool and resource we can utilize to help promote economic development in our respective business improvement districts and on behalf of COBA and myself in the Uptown Business District. We highly, strongly recommend that the Council adopt the measure to implement open counter software. Thank you. Thank you very much, Councilman

Mongo. Yes. I just wanted to say that we have had the greatest experience on the Economic Development Committee learning more about this open counter opportunity for Long Beach and what it's going to really do to streamline things for businesses here. So we're really excited about this and I hope all my colleagues will be in support. Thank you. I want to make a quick comment, so I got to give a little bit of a shout out to a few folks. First is Open Counter was first brought to my attention a year ago by Blair Cohn as a recommendation to my transition team. When I was first elected mayor, before I even came into office. He brought open counter forward as a solution. He had been talking to crack, coordinate the deal, Bay, Cobra groups, all sorts of other folks at the city. And we discussed it then. I was impressed at the time and I'm just very thankful to all the bids for being so involved in this process. Incredibly thankful to the transition team that pushed this over a year ago, but also the Economic Development Committee that Councilman Mongo chairs and the commission that also looked at open counter and made work and made some recommendations to staff as well. So thanks to all involved. Mike Conway, Mike Conway's team, Amy Botox team. Just this is going to be a fantastic new opportunity. This is, by the way, in my opinion, going to get to dramatically change the way we do and track our businesses as they open a business and apply for licensing in the city of Long Beach. This is a big deal. And we're really we're we're this is great. And it's a way to use technology to make the city more business friendly and support particularly small businesses. So very exciting moment and if you can cast your votes. Motion carries through. Thank you. Now we're going to go back to item number nine. Oh, yes, number nine. Councilor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. So and thanks for being with us. While we figured that out. So we're going to share some of our outcomes and evaluation results from the PBE process as well as invi te a number of people to to speak. Let's start with the numbers. In District nine, participatory budgeting, budgeting literally engaged thousands more residents than any other effort that we've taken on in our district. Here's a breakdown of our participant participation statistics. 183 individuals participated in idea collection assemblies. Goodman Item 26. Report from Health and Human Services. Recommendation to execute agreement with the State Department of Health Services in the amount of 1,000,205. $205,944 for the provision of HIV prevention health services citywide. Thank you. There's a motion and second staff report. Our health officer, Dr. Mitch Kershner. Grant. I'm sorry. Now you can hear me. This is a continuation of our HIV prevention grant from the state since 1988. It's a two year term. It serves 5000 residents living in the city of Long Beach with HIV. It continues our testing and treatment of all residents with HIV. Thank you. Is there any public comment on the item? CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries nine zero. Item 27. 2121. Communication from Councilman Austin. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Recommendation to refer to the Election Oversight Committee to study the merits of developing an 11 member appointed Citizen Redistricting Advisory Commission. To research the possible mid-decade and future redistricting processes. And request the EOC to report back within 90 days. Thank you, Madam Clerk. There's been a motion. A second. Councilmember Austin. Did you want to speak to the motion? Yes, I did make the motion here and I brought this item forward. I want to thank Councilmember Gonzales for joining me on this. The redistricting process is obviously a very sensitive and political process that we undertake generally every ten years. And our charter affords us the ability to do it every five years. And I know there's been some conversation about moving forward with that process. But in the spirit of participatory government, and I think this council has done an excellent job under our mayor and just deliberate actions of various council members to engage community in the decision making process. You know, we're doing participatory budgeting in several districts where we're engaging residents in how to spend. But the budgeting our funds and their funds on the things that they want to see done. And in an effort to avoid the pitfalls that we experienced during the last we just district in process, particularly impacting many areas of the eighth district, the seventh District and other areas of the city where there were and still are a little still are hard feelings over the redistricting process and how that all went down. I thought it would be behoove us to look at establishing a redistricting citizen redistricting process, considering that it has had obviously some success with the state on the state level and has been supported by the Supreme Court recently. And so with that, I would just ask for your support on this item to move forward to the Elections Oversight Committee. Councilman Gonzales. Yes. Thank you, Councilmember Austin, for bringing this forward. This is just a recommendation, just an idea at this point. And I certainly know that, as the councilmember added, you know, as we're kind of getting into the idea of participatory budgeting, including much of our community members, into the political process, the democratic process, I think this is an idea worth exploring. And so I know that I when I'm as the chair of the Elections Oversight Committee, I certainly plan to review Congressman Lowenthal work and leadership on the on the issue as he is the one that was the lead in forming the state commission. And so I'm sure we'll be exploring that. I do want to, though, formally, I'm sure we will explore different options, but I do want to include a formal amendment just to allow the committee to explore other options that are feasible. So I would like to do that, and otherwise I hope to gain support on the council. Thank you. Vice Admiral Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I know we have a natural mid-decade process that's coming up. Is there someone that's available that can describe that process? I've been part of that twice. Absolutely. Mr.. Mr.. MODICA, why don't you kind of walk the council kind of where where I know you've done some very preliminary, I think probably thought about, but this process coming up and we can go over that and what the process look like the last time we went through that would be helpful. Yes. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the City Council, Madam Vice Mayor. The city is a little bit different from other cities. Most cities have in their charter that they do redistricting every ten years and they line it up with the census. So when the census comes out than a year after that, the redistricting process starts. Long Beach actually says that we do that every ten years, but we also have the option every five years to do it or actually sooner if the council wants to do that. But we're actually on an every five year cycle and this is actually the off year cycle where we are not lined up with the with the census. So we are planning to do a redistricting effort and at least start those steps. Part of what has to happen as a part of the charter is in April of 2016, we would start that process and we would go to the Planning Commission and the Planning Commission would make a recommendation to you about whether or not the the districts are within balance of each other, reasonably equal or approximately equal, I believe the code says, and then make a recommendation to the City Council on whether or not to begin a redistricting process there at times. The city has passed on the five year redistricting process and decided not to pursue it at the last at the last cycle, which was in line with the census, we did do a redistricting process and it resulted in the maps that you see today. So this is something that we are planning for. You know, wha t process we use and how we do it has not yet been determined. We would use the process we've used in the past, which is essentially creating some guidelines. The last time we did it, we had the Council create your own guidelines. It is there your guidelines for direction to staff on what types of changes should be included or not included. We get direction on those guidelines with public input and then come back to you with a series of maps that would meet those criteria. Then the Council chose an alternative to bring out to the community to do significant community input. And then the Council made a decision on redistricting. So that is the general process, but we'd be happy to answer other questions or if the EOC would like to discuss other options. We can certainly do that and what the staffing implications are those of those alternate options are. Okay. Thank you. And I just had a couple of more questions. Having seen the process before here on the council as well as on the school board, I'm I'm hard pressed to understand what may be lacking in the existing process. I do. I feel that it was very transparent. It has been in the two times that I have participated, I have felt that this council was very collaborative with each other. There have been circumstances where I think council members have advocated for one particular change or another in defense of particular district issues. But overall, there's been collaboration and certainly a good spiritedness about redistricting as it's best for the city. And the overarching purpose is I think part of the process is also a set of guiding principles that the city manager's office recommends and the council reviews. I'm I'm confident that that process was and is and continues to be engaging of the public many, many, many meetings. The members of the public did come out and their recommendations were considered. And each of us as council members taken those recommendations. And so I'm I'm not inclined to change that at this time. I don't find compelling evidence that we have gone astray in any way or have politicized the process the way that what we see in other layers of government. I don't find that to be the case here. And and I would not be inclined to support it unless I am convinced otherwise through this conversation. Thank you, Councilor, for your rang. Gaze for clarification and make sure the motion this is to basically go to the Elections Oversight Committee and just discuss it in terms of it's something we want to do. Correct. That? That is correct. And I can argue more, but that is actually absolutely correct. I mean, we're going to have and. It's not a done deal. This is not a done deal. All right. Well, because obviously there were some issues that last time around about committee keeping communities of interest together, contiguity of the communities, those types of things or sets of issues that were presented. So in terms of guiding principles, I would hope that we continue with that as a member of the Oversight Committee as well. I look forward to working with Councilmember Gonzalez on this. I think it's something that we should look at before before we start talking about a mid decade adjustment to our redistricting create boundaries in our district. So I look forward for that to. Councilor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. So at this time, I don't I don't think that I can support this in this current form for a number of reasons. Number one, I don't think I've been convinced of the context of this conversation that there's a need it seems like a solution to a problem that doesn't exist. I went through the redistricting process here in Long Beach the last time, and there was contention. But we had a fantastic time in North Palm Beach with our process. We had tremendous involvement, community sort of, you know, community spirits and such and community draw the line workshops and. And my concern is that if we sort of put this off to a to a resident citizen committee, I think we're sort of diminishing what could be in terms of involvement. I think it is fairly straightforward when the residents, they elect nine council people and they sort of engage in their own local processes. What happened at city council was sort of the beginning of it, and we sort of took that into our own respective communities and engaged in these processes where hundreds, if not thousands of people participated. And by putting that into a commission structure, I would have to ask, are we limiting public participation to that process? For example, let's talk about medical marijuana. I don't know that the task force that we just sent folks to, I don't know that that expanded participation into the discussion. We'll find out soon, I suppose. But I don't particularly know that it did. So I'm concerned that I do agree with exploring processes to expand, I guess, to meet that end. But I don't think that this particular proposal does that. Additionally, I was involved in the statewide redistricting process, and that did have major it had major issues. People were concerned about it. I was particularly concerned about it. North Long Beach was gerrymanders a three separate assembly districts because we weren't considered a united sort of community of interest. So now we have three assembly people representing one zip code, which is, you know, shameful. That was a direct result of the Citizen Redistricting Commission. So so I do so I do understand where where folks want to go. The other part of it is I think it's untimely. Like, I don't think the council has made a decision about midterm redistricting. Like, I have significant, serious concerns, but I'll have the opportunity to talk about that when it comes up in the spring. I think that's when we would talk about or evaluate any processes that we might have. And I think we're sort of letting, you know, engage in this conversation a bit too soon. So those are just my concerns. So in this cu rent form, I just can't support this tonight. And those are my remarks. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. Thank you. I appreciate that we are bringing the discussion forward because I think it's always important to involve citizens in the dialog. I think that's a really important part of the process. I tend to agree with my council member, Rex Richardson, in the innovative and creative ways that you were able to embrace what you did in the ninth District. But I don't necessarily think that that was probably the case in every district. And so perhaps Councilmember Austin would be open to a friendly that we refer to the Budget Oversight Committee to discuss it. I'm sorry, Elections Oversight Committee. The redistricting ideas to involve and enhance the community process, including some cost analysis on what a citizen commission has cost us versus the process that we've endured in the past, and what that looks like for the Elections Oversight Committee to refer back to this body. A reasonable solution that would work for everyone. Would you be open to that friendly? Let me give it some thought. Okay. Do we know what the costs of our citizen commission to date has been? So today we have not had a citizen commission. We essentially run the process using existing staff and we bring it to the planning commission and we bring it to the city council without knowing too much about the proposal. And then we would talk about that in an election oversight of this passes. Our sense is that a commission would require some level of dedicated staffing. The way we've done it in the past is to pull bodies off of assignments and have a kind of finite work product that we that we knew the council would want us to bring to them and then get some further direction. A commission is a little different. A lot of times commissions are. The meeting frequency is a lot more. There would need to be agendas and public agendas for each meeting that we would hold. There need to be translation. There would need to be some dedicated guys, staffers and some dedicated planning staff as well for the effort. So we would be certainly able to to cost some of that out if we were requested to do so. But redistricting is a big process. It does take a significant amount of staff time. And so in the past we've tried to manage that. But you do have other priorities that get shifted even with the normal staff redistricting process. So I appreciate you bringing that back up, because I do think that this is a little premature because we haven't yet given the planning commission, which has a role in this that opportunity. So I guess without the acceptance of a friendly, I'll make a substitute motion where we refer to the Elections Oversight Committee ideas to involve the community in the process of redistricting, so that when we do receive a referral from the Planning Commission, we as a council have had some dialog at the committee level that can be accentuated here at the council. I'll second that

. Okay, there's a motion and a second. So the substantive motion on the floor is to ask elections oversight to begin to drive a conversation about ways to involve the community more in the redistricting process. Councilmember Austin You know, I'm not necessarily opposed to this substitute motion, but it's just a little curious as to why this council was so adverse to involving our citizens. From from a commission standpoint, I'm not convinced that it's going to be any extra cost associated with establishing a citizen commission. Mr. Modica, I do appreciate your comments, but you know, you're going to have to have this specialist, you're going to have to have extra staff, time staffing and informing this body in itself. The idea behind this item was to take away the politics from the process, engaged and involved the citizens, and inspire confidence in the process. And I tend to disagree with you. Councilmember Lowenthal, Vice Mayor Blunt, I know you were here during the last redistricting process. I watched it very closely. I saw people lined up to speak on this and in opposition to maps. And as I, I maybe maybe I'm living in a different part of the city and a different part of the world. But people are extremely still dissatisfied about the outcomes of that process and their lack of involvement in that process. And so we brought this forward as a as an idea to, again, help inspire confidence in this council, inspire confidence in the process of redistricting. It is a very political process, just like our budget process is a very political process. It lays out where we are and it shapes the future of the city in many ways in terms of representation. And so if the I would ask that that we vote against the substitute motion and vote on the motion that that that Councilmember Gonzalez and I put forward. Basically a lot of. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I. And I understand the place where Councilmember Austin Councilwoman Gonzalez so where you're coming from, you want to have greater participation from citizens or you find that there may have been a lack of participation. And that's that's where I'm not convinced. I don't this council is not adverse to involving its citizens. I think those of us that have witnessed the process from the side of the dais or from observing it. I think I certainly feel that we have a process that involves our citizens. We're not averse to it at all. So that would be I would be troubled by that characterization. Our not supporting this or mine, I'll speak for myself, my not supporting the motion. The original motion is not because I'm adverse to involving our citizens. I'm very much in support of that and I felt that that did take place. What does happen in a democratic process is that everyone doesn't get what they want. That doesn't mean we're adverse to public participation. This is a representative government, as Councilmember Richardson pointed out, and we all know and. In every circumstance, all our residents aren't going t o get exactly what they want. That's just not possible. I don't see how that's ever possible. And so, yes, there may be times where there are winners and losers in certain situations, and that's not a conversation that we like to have. And those are not characteristics that that we are comfortable with. But it does exist. Whether it's the budget, but most everything that this council decides on will have some that get more than others. And so there will be dissatisfaction and we hope to avoid that to the extent possible. But that is not and that is not an aversion to involving our citizens. And I didn't feel that it was a political process. But from your district, I will I will acknowledge that there was it was very tense between the members that wanted one option versus another. But I don't think we can paint this entire body with that brush and that experience. And so if those residents came to you today, you are a trusted elected member of this council. And if your residents came to you, you would certainly assure that their requests are conveyed through you. That's the process. And I'm confident in that process that if you as a council member or I as a councilmember, am listening to the overwhelming majority, not the loudest vocal individual that the overwhelming majority of my constituents, then I it's my obligation to bring that to this body and make that compelling argument. And I trust that that is in place. And and I don't feel that that's broken or that's gone awry. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzales. So you just collect my thoughts here for a second because there's a lot that's been said. But I, I, I don't see really what the difference is in what we originally brought forward, which is again, just a recommendation. I think I added the caveat the amendment that we wanted to explore alternative options. So we're leaving it open at this point. And I really do feel that putting the Elections Oversight Committee to recommend a redistricting advisory commission is, you know, I believe it should be at the forefront because it does open up the process. We have different opinions on that, but we're certainly going to include and explore other options. And so city attorney Mike Mayes. If the substitute motion, which is to include more community or find ideas or ways to include more community, that doesn't exclude us. And that at the EOC level. But it's still taking this up to look at the redistricting committee, is that correct? The motion, as I understood it, the substitute motion is fairly involved. A broad excuse me. And it includes or it's limited to involving the community in the redistricting process. And I assume that that could include as a point of discussion whether or not it's appropriate to have a committee, a citizen committee. That's one of the things that's the way I read it. But maybe the maker of the substitute motion didn't mean it that way. Okay. Well, I just I will just make the point again. You know, again, this is a recommendation, I think whether we agree with having a committee or not or a commission or not, we're still looking looking to open this up and explore options. So I would just hope that we can stay with that same motion and we'll see where it goes. Thank you. Okay. I have two more speakers and we definitely want to get to the Republican vote. We still have a long agenda. Councilman Mongo. I think that the intention of my more broad action is to include more dialog along the lines of the types of citizen engagement that Councilmember Richardson discussed. I'm really excited about those kinds of options, and when I offer them as a friendly, they weren't accepted. So I made them as a substitute motion because I really think that those types of engagement tools really need to be explored because while I am going to be 100% supportive of the next item, which is 34, in allowing a citizen committee to finish their work, and I'm very in favor of citizen committees. I'm also really excited to explore all of the options and the citizen engagement numbers that are associated and the return on investment. Because I really want to interview my commissioners after the process, see how they feel about it and etc. to make sure that this is a balanced process for all. Councilman Price. I'm going to support Councilman Austin and Councilman Gonzales on this only because I know they've worked worked hard on this. And I think their recommendation is asking us to just refer this for further consideration and study. I don't think it's committing us to one thing or over another. I will say, however, that if it's council's will to engage citizens by asking them to sacrifice their time and energy to serve on citizen advisory committees, that we should allow them the opportunity to have closure in those processes and not circumvent their efforts. So if we're going to start this process, we should allow them for completion, because otherwise there is nobody that is sane and remotely educated who will sign up to serve on a commission knowing that the council may just come in and circumvent the process because they don't like where it's going. So I'm in favor of this with the understanding and the legislative mindset and the legislative intent at this time, that if we're going to allow a commission to be formed, that we do it meaningfully and honestly and not as a as a for any other purpose than that. Thanks. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? Seeing. Please. Hello, Jeff Abrams. I just would like to make sure that we remember that in addition to the arduous task of redistricting and it is difficult, we have to figure out a way to get people in Long Beach up and voting. That's the criteria that I'm looking at, not the redistricting effort, but the people that get them off their duff. How do we do that? Thank you. Thank you. So with that, we have a we have an original and a substitute motion just to review. The substitute motion, which was then submitted by Councilm an Mongo, is to ask the EOC to look broadly at community involvement measures. The original motion by Councilmember Austin is to ask the EOC to explore the possibility of a redistricting commission. Mr. MAYES That sounds about right. So please go and cast your votes on the first motion, which is a substitute motion by Councilman Mongo. Councilwoman Pryce. Motion carries six three. Okay. Thank you. The motion as the substitute passed in that case. Moving on to the next item, I. I would move up item 30. For Madam Clerk. Oops. She took communication from Councilmember Urunga, Vice Mayor Lowenthal, Councilman Andrews and Councilmember Richardson. A recommendation to receive and file a list of the recommendations compiled from the Medical Cannabis Task Force. Report from Long Beach Gas and Oil Recommendation to declare ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code relating to meter tests read for the first time and lead over to the next regular meeting of the Council for Final Reading Citywide. So a staff report. Yes. Vice Mayor. I'd like to point out, though, that Chris Garner has been with the city well over 30 years, and I think this is the first time. He has ever had to make three staff reports in one night. Which may explain why the lack of audience but. Mayor, vice mayor and city council, currently we have 150,000 gas meters in service and the municipal code currently requires us. Any time we take a gas meter out of service, for whatever reason, we have to prove it and test it for accuracy. And that's okay during the normal course of business. But with the implementation of our Amy, instead of doing a couple hundred a year, we're going to be doing thousands over the next couple of years. So what we respectfully request is that we amend the municipal code that will allow us to, instead of doing every single meter which rarely ever finds any type of significant missed measurement, it will allow us to do sampling instead. Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Gardner. There's the motion by Councilman Mongo and a second by Councilmember Urunga members. Please cast your vote. Actually, is there any member of the public that wishes to make public comment? None. Please cast your vote. Motion carries nine zero. Hmm. Thank you. Item new business. 33. Communication from Councilman Diane Andrews recommendation to approve the use of six Council District Fiscal Year 2015 one time infrastructure funds in the amount of 56,000 to fund community improvement and community engagement activities and decrease appropriations in the Capital Projects Fund in the Public Works Department by 56,000 and increase appropriations in the General Fund in the Human Resources Report from please recommendation to receive and file the application of Juan Ramone Patino for an original application of an ABC license. District one. Councilman Gonzales. Yes. I just wanted to welcome Commander Lopez down here. And just to go over the hours, I know I initially had some concern, but I believe the h ours are pretty narrow. Would you mind going over that information, Commander? Councilmember Gonzalez. The business is currently open for business Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and their closed on Sundays. Great. And how long have they been in business? Do you have that information? Yes, ma'am. This owner has been in business at this location since September of 2014. Okay. And from what I understand, they have only had one call for service and in that timeframe. I believe I have here that it was for a burglar alarm and that was that was it. There have been seven total burglary alarms, but they were all false. False alarms. Okay. Got it. Thank you very much. I appreciate it. And the recommendation, obviously, is to approve the. Recommendation for the ABC. There's a motion and a second. Any public comment on the item saying that? Please cast your votes. Thank you, Commander. Motion carries eight zero 28. Communication from Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Recommendation to request the city manager to work with the Economic Development and Finance Committee to assess whether the city should allow residential repair coverage plans. Item number 26. Report from Financial Management. Recommendation to adopt specifications and execute a contract with Frontier Ford for the purchase of 31 Ford Interceptor Vehicle Utility vehicles in an amount not to exceed $1 million citywide. Mr. City Manager. Mr. Berlin Bach again. Yes. Mayor Garcia, members of council. Much of the city's police patrol fleet has come due for replacement, and there are significant changes in store as we move to a new model of police vehicle. The current fleet is aging and this is causing a rise in maintenance and operational costs as well as increasing downtime. The city's patrol vehicle of choice for years was the Ford Crown Victoria, a model also used by the majority of police fleets across the country. However, after 30 years of production, Ford discontinued the car in 2011. At that time, the city purchased 130 new 2011 models, stockpiling them until a clear replacement could be identified. We are just now placing. The last of those 2011 models into service. It was a fortuitous decision to stockpile cars in 2011, as the market has seen new models from Ford, Chrysler and General Motors. The model that's emerged as the market leader is also the choice of the Long Beach Police Department and the Fleet Services Bureau, and that is the Ford Interceptor Utility. This vehicle is built on the Ford Explorer platform, but significantly upgraded for police, patrol duty, engine suspension, interior ergonomics. All have been fine tuned for police use. Fuel economy is also improved and emissions reduced in the recommendation for award in front of you. The Vehicle specifications where the product of extensive research performed by the Long Beach Police Department and the Fleet Bureau initiated in 2014. In this first round of anticipated awards, these 31 vehicles will re place not only patrol vehicles, but also K-9 airport security and park rangers. We will shortly initiate another bid process and expect to return to city council, where the recommendation for additional vehicles in FY 16 as well. This purchase was also competitively bid with extensive outreach to ensure a best price. That concludes my presentation and I am again available for questions. It's been moved by Councilmember Yarrowonga and seconded by Richardson. Councilmember. I understand that these utility vehicles offer greater comfort to for arrestees. Wonderful. Excellent. Councilmember Richardson, did you want to speak to the motion? All right. There's been a motion and a second on item 26. Is there any member of the public that wish to address council on this item? CNN members cast your vote and members if he'll indulge us. I think we have some folks in the audience for item 35, if we can take that one up first. Councilman Andrew, can I ask you to vote, please. After the work? Yeah. Councilmember. Motion carries eight zero. Item 35. Item number 35. I can get their report from Technology and Innovation recommendation to allocate peg fee revenue equally among the three categories of cable access providers and increase appropriations in the Department of Technology and Innovation by $1 million citywide. Thank you. Any other public comment saying I'm going to go directly into I believe it's item 20? Madam Clerk. 25. Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine Water. Recommendation to receive and file a presentation from the Parks, Recreation and Marine and Water Departments on the status of water conservation efforts citywide. Thank you. And bring this back over to Mr. West and Mr. Waddy. Mr. Mayor, council members, we were recently requested by the City Council to give an overview on what the city is doing for water conservation efforts given this serious drought that we're facing right now. So I'm going to turn this over to our Interim Parks Recreation Marine Director Steven Scott and also our executive director of the Water Department, Kevin Water. I'm just going to go first and then turned over to Steve. This is really in response to how is how are we proceeding with. Meeting the requirements of the State Water Resources Control Board's executive order to conserve water. And there's really two elements of it. One is a requirement that the water provider reduce its water consumption by a certain percentage. And I'll talk about that. And then the second requirement is that street medians that have ornamental turf grass not be irrigated with potable water. So that's the hard part that Steve is going to address. So I'll just give you our results, how we're doing in terms of reducing our consumption citywide. We're we're in the 16% tier. So again, this is a we need to reduce our water consumption by 16% from 2013. It's actually over the nine month period of June of this year through February of next year. So it's being accounted for on a month to month

h basis, but actually it's on that entire nine month period. And here you see how we've done now for the first three months. We've exceeded our 16% target every month. We were actually 19% in June, 19% in July. And then we just announced today that we're 18% in August. So we're comfortably exceeding our requirement. And then then this just shows cumulative cumulatively over that three month period how we've done so. Cumulatively, we're down 18.7% for that three month period. So I would just. Turn it to Steve. But at this point, I would just like to say how proud the water department is of our residents, of our businesses. They've stepped up. They've done a tremendous job. This is despite having conserved a lot of water before 2013. So we're working at against a very, very low baseline. And and we're still doing almost 19% beyond what we were doing in 2013. So Long Beach continues to do tremendous things in terms of water conservation. The city is a tremendous partner on that. Parks and Rec has done a great job. The city manager and the city manager's office have been extremely cooperative and helpful and had a lot of great ideas. And I really want to thank Mary Garcia, Mayor Garcia personally for being involved in some of our outreach campaign and and all the council members for what you've done to encourage our citizens to conserve. So, again, we're just very, very proud of what Long Beach is accomplishing and continuing to provide leadership for the entire state of California. And at that point, an alternate to Steve and I'll work your slide for you. Thank you, Kevin. Honorable Mayor and members of the City Council, the Department of Parks, Recreation and Marine works hard to balance the need for safe and enjoyable parks for all visitors while fully embracing that. We live in a semi-arid climate and need to use water responsibly, especially now as we face the current statewide drought conditions. The Department understands that as a large water customer, we must be part of the solution. In order to do this with. In order to do this, we adhere to all applicable water restrictions, both at the state and local levels. In addition to investing in opportunities to reduce our overall water consumption in the future, this slide shows just very quickly some background information. We have over 3000 acres of parkland and open space throughout the city, and of those 3000 acres, 1275 are irrigated. Of those 1275 irrigated acres throughout the city, 54% or 687 acres are irrigated with reclaimed or recycled water. The remaining 46% or 588 acres are irrigated with potable water. The department's expanded use of reclaimed water is restricted by both the available supply, particularly during the peak usage summer months and its limited distribution infrastructure throughout the city. And I also want to note that use of reclaimed water is not subject to a number of the state and local water restrictions. The next line. So as we all know, the department needs b oth rainwater and water provided by the water department to help keep our parks healthy. As we all know, our rainwater supply has fallen significantly short over the last few years. Typically, we could expect anywhere between ten, 11 and 12 inches of rain water each year to help maintain our turf and trees. Over the last three years, however, we have averaged closer to around six inches of rainfall. So a significant reduction to the amount of water for our turf and trees. So the rest of the water, though, is supplied via our irrigation activities. And over the last three years, the department has utilized on average 750 million gallons of water to help irrigate our open spaces. I do want to point out that as a result of our compliance with the statewide water goals and the conservation efforts noted in the following slides, the Department has realized an estimated 16.5% reduction in water usage for irrigation since April of this year versus the same period last year. That's over 40 million gallons of water saved. The Department is and again is in compliance with the state water statewide watering restrictions. We water our parks and open spaces twice weekly with potable water, just like the residential units throughout the city. What's different with us, however, is that we aren't on the same watering schedule. While those are Tuesday and Saturday here in Long Beach, we've worked with the water department to allow us to modify our schedule to a Sunday night through Monday morning and Thursday night through Friday morning schedule. And that's to limit the impact on park users, particularly on our busiest day of the week, Saturday. There are other reasons why you might see us watering on other days other than that Sunday night, Monday morning, or Thursday night, Friday morning. And those include when we do athletic field renovations and we need to reseed or restore those fields or we have new planted areas. Even with drought tolerant installations, we need to extensively water those in the first couple of weeks just so that they can take root. We also have a couple of sites that are on very old manual irrigation systems, which require staff to actually go out and physically water the entire park area by manually. And then lastly, we work daily to repair and test our irrigation systems, which may require us to turn on the water to ensure that our systems are working properly and the water distribution is being applied appropriately. And lastly, we've eliminated, as Kevin mentioned, the use of potable water for irrigating our ornamental turf or grass street medians. And again, this is consistent with the governor's mandate to stop that activity on a daily basis. Staff perform a wide array of maintenance activities to ensure the efficient functioning of our irrigation systems. And a number of those activities are noted here at the bottom of this slide. So the department has been proactive in planning for the future. We completed a landscape irrigation audit last year funded by the Metropolitan Water District or MWD via our Water Department, and this was performed by a certified irrigation auditing firm. And then earlier this year, the department finalized a citywide park tree inventory providing critical data about our trees, including location, species and health. Both of these studies are critical to helping us make informed decisions about our water utilization activities. Some of our other strategic investments include the upgrading of antiquated irrigation infrastructure, such as at locations at Hartwell Park and Stearns Park. The Water Department has applied for partial funding for 800 additional smart meters. If approved, many of those meters will find their way to city water or water accounts to enable the city to better manage our water consumption. We are also seeking opportunities to convert our natural turf to drought tolerant installations in areas that don't get much play or usage in a park and use synthetic turf on heavily used athletic fields. We've been working with Technology and Innovation Department to install the communications infrastructure to connect our Cal sense controllers, to better manage our irrigation systems and do it remotely from a smartphone or a desktop. We've been working with Public Works and again the water department to assess water loss in some of our park lakes, including those at El Dorado Nature Center and El Dorado West Park. And we're exploring opportunities to utilize non-potable water to refill those bodies in urban stormwater treatment facilities being pursued adjacent to the Los Angeles River to reduce the consumption of potable water and to create a new source of recycled water that will allow the city to continue the irrigation of its parks and public landscapes in that area without the use of potable water. And then lastly, in response again to the governor's mandate to stop irrigating street medians with that contained grass with potable water, we have initiated an invitation to bid process to address the 77 different locations of street medians throughout our city. The first phase of that project will really be to go in and remove the grass from those medians. What we'll do then is we'll kind of cap the irrigation head so that, you know, they aren't in use. But we will keep open any irrigation heads that are watering trees that are in our street medians. And then the second then we'll go and mulch those medians. And then the second phase of that project will be to provide for the installation of drought tolerant plants and other potential hardscape or other landscaping on those on those medians. So proposed funding in FY16 will help us to start this project, but it is a project that is going to be expensive and a long time to complete and it would be dependent upon future availability of funds. The invitation to bid has been released and it's anticipated that the vendor could start the project later this calendar year. And we're going to continue our operating and funding partnerships with entities like MWD and the Water Department while MWD's rebate program has dried up. We will continue to work with our water department to take advantage of one of their two turf conversion rebate programs. And again, turf removal works towards achieving our conservation goals while producing a sustainable, natural look, as you can see in the pictures on the slide. So there's still much more to do in our efforts to use our limited water resources efficiently and effectively as possible. We're going to continue to identify opportunities for turf conversion in our parks and opportunities to modernize our irrigation systems. As we design new parks or redesign existing parks, we're going to make sure we do that consistent with the California water efficiency standards, which includes ensuring that we are planting low water usage plants and efficient water efficiency irrigation systems. We're going to use our tree trimming opportunities. We're going to strategically invest in improving the health of our urban forest to ensure that our trees are better able to maximize the use of the limited water resources. We're going to use industry best practices to make the most of what we have. We realize that this is our new operating normal, and so we're going to have to get the most out of what we currently have. So a couple of examples that we're looking at is improving the tree irrigation opportunities. You know, we're concerned in the long term that a prolonged drought in limited water resources on our trees could stretch those trees in the future. We want to take steps now to make sure that we are maximizing the flow of water to those deeper root zones. So one thing we'll be doing is removing grass and plant life from around the base of the trees again to ensure water can get down to those deep root zones. And then we're also looking at other opportunities like working with the water department to see if we can't modify again our watering schedules. An example is aggregating our watering sessions from eight monthly 15 minute sessions to perhaps a couple of fewer but longer watering sessions so that the water that's applied at those longer periods of time have a better chance of, again, percolating and getting down to the deeper root levels of our trees. So and lastly, our park users are an extension of our eyes and ears. If they see any water loss through broken irrigation lines or heads or sidewalks being watered, we ask that they contact us through the Go Long Beach app. The email address on the slide or just the of our department a call and we'll make sure to get staff on there to correct those things right away. So in conclusion, the department looks at the current conditions again as our new operating normal. While we're looking at possible wet season coming up, the single event is not anticipated to be sustained, nor will it change the overall amount of water available for irrigation in the fores seeable future. So therefore, we need to continue our efforts to make the most out of what we're currently have and to make strategic investments in the future to better position the department to act to adapt to these conditions. So that concludes my presentation. Okay. I have a couple questions. Councilwoman Mango. I want to thank you for the work that you've done to date. I know that there's a lot of discussion online related to some of the turf fields, specifically within Eldorado Park that that area is a reclaimed water area and there wouldn't actually be any water savings. Should we change over to the turf fields and for neighbors to continue to be patient? We have a few more meetings to go and then hopefully in September will be coming forward with an alternative plan that will not utilize the $1.7 million at the Wardlow Studebaker location. That will not include a fence in that area, that will not include light from that area. But most importantly, in working with the soccer organizations, which I just started reaching out to them today after gaining a lot of neighborhood input and that we'll go with the type of grass that's less injuries than the clumping grass that we've used in the past. And that also aligns with the California standards that we can water appropriately in our park. So you guys have made great strides to date. We really appreciate that. Specifically, all of the medians that you have changed the direction of the water from accidentally washing our cars on the way home from council meetings at 11:00 at night to now watering the medians appropriately. So thank you for the work you've done. And then one more big thank you to the Boy Scouts who have reached out and done a lot of media and projects in the community. Eagle Scout projects that turn grass into more drought resistant opportunities. This is a really great partnership and we're really thankful for all the things that our young people are doing to make it even better. So thank you very much and thank you for your support of Long Beach Volunteer Day. Councilman Price. Thank you. I too want to thank both departments for the collaboration. It's nice to see you guys coming together to address a very relevant issue in the city. I have a couple of questions in regards to updating our irrigation systems. I know that you've done some, but I'm assuming there's still more to go. And if so, do we have a plan in place in terms of our future budgeting goals to update that infrastructure? Councilwoman Pryce and members of the City Council. So as I mentioned in the presentation, we completed a landscape irrigation audit last year that has helped us prioritize the irrigation improvement needs out there. And so we have that ready as new funding becomes available, whether that's through one time funding appropriated by the city council or other funding perhaps through state county grants. We're going to pursue every opportunity to identify funding, to upgrade to upgrade these irrig ation systems. But as of right now, operationally, we do not have an identified funding source for all of our irrigation needs. But again, based on that prioritized list, we're going to go after grant funds. Hopefully there'll be some bond funds available in future years and any identified non-recurring funds from the city council. And I'm not sure if you if you know this right now or not. If you don't, we can talk offline. But do you happen to have an idea of what the amount would be if we were to upgrade the systems citywide? Do you have a range? We're still pulling those numbers together. And so that should be available probably within the next month or so. But, you know, each each location in our parks is or irrigation system is unique. And that's one of the struggles that we're having that it's not an easy the average per square foot cost to. Upgrade or improve an irrigation system doesn't necessarily or can't effectively apply to all of our parks. So we're trying to address those on a park by park basis. Okay. This is one of the issues that I wanted to address. And it's it's it may seem like kind of an insignificant one, but to me, it's it's a big one. And I know I've talked about it with you and your team during our regular monthly meetings, but I think it's important that we have a consistent citywide public outreach methodology for letting residents know that we are using reclaimed water. And so I know that you guys have improved the signage and tried to make them consistent. But when you when you walk around the various parks just in the third district, you'll see signs that look different. I'm not sure if they were put up by different departments or by our department at different times, but sometimes they're different in color, they're different in font. There's there doesn't seem to be a campaign. And granted, we're experiencing unprecedented times in regards to the drought. So maybe we haven't given much attention to a public outreach campaign to educate the public about the use of reclaimed water and also their placement. You know, sometimes they're on trees, sometimes they're on stop signs, sometimes they're on light poles. I mean, they're and they're at different levels, sometimes at eye level, sometimes they're higher, sometimes they're never lower. They're usually eye level or higher. So, you know, again, this may seem kind of like an insignificant thing, but the average resident in the city isn't watching council meeting tonight and understanding that we're using reclaimed water. What they are doing is driving by and missing the signs or looking at the various signs as an eyesore that makes an otherwise beautiful park look not as pristine because there's signs in different colors, you know, mounted to whatever surface a sign could have been posted on. And so what I would love to see is for our department to take a real ownership interest in making sure that the the signage that we have that educate the public in terms of our us e of reclaimed water are consistent, that they're affixed to consistent foundations throughout the city, and that we really give a little bit of pride and care into to our signage. In regards to that, again,

I think it would go a long way and we do our very best in terms of and I know my colleagues do too, in terms of social media and trying to reach out. And also in our newsletter we talk about the use of reclaimed water, because I think that is probably the single biggest concern that have been that has been raised by residents in regards to water usage by the city. And so I appreciate that you're working on it. I just want the public to know what you're doing and to know in a visually pleasing way. And then finally, in regards to the medians when we go from. From grass to drought, tolerant of what other bases are available. Ground cover is available because sometimes the ground cover, if there is any ground cover, still appears to look dry and not at all fresh, even though the plantings are fresh. So are we able to use stone or bark? Are there other ground cover options available to us for medians that could help kind of enhance some of the succulents and the rock placements and things that we're putting in? Councilwoman Price Yes, there are other opportunities to provide different types of ground cover on the medians. You gave the example of Bach, you gave the example of small stones. And I guess I'm thinking of maybe more rocks, larger rocks, but boulders. But there are different opportunities that we have to provide some form of ground cover. It doesn't need to be a straight mulch on everything. And that would be part of our efforts as we go through that next phase, which is adding the drought tolerant installations, is identifying what those might be and and keeping them fresh in different places. Mm hmm. I think that would be a nice focus in terms of our medians, is to try to make them visually pleasing somehow with the ground cover that we're choosing. I think the ground cover can really help the plants that we're putting in pop in a way that we're not currently, I think, using to the best of our ability. And I get it. The additional ground cover probably has an additional price. And so mulch is our standard. But I'd like to see us step it up a little bit if we can citywide, because I know that that's something that we can certainly do district wide with. If we have divide by $9 available, we can certainly allocate it to that. But I'd like to see us have that option citywide as we look towards improvements. So thank you very much for the report. And again, thanks to both departments for your collaboration on this report. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Richardson. Thank you. I just want to take a moment and say that I really see this as an opportunity. You've done a great job at putting together this this presentation. But, you know, I think a lot of our meetings that we do have and some of our parks space hasn't been maintained very w ell. And the and it's actually an opportunity to go in and refresh some of our meetings that do have maybe some grass that hasn't been maintained or maybe park entryways, that that sort of might be it might have been rundown. So I know that we're taking on some of those some of those projects already. But my question is particularly about the the rebates. So I know that I converted my lawn to garden and in my front yard, and it was a fun process. And we're still learning things, checking out different different plant types. But what do you have available? What is it? Does the city have access to those same rebates and what is the level? When I did it, it was $3 a square foot. What is the level that you have? Councilmember Richardson, members of the City Council. There are a couple of rebate programs through the Long Beach Water Department that we will do and will have access to. One is for small projects that are under a thousand square feet and I believe the current rebate rate for that is $2.50. And then there is a second rebate program that is for larger projects, up to 15,000 square feet, and that is a $1 per square foot rebate. Thank you. I'd like to just encourage you and I know that we've had this conversation particularly about the Highland Park master plan and the renovation renovations there, utilizing rebates and other funding mechanisms to maybe improve entryways or other things. But I would just encourage you to continue to be creative. Think about other rebates and funding sources that might be out there from other water districts so that we can continue to do this outside of our parks, but also in our in our meetings. Thank you. Councilmember Durango. Thank you, Mayor. Mr. Scott, I want to thank you for your service. I know you stepped into a very difficult situation here, especially with coming down with a drought and having to deal with all the changes in irrigation that you had to do and medians and and trying to be as creative and very innovative and stepping into a very, very difficult seat at this present time. One of the things that concerns me the most is obviously the conversion of turf into artificial turf. And there's a lot of issues that are being raised in that regard, in regards to safety for players who may be looking at playing in artificial turf. I understand that Admiral Kit Park in my district is one of those areas has been looked at in converting sod into artificial turf and the associated concerns that are raised with that in regard to the type or the or the various types of artificial turf turf that are that are available. Just for the sake of of education, can you describe what's out there in regards to some options in artificial turf and some of the concerns that there is? There was a recent article, I think, that just came out in regards to artificial turf that because of this heat wave that we had some of those pellets yet were where were melting. And and that's created in the in the I think it was t he L.A. Unified School District that created concerns for for kids playing out there and and attaching to their to their clothes, if not to their skin. Could you give us what are some of those options that are available out there in regards to artificial turf that we are looking at? Especially because the concern I have is obviously advocate. Councilmember Daga and members of the City Council. So there are a number of different infill materials for synthetic turf fields. The lion's share of the fields out there use an infill product that is made up of recycled crumb rubber. And there had been some health concerns regarding the use of that infill material. The materials that you're speaking of with respect along are Los Angeles Unified School District is a another kind of rubber plastic that's called TPI. That's a thermoplastic elastomer that is manufactured plastic and rubber. And there have been some examples of batches of that product where it in extreme heat has can become gummy and kind of melted and sticks to players shoes. Those are two examples of infill materials, though, that we are not looking at. Our Parks and Rec Commission has recommended that we pursue inorganic infill material, and some of those examples are ground up coconut husks or caulk as infill options. And so we are proceeding down the road of inorganic infill material, not a crumb rubber or recycled tire or other plastic rubber infill material. Thank you. And we also there has also been a concern raised that because artificial turf gets a little hotter than it would be natural turf, that there's a there's a need to cool them off. And what's the difference between cooling them off with, say, recycled water, reclaimed water, as opposed to potable water? When we're looking at a at a time when we're trying to conserve potable water. This raises obviously an issue for in that respect with with artificial turf. Can you explain that into a clarification? Well, for the purposes of cooling the fields, and that's typically when you have some of these other products, like the TPI I mentioned or the crumb rubber, it is not uncommon to have a cooling or irrigation system there to apply water to cool the fields with respect to recycled versus potable water. Recycled water is not recommended and in some cases will void the warranty of the synthetic turf manufacturer. And so the irrigation to cool would need to be potable water. The example of Admiral Kidd Park, that park is already potable water. And so would be no change for a cooling system for synthetic turf at that park. The other issue would be if you used reclaimed water, you wouldn't want to be spraying the fields in between two games, you know, your your noon and 1:00 game and then get everybody off the field and spray with reclaimed water. We just want to avoid any unnecessary contact with reclaimed water. Okay. Well, thank you. And that's what I was actually looking for in terms of the overall change in water usage. Wouldn't wou ldn't be different. That would be insignificant in regards to what's already existing in the use of water when it comes to those artificial turf. But I'm hoping that that technology in the future will be such that we could get some some infill that would be much more water friendly. For lack of a better term, that would not require such a high level maintenance. If. If at all. Thank you. Thank you. And finally, Councilmember Austin. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And I want to thank my colleagues for their thoughtful comments and questions. This is exactly the conversation that I thought we should have and had in mind when our agenda raised this report back weeks ago. So thank you. Parks and Recreation and Water Department. I did have a couple of questions. As we know, this is a very serious matter that we're dealing with. We're dealing with an unprecedented shortage of water. So our conservation efforts need to be. My priority. I was curious to know, since we've initiated this this stage two restrictions, how many citations have been issued to residents and fines. Do I believe it's five or six now. Five or six different residents have gotten citations, some of them gotten multiple citations. That's why I hesitated. I think it's five different customers. One of them, for example, got four citations. So it's five customers, and it may be more like ten total citations. Well, it's. That's unfortunate for those that handful of residents. But I think it shows that, you know, we have great compliance citywide by residents. So that's good news. I take that as good news. And somebody wanted me to ask the question of what is the status of the LBE must proposal? The Long Beach Municipal Urban Stormwater Treatment proposal. Mr. Austin, members of the council. So we must do something we're very excited about. It's a project that. Santa monica has a version of it. That they did a while ago. But we're looking at kind of breaking ground with this project and creating a very innovative way to both reuse our stormwater. Clean our stormwater. And then use that water to irrigate our parks. Which are currently we have a dearth. Of reclaimed water lines on the west side of town. And so using that water to to. Irrigate our parks, we are in the feasibility stage right now. We are exploring and putting together a plan. We believe there's significant federal and state opportunities to fund this and even through the stormwater regulations, the ability for upstream river cities to pay for this as well. So we're in the feasibility stage right now and in doing the planning on how it will fit into Drake, Chavez Park is a beneficial use in that park as well. As helping with our water needs. Do we have any expectation as to when that study will be completed and come back before the council? Or do we need to take action on that? Is that something we need to wait for funding sources to come available? So I don't have it at the top of my head right now when we'll be done with that study

. We are applying for federal grants to be able to get that. And Kevin actually has some money that is really reserved only for the. Water department to deal with reclaimed water lines that he's been. Very gracious in sharing that authorization at the federal level. So we've. Been pursuing. That. We expect. Just probably early next year to come back to. You, at least with an update and tell you where we. Are with that. And of course, we would need our council authorization before we take the next step and dedicate funds. Okay. Thank you very much. I have no further questions. Thank you for the presentations. Thank you. There's a motion and a second. Any public comment on that item? Please come forward. Very good you Kirk as the address the suggestion relative to rocks where you can get a good inventory of them along the band concert park in the Marine Stadium. You can take those and replace it with what? An upgraded version of what. Used to be there. There used to be a chain link. Fence that was in a number one condition because it was so far back from the water. It wasn't corroded. And against the. Very strong objections of the police. Department and without telling the director of Parks Recreation, Mr. Phil Hester. Or the neighbors, some. Doofus ripped it out and ushered in nocturnal graffiti for 3 to 5. Years. So my suggestion is take those. Rocks, use them in your mediums, replace it and put fencing like now lines the entrance to the Marine Stadium up there. And I'd also put in a couple of brick pillars, replicating the type of treatment that is along side of on PCH. By the count, by the Cal State residential area just south of Clark. Really attractive. Nice. So you can pick up the bricks tomorrow. You could pick up the rocks tomorrow and nobody is missing and shouldn't take long to put the fence in. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. And Cantrell and I have. A poster here. With artificial turf. I appreciate the many things that you are doing to conserve water for the parks and the medians. I think the drought tolerant plants on the medians makes a lot of sense. But. Drought tolerant plants and artificial turf do not make sense in public parks where people come to enjoy. Natural grass and the. Trees and the amenities of the park. Artificial turf also has a lot of problems on soccer fields, as I referred to today. There was the L.A. school district's problem with melting soccer fields that are made of artificial turf. And even though we are considering an organic type of fill. Made out of cork or coconut has. The grass is still plastic. Plastic gets hot when sun shines on it, as you probably are all aware. It also has lead in it, so it is not healthy for children to be playing on. If you put it in portions of the park which are, quote, unused, I believe people are going to be walking their dogs there. Plastic retains the odor of urine. There's a lot of problems with putting artificial turf in a park. And I think the socc er people. What level? Well-maintained grass fields. Most players will tell you they prefer grass. The reason that artificial turf was suggested was because. It was supposed. To save water, but. Has been pointed out it has to be cooled. It has to be washed off. Kids sweat, they vomit, they bleed on, and the turf has to be washed. Even the organic turf has to be watered to keep it moist and pliable. Thank you. So I would ask you not to try to save water by putting in artificial turf. Thank you. Other places. Thank you. Thank you very much. Any other comments? Please come forward. I know. Stand up here. My name is Ramon. I'm a District five. I support. What. Stacy's doing or Ms.. Was doing for Eldorado Park. She's worked hard. It looks like it's a. So best alternatives that we can get for another underwater park. Steve great presentation. I just saw your thing that you that was put out. I know it probably wasn't done very well, not too much notice, but you got it out. So I appreciate. That. I got a question and I know I'm not going to get an. Answer because I'm. Supposed to. Say something. But for these parks that are that don't have just a potable water and no recycling water. I know there's a huge cost that we got to get over a million bucks per park to put that in. What is the problem in getting a pipe going to give em? Uh, um, what do you call reconstituted water to get that going and put it in tanks and get these guys going on regular grass? Um, we are throwing out a lot of water in the, the mornings and days, as you know. And all we need to do. Is just get a larger tank. And get a pipeline going, do whatever we need to do and to. Capture that water. Send it over. It's going to be safer for the kids. I used to work at a mill. I used to. I'm one of the people that was at Milliken High School. And I was part of the soccer team that brought the school district to recognize soccer. So I feel a little bit of responsibility. I'm now £15 more older. And I have no vested interest in this. But but I am for trying to get a grasp. Feel this is what the pros. Play on. This is what everybody wants. This is what the women, uh, the best women in the world are. American team wants to play on, and there's no reason why we can't do it. It's a lot cheaper to maintain grass than it. Is to maintain artificial turf. I can tell you that the main issue is where the head counts and the amount of people that are on it, not with the overall prices that the way people are working. There's a lot of studies, a lot of surveys on this. And so, I mean, I've done it, I've researched it. I've even talked to the end users, the coaches, the coaches don't want to have artificial turf. These are the high schools, Jordan. All these schools. You haven't even talked to the and I'm not talking to you, but you haven't even talked to the the end users, the coaches themselves who are pros. Some of them have played in the World Cup. So that's what I'm all I'm saying is try to think about u sing recycled water and making that thing work for that for that, you know, maybe expanding the use of reclaimed water, seeing what if there's something else you can do, it's a lot safer. I got 7 seconds left. Thanks a lot. Appreciate it. But you're all doing a great job and. We finally I know I got no set time left, but we know that Mark. Taylor is spearheading to try to get these things in. I'd like to get a meeting with Mark Taylor. Thank you. All right. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Diana Ladd Jeans. I second pretty much everything that an Cantrell said. I personally put in artificial grass and drought tolerant in my whole front. I tore up my whole front lawn. Okay, that's what I did. And I did that, by the way, before there was a rebate, before there was any incentive. And, um, do we have an important conversation here? Heidi, can you continue, please? Yeah, well, bottom line is I've had to take care of that. And when I have. I have dogs that will come by and I've had them poop and throw up and do things like that. And I actually have to go out. I've had to go out with a scrub brush and brush that off to clean it. It did not come clean like grass does. And so it's a real concern to me and absolutely right. It's not healthy. And I just addressed a body here earlier tonight about what our greatest natural resources, it's our children and it's not healthy for the kids. I do not believe it should be used as a place to plan. You know, you. Many of you have children here. Think about your own kids. You want them to be in a healthy environment. You want them to play in a in a place that's going to be good for them. So I'm strongly suggesting that you find another way, use recycled water, do whatever they do, even be better off, frankly, healthier plane under than than this artificial grass. So I'm strongly suggesting you really consider the health of your children, the health of our children and grandchildren and great grandchildren in my case. So thank you very much for listening. Thank you. Next speaker. Hello there. My name is Summer Wells, fifth District Plaza area. Stacy, I just want to thank you for looking into new initiatives because it has been a major issue about the soccer fields and using synthetic turf. And I appreciate you working hard to find a better solution, which I encourage all of the rest of the city council to do. I do not support synthetic turf in Long Beach for many reasons. One is the maintenance issue, some of which was just previously addressed. It doesn't go without maintenance. Just because you put it down, it doesn't mean it needs to be not maintained. Animals, dogs, people throwing their sodas, bacteria, it basically kind of collects in this space in unless you maintain it, which we really haven't vetted out those costs. Even when we've been talking about the soccer fields, it's always been a big question mark. How much is this going to cost? Does the city really want to take that on? You know, at that ga mble. Secondly, the big gamble is the infill. We are still, as is expressed here tonight, is looking at new organic materials. We don't know what those will do. You know, maybe two years from now they'll be a better solution. Maybe not. But so far, you know, we haven't really had any good data that supports if coconut infill really works, if some of these other materials that we've been discussing actually really work. So, again, do we want to take on that risk or, you know, wait it out a bit until there's a better solution or you guys come up with a better solution. Thank you. Thank you. So you no other public comments? There's a motion and a second. Please cast your votes. Motion carries nine zero. Thank you. And with that, can we just give a big round of applause for outgoing, outgoing general manager of the water department? Kevin, thank you. We know, we know he still has some time, but an incredible service, of course. And he's been a great resource for us and a great manager. And we want to also congratulate our new general manager of the water department, Chris Garner, who's also in the audience, though. Thank you, Chris, for. Which means now we have to find a new director of gas and oil. So. Which which is next? So. So thank you for that. We closed the hearings in the item. We have item 20, which is the first item we're going to hear. But I'm feeling bad for the public comment folks who are who haven't gone yet. So let me try to get through the the public comment lists quickly. So we'll get to our item, which is 20. Bill Ferris. Is Bill Ferris here? I'm sorry for mispronounce for your last name. Please come forward. If we can have Corey Allen come forward and Daniel the. Okay, now we're going back to 21, right? Yeah. 21 report from Human Error. Report from Human Resources. Recommendation to adopt resolution approving the Third Amendment to to the 27 three 2014. You with the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers Citywide. Thank you very much. Councilman Austin, there's a motion and a second, councilman. So move them. I don't see many city employees left out here today, but this is a good. Excellent. This is all good news. I mean, we've been in negotiations for several months with our largest bargaining unit in the city. The Iam. I'm thrilled that we have reached an agreement that will, I think, meets with both parties needs. I mean, nobody's walking from the walking away from the table, you know, jumping for joy. But we are recognizing the need to compensate our employees in a temporary fashion, because this gives us one year, but it has no strain on our budget and our unfunded liabilities in terms of pension issues moving forward. And I move to approve. Councilman Ringa. Thank you, Mary. If. This whole negotiation would be written into a book. There'd be a prolog. There'd be many chapters about agreeing. Disagreeing. And then there's. There's a great conclusion. And now we'll have to see what the Epilog says later.

But I want to thank, obviously, the membership for for voting on this and agreeing with the terms of the contract that at least for one year, we're going to be with labor peace. And I also want to thank the management of the team out there as well for working it out and everybody who was involved in wishes for the patients and getting this done. Thank you. I just want to also say, before we go to to a vote and a public comment here, I want to thank the membership of the IAM, first and foremost for voting to ratify the contract. I believe that this was a 70% ratification number, which is a strong showing of support from the membership. I also just want to personally just think it's important. Always remember, while certainly we had a union contract that moved forward, there's men and women that have been working for the city for ten, 20, 30, in some cases 40 years as members of this union, many of whom clean our streets and work in our libraries, wash our sidewalks, pick up trash, and do all the work that it takes to run a city. And so I want to thank all the rank and file members for ratifying the vote, and I want to thank, obviously, particularly Mr.. SUAREZ We have gotten to know through this process who represents I am and of course, our own team who I know worked very, very hard, many, many hours to get us to this point. And it was not an easy process, but I think it's a responsible contract that provides additional support for our employees, but importantly, does not cause additional burden that was really not sustainable for us in this budget year. So I want to thank you again. And with that, is there any public comment on the issue? Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. And council members. My name is Martin Martinez. I reside at 7107 East Malacca Road in the fifth District. The contract extension amendment proposal, rather, before you, is the result of over a year's worth of negotiations between city management and the Imam. During that time, we've seen a few city employees come to speak to you on the topic. And so tonight, I've come to do the same in a little bit of a roundabout way. A little bit about me. I moved to Long Beach with my parents in 1978. I attended school in North Town, Hamilton Junior High, when middle school was called Junior High and Jordan High School. I've been here ever since, with the small exception of my military service in the Marine Corps Reserves and activation in Desert Storm. I've been here ever since my children went to ten year K through eight and Wilson High School, where I was involved with the PTA and the Music Department's booster group. I come to community meetings and I volunteer my time at community events specifically. Just this past Saturday I was at the growing experience there and Carmelo's helping out. Great, great program. Great program. So why am I giving you, you know, my bio, my life story? I just want to make you aware that I'm not just an employee, a 26 year employee. I joined th e city in 1989. I've been tech services. I'm a person who puts a great deal of effort in my work and a great deal of effort at home, both of which are in Long Beach. And I'm not alone. And a little over half of I am represented. Employees are also residents of Long Beach. They're doing much the same thing that I do, raising families and making Long Beach a better place. Most of them haven't spoken to you. At a city council meeting. But I don't think it's because they're apathetic, but rather it's likely difficult for them to attend a meeting, possibly stay 6 hours waiting to speak. And some folks just aren't comfortable speaking in public. Now we go back to the topic. The contract that we have before you is going to end in one month and we go back to negotiations for a new contract. When the city negotiates the upcoming contract. I would like to ask you to please remember that in the end, we're not numbers or people. Thank you. And thank you first for your service to our country and of course and to our city as well, and for being involved in the community. We really appreciate that. Thank you. Also just a quick note from the clerk. My screen's off. Your say. Someone can come over here and I can't see any of the functions, so I can't see if there's any other council I think there is anymore. If you can, please go and cast your vote. Motion carries nine zero. Report from Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Communications Recommendation to receive and file a presentation on the management of the major power outages and an overview of the city's emergency preparedness plans and operations citywide. Thank you. This came out of an item that I know Councilman Gonzales and Vice Mayor Lowenthal had coauthored. So I'm trying this over to Councilman Gonzales for some opening remarks. Yes. Thank you, Mayor. I first wanted to. There's a lot of people to thank, but I know we've heard this issue in different formats. But this is something I really wanted to bring forward to the council. A lot of my council colleagues, you know, didn't understand the magnitude of what had happened. And I think it's great to bring this at the council level for others to learn about this as well, both business owners, residents and alike. I want to thank personally our city management team who were highly communicative during the whole process. Reggie, Tom, Pat. It was it was really great working with you throughout because it was a constant flow of communication, which is what we always like our fire, our police teams, our cert, search and rescue, many volunteers and many residents who came together. All of that put together really assisted the situation and made it better before it got worse. And so although this was a smaller incident, in hindsight, I know that this is still a significant issue within our city, and it needs to be looked at certainly in different formats. And as we mentioned, there's a few there was a hearing that happened. There were a few meetings. Edison has been great at providing our our residents with information on claims and also information to some of our most vulnerable populations, like our senior residents and people who are disabled. And so I'll turn it over to Reggie Harrison. I know he has a great presentation for us, and it's very clear and concise and this is exactly what we would like. So thank you. So, Councilmember, before I give it over to Reggie again, I want to thank Councilwoman Leena Gonzalez, Vice Mayor Suzanna Lowenthal and Councilmember Roberto Duran, as well as Mayor Garcia to. Recommend that we do this item tonight and direct us to do this. I also want to point out that we have a couple of Edison vice presidents in the audience tonight. If you guys could raise your hand, Pete Dietrich. We have Paul Grego. We also have some government affairs representation. Representation. Robert Quintero. And we also have Ron Garcia. So we welcome you guys. And without further ado. I'm going to turn this over to Reggie Harrison, our director of Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Communication. Thank you. City Manager with Mayor, members of City Council. Thank you for this opportunity to provide an update on the city's response to the recent power outages, which occurred on July 15th and again on July 30th, the major power outages that occurred on those dates. This update is as much about the community's response to the power outage and the resiliency and camaraderie that they show it as it is about the city's determination and professionalism in responding to this power outage. I will also share with you some lessons learned along the way. You do have copies of the presentation available at your dais. The map above depicts the areas of the city affected by the power outage beginning on July 15th and again on July 30th. The area shaded in green was the affected area during the July 30th power outage. The area shaded in blue and green were affected by the July 15th power outage. So you can see that the July 15 power outage covered a much larger area. The area shaded in red is the perimeter of the network area or loop of the Southern California Edison Vault system. And the red circles indicate the July 15th via structures and the purple circles indicate the July 30th fire structures. So then on the afternoon of July 15th, the fire department responded to reports of smoke coming from underground utility vaults maintained by Southern California Edison. The vaults were located on Third Street between Magnolia and Chestnut Avenue. The fire and smoke was so highly pressurized that it caused several manhole covers to dislodge and fly into the air. And thankfully, no one was injured by those flying manhole covers. Fire units suppressed the fire and supported Southern California Edison units as they attempted to identify the cause of the fire. The fires that occurred on that afternoon resulted in a power outage over the course of portions of the next four days. A subsequent wildfire triggered another power outage on July 30th. And together, those power outages extended over seven days. And at its height, we estimate that 70,000 residents and many businesses were left without power. The Edison outage had a significant impact on the lives of our residents, as well as significant disruption to our businesses and government operations. City Hall at one point was without power and had to close to the public for half a day. Residents, businesses and visitors who came to City Hall seeking services during a power outage experienced the loss of services during that time. The Metro Blue Line, one of the nation's highest, highest use light rail systems, could not run its entire route. Conventions at the Long Beach Arena were disrupted. The police headquarters building was forced on to emergency generators for several days and were unable to function at normal capacity. Many hours of wages were lost by employees at downtown restaurants and hotels as a result of the fire. As a result of the power outage. And since that time, we have had at least three additional instances of major power outages, including in communities near the traffic circle, the Washington and Wrigley neighborhood, and busy and Bixby nose and Los Cerritos neighborhoods, as well as we recognize additional fire power outages that have also occurred since those times. Within one hour of the reported fire, the Police, Fire and Public Works Department has activated their department operations centers or docks to manage the incident. We then immediately activated the city's emergency operations center, the EOC, to manage overall city responses and support the teams in the field. This level three activation of the EOC was the highest level of activation since 2004. Verizon Telephone Outage. Needless to say, numerous city departments played a critical role during the response period. The police department deployed additional patrols in the affected areas, often with their servers lights on to provide additional sense of safety to the darkened streets. The fire department reacted quickly to extinguish the vault fires, and over the course of the seven days conducted 44 elevator rescues from high rise and senior citizen buildings. Public Works Department added a 250 trash receptacles in the affected area to collect food waste that had to be disposed of. They also installed generators at 31 intersections that were without power and deployed ten digital message boards to provide direction and information to the public. The city's PIOs from various departments did a tremendous job providing information to the public, including conducting for press conferences, with the mayor, issuing seven press releases in English and Spanish and numerous postings on social media sites. The PIOs also established information numbers in Spanish and Kashmir, where the public could receive information regarding services. And we have since memorialized those numbers so that we can use them in the future. Finally, our

PIOs distributed 2500 public safety information fliers in English and in Spanish in the affected area. I would also like to recognize the heroic efforts of our police and firefighters in response to a two alarm fire on Chestnut and Chestnut Avenue. Two police officers who were patrolling the area were first on the scene and took critical actions to remove two victims of the fire from the building, effectively saving their lives. Fire units were quickly on the scene to extinguish the fire. Over 200 staff worked in the EOC or department doses over the course of the seven days, many working back to back 12 hour shifts. The picture above depicts an incident action plan. This is a plan that we put together on a daily basis so that staff coming on shift would know what the priorities are for that day. And I brought along copies as well of all of the documents that we produced in the EOC that helped to guide our way around these seven days, the major incidents. The city's Parks, Recreation and Marine Department, along with the Health Department, are open Cesar Chavez Park as a 24 hour shelter and food distribution point. Over 2000 residents visited the shelter with 15 of those individuals choosing to spend the night there. They distributed over 8000 bottles of water, 2100 meals were served, and 500 flashlights and ice bags were distributed to those affected by the power outage. Third, as you've already acknowledged at Long Beach, search and rescue and the American Red Cross played an essential role in checking on the well-being of our community's most vulnerable members. We saw an amazing outpouring of support from our community and business partners who provided much of the food and water distributed at the shelter and sites. MOLINA Health Care opened its own distribution center on Pacific Avenue to offer medical services, meals and critical supplies to those in need. Our biggest round of applause and thanks, however, goes to those individuals and residents directly affected by the power outage. The camaraderie and respect their neighbors bestowed upon each other was incredibly inspiring. We saw residents tending to the needs of each other, barbecuing together to ensure everyone has something to eat and eliminate and to limit food spoilage. We are really happy to announce that there were no spikes in crime during this period and no major traffic accidents. Long Beach residents and the businesses and nonprofit organizations demonstrated an outpouring of support during this incident, demonstrating the true strength of the Long Beach community. Technology was widely used throughout the power outage within minutes of the outage. Within hours, rather, of the power outage. Staff prepared a telephone voice message for mass notification to the affected area during an emergency. Current laws allow us to access land line phone numbers in the white pages and business numbers listed in the Yellow Pages. However, we found that this system did not work well for us. Most cordless phones require electricity, which was an issue. Most residents have opted for cell phones as opposed to landlines in the current city, system for notification is outdated. Fortunately, the city is in the final stages of the procurement of a new mass notification system called Blackboard Connect. This is. This is the same system used by Orange County and locally by the California State University system and Long Beach City College. Through this system, we will be able to send a voice mail, a voice call, email or text message to every resident in the city within a one hour period. Once the new system comes online, we will work with the Mayor and Council on a robust public outreach program to encourage residents to sign up with their cell phone numbers and email address and texting information to increased message delivery options. And finally, we use images from the Long Beach Common Operating picture, Long Beach copters operated by our police department to provide access to cameras in the affected areas to assist staff in the EOC and decision making. And we've already talked about the importance of social media. There are many lessons learned in working with Edison on such a large and complex incident. And it has Edison hat and it has. Edison has noted this is the first major outage in Long Beach since the 1950s. Edison did assigned its emergency response team to work in the city's EOC to provide information to our response team. However, the initially Edison team lacked the subject matter experts who could give us the most accurate information. This situation was quickly resolved. We found that Edison did not use commonly understood phrases. Case in point Edison's use of the term number of a number of customers accounts, which we found did not equate to the number of residents impacted, which, of course, was most important to city staff. For a seat for Southern California Edison. A customer's immediate is a metered account, which could be a one person household or a 30 unit apartment complex. As time went on, the flow of information and the use of technology and the overall working relationship with Edison was much improved and very productive, especially during the second power outage. Many of the lessons learned during this event has resulted in Edison changing their approach to communicate to emergency communications based on the models that the City of Long Beach has demonstrated and how it communicates with residents during an event. Many of the claims filed by residents to be reimbursed by Edison for lost food have already been paid. Edison has already paid many residents $100 for inconveniences caused by the power outage, and we thank them for their cooperation. Edison field staff worked around the clock to restore power as quickly as possible. Nonetheless, the loss of power over such a prolonged period of time is of great concern to us. Therefore, at the request of the mayor, the California Public Utilities Commission w as asked to become involved. And just last week, the PUC ordered Edison to comply with seven directives, including to inspect transformers and underground electrical equipment and the underground ventilation system. Edison must also confirm that manhole covers are properly tethered to reduce public safety risks in the event of future underground explosions. The Public Utilities Commission has requested an Edison report back within 30 days on their progress in these areas. In March of this year, City Council approved the updated hazard mitigation plan. The current plan evaluates in depth seven hazards that pose significant threats to Long Beach. The plan also identifies over 250 mitigation measures to lessen the impacts of those hazards of those hazards as depicted in the slide before you. The most probable hazard for Long Beach is a major earthquake.

However, as we have all witnessed, the loss of electrical power for a prolonged period creates a significant disruption to the quality of life of our residents and can have life threatening consequences for some of our most vulnerable members of our community, such as the elderly and those with with mobility impairments. The next update to the House's mitigation plan will include a more robust section on mitigation measures to lessen the impacts of major power outages. Also in March of this year, we provided the mayor and city councilor with a memo updating the roles of the council and mayor during a disaster which is included as an attachment to your agenda packet. The role of the Mayor and the City Council is extremely important to ensure the continuity of government during emergencies or disasters. You play a significant role in ensuring the protection of persons and properties in the event of a disaster. The approval of the previously mentioned Hazards Mitigation Plan is a case in point. The city's municipal code describes the role of the mayor and council during the disaster, including the responsibility of the mayor as a primary spokesperson for the city. Council members have a unique understanding of the needs of their communities at all times, and we rely on council members to keep us informed of any unmet needs of their residents during a disaster. During a disaster, staff will set up a communications protocol to keep council members informed of response and planning efforts and gather input from council members on community needs. We also rely on council members and their staff to communicate with residents and businesses in their districts, passing on information from the city's public information office to ensure that we are reaching as many people as possible through social media, flier distribution and personal contact. The Mayor and City Council also must ratify any disaster proclamation made during and during a major disaster and approve any special rules such as a curfew that might be put in place and will cover more on disaster preparedness. During the Council and the Council respon sibility. During the upcoming retreat. There are many training opportunities available to the legislative staff. Many of whom may be many of whom may be new to working in municipal government. In fact, many of the recommended training modules are available to take online. These online training programs provide insight into the protocols required to be used by staff at the EOC level, including the National Incident Management System and Incident Command Structure. By having an understanding of these systems and the terms of use, the legislative staff will be better able to convey information to their residents in terms of staff and public safety actions. Also, we commend many of the legislative staff who have already taken it upon themselves to learn basic emergency first aid procedures through CERT or the Red Cross. This puts them in a position to provide additional resources to the community. The Department of Disaster Preparedness, in partnership with certain American Red Cross, provide outreach to the community in many ways to offer resources and information on disaster preparedness. On a regular basis, we provide training to our community partners, including the Red Cross. Long Beach Transit. Long Beach Unified School District. Cal State. Long Beach Lobby. City College. And the faith based community. Most recently, on August 27th, we held a training session at the EOC for neighborhood leaders and residents who were directly affected by the power outage. You've already heard much from the CERT representatives on the upcoming really Long Beach event, which is a citywide resource that provides that comprehensive deadline day long review of resources that are available to residents. Additionally, staff from the Department of Disaster Preparedness is available to conduct training sessions at your request to neighborhood associations and nonprofit organizations in your districts. So in closing, Mayor and members of the City Council, we would like to thank you again for this opportunity to provide an overview on the city's management of the recent power outages and the lessons learned and some of the emergency preparedness protocols that we have in place. This concludes staff presentation. I think basically all of the department heads from the departments that had an active role in the response were available to assist in answering questions. So we thank you for your time. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. And I want to also just think, you know, Mr. Harrison, I think he did a great job through these last few months, but also generally just organizing this new department. This is a newer department that the city has. And so I want to thank him for all his work and his team's work as well. Let me turn this over to Vice Mayor Lowenthal, who had a second on the motion. Or Councilman Gonzales, did you want to continue? Okay. I think we're going to ask probably the same things. But thank you very much, Reggie. Appreciate the presentation. That's exactly what the mission of this agenda item was, along with Vice Mayor Lowenthal and Councilmember Muranga. And our mayor was to get it clear and concise presentation on the events that happened and then our next steps. And I'm glad to hear that we will have a more efficient and effective notification system, even for those that do not have computers or maybe technology that is readily available to them and all of that. So I really appreciate that. A quick question. I know some of this this information I don't see on our website, our emergency preparedness website. So what are we planning to change that a bit? Because I notice it's there's no mention of of any of the power outage information. I think we're in the process right now of updating some information on the website that gives tips for residents in dealing with power outages. Some of the lessons learned from this most recent outage. We will put those up there and some some words of caution as well in terms of handling candles and those kinds of things that residents might want to use when they don't have power. We do have the updated hazardous mitigation plan on our website and we'd be happy council member to work with your office to identify other things that you've identified that we should have as well. They're great. Thank you. And I understand I have the memo here from the PUC, two Edison, seven points. It seems like that need to be addressed and it seems like that would be in within 30 days. Is that correct? That was a request from the PUC to Edison that they report back within 30 days. And that's 30 days as of September 1st. Correct. So it would include the tethering of the manholes and inspection of the underground facilities and the inspection on the lead conductors and all of that. So just want to make sure we're clear on that. Okay, great. And I think that is about it. I just wanted to thank you again for your attention to this, and I appreciate it very much. Thank you very much. Vice Mayor. Low info. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Just as a follow up, initially when we spoke with Edison, they talked about conducting a system wide test through thermal testing. I think that's what they indicated. Do we have any specific results from that? Because after they conducted that, we had at least two, if not more bolt fires that were similar to the original ones. We are understanding of the way in which Edison and the way in which the system is designed and set up is that when we experienced the initial power outage, one of the protocols for Edison and trying to determine how to bring the system back up was that they needed to bring the system down, which resulted in larger areas that were previously unaffected by the blackout, a power outage that now they experienced power outages. So will work with Edison to be able to bring back to your council member and vice mayor a more in-depth explanation as to what the results of some of those investigations have been. Do you have a sense of when y ou can do that? Mr. Marco. So there sorry an representatives in saying that they'll have it by the end of September for us if not sooner. So I think we Raisa and Councilwoman Gonzales and I are aligned in this when and certainly all the investigations need to be conducted and we're not rushing anything. But when we publicly well, maybe not publicly, but at least with this council, we had discussed that they took a major step to bring in I want to say it was 50 teams of two individuals each to investigate through a particular type of testing what was going on in the rest of the system and not hearing anything after which and then experiencing several other similar incidents. I think it leaves that gap because on the one hand, we've left our residents and customers feeling as though this intense review and investigation and research is going on. But then we were still having the same problem. So something has to be said in that gap. It doesn't have to be specifically we've identified these as causes. But I think that in the absence of information between this very forthright effort to conduct research and still experiencing similar problems, therein lies the challenge for us. And we as a city are very open with our residents and our constituents and our stakeholders. Even if the news isn't good news, we need to say something. There is a gap. We did leave people feeling as though Edison has come out here ferociously to investigate what's going on because it is so important and I believe it's important to them. But then we had similar incidents and said nothing. That's my concern. I understand. And I see the Edison report nodding their head. They understand as well. And so they'll be providing us back with some information. Thank you. Thank you. Councilman Richardson. Thanks, Mr. Mayor. And, you know, I just want to say thanks to the entire city family for such a great response. I, I literally when it began happening, I think I was visiting Councilmember Gonzalez's state of the district. And I saw our sister city manager, Tom Modica, outside on the cell phone making things happen. From public safety to city manager, city staff. It was a great response. And I particularly was inspired by that, to see the entire city and and the greater Long Beach area really reach out and try to support this, you know, our community. And I think that the social media outreach and strategy that the city had was really, really good. I saw the mayor, I saw the city council sharing updates. I think that was a great model, an example for how other city should do it. And it really raised the awareness to how we should respond to these things by raising awareness. It kind of opens us up to ask us, ask questions like, Hey, ah, what other areas of town are vulnerable to something like this? I guess my question would be, you know, as a large city, Mr. Harrison, you know, have we looked into localized emergency plans? And is there any way that we could say, hey, this was localiz ed in one area of town, but then it happened again and in Bixby, no. So is there any way to foresee what areas are most susceptible to this? I'm not certain if we can forecast what other areas might be impacted next. Certainly since these two incidents, we have seen other incidents of power outage, as we often do during the summer, not to the extent of what we experienced on July the 15th and July the 30th. I think that's the number where we would like to offer, is those opportunities to get into your districts, to get in and work with your neighborhood association so that we can provide the training, some of the tips that we learned, some of the lessons we learned from dealing with this incident and overall disaster preparedness to just put residents in a better place to deal with not only this kind of a disaster, but a major emergency, but any other that might be forthcoming as well. We know that there's a really, really wet season is coming soon. And so some of the things that we discovered during this incident will also apply to that season as well. And so we look to opportunities to work with you within your district. Great. Because I think, you know, now we're on notice that these things and a lot of times we hear about emergencies and we never think that it can happen in our communities and it can. And so I think we should, you know, continue to do the things we're doing, but really place a greater focus on our local neighborhoods. And then and then how is our Spanish in our language access, outreach and that area where we utilize our language access plan or any of the tools that we have. We did. We did council member. We set up an information line in both Spanish and Crimea where residents could call in and receive information. And those distinct languages, as I mentioned as well, our public information staff distributed 2500 fliers within that area in both Spanish and English as well. Many of the press releases that were done in English were also done in Spanish for certain, not certain about come here if we were able to respond to quickly on the press releases. But we did distribute those in multiple languages. Great. And then and then I guess my final question is, I know that Edison's been updating some towers and they set up a pretty large temporary facility in the north south right away. And it's been there a couple of years. Is there is there is this is that the work that's taking place related to this somehow? So the Edison reps are saying that they're not they're not aware that it's related to this, but they'll take a look at that and to respond back with some of the other answers as well. Okay, great. Well, I would just offer then if it would be good as you look into that, if we can just have some a better understanding of how long that temporary facility will be, you know, will be in place. We thought it would be like a six month, but I think it's going to like two, three years. So it will be just good to better understand that and any other sort of smaller responsive request that the city has made with Edison about this right away. And thank you so much for for being here tonight. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. Do we have a a phone tree that goes to council members when outages occur? Because on Saturday at 630 in the morning when my phone started ringing, it was residents asking me how long the outage was going to last. And so I was curious about that. We generally, when we have those kinds of incidents that occur, we sent out a watch commanders notification that goes to mayors and remember the city council so that you receive that notification from us. We can look into that if you did not receive that notification, but that's a normal protocol. I think I received one closer to 930, but I think that at 630 in the morning and I think part of the challenge is different districts have different age demographics. And so one of the things that was easy for me to do is use the Southern California Edison app and be able to see when the outage was going to be anticipated to be repaired and then be able to tell two or three neighbors who can quickly spread the word through their either phone tree or neighbors standing in the front yard together, as we all know, happens when the power comes out. But I think that of outages over a certain size, I'm not sure an email is sufficient. We had 832 neighbors without power when they all woke up in the morning. You know, and that's a that's a really good point, Councilmember. And that goes back to that mass notification system that I spoke of earlier. We'll be in a much better position to target our messages and residents will be able to prioritize the type of response that they would like to receive, whether it's at their landline or at their cell phone, text message or an email. And so we'll be able to offer residents options in terms of how they receive information from us. So I could be mistaken, but I'm pretty sure that I'm on that notification list. And so I didn't receive a notification probably because I wasn't in the area of the outage, which is surprising because my area had the most outages of the whole district in the last three years. But in this case, I wasn't. So perhaps councilmembers could be on the outage list for every single community in the district so that we're aware and we can help provide that feedback for neighbors who aren't on it. Thank you. Thank you. Think I'm going to make a few comments before I turn it back over to Councilman Gonzales. I want to just start by saying that I think the certainly the whole leadership of the city is just very appreciative of the incredible work that happened from the community, from our police and fire operators, from everyone that was working on the outage. I mean, I even talked to some of the workers in some of the vaults, some of the Edison Worker guys that were there all day and all night, and they were working very hard and we appreciate all of their work on gett ing the lights back on as quickly as possible. But I'm asking you to just to repeat some of what I've said up to this point, and it's, you know, no surprise to Edison mentioned it to their president as well as their leadership team. I personally do not have the confidence in our electrical grid and our system in Long Beach. And I think that having having had now. A major outage, a second pretty significant incident and two others just in the last few weeks, month or so. I mean, this hasn't this hasn't happened in the city of Long Beach with this much. It was that many events, one after another. And so it is concerning. The community should be concerned about it. Our staff is concerned about it. And we're working very closely with both, obviously, Edison as well as the PUC, to really get down to the bottom of what happened and how we can stop this from occurring in the future because. But believe me and and I've been pretty tough on Edison, but they are as interested in solving and trying to get to the bottom of this as we are as well. But where we are today is in a I think in a in a place where we need to we need to regain our confidence. We don't we our confidence is broken, as should as is the communities. And it needs to be repaired along with a sense of of stronger partnership. And I think what we're looking for from the from the PUC in particular. And while I know there's going to be an internal investigation from Edison, I think the PUC is going to give clarity, hopefully, and some very clear recommendations, some of which they have already made to to the city, to Edison, to the council as a body. And we'll be able to make some some decisions. Edison, I assume, will be able to make and they continue to make investments in their network. And we'll have an idea of what exactly went wrong and why we're having these additional occurrences, because the key question is, is it you know, it appears to me that we have a very old system that has not been maintained appropriately and it needs to be invested in. And so that's that's kind of where I see the situation today. And we'll we'll find out more as we as we move forward. Councilman Gonzales. Yes. I just wanted to briefly mentioned. I know we hadn't. I know it will probably come back anyway, but I wanted to explicitly ask and request the report to come back from after the investigation in the U.S. is done to come back to council so we can review that further. Do we know at this time how many city resources were expended? We know that just alone at the EOC is in the city's dioceses, that we had approximately 200 staff that responded to those two centers. That excludes the men and women that responded at the scene with police and fire. So those incident managers is not a part of that number. We've got some numbers available in terms of the costs, estimates for food and ice and those kinds of things that we that we provided. And we're having conversations with Edison about the appropriateness of rei mbursement for some of those items. Okay, great. And can that once we get a full. Cost estimate cannot be included as well in the report, please, when it comes back. And then I would also just like to encourage, you know, we talked about training, but just encourage a bit more from our city management as well as from your shop, Reggie. A better plan to engage and encourage our own city employees to take up the training. I think it's really important. The only trained member of the council is Councilmember Richardson, but it'd be great if we had information. Maybe there was a day for us to do that, but I think that would be really appropriate, especially now. And then lastly, I failed to mention, but I want to thank our POW Kari Jarrod who is there with us, our public works, our health department, as well as all of the other departments that were so integral in this in this whole process. So thank you. Thank you, Mr. West or Mr. Modica. And I know that the I'm sure the Council has read some of the reports in the media, but do you want to just briefly touch on the, uh, the latest? And I'm not sure if or Mr. Harrison just the latest letter from the PUC that had given Edison a deadline of 30 days to essentially comply with a variety of requests. And say, I have the letter here. Let me just see if I can find it quickly in there. So I do have the letter from the I do have the letter here from the Public Utilities Commission dated September one, 2015. There are seven areas that you want to just highlight briefly those. Yeah. If you can just briefly highlight the areas on the on the letter, because I know it came out right before the the Labor Day holiday. So I just want to be sure it's not not last. Set of letters dated September one, 2015 and, uh, seven areas that they have identified. One to perform a detailed inspection on all underground facilities that are part of the secondary network system that we talked about on Long Beach to verify compliance with the general order. Second is to perform a detailed inspection on all on all lead conductors and splices in the city of Long Beach to verify the safe conditions of the conductors and splices. Third is to perform a detailed inspection on every protective device such as relays, breakers, fuses, etc. connected to any of the primary feeder circuits. Fourth is to confirm the ventilation system is properly working and all underground vaults in Long Beach. Fourth is to confirm is to confirm that the cover of each underground vault in Long Beach is properly tethered and secured to the ground to minimize potential impacts. Number six is to confirm that all transformers serving the Long Beach area are properly rated to meet customer demand, particularly during the time of peak demand. And seventh is to inspect and confirm the safe and reliable operations of the circuits supplying power to the Port of Long Beach in any spot, networks serving large customers in the city of Long Beach. And as in this le ttter signed by the Director of Safety and Enforcement Division for the PSC. Letter also ask that all of those items would would happen in the next 30 days. So essentially by the end of September, correct? Correct. Okay. Thank you. I'm going to unless there's any other current council comment, I would open it up for public comment. Is there any public comment on the item? Please come forward. Yes. Please come forward to the mike. Please go ahead. Hello. My name is Jovana Ferraro, owner of Groundwork Fitness. Address should be on file. I am a resident in District one as well as a small business owner. I own a gym and the purpose for me this evening is really to just reiterate a lot of what was said and has been said on. The big picture with with the power outages is. Yes, it it continued on. The first time it happened. Three and a half days of no power for me as a small business owner was huge, huge impact financially. And then as it occurred thereafter, as soon as clients hear that there's a power outage somewhere else, they don't come to my gym because simply, oh, I already know it's going to probably be out there. So it's not just a matter of when it was actually out. The power outage was happening and occurring at my gym. It's the times it happened to Bixby and all these other spots. It kept clients home because they had heard, you know, social media travels fast. So I'm losing business not just when those three and a half days of no power occurred downtown. I'm losing business those other days because. Word gets out, oh, I'm not even going to bother leaving my house. And so I just want to reiterate that it really is extremely important that indeed there's communication. Please. I love everything all of you are saying up here about just letting us know what's going on. And if there's a flicker of my lights right now at my gym, I freak out because it really is. It's a financial thing. And I just I can't afford another three days, 2 hours, 30 minutes with no power. It will keep my clients from coming in because they're going to think, Oh, I'm not going to go downtown. It's going to be a mess like it was last time. So that that's scary. So a flicker of light scares me, and I shouldn't be scared like that as a business owner downtown in. So I just want to be make that heard as well as just real quick, I don't know if you know as old as Long Beach is, so are the plumbing issues and so are something called sub pumps. My gym, there's no restroom available. When power goes out, that's just not going to occur. And that's one thing I didn't learn until that happened. Even though we would get through during the daytime hours, you know, God forbid someone had to use the restroom. We were out running up and down and trying to find one, which means porta potties are those are I mean, there is no one around us. A lot of these buildings are old and they have sub pumps. If there's no power to the sub pump, you're not using a restroom. And that's just that was s omething that needed I would wanted to make sure was heard as well even during the daytime hours as a small business owner, again, I think it's important that communication occurs. So I love the fact that you guys are asking for feedback and where do we go from here? And I appreciate that. So thank you. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please, by actually advisory law, but I wanted to say something. Just briefly, Gio. I want to assure you that our team is taking notes because we haven't thought of everything. I mean, I think our staff did a great job of taking notes about the things we learned out in the field. I personally did not even think about this, and I'm sure they have, but I just I'm glad you came forward. And maybe what this reminds us is to put out a call to our folks just through social media. They're very particular they're very particular circumstances that we may not have thought of, but that affect other people. We should know that, and we need to hear that from our residents. So I don't think porta potties are too much to ask for. It's a public health issue. I'm sure our doctor at DHS will say that again. It's something I didn't even think about, you know, until it occurred. And then all of a sudden we're down and out and it's like, wow, three and a half days without that, even for myself, where am I going to go? Right. So that's just something to add to it. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Thanks again, Mr. Mayor. Gary Shelton. I had the great opportunity. I was privileged to be asked to be the representative of the public, the residents at the town hall meeting that was called by the state assembly and senators. And I did have a chance to speak with them and I appreciate that opportunity. But here I am now in front of you folks. And I just had a couple or three things to point out, and I really, really appreciate your report. Director Harrison full of great information. I wanted to see if we could expand on a couple of things that Reggie mentioned. I think it was on I don't know, I would call it page three, the technology and outreach and the SC communication page of the PowerPoint that there there did seem to be a couple of different channels of communication or levels of communication. There was sort of an internal type of communication that that Edison seemed to seem to hold close to. The to the vest that I learned at the town hall meeting wasn't really actually even shared at the EOC during the early days of this outage. And and and then out here in the public, even though we were many of us right in the very middle of it, we didn't have any inside information ourselves as to what was going on. Part of the reason for that was that we were deprived of high tech solutions to communication. We couldn't I was getting pixel, but that was about the only thing and it was basically telling what the street closures were on ocean or on shoreline drive. Low tech would have helped in many ways. I don' t know exactly how many different methods we would have of that. One might be police cars telling us over their loudspeakers that they would go up and down the streets. This is what's going on. There might be some script that they could have had as they went up and down through the neighborhood, which we didn't see, see the police all that much. But anyway, low tech communication is something that would be really, really need. I wanted to express too that we all. We're aware very early on that we were in this in the middle of a crucible of learning. At the time, we had an option. We had an opportunity to go through an event that didn't have tilting buildings akimbo. It didn't have injuries. It didn't have fear, such as some other major incident might have. This was a very low level incident that got a high level response. And so I think we've had an opportunity to learn a lot without a whole lot of damage being suffered in the meantime. I wanted to then add one more thing to the offer by Edison to send $100 credits or in the case of folks like us at Plymouth West to our on shared meters and other senior citizens . A $100 check has actually had the result of infusing tens of thousands of dollars of ready cash into the community because those checks are arriving this week and they're being spent this week. So that's a benefit that I have to thank Edison for. Thank you so much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good afternoon. My name is Jim Denham with the First District, one more city heritage neighborhood. Well, my area itself wasn't affected. On the 15th, we did get the call through social media for help. The Pacific Tower building, 17 floors, no power's seniors. Many of them could not have access to get down food, going up water. Jill, who left earlier, she was the first way that went in there. If you can imagine, you've got water, £8 a gallon, two Home Depot buckets. You've got £40 in each hand going up 17 flights. It was out. It was absolutely. We've very quickly realized that we are not prepared for this. Cert was there in the beginning. But then they also had a lead to go to another senior center. Melina's jumped in. Councilman Gonzalez, thank you so much. I mean, your office was fantastic. Let us know where we need to be, you know, and how we can assist bags of ice. I mean, it was just literally Florida time doing the daisy chain up and down, up and down and getting this stuff handled. And folks that were on the floors, the seniors are knocking on doors. They are so relieved. And then one thing you don't realize is that in these huge buildings, there's no airflow. So all of a sudden now you're opening up doors, opening up stairwells to allow that draft. I know probably the fire department's cringing because that if it were to happen, now you've got a huge type of inferno. But, you know, that was something we took a chance on. And a lot of the residents appreciated that. One of the things since I do live in one of the oldest historic district ts in Long Beach, please, if we can figure out a way not to have the candles, I think it was on Chestnut, a home caught on fire because of a candle knocking over, maybe LED lighting something that will illuminate a little bit of light without have the danger of flame. But that's it. Thank you so much. Appreciate it. Thank you. Next speaker. Good evening. Mayor and Council, thank you so much for this presentation. It was very, very important to our people. I think that we are so used to using social media and having all those advantages that we forget that a lot of the people in our neighborhoods either do not have the capacity or are not familiar enough. So I was lucky enough that my house had electricity the whole time. But I know that even with that, we didn't really have a lot of information. I know you know that and that that's one of the big things that needs to be worked on. One of the things that I wanted to mention that has not been mentioned is I live right off the the Sixth Street offramp. And I think that there needs to be coordination with highway patrol or somebody to stop people from coming off the off ramps with something like this because they came blasting through and there were no lights. So I'm really astounded that nobody got in an accident because that's a really they come off fast anyway, but they come off really fast with no lights right there at Sixth and Daisy. So that's something I think that needs to be looked at also. And thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker. My name is Lana Noble. I live downtown in the Walker building where my husband and I and the bank, our own, are our loft. And I'm here. I had also with Gary said I got to speak as a member of the public at the hearing and would encourage those of you that haven't had a chance to wade through some of that testimony to do so, because it was incredibly dramatic and sobering how much this impacted residents and businesses. People who live paycheck to paycheck didn't get a paycheck because of those outages and are our neighbors. What I want to talk about and I've got copies of this that I will share with the clerk, perhaps I think there's enough for the council is we are not talking about a natural hazard here. It's great that we responded as we did in Long Beach. It impresses me. It makes me proud to be a part of this community and that we have the standards that we do. But this was not a natural hazard. Edison has a monopoly. They are a private corporation. They have shareholders. They make money. And they are supposed to, according to the PUC, provide us with reliable, safe and affordable or reasonably priced. I believe what the PUC regs say, electricity and electricity is not a luxury anymore. It might be in some other countries, but it's not a luxury here. And we pay for it, whether we're small business people like Gio or my husband and I in the Walker building. I, for one, am not at all confident in what SCC has done, what they're doing, and what they are or not telling us. And I'm looking to you as the City Council to lead us on this, because if they cannot fulfill what they're legally required to do as we are embarking on serious development dreams and visions and plans. We're downtown that are going to help all of Long Beach, not just those of us that are right downtown. We need a partner. We need a partner that consistently will invest in our infrastructure, will maintain our infrastructure, and will provide us not with power outages, not with darkness for days on end, but with the electricity that we need to be the kind of high standard city that we are. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Okay. Hi. It's the other one right over there. Oh, the other one. There we go. Thank you. I want to make sure that you each hear me. I know that you understand that there are statistics up there. I believe it was 70,000 individuals were affected by it in some way, shape or form by one of the power outages. But there are human faces to those 70,000 people. And I know as a senior living in a senior building at Ground 0/3 and Chestnut, we saw a lot of activity. And first of all, God bless the Edison workers. They worked their little kazoos off. I saw them. I went out to visit them at two in the morning, three in the morning, five in the morning to see how things were coming along. But seniors were so impacted. I know Gary said that there wasn't fear. I had people stopping me and asking. I walked the streets. I walked that a lot of that district in the dark. I wish I had. I was given cold water from. The Red Cross. I was given extra flashlights to pass out. And the thing I heard most often was communication. Edison is telling us the first day I believe it was, the power would be restored in 3 hours, 4 hours, and then it was going to be the next morning, then the next night. The next afternoon. Communication is so important. I'd rather be told the truth, as brutal as it might be, so I could plan. That said, I hope that each and every one of you emphasizes to your constituents that being prepared is a self, a matter of self-preservation. Flashlights, water, and their own units. Their own house is very important. I see time is running out. Finally, I am more than a little concerned for those of you who saw it. There is a fantastic article in the L.A. Times Sunday edition, Sunday, September six about Big Santa for a lesson learned. And it talks about the PUC, talks about Edison and the fiasco that went down there at the ratepayers expense. I'm concerned that you've given them 30 days to come to do certain things. I've worked for race car teams. I've seen what happens when when we've got a deadline and some mechanic is getting weary and suddenly a screw doesn't get tightened properly. The wheel comes off, the driver is killed. Please be a little flexible with that 30 day requirement that they inspect everything. I can understand the pressure for them to do something. But on the other hand, we don't

t want another San Onofre. We don't. And I have to commend Mayor Garcia and Lina. Councilman Huizar and her staff were phenomenal. If this had happened in the city of L.A., they'd be doing a task force first and whatever, and then figure out a month after the event that maybe they should've taken out water. Thank you so much. And thank you for the for the rest of the council. Thank you, ma'am. Next speaker, please. Yes. Yes. My name is Holly Stewart and Leona spoke earlier and I picked up a couple of more points listening to the discussion. One is, when the power goes down, of course, all your wi fi disappears. There's all this idea about modern tech, but once your server goes down because there's no electricity, then that's gone. So now you maybe have a good phone. Like I have a good phone with 4G, LTE, 3G and all that, but the battery runs down after a while. You can't recharge it. That's gone. So the idea that the high tech stuff does such a great job sounds good, but after about 12 hours, it begins to fail. And in fact, even though the 4G tower in our area, we live in a water building, as you said, begin to fail or the power went down or something because my phone, which is a very good one, couldn't pick up either LTE, 4G or even 3G after a while. So I just want to bring that up as a possibility or a thing to think about is that a lot of this stuff really is dependent upon having the electricity. A second thing is there has been some discussion of the Public Utility Commission, but even at their hearing, I never heard them say why there was a public utility commission. If you have to go back about 100 years, you find out that in fact, cities and counties and things like that were putting out monopolies to things like Southern California Edison to provide power. And when you did that, you took and give them tremendous amount of power because they were going to be the only thing a power system as a monopoly. So utility commissioners rested up to supervise them, oversee them and make sure that they didn't go just for money, trying to take so much away from us as a whole community for their shareholders. Over time, they tended to cut back on the amount of staff they have to take care of things because that makes more profit. Well, we I commend you for looking into this, and I hope you will be on the tail of the utility commission, too, as well as SC to make sure the job gets done. So this doesn't happen again. Because, as Liana said and as others have said, the redevelopment and the repositioning of downtown here, and I've heard about all these plans for even more residents. If you don't have the carrying power within your electrical system, you're looking for trouble because the more and more you put on notice, the higher the load is that it has to carry, the better chance that you're going to have a failure. During times like, well, extreme heat times, if there's an earthquake, if there's other kinds of power outages, it compounds it as you ha ve more and more people on a grid. So thank you very much. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. Very good, Hugh, before turning to the excellent report that you have presented, I take it the biggest takeaway I would say is the biggest lesson is do not give up your landline. Hang on to that. Secondly, although this was obviously a Edison and Electric centric presentation of I, I noticed you had touched upon the issue of tsunami , which is certainly something we've got to deal with and particularly if we here live on the coastline. And I'll get to you. I'll make sure you get the plans. Relatives. It's the tens river type of lock that's now going to be put in the open 365 days a year, but can be closed on a tsunami basis. The warning out of nowhere and so forth, that within two or three years we should be able to have at the end of the jetty. In addition to that, touching upon just that aspect, one of the things that we will not have to prepare for in about eight years, going back to what I talked about, the new paradigm that we could use, the mitigation that base is the construction of that will be such that we will no longer have to every year bring in loads of sand and protect the assets that are along the peninsula because the construction of the perimeter dynamic will prevent the waves and the surge from hitting a good portion of those so forth. But there was a very good, thorough report. I'll make sure you get the details out there on the sounds tsunami dynamics. Thanks. Councilman Gonzales. Yes. Just one last point. A resident of ours, Gary Shelton, brought this forward and I thought it was a good point, creating emergency plans for business owners and helping them do that, or especially in buildings like the downtown where we have high rises. I'd like to have us look into that. I think it would be great to conduct workshops of some sort or go out and do a training of some sort and how to create a plan. Great. Thank you. Okay. There's no other public comment we're going to receive and file, but I just have to just to make a quick a quick note. And it's unfortunately very timely. But from what I understand right now, we just had an Edison outage that 1400 customers are affected in parts of West Long Beach from what my city, the city manager is telling me right now. So I know that they're working on that. But this this is obviously both unfortunately ironic, but goes to show you that we need change and there needs to be an improvement in the system. I know you guys are here and I appreciate that from the from the Edison guys, but this is just completely unacceptable. And I'll say it again. So we're going to hopefully figure out what's going on here. And right now, 4000 customers without without, without power. So there's a motion on the floor in a second. Mr. Mayor? Yes, I know we have representatives here. Did you want to hear from them? I think they're going to get to they're going to if you'd like to make a comment, but I know they're going to get to work on what's going on right now, from what I understand. Okay. All right. Receive and file. Cast your vote to make a two minute recess. Motion carries. I'm going to I'm going to ask everyone to take a seat and we're going to go ahead and get started. I'm going to call the meeting back to order. I think there was a. We're going to switch that. We never. I mean. We pretty much. Yeah. They don't want to do it. Exactly. Exactly. I mean, if it's not. It probably has problems, but. So this is an opportunity. To get together. Yeah. Okay. I'm going to call the meeting. I'm going to call a meeting back to order. I'm have roll call, please. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Mayor Vice Mayor Lowenthal, Councilwoman Price. Councilmember Cooper. Not here. Councilwoman Mango. Councilman Andrews. Councilmember Muranga. Councilman Austin. Councilmember Richardson. Mayor Garcia. I'm here. Thank you. And just as a quick announcement, so the power outage is in West Long Beach, mostly in the seventh District. And so I know that our folks are in Edison are taking a look at that right now. And so if you're obviously those that are without power are obviously not watching this. But if you are out there, you know someone that needs assistance, please, please do so. So we're going to continue on. We have an important budget hearing tonight, which we have to which we have to finish. But I know that we have our folks right now addressing the outage as we speak. So, madam, quick, if you can read, but you're hearing one. Let's let's just let's do item 21 since John has already started. John Gravity Communication for Mayor Garcia. A recommendation to adopt the recommended resolution from the Technology and Innovation Commission in support of the City of Long Beach, participating in Los Angeles County Innovation Weeks hosted by the L.A. EBC. Mr. Kessler. Honorable Mayor and members of the city council. If you would. Like to if you'd like to add anything to the previous report, I'd. Be happy to. Thank you so much for supporting Innovation Week. What I didn't add earlier or that we're up to about 20 events locally in the city of Long Beach. And what's really neat about this is that these events are hosted by local innovators, entrepreneurs, local businesses to showcase entrepreneurship and innovation that's going on in our city. So the events range from food to Cal State, Long Beach, art college to industry manufacturing really across the board. And it's been a really interesting groundswell of support from the community who have volunteered their spaces. They actually pay for the programing and the Los Angeles Economic Development Corporation in partnership with the City of Long Beach. We we aggregate those events and market and promote them. But this is really a neat community showing. So if there are any other questions, they're there. All of these events are available online and you can register for the events and almost all of them are free to the public. That will conclu de my report on this and I'm happy to answer any questions. Thank you very much. Good report. Let me let me just also add real briefly, this is the first innovation week that we've had that we've done. It's a great collaboration with the lady there, with her innovation team. And I know our innovation team is working really hard on this. And this is the kind of stuff that's really exciting that's happening that wasn't happening a year ago. All these connections that are being made, the partnerships, all of the innovators out there, they're all talking to each other now. And it's because of not just the work that John and the Bloomberg team are doing, but also the work of our new Technology and Innovation Department and Brian and his whole crew. It's just a really great partnership. So everyone's doing really great work and it's good to support this important event. Councilman actually, Councilman Richardson, you made the motion. Any comments now? Councilman Mongo. Any comments? I just am excited that everything is going on and the community is really embracing this. So thank you for all the work that you and your team are doing. And Councilman Austin. Yes. I just wanted to thank Mr. Keisler and the innovation team for coming out to First Fridays. And because we know last Friday and brought the whole team out, it was it was exciting. They got a chance to meet many of the residents locally and talk to them about some of the work that they're doing and where we're going as a city in terms of becoming greater innovative thinkers. And so I just wanted to let my support as well. Thank you. Q Councilman Franco. Thank you, Barry. I, too, want to add my voice to in appreciation of what's going on with the innovation team. Curiously enough, they joined me on my seventh District Harbor tour. They were a captive audience. They had a captive audience there and provided an update as to what they're all about, brought the whole team out, introduced them, and they had an opportunity to engage the community and ask questions about We appreciate the community had an opportunity to ask them questions regarding what's what their job is and what they're doing. And and everybody felt very, very informed in terms of what's going on with the city. So I want to again, thank you for joining us. Thank you. MCHUGH Any public comment on the item? CNN members, please cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you. 22. Yeah. Okay. Thank you. Now on to item 25. Report from Development Services Recommendation to Execute Mills Act Historic Property Contracts with owners of historic landmark properties for the preservation and rehabilitation of eight properties districts one, two, three and eight. Thank you. I'm Jenny Silver Staff. We have a report from Development Services Director Amy Barak and also Chris Coons. Mr. Mayor, and members of the City Council. First, I would like to formally introduce you to Christopher Coons, our advance planning officer. He also serves as our historic preservation officer. And the report that we're going to be giving tonight is largely the result of his efforts since he's been on staff. So I want to publicly acknowledge his involvement in moving the historic preservation program for this city forward. We are pleased to present to you tonight the First Mills Act contracts that have been adopted by the city since at least 2007. We are presenting to you a number of contracts that. Cover. Our residential and commercial buildings. This, as you know, was the first year that we. Instituted the Mills Act. And we went through a very extensive screening and education process with members of our historic community who may qualify for a Mills Act contract. This year, we were a little bit selective in only choosing to work with those properties who have already been landmarked within the city of Long Beach. And offered the Mills Act process to. Those existing homeowners or property owners. We hope to expand the program to a larger audience next year, and for those property owners who do have properties who are interested in Mills. Act but may not be historic landmark. Designated. We would do a combination process of we as we have detailed to you in the past. So I believe we have nine different contracts that we would ask you to consider entering into. This is a ten year contract with each of these individual property owners. There is a detailed contract that spells out what their requirements are. There is an obligation for the city to provide regular inspections to make sure that the contracts are being adhered to. There is a continued process that we will be involved in in the regular monitoring of these properties. I would say. Without hesitation that these nine properties. Represent the entire spectrum of the historic properties that are landmarked within the city. They do cover very unique single-family residential homes, and then they do cover some of our commercial buildings that are also landmarked. And you probably know most of these just by looking at their name and address, which which should point to their notoriety. If you've got specific. Questions about any of the applications, we are here to answer any questions. But that does conclude our initial staff report. Thank you. We have a motion in a second on this on this item. Councilman Austin. So moved. Councilman Price, your comments. Vice Mayor Lowenthal Thank you. I wanted to thank Ms.. Burdick for all the hard work that she and her department has put into this. And for the presentation tonight, and also John Thomas, who's been patiently waiting in the audience for us to hear this item, I'd like to congratulate and thank the property owners for buying these historic gems and being interested in preserving them. And again, my thank you to development staff services and our Cultural Heritage Commission for delivering this program to us. Thank you. Is there any public comment on the item? CNN. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Great. Tha nk you. Thank you all for coming. And of course, no big surprise being led by women. Of course. Oh, it's always the women. Always the women. I swear. It's just amazing. Next item is 23. Communication from Council Member Richardson. Council Member Super Non Council Member Ranga. Council Member Austin. Recommendation to request the City Manager to provide a status update on the termination of the Rapid Medic Deployment Program. Thank you. Mr. Richardson, a joy to go to Stanford with you. Okay, turn it over to staff. Thanks. Mayor council. Members. We can have a quick report by our fire chief, mike. Good evening, mayor garcia and members of the council. As you were aware, on August 26th of 2015, the Los Angeles County Emergency Medical Services Agency or EMS agency, notified the Long Beach Fire Department that they were terminating the rapid medic deployment or RMD pilot project, and that by October 3rd, 2015, the Department must return to the previous staffing model of two paramedics on all advanced life support or A+ ambulances. In our September 1st presentation to the City Council, the city manager and I advised the City Council that we would comply with the direction provided by the EMS agency and revert to our prescribed staffing configuration. Also at the September 1st City Council meeting, the City Council directed the fire department to provide weekly updates on the status of returning to our pre armed staffing configuration. Since September 1st, the fire department has worked diligently to accomplish all tasks necessary to return to priority staffing, and these have been detailed in the five weekly memoranda that we have provided the City Council. In summary, we have done the following with support from human resources. We conducted the required meet and confer sessions with the Firefighters Association and the IAM to discuss the impacts of the staffing change. We have completed analysis on the impact of the return to the previous staffing model would have on the number of positions needed in all ranks on a daily basis. We've evaluated the need for a fire academy in fiscal year 2016 as well as the future need to send firefighters to paramedic school. We have convened a paramedic committee comprised of paramedics and other frontline personnel, representatives from the Firefighters Association and Management to discuss the return to pre-formed staffing and other related issues. We've reassigned firefighters, paramedics and ambulance operators based on seniority to different apparatus under the RMD staffing configuration. As a result of the rebuilding process, we've reconfigured the Fire Communication Center's dispatch system and processes to correlate with new apparatus locations. And we've completed all the logistics required to move apparatus and equipment. On October 3rd, when we return to our previous staffing model, I want to thank all of the fire department staff who are responsible for this planning and implementation process. And I'm pleased to report that we had an uneventful transition on the morning of October 3rd. As you know, upon receiving notification from the EMS agency that they were terminating the RMD program, we began to work with representatives from Deccan, which is our apparatus deployment information system, to conduct data analysis in order to determine the best locations of resources when we return to the RMD system on October 3rd. The Deccan program is a predictive modeling tool which helps us make apparatus deployment decisions based on historical data. The objective of this analysis was to determine the most effective placement of our emergency response apparatus to respond to emergency medical calls. This is the same system we have used over the past decade to make resource reduction determinations. This evaluation of data is very complex process and is best described as a system wide analysis of three years of data involving 180,000 calls for service. This analysis involves all call types, not just calls for emergency medical services, and recommendations are provided based on the most effective apparatus locations throughout the city. Additionally, there are a number of factors that go into the analysis included, including historical call volumes, response times, overlapping coverage, secondary coverage and automatic into and out of the city automatic aid . The fire department used the above criteria and using the 180,000 calls for service ran scenarios of the system in multiple configurations to determine if the deployment model we had immediately preceding armed was the best utilization of our resources, or if there was some compelling new information that would cause us to shift resources. Based on this professional analysis and the supporting deck and software analysis, the fire department determined that there was not conclusive evidence enough to move resources to locations different than the prescribed locations. Put another way, the prescribed model is the most effective model currently given the available resources that we have. Therefore, on October 3rd, 2015, we placed paramedic ambulances and paramedic assessment units at their respective prior M.D. or July nine, 2014 locations. Which was an effective and proven deployment model prior to the implementation of R&D; and we believe is currently the best model to ensure protection to the entire city as resources are constantly moved around the system to ensure protection for all our residents and visitors. The fire department will continue to evaluate the data over the course of the next year and ensure that apparatus are placed in locations that will have the greatest impact on our overall response times. Mr. Mayor, council members, that concludes my report, and I'm available to answer any questions you may have. Well, thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you, Chief, for for diligently facilitating this whole process. I know it's been difficult over this past month, but I also want to just thank you for the way that you've reported out over the course of the last month weekly as the council requested. I want to thank the residents. I know that, you know, you're spending a Tuesday night doing what we do, but this is democracy. I know that you guys dig this stuff. So I'm glad that you spent tonight with this is really important to our community. So so, chief, as you stated in the last in the last time you were update providing update to city council, we did direct you to to do an analysis over the course of this last month to provide weekly status updates so that we can sort of track and participate in this process along the way. So thank you for for complying with those requests. And I've personally had the opportunity to follow these updates. Over the past month and track your work in unwinding the R&D; program. And despite the way that people might have felt about R&D;, I know that you and your staff and your leadership worked very hard to implement it, and the fact that you worked so hard is something that definitely needs to be recognized. And in the third weekly update, you listed the proposed deployment schedule, which outlines paramedic resources that will and will not be placed in service on October one. And what stood out to me as particular about this with about this memo, a peculiar about this memo was the line that stated the evaluation of data is very complex process, and the data provided thus far has been inconclusive as to the optimum location of each paramedic, ambulance and paramedic assessment unit. So the fact that it was inconclusive was a bit vague and difficult for me to grasp. I can either interpret it as given the resources in place. Eight Rescues data doesn't allow us to conclude that one deployment model is or schedule is safer than the other. Therefore, we're going reverting back to the old schedule, which is what we know. Or it can mean that we actually don't have enough recent data post R&D; and that if we had that data, it would be conclusive. So I would ask you to just take a moment, elaborate. What did you mean by the data is inconclusive. What actually happens when you run the deck in software and look at those different models? Councilmember The in order for us to run our software analysis, to take those 180,000 calls for service and run them in the system as a predictive modeling tool, we first have to establish a baseline system so we couldn't use the RMD deployment model because we knew that was going away. So what we did was we went into our deck in software and put the pieces in place that were in place on July 9th, 2014. So exactly preceding R&D.; And then we ran the system based on our historical calls and then we took the time through a number of different configurations. We moved resources around the city. If we moved an ambulance here, an ambulance, their engine here engine, their assessment units, and we ran the system and then we would run secondary calls in an automatic eight in, automatic eight out and and different types of calls. And when we say that the data was inconclusive, what we're saying is there was nothing there was no sort of compelling evidence or no sort of conclusive data set in a different configuration other than what was in place just prior to our M.D. that would lead us to make a shift of resources from one place to another. Bottom line is, if we had a hole in our system, we would be shifting that hole in our system from one place in the city to another place in the city. And we believe that the deployment model we put in place today, given the resources we have, is the very best thing we can do for the city today. And I think it's important that you break that down the way that you did, because it sounds to me and let me articulate what I just heard. Since the system citywide, the placement really doesn't matter where you place it. Either way, you spin it with limited resources. There's. There will be a hole somewhere in town. Yes, sir. Okay. So it seems like since like I've done work at City Hall in the last five years, we've we've sort of spoken about this paramedic issue. And, you know, although it's an issue that does impact the whole city, I know that, you know, people feel good about having a rescue in their particular area and particularly around the fringes of town, the edges of town like east and north. I particularly remember it was 2010 when we made the shift from nine resources, from nine rescues down to eight. There was a lot of confusion then and one example stands out to me in particular, there was a minor accident on

Atlantic and Artesia was a school bus and there was a student, a special needs student that had a seizure. And in the same moment, there was an emergency call at Jordan High School directly across the street where there was a heart attack or something like that. And so at that, this was three months after 12 was eliminated. And so rescue nine in Bixby Knowles responded to Jordan High School and then Rescue one in downtown responded to the car accident with the child, with the seizure. And I remember 17 minutes later that we did get a response from L.A. County Fire Department. And what this story sort of reminds me of is that even though the response was from downtown, you could very well find a downtown rescue in uptown, you can find East Rescue in Central. It's really a city wide system. And by taking out and not having really those resources, it really puts a strain on the whole system. And my concern is that if we go back to eight rescues, we will experience similar issues. So I would want to get your opinion on this. Can you describe is there a distinction in the system response when you have nine rescues in our city instead of eight? Is there a difference? Does the value added with a knife rescue provide a more stable system? Well, Councilmember, certainly, because as you mentioned, it is a citywide system. The system is dependent on a sum of all the parts. If you add more resources into the system, it would create more stability within the system. I just want to make sure that everybody understands that we do the very best we can do. Our people are very good at doing what they do with the resources that we've got. But certainly, yes, adding more resources into our system would make the system better. So, and I get that I know that that we do as best as you can with the resources you see fit. And that's why I think it's our job to really have a conversation about the system and those resources. So specifically, what does it actually cost to place a rescue, a ninth rescue into service?

COUNCILMEMBER The annualized cost for a rescue ambulance. PARAMEDIC Rescue ambulances, $1.1 million. Okay. Roughly. I know these are sort of off the cuff emotions, but I know that I know that we've had conversations I've heard this term about scalable resources. Can you explain what that is as well? Councilmember Scalable. The term scalable as applied to resources would be something that is not permanent, something that's put in for peak load. Peak load periods over there has a sunset at the beginning and an end. So it wouldn't be a permanent thing. It would be something you do as just kind of a scalable asset. Put it in for a little while. Take it out. Great. So if so, if the city council were to help to identify extra resources to help support our paramedic response, would you use the priority list that was submitted to council in the past year, or would you use them last out first, first in methodology? How would you approach this?

Councilmember We the fire department sent a memo to City Council in 2013 and they can't remember the exact month, but I can find out for you. But that outline was in August of 2013. Outlines our restoration list, if you will, and it lists them in order. And so we would follow that memo that we had sent to the council. I think that's smart. Was that and that. So I'm familiar with that because we followed that for a number of years, even before the R&D program. So that's great. So so Chief, I want to thank you for this report. I want to thank you for the hard work that your staff has done. And I want to thank the hardworking firefighters for their service as well. I personally believe that we're in a moment where folks, whether it's pundits, whether it's the media, maybe people who have watched the city council for a long time, they expect us to divert to the dark ages of debate, where in order for my community to win, your community has to lose. And I believe that we were elected to really think bigger, think broader about our city, and rather, rather than have the conversation about who's community loses. I'd rather have a smart conversation about how all communities can win. So the chief you know, the chief just mentioned that this with the circumstances, you guys based on eight rescues. You can't identify any alternative model unless there's some other chess piece on the board or on the table. And I take that very seriously. So if he had additional resources, he'd be able to fill gaps and have a more stable system to collect data over the next year. We all know that next year we're going to have budget circumstances and budget challenges. We're going to have to have make some tough decisions. I'd rather go into that with a stable year of data so that when we do have a conversation about city wide resources based on a stable year, you know, with with with a better staffed program than we have today. So so I want to make sure that we're also looking at other opportunities and we're proactive as we go into next year's budget. So I want to ask the chief a question. When's the last time that we've actually looked at or evaluated opportunities for us to expand our services to surrounding communities? And if we were to evaluate that, what would that look like and what were the things you would need to do over the course of the year to figure out if we can expand services to surrounding cities? Councilmember I in my tenure in management on the fire department and even even coming up through the ranks, I don't know. I know there's been a couple discussions during my career about possibly expanding or providing service in other local jurisdictions, but we haven't. Since I've been in management, engaged in any sort of that activity. But I certainly would be I would not be opposed to the idea, of course, if a surrounding community wanted to have a conversation with us about augmenting their system or providing a service someplace else, we would certainly be open to it. Sure. I know that other cities around us have have looked into perhaps counteracting with the county. And I don't know that we've ever that we were part of those conversations. We have a fantastic fire department and and we should at least explore that feasibility. Does it help our system? Does it hurt our system if we expand and look at coverage in other cities? So that's something I like for us to look at. So so I'd like to make a motion. So given this conversation and given where we are today, I move that city staff report back to city council in 30 days on the feasibility and options to place an additional rescue into service in the course of the fiscal year this current fiscal year. This could include a restoration or scalable options. We want you to evaluate the use of an adjusted return rate on our first responder fee potential one time resources as they become available or other potential funding sources. And then secondly, the second part of this motion is to evaluate our ability to provide fire services to surrounding cities on a contract basis and make a recommendation over the course sometime between now and the next year on a recommendation of city council. That's my motion. Thank you. Councilmember Yeah, one quick question about that, just to make sure and I think it's great to get to go back and get the info. Is 30 d ays enough time? 45 days? Question What do you think? Chief Just seems very tight for me, but we could do. Something like that in 60 days. Is that okay with you? Councilman, I'm comfortable. Okay, great. So we have a motion in a second council in Austin. We're okay there. Let me go to the public comment and then we'll take it back to the council. So if any members of the public want to comment on this, we have a motion on the floor to go get some additional information from the fire chief and bring it back in the next 60 days. Good evening. Mayor Garcia and city council members. My name is Eileen Iron and I live at 3421 St Francis Place. I'm the president of the Saint Francis Neighborhood Association, and I'm here to. Voice my support. For comprehensive. Fire services. And encourage that you all. Do the same. To me, one of. The most important services. In our community is our fire department, who responds to various emergencies across the city within a month and a half. We've had three times. Just on my street alone. The fire department respond to four senior citizens. Of which I am one. But they weren't responding for me. We also. Because of our particular street, is a kind of a. Curvy street. Where the others aren't in the rest of the neighborhood. Some young people like to see how fast they can take their cars. And manipulate the curves. Two young men did so two weeks ago and. Their car. Went nose to artery. And. One of them ended up with. Several bones broken. In his neck. The last I heard he is doing much better. In is at home. So I want to thank the City Council for listening to our community. And what is important to us. I especially want to thank Councilman Richardson. Councilman Orson, council member, supervisor and Councilman Turanga for bringing this. And we have some other residents from the ninth District who have have come to support it as well. Would you please stand? Thank you. Thank you and thank you all for coming out. We really appreciate that. Next speaker. How are you doing? I'm great. How are you? Good. I was going to ask you to. Do an exercise, but as late as you may fall asleep. So I won't ask you. I was going to ask you to just close your eyes during this presentation, but I won't do that. You might fall asleep. So we'll move on. What I want to talk about tonight is some personal situations where we needed. To utilize emergency services. And one had to do with my spouse. In my neighborhood, there's a lot of aging as well going on. I won't count. Myself as one of the older. Ones yet, but I am there. And we have. A lot in our neighborhood and in. Our association area. If you just think about it, you close your eyes for. 3 minutes and think about. Coming up on someone who needs emergency services. Very badly, urgently in the time it takes for you to make the decision, I need to make the call. And even though the call is answered quickly, explaining the situation. And waiting for that sound to come up your street that says He

It is almost here. And waiting for those individuals, those professionals, to walk through your door and place their equipment down. And the sigh that now awaits you. For what has felt like. An eternity or. Two lifetimes. And many of us have experienced that. So I will professionals are very vital to all of us, not only the seniors. If there's a. Child who swallowed something. And you can't get it out. It's critical that the emergency. Services be there. And if they have to come from across town as opposed to. Being close by the amount of time that it might take for them to actually for you to hear that sound. For them to come through your door, place their equipment. And actually. Start the work. This is what's before you tonight. Alternatives. Additional resources. We know that the budgets are tight, but we need to find a way. We need to find a way of being able to address emergency services. For all of our citizens. Be they the senior citizens or the. Young children. Or anyone who has come into our city for whatever reason, they the events that go on here. We need to have emergency services. And so with that in mind, I'd just like to say thank you for. Listening to us tonight. Thank you for your most urgent considerations. For the needs of this city. And go uptown. Go. Top of the hill and go. Long Beach. Thank you. Thank you. I love that everyone says go Long Beach now. All right. Thanks, Speaker. Good evening, Mayor. City Council. My name is Calvin Mack Guidry, and I am a resident of the ninth district. I've come to the council tonight to voice my support for comprehensive services, to make sure that we're being served adequately based upon the needs. I have a senior in my home. That I. Would like to make. Sure that coverages is and response time is really, really short. But recently I've had a chance to see our response happened when my mother was having a situation. And the the amount of services that showed up was, was really good. This was in the Los Angeles area. And the amount. Of. Service. People that showed up. It really was a great thing to see them to come in and handle the situation where they had to secure a good work space, which get her out of her bedroom and into the living room where they were able to work and do their job. I'd like to see that for Long Beach. I'd like to see that for our area. And. Make everything a little bit better for the north, north and Long Beach. Thank you to Councilman Richardson, Austin, your anger and super now for bringing this motion to the forefront. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor. Council members. My name's you've been my partner and I are homeowners in North District. And as most of you know, the ninth district is one of the most populated district in the city. So any services taken away will put a strain on the rest of the city. And as we've heard, they're expecting this winter to be the worst winter in history. And we've seen in the news repo

its. How. You make that phone call and there is no services available. So. We don't want to be caught unprepared. So I'm asking that you save our services. Thank you. Go. Long Beach. All right. I know we're going to get to go along with Jerry. You start with a goal on which. Thank you, mayor council Joel Davis, vice president at Long Beach Firefighters Association. Thank you to the residents of the ninth district for showing up this evening in support. I'd like to start by saying we do have a very strong EMS foundation in place today. It can be improved, however. One thing that resonated to me that Councilman Richardson said, as well as our our fire chief. We have a black hole in our system. The ninth rescue would definitely feel that it's a good start. It's not the end of what we need. But I think today to fill that hole, to fill the the paramedic response times, to provide the services to these residents that have showed up tonight is something that we need to focus on and it's something that we need to do. Thank you. Thank you very much. Thank you all. I know we're going to go to a to a vote. Just just briefly. First, I want to thank all the rises for coming out. I think it's great that you you came out, you're advocating for something that's important to the community and you're here all night with a very long agenda. I think it shows a lot about your commitment to your neighborhood and to the city of Long Beach. And so thank you all for coming out. And I also want to thank I know that Councilman Richardson does a very good job of organizing the community and getting people out to turn out for stuff. And so I want to thank him for I mean, he's obviously looking I know he's looking out for you guys. One thing I do want to say that I believe and believe this is true, I think everyone on this council wants to improve and have a more comprehensive fire and paramedic service. There's no question about it. And so it's it's a very complex issue. But we're going to look at it. We continue to look at it. And we know there's a big need and we know that there is. We'd love to make really you know, we'd love to make additional investments, obviously, in the system. And we're going to look at that and continue to look at that. And so thank you all for coming tonight and advocating for that. There's a motion on the floor and a second. Please cast your votes on the item. And it will be back in 60 days for a report for more data information on this. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you. Now on to item 25. Council. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Report from Public Works. Financial Management Recommendation to award a contract to school contractors for the improvements of 10th Street for a total contract amount not to exceed $1 million district for. Right think there's emotion and a second countenance you provide. You want to get in comments or. Just one that I believe 10th Street was paved a couple of years ago. And so this. Is a continuation o f that project moving. West. Can someone, is that correct? Yes. I thought. I thought you saw me shaking my head, so. I'm sorry. No, it's late. Yes, it's continuation of our projects. On 10th Street. Councilman. Is that. Okay? That's fine. Thank you. Okay, great. And much needed. So this is actually these are these are great improvements here. Any public comment saying none. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. And I'll let all of you exit before we hear out of 29. Wait. It's been. Thank you. It's here in. But I just. He is very. Yeah. I hear the thing. I'm just saying I love this. You know what? You're expecting to have to be the candy. Yeah, I'm looking for some variety. You know. I think, you know. I just feel that. There's nothing you can. Do. Oh, God, that scared me. Oh. Okay, good. I don't know. What would you feel like? You wouldn't be. Open about. 80% of that. Oh, my God. Okay. We're back. If I can have everyone. Just. We're going to go and keep continue on to the next item and see if I can have our clerk. Please read. Item number 29. Report from Harbor Recommendation to adopt resolution approving the proposed fiscal year 2016 Harbor Department Salary Resolution. Thank you. I'm going to turn this over. Mr. West is there. Presentation for the Harvard. I'm. No, there's not. I don't. Believe. Okay, well, I know that they're here, but I don't. I know we didn't plan a presentation. I wasn't sure if there was going to be one, but. Can I get a motion in a second on this? Okay, there's a motion, and it's like any public comment on this resolution. Seeing none. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Okay, great. That was easy. Thank you, John. Good to see you guys. Moving on to back to the agenda here. So we have are we going to continue back on the hearing? So we have hearing item number two. Motion carries. Next item. Which I believe is 1514 was withdrawn. That's correct. Report from Public Works Financial Management Recommendation to Award and contract to school contractors for the improvements of Studebaker Road between Spring Street and Wardlow Road. For a total contract amount not to exceed $1.4 million. District five. Give us a motion in a second and a public comment. Seeing on Councilwoman Mango. We are really excited to share that this rehabilitation work will consist of removing and replacing the damaged concrete curbs, gutters, driveway aprons, alley entrances and sidewalks. We're going to trim and do root shaving on our trees and reconstruct the area in the Studebaker street to be a first class street with very innovative, cold in place recycling methodology that should this come to be as exciting as we anticipate it will be, and if the process goes as easily as we hope, then we will be able to use this across the city to be able to pave more streets more effectively and less expensively. So we are really excited about this great opportunity to be the pilot project in the fifth District on a street that really needs a rehabilitati on. So thank you to the Public Works Department for all of their work on this. It has been a exciting process to learn about and thank you to the city staff for their innovation. I hope that this turns out as great as we anticipate and that all the major corridors of our city can get a revamp with cold in place recycling. Thank you. Please cast your vote. Councilman Andrews. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Item 16. Report from Development. Services. Financial Management Recommendation to award eight contracts for as needed graphic design and creative services in an annual aggregate amount not to exceed $795,000 citywide. Is there a staff report? This is simply adding a contract authority for as needed graphic design services. There's not a budgeting enhancement requested, just a contract with eight firms, five of which are Long Beach businesses. There's been a motion in a second. Councilman Price. Thank you. I do have a question. What is the availability of this service to council offices like? If we wanted to make use of graphic artists to help make fliers for our community events and things like that. Is this an option that we would have to utilize? So we got that question earlier this week, and that's something that we're willing to explore. That's something we haven't done yet. But this is essentially contract authority, the ability to enter into contract. The city enters into contracts and apartments draw down. We'd be happy to explore that if the council office wants to use their budget to be able to use this prequalified list. So we'll do some follow up on that and provide a response. Great. Thank you. Councilman Gonzalez. This is great. I too would have that same question as well because it would be good. I mean, as we constantly do outreach, it would be great to see if we could draw from these individuals. And I want to congratulate Deborah up there. I work with her regularly at Microsoft. And so I'm so glad to see you here. And I see Allen up there, too. So congratulations for being a part of that. I look forward to it. Councilmember Richardson. Just want to chime in, given the discussion and say that these are great companies here and we've worked with the CAP Agency. If you visit W WW dot, imagine how incom you'll see all the graphic works fantastic associated with the Highland Park Community Center redesign. So it's fantastic to have this on on file and I encourage everyone to take advantage of it. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this? Item. Item? CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries. Item 17 Report from Economic and Property Development Recommendation to Award a contract for conducting a parking study in Belmont. Shaw to Nelson. Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine recommendation to execute the First Amendment to Commercial License Agreement with Leigh Austen staff to add a Saturday farmer's market at Bixby Park District to thank you. And Vice Mayor, did you have any comments on this? I just wanted to celebrate that this is taking place and very happy that Lee was able to do this for us and continue that. So it's a great farmer's market. Thank you. With that. Any public comment on the item? Please come forward. Very good. Nothing spells the failure of a city than the presence of a farmer's market. Well, period. Yeah, it wasn't. It was about two weeks ago as they were taking the bus down the shore in city hall. There was a couple on it, I don't know where they were from and so forth, but they were passing Bixby Park and said this this place really looks like Oakland, period. In all the years I've been to and all the times I've been to Beverly Hills for some reason, I've never seen a farmer's market or a flea market. And I haven't seen one around Fashion Island or any of the residents neighborhoods around there. It's it's an indictment of the city. It says Third World on the way down to fourth world, period. If you can't attract. Supermarkets sufficient to sell. The type of food that is sold there. And I I've not had not been to this one, but if it's like the classic flea market that's down in the Marine Stadium, you'll walk through that and you can set. Very few are. The real farmers markets out in the country side have generators going to cook something. 90% of the food down there and I would imagine is probably the case up here. Does not meet the true standard of our farmers market period. And I think at some point the city has to step up to the plate and recognize the damage it does. Period. Go to Beverly Hills. See if you can find one's. Go to fashion oil and see if you can find one. That should be a standard, not Guatemala. All right. Are not Alvarado and Alvarado and Wilshire Boulevard. Thank you. Okay. There's a in a second. Uh. I'm speechless. Okay, let's go and cast any of the public comment saying that. Let's cast your vote. Councilman Mongo. Motion carries. Next time, please. Item 17 Report from Public Works. Recommendation to request the City Attorney to prepare an amendment to the Long Beach Municipal Code relating to speed limits on city streets, as recommended by the city traffic engineer District six and nine. Thank you, sir. A staff report. Public Works Director. AAM Alan Honorable Vice Chairman council members. I have a 40 minute PowerPoint presentation, but I would not do that sorry. The item before you was released for the city attorney to prepare an amendment to the Long Beach Municipal Code sections 10.2 12.010 and ten point 12.0 20 relating to the 35 mile per hour speed limit on Obispo Avenue and 30 mile per hour speed limit on Pine Avenue based upon the results of citywide engineering and traffic survey. Two street segments warrant a five mile per hour decrease of their existing speed limits. First location is the segment of Obispo Avenue between Harding Street and South Street, which warrants a five mile per hour decrease from its current posted speed limit of 35 miles to 30 miles per hour. And the second location, a segment of Pine Avenue between Willow Street and Pacific Coast Highway, which also warrants a five mile per hour decrease from its current posted speed limit of 30 miles to 25 miles per hour. That concludes my report. If you have any questions, I'll be glad to answer them. Thank you, Mr. Malloy and Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I'm pleased with the results of this study. It's going to lower the speed with all of this by avenue between Harding and South Obispo runs along to to residential neighborhoods known as the Saint Francis neighborhood in the Ramona Park neighborhood. It's been really important to them to improve that street. So they've had stop signs installed and now they're limiting. We're dropping the speed. So anytime we can increase safety in the community is a good thing and it's a win. So thank you to our public works department because this is a step in the right direction. Thank you. Councilman. Thank you. Any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on item 17 see none. Members cast your vote. Motion carries. Item 18. Report from Financial Management Recommendation to adopt resolution to execute a contract with Los Angeles, Freightliner for the purchase of three refuse collection trucks in an amount not to exceed $1 million citywide. There was a motion and a second. Is there any public comment? Mr. Andrews. No, I wouldn't be here. Good evening. My name is Richard Suarez. I represent the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. Just a quick, quick observation on this item of. Purchasing new equipment for. The Refuse Department, as I've said to this council and many times, I'm concerned. I'm concerned over the safety of the men and women who toil here day in and day out. I brought to your attention just a few months ago an incident where one of our members was pricked by a needle and received very, very little support. I'd like to just bring to your attention that we have fought with management in this particular department to supply safety gloves. Safety gloves. And they're still not there. Safety goes. And they're still not there. And I would just ask any of you. If your husband or your wife or your child or your brother or your sister, if you worked under these conditions. And the want is just to have rubber gloves so that when you pick up garbage and when syringes go through those plastic bags, you don't get pricked. I'm fighting this fight today. This morning we received an email from Mr. West, Vicar, who's the public works department at this particular facility. And in answer to a letter that we had written to the director of public work, Mr. Malloy. And this is what Mr. Vicar wrote. The city does not have a job hazard analysis for refuse operators. The Department of Public Works Safety Officer Manny Jaramillo will be conducting a job hazard analysis and anticipates the process taking approximately four months. We've been picking up garbage in this city for 70 years. The re is no known. There is an unknown hazard for our members. No one knows what the hazards are. We will see that this morning. I beg you to please not ignore me, not ignore the men and women here every day that face these hazards. I don't understand. I really don't understand. We can disagree on a lot of things. But don't ignore safety. Rubber gloves, folks. It's shameful. I need your help. I'm asking for your help. Thank you. Thank you. Let me go to Mr. West. I just want to make sure that you get the council back to response on the on this rubber glove issue. Certainly. Okay. I've heard it twice. And I want to make sure that we're the cities is responding. And I just want to make sure that we're before us. Is the resolution to authorize to execute the the purchase of the collect or the refugee collection trucks? Is that right? Of the of the the contract with with the truck center. This item is about buying of new refugees and new trucks. Right. Okay. So let me go to Councilman Austin, who was up first. If it sounds. Like this is a good item, new weapons refuse trucks trucks that are going to be cleaner burning energy using CNG fuel. I support the item and ask that you do the same. I mean, I'll just just speak to the Speaker's point. If there are some issues with personal protective equipment for our city employees, we need to make sure that we're providing the best for them to do the work. Thank you, Councilman Richardson. These trucks get a lot of wear and tear. So stand in support of the motion and let's get these guys some gloves. Thank you. Councilman Andrews. Yes, you know. Thank you, Vice Mayor. You know, I understand the need for trash trucks, you know. However, I am truly concerned about the employee's safety. You know, especially when it comes to the basic needs, like gloves. You know, we by making the dollars with the trucks and we can't get rubber gloves to these individuals for their own safety. And I would like to ask for a request of a memo from the city manager and what kind, you know, is currently being done to address the basic safety needs and how we can improve so that employees can meet this form of safety. Because this is something I think that everyone should take time to look at because these are the individuals on the front line and they definitely need some form of safety. So I don't think we can put trucks over safety when it comes to our employees who are out there on the fields doing the work. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman. You're Ringa. Thank you, Mayor. Just one question. First of all, I want to thank staff for working on this. I know that we have one of the most green fleet fleets in the region in regards to what we're doing with our vehicles. However, what I am concerned about in terms of these refugees trucks is that we have parts of the city who are much more impacted by truck and car pollution. Is there a deployment plan for these trucks in regards to where they're going to be serviced or what parts of the ci ty they're going to be deployed to? Dan Berlin will handle that item. Yes, Councilman. These three trucks are essentially used throughout the city. They're three of a kind. They lift the large dumpsters through the front over the front of the truck. So they are. Not deployed in any particular part of the city. They're used throughout. Well, I would you know, my West Miami community is highly impacted by pollution. So and I'd like to see some new trucks in that area that you. Councilman, I want to point out also that all of our trash trucks are green. So they're they're all CNG. LNG. Most of the trucks right now, the majority of the fleet is LNG powered. Which is slightly not. As clean as the CNG. And that's with the exception of 14 diesel powered trucks that are held in reserve and are due for replacement in FY17. Thank you. Any other councilmember councilmembers have any comments? We did public comment already. Please go ahead. Castro votes. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item. Report from Financial Management Recommendation to adopt resolution to execute a contract with Office Depot for office supplies for a total annual amount not to exceed 1.3 million citywide. Report from Economic and Property Development recommendation to accept funds totaling 3.9 million funded by the Community Economic Adjustment assistance for reductions in defense industry employment and execute a contract with blue drop performance learning in the amount of 2.5 million to develop web based platform materials citywide. Thank you. Councilman, actually, let me turn this over for our staff report. We have a quick report from. Nick Schulz, executive director of the Workforce Investment Board. Good evening, Honorable Mayor Garcia, members of council. The item before you is the acceptance of an award from the Department of Defense Office of Economic Assistance under the Defense Industry Adjustment Program and is related to the impending closure of the Boeing facility in Long Beach due to elimination in the C-17 weapons system. Air support for communities, in fact impacted by factory closures and laid off employees focuses on developing adjustment and implementation strategies. Our local adjustment strategies focus on regional job creation through business development and expansion, workforce development and community economic diversification. Pacific Gateway aggressively pursued this program because we understood the uniqueness of the defense industry can create obstacles for communities affected by defense downsizing because firms and workers develop specialized skills and competencies designed to serve designed to serve government and military customers. They are challenged when trying to enter new markets and new sectors. Second, we know we must plan for the long haul and assume that we will not immediately be able to replace all the lost defense jobs. Replacing those jobs or adding new jobs in the communities is a long term proposition, and it is unlikely that a sing le new employer will ever absorb the entire impact. Instead, we are focused on developing strategies that support multiple economic drivers to replace lost defense jobs. When faced with downsizing, large defense contractors opt to remain focused on defense and government business, while in contrast, many smaller firms in the supply chain have interest in pursuing new markets or diversification opportunities. We want to help local firms assess their competitive assets and challenges and design appropriate strategies for new business development by focusing on strong partnerships and a commitment to change as critical success factors. We believe we can ensure a successful community transition occurs. Thank you and I'd be happy to answer any questions. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item seen on Councilman Richardson? Just want to take a moment and again, say congratulations. This is yet a second week of of great work represented on our agenda from our workforce organization. And I look forward to seeing the cumulative totals when we review our federal legislation by the numbers, because I have a I have a I'm going to guess that we're we're we're we're going to be well ahead of where we were last year in terms of our performance and in receiving federal support. So congratulations and great work. Councilman. Mango. I'm sorry. My apologies. Councilman Austin. Thank you. And I'd also just like to say congratulations. I think this is this is good news, as good as it can get with considering that we are we're dealing with a plant closure. I can remember when the career transition center was developed originally to deal with major reductions in force with the job losses associated with the McDonnell Douglas and Boeing back in the nineties. And this is this is bittersweet. So I think this is good. I'm a little kind of curious because I know that most of the workforce that that has will be leaving or that has left the the plant there. Many of those are 20 plus year employees and curious what type of retraining they will have as through through this service. Do you have any specifics on that? Mr.. So actually, this is very different than anything we've brought forward to you before. This actually doesn't fund retraining specifically as Department of Labor will pay for that training. And we do have a national emergency grant to fund specific skill development for laid off Boeing workers in the pipeline. What the OJ grant does is actually allow us to build infrastructure that extends our reach out. So professional employees, those folks are sometimes hesitant to walk into a center like we operate, or those folks who actually have the skills to navigate the career pathway and access specific services on their own. This platform will actually extend our whole suite of services, as well as take the training courses offered by our partner providers, the ones that they can afford through online access. This will actually make those trainings a available to folks without ever having to walk into our center or into a classroom. Thank you, Mr. Schulz. And I'm not sure if you mentioned how we identified this fund or these funds. So actually, the Office of Economic Adjustment had actually worked with Long Beach as a community before when the Navy was in town. It is not a competitive solicitation like many of the things we move forward. It's specifically for a community that loses a prime defense contractor similar to the BRAC process you would see when a base would close. Thank you so much. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. I want to thank our team again for doing such a great job on this. Many of my colleagues joined me last night at the grand opening of Mercedes in the old MD. Facility. And as we transition the supply chain of the region, it is great for our city to be a leader in this, and it would not be possible without the great work. Thank you to the city manager and the Workforce Development Team. Nick, you have been a beacon of light for this city since you've started. We just cannot say enough about the great work that you've done and the number of new jobs that are going to be in the pipeline. So look for another council agenda item coming soon that will help our Long Beach residents get these these best and brightest jobs. We were already out there meeting. I met with a couple of VP of the companies within the last week, and I can't wait to bring that on board. And I know that with Nick's help, it'll be a successful project. So thank you all. Thank you, Councilman Ringo. Thank you very much. I also want to give kudos to staff for bringing this forward. I do have a couple of questions in regards to the length of this funding. Is it a one year, two year project one? How long it's going to go. Current amount you will be approving runs through September of 2016. Based on the progress in the deliverables of the plan, we have the opportunity to continue to find relevant, relevant projects through. And what would some of those delivery deliverables include, such as. Deliverables are in three categories. First categories economic development and planning that include that includes a data collection and analysis of existing industries. It includes and industry cluster mapping as well as public engagement around the economic drivers and growth opportunities for the Long Beach community. The second part of the grant revolves around land use and infrastructure planning. This is with regard to long time, long term use or transition of the facility. So there's a financial feasibility analysis involved with that land use and infrastructure planning as well as a C-17 transitional master plan. And that would be developed based on opportunities that that are shown to have promise out of the economic analysis that's conducted. And then the third piece of the plan that we've talked about in Councilmember Austin's questions is the assistance to impacted defense firms and workers. And that's there

's. The C-17 defense and dislocated worker platform, as well as direct assistance to C-17 supply chain firms. Yeah, that that third component was one that has most interest for me in the sense that do we have some kind of background on these employees as to a level of experience, education, ability to transition to other jobs in the in the not only in that in their own industry, but transition to jobs locally within within their own labor market here. And also perhaps even and we will have many opportunities within the city of Long Beach with perhaps some positions within the city itself. So fortunately, Boeing's complied with all their notice requirements under the WARN Act. We do have both positioned and positioned in number in each position and job descriptions related to almost 1600 folks impacted by the final closure. We're able to do some talent mapping with that. Look at the knowledge, skills and abilities of those folks coming out of the coming out of the Boeing closure and then map that over to existing opportunities in the labor force. And if there is not a consistent or highly predictive match for them to gain reemployment quickly to take a look at training opportunities that we have available locally that would help to close the skill gap and get them reemployed. Finally, in regards to the last part you spoke about, in terms of the mapping, the opportunities for retooling, retraining obviously is important. Are they going to be connected somehow with our OPI programs or lobby City College should they want to continue their education or enhance whatever it is they have? Again, there's we can have more of that discussion when we bring forward the specific request for for to accept the training dollars related to the laid off worker. Again, those will be federal workforce investment dollars that assist in that regard. So we are. Mandated to use what they call the employment training provider list. It's a state sourced list. You have to pass the standards set by the Bureau of Post Post-Secondary and Private Education, and you have to meet performance to continue to be on that list. Local rope programs, local Long Beach City College programs, CSU ALB PA programs, as well as private proprietary programs appear on that list. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? Very good, Kirk, as he addressed this is an interesting fund. I've never I never have gotten inside of it. But I'm wondering, in all seriousness, whether or not. This fund or a fund like it from the federal government might be used. To take the aircraft facilities. And. Make that, as I suggested a couple times before of it using. That our new City Hall complex period. We could put nine floors there especially. Certainly that building is more than ample to handle on one floor. What we have here are nine floors. And other city offices. Let's examine the possibility. See whether or not those funds exist. The case could be made that this is also as a result of employment.

Industry is city wide in the in due to the reduction of military service and so forth or of military equipment or demand, therefore . So let's take a look at that if that money is there. One other quick, very quick footnote on the Queen Mary. Since you are the Stewarts, please never again refer to the funnels as smokestacks. Larry, that's a wrong a wrong item. So thank you very much. Members, please go ahead and cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Report from Financial Management Recommendation to execute a contract with the Mobile Source Air Pollution Reduction Review Committee to receive and expand local government match program funds in the amount not to exceed 1.4 million citywide. Report from Financial Management Recommendation to adopt resolution to execute a contract with Office Depot for office supplies for a total annual amount not to exceed 1.3 million citywide. Is there any public comment on this item? Please come forward. Pleasure. Yes, Larry, good to you. Clark has the address. Let me suggest we amend this to reflect the comments relative to the last one from council members saying that we get gloves. Let's find out if these people also have those gloves. And if you have any doubt of the need for that, they should go home today. Look at what the wind has blown down on your sidewalk and try picking up some of those forms. They'll cut right to the. Slashdot. You'll have your fingers open. So you can amend this motion here to find out if these people will sell those gloves. You don't have to convene the Council of Trent to get it done. It's a pretty simple factor. And my sense is they may. They may even have those. Call them up and find out. Thank you. Neither public comment. CNN. Please cast your votes. Councilman Odinga. Motion carries. 20. Report from Financial Management Recommendation to adopt resolution to execute a contract with Office Depot for custodial supplies for a total amount. Annual amount not to exceed 1.8 million citywide. Report from Development Services Recommendation to adopt the West Long Beach Livability Implementation Plan Districts one, two, six, seven and eight. Okay, thank you. We're going to turn this over to staff. I know they've got a good presentation ahead of us of a lot of information. And so. Mr. West. Mayor Councilmember, I'm going to turn this over to the deputy director for Development Services, Angela Reynolds. And we also have local architect Melanie Smith to assist Angela. Thank you, Mr. City Manager. Good evening, Mayor. And City Council Members. Before you tonight is the Livable West Long Beach Plan. This planning effort was funded by the Port of Long Beach. And while the port is a tremendous economic engine for the city and the county and the country, there have been many environmental impacts to the community in and around the city's port. The study focuses on Port Area one A, which includes West Long Beach, Willmore City, downtown and the Wrigley neighborhood. The li vability plan was formulated by identifying projects that had already been published and working with community stakeholders to prioritize these projects and initiatives. All of the projects in some way improve livability in these neighborhoods. Some aimed at improving air quality. Some reducing noise impacts from nearby heavy industry. Constructing and connecting bike paths with walking paths throughout the city. And continuing to provide community health initiatives. So I'm going to introduce Melanie Smith from Melendez. She's the principal there, and she's going to give a slide show that will more fully talk about this plan and then will be available for questions in you. Luck of council for having us here tonight to hear about this plan. We've been over a year in the making to to prepare this this plan. And just to start by saying that the direction that was given by the by the funders and by the city was that we were really not being asked to to take a clean slate approach to say, you know, be your most creative self and think about, you know, how we could improve livability on the west side of Long Beach. That might be interesting. But what we were asked to do was take a look at already adopted city plans and programs and take take a look at their goals and take a look at programs and projects that were had been identified in those plans that had not yet been implemented and start to compile those. And we were also well aware that the Port of Long Beach is green port policy in the San Pedro Bay Ports Clean Air Action Plan are certainly on the books enacted and that those will continue to be implemented within the ports boundaries and improvements will be seen there. And so we sort of set those to the side recognizing that those those elements are underway and we're not building those into this plan. But we were asked to take a look at the city of Long Beach has recently adopted a new mobility element. To go back to a plan that I worked on a number of years ago, the community livability plan for the 710 corridor neighborhoods. Take a look at the Long Beach River Link projects, the yards west side plan. A portion of that plan is the Terminal Island Freeway Repurposing and decommissioning project. We'll talk about that a little bit more. The city of Long Beach, open space and recreation and housing elements, and also its recently adopted healthy communities policy. So this process has been multi-pronged and has involved a great deal of community engagement at a bunch of different levels. This really sort of barely scratches the surface. This summary of the community engagement process we had for this project for the Livable West Long Beach Plan, we had two major convenings workshops, the first one at the start of the project last December and then a second one earlier this year. And in addition to large convenings of the community, we held all of our meetings at Silverado Park on the West Side. We also took a availed ourselves of a number of other groups and organizations in the community that already meet to do drop in meetings and presentations. A little hard to read on the screen, but a large number of meetings there and and with folks across the spectrum really of stakeholders in the area. And we've also presented the plan at the Planning Commission and at the Board of Harbor Commissioners. And so that brings us here tonight. When we started the process again, we were taking a look at it already adopted plans that that had already had really a large amount of community engagement around them in order to have them been adopted. And we took took a look at the goals of those plans. And from there, we we identified livability criteria that we brought to the community. And we asked the community to prioritize these criteria relating to what might improve in their minds, some of the most pressing livability concerns on the west side of Long Beach. And of course, no surprise, clean air and water was at the top. Availability and access to jobs, goods and services. Number two, safe neighborhoods, beautiful neighborhoods and great schools were really the top five criteria. And while we were identifying criteria and asking the community to rank that criteria, we were also developing a list of projects and programs that again had been part of previously adopted city plans. And those project, that project list really fell into a number of different categories. As you can see on the screen, a number of streetscape projects, bike and pedestrian improvements, and a category that we call the Focus on community. And that was, you know, urban greening community, neighborhood watch, things like that, safety and security having to do with safe routes to school and things of that nature, park improvements, major roadway projects. And you might say, why are roadway projects part of improving the livability of the West Side? The 710 Terminus Realignment Project really will create a great deal of new open space and better connect the community and bike and pedestrian community connections in that part of town transit improvements, health, education and activities and health services. So these were all the categories of projects in the projects are listed below. Those that we identified took to the community and again asked the community to give us feedback on that. So, you know, this is the process we underwent as a as I've been talking about. The next step was really to package projects. We but but first we were really ranking them. And I just wanted to give you a snapshot of what that ranking process look like the city really asked us to to create a tool that would then be available to the city after this project had been concluded. And that would give us a measurable way to take a look at these projects and measure their livability. So in order to rank a project such as the Santa Fe Avenue streetscape project that had been identified, we had to figure out some metrics and some data that we could me asure this project against and figure out how it would. To what degree it might positively impact livability on the West Side. So we could look at how much population would be served by the project. So 20 over 27,000 people would be served by this project. And we could take a look at its proximity to parks and schools and see that seven schools and three parks would be served by this street and that that Santa Fe Avenue streetscape project is going to serve ten and link ten transit routes and actually 103 bus stops. Not linkages directly to LRT in this case, but 103 bus stops is nothing to sneeze at. And so we were able to then demonstrate how we could link, how we could rank these projects and leave the city with a tool that it can use really to refer back to as it takes a look at these projects. So as we went through the community process and took feedback, one of the comments that we got in our second workshop was that these projects were great and folks were very interested in seeing them implemented. And a lot of the things in this plan have been talked about in the city for, you know, a long time. And the recommendation was that we should think about or explain how do these projects add up to something? How do they add up to, you know, a larger network of improvements that would really see that they would really be visible within the communities? And so we ended up taking another look at the project list. We didn't change it, but we took a look at the list and developed what we ended up calling Livable Neighborhood Connection Strategies. And we identified three of those link strategy areas on the West Side, so that really the west west to the northwest and the southwest. And we identified packages of implementable projects and a network of projects that would really have synergy among each other. And I think, as you all know very well, a large part of what staff does today is seek grant funding to to implement these projects. And we know that what we see a lot in in criteria for grant funding is that we've got to show multiple benefits to projects and that they're really hitting a bunch of different criteria. And so we think that as packaging strategies in this way provides again another helpful tool for the city to use as it seeks to implement these projects. So the link one area incorporates a number of streetscape projects, again, biking, pedestrian improvements, transit improvements, park improvements and and major road projects, a variety of those. And these are the projects that we can really map and show folks where they are on a map link to. Again, we've identified this set, this grouping of projects that can be thought of to really add up to this strategy for this this area of the West Side. And then strategy three area similarly. But it was clear that not everything could be mapped in this way and that there are many important project projects and programs that really would feed into all of these link strategies and really be important to think about. And that the community ranked very highly as well, falling out of the health services, health, education and activities that focus on community, community gardening, urban forestry projects, and that safety and security security category, which was also important. So those have been included as well and are important. And then another comment that the community made as we were going through the process was that folks certainly are well aware that the port has been doing mitigation, grant funding in a number, a couple of different rounds and that those categories of projects that the port has been funding in response to projects that are done, the community has found valuable and wanted those categories of projects to be included in the plan as well. So things that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, that improve air quality and and and the physical environment at schools and related sites and health care and senior facilities were seen as very desirable for the community to. To include in the plan as well. So a lot of folks ask to have asked us. This is great, you know, that they've really supported this effort and this initiative to develop this project list, this ranked and community prioritized list, and and have this available as a tool to to the city and to the port moving forward. But they asked us, how is this going to be different? What's going to be different about this? What we did try to do is identify distinct and relevant funding sources that the city may pursue. And we tried to include ones that we knew the city wasn't already using. So more because the city is pretty good at this. But we tried to include things that could broaden the horizons a little bit and and give some good case studies of how other communities have used these tools. And then we also identified, actually, staff identified the approach that would be used for implementing the plan in the form of a city staff and port staff livable West Long Beach working group that would be formed and would host quarterly meetings to lead track and report progress using a tool again that we'd provide, taking a look at current project status, developing conceptual costs and budgets for projects where they don't exist, identifying funding sources. And then the Planning Commission recommended that there be an annual report to the commission to track progress over time. And that's just an example of the workshop that we're thinking about using as a tool. And that, I think, gives you an overview of the plan. Mr.. REYNOLDS Is that the conclusion of the staff report? Yes. Okay. Thank you. Thank you so much. We have a motion by council member your anger and second by Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilmember Your Honor, would you like to address the motion? Yeah, but I'd like to get some input first from members of the audience. Okay. At this point. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Okay. Okay. So if you would like to address the Council on item 12, please come forward.

State your name. Thank you. Good evening. Good evening. Mayor and council members. My name is Elizabeth Warren. I'm the executive. Director of an organization called Future Ports. And I have a letter that I sent to each of you today as. You have it in your. E-Mail. I also have hard copies if you'd like a hard copy for reference today. I'm very proud. Of this letter. I stand here as a representative of a coalition, of businesses and labor together that have been looking at this project. At one project within the program, and. That is the decommissioning of the Terminal Island Freeway. And we have a coalition made of five labor, five ILWU, locals to labor trade laborers and 11 businesses. We have 18 organizations that have put together a letter. I think this is sets a precedent that we've never had labor and business together on one letter. Sending a message that we have some very strong concerns about decommissioning. The Terminal Island Freeway. This would be the largest freeway removal project in Southern California history, according to the Press Telegram. And it's a critical truck route between the ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles in the local businesses. There's 11,000 vehicles that travel daily on this freeway. And then and if this project is comes to fruition and it's decommissioned, those trucks and vehicles are going to be. Rerouted onto surface. Streets. Alameda, Anaheim and Pacific Coast Highway. We are concerned. That some of the goals to reduce emissions and to and to have some other positive impacts are actually going to have a negative impact. And that is one of our our very strong concerns of this would not increase freight efficiency and competitiveness of the California freight system, and it would likely impose costs in the form of lost productivity and construction inconveniences for the local residents and businesses. We would like to make sure that you do have a copy of our letter. And our ask tonight is that we, although we do support moving forward with climate change initiatives that promote sustainability and have attainable goals, we want things that are based on sound science and that are economically feasible. So we urge you not to move forward with the removal of this part of this particular portion, the the the decommissioning of the Terminal Island Freeway this evening. And we'd like to. Suggest that there are further. Studies, full environmental impact review, traffic analysis and other studies before moving forward on this particular project. Okay. Thank you this morning. I will give the letters. To the hard copies. Good evening. Mayor and members of City Council. My name is Western Labor and I actually represent three of the organizations that signed on to the letter. I'm the executive director for both the Harbor Trucking Association and the Foreign Trade Association, as well as the policy director for the South Bay Association of Chambers of Commerce. And as we've looked at this, we look at several key thing

s. One, as it was alluded to by the previous speaker, we think there are studies that need to be done to look at the environmental impacts and traffic impacts that would be result of the closure of the TII freeway. We are trying desperately at the ports to reduce congestion and truck congestion continues to be a major issue that we're dealing with in the South Bay as a region. And we think we need to look at what are the alternative routes. When we've met with the outreach team, we've we've been open about the fact that if we can find alternatives that benefit both the community and our goods movement sector, that's something that we would really embrace and we could really get behind the project. But at this point in time, the decommissioning of the freeway becomes a major concern of our organizations because of that major component. I also want to add that this is kind of an important issue as it has brought together people that would not normally be together on an issue. To think that you have PMC and the ILWU signed onto the same letter is pretty remarkable, and it just shows how important this issue is to the entire port community. And as I've heard the mayor say multiple times, we are a port town and we embrace our port. It's something that we need to look at and see how it how it impacts the the future of our port and how we grow and how we can move more cargo and move more cargo efficiently. We have supply chain optimizations, meeting meetings going on on a regular basis that are bringing the stakeholders together and to to move forward with the decommissioning of the freeway without studying it, to make sure it's not going to be a major impact on on goods movement, to make sure that it's not going to be a negative impact on the regional environment is very important. And the one last thing I will say is that the TII freeway provides the only major overweight corridor between the Port of Long Beach and IETF. And to remove that, you're going to remove the ability for many businesses to be able to get overweight containers from the Port of Long Beach to the active facility as it's currently constructed. And so we need to look at ways to overcome those sort of barriers that will allow us to continue to move America's cargo. And with that, I'll probably reach out to many of you on this issue over the coming weeks, but I'll let the next speaker talk. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor Garcia. Council members, my name is Dan Hoffman and the executive director for the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. And so your neighbor and I hope your friend. I did want to before I say another word, I want to thank some of your staff who I've reached out to, Angela Reynolds, who is nice enough to call me back on the phone a couple well, actually last month and then a part of your team made a presentation to our board of directors just last week. They were professional. They were courteous. They were kind enough to answer as many of our questions as they could. Having said that, unfortunately, our Chamber of Commerce, you know, has joined this coalition, are opposed particularly to the tie, the Terminal Island Freeway elimination and for I think, a couple of really valid reasons. The first has been I think the purpose of this whole plan is to make our environment better. And I think that's something we all need to strive to do. It's good for our employees. It's good for our community. We all want to be a little healthier and live a little longer. However, as we look at this project, it appears that what it's going to do is move a lot of this truck traffic from Long Beach area to the Wilmington area and therefore making a community that's impacted a little bit better, but negatively impacting a community that's even more impacted. I don't think that that was the intent of this, but I think if you actually take a look at it, that that that's what it does. Additionally, we're talking about an estimated most recent figures, 6600 trucks that will be diverted down Pacific Coast Highway to the Alameda Corridor. And so another one of our concerns is the businesses that are directly there. So we're talking about Tesoro, about fast lane transportation, about California Sulfur, about Cal Cartage, and potentially looking at the impact that this project will have. So, again, I thank you for your time and and for your consideration and most of all, for your attention. Something that I've noticed here that I don't see a lot of and a lot of different meetings. I try to see how people are engaged. And for the most part, I think your community can be very proud of you, that you're very engaged and listen to the folks. So thank you again. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor Garcia. Members of the city council and city staff. My name is Joan Greenwood. I reside at 2091 San Francisco Avenue in the Wrigley District of Long Beach. I'm here today to say congratulate all of you on this wonderful plan and also to tell you. But your work is not done yet. And just as they said that this plan took into consideration existing plans. I noticed that a very important community within the one eight zone seems to have been left out of it because we weren't truly aware that we could have impacted more projects in Wrigley by participating in these workshops. So the reason I say this is there's a couple of points I'd like to make that I'm going to focus on this evening. First of all, Tidelands funding, and I've given you a memo with a couple of topographic maps and they show that historically Wrigley between where currently there's PCH and Willow Street, west of Pacific Avenue, was wetlands. It is still under tidal influence. And from PCA, Willow Street South is considered by the Regional Water Quality Control Board to be an estuary that is tidelands. So I think the city staff needs to look into this a little more depth because they have far better graphics capabilities than I do. The second thing I wanted to address was the use of enviro screen as a ranking tool. It doesn't matter when it comes to your health and where you live. If you are in a1a zone for air quality health risks, it doesn't matter what age you are, what ethnicity, it's being a sensitive receptor. And so it skews a little bit of the ranking of the projects. And I got this by looking at a precinct up in Bakersfield that had a very high end virus screening. And I couldn't figure out why until I found out they were next to a food processing plant that had an above ground storage tank of liquid chlorine. So you have to be very careful with virus screening. But I do think it's wrong to look at this one zone and say any one part of it is at greater risk than another. We're all at equal risk. And to a certain extent, Wrigley is a greater risk because we are downwind of both the Freeway and Wrigley Heights from other areas. The other thing is the Streetscapes River Link referenced the 2007 plan, the original River Link project in 2003. Specifically address linking the neighborhoods within the Wrigley District to the L.A. River Trail. And that has been completely left out of this project. And part of it is because of the potential impacts of the I-70 ten freeway and their diverging diamonds, and we're waiting to see the geometric on that. So that may be part of the reason, but there was a project that Metro had along Willow Street for improvements, and it's gone away. And the last is the trails were taking too much of a piecemeal in Wrigley. And I think we need to continue on in this program. Thank you. Thank you, John. Next speaker, please. Good evening. I'm kind of sick right now, so I'm going to let her speak for me. But she knows exactly what she's going to say. My name is Jessica Alvarez. I'm with Long Beach. I'm. I'm speaking about. Thank you, Mayor and Councilor, for letting me speak. I am a long time resident. Here we go. Thank you, Mayor and Councilor, for letting me speak. I am a long time resident of Solana Beach, so I went around and as residents about tai chi with commercial conversation and and some residents were for it. Some were against it. I think most are an indicator about on it or not. Or not educated on it. I think if we came to an agreement, we as a city could benefit from it. Every possibility came up with a comment committee or more community involvement. A lot of great ideas were we could all benefit from and for our generation to come. Oh, and part of me. I think it's a great idea. Your name. Oh. My name is. Carla. Sorry. Um, I believe in the website. I think it's a great idea, because when. Kids come out of school. The smell. It's the pollution from the drugs and. Where we try to catch busses. There's a lot of traffic. And it's contaminating a lot of people. And especially we're in school. That's all we smell. And then kids with asthma, they end up in the hospital because of. The pollution and. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you very much. Exc ellent. Okay, next beaker, please. I think these are. Last speaker here. Right. Okay. Yes. Good. Thank you. Honorable Mayor and City Council. My name is Brian Olszewski. I'm the executive director of City Fabric. We're a. Nonprofit design studio dedicated to improving our. Communities through public interest design, planning and. Policy. It's great to see the Westside Livability. Implementation Plan coming before the Council today. It is the culmination. Of multiple community workshops, over 20 stakeholder meetings and interviews. The plan was built on a foundation of nearly a dozen previous community plans, including general plan updates, redevelopment, strategic plans, specific plans and even community initiatives. These plans were formed by over 100 workshops, neighborhood meetings, commission hearings, public hearings, and city council sessions that together engage over a thousand residents and stakeholders at Long Beach. With all that said, there's still a long way to go. While the Westside Livability Plan maps out a strategic guide for improving health, wellness and vitality of West Long Beach, each community oriented project will require funding, design, engineering and further stakeholder engagement. Whether developing bike facilities, enhancing. Pedestrian connectivity. Creating new park space or mitigating pollution. The project, identified in the Westside Livability. Plan will go a long way to enhancing that quality of life for residents. Of West Long Beach and across the city because pollution doesn't stop at any arbitrary border. We look forward to being part of this process, this solution oriented process going forward. And thank you for continuing this effort to improve the Westside community. Thank you. Thank you very much. And with that, I'll turn it back over to the council and to Councilman Ranga. But I wanted to just a couple clarifying points, which I think are important, and I appreciate everyone that came down and spoke on this item. I just want to make sure that we note that the Westside Livability Plan that before us today, as was noted, does not decommission the freeway. I mean, that is a different process that will be debated. And I think there's a lot of important debate that needs to happen around that conversation. But what's in front of us today is a plan that was that's been funded by actually the port of Long Beach. The Port of Long Beach has been a partner in this plan from day one. And we wouldn't have this plan if it wasn't for the port and for their interest in coming to the city and going to the community and saying, we know that there are impacts. We know that oftentimes the dollars that we spend in the community aren't always spent in West Long Beach. And so we want to change that. And I think what you're seeing from the Port of Long Beach is two things is one is they've they're changing their policy on how they assign community dollars. So the focus is on the communities that are most impacted by the port.

That is a new policy. They're just in the process of implementing, which I know a lot of you have been involved in conversations. And the second big piece of that has been funding and supporting this plan that the Council has in front of it today. It's a recognition that the communities that have been most affected by the port need additional support to continue to need investment mitigation and and green space and clean air and the cleanest water possible. And so I think the community should be proud of this process and pushing this process. I've seen hundreds and hundreds of community members involved in this. And to obviously my friends in industry, there's no greater advocate for the Port of Long Beach than myself and then the council members that are on this on this body. And I think the discussion that was brought up on the freeway piece is an important discussion that we will we will have and have a chance to to converse. But but that is, you know, a few sentences in the plan that has before us today. What I want to focus on and just remind us that the big focus of this plan is on the additional park space and green space and building a healthy community and ensuring that young kids aren't constantly affected with the effects of asthma and air and pollutants that are in the air. And so that's to me, what this is about. And I want to make sure that the conversation really is focused on on that and that this council, if and when this council makes a decision about the freeway, which is a big decision, that will be a debate that will be before the council. And whether the council adopts this plan or not won't have a bearing on that specific project, which is one of dozens and dozens of projects that are in this plan. And so with that, I mentioned this over to Councilmember Turanga. Thank you, Mayor, because that was exactly one of the things that I wanted to point out and clarify is that this is a start of a conversation at the start of a discussion in regards to, well, the two freeway, but better yet, it's about a whole process of building a livable west with that community. If you look on page 17 of the report, you'll see the the neighborhoods line, which is is is one of. Or it's neighborhoods. We're talking about the neighborhoods of downtown. West Village. West. West side. South or west side. West side. Upper West Side. The Valley. Community loss, Fritos, Wrigley, as was mentioned. And one more. So the the impact that this study does is much broader than that. But maybe people are understanding it to be the discussion that the mayor has stated on the to freeway and whether it's decommissioned or not is another discussion will take place at another time. And the the community groups that came together to talk about and participate in the in the workshops for a livable livability study was precisely that to look at what impacts our truck trucks, the freeway, the river transportation health is having on those West Side communities. And

I think that they did that. I want to thank obviously, I want to thank our staff for putting this together. And tonight is a big step for the residents of West Long Beach and taking back the community and fighting for access to things most people take for granted, such as clean air, green space and basic multi-modal mobility and connectivity. I want to thank Amy Warwick and Reynolds and Eva Brown for their work in collaborating with our residents. I also want to thank Melanie Smith from Melendez as we get from West Communications for facilitating the workshops in regards to the two freeway itself. We understand that there is a lot to be done with that. We still need to look at Square, we still need to look at transportation studies, we need to look at environmental impact reports and and studies there. So that discussion is going to be coming soon to commit to the council. And it's also that that opportunity, I think that the goods movement, people and everyone else who's concerned about the to a freeway would that would be the opportunity to come down and share your thoughts and share your concerns that you think that project is going to have. Should it or should it not be decommissioned? So I asked that my council members, my colleagues on the council support this plan. It is much broader than just one aspect of it. It is, and it's much too important for us to not adopt it and accept it as something that we can look at for our residents to clean up the air, to provide better health benefits as we move forward with our goods movement and as we move forward to establishing Long Beach as the leader in the West Coast. So I ask for your vote. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. I first want to thank staff and all of the community partners for being involved with this, because it truly is a night that we can all celebrate. Because, you know, the west side, we've often talked, both Councilmember Muranga and myself, about the West Side and all of the different attributes of the West Side. And what needs to be done in this certainly is just one step, but there's a lot more to do here. And as I am the chair of the Alameda Corridor Transportation Authority and the I-70 Project Committee, I'm very understanding of the goods movement in the industry and exactly what it is that we need to do to continue being the number one port complex together, both in Long Beach and in Los Angeles. But I do feel that, you know, as I mentioned, this is a wonderful plan. We need to really emphasize all of the community work of our neighbors. I see our friend, longtime advocate Jessica on the west side. And you're I don't know if it's your daughter or your friend that came. One of your youth that came and spoke so eloquently. And it and we thank you for being here because I feel we really need to hear from the residents and how this impacts you every single day. And so I want to thank you for that. I just wanted to ask a few questions of staff before anything else. I know that outreach has been, you know, an issue for some people. I know we've done a lot of outreach with community. But what has. The outreach been like to the businesses directly affected specifically for the tie? Councilwoman Gonzales, you heard that we had to are actually three outreaches with communities in the broad community, but we also did a multitude of focus groups, lots of them with goods movement folks. And so I did bring those if you want me to listed, I can certainly do that. We met with Tesoro, Cal Cartage, Three Rivers, Noble, L.A. Grain. We also met with Watson Land Company. We went and did a presentation of future future ports, Vaseline and Three Rivers. The U. The CAC will be Tech Park and several other health type organizations. We also met with Portage Group. We met with Gateway COG, Caltrans, Metro, Skaggs and the like. We also met with Hudson and Cabrillo Harbor Trucking Association. We met with. Twice, once in a focus group and once at their meeting. We also met with West Coast Marine Terminal operators. That's WCM toA. I think you'll see all these people on the letter that you got. PMS say we met with Union Pacific Andy Perez several times. International Warehouse Logistics Association, the I, WFLA, and and I already said future ports. But I think we touched them twice. Okay. Thank you. And then I know this is coming back and there will be a process, so we'll still have to go through and are secure in a number of different processes in order to. Councilwoman, I think you're referring to the Thai decommissioning. And one thing that I did want to say is the West Long Beach plan. That is one project out of 58 projects and 27 programs policies. And I will also say that to the goods movement, folks, all the issues and concerns that you mentioned, we totally agree. And when we do come back with the the decommissioning of the Thai plan, you will see in the next steps all those things that were talked about, the ERs, the the truck routes, the traffic studies, all those things. I mean, there's a long road ahead on that and at this point. We're not asking council to push us forward on any particular plan for the Commission, and the Council would have to come back and actually do that in a separate action. Okay. Thank you. I just wanted to ask those couple questions. And again, I want to thank you for your work in this. It's a it's a huge deal for the west part of the city. I'm very, very happy to know that there were many community members, as I mentioned, that were involved in this process that we continue on. And then I know that there will be follow up meetings, is that correct as well internally, just to ensure that we're on in progress with with this plan? Yeah, that's councilwoman that's in Chapter five and that's our implementation plan. Development services will be the lead on that. However, there are lots of other interdepartmental is working with us, which is healthy public works, Parks Rec and Marine. Certainly the port, th at's our working group that we've had all the way through this process. So we'll continue to meet. Great. And what type of outreach will be done to allow the community to understand where we're at and the progress and every. Step of the way? Well, we're going to report back once a year to the planning commission. And, you know, many of these projects are going to have their own process that goes along with them. That's a public process as well. Great. Thank you very much. And congratulations to the community. Next we have Councilwoman Mango. I want to thank the staff in the port for their leadership in making sure that our communities are livable. I think that that's a huge component of being a responsible steward of the public trust and what we are responsible to do to the community. I appreciate the neighbors who came out to speak today and industry and business and labor who united for a letter. I think that the misinformation on what council items are about has been happening more often. But I appreciate that you came here to give your voice on the potential risks. And I think that hearing from the mayor that you can be assured that public comment and input and community outreach will be done before heading in that direction right now. I'm very supportive of the item as it stands and to work towards making the Long Beach more livable. Anything we can do to improve the sustainability and breathability along beaches is really important. So great work to everyone. Thank you. Thank you. Council Member Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I just got to say, this is amazing work. This is a tremendous legacy I see for the residents who engaged in this. For the leaders who took part in this. And for the staff who drove this. This is just fantastic work. So I've had a chance to, like, look at this and follow it. I think it's a great model, great model for subsequent plans, strategies that we can implement in other communities. One part that I thought was really cool was the link areas, part where you can look at separate elements the mobility, the open space, the public safety stuff, streetscape stuff, and look at how it's all organized into linked areas. I think that's amazing and we should look at doing that in other, other areas of town. So so I've always been supportive of the port doing being smarter about its mitigations. And it seems like whenever there's some port lease that we have to hear an appeal for. It seems like there's a different deal with every different mitigation measures. So I think it's smart to have one plan, one strategy that steers and guides those. So I think this is great. I would say that, you know, with that, this is, you know, fantastic for Long Beach. But, you know, we got to make sure that we keep, you know, the work isn't done. We got to look at the entire 17 freeway, all the communities along the 17 freeway in subsequent discussions and as well as the 91 freeway. And then the only question I would have, what the list of questions I would have is how long did this process take? How much did it cost, and who paid for it? Are you asking me that question, Councilman? I am. Okay. It took 18 months, and it cost $300,000. And who paid for it. How was it paid. For the port? Got it. Thank you. Councilman Turanga. Finally and on the project that we understand it's going to be a long process. There are already some efforts in addressing some of the the livability plan. There are some major project improvements taking place on Santa Fe corridor. We've already installed LED lights along that corridor for public safety purposes. We have a monitoring devices at the schools to measure the air and the air quality there so that when kids are outside, they come inside at the quality is poor for them to be outside. So there are things that are already in place. And we also have to look at the fact that, you know, when you look at the at the law, we always talk about a tale of two cities. Well, I want to talk to you about the tale of an island which is West Long Beach. And that and it's an island because it's connected by bridges. It's connected by a bridge over the river and the and the freeway on PCH and Willow and water on the other side. So I understand that those streets would also have to be part of this plan in terms of improvements to improve access and improve transportation and accessibility for the residents of Long Beach. The part the one part about the West Side in terms it affects me. I have 27,000 residents in that in that area right there. That's just about half of my total district that resides in West Long Beach. And I and it's important for for me and for us and the council to look at a neighborhood that is basically like an island. And there are a lot of needs out there, a lot of services that need to be improved upon, and definitely an improvement on accessibility to good health, clean air and some better transportation. So, again, I would appreciate your. Thank you. That concludes both public comment and council comment. There's a motion by Councilman Urine Guy and a second by Councilwoman Gonzalez on the plan. Members, please go out and cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you and thank you all for coming out and addressing the council on this issue. And, of course, we look forward to working with the community and industry, certainly on the next discussion around the freeway piece. Next item, please. Report from Economic and Property Development Recommendation to approve the Magnolia Industrial Group Property and Business Improvement District Annual Report and assessment for the period of December 1st, 2015 through November 30th, 2016. District one. Item 28 Report from Development Services Recommendation to declare ordinance amending the Land Use District Map from institutional to IRP 13 read and adopted as read District eight. Councilman Austin. So moved. Wonderful. And I want to ask Councilman Andrews so any member of the public that wishes to address item 28 saying none, members, cast your vote. Oh, I'm sorry, sir. I did not see you. Can we? I know this sounds picky and stupid. But this is an illogical motion because you haven't yet created ARP 13. By the way, unlike some other speakers, I will furnish you my name. I'm Joe Weinstein. I did speak last week. I do not like to come down here again to talk on the same subjects. But. There is a minor little matter. As to whether a. The proposed zoning is a good idea. And B, whether. The project, which it is intended. To permit. In fact. Meets the specifications of the zoning. I have not check that out, but someone else did raise that question and there may be some question as to whether all of the conditions of that zoning have, in fact, been met by the details of this project. This particular zoning, perhaps in the abstract, need not be a bad idea, but the way you see it realized in the project. Is not a very good idea. You could have the same density and more without destroying the usability, the usable green space that this design does. Because really, although it looks impressive from a top down view, it looks like you see plenty of green space between the buildings, that that space is pretty well wasted and useless because the buildings are high enough to pretty well shade and dominate the green space that's in that project. So I'm not saying that the density that you're going for is a bad thing. But doing it in this way doesn't work, and any zoning that just permits this without further control is not a good idea. Thank you. Okay. Thank you, sir. Members, please cast your vote. Councilman Andrew's motion carries. Next time, please. Report from Development Services recommendation to declare ordinance amending the Land Use District Map from institutional to park red and adopted as Red District eight. Item 24 Report from Development Services Recommendation to receive and file the Green Terminal Island Transition Plan District seven. Mr. City, Assistant City Manager. Vice Mayor, members of the council. We have a staff report on this. This is an item that will be given by Angela Reynolds from Development

Services. Oh. Good evening, Vice Mayor. Um, little history. The city accepted a planning grant from the Department of Transportation Caltrans on September 19th, 2013. The focus of the application was to prepare a concept plan for the potential decommissioning. Of the northern stretch of the Thai freeway, which is owned by the city. From PCH to Willow Street, the grant is considered a social justice grant, which directly applies to addressing negative environmental impacts such as unhealthy air quality and noise from goods, movement and port operations on the west side of City of Long Beach. The Livable West Long Beach Plan was adopted by the City Council on several Tuesdays ago. One of the projects in the plan was to potentially decommission the TII freeway from PCH to Willow. The primary goal of the plan of this particular plan that we'

re presenting tonight, the green tie, is to provide a buffer between schools and neighborhoods on the east side of the Ty Freeway from the heavy industry on the west side. The consultant, which is Melinda is and I'll introduce Melanie in a moment. And staff did a very robust community stakeholder outreach for this item. The outreach included small community and neighborhood focus groups, three or four large city. And community and stakeholder workshops, discussions with environmental groups, and also discussions with an assortment of goods, movement stakeholders in and around the port area in regards to good in regard to goods movement. We were able to reach Harbor Trucking, West Coast Marine Terminal Operations, Union Pacific, the Future Ports Group, which quite a few goods movement folks attend Tesoro, Calle Cartage, Three Rivers, Nova, L.A., Grain, Watson Land and Fast Lane and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce at their request. If this plan was to move forward, there will be many next steps to achieve it. The implementation chapter of the plan lays out a likely seven year project timeline from inception to build out. The first and most important step in this process would be for the City Council to receive and file the concept plan and then direct staff, including development services, public works, Parks, Rec and Marine and the Harbor Department, to proceed with more study and investigation of the feasibility of this project. At this time, there is no identified funding to start the process. The presentation tonight will discuss those next steps a little bit more in-depth, including design, environmental documents, secure NEPA and continued community outreach. So with that, I'm going to introduce Melanie Smith from Melendez, and she'll go through a brief PowerPoint presentation. Thank you, Angela. Thank you for having us here tonight to talk about the Green Tea Project. It's been an honor to lead the team through what's been just about a year long process to take very, very first steps toward a project that could have really great implications for the city. As Angela has already said, this was funded by a Caltrans environmental justice grant and supported by the city and put forward by the city and supported by the port of Long Beach. So we start by asking ourselves, what is this? What is this project rooted in? And it's really rooted in City of Long Beach Mobility Element Policy. The Mobility Olmec calls for deep free weighing the city owned segment of the Terminal Island Freeway. Again, we're not talking about the whole freeway. We're talking about the city owned segment of it ending the truck route that exists today at PCH. So that would be the furthest point that it would go on to the north and that would have the result of shifting truck traffic that exists today on that segment to other routes, including potentially Alameda Street, which is also an available corridor. So again, this is a first step in a long process. We'll tal k about how other cities are taking a look at their infrastructure and reevaluating it really as a benefit to provide different benefits to the city. So again, why are we looking at this segment of the city? We know that the tie we'll look at it on the map in a second and it's, you know, the western edge of the city. And this is an apart the study area that we're talking about. City is really part of the city that has suffered really from a number of difficult existing conditions. So it really outstrips the rest of the city in L.A. County, by far in particulate matter and fine particles per square mile, it has a higher level of asthma rates than either the rest of the city or the county as a whole. And so and these are just like two statistics that I picked. We could look at, you know, other disparities in this part of the city. I think we were all quite familiar with the challenges that West Long Beach faces. So again, why do cities look at this or why is this city looking at this? In addition to it being rooted in its adopted policy, you know, cities across the U.S. and really around the globe are taking a look at what is really being known as freeway freeway removal and looking at ways in which to consider their existing infrastructure, reconsider it as a community benefit. And just one example. Pretty well known around the country, the example of Portland's Harbor Drive. You know, this is a facility that is far more intense in terms of a traffic artery than what we're talking about in terms of the segment of the TII. This is what it looked like before. This is what it has become. And the city really had a different vision for what this how this could function as a community benefit and what has become a destination, really, and a well known facet of the community and a destination within it. So, again, what are we specifically talking about here in this project, in this very first step and very conceptual look at this, where we're talking about a segment of of the right of way, again, north of PCH and really north of the Cloverleaf that existed at at PCH. Those are controlled by Caltrans. So we're looking at the right of way north of that to Willow. We'll look at other maps that show that we're talking about an area of about 25 acres. So on this map, you can see Willow Street to the north, PCH to the south. But again, we're really talking about the area north of the Cole Relief's, north of PCH. And what we really notice when we look at an aerial is this contrast right in the land use pattern west of the Thai freeway versus east of the Thai freeway. We're looking at really a very industrial industrialized area there, just beyond the edge of the city with the refineries, other industrial facilities and the rail yards directly adjacent to the western edge of the city. And the uses then that we see in. Contrast to the east of that are really very residential in nature. So we've got century villages of Korea housing a really facility there wi th with a community living there, career high school to the north of that read, Hudson Park and Hudson Elementary and then other Long Beach Unified Land and just some snaps of the of the site adjacencies which I'm sure we're all familiar with the community gardens at Hudson looking to the West, the buffer that has been developed recently adjacent to villages of Cabrillo, really that was early days in that buffer. And it's it's some of its outdoor equipment areas, fitness zones of you looking down Hill Street to the west and where it terminates currently and does not really connect to the Tai and Hudson Park itself. So, you know, again, even at this very early stage where we have not done a traffic study, we have not done technical analysis yet, that would be something that would be done in the future. We have taken a just a look, a very high level look at existing conditions. And again, I was talking about other arteries that have really changed in other parts of the world, in the country and really much higher volume facilities. We're talking about a segment of the freeway, really, and this is just depicting existing volumes that it carries about 11,000 vehicles a day and about half those are trucks. So about 6000 ish trucks per day, higher volume north and south. And we can see that PCH, it's a little difficult to see sorry on this, but PCH being a much higher volume east West Street even then, Willow Sepulveda to the north. But obviously, traffic is something that would have to be considered and studied in much greater detail at this project were to move forward. Also, certainly as as we know, we're talking about a segment of the Terminal Island Freeway. You can see it in blue there with the logo tie next to it. And we're certainly aware of the network of truck routes that exist in the area that serve the port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles as well . And so what we're depicting here are the state overweight routes, the Long Beach designated overweight truck routes and other jurisdictions overweight routes as well, and freeways. And so you can see that that this segment of the Thai is currently a locally designated overweight route. So that's another consideration and another area that would certainly have to be studied if the project were to move forward. So in terms of project process, as we mentioned, there were four major convenings as part of this project. This is about developing a community vision, high level community vision for the facility. So we so starting last year, we were able to convene the community in a large way and we'll talk about that briefly. But we first really asked the community, what are your top priorities for greening the TY? And number one, really was providing environmental benefits to the communities that the space needed to work to provide positive benefits and not then cause unintended spillover traffic into the neighborhood and introduce new linkages for pedestrians and cyclists. And you'll see th ose themes come up again and again in the outreach that we've done. But we didn't just limit the outreach in this project to large community convenings, though those were really a large requirement of the grant. So we did reach out to environmental justice stakeholders and as you can see, a very large number of community groups in drop ins to their their meetings as well as inviting them to the larger convenings. But we also engage the good movement industry and other government agencies, utilities and then specific T.I adjacent trucking companies, businesses that would be impacted by this just to get their initial take on what the issues were so that we could document those should the project project move forward. There were additional things that would need to be studied. And just to wrap up about outreach, we celebrated the conclusion of the project process with an actual Open Streets event on Hill Street and again showed folks conceptual designs. Ask them to give us input about really what were the things that were most important to them. So we asked them a few times during the process pedestrian and bicycle facilities at the top and a planted buffer urban forest came in a close second. This was about 86. 87 people provided us with comments. It was a well-attended event as really all of them were. I mean, you can see nature, plan, play, wetland, water cleansing area, native education gardens were the top five of interest to folks. So as a result of of this initial work on this project, we have come up with a conceptual design concept. This is the illustrative of that. You can we've been looking north on all of the other graphics, but we're looking west so that the south is to the to the left. North is to the right in this view. And you can see that the view is dominated by planted buffer. The dark green area to the west is really that buffer, other native gardens and then road facility, a local road facility through the through the the space that could be a mirror and ring road that could help us to slow traffic, keep folks safe while they're in the space, but also provide eyes on places for folks to park. And then a connection that could be made at Hill Street in the center of the space as well. And and some of the active uses that were of interest to the community, like a skate area or a plaza gathering area, could be located there adjacent to the schools and really accessible by the kids. So just to conclude a few views that we did of the conceptual design, this is at 20th Street, an entrance that would be sort of north of the existing cloverleaf. So looking north and you can see the real focus of passive open space, the buffer to the west, areas in which we could capture water, cleanse it, handle stormwater, which is a significant issue on the west side as well. And you can see the the road access area, the parking and the the broad areas for folks to access and promenade on pedestrians and bikes. And this is looking at Hill Street, we're looking to the East and Hill Street is coming into the space again, connecting for vehicles, but also for pedestrians and bikes. And these are some of the play areas that we're envisioning, again, adjacent, accessible to the schools, areas for the community to use. And then for the north of the park, looking south near Willow Street, again, just areas for folks to use and enjoy in sort of passive ways. And with that that strong open space buffer to the west beyond the roadway so that we can get get some great use. But but also separation, appropriate separation for safety and and for keeping folks safe in this in this space. So that is where the concept ended up as as a result of this process, clearly a very first step in in one of many that would have to be taken. And so in the implementation chapter of the of the study, we talk about next steps and we identify really that should the council recommend this were to go forward. The very first step would be to work with Los Angeles, Carson and the ports to develop a plan for goods movement. So we understand the importance of that and certainly the city is aware of that. And so there would need to be direct, direct consultation about that with with many stakeholders, additional outreach, with stakeholders, further design , detailed design to get you to a more detailed level of design and start to consider operations, governance and and further funding analysis as well. An environmental review review would obviously be required and extensive likely. And so we've certainly identified that as starting a beyond year one and then really identifying a 3 to 7 year process, assuming it all really went forward stepwise and addressing funding operations and governance, design, implementation and maintenance. So that I think gives you an idea of where we've been in this project, and we look forward to your questions. Okay. Thank you. Councilmember Gonzalez. Actually, let me go to the maker of the Motion Councilmember Your Honor. Thank you, Mayor. So, as we can see, over a year ago, we initiated this process of going to the community of West Long Beach. Which this project takes most of the the space out there. And we ask the question. If the Thai freeway were to be decommissioned between PCH and Willow Street, which becomes supported. What would you like to see there? And so there was a series of scoping meetings that were held at Admiral Kidd Park with a combination exercise or event and Hudson Park. Where some conceptual. Conceptual plans were developed about what the community would like to see if it were decommissioned. So where we're at today is that this is just a conceptual study as to what we would like to see if it were decommissioned. It's a conceptual plan that addresses many of the issues that are that West Bromwich residents face and that many of us take for granted in other parts of the city. We want clean air. We want better mobility. We want our schools to be clean. What are schools to be safe when kids go outside and play? We want to lower particulate matter. We want green space, more trees, bicycle lanes, people or passive parks where people can walk, walk through, maybe even with some exercise areas. And there's also a plan which surprises me. Also maybe creating a wetlands area as well, which is awesome. I mean, it's just a comprehensive conceptual plan that would address many of the concerns that the residents have who live in West Palm Beach and who about the freeway. Now, having heard the presentation right now there is there are a lot of questions about mobility in terms of transportation. Where are those trucks going to go? What's the connection going to be? Where trucks near the port and heading north into the rail yards or into the other storage facilities and up the Alameda corridor? How do we manage that? There are questions to be asked. So at this point, I'm going to stop before I make my motion. But I would like to hear, obviously, from from for those who have an interest in this in this item here to hear their viewpoint. And if we can bring the discussion back and listen, my councilmembers would like to make their points known at that. That's certainly up to you. Councilmember Andrews, would you like to address the motion? Okay. So your request, Councilmember Urunga, is to hear from the public. Okay. Council members is that. Is that agreeable? Thank you. At this time, we'd like to hear from members of the public that wish to address the Council on item 24 relating to the Terminal Island Transition Plan. Please come forward. All right. We're baby. Sitters. We were waiting for the timer. There we. Go. All right. Good evening. Good evening, vice mayor and honorable council members. Thank you for the opportunity to speak again this evening. My name is Elizabeth Horn. I'm the executive director of Future Ports, and I'm here this evening not only representing future ports. But also. A historic coalition of labor, trades and business organizations here to express our concerns and and opposition to the decommissioning of the Terminal Island Freeway. Many of them are here tonight and will also be speaking in the history of the ports. As far as we can determine, this coalition has never happened before. So we are very, very concerned about this. Earlier I sent a to get to each of you. Hopefully it's been distributed some letters, one from Senator Isidor Hull's office and then also our coalition letter. One additional point that's not in the letter that I'd like to make is that even though that other freeways that have more traffic volumes have been decommissioned, as we saw in the presentation, none of them have been running through a port complex like we have here in Long Beach in the San Pedro ports. It's the largest port complex in the Western Hemisphere, not just in the United States. This is North America, South America combined. So comparing our Terminal Island Freeway project to other projects, we feel is more like compa ring apples and oranges and not really relevant to in this case. So as we've mentioned, the Thai freeway is a state designated overweight corridor. The trucks would be diverted from the freeway to surface streets not combined and not designed for those trucks. One of the points that we'd also like to make is that with those 6000 trucks that we heard that would be diverted to those surface streets. Those are overweight trucks now that those would be regular trucks and not for overweight. The one truck would have to now make two trips. So the 6000 trucks would probably be more likely like ten or 11,000 trucks in realistic. So we want to make sure that we're familiar with what would happen to all those trucks. We do believe that a full environmental impact report should be performed if the city chooses to pursue the decommissioning. We are confident that the air would show that this freeway would result in rerouting traffic to surface streets throughout throughout the community and intensifying traffic already at those places. So we don't think this is a very well thought out plan. We'd like to see it go back to the drawing board with an in-depth traffic analysis and environmental review if it's going to move forward at all, which. We hope it will. Not. So thank you very much for the opportunity to speak this evening. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor Lowenthal and council members. My name is Floyd Bryan. I'm with the International Longshore and Warehouse Union Southern California District Council. And we are. Opposed to this. Our closure for a number of reasons. And one of the main ones that I, I, I have trouble with is that. They say that there was so much outreach, community outreach. And I believe I asked Councilman Aranda how many people were in this district, and he told me 50,000. And about 50,281 people attended. If you add all four meetings together and some of those people had. Been to two or three meetings, so that 281 is a very, very small percentage of the people in the area. And I have worked many years last 15, as a matter of fact, on environmental projects to make the port greener. This project is not going to necessarily make the port greener. You take those trucks are not going to go away. They're going to be moved into a. Non-Free away situation where they're going to be traveling on surface streets. And anybody who's done anything on the environmental end of this with truck movement knows that idling trucks are slow moving trucks, double and triple. It's exponential. It isn't just an arithmetic. Addition of particulate. Matter and the particulate matter that they listed in 2011 has come down since then. In that area, we've worked real hard to bring that down, and we've got we're still working hard. But when I went to two of the presentations and we've written letters to you at their presentations, they weren't open to any suggestions. We have some alternatives that we'd like to discuss. I mentioned Councilwoman Gonzalez. There are alternatives to this closure and or there are alternatives before this closure that aren't brought up at all. And to do this without. An E.R. is. As far as we're concerned, pretty much, you know, unconscionable, really, because you're moving the stuff, you're moving the particulate matter, but you're not going to make it better. That's the problem. E.R. would show that, you know, there's no reason not to have an area that we can think of, you know, other than the fact. That so, you know, push this through. And, you know, we're we're against it. Thank you. Good evening. My name is Giselle Fong and I am a resident of the seventh District. I am chair of the Environmental Health Workgroup of Building Healthy Communities Long Beach, and I'm also a City Commissioner with the Board of Health and Human Services. I'm here to tell you that we sent a letter to your offices through email so that you can reference that for more detail. But I just wanted to go through some of the main points of that letter, and that is to voice our support for the Green Tea Project, mostly because of its health benefits. So you saw from the presentations that the residents that are adjacent to freeways and to the big industrial facilities such as the ports, the freeways, refineries are in in full and direct contact with the highest levels of particulate matter in our city. And we know all of the severe health impacts that that entails. We believe strongly that the Green Tea Project will create a health protective buffer for especially those residents that are directly on the fence line communities including students at Cabrillo, students at Stevens Mills Middle School, the all of the residents that enjoy the facilities at Hudson Park . So we we do believe that there is an extreme health benefit for this green tea project. We also believe that the the truck traffic can can be with planning, with strategic planning to be diverted to the Alameda Corridor, which was intended for the movement of freight as a freight corridor. We also just wanted to say that this is an area of the city that is very underserved. The West Long Beach has one acre of open space per 1000 people versus the east side of Long Beach, which has 16 acres of per 100,000 people. And so we do feel like this is an important community benefit for the west side of Long Beach. And lastly, I'll just wrap up that we did really appreciate the process that the meaningful community participation process where residents were asked and were given the opportunity division, what we wanted for our city, including the types of health and health benefits, the types of amenities that we wanted for our city. And we would encourage that the Council to support this project moving forward and to include meaningful community participation as we move forward. And we support the community. The City Council to approve the green tie plan going forward and that we ask you to to direct staff to pursue next steps, including environmental analysis and identifying funding sources. Thank you. Thank you. Good evening, Honorable Vice Mayor and council members. Thank you for the opportunity to speak this evening. My name is Mike Williams and I am the California executive director of government relations for the International Warehouse Logistics Association. I am here tonight representing a unprecedented coalition of labor, trade and business organizations to express our deep concerns and opposition to the decommissioning of the Terminal Island Freeway. We have five local unions, two trade unions and one business organization together as one coalition unified in opposition to this project. Our association has been around since 1891 and this is the first time that the labor unions have jointly signed on to a coalition letter. This indicates the significance of the concern that we have as stakeholders in the community and in the warehouse logistics industry. We have raised many points of concern about the proposal. In our opposition letter one The Thai freeway is a state designed overweight corridor. Trucks would be diverted from the freeway to surface streets not designated for those trucks or the loads would have to be split and more trucks dispatched to keep within the legal weight requirement leading to increased truck traffic. Alameda and Anaheim Streets and PCH would suffer tremendous congestion due to the influx of those and other trucks on those streets and exacerbation of noise and air pollution. We had Melanie Smith provide a presentation on September 17, 2015 to our members that provided more questions and relatively no answers. You saw that presentation. Today was the same when we were presented. Some of the questions raised included who would provide the billions in funding that may be required for the project? Is there an ETA for an air or traffic study or would the surface street traffic be diverted? Uh, has this been thought through? When we would win. Would this go to vote, which is happening today? Possibly. But essentially, many questions were posed. Another important issue to consider. Is this a conflict of interest to have the former Long Beach city planner from 2014, the commissioner, her architectural firm, awarded the contract? Were there any other groups that were considered? On page 72 of the city background materials what is being exempted under sequel? Does tonight's action exempt the project from Sequel altogether? So in conclusion, we would like to request an opportunity to have a full on workshop with a small group of representations, representatives from Labor and business to seriously look at alternatives to decommissioning the freeway. We think that we can look at a real solution and come up with compromises to achieve the goals of everyone efficient goods movement, better neighborhoods, equal economic prosperity and environmental improvements for everyone. Thank you for the opportunity to speak this evening. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening

, council members. Vice Mayor My name's Joseph Sullivan. I work for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 11 in the National Electrical Contractors Association of Greater Los Angeles. And I'm here to express our opposition to the decommissioning of the freeway. Our contractors and electricians are doing a lot of work at the ports, electrifying the ports, making the ports more green, work on projects like LED lighting, retrofit solar projects, solutions for idling ships. And there's more work coming around microgrids, energy storage and resiliency. And these are good jobs. They're local jobs. They're going to local businesses. There's a project labor agreement for the Middle Harbor that requires local residents complete work on these projects. One out of every eight jobs in Long Beach is related to the port. And so the port has a really important job engine and it's really important to our electricians and our contractors and the ports and the surrounding areas are being are becoming greener. We know that from studies, and we're working on these projects. Our apprenticeship program. The contractors and Labor are spending millions of dollars to prepare our workers to do this work. But removing critical infrastructure is not a viable solution. It's a wrong decision. One, it hurts competitiveness. Other ports would gladly take this cargo. And due to changes to the Panama Canal, they're becoming more competitive to do so. Ships are bigger. We're going to see larger bottlenecks. And what we're going to see is reduced productivity. And with reduced productivity, we're going to see less infrastructure projects, which is going to mean less greening of the ports. Right now, we're seeing terminal operators invest in greening their their areas. It's been mentioned. Where will this traffic go? It's going to go to surface streets. Do we know the air is going to become cleaner? We don't. It this you know, this is a little bit like moving homeless people out of a homeless shelter. It doesn't cure the homelessness problem. It just puts them in a worse position in some other area. And that's what we're doing with this cargo. So in closing, I'd like to say we're in the middle of an energy revolution, a technology revolution, and we're seeing new solutions all the time around, battery storage for electric vehicles, around fuel cells, natural gas solutions. And just closing a freeway is not. That's lazy thinking. There's other approaches and other solutions that are much more viable. It will create jobs and help this area to continue to thrive. Thank you. Good evening, Alison Gallagher here on behalf of Assembly Member O'Donnell. I join others here today with several concerns pertaining to this project, including the outreach for this project has been limited, although it's been stated that there have been several community meetings and forums for stakeholder input. Neighboring cities such as Wilmington and Carson have not been included on this pr oject. As the Assembly member representing the harbor area and both ports, I want to ensure that we are including our regional and industry partners. In addition to the immediate communities surrounding the TY Freeway, we have not fully discussed all of the burdens that will be placed on the community communities surrounding the freeway. Further study is needed to ensure the continuity of the port's ability to move goods efficiently and timely. We need to ensure that other heavy weight corridors exist, and we need to ensure that clear route alternatives are in place to prevent truck traffic from going through our neighborhoods. And also an environmental impact report should be conducted as well as transportation and economic impacts should be explored as well. I urge you to consider these concerns before moving forward with this project. Thank you. Vice Mayor Council members Pilar Arroyo with Watson Lane Company. Art Company's name was listed as one of those who had participated in the outreach. I've asked the city clerk to distribute a map for you because I think a picture is worth a thousand words. The comments made by a number of the speakers expressing concern about this project, I did show them so I won't repeat them. When you look at this map, those areas outlined in yellow are Watson land companies, existing master plan industrial centers. It represents about 12 million square feet of industrial space. Been with the company almost 30 years. Most of this space is port related. I also serve on the California Straight State Freight Advisory Commission that has been a Caltrans led program to look at the importance of goods, movement, infrastructure. I think you are probably very familiar with that. And to have this concept and I understand recognized and it's been said over and over again that this is just a concept. But I want you to think about the unintended implications, the serious implications and messages that this sends to potential customers. Previous speakers have talked about competitiveness. What about the competitiveness of being able to attract? Customers that bring their goods through this port or other ports when they don't know if they're going to have that Terminal Island free way. And it's not only about the overweight corridor, I might add. It's about the time inefficiency. And when you close down this major infrastructure or even send a message that you're considering doing it. Those start to impact decisions. And those decisions have serious implications in terms of jobs. So we have to think. Brodeur and not look at a conceptual project that, sure, how can anybody be opposed to something as beautiful as those renderings? The process has been really quite incredible. We in I personally helped with assembling a number of our customers to the meetings and the feedback we got back, and I didn't hear a word about the concerns that were raised. Serious concerns. Those customers are the employers. And like me, a Long Beach re sident crosses that city boundary to work in Carson. So this is a huge, huge issue. And I ask that you take time to do this right, to not move in a direction that has unintended consequences. Thank you very much. Thank you. Good evening, everybody. Vice Mayor Lowenthal, members of the city council. My name is West in the bar. I represent several organizations that are opposed to the current the current project that is being proposed or concept, including the Harbor Trucking Association, Foreign Trade Association, South Bay Association of Chambers of Commerce. I'm also a Long Beach resident, very active in my community and very proud of Long Beach. And I think it's important that we don't cut off our nose to spite our face here. I'm not going to complain about the issues or raise more issues, but more talk about things that can be done so we can move forward to try to identify solutions, one of which is we need to identify other infrastructure projects that could replace the freeway moving forward. And it needs to be done in a meaningful way in a meeting and in concert with this, looking at this as well, because we need to make sure that we are not going to move forward with something while we don't have the funding or ability to put something in its place that could actually be better for both the community and for our goods movement industry. I think that's the first thing that's important, and the only way that we can do that is by looking at one, a complete traffic study from a regional analysis. That would be part of a secret process as well as a full environmental impact report to see what the consequences or unintended consequences of moving cargo and freight to other, more seriously impacted traffic. Intersections in the region are at a point in time when in California and I have testified multiple times in front of state, state assembly and Senate committees on infrastructure, on on ports and good movement, when we're looking at how to reduce bottlenecks and invest in infrastructure in a way that we can create efficiencies that reduce air emissions. I think it's important that we take that to heart here locally as well. Long Beach is home to the green port and we need to understand that that means moving a lot of cargo in an environmentally friendly way. What we need to do is take a look at how can we move this cargo in a way that may be quicker and does not impact the community in a negative way and identify each of those alternatives. I do have one question for this evening, though, and that's really within the entire packet. There is a negative declaration in that packet. And one of the big concerns we have moving forward with just a receiving file would be does that negative declaration that was filed in January of 2015 show as some sort of secret exemption for moving forward with this project? I think if the project moves forward in any way, shape or form, there are certain studies, a complete air regional traffic study and also g oods movement alternatives that be considered with it. And thank you for your time. But even in Vice Mayor, City Council members. Thank you for the opportunity to speak this evening. My name's Stellar Sewer District two resident. I'm also with Green Education. And the chair for the Building Healthy Communities Neighborhoods Work Group. I was fortunate to attend the groundbreaking

Today at the Future DeForest Wetlands in North Long Beach. Really exciting project. There were so many residents, community groups, local representatives that had been fighting for over the past ten years to bring this wetlands project to fruition. Their community, they were committed to creating more green space, more green open space for their families, for their community, for recreation and exercise, to enjoy nature. And to help. Mitigate the high levels of pollution in their neighborhoods. I attended this event not just as a Parks and Recreation Commissioner, but as a Long Beach resident that bought her first home right down the street that enjoyed the Forest Park for many years. And as someone that walked those trails and wondered when the area would be cleaned up and made safe for everyone, just like the divorce wetlands effort, community members in West Long Beach, where Green Open Park space ranges from only one acre per 1000 residents, compared to over 16 acres per 1000 in the east district have been looking forward to the day when they too can enjoy additional park space and less pollution in their neighborhoods. Having attended several of the visioning sessions for West Long Beach Livability Plan, I heard extremely creative and forward thinking ideas from community members to include in this project things like an urban forest, wetlands, meadows, pedestrian bike paths, native gardens and nature and skate areas. The open space element of our general plan states that the city should be establishing open space buffers between vulnerable populations and manmade and natural hazards, including those emitting toxic pollution. The decommissioning of the tree freeway and the creation of this park would be a huge step in achieving this goal and would serve a higher and greater use for the public as open space. And the green tea would be a huge statement to our underserved, pollution burdened communities that the city and our elected officials are committed to creating, healthy, engaging and state of the art, green spaces and parks for all of our residents. Finally, I leave you with this from the National Recreation and Parks Association regarding parks and social equity in our communities. It is a right, not just a privilege for people nationwide to have safe, healthful access to parks and recreation. Because of this, people connect with one another, build bonds that last a lifetime. Places transform into destinations with influx of new businesses and local economies flourish. Parks and recreation. Truly built communities. Communities for all. So

I ask for your support for the. Green Tea Transition. Plan. Thank you so much. Thank you. Good evening. Vice Mayor Lowenthal City Council Member. City Staff My name is Brian D'Andrea, president of Century Villages at Cabrillo. As many of you know, CBC is the nonprofit that is the owner, developer. Manager and steward of the 27 acre villages at Cabrillo Community in West Long Beach were home to more than 1300 residents, including more than 550 veterans. Very pleased to report that we've recently conducted a grand opening for our Cabrillo Gateway Development and have recently broken ground on our anchor place development. Those two developments combined will add another 200 permanent supportive homes for homeless households in Long Beach. So we're very excited about that. The secret of our success over the years and it's been nearly 20 years that we've been at it, resides in this growing collaboration of organizations and government agencies that that play a role in helping us to restore health and address our homeless crisis. And really, at the heart of that collaboration is the city of Long Beach, which is the true backbone to our efforts at the villages and much beyond in the larger community. Over the years, the city has invested extensive resources at the villages, including more than $16 million of capital project base rental support and extensive support of service funding through its continuum of care grant through the Department of Health and Human Services to support the larger mission that we're attempting to achieve. The Villages is located. Directly adjacent to the TII freeway. Where a neighbor to the freeway and we're also home to a highly vulnerable population homeless, veterans, children, families victimized by violence, persons suffering from mental and physical ailments. And many of our residents have respiratory illness. These conditions are exacerbated by the reality of our location next to freeways, the ports refinery and the extensive manufacturing base and in and around West Long Beach. And over the years, we worked really hard to help mitigate those impacts. Thanks to funding from the Port of Long Beach under its Community Mitigation Grants program, we've developed a 303 hundred tree urban forest that the western perimeter of our campus actually on a piece of land that was leased on a long term, long term basis from the city of Long Beach itself. The land separates our community from the TI Freeway and has been transformed into an urban green space that sequesters carbon dioxide, scrubs the air of harmful particulates, beautifies the area and provides passive recreational opportunities for our residents. And while that urban forest is a great amenity and has been a great success, it's only the beginning and it's only a piece of the puzzle. We're very encouraged by the Green Tea Plan that's before you tonight, and we'd like to commend city staff, its consultants and the many community stakeholders on both sides of this debate

e. That have participated in what we believe is a very collaborative process. We think the result. Is an incredibly thoughtful plan, one that will help to further mitigate the health and environmental impacts on the west side of Long Beach and ultimately improve quality of life for all of our residents within the city. And so this evening, we encourage the council to receive and file the plan and to concurrently define a road map for implementing that plan down the road. Thank you. Thank you, Brian. Good evening, Vice Mayor. Council members. City staff. Melanie. Hi. My name is Mona Eichner. And excuse. Me. I'm a sixth district rep. Sorry. My address is on file and I'm a member of the. I do live in the sixth district. I'm a founding member of the Wrigley. Wrigley is going green and the Wrigley Clean team, which. Actually makes the green tie kind of right up. The alley. And of all the things that I'm. Involved with in the city. Who wouldn't want I mean, as a Wrigley is going green member, why wouldn't I. Want to green. The Terminal Island Freeway? Why wouldn't I want more trees in the park on the west side, which we are so lacking over here? But I actually am also now the sixth district representative of the Pedestrian Safety Advisory Committee. And although I'm not speaking on behalf of the committee as. That member, I'm more interested in the pedestrian safety aspects of. The. Greening that. The tie. And I'd like to actually reiterate some of the points I made in my. Letter that I sent to you guys. And so. I just wanted to remind you that the Green bill would replace. When it replaces the to freeway would be. Directly would address as was shown on the map would directly about the Elizabeth Hudson Elementary School and read in Cabrillo High schools and also it's near Garfield Elementary School and. Stephen Middle School. Since the gentleman. Before me was. Representing the villages of. Cabrillo. The students that live there have to the the paths that they go to get to school is are so connected that they they can walk up to. A mile or a mile and a half to get to school. And with the addition of this greenbelt and walkways and bike paths, that distance can be shortened up to. Two thirds of that. And that would be pretty incredible. And some students are forced to walk on PCH. And as we all know, that's a truck route. It's not a good place to be walking. The mobility plan, the Long Beach Mobility Point Plan has the goal of reducing conflicts between free movement and active transportation. I'm sorry. And greening the tie will shift trucks away from the schools, while will. Hopefully the studies will prove that. But. It will reduce the need for students and pedestrians to be on PCH. And also traffic will be eliminated near some of the schools off of Santa Fe. And it's just going to be a good thing for schools. I'm sorry. I'm really nervous. So I'm pretty much finished. And I really do want you all to support the green tea as I support the green tea a nd leaves holding a sign that says Go green or go home. And that's how I feel too. Thanks. Good evening, Vice Mayor and council members. My name is Katie Rispoli. I'm the executive director of We Are the Next, a nonprofit organization based here in downtown Long Beach and serving the Los Angeles region. And I mean, if only it were so easy that we could vote tonight and a project like this and tomorrow start working to create this great green space. That would be fantastic. But that's not what we're asking for. I support this project, and what's being asked for this evening is to approve and file the Green Terminal Island Transition Plan. And that plan will put into process as all of these things that the opposition here tonight has been asking for, looking into traffic considerations, environmental considerations, long term impacts of this project and actually putting into place this permanent plan in order to make it happen. This is not a short term process. This is a seven year minimum process. Getting to a point where we're actually looking at breaking ground on a project like this. And that's not just seven years where we're waiting and working on this. That's seven years where there is consistent pollution on the Terminal Island Freeway. Seven years where that has memory is more than twice what it is in the county as a whole and seven years where residents in West Long Beach are not feeling invested in by the city. And if there's anything that we know for a fact, it's that when you feel invested in in your home and when you have a supportive environment, as you're growing up, you have faith that you're able to accomplish great things. And that's been proven over and over again for generations. And in West Long Beach, there is a struggle with that. A lot of the families that live in that neighborhood are living adjacent to an 18 foot wall that backs up to their homes, which already makes them feel as if they're living in a prison. And one in three Latino males born in this country today are expected to be incarcerated in their lifetime.

Growing up with those odds and that environment and living in a community where your park poor and seeing your city not investing in your community has a long term impact on what sort of citizen or resident you end up being and how you contribute back to your city as an adult. So we're not asking for a plan tomorrow and watching these people grow up and and wake up tomorrow and having the space. We're asking for more than seven years. We're asking for ten years plus of investment from the city that tonight will be voted on to enact this plan and can be taken over a period of time for the next generation of West Long Beach to have grown up witnessing this investment in their community so that when the next generation gets to the point where they're voting residents in this community and they're participating in Long Beach, they feel as if they have been a part of the conversation. Thank you. Thank you. Hello a gain. My name is Malina Ramirez and I live in a sixth district in I has been involved with Long Beach Alliance children with asthma since 1999. And I start being involved because my daughter has been living with asthma since she was like a six month. Old. In I would like to buy all those people to come to live to these areas. My kids were attending the Stephens Middle School. My older son were attending the Cabrillo High School in. I saw them howl on the way that they go. We don't have enough space. Not only, you know, for a respiratory problem, not only for asthma problems. We have a lot of problems because we don't have enough enough green space where we can do exercise, where we can run. We have many health problems and heart problems. Cancer problems, asthma problems, obesity. I don't know how many things. And sometimes I get a little nervous because my my English. But I want to tell you guys I will I am by you all of people who are. Saying, oh, don't. Put these on. Don't do that. I want to invite them to live in my area. Almost 60% of the people who live and thus areas are renting. We don't have enough space inside over our apartments. We need those green areas. We need to have a space where this kid can run, camp play. It still is that level of contamination. But if we have more wind spaces is going to help a little bit. But it's going to help in I, I want just make you guys think what is living in those areas grow your kids on those are you before come to talk that they want to change things or do things they need to think about how we feel. I can I can borrow you guys my shoes and and you can you can use my children lives in this area with my kids. Yes. As the pontymister battles in mirror look SCMP Bass had the label YOLO theme beat though and buy you guys to live in this area is what I can say. Thank you. Thank you. I don't know. I mean nobody said in the Russian Soyuz announcement in. Good evening. Yes, good evening. My name. Is Raskin. I am a community health worker with the Long Beach Alliance for Children with Asthma for 13 years. Um. Separately, Orson Welles, the blond beauty, stunned into a traditional salute to California. 11% of children in central and west Long Beach are diagnosed with asthma, according to the California Health Institute survey. If you still need one than coriander is my first mirando. I have seen many children who get an asthma attack as they're running, and it's very sad to watch them. I mean, I wonder they are not gonna smile and your basil then go, um. Don't really need those nano. Ketamine is easy way to impress. I don't know where this. Yeah. I think they're getting in. One to come into. I just have a grandson who was diagnosed with asthma last year, and I also have neighbors, one of which is one year of age, who just recently got diagnosed with asthma when his his parents realized as he was, he was starting to run outside and started noticing these changes. And the parents are still in shock that that th e son can't run. He happened to be that Iceland bed massage. WALLACE But I could not even. Siva But I can control contamination. And so I support the green tie plan to provide more trees and a better defense for the community. Standards are one less is important but I don't mean it I mean there are a lot emissions stickers kissing green thumb. Yes but I don't initially. But in the end, this idea. And having many trees is really important to the air quality. These trees would also be able to capture the toxic emissions and this would begin to help this area where children Canvey. Island Female Franziska Beetle, the Canino is Toshiko Ambiental. Istanbul. They may not be that, but I get emotional, get emails. So in of touring you know they use immune to massive animals. Muscles. Ambien, Tylenol, ninos. I'd rather have to take it out on me is a God knows why. Now you are my son. And so when I say phrases that every breath is a toxic air that they're breathing, and that this environment gives them less time of life. And that's not what we want. We want them to have a better future and that they can have better health and that they can improve and work toward zero emissions for our future generations. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor and members of the city council. Good to see you all. My name is Steve Gerhart. I'm the project coordinator for a collaborative called Walk Long Beach. Our offices are 425 East Fourth Street in the East Village. We're a collaboration of City Fabric, the YMCA of Greater Long Beach and the Preventative Health Folks at the Health Department and Collaborative, such as LeBoeuf, the Kaiser's heels on the California Endowment's Building Housing Communities. We've been working for the last few years to promote walking, pedestrian safety and walkable neighborhoods throughout Long Beach. One outcome of that effort I just wanted to let you know about is that in June, coming up this year, we're going to be hosting here in Long Beach, the California Walks, which is the statewide organization conference walking summit called Pedestrians Count. And we'll tell you more about that as it gets closer. It should be no surprise to you that we fully support the Green Tea Project as it creates a more walkable Long Beach. It's a strong concept, a first step, an early step, and this will change a underused freeway segment into an urban street. This is a once in a lifetime opportunity and we need to do the studies, which will only happen if you move the atom for tonight. It will create much needed linear, open space. And a lot of the things you've already heard about the staff in the consulting team have done a wonderful job putting together a concept and idea, and we would like to study it further. I did want to tell you about a couple of things. In October, I attended the National Walking Summit on behalf of Work Long Beach. There were over 500 advocates, including organizations such as the Kaiser Family Foundation, the Vision Zero Network, Am erica Walks. And one of the highlights of that two day conference was a presentation by the U.S. surgeon general. Many people think of him as America's doctor, talking about a call to action that he proposed in September to promote, walking to and creating walkable communities as a national health imperative and a top priority of the federal government. This is a call to action about and it's a fundamental change in the way we view walking. One of the things that was raised in the conference, that it's a personal right to be able to walk comfortably and safely in our communities and neighborhoods. I There was a lot of interesting discussion about Chapter five. I won't go back into it. But one of the things I learned working for Mr. West and Burdick is it's fine and dandy to create a bold and beautiful plan. The plan is only as good as the implementation. So let's move forward. Let's do the studies and let's get this done. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor and council members. My name is Sylvia Bettencourt. I'm the project manager with the Long Beach Alliance for Children with Asthma. Prior to this meeting, I had submitted a letter to you. A comment on behalf of. Myself and Dr. Elisa Nicholas. Who is the chief executive officer at the children's clinic, serving children with with family. So I want to read that letter to you today, in. Part as it reads that we, as the children's clinic and the Long Beach Alliance for Children with Asthma are in support of the Green Plan and see this as a community vision for replacing the. Terminal Island Freeway. This plan was developed through intensive resident and stakeholder engagement over the past year, many of which are our clients in central and west Long Beach. La Barca is a community coalition under the. Institutional umbrella of Miller Children's Hospital, which is a not for profit children's hospital under the corporate ownership. Of Long. Beach Memorial Medical Center. Our mission is to change the. Profile of asthma. In children in the most affected areas. Of Long Beach and surrounding. Communities. The Children's Clinic was founded in. 1939 by a group. Of local physicians and community leaders. It's an independent nonprofit, and its largest. Site is at. The Long Beach Memorial Medical Center, having 11 sites. In the city of Long Beach. Its newest clinics are located in the severely impacted West Long Beach area and include the century villages of Cabrillo Housing Development. Research shows that air pollution is likely part of the. Cause of asthma, demonstrating. That health impacts of air pollution for children and families living in Long Beach. And its surrounding. Communities are real. The Long Beach area is part of the Southern. California Air Basin, which, despite significant improvements, remains in violation of the National Ambient Air Quality Standard specified by the Clean Air. Act. Because of the universal impact that air. Pollution has. On children's health in Long Beach, LA Baca and TCC

work hand in hand to prevent pollution from the largest sources in our region. The ports of L.A. and Long. Beach and the goods movement. System, the green tie has empowered residents and local stakeholders to craft a vision of their community where public infrastructure serves the public good. Relocating trucks and pollution they emit from the Terminal Island Freeway would significantly improve the living conditions of West Long Beach residents. As well as a learning environment. For over 5000 students attending the five campuses. That are adjacent to the freeway. La Barca and

Taxi have engaged have been engaged with these communities surrounding the port complex and have seen firsthand the impacts on public health that freight transport have. On the community. This experience reveals that the opportunity. To remove such contiguous uses as truck corridors in schools and homes should be supported. We ask that City Council support this community effort by adopting the plan and directing staff to take next steps toward making this vision a reality. Thank you. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor. Council members. My name is Dan Hoffman. I'm the executive director for the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. I learned the last time I should state upfront that we are opposed to this. I also wanted to mention that the last time I attended your meeting this was mentioned is just a small part of a much larger project to green the area. And I think we all agree that greening the area, making our environment better, having cleaner air, healthier air is a good thing. However, we have some real concerns about this particular project. One of them is the is the fact that of the transportation efficiency that we're not going to be able to move goods as efficiently. We learned not too long ago, not too many months ago, that when our cargo was backed up, it was we found customers that found other ways to move their cargo. And it wasn't through our ports of Long Beach or Los Angeles. Additionally, is. The impact that it would have. On our businesses that are in the area and we're talking about what was an estimated 6600 trucks per day is the number that I heard. That's a lot of trucks. And so the businesses that are directly there now are Tesoro, Valero, Tesoro and oh, gosh, California Sulfur of Vopak Harbor, Green Fast Lane Transportation. And it could be the future site of the big project, which is also needs to be taken into consideration. So I want to also let you know that in terms of the community and as I say, that the last time what it seems like we're doing is we're moving trucks from one area to make it better to another area. And so our community of Wilmington, me share a couple of facts that you can verify. Our property level in Wilmington is 28.6%, 28.6%, and that's according to the US Census Bureau. If you're familiar with the Cal enviro screen 2.0, Wilmington is the top 10% of impacted communities. I don't think and I still don't believe that it was ever your intention to move that. Pollution from one community. That's impacted to another community that's more impacted. And I thank you for your time and attention. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor and members of the Council. My name is John Taylor, Effie. I want to, first off, thank Councilman Aranda for pushing us forward. I'm going to be frank with all of you. Five years ago or so was the initiation process by the community to move forward, to find resources and find an opportunity to put together something that would be acceptable to save lives in West Long Beach. This TII freeway was addressed as one of the major buffers that could be that resolution or that that remedy. Last year with Mr. Smith's team, we finally realized that this can actually happen. And as such, I want to be able to draw attention to the scale or rather the scope of the project itself, because it speaks to efficiency. Our ports operate under an efficiency opportunity. What will happen here is that closure of that TII freeway would utilize that clover on PCH and send the trucks over to be in S.F. . U.P. is proposing to open their doors into the Alameda corridor where that Alameda corridor was actually established to do this. So common sense tells you now that to do the right thing would be to save the lives of those schoolchildren that are impacted every day and those residents. And if Labor has it such that they can partnership with a good measure to involve and engage the community, provide a benefit to the community, our ports will continue to flourish because there would be that constructive partnership. So I ask you tonight, please. To accept, receive and file, and let's move forward to find resources. Let's make this thing happen so that we can truly be a city of Long Beach that is equal for all to live and enjoy. Thank you very much. Thank you. Madam Vice Mayor, members of the City Council. My name is Chris Wilson. I'm here on behalf of Assembly Member Mike Gibson. We are here to express our strong concerns with regard to green tea. While we appreciate the Fourth Y thinking of this idea, Assembly member Gibson CIL has several concerns. Mr. Gibson remains concerned about. The congestion. This will cause. Our community. Which we represent Wilmington and. In Carson in our district, the impact on our port gateways and the tremendous environmental impacts this. This would cause. Wilmington already suffers from one of the highest health disparities in the country. It is estimated that 11,000 trucks each currently utilized the Turtle Island Freeway on a daily basis. These trucks will be transferred to our streets in Wilmington, Carson and nearby communities. We are also concerned about the lack of outreach and input from neighborhood associations, community members and stakeholders in and nearby the 64th Assembly District. I can tell you that our office was not reached out to and was not on that list you saw before. We are respectfully. Requesting. To please consider th e impacts decommissioning this really will cause. We also have the concern in question with regard to sequel. Thank you. Hi. Good evening. My name's John Schaefer. I'm to the pile drivers bridge, dock and Work Builders, which are based in Wilmington, but service the entire Southern California area. I just wanted to say basically three things. One, I did listen to your council meeting and it brought back memories of my mom who graduated from Saint Anthony, who was born in Germany and, you know, came as an immigrant who didn't know how to speak English. And she did pass away from asthma and living in San Pedro. But she before she did, she lived in Pico Union, where my brother married, immigrated four people that his wife with four children. And they have suffered from gang violence and drug addiction from a lot of things that came through there. And he's still living in the area that goes through there. So not only in my working as labor with business, I support a lot of the really positive actions that you're taken already today. I want people to not be separated from their families. I want good alleyways so people can have proper entrance to go through there. And you guys know that there are some things that comes quick and there are some things that have been waiting for years. For years, port development has been held up because they said they didn't consider all the parties that came through. You built a Desmond Bridge because you're going to have more ships, taller ships and more containers coming in. You're building that right now. You're building the bridge from Schuyler Highway, which is going directly to the Terminal Island Freeway, because, you know, you're going to have increased traffic because you're getting these bigger ships and you want things to go out there. And these plans took decades to get approved because there wasn't enough community input. So now you have a proposal that didn't talk to business, that didn't talk to government. It didn't talk to the port. At the port. That may affect outstanding hours, that may affect current projects. And you want to move forward because one group of your bar community wants to move forward. Ultimately, as government officials, you have to respect a certain amount of process. And it is apparent to me anyway that no prosthetic complete process hasn't occurred. I'm asking you just to do your job as referee among a bunch of different interests and tell people, look, if you're going to come for action, be prepared for a complete report. And so, again, I hope all the best. I want all the green, the community, they deserve it. They've gone through a lot. This just isn't ready at this time. Thank you. Hi. I'm Tonya Reyes, seventh District. I'm here to speak to you for the second time tonight. I have some free time. My husband's busy, so I'm able to come by. I just want to say that let's not get too excited or ahead of ourselves that this is a receiving file item. And I'm sure the Council will del ineate exactly what that means and that give you a little history. In the past eight years, the last two councilmembers have always talked about changes to the tie. We have always talked about maybe closing one of the lanes and making it a one way freeway. We talked about closing it all altogether. We talked about a lot of things, but what we didn't have is a plan or a vision or community input, and we didn't have that input from other parties as well. But there was always the idea that the tie was inappropriately placed and whether underutilized or misused or whatever it needed to be changed for the sake of the community, nothing happened. You have a visioning and I wanted to thank the consultants that did the visioning. They really did a complete job. It took them 18 months, I believe. So that means it. And I also want to thank the port for paying for it, but it's going to take another 7 to 8 years for anything to happen. The port, meanwhile, will be growing. We hope. We want the port to grow. We want the port to be prosperous. During the visioning sessions in West Palm Beach, the two things, the two top two items is that the community wanted clean air and the second was jobs. We want the port to be successful. We want good union jobs. We want that play to be able to have local hire and to ensure that our community, the West, Long Beach people, a lot less limited residents take benefit of that local hire agreement. But I have to tell you that while I was on the council, I was also on the South Coast Air Quality Management District, and we struggled how to find mitigation for the negative effects of the port and port related business. And if you as a council don't figure out mitigation for what's going to happen in the next 7 to 8 years of what's happened now today, then they will make you find a mitigation. Someone's going to go to court and they will have you do some things that maybe you don't want to do and has it been vetted by the community? So I'm asking you today that, you know, you have to give something to the community that has taken all the negative effects of port and port related businesses and give them something. And I say give them some hope. At least let them know that you're talking about it, you're thinking about it. And whatever you decide today, you know, it's going to be a tough decision. But whatever you decide today, it's not it's not over. It's going to take a long time. I think a lot of the studying has just begun. A lot of the inclusion and the input from businesses has just begun. And I never thought I'd be quoting Bob Foster, but I remain of all people. Right. But when he when when someone said, well, think about Carson and Wilmington residents. Since when are our residents second class and have to take us are just are less valuable than other residents in this area and if we can't take care of Long Beach who can we take care of? So good luck. And whatever you do, you know the community is with you. But we hope that , you know, again, give them hope. Thanks. Thank you. And I want to say I'll be I'll be late for dinner. Good evening. My name is Scotty Galloway. I'm a licensed civil engineer and a lead accredited professional. I'm also a father of two kids under five years old. I want another. I've made a career out of sustainability and I want nothing more than more greenspace, more water retention, more water infiltration and. But those are side benefits of what the primary driver that I've heard here tonight and through other presentations regarding the tie is that it's air quality. And the air quality test that has occurred occurred in 2011. It's been four years. I've personally installed and managed the installation of 25 to ship power outlets at the Port of Long Beach. Not to mention the other green enhancements that the port has done. More green trucks. And I haven't that's not taken into full effect of what that benefits or those benefits are. Um, so if we can get the quantifiable effects of what the air quality is now in the area. And has there been an air current study? Because if you only move it a quarter mile or a half a mile to the east or to the west, is that the air currents could still carry the particulates back to the same area. So I don't I haven't heard any references to the air quality or the air current studies or where the source of all of it is. They're only addressing the part from PCH to Willow. And in closing, I take you back to where we began. We began the session today with people looking for parking permits and parking concessions. Thanks to term limits. You won't have to deal with it. But think about the your your successors that will have to deal with the residents that are voting for it and for the Green Park now when the trucks start driving through their neighborhood. Thank you. Thank you. Honorable Vice Mayor City Council. My name is Brian Olszewski and the executive director of City Fabric. We're a nonprofit design studio based out of Long Beach, dedicated to improving our communities through public interest design, planning, policy development and civic engagement. Thank you for having the foresight to apply for the Caltrans Environmental Justice Grant to create this community vision to reshape the West Side by transforming the term Long Island Freeway, the city owned transit Terminal Island Freeway into a greenbelt and local infrastructure. While some have stated the commissioning would be the largest. Largest freeway removal in Southern California history. A more accurate description would be that it would be the first in Southern California history, but in reality would also be the smallest urban freeway removal in our nation's history. Based on the numbers vehicles it serves and the length of right of way considered for removal. Previous freeway removal projects included the Riverfront Freeway in Chattanooga, which carry twice as much vehicles. Portland carries even more Park Park East and Milwaukee carries 35,000. In San Francisco removed two freeways totaling 150,000 vehicles that serve their downtown financial district. That is their economic engine. That is the economic engine of the Bay Area. Instead. What we're also talking about is New York City is currently looking at removing the Sheridan Freeway, which served the Port Authority's Hunt Point, a port facility that carries three times as many vehicles as the Terminal Island Freeway. With the Terminal Island freeways paltry 11, about 11,000 vehicles a day. A more relevant comparison would be Broadway Redondo, which recently experienced pedestrian and oriented street enhancement fourth Street, which has wrecked on Retro Row, which has Parklets and SROs, Orange Avenue, North Long Beach, which was reconfigured in 2000 to remove travel lanes to create bike lanes. According to a 2012 traffic study commissioned by the Port of L.A. for another transportation project, every intersection along this alternative route of Alameda Street operates an E, A or B operations A level of service. There's very few intersections that we drive through regularly that have such a levels of performance. And Caltrans, I mean, sorry, and the Air Quality Management District and the ports of Long Beach and L.A. are actually collaborating on investing further in this corridor, through that through the zero emissions corridor, which hopefully our trucks will be able to take advantage of. We're looking at an opportunity to fundamentally change the health and well-being of residents of West Long Beach by defining this higher and greater use of the Terminal Island Freeway. Right of way, transforming this last mile of the Terminal Island Freeway into a local serving street. And public public open space is a bold step, not one to be taken lightly, but it's nothing to fear as it is the right direction for the community and the city. I hope you will join the overwhelming support within the community by approving this plan and taking the next forward, taking this plan to the next steps. Thank you very much. Thank you. Good evening, City Council. My name is Taylor Thomas. I'm a resident of the First District, former resident of the seventh District, a research and policy analyst with Expert Communities for Environmental Justice. I didn't come here planning to speak, but I was just moved. I saw all of the energy industry speaking and you're probably looking around and wondering like where all of the residents, right? This is a very important project, so why aren't they here? And I can tell you, as a resident, we already put in our time. We gave up our Saturday mornings over a very long process to give input on this project. I don't I didn't see any of those people who spoke in opposition to the project at any of those workshops, and they raised the issues about air quality. Our neighborhoods already have trucks going through them. The air quality is already bad. If that if they were really concerned about what our neighborhoods are going through

h, they would be cleaning up their trucks. They would be rerouting them to the Alameda corridor. But instead, they're here fighting a project that will bring green space to an area that is part poor, that suffers high rates of cancer and asthma. Our children missed school because they have asthma. Our parents miss work because they have to care for their children. It's insulting to the city development services, the staff, the consultants and all of the residents who have been a part of this process for several years to come here and oppose this project tonight. So I'm asking that you do not punish the residents. You don't punish punish the residents of West Long Beach because people did not take the time to participate in this very lengthy process. So I'm asking you to move forward with this item as is. Thank you. Good evening, counselor. Laura Cortez, Long Beach Alliance for Children with Asthma. I also want to point out that we did have some community members that came by, also had to leave a little earlier. And I would also like to express my support for the Green Terminal Island plan and. Hope that you can prioritize clean air and environment, since this is what the community felt was important during the workshops. We all know that Long Beach suffers many health impacts, including 15,000 children with asthma, according to the L.A. County survey, and that the West has less park space than East Long Beach and is disproportionately affected by particulate matter, as was stated in the earlier presentation. Greening the tie would have huge positive impacts on the West, as you already know, and you have already, it seems to have a recommendation to move forward with this. So we would just greatly appreciate that you continue working toward it and continue working with other organizations to do so. Thank you. Good evening, Vice Mayor. City Council. My name is Leigh Fukui. I'm a resident of sixth district. I'm a founding member of regular is going green. It's a tree planting organization, also a member of Wrigley Clean team. And I'm a member of the city's Tree Advisory Committee. I was kind of shocked at how many people came out in opposition to this. This is a park and it's a park that in a that's necessary in a badly neglected part of town. It's park poor. The residents are obviously suffering from high cases of asthma, cancer, etc.. This is all we all know this. So what is the problem? Why? Why is it that every time we have something like this that we have the unions come out? The truck drivers come out and say, no, no, no, that we want to keep everything the same. Keeping every everything the same isn't the answer. We need to move forward. We need to create more park space. And there's very limited areas to do that. This is a smart plan. It's a good plan. It's a necessary plan. We just had the forest wetlands open up and that's going to link up with the Mingus gap. That's going to link up with the River Link project, and that's going to connect to other parks that's necessary. That's what we have to do for Long Beach. That's what we have to do for our citizens. That's our responsibility. We can get there and we can get zero emissions, but we're going to have to sacrifice some things. It's going to be hard, but to say keep everything the way it is is not a solution. There's going to be sacrifices going to have to be made. The Clean Trucks program is working. The port is doing its best to make it a clean port. We're getting there. This is another as someone else said, this is another piece of the puzzle. It's necessary. We shouldn't be fighting over this. More parks are good. It's good for the environment. It's good for our city. It's good to attract more clean energy jobs and clean energy companies to here. How are we going to be attractive if we're if we keep looking the way we do? I mean, we already have this diesel death zone that we're trying to shed. We have a number of hurdles that we have to shed in this city to get and attract those businesses. Those new entrepreneurs, they're looking at other cities. Seattle. Portland. You're talking about losing port jobs. I'm sorry, but you know, that's competition. You are going to get competition from other ports that are opening up. But we have to see that and we have to encourage greener jobs to come here. That's the future. I'm sorry, but thank you. Please move this forward. Thank you very. Much. Thank you. Good name. Vice-Chair City Council. My name is Tony Rivera, former. Chair of the West Side. I just want to tell everybody thank you for the openness on this project. I staff and everybody else did a very good job. I went to some of the meetings. It was open to the public for everybody to assist. It was publicized very well. I got like three messages and 1.3 messages on the computer and all over the place. I know it was there. So one thing. I want to mention is this piece of the freeway and I'm on parole, by the way. I'm proud of the project. So one little piece on the freeway is only going to affect a few people. This is only traffic is only going to the rail rail. It has projects that is going to go through Alameda corridor. We spent over 280 millions on the line. I mean, a corridor. And they better use it. They better use it. In their road. Myself, I had trucks. I have a business on the way, so. I know that we might have a problem. Too much traffic on PCH. We might need to consider later on on up in Anaheim. But the traffic today, it took me from Long Beach Freeway to Santa Fe just to get to my business. It took me 20 minutes. So I don't want to hear the other people. The way they. Said it is going to create problems. Locsin has a legitimate concern, but I need to tell you, I'm one of the pioneers of the. Weeds in Alameda is one of the correct roads to go with over weeds. They have a really good sound road. It's just a matter of changing it. When the project goes through, it has to be changed so they can get the weeds through ther

e. Right now, that's the only problem I see on the other ways I mention it to them, because they came in and they got they got a lot of business. On the side of the warehouses. But that doesn't justify to start the the project to benefit all these people that we've been suffering. I've been in almost 40 years and doing business or working with companies and it's time to work together. Union I'm sorry, but the. Union I love union and I love the longshoremen's. I got friends working there, but they need to get to work together to move more trucks at night. Quickly because I got people there waiting 5 hours on the port. There's a lot of contamination. And the contamination of these get done that the port. Is already clean. Let's cut that off. The rail is the problem. A locomotive that comes through there, the Union Pacific or anyone, there's not a black locomotives is contaminated like crazy more than the port or more than a lot of cars in combine. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you, Vice Mayor. Council members give me this. Time to speak. As a veteran, disabled veteran from the Vietnam era. I enlisted twice, but I felt getting out of high school, I was in good shape. B Damn, what's going on? So a lot of people getting drafted back in that area and I joined. I believe that I can serve my country in the way I feel in my heart that I can do. My attitude is grabbing the bull by the horns. Take care of action. A lot of veterans are the same way we came home. Even up to now, every company and you probably hear about it gets a $5,000 tax write off if they hire a veteran. A lot of the veterans, especially now the younger post-9-11 veterans, come back from Iraq, Afghanistan. You know, it's part of war. They come back not another percent PTSD or they do the arm or leg. These companies hire veterans. Because they'd done their job. You know, now we got to help them do their jobs. And I'm proof of that. I work down here, but I because of my knees, I had to replace them. I'm like a 53 Chevy, you know, replace bar joints and stuff like that. But anyway, I don't have any grits and I don't have anything that's growing up in Wilmington. I'm healthy. Stage shape, meet the right food. And I think that's the problem with this small community. It's shocking. I feel embarrassed by you guys discussing. I heard somebody say there's 50,000 people in that residence. Only a fraction of them show up here. So who's really concerned about the greenbelt? The people who work for them or the people they get paid to do the survey. I mean, these people here, here, they got good information. But you guys live in Long Beach. Did they pay you good money? Okay. These people that live there, that Green Park. They get paid. I've been in a couple of villages and some of their. I got veterans right here and there. I help one to PTSD and I gave them Easter cards. The kids go and there's officers. I'm pretty sure you'll have your office up here. Do you have air purifiers? Why not research the sch ools and the residents? They're paying rent. They don't own the houses. They're paying rent. Whoever owns those properties, they should investigate. That's a good job for you guys to do. Follow up on that before you start going with this. Put veterans out of work and the truckers and make sure those houses are up to par with. If it's, you know, progress is going to go forward. You need to make sure those schools there have air, clean air, like you do in your offices up here. In the hospital air purifiers they suck all the the stuff to fly around in the dust, not just from the port, but from the house closing the people who own the property, they're not going to go. That costs too much money. And for the to help the vetters keep their jobs and keep fighting them when they come home. They didn't get the Vietnam Veterans parade. I have not seen one. But yet the people were making sure that the young veterans come back. And take care of the veterans so it don't happen like us and you. My name is Jonathan Cassata. I am a chaplain. Vietnam Veterans of America, average life member and also now a Native American better. I want to thank you all. I hope you really think about it. Investigate with the community, the houses. And time is up. Thank you. I appreciate it. Apologize often. I'm a talker and I get frustrated. I talk and I thank you all. God bless you. Thank you. Good evening. Madam Vice Mayor and honorable members of council. I'm Richard Hines. I'm proud to be one of your five Harvard commissioners, and I know everyone's very tired. And I'll be very brief because I didn't write a long speech. I did want to come down and clarify that the port and the Board of Commissioners specifically have not taken a position on the green tie. My comments tonight are just my views and they don't represent the Board of Harbor Commissioners. I absolutely support, as my vote indicated, to help pay for a study and to support the West Long Beach Livability Plan. But the board, myself included, support our community. We're part of the community. I did want to mention, though, I mean, we've seen a lot of pro and con tonight, and I think we need to try and bring everyone together here. If we move forward with a study. It's going to be important that we look at replacement infrastructure. If you take out an overweight corridor that supports the movement of goods from our port, we're going to have to build new infrastructure. The good news is there is a project that would help tremendously. And Councilwoman Lena Gonzalez is the chair of the Alameda Corridor Transportation Authority, which I sit on the board with her. And there is a project that connects the Schuyler High Bridge directly to PCH in Alameda. The 47 flyover goes directly over Alameda Street, bypasses five stop signs and stoplights, creates snack grade separation for all the rail tracks. And. The reason why truck drivers don't use Alameda is it's not convenient. We need to make Alameda convenient as a true over weight corridor and have the ice ETF realign their gates to Alameda. And if there is a gig that will be built, that they be built on Alameda, their gates as well. You see, if we build this project, we wouldn't have the need to move 6000 trucks down the down the Thai freeway. Right now, this project is $330 million. And I come here asking for your help because it's going to it's a heavy lift. It's going to take the city and the port. And we're going to have to engage the city of L.A. to work together to get $330 million. We have a green light. It was sued by the. There was litigation by the NRDC. And it's been we've won every lawsuit at the state level, at the federal level. We went through the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and won. So I only ask that we if we're looking at a study that we look at this project as well, because this is this is a real solution. If we can get our S.R. 47 flyover, then I think that a lot of the people that spoke in opposition tonight, they may be okay, because I think we have a real solution here. Anyway, that's all I have for you. Thank you so much. I know it's been a long night and you guys have had a lot of public comment and I'm happy to answer any questions if you guys have anyone to discussion. Thank you. Thanks, Rich. We will take it behind the dias. Sir. You've already know. No. On different issues. They were different issues. Well. Sir, we cannot speak from we can't speak from the audience. Thank you. We've heard your testimony. I appreciate it. All right. I know where. And that's an unfortunate characterization. Thank you, sir. Please have a seat. Okay. I will take you behind the dias, Councilmember. Your Honor. Thank you, Vice Mayor. First of all, I want to thank everybody who spoke tonight on both sides of this matter. We're paying attention. We listened. We're going to discuss it. Obviously, there's there's a lot of emotion attached to it. It's not an easy decision where we sit here and try to decide which direction we want to take on a matter that's so important to not only transportation and goods movement, but also to the residents of those areas that are going to be affected by it. In regards to the clean air and the mobility, that that is much needed there. I want to emphasize again what I said earlier. It's it's a project in concept. It can change. And I'm pretty sure that it will change as we move forward with this. If we do, in fact, move forward with this, it's not a project already in place. The recurring theme that I heard tonight from both sides is that it's incomplete. There's still a lot more things that need to be accomplished. I met with a contingency contingent of goods movement, people led by the Future Ports. Elizabeth Warren and I and I made a promise at that meeting. I said, if anything goes forward, we're going to engage them. We're going to go to the stakeholders. We're going to make sure that they are involved in that discussion and participate in that conversation, because appa rently there's been somewhat of a lapse, if you want to call it that. But this is one part in a long, lengthy process that's taking place, and there's a lot of moving parts to this. You know, we can go from A to B or to C or D without going through those steps. And this is one step in that process. So I want to make sure that, you know, that I want to make sure you know that I did hear you. And there is information that's lacking here. We don't have a complete transportation study. We don't know what the effects of closing that one mile stretch of the to freeway will do to the goods movement. We need to know that if we're going to do anything at all. So what I would like to do is to amend the motion to move that the city of Long Beach work with the cities of Los Angeles and Carson and the ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles to develop a plan for goods. Movement. Transportation. Without this segment of the to freeway and to fill any necessary gaps. I would like to move that. We continue more outreach with our stakeholders and provide a more detailed design and potential sources of capital and operational funding, including grants. And I would like to have a progress report on their movement within six months. So what I'm trying to do with this motion basically is say. Let's let's study it further. Let's move it along so that everybody who at the end of the day, we have all of the information that's needed. And we're not just stopping here tonight. If we do not go forward, we do not go forward. There's nothing there. And everybody's at a loss and nothing happens. And it's it's status quo. We can't have status quo. We need to help. We have to help people move their goods in an efficient way. I just heard about a solution right now with the CTA, which is which was a plan that was developed, what, ten, 15 years ago. So we need to move with that. We need to endorse that project by endorsing this. So I, I made the motion and I hope I can help to have the support of my council members. Thank you. I will. Thank you, Councilmember Urunga. So you've made a motion and it's been seconded by Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilman, with those, would you like to address the motion? Yes, I, too, want to thank everybody for being here. Everybody had some great comments in relation to the West Side. I know both Councilmember Suranga and myself are very much invested in the West Side and I know both business owners and residents alike. I know how much we all have endured many issues along the West Side. I myself live on the western side of the city, not the west side, but the western side of the city. I'm very proud to represent part of that, both industry and residents. And I think this is a beautiful, beautiful plan. It certainly is. I think this is a very a plan that did incorporate a lot of community input. But I, I will have to agree with Councilmember Suranga that there are some missing pieces with that as well. And so not to say that this is not going to move forw ard, you know, that's not to say that at all. But I think there does need to be further discussion, further study so we can look at other pieces. I myself personally did not get a briefing until two weeks ago. And it's unfortunate. You know, I know that my my staff member went to one meeting, but it's unfortunate that I was not personally briefed on this. And I you know, I don't know where the missing link was on that, but I feel that there needs to be more. This is a it's a huge undertaking to have this put presented in front of us. And for us as council members to make a decision like this, I think there needs to be more information put in front of us, all of us. I do have a few questions related to the plan. I do share the actor, the Alameda Quarter Transportation Authority. I also chair the i 17 Project Committee. I'm also on SCAD. I understand that it went to SAG back in July. How does this marry with other governing board plans? I know that the S.R. 47, I don't think has been discussed, so it would be good to have that studied within the plan. But has this been presented to the I 710 Project Committee? That's a question. The city manager. Angela Reynolds. So answer that. I believe the answer is no. All right. So we've discussed. This with ACOG, but not specifically with the 710 Project Oversight Committee. Okay. And so it would be good to do that as well or to have some sort of, you know, relationship with the two. Because I think it's important that all of these plans are put together. I want to see the cohesion of all of these plans and make it a very mindful and fruitful plan. But to include the I seven term project committee, which now actually includes the River Link plan, which is very important as well, especially to the West Side. Also as our 47, as we discuss and then as far as logistics, I still haven't heard a specific solution. I know the traffic solutions perhaps that could be in the study, but there were there are 11,000 trucks going trucks and cars going down the RTI. So where exactly would be they be moved to? Well, Councilman Gonzales, I think I can take a crack at that. It's about 11,000 vehicles estimated now.

About half of them are trucks. So that's more like 6000 trucks at the Cloverleaf at PCH. They can either go east or west at this present time, and they do so. That's a heavily traveled route. They go west, they go to the Alameda corridor. They go east. They go over to the 710. But we have that's just a bird's eye view. We have not done any environmental studies. And the categorical exemption that is going along with this project is that it's exempt from security because it's a feasibility study and it doesn't have any entitlements or funding or anything connected to it. So if we proceed to do more study and more outreach, then comes the secure piece, which is an air, complete air. And we probably would also look at the federal side, the NEPA, the the NEPA view as well. So those kinds of things won't come until we ac tually have a project description and we're moving forward. But they will come. Okay. And so I just want to. And then outreach to other cities. I'll emphasize that as well. Of course, Carson City of L.A. to include San Pedro and Wilmington, of course. Again, just reiterating the fact that, you know, many of us sit on regional boards and to sit on these regional boards with other colleagues of ours that are from other cities, it's important that we can speak to these issues, to speak to these projects very articulately, and that we can do so in a way that really works together with these cities, not just putting a plan in place and not having worked with them. Councilwoman Gonzales We completely understand, and that's really the first step, is all the logistics of getting everybody to the table. This was a high level concept with the community. That is what was funded through the Caltrans grant. We have it's even written in the implementation, all those other folks that we need to get together with. Okay. And then lastly, I know that, uh. So asthma, of course, is a huge issue. I know that the Port of Long Beach had, um. Were that was there any talk of reinstituting asthma programs from the Port of Long Beach? Because I know that, uh, we had not been doing that anymore. So how. How was that? I'm sorry. I'm having a hard time hearing you. Are you asking if we met with the Asthma Coalition or. Well, not the Asthma Coalition. I know the Port of Long Beach had been funding some asthma programs, and so it's no longer happening at this point. So I just wanted to see what the discussion was during these community meetings about reinstituting programs like that. Right. I think that the that asthma program is run out of the Health and Human Services Department and in the West, Livable West, Long Beach Plan. We note that as an overall project in that area that we would like to continue to seek funding for. And Councilmember, if I can add, we are very aware that the asthma program was funded by the community mitigation grants. That was part of that bucket of money that was distributed out as part of the impacts from some of the port projects. And so that is coming to an end that grant cycle. And we have been having discussions with the executive officer at the Port of Long Beach over how important that program is and seeing how that can get restarted and refunded. Do we know how much that cost? Uh. I don't have a bit on my head, but I'd be happy to get that to you. Great. Thank you. And I will support Councilmember Unger's motion on that. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzales. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Vice Mayor. So in the last few hours of discussion, I've been trying to keep track so I can understand both sides of this issue. So it sounds like the folks who are pro this motion tonight want a receiver file. And the folks who are opposed to this want to receive a file. The folks who are in support of this want a traffic study. The people who are opposed to this want a traffic study. The people who are in support of this one year fully air and seek peer review. And people who are opposed to this want the same before air and seek review. But I have a letter from the city of Carson that, you know, asked for a detailed analysis to be done to evaluate the impacts of projects on, you know, of the project on traffic conditions, noise, air quality, vehicle, miles traveled, all these things that I know are considered in a traffic study and environmental review. I have a. This green tie plan that I took the last 2 hours to highlight. And I'm just going to review page 61 says the later study phases of the Green Sky project will have to examine environmental and regulatory environmental issues, risks, potential mitigations and much more detail than has been previously addressed thus far because of the urgency and significance of these issues. It's recommended that environmental study be conducted as soon as possible to help determine the project's feasibility. Ideally, this should commence as soon as the project is defined to a sufficient level of detail. So the capital and operating costs as well as a purpose in each statement can be provided. It also says additional state and local laws and industry standards to be considered include but are not limited to CPC state and federal laws. Full range of environmental impact assessments from noise to air water runoff. A traffic analysis so significant for study. Further study is needed to fully understand all of the traffic implications which are discussed in more detail below. Neighboring impacts, particularly on residents and disadvantaged communities such as those in West Long Beach, Wilmington and Carson. A significant issue for further implementation of the Green PSI project involves the impact that reduced lanes and speed may have on traffic in the subregion and in effective adjacent neighborhoods and major facilities. So. So I guess my first question is, when did this document get when was this document circulated the actual plan? When was this circulating? Or put put forward? Councilman Richardson. Yes, that was posted on our website about two weeks ago. Okay. And since that was put out or even before that, have we actually reached out to the city of Carson City, Los Angeles, at all, at any point? No, I don't believe we have. Okay. I would say. I see. I just think we sort folks got ahead of each other and. I see. I mean, when you just take a step back and look at it. Everything folks are asking for is here. And it's not anyone. One of these councils intention to circumvent any processes or to not speak to any of the stakeholder groups or any of the adjacent cities. But I do think because the cart got ahead of the horse. I think Councilman Durango was right in saying that we should intentionally reach out to those adjacent communities. Now, since we receive, we should respond to this letter what what they're asking for. This letter says C ity of Carson didn't receive any information. So we respectfully request request to be included in all future discussions, deliberations. We deal with their council members on different boards. We deal with their city managers. We have a pretty good relationship with their staff. So I think it goes a long way to just pick up a phone and make a phone, pick up the phone and make a phone call. So that would be my first suggestion coming out of this. And I think that the motion on the table satisfies that. And are there any challenges or legal issues with us picking up the phone and making a call? Mr. City Manager. No. No. Okay. And Councilmember, if I can add, we agree with that point and we actually did speak with the Carson today. They called and asked for some backup on their on the project. And we explained what the next steps were. And the number one step, as you saw, would be to discuss if the plan moves forward to discuss with Carson and City of Los Angeles. Okay. So just to be clear, does any of the action tonight actually close the freeway or does it get us out of our square requirements whatsoever? Councilmember Richardson. No, it doesn't close the freeway. And. We certainly don't ever want to circumvent secure and the environmental process. And we fully intend to do that and meet with all the other stakeholders and get it all done prior to. Ever thinking. About closing the freeway. There's a lot of work still to be done. This, again, is a preliminary concept plan. We didn't reach out to a lot of other cities such as Carson, because it's just a concept plan coming out of the city. Of Long Beach. And I understand that. So my question now is about what's included in that next level of study. Tonight, we I heard about this flyover, and I can't say that I'm an expert on every freeway in that area. It's not my council district. It's not my job to be the expert in that area. But it sounded like there's a really cool project that the port is excited about. And and I know because of all of the history I know about skiing and the intention there is to remove or remove trucks and idling and all that stuff. And so will all of that be considered in the air or in the environmental study, the impacts to these other infrastructure projects? Absolutely. There's a section in the in an ER where you have to look at all the cumulative project impacts and that would be including skiing. Okay. Now the next question, does what level of design or what level in the process does this project have to have to actually achieve before you can actually go through the air process? Is there a threshold like 5% design or something like that? I would say 5 to 10%. But really when you start an environmental process, you have to have a fully vetted what they call a project description. So yeah, you would have to have at least 5%. 10 to 15 would probably be better so that you knew exactly what you were studying. Okay. And do we have that today? No, we don't. Okay. So there's n o way we could have done that prior to now. No. Plus, this is a non funded I mean, the 250,000 from Caltrans was just to prepare what we prepared. There is no other funding associated with this project at this time. Okay. So so those are my questions. And it's pretty clear to me that, you know, the community is divided on this particular will. Stakeholders in the community are divided on this. And particularly because the process has evolved enough to even get to the point of negotiating a place where, you know, different stakeholders are happy or you have consensus on the issue. Luckily, have you know, most of the stakeholders have consensus. So you halfway there, you've got labor and business together. So now you've got to figure out the rest. I would say, you know, I could see how since this is so new in that, you know, that's that's that brings uncertainty. And I understand how that might be challenging for business or for port entries or how decommissioning a freeway or transitioning a freeway could be challenging or even scary. But that only underscores why we should study it even more, folks, to understand it. I don't I can't claim to understand it. And I think there is a deeper level of understanding that we need here, because I don't think anyone's going to argue that we need infrastructure. But I also wouldn't say that anybody's going to argue that we need environmental justice. So I just think we're a little bit premature in general to jump to. I support I have pros. I want to learn more. So I'm glad to hear that this action tonight does not stop us from having an absolutely full EIA seek review and traffic study. So that's those are my comments and I'll be in support. Thank you, Councilmember Richardson. Councilwoman Price. Thank you. Can I just get some clarification on the motion that's on the floor? From anyone. Sure. I could see vice vice mayor, members of the council. I was going to ask for clarification. I heard the amendment by Councilmember Urunga, but I believe if I understood it correctly, his motion is to receive and file the Green Terminal Island Transition Plan in accordance with the terms of the Department of Transportation grant and accept the categorical exemption, and then added to that directed staff to reach out to the additional affected community members and communities affected by this project. So if I may, Mr. Park, and that would be specifically these asking for the city of Long Beach to work with the cities of Los Angeles and Carson and the ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles to develop a plan for goods movement that does not consider this segment of the freeway without this segment of the Terminal Island Freeway and filling us this very gaps. And I think the motion also went on to ask that we continue. Extended outreach with stakeholders and more. And provide more detailed design and potential sources of capital and operation funding, including grants. And then you'd like a report back in six months. On the p rogress. I think the. The key issue, I think, to the culture of looking at is, is the initial receiver filed a motion. My amendment was not to receive a file amendment was to do this replace the receiver file with this. So if I may, Councilmember, I you. That's what I heard you say. But then I wasn't sure. So. Vice Mayor and council, if I may. I think the council, it's requested here that you receive the documents in compliance with the grant terms and conditions and accept the category exemption. I think by identifying that plan and accepting it, it's complying with the terms of the money that paid for it. So that's a step that we'd have to take. And and then you can add to it the portion of your motion. I think my concern basically is that I don't want to spread this. I have to go on a shelf. Right. And. Absolutely. I think that that's a concern that we may all share. And the receiving file terminology is actually quite awkward for the action that we're taking because it does sound like we're shelving it and that's not what it means. So thank you for that clarification. Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you. Yes, I appreciate that clarification. And, you know, like my colleagues who spoke before me this evening, I'm very grateful for all the comments and the perspectives that everyone brought to the table tonight. I think it's really, really helpful for all of us and the decisions that we're making. And I understand this is a long term project and the funding source hasn't been identified. And we're really talking about conceptual planning right now, and I get that. But sometimes when we talk about conceptual planning, people start to get a sense of hope about a project and they want that. And I get that. That's that's how it should be. So if we need to do any studies or have any sort of additional outreach, I think that needs to be clarified early so that everybody understands that we're going to go through that process if additional outreach is needed with the other cities or the other folks who have expressed concern and I share with Councilman Richardson, you know, it's not uncommon to hear from business or to hear from labor, but it is uncommon to hear from them together, expressing the same concern about something that is as important as goods movement. So I think it's definitely worth looking at and I just want to make sure that we're all clear that as this project moves forward, there's going to be an opportunity for all the stakeholders to be briefed and have the opportunity to have workshops and dialog. And I think that's the spirit of the motion. Councilman Urunga Is that the spirit of the motion? Okay, I think that's great because I think it's a beautiful design. By the way, the team that has designed this, it's it's a really a beautiful design and a beautiful design for an area that definitely needs it at this time . So I think I will be supporting this motion. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Yes. Thank you. You're not to list en to all of this. I think it's very important that all of us understand that this is a long ways down the you know, the pipe. But the thing about it, just like Mrs. Ewing made the motion, that it gives us hope. And that's what I think is so important, because the fact, especially in a district like mine, that's all most of our entire structure is about hope. And this is shown is something that I think if we do get to that point where we will find the money for this, I think it will be something that we'll all enjoy. And I want to think. Thank Mr.. Yeah. Your anger and and our colleagues here and I hope that they will support this as written. Thank you very much. Can I go? Yes. I want to thank the councilman for expanding the input stage. I, I really see a value in looking at what a potential reduction of the type freeway's movement of freight could do in terms of additional bottlenecks, delays and the such that would cause additional idling and even more health hazards. And so I appreciate the hope that Commissioner Dynes brings us with a project that would pull the trucks out of the the freeway completely and do an on rail dockside rail option that could really improve the health and quality of everyone. And I know that even today I was in a meeting for several hours where a group of neighbors wanted us to make a change, that all it did was shift the issue from their area on to their neighbors. And we're looking for solutions that resolve things. So I'm really appreciative that stakeholders of neighbors, regional and industry partners will have a forum to have a discussion. I think that over the last several weeks I've talked a lot with the community about the process that council meetings have in which you have 3 minutes to make a point , but the person behind you might make a counterpoint that you then don't have an opportunity to address because the format of which council meetings are is to allow for public comment. But the dialog and discussions that can be had at a stakeholder forum I think are the most important component of our ability to come up with solutions . So with that, I'm going to be supportive of the motion and I am glad that we will be doing an air. I think that knowing and understanding the impacts on our neighbors is a really important component of our future, and I hope that we find a great way to move this additional freight. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. And I want to thank all the members of the community and stakeholders that came out to speak to this item. I know. Although we are not taking action to. Decommissioned the freeway in the very, very immediate future. It was important to each of you to have us understand where you're coming from. I wanted to touch on a couple of things that were raised by council members that I think are really salient points here. I know staff was duly taking notes on them. I would like to highlight a question that Councilwoman Gonzalez asked, and not because you did not hear it, but it is something that we value very deeply here. And that's a process we've heard about process for many members of the community. And and we do feel that a tremendous amount of outreach had taken place. And in outreach processes, it's difficult to ensure that everyone is included. But certainly we've heard from a lot of people today. And so these are these are the people definitely that we would include going forward in the continued outreach. As the amended motion asks for, but just our own process and my own understanding about our committee process. I've never served on the I 710 Freeway, but I do think Councilwoman Gonzales makes a very strong point that this is something that should be presented there. We have committee processes for that reason. And and there's a perspective there that regards this issue in the larger context of the 710 Freeway and Council. Former Councilwoman Turanga served on that committee and chaired that committee for some time, and I believe she would agree that this is something that should go there. So thank you, Councilwoman Gonzales, for raising that and and being honest and in letting us know that that had not taken place. So I think our internal process needs to improve as well. And the feasibility study is while it seems as though we are taking immediate steps to close this freeway and create the park space that we indicate we'd like to. It is really a first step in being able to qualify to ask that larger question and consider that larger question. And so for members of the public that felt that this meant that this was much farther down the road, I want to assure you, unfortunately for many of us that work in planning, this is the start of a very long process. And I think Ms.. Reynolds mentioned that earlier. And so community members that have been with us Saturday mornings and committed your days. Unfortunately, it's not over. It's much longer process than that. So I ask all of you interested on either side of the issue to maintain your stamina and follow this project through? This is something that Mr. Ulysses Jeff Sky had mentioned to me in 2006. And so while it might be new to some of us, it's not new to all of us. And I'd like to thank you, Brian, for your ardent and strident advocacy of this issue. It is something that you have worked on for quite some time, as you have many other projects. And as a member of the community who many of you have commented that you don't get paid for volunteer time. I will submit to you a lot of people don't get paid for their volunteer time. And Mr. Liszewski spent the better part of ten years advocating for this. And I live in the city. You live in the city? This is something that we can see through. It is not impossible to imagine where 11,000 trips a day can go, how they can be diverted. When a community inspires a will to improve its quality of life, they do think it's worth our attention and our time to take note and allow ourselves to ask that question.

So this council is not afraid to ask that question, even if it is a process that will take ten years from now. So, Brian, I thank you for that. I thank you for never taking your eye off the prize and holding us to it. Would that council members please cast your vote? Motion carries. Thank you. Item 25 Report from Financial Management. Recommendation to approve the Fiscal Year 2015 fourth Departmental and Fund Budget Appropriation Adjustments Citywide. Item 30 Report from Public Works and Financial Management. Recommendation to enter into on Bell financing agreements with Southern California Edison to fund the Con to fund the conversion of the city's streetlights to LED fixtures citywide. It's very much my Councilman Andrews and Councilwoman Price. Councilman Andrews? Yes. Yes. Thank you, Mayor. I want to start by thanking the mayor for initiating the project. And I think there's a very important, you know, that we continue these efforts to, you know, include all city lights. And I am particularly partial, at least smart grid in that concept allows the certain areas of the streets to be very, you know, illuminated brighter for the public safety, you know, response. And I think that's good for any area, especially when you're in a certain part of town where that lighting is so dense. So I truly want to thank the mayor for bringing this to an end, making sure that all the streets in the city of Long Beach will be lit up. Thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. I echo those comments. I think this is a very exciting project. It's a huge project and it's really going to help us be able to use the technology in the future to enhance our public safety resources and capabilities. So thank you to the staff and the team for carrying this project through, and I understand it's a huge undertaking. So thank you. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I think what's most notable, most notable about this is the innovative, innovative way that we finance this. But I have a question. I know that we're that these there are certain smart capabilities with the these this lighting system. Aura or Mr. West, could anyone just explain to me or just quickly know what our smart lighting abilities with this project? Aura Honorable Vice Mayor Lowenthal and Honorable Richardson. Good question. So the product that we have chosen has the backbone and the capacity to accept future technologies. So what we're doing is we're purchasing additional backbone with each streetlight fixture. There will be a 77 prong receptor, which will accept a future device on top of each streetlight. So these devices could be wi fi, could be remote devices to dim the lights. It could have capacity to turn them on and off. It could have capacity to flash them. There are some technologies out there that let's say there's a 911 called you can have the system to brighten the lights within that street. They can also flash within the closest address to that street, to that address where a 911 call is being done. You could have a system that could call and say, you know, I need repairs, I'm sick, I need I need some attention. It could also accept future technologies that which we don't have, we don't know yet. So it's it's like having your receptacle at home. You can attach so many devices to it. When the receptacle was invented, we didn't know we're going to connect the TV or radio or satellite dish at one point. So the backbone is being provided. I just want to mention that we should be proud. City of Long Beach and and staff my staff. I want to thank my staff for doing a great job and getting $6 million. The city of Long Beach put practically no cost to anyone. This this is going to be the largest conversion within the United States as far as streetlights are concerned. There have been larger conversion that has already occurred, but currently this would be the largest conversion going on. Did I answer your question? I think you did. I think nobody can articulate it the way you do. Are. So. So I just think it's good that we know that this I really see this project as a gateway to looking at that future technology. You know, there's stuff like ShotSpotter we talked about in the past, and there are mechanisms being developed now that just attach to a light pole and provide the exact same, you know, where you can detect where a gunshot is in and triangulate that by having this technology built into the light pole. So I wanted to make sure that we didn't just vote and approve approve this without us fully understanding where we can go with this, because this is really amazing work. So congratulations are and and I'll be voting in support, obviously. Thank you. There's been a motion and a second. And there's no member of the public that wish to address the council on this item. Members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Cane. We are at ordinances. Report from Public Works recommendation to receive supporting documentation including resident ballot summary into the record. Conclude the public public hearing and request the City Attorney to prepare an amendment to the Long Beach Municipal Code to establish preferential parking District 80, as recommended by the City Traffic Engineer District five. Thank you, Mr. Modica. Thank you, Vice Mayor, members of the City Council. The presentation will be given by our Malloy and our Director of Public Works. Honorable Vice Mayor Lowenthal and Honorable Council members. The item before you is for creation of a permit parking district ADA and Council District five. The residents of this district, especially on the east side of Clark Avenue and adjacent streets south of Hartwell Park, conducted contacted the city in 2000 for expressing concerns about the negative parking situation in their neighborhoods caused by the construction projects occurring at Long Beach City College. The city implemented a temporary construction permit parking district on June 1st in 2014. Parking restriction signs were posted during t he street closure. The streets closest to the LVC campus. The duration of this temporary permit parking is 18 months and the city traffic engineer at that time determined that this will terminate in December of 2015. But the residents of this neighborhood are very concerned with the migration of students and overflow parking in the district, and they have requested that we expand or implement a complete permit parking district in the same neighborhood and also expand two more streets. In order to determine the support, we conducted a survey and we received numerous ballots from the residents. Total of the total of 79 homes in this district. We surveyed all 79, which received 63%. 63 homes were responded to the survey and 54 were in in support of this district. And nine homes were not in support of this district. We have received 68% support from the neighborhoods for creation of this district. We're requesting city council to conduct a hearing and establish this district permanently for Council District five. And this will be called a district aid. That concludes my report. And we're here to answer any questions that you may have. Thank you. Can. Is there any member of the public that wish to address the Council on Hearing Item one? Please come forward to state your name. Good evening. My name is Carol Shaw, and I live in the. Proposed. Preferential parking district area. I've lived at my current address for over 30 years. I'm a retired employee of the city of Long Beach. And I'm. Also the president. Of the neighborhood watch for for our neighborhood. This preferential parking. District request is is the result of more. And more building at Long Beach City College and increasing student populations and demand for parking. This has been an ongoing problem for. The last over 10 to. 20 years. It just keeps growing more and more every year. Because the college has grown. More and more and they have taken away parking actually, or moved it further out and so and restricted all the parking on the other side of the campus. So this has. Continued to be more and more of a problem. And the temporary. Restricted parking was very successful. And so we are hoping that it. Will continue to. Assist. Us in alleviating these problems with. Students parking and speeding traffic and trash and filling the streets, which. Is really a relief not to have. Any longer. I would like. To thank Stacey Mungo for. She's been a great assistance. In helping us resolve this problem. Thank you. Good evening, members of the City Council. My name is Dawn Hainsworth and I reside at 39 Jen Clark in Long Beach, directly across Long Beach City College. It's also known as the Forces Neighborhood Group standing for Carson, Conant, Charlemagne and Clark, which are the boundaries, the boundary and streets. The residential neighborhood east of Long Beach Stadium is referenced in your exhibit, I think in your handouts. While the recommended agenda item States of the City was contact in 2014, efforts for the city to address the problem date back to September 19th, 1997, when I first contacted Mr. Edward Shikata, who was the acting Long Beach traffic engineer at the time. We've been hoping for this day for over 19 years. When we thought our home in July of 1995, we were aware of issues associated with living in the proximity of the City College, but they were tolerable. Student parking was minimal and usually lessened after the first two weeks of the semester. In 1997, 1998, the north side of Carson and Lakewood Village were given preferential parking status due to student parking issues. This migrated students to our side of the neighborhood and every year it's been an increasing problem with the proposition. E There was the passage for the parking structure which was supposed to alleviate parking issues. However, it really didn't address the to the extent that we needed it. The bond measure e continued with the $440 million expansion that Carol alluded to with New Castle classroom construction. And again, it migrated a lot of the classes to our site, to the southern side of the Carson Avenue. Then our neighborhood is not affluent or rich and upper class. We're not seeking anything more than to enjoy our homes and the ability to park in front of them when we get home at night. Just this past summer, at least a dozen new families there purchased new homes and moved into our neighborhood. And the majority of these are new young families with small children who frequently are walking and taking their strollers down the sidewalks. The biggest I would say one of the biggest advantages that we've had to the to the permit parking is the effect it has had on traffic or lessening the traffic going through the neighborhoods. Our streets are safer not only for the residents, for the students as well. Students that are going back to their cars that late at night are running a risk of being burglarized or worse. And just as Carol alluded to, the trash and. Items that are left out in the streets that I don't even want to mention have have basically disappeared. Passing the item will not only help relieve the traffic to parking and safety concerns for both residents and students, but it will help Long Beach City College restore relations between its neighbors, faculty and students. Thank you very much. Thank you. Good evening. My name is John Martinez. I live at 3911 Greenbriar right next to Carroll. One of the best neighbors in the world. Being a 17 year resident in the affected area of Greenbrier in Hanbury within the proposed 80 parking district, I stand as a strong supporter of establishing preferential parking for our area. 18 months ago, we were fortunate enough to receive support from our prior councilwoman, Sherry Ship, Ski and the Public Works Department to utilize a temporary solution to ease concern over graded parking congestion, which was going to impact our neighborhood due to construction at Long Beach City College. The neighborhood had dealt with parking issues before from college students prior to the construction and as a concern for deeper impact during the build. The city was kind enough to offer us a temporary solution. The benefit of the temporary program was a great test bed for our neighborhood with virtually no cost to us and or the city as to gauge its effectiveness. The results have proven to be very positive. Less traffic on the streets, less garbage left behind by the students. Less heinous activity in the neighborhood related to drugs, home and car break ins, fornication and flat out bad behavior in our adjacent park area. After reporting all of those within the current footprint, it was evident that this was the right path to continue on. During our early discussions prior to the temporary program, the offering was clear. If the results proved to be positive, we had the option of pursuing the permanency of this program, which is why we are here today. I would like to applaud the Long Beach City College Board of Trustees and their support for our neighborhood. Stacey Mungo for everything she's done and listening to us and taking our our message out and with with regards to our endeavor, I would like to offer the same gratitude to the city council if they approve this recommendation for us. Thank you very much. Thank you. Is there anyone else that would like to address the Council on hearing item one? Ken, I'll take it behind the real Councilwoman Mungo. Yes. If I could get those that are in the audience today from the forces. I know many of you, this is your first time to city council. If I could get you to stand. I appreciate that you're here to support. Even though each and every one of you didn't take a three minute time. Coming down to City Hall is a big deal. And I appreciate each and every one of you. I know we've spoken with many of you at several different meetings. So I want to thank you for that. Feel free to be seated. Specifically when we talk about the safety involved in walking back to our cars. I know many people know that when I walked back to my car back in college, in graduate school in L.A., someone was breaking into the car next to mine. And and there are a lot of safety precautions on the campus that students benefit from when they park in those parking structures. And I think that the adoption of ADI permit also encourages that safety for the students who may not know the area as well. I think that our communities are safe places, but when people who prey on our our neighbors know that a student is going to be away from their car for several hours, they know general start and end times of classes. That is why we have police officers assigned to Long Beach City College and to their parking structures. Additionally, while garbage is a nuisance, more importantly, it clogs our storm drains and the residents in the community have done an exceptional job both before and during this temporary parking permit. Time to maintain our community. With

El Nino coming, it's even more important than ever that we take on our daily walks each day a moment to pick up trash that we might see. I want to thank all the members who have stuck with this. I know that it has been a very long process. I ask the members of the community of the Council to support this item and the residents efforts for so long. And I'd also like to communicate the support from the Board of Trustees of Long Beach City College. Individually, those that I've spoken to are all very supportive. And then also the foundation and Jenny Baxter as the executive director, has been a great partner in this effort and really getting us over the final hurdle. And I hope that I will have the full support of the council this evening. Councilmember Richardson, would you like to address the motion? Okay. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. There's been a motion and a second. Members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Hearing item two. Okay. We are doing management had a request to take to take 15 and then the Edison an item. So we're taking a 15. Minute. Communication from Councilman Price Councilmember Supernova Councilman Andrew's recommendation to request the city manager to report back in 90 days on a timeline and costs associated with hiring a consultant to assess and review the newspaper and magazine collection for preservation. Think you're going to turn this over to Councilman Price? Thank you. Oh, that's okay. I would like to thank my council colleagues, Councilman Super nine, Councilman Andrews, for signing on to this item with me. Claudine BURNETT, former head of the Literature and History Department with our library, approached my council office about the preservation of the Long Beach history collection. Mr. BURNETT and many others are concerned with the fragile nature of the community newspapers, particularly from the 1950s through the 1970s, that need to be preserved through professional digital digitization. The Long Beach history collection has considerable asset value to the library and to the city as a whole. If the collection were to be lost, the cost to provide access to this information or information of equivalent scope and depth would be daunting, if not altogether cost prohibitive, leaving the city and the region without its history and making the Long Beach Public Library a less attractive institution for local researchers. Taking appropriate actions to ensure the protection of information and assets is a significant interest for the city of Long Beach. The most crucial priority is preserving, digitizing and access to the city's unique newspaper collection. I appreciate the city manager and the director of Library Services providing the City Council with a roadmap on how best to preserve our Long Beach history collection and for assisting us in developing this agenda item. I want to thank the folks who have reached out to our office in support of this item, and I want to request that my council colleagues sup port this item. I know that the cost is probably going to be high because this is an important function and it's going to require expertise. But I think it's very important and we should at least start looking into what those costs and resources needed are going to be as we move forward. Thank you. Okay. Thank you, Councilmember Price. That's okay. Is there. Is there a staff report? We just stand ready to respond. We're totally supportive of this. Okay, Councilwoman Mongo. I, too, am very supportive. Do we know what percentage of our newspaper and magazine collection is unique to Long Beach versus the magazines and newspapers that are being digitized by the county library, which we are a part of the county library system and other many newspapers are digitizing their own. Is that a part of the assessment? If it's not, can we edit or do I need to make a friendly. I have to ask Glenda Williams, our library director, to respond to that. Good evening, Councilwoman Mongo. As far as your question is concerned, the project will look at the newspapers in Long Beach. So looking at the Press Telegram and its predecessors, the Independent and the press telegram and some of the newspapers that we've been able to put in our collection from the different neighborhoods. So that's what we'll be looking at digitizing. And we're coming back to council with the report, and you'll be working with Lang to see if they're already doing such things and what access might cost instead of the single digits ourselves. Oh yes, we look at all aspects of it we can. Wonderful. I appreciate that. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Yes. First of all, I'd like to thank Councilman Price for asking me to sign on for this item, because I've been here in Long Beach over 70 years and I truly know the value of the documents. And if these are, you know, not to be served, we could lose some of the historical information that makes Long Beach, you know, the great city that it is. So I'm looking forward to receiving a report of the city's management office. On the cost, you know this preservation. And thank you very much, councilman for Councilwoman Price. Melanie Sonnet. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzalez to and to extend my thanks for bringing this forward to Councilwoman Price and Cosigners Superman and Andrews. I think this is great. Certainly something that we need to think about. I had asked I have a question because I had asked in our last meeting related to the Civic Center about mitigation efforts. And I know that our director, Amy Burdick, had talked about supplemental air. So how does that relate to this? If, you know, if it does come out that it's going to be a large cost and how would we fit that into what we're looking at here? Again, Glenda. I'm Councilwoman Gonzalez. You're asking how the Civic Center project will help with this particular effort. Is that your question? Yes, from my understanding, the last meeting, Amy

Burdick had mentioned the supplemental E.R. that n eeded to come back to to review whether what type of mitigation efforts we could put forward for the library, the poor, the courthouse, with this play into that at all, since, I mean, it is something that we're certainly interested in doing. It's actually councilmember. I'll try to answer that question. I believe the question is whether or not digitalization is something that we should be looking at as part of the Civic Center project. The answer is yes. We definitely do intend to do that. There are some funds in the budget. They are FY16 budget that were set aside for us to begin studying digitization for all of our documents, not specifically just library. But it's something we're very cognizant of with the Civic Center project that we should be going to a digitalization of all of our records, that we're not bringing over a tremendous amount of paper into the into the new building and the new library. So while this is a separate effort, we'll also be looking at that and examining the cost of what that will be to move towards digitization, digitalization. Okay. So I just want to make sure in the mitigation efforts wouldn't be related to this, as from what I'm. Because I'm not clear on that from your answer. I don't recall a specific mitigation requirement, but we can certainly check with AMIA and see if there is we'd we definitely need to do that. Because I remember her mentioning an assessment of potential historic artifacts, which I would think this may fall under that. So just if we can get clarification on that and bring that back, that would be great. Certainly can do. Thank you. Thank you, counsel. Thank you. I guess I'm a little confused about the request in the first place. I take it that we don't have currently any kind of digital digital aging ability of any of our records at the present time. Correct. Or do we? Councilmember Turanga. Currently we do have our photos digitized now on the library's website. And so we we have those items digitized. We also have some of the early city and county directories, those ID also digitized and also available on the library's website as well as some of the yearbooks from our local high schools. So we are presently. Digitizing some some documents. Correct? Currently we are working on our photograph collection. And this request is to expand that to include periodicals, newspapers and other items that we might lose if we do not move in that direction. Yes, sir, that is correct. Okay. Now, I just heard Councilmember Gonzalez just brought up the the Civic Center efforts as well. Is there a possibility of just basically. Not who is it? Grandfather and grandmother in in this project with that one instead of having somebody separate. So Councilmember Urunga, as I understand the request, it's simply to bring back some information and do some study of what this would cost. So we'd be happy to do that, and then we'd be able to provide some information about whether and when to, you know, when to actually do t hat type of work, whether we should be doing it as part of a larger overall effort or separately, and what the cost is. Well, the only reason I'm bringing this up is that, you know, I see a better use of those moneys instead of using a consultant to go ahead and digitize documents that need to be digitized. I mean, why are we going to spend money on a study, another study to come back with a study of a report when we can just go ahead and proceed to start digitizing those documents that we need to digitize, especially those that that McWilliams can determine are high priority in regards to their potential loss if we don't do it at a sooner time. So we agree we wouldn't be spending money on this study at all on this item that's in front of us. This is just to gather information will be providing options of how to do exactly that. Well, I guess you're not getting my point. Is it just the study? I mean, how about using a much more constructively about just go ahead and use that money to digitize. That's basically what I'm saying is why are we going out to contract? To study how much it's going to cost. When we're already spending the costs that could be used towards digitizing. That's basically what I'm saying. I mean, you know, I just I'm just trying to get a handle on spending money where we really don't need to, where we could spend that money already towards the effort that we want to accomplish in the first place. That's basically where Matt. I guess it's a rhetorical question. But let me maybe add to that just a little bit. No, I appreciate that, Councilmember. I think looking at the bottom line, which is good, I think what the makers of the motion are also trying to get to is that this is an incredibly large and complex project. There's a lot of of materials and opportunities to digitize that part of the collection. And so I think we really need someone to take a kind of professional approach and review and see what's there and then prioritize those options. And Councilman Price Sure. We actually included that in there in consultation with the library, because a lot of this material has some legal and copyright issues and things that we need expertize and identifying what can be digitized, what should be digitized, how that interacts with our city website. And we don't have the resources, that is my understanding, in-house, to be to have that type of expertise. Is that right? That is correct. We'll need some assistance with this. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongeau. I might also add to that that there are a lot of grants out there that are available. Once we assess what our need is, we'll be in a better position to go after some of those grants. And then, as many are aware, this year, the Library Foundation did an excellent job in fundraising and they improved upon prior years. And projects like this are things that we can often go out and get donors for as well. But we have to know the scope of the project before we get too far ahead of ourselves

s. So I'm once again, I'm going to be supportive of this item and thank you to the community member who brought this to Councilmember Price's attention. Thank you. With that, I've got a public comment. Good evening. My name is Claudine Bernard, and I'm a retired Long Beach Public Library librarian who for many years oversaw the city's Long Beach history collection. Thank you for your service. Well, thank you. And I hope you've read some of the things I've sent you out to. Yes. And we're going to have a new one tomorrow. And what was happening here a hundred years ago in 1916. In fact, on January 11th, the city council voted to extend overtime payment for all city employees. Anyway, I'm getting ahead of myself since I couldn't say all that I wanted to in 3 minutes. I sent you an email last week outlining my thoughts, and I hope you've read it. And in September, I also sent an email listing my concerns about the collection. And the email included two lists. The needs have already been identified. List one included unique, one of a kind Long Beach newspapers. I'm sorry, Glenda. It was not the press telegram that's already been digitized, and these have been crumbling for years in the periodicals department. And it basically represents the history of all of the development of the city that occurred after World War Two. So for future his book Story INS, they're going to need that information if we're going to continue to have an on going role in the history of not only Long Beach, but Vallejo, Southern California and the nation. Well, in the emails I stressed the need for identifying, preserving and allowing access to local resources currently in the cities. And please note I mentioned city not libraries collection, and perhaps something not realized by people in City Hall is that the collection houses city documents going back over 100 years, as well as the local newspapers and newsletters we're talking about tonight. And during my stint as head of the library's literature and History Department, which oversaw the Long Beach collection, I made sure that once a year a memo went out to all city departments, telling them that anything that they were considering discarding should be offered to the city's history collection. And what an amazing treasure trove of city information that others thought useless ended up being preserved in the Long Beach collection. And the problem with every one with storage and it's a problem we have today. Now, digitization seems to be the answer to the question of storage space and an answer in rescuing the crumbling resources in the cities. Long Beach Collection Also needed is a database listing the items in the Long Beach. Storage room. Because currently the library maintains an old fashioned card catalog of items in storage. But the cards are so vague, you really have no idea what's actually there. But questions remain about the city's own reports. What is happening to cities? The city's digitized documents, once they're taken off the city's website to. Time, is all up. Oh, okay. Well, I thank you. Thank you very. Much. Okay. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name's Kate. Huizar. I'm the interim executive director for the. Long Beach Public Library Foundation. And I wanted to thank you, Councilwoman Price, for putting. This recommendation on the table this evening. The foundation sees. That digital archiving of the library. Collections is vitally important to preserving and honoring the history of Long Beach. So we're fully. Supportive. Of this recommendation to hire consultant excuse me, to assess and review the newspaper magazine collection for preservation, to also identify funding sources. For completing this digitization as well as a timeline for doing so. I'd like to stress that there is some urgency here. We believe that the digitization should be complete before Main Library's resources are scheduled to move to the new building so that. We can ensure their protection. Also, the Foundation is very interested in being part of the conversation to help fund the process of. Digitization and preservation. And we also want to be. Part of the conversation. I think we already are up to this point about how archival materials will be stored and. Access in the new main library. So thank you. Thank you. Thank speaker, please. Thank you. Maureen Nealy, Termino Avenue, Third District. Thank you to Councilwoman Price and Councilman Andrews and Super Knorr for your visionary leadership in taking this important step towards preserving long beaches, unique records. And thank you, Mayor Garcia and the Council for considering this important island. I'm the owner of House Stories, Research Consulting business for Long Beach properties, companies and neighborhoods of which local history plays a huge role, of course. And as a. Special librarian. For over 25 years, I have had access and reading rights to historic collections all over California, including places like the Getty Research Institute, UCLA, the Bancroft Library at Berkeley, the Sherman Library, as well as the Library of Congress in Washington, DC. And I say that because I am very familiar with the Long Beach collection. For over six years I've been using it, and I can say from my experience, the depth, uniqueness and economic value to city projects is immense. The newspapers contained in storage run the breath of, say, Long Beach realtor from the 1920s. The Long Beach Ink from 1984 to the Long Beach area. Citizens United Citizen News. Beginning with the founding of this game changing group in the mid 1970s. The Long Beach Review, the Los Altos Call. Enterprise, The Wrigley Bulletin and the Uptown Signal tell of the uncommon genesis of. These individual neighborhoods. These newspapers, though, all have three. Things in common. They are in various states of deterioration. They are mostly unavailable elsewhere, and they are all virtually inaccessible to the public right now. But the Long Beach history collection benefits every department in this city. It benefits every resident in the city. In particular, I join with Long Beach historians, writers, news reporters, businesspeople, academics, city staff, consultants, realtors and market researchers in urging the council to approve this item that will. Hopefully result in a realistic. And effective preservation and digitization plan for the historic newspapers and journals currently held in storage. This is an exciting time for Long Beach. Modern technology, access to new funding sources and creative partnerships can make this new plan a reality. With Council's help tonight, our decisions about our future will be. Buoyed through knowledge of the past. Thank you again for considering this. Really appreciate it. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Very good. You, Clark, as you dress. Obviously, I support this. This is a fantastic concept. And that's particularly since I live in the third district. And there's a lot of history there, particularly with the Olympic history and the and the 32, the 32 games in the Marine Stadium. The library has an excellent. A file on that which should be digitalized. And I would also suggest going checking with the local news media, which surprised me a number of years, about six or ten years ago when we had the X Games here, I think it was ABC News. I was in there, one of their editors, one of their broadcast trailers there, and they had fantastic film clips of the 32 games that took place here in Long Beach and actually all over L.A.. So to the extent it's possible, I would reach out with other paradigms within the county and see what they have and commit those or get those digitalized. And what's interesting I if you'll check on your email tonight, you'll find an email on the one, something I was referring to earlier today, something from the UCLA archives. And there's no reason why Long Beach can't have. History like that recorded such a way forth. And I think it's a fantastic and I thank you for bringing that forward. It'll be a great asset to the city and particularly get the photographs. It shows the red card lines. Down during the Olympics where people were the red card came down along the finish line and there were about five or six cars where people are standing on top of the red cars watching the game, the games. In fact, there's a large photograph of that down in the library. It's about the length of four seats and so forth. But it's a fantastic thing and a fantastic educational opportunity. Thank you. Thank you. We have a motion in a second. And members, please go ahead. Cast your votes. And I'm not sure which resident brought this to Councilman Price's attention, but thank you. This is a very important thing that we need to do. So thank you to Councilwoman Pryce and the agenda measures of this item. Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Motion carries. Thank you. Now we're moving on to item 17. Communication from Council member Richardson, Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilman Price and Councilm an Austin recommendation to request a resolution in support of National Teen Dating Violence Awareness and Prevention Month in February. Councilman Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. National Teen Dating, Dating Violence Awareness and Prevention Month is an effort to raise awareness about abuse in teen relationships and promote programs that prevent it during the month of February. Unfortunately, dating violence among teens is more common than most people know, according to a recent all national recent national survey. One in ten teens reported being hit or physically hurt, hurt by purpose or hurt on purpose by a boyfriend or girlfriend once in the last 12 months. In addition, one in four teenagers have been in a relationship where a partner is verbally abusive. By supporting the National Teen Dating Violence Awareness and Prevention Month, that's that's a mouthful. We as a city can bring awareness to the issue on a local level and demonstrate our commitment to fostering and supporting a healthier community for all. And we're going to hear during public comment from Candi Lewis, executive director of the Positive Results Corporation. Ms. Lewis will share with us what her organization is doing to help address teen dating violence and how we can support their efforts. And with that, I'll move to move the item. It's a motion in a second, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. Thank you, Councilmember Richardson, for bringing this forward. I think it's really important we make sure that we're talking about teen dating violence, both traditional and also via social media and other formats. It's really important. Our teens are certainly the future, and we want to make sure that, you know, that this council is very supportive of what you're doing. And hopefully, if you are going through anything, you can seek support. But I look forward to hearing from the public and hearing a little bit more about this issue. But let's stay on this. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on the item? Seeing nonmembers, please cast your votes. I didn't see over there. I. Let's let that lady make a few comments. Thank you, Mayor Garcia, Councilmember Richardson and the esteemed council members. My name is Candy Lewis, and I am the executive director of the Positive Results Corporation. We are a nonprofit, and our mission is to address teen dating violence and sexual assault in youth and communities of color. Teen dating violence is an epidemic. And the numbers that you've heard are just reported. The reported numbers are dismal, but the actual numbers are even worse right now. 90 every 90 seconds, a girl in the United States is assaulted. But that's only reported. That's a girl this over 12 years old. And so we're not really showing those correct numbers, according to our surveys that we have personally done in the last five years. We've had over 2200 people that we've surveyed. 37% were African-American. 43% were Latino, Latina, 9% white, 5% Asian, 33% Pacific Islander, two Middle Eastern, 2%. Middle Eastern. 48% of youth and young adults have experienced sexual assault, dating and domestic violence by the sixth grade. 60.3% of youth and young adults report being hit, slapped, grabbed, pinch, spit, act, and over 60% didn't realize that they could be in a dating and domestic violence relationship. Teen dating violence looks like physical assault, verbal abuse, emotional mental, physical stalking and of course, cyber. And we thank you very much for bringing this to your to the city's attention. It is a national resolution. And because of your support, we'll be able to bring local work, a local commitment here into the city of Long Beach. There's a lot of work that's already being done, but it's not nearly enough because all of our children are impacted. Violence and abuse actually starts in the womb, and if we do not address it, we are going to have a worse problem. Right now, the numbers are 36% of every pregnant woman is physically assaulted. 36%. If we were to turn around and look at the audience and ask them, how many of you have experienced teen dating violence, domestic violence or sexual assault? I'm sure almost everyone would be because every one of us is impacted by it. If it's not in our family, it is in our neighbors, it's in our children. And so I thank you very much for bringing this to light. We do have additional information that we will be happy to share with you. I also have something for you all. I brought our brochure that talks about the work that we do. We not only address teen dating violence and sexual assault, but we also address bullying healthy relationships. Because if we do not talk about healthy relationships, we won't be talking about any relationships as well. And our organization has been partner with all state foundation to eliminate teen dating violence and sexual assault. And so I have a little something for everyone. Thank you, ma'am. Time to time is up. If you can just leave the stuff for for the clerk. That's for you. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. Any other public comment on this item? Okay. Seeing none members, please go ahead and cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Motion carries. Item 16 report from police recommendation to receive and file the application of the breakfast bar for a premise. The premise and person to person transfer of an ABC license at 78 Atlantic Avenue District two. Thank you, sir. Staff Report. Commander Conant. Good evening, honorable mayor, vice mayor and City Council. Item 16 is an application for a type 47 on sales. ABC License for a restaurant. The restaurant currently operates under a Type 41 license authorizing the sale of beer and wine. The license will authorize the furnishing of beer, wine and other distilled spirits to the patrons. The police department. Has conducted and concluded their investigation and does not anticipate any adverse impact with the issuance of this license. That conclu des my report and I'm available for any questions. Thank you. There's been a motion and a second. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on this item? Seeing None members cast your vote. Councilmember Richardson. Motion carries. Report from City Manager. Recommendation to award a contract to Pelican Constructors for Construction of the Convention Center Performing Arts Center Pedestrian Bridge on Seaside Way. Project for a total contract amount not to exceed 9.2 million. District two. Okay. There's a motion in a second base. Mayor Alonso. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I know that we have a staff report, so if we can hear that, that'll be great. Absolutely. Mr.. Mr.. West, this is very, very exciting as it is. This is. Incredibly exciting. This is going to. Be a landmark in the downtown for our convention. And visitors bureau bureaus and all that. I'm going to give this over to Tom Modica, who's been heading up Tidelands, and he'll give the staff report with Eric. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the council as the city manager and the mayor mentioned, and Vice Mayor Lowenthal, I'm sure, is about to mention. This is an incredibly exciting project. We have been looking at how to provide some better connectivity down at our convention center. We have a tremendous amount of visitors down there every single year. But if you've ever been down there, you'll notice that times it's very difficult to get from one side of the convention center over to the Terrace Theater. Those are two of our are major attractions. And right now the way to get there is to go down the stairs on seaside way kind of back through the back alley is what it feels like in order to get back up into the convention center. So in a partnership with the Convention Visitors Bureau, the Convention Center with Vice Mayor Lowenthal, with the mayor, with our city manager, we've really looked at try to re-envision what that could look like and come up with something spectacular that we could be very proud of as a city and also help boost our convention business. So this is going to be an asset that will actually help bring in money. It's paid for by Tidelands dollars. And I'd like to turn it over to Eric Lopez, who's going to give us an overview of what the bridge is going to look like and what the major details are. So, Eric. Thank you, Tom. And an honorable mayor. Members of the city council. The project is located on Seaside Way between the existing convention center, public promenade and the Convention and the Performing Arts Center Plaza. Currently there is an existing system of bridges and access ways that link the major cultural and civic institutions along Ocean Boulevard and Shoreline Drive. As depicted in the pictures on on these lights. The seaside. Seaside way in itself suffers from major disconnection and a lack of flow between the different facilities, which affects the convention centers ability to book additional business. The bridge will fill this major gap in the network. The design intends for the project. It draws inspiration from the city's history as a major seaside town and is formally conceived as an abstraction of a breaking wave. What a deck that is composed of multifarious strands of elements paving, seeding and landscape that simulate a boardwalk environment. And I will now show you one of the renderings. The the bridge will feature. Unique LCD lighting accent elements, and it will serve as a gathering space, not just as a as a means to get in from and to the different convention center and performing arts facility. So here's a rendering from the deck. This is adjacent to the existing Salvation Army building. Looking westward, as you can see, there are benches, the landscaping. This is a rendering of the daytime hours. We expect up to 1.8 million people that visit our facilities annually to to enjoy this. This is a new location at nighttime. The bridge is designed to consist of both a combination of security, lighting and lead. The color changing lights. Will be able to be programed. For to showcase a different variety of color schemes. And things. Some important facts about the project. It's estimated to cost for construction alone, $9.3 million. The number of existing users that would directly benefit is 1.8 million. In addition to any other visitors that that may visit the the bridge. It is designed with the intent of being 100% walkable and will include amenities like drinking fountain as well. The total length of the bridge is approximately 600 feet. It is estimated to be completed in the first quarter of 2017 and it is definitely going to increase the area's connectivity and the flow between the different convention center complex facilities. This concludes the presentation. Thank you, Mr. Mayor and Vice Mayor. I'd also like to really thank the vice mayor for constantly keeping this as one of the priorities for the for the Tidelands area. And during the difficult time when we had to actually reprioritized Highlands dollars, really looking and making some sacrifices and some other projects in order to make sure that this project was able to move forward and is going to be a tremendous asset to our downtown. And with that, we're available to answer questions. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzales. Actually, the first thing that you want to. I'll go to four. I did. Thank you. I just wanted to have the staff presentation first. I wanted to thank the staff as well as our development team that will be doing the adjacent development for. Really hanging in there for several years on this issue. I think it dates back beyond 2012, but 2012 was probably the first time we had heard from the TED conference in a really solidified way how difficult it was to access the different assets that they used during their conference. And CVB has been really clear about how much more marketable and functional our conventions would be if we had those. And so all of these secret pathways that we all know and we know how to get to from in and around the different bridges and the different hallways and stairways and all of that is as quaint as it is. I realize how exhausting that could be for someone that's absolutely new to this city. And so I'm very pleased with this. I'd like to thank the Convention Visitors Bureau for being a good partner in sharing with us how what are the different things that we could do to actually improve the assets and services that we offer to the public and to our residents? And and really just to improve the accessibility and walkability on this not only on this pedestrian bridge, but it talks to the entire narrative that we have going on in downtown development, that it is a walkable place. I'd like to thank staff, especially those that worked on the Tidelands projects, especially Mr. Lopez and his team, for looking at this bridge as not just a access way from point A to point B, what else can be done that in a downtown environment, you have to have multiple uses for each of the assets that we install. And I'm really, really, very pleased and proud to see the benches and the fountain, the drinking fountain opportunities, just spaces that can be used in different ways. 600 feet may not seem like a lot, considering 5280 feet would be a mile. But it is a lot. It's quite a lot. And I, I envision that we will use this space and the community will come up with interesting ways to use the space, just as they did with the with the promenade and how they're not just walking through it, but looking at it as opportunities to create a public living room. So I expect this to be a part of our public living room. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Richardson. You mean Gonzales? So, yeah. My bad. I'm Councilwoman Gonzalez. That's okay. I just simply wanted to say congratulations to city staff and Vice Mayor Lowenthal, who I know has been very involved in this process and downtown continues to look better. I'm glad we're finally at this point. So thank you. Councilman Richardson. So I just want to say this. Look, this is spectacular. I really I really think this looks great. I had a tough time figuring out where exactly it is. But I think between Pat and myself, we figured out where this thing is going to go. I think something to note, which actually makes me pretty excited, is that these architects. SPF, these guys are the same folks that are designing the new Highland Park Community Center. And by this standard, I mean the fact they were to take something very simple and really make it beautiful and elegant and something inviting. And I love the term public living room. I think that's great. I think we have a lot of stuff to look forward to with our proposed Highland Park Community Center. If this is any way, by any means, a standard. So thank you so much and congratulations to all. Catherine Andrews. Yes. Thank you. You know, I'm looking at this and I think this is fantastic. But as you know, I'm always looking at where are the jobs com ing from? How many jobs would be created from this situation and where are they coming from? So this is one of the projects that will be covered by a project labor agreement. So we do have local jobs that will be associated with this and tidelands. The definition is a little bit broader than our local one, but we will be looking at local jobs, as many as we can for this and for the number of jobs. I'll ask Eric Lopez if he has an estimate. We have the number of jobs that it will help retain for workers that are residents of the city of Long Beach. And that number is five. Five full time construction jobs for residents within the city of Long Beach. There's going to be hundreds more construction related jobs than for the overall project. And those would fall under the region, the regional part of the project labor agreement. But the regional also could be Long Beach people too. So absolutely. They certainly think five is not completely accurate, I think. So five has to do with it. When we look at our bidder, they actually have we asked always ask them how many jobs do you currently employ in Long Beach? And so that's that number, that's five. As we go out and look for jobs, those hundreds of jobs that we'll be constructing and will absolutely be trying to get as many as Long Beach opportunities as possible to and we'll be using our play as well. I guess I just like to get a chance to speak with you on that, if you don't mind. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on this bridge? Come forward, please. Thank you so much, Mr. Mayor. Gary Shelton. Again, I wish the two empty seats were filled so that this could be completely unanimous. I'm so excited about this project. I want to mention to you briefly to tell a short story, if I can. 15 years ago, some of you might recall when when I had my wheelchair and I was learning to walk and stuff again and and going up and down, seeing from ground level Ocean Boulevard and noticing a whole bunch of signage, advertising signs in the in the front yards of the the high rises on Ocean

Boulevard between Alamitos and Golden. And I thought, hmm, okay. So I wonder what this is all about. And I learned that that 80 foot strip inward from the curb line is Linkin Park and Santa Cruz Park. And that those signs were in encroaching encroaching into that parkland. And so I created a community event called Picnic in the Park, and it was a beautiful, sunny Saturday afternoon. There were 200 people that were throwing volleyballs and playing croquet and having picnics and and this and that simply to illustrate to the folks that lived in those buildings that they had a front lawn that was a park that they were entrusted to maintain as a park. The Victory and Santa Cruz Park guidelines include the area above sea side way on the top of the bluff as a public property and any buildings that have been built there since the time of the instigation of Victory Park and Santa Cruz Park guidelines have to have that as open spa ce and open to the public. This, I got to tell you, folks, is without any kind of an argument, the most forward looking, dynamic, appearing addition to the city in compliance with the Victory Park guidelines that maybe they didn't even know that that's what they were doing. But this is such an exciting thing and I am so glad to be able to anticipate now. I think we've got nine folks there, nine folks to vote for it. Thank you so much. Any other public comment? I echo the comments about the Victory Park and an important the nice job the community has done on that. I wish you people were here about 20 minutes ago when we were talking about the budget situation and the financial crisis this city faces. I fully support the visitors and the convention bureau, but we are not in a position to spend $9 million at this time for a project like that. The convention bureau has built the convention center has been here. As long as I've been here. And people have always found a way to it. Period. So until such time as we are in a financial position to do so. I would shelve these plans. We don't have the money. Again, go back and listen to the tapes for those people who were here about 20 minutes ago or 40 minutes ago when we were discussing the budget. And maybe you'll get a better understanding of what the concern is. In addition, if you want to know what it looks like. I just invite you to come down here some evening at Lincoln Park around the library and see what's here after 6:00. Or on Saturday or on Sunday. And that's what you will see gathered around that new walkway. And if you don't. Think that you really have no understanding of human use patterns and so forth. Thank you. Thank you. Before we go to the vote, just as a reminder, this is the Tideland Fund. This is not the general fund. And so very different funding sources. Members discordant Castro votes coming from. Councilman Andrews. Motion carries. Thank you, Miss Brassard. That concludes public comment. So thank you very much. Moving on to the agenda item 11, please. Thank you, sir. It could be a motion in a second. Any public comment on the item? Casey, no public comment. Please cast your votes. Sir. Are you? Hold on a second. Do you have a comment on this item? This is item 11. I think I do, yes. Okay. Please come forward. What is the justification? I'm sorry. Because it the it's not posted. What's the justification for council canceling the meeting on the Ides of March? The meeting is being canceled because the council's added to meetings and so we're removing one in March. So we added one at both of the dark Tuesdays of the last two months. So the Ides of March, I. Reminds me what that always brings back Roman history. And one of the things I'm always conscious of that because I travel every day, as many people do on something called the Appian Way. Which, if you've done your history, was. One of the first roads in what was the greatest empire on the face of the planet. For generations. F or years. For centuries. Until. Until. It started traveling down paths such as this council and quite frankly. Many portions of the state and the country are traveling. Which will, in the final analysis, as I pointed out, render this republic something. If you want to know what your grandchildren's children. We'll be living in. I would suggest you go down to Guatemala or Honduras. Because this is what's going to be. Their future. Our future here. Is again, it's on a downward spiral. I remember about five years ago, I, Bob Foster, didn't want to look at the clip I brought up from the Titanic, that iconic scene where the owners, the captain and the ship's architect were gathered in the ship's architects office on the ship. It was pointing out what the realities were when this whole world gets filled with water. We're all right. When this one. It's filled, we're all right. But when it gets here. It's over. We're going down. We've passed that point. Now the only thing we can do is make it a little bit better for ourselves. And I. Think that it would be inappropriate to cancel. The meeting of the Ides of March, but rather come back and give some reflection. To what you've done and where you want to go and what will be visited upon this city. In the coming. Years as a result of some of the buffoonery we've seen here tonight and other nights. Thank you. Thank you. Okay. Members, please cast your votes.

Motion carries. Okay. It's okay. Communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilman Andrews and Councilmember Odinga. Recommendation to request the Senior Citizen Advisory Commission to create a report to review and explore the costs of restoring the former senior food programs and to discuss the connection to transportation and request the city manager to report back to the City Council no later than 90 days regarding the senior meal program. Thank you. There's a motion and a second on this. I'm going to read this over to Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I wanted to bring this forward. This actually started with a friend of many of ours in downtown. Her name was Ruth Ricker. She lived at the Plymouth West. She passed away late last year, but before she passed away, I would often have coffee with her at her favorite spot off Broadway in the second District. And we would talk and she would tell me about the senior food program at Chavez Park. And she was very passionate about this program. And she said, you know, Lena, if you ever do anything in your district, please look at reinstating this program for seniors. There are many seniors in our area, especially around Chavez Park at Plymouth, West Park, Pacific Towers and many other buildings. And whatever you do, Lena, make sure that you just look into that. That's all I ask of you. And so in keeping that promise to her, unfortunately, I couldn't do this while she was alive. But I'm hoping that she will be able to look at this and be very proud. My next step was to talk to one of the indiv iduals that I hold in very high regard, our downtown Don Darden. Our he is on the Senior Advisory Commission and I have our other amazing senior advisory commissioners here as well. And I really appreciate them being here in support of looking into this for us. But I believe that, you know, when speaking with Don, he had also mentioned that this was a great avenue to look into. In addition to this, we know that some of the transportation avenues have been changed around by Long Beach Transit. And so I know that some access to the senior center, you know, is cut off and you have to pay. And then there's some avenues along Chavez that may not make it easier for for individuals to get to those programs, even to go to the current senior programs that we have now. So this is where we are here. And I am looking to send this to the Senior Advisory Commission so they can look into this and further review this. But I'm really confident that they'll come back with some great information. And I thank you for your work. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. Thank you, Lina. Thank you so much for bringing this forward. Senior meal programs are a cornerstone of many of our communities, and I too am very supportive. I hope that the report will include the utilization of C one and C two funds for senior meal programs that come down from the state agency on aging and seeing where that could take us. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Yes, I want to thank you also, Councilwoman Lena, for bringing support. I'm very fortunate to be able to have a senior meal in my district, but that was through private entity. And I'm just hoping that this will come back with some positive, you know, input on this because as a senior myself, I can tell you that every penny does count. And when it comes to good nutrition and meals, sometimes you have to sacrifice to pay, you know, for medication or other healthy related issues. So I am 100% in favor of this item, and we must support our seniors where we can. Thank you very much for bringing this again to the diocese. Thank you, Councilmember Ringo. Thank you, Mayor. And I also want to add my thank you to Councilmember Gonzales for inviting me to participate in this very important report here. I also want to include out, however, that there are many retiree retiree facilities in the seventh District. And I would like to have inclusion in there the possibility of expanding the program other than to those facilities that are already identified. Here to look at the possibility of opening up opening up another center at either Silverado Park or at Advocate Park as well, is very nice to see the possibilities of expanding the program as well , since so many seniors do live in West Palm Beach area. Thank you. Councilman Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you, Councilmember Gonzalez, for bringing this forward. You know, we have meals and bus service at the Highland Park Senior Center, and I think it's essential that all parts of town have acces s to that. But really, this is an opportunity to look at the whole system with fresh eyes. There's new leadership with Long Beach Transit. There's a new leadership here in Long Beach. So I think we this is a perfect time to relook at the system again, see how we can improve on it. So thank you so much for bringing this forward and I'll be in support. Councilman Austin. Yes. I do want to also thank Councilmember Gonzalez and the rest of the council members for bringing this forward. We have embarked on senior programing at the expo in the eighth District. And I can tell you that engaging our seniors or aging population is extremely important. And if we can provide meals and transportation and support for them to be able to, to, to, to fellowship and to and to engage in activities and just be a part of their community, I think that's that's also important. So I will definitely be supporting this. I would also ask that you look in the Senior Citizen Advisory Committee Commission. Look at the the eighth District at the Expo. Look at the model that we have put together on. And I know a winning cadre and a number of you have participated. I see the Burgess here in the the early formation of that that that activity, but also looking at a sustainable model that that will help us also feed our seniors and make sure that we have quality programing. So thank you again for bringing this forward. And I'm happy to support as well. Thank you. Councilman Price. Thank you. I, too, want to thank my colleagues and Councilwoman Gonzales for bringing this forward. I do have a question for city staff. We referred an item to the Senior Advisor Citizen Advisory Commission. Gosh, it has to be about a year ago, maybe more regarding a report on senior programing. And I haven't heard anything back. Do we have any update on whether they've been working on that issue or. Here comes Kelly Colby. She might have an answer to that. Hey. Good evening. So there have been there have been three different requests over the past six months or so around senior issues. And what we are doing at this moment is we are updating and revising the the senior strategic plan. Within that within that document, what we'll be doing is including action steps for a full understanding of all the different services within the city of Long Beach and how we start to coordinate those services. So we'll be looking at a system about of coordination of services and then the actual services themselves and starting to look at where are where are we meeting the needs and where are we not, and to build from there. So it's sort of a well we're hoping to do is put all of that into a single document that will be coming forth and to present that to you in April. And that will be a coordinated with the department, Health and Human Services, the Senior Commission. And Parks Rec and Marine Park Marine. Okay, that's great. And I'm glad to know that this is a really good conversation to have because we as a district, as the third council district, have been thinking about senior programing in the third district. So we haven't been working with the city other than Parks Rec and Marine on it in terms of what other efforts are going on for senior programing. We're really looking forward to bringing something different to the third district in regards to senior programing. Some of the ideas that we've had, our kind of more holistic empowerment, wellness kind of, you know, meditation and taichi and yoga and those kinds of things, as opposed to the traditional courses that we often see, you know, that we offer. We wanted to offer something different in terms of offering kind of a wellness type senior center where it's kind of mind, body health, all of that. And so we've been exploring ideas, and we would love to be part of that conversation so that whatever we do is synergistic to what we're doing with the strategic plan. Okay. Yes. The strategic plan in many ways is also focused on those. Who are most at risk, seniors in terms of social services, housing, transportation, meals and all of those kinds of things. And then we'll also be in connection with Parks Rec, Marine, around senior programing in senior sites and in other community locations. Great. Thank you. Sure. Thank you. Any public comment on this item? Please come forward. Good evening, Mayor and Council. Women and councilmen and staff. Thank you all for serving this great city. I'm Mary Alice, the I'm the chairperson for the Senior Citizens Advisory Commission. And I want to say thank you to Mayor Garcia and to the Council for appointing me and our commissioners. It's been an exciting journey for us to learn how the commission is supposed to work and learning the process, the guidelines and the rules. And it's been an asset to develop our leadership skills and doing something for our seniors in the city. Also doing a lot of research, asking a lot of questions, attending meetings, going to events, and also visiting the senior centers. We will continue to engage so that we can be of help to our senior community. We are in receipt of the memorandum that was just read dated March 1st, and that's to create a report and to explore the cost of restoring the former food program and also the issues with transportation. So we will be working on that and bring you back the information. Our commissioner, Ruth Raker, passed away in July of 2015 and she was a strong advocate in support of free meals for our seniors. She lived in downtown with other seniors, and she understood the great need for good nutrition for those most needy with a limited income. Nothing is more critical to people's health and food. Hunger is a health issue. Some of our seniors come to the senior center and that's the only meal that they might have for the entire day. The consequences of poor nutrition are devastating. Older Americans are 60% more likely to experience depression and more than 50% more likely to suffer a heart attack. The Suppleme ntal Nutrition Assistance Program, which is a federal program, is called SNAP, only gives $127 a month. That doesn't cover for good nutrition. Bringing back the food program would be a great tribute and a way to honor our past commissioner, Ruth Ricker. This is the land of plenty and there shouldn't be anybody going hungry. I appreciate your time. And let's celebrate our accomplishments. Accomplishments together. Thank you very much. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Mayor and council members. My name is Ben Rockwell. I reside at 75 West Street. Unfortunately, many of our seniors, while they don't always get the best of nutrition, a lot of people don't realize that our seniors and persons with disabilities living on SSI in addition to their Social Security, to supplement it. While they may be getting much less financial moneys, they are not eligible for the SNAP program of getting extra food dollars. This is something that is horrendous that has been foisted upon us by our state and federal governments. Not only that, just this last year, our fire department. Has started and making charges to individuals when they have to come out to pick us up to do assessments or taking us to the hospital. That assessment is $250. That is well over. One third of my income after I pay my rent. That's as an exorbitant amount of money. Yes, we can go in and request that the fee be waived. But I did that over a month and a half ago for my first meal that I received. I have yet to hear at that fee has been waived. This was something that is of concern to me and I know many other seniors because seniors are more likely to have to have pick ups and be assessed by the paramedics than any other group of persons. So, please, I would like to hear back on that. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Thank you. Surely you start seeing your consultant pastor swarm group and associates with regard to seeing your care and and the meal program. I would like to raise the issue that more than likely we're thinking of people who are housed, seniors who live inside of housing. However, in most of the parks, Lincoln Park has a large homeless population who are seniors. So with the committee chair and persons who recently spoke, please make a note to yourselves. And I'm speaking to counsel. With regards to Singh, there are a large majority of the homeless population are aging people who are outside of doors. So as you think about restoring meals. We're going to have to expedite a way so that these people who are homeless will be able to get to those meals because now they're being cited groups. Some groups are being cited for taking food to people who are homeless, if they are lodging in the parks, if they're along the street. I've gotten away with a lot. I've been able to feed some people in the park, although I've been told lately that it was against the law. So when you're thinking about restoring food. We must lift our side to be young people who are hous ed and include those persons, those senior persons who are homeless. Some of them, as I over the recent Thanksgiving holiday, I was passing out food and money to these people. And it is a heartbreaker when you realize that unless some expedited help gets to these people, they're going to die right there. On the grass. So as we think about food programs. Don't think people who are in houses, you must include people who are outside of doors, who are seniors, and the majority of them will remain right there. Because Homeless Services is a very overlooked operation in most cities. I've traveled to three counties now over seven years, and I've seen the same problem. Seniors are a forgotten group. I saw a man sitting on the corner both in Ventura County and Orange County, and he sat on that corner in a wheelchair, homeless. We must lift our sights beyond people who are in houses with regards to the meal program. Thank you. Next speaker. Good evening, Mr. Mayor and fellow council members. I am Commissioner, one of a cadre of the Senior Citizen Advisory Commission. I'm here to address the problems seniors are facing, trying to keep up with the shortage of their funds. Inability to reach the senior centers where nourishing meals are served daily at a minimal cost is an ever growing problem. Seniors need these meals to survive and should not have to pay for transportation to get to them. I speak from experience. I have been an orphan since the age of four. And without government assistance, I could not be here today. So I commit my life to serving the public. I have volunteered since retirement at age 81 in our schools, hospitals, seniors centers, churches and the Long Beach Police Department. I'll be I'll be 97 next month. And with God's help, I will continue to serve. Thank you. Oh, my goodness. Gary Shelton's my name. 240 Chestnut. I live in Plymouth. West Coast is just about a block and a half from here at Plymouth West. I serve as the community contact. I think if I have a title and all the community contact to the to the resident advocate network it's called ran our and and I think you can tell that this issue has maybe touched a nerve. There's fully 5% of the residents from Plymouth West here right now. In fact, if you don't mind my turning around for just a second, a lot of them are in the back row. If you could raise your hand if you live in Plymouth West, you know, there's looking at the audience tonight, there's there's a lot of shades of gray and white and bald in the audience where we represent, where we'll all be one of these days, you know, God be with us. And I think I counted the votes. I think I'm kind of talking to a choir here. But the one thing that I was that I was that took me kind of by. Surprise. Was and I really appreciate that. Miss Collopy said that she hopes to present in April a senior action plan that I would look at as sort of a bureau, address or bureau. And this issue of the senior meals and the nexus they may have to th e access or lack of access to transportation to those meals will simply be one drawer in that bureau. And I'm not sure that between now and when these action plans, which take, as you know, many, many months to to create, I'm not sure there's actually time for this one to populate that dresser drawer as well as maybe it could. But one thing I want to do is stand before you right now and suggest that we stand ready to the point that we can communicate out to the Senior Citizen Advisory Commission and to the point that they can reach out to us as well. In the various locations where seniors live, not only senior buildings, but senior neighborhoods in town, to find out just how impacted we have been by the loss of transportation and the loss of food programs specifically. So I really appreciate this opportunity to get that point across and hope that we have a lot more information on this and a lot more meals in the future. Thank you so much. Great. Thank you. I apologize. I got hit while I was walking in San Pedro and I'm still recovering. I want to thank, first of all, Councilwoman Lena Gonzalez. You're my hero. Dee Andrews, Councilman, your anger. Thank you for bringing this forward. And I know that the rest of you will support this because you have seniors living in your your various council districts. Now, Gary stole a little bit of my thunder. I want every senior who's in the building right now to raise your hands. Every senior, whether you live in Plymouth West. Great. Okay. How about the peanut gallery here? Our friends together. You know, we've got a lot of we have a lot of energy here tonight. We have a lot of talent. I have been a published writer, a magazine editor and a grant proposal writer. I hereby Takashi, I hereby will. Devote my life to helping the commission. And if there's any way that we can persuade anyone who might be a little reluctant. Because of cost of money. And whatever, there are funds out there, there are a lot of funds. The government, believe it or not, knows that we're here. And if they don't. Yet, they're going to. And we're going to let this roar. I have seen personally, through my help in the community, the need. And so many of the seniors are shut ins or they're a little reluctant to get involved. They don't have to get involved. They just have to let us know, let you know that they're there. And so we want a friendly face to the community letting them know hunger. Hunger isn't really necessary. There are there are many ways to fund these programs to help the individual who might be afraid. Of a government. Person. And I'm not a government person. And I hope that each and every one of you, whether it's Patrick West, who I met at one of Lena's events. Or Mister or City Attorney Parkin. We want your support. We want this to go forward. We want it to be effective. Not a money waste K, not a money wasted. And if we can help you in any. Way, shape or form, we're here to help. And I'm sure I'm not going to speak on behalf of Gary and Beth Seno and some of the other very creative and brilliant people who live at Columbus West. But we want to help. We want to make this. Happen, happen efficiently. And and. Meet the people who really need it. Okay. Thank you very much. Thanks for listening. And again. I apologize. Thank you. Good evening, everyone. You have your sparkling faces there. And we are sparkling seniors because there is Super Tuesday. People are voting in other parts of the country and we're here. So I just wanted to let you know, something of our commission is small but mighty, and we just got ourselves together. So the 2016 mission statement of the Senior Citizens Commission is to advocate for new thinking and science of aging for the culturally diverse population of the older adults in Long Beach, and broaden knowledge in the areas of education, safety, housing, health, transportation, technology and the quality of life. Now, to improve the quality of life and health and to cut the isolation of seniors. Where are hot lunches? Well, Councilman Lowenthal, you have the senior center in your district, and it's a wonderful place to go visit. Councilwoman Mongo, you have that wonderful Eldorado Park. Councilman Andrews, huh? You have McBride Park and Councilwoman. Councilman Richardson, you have Halton Park. And all of you have these lovely warm lunches for our older adults at parks and recreation sites. And Councilman Austin, I want to applaud what you have done and worked with to bring lunches to the expo, because that was a wonderful first step. I hope that you have had time to visit these, Mr. Mir Garcia. I hope that you'll take the time to go out and visit the seniors at those programs. Now for the health and quality of life of older adults. More needs to be done. What's missing? Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilwoman Price, Councilman Super Na, Councilman Urunga. You all have to visit other locations because there's nothing in your area. I really want you all to please consider the positive effects of this food program and these food programs for our older adults and for the homeless. I think that's an excellent point for us. For those people that Chavez in or in honor of Ruth Ricker, that's important. Silverado and and Admiral Kidd Park. There are many others but please this needs to be done. And Long Beach. All of you every one of you sitting there looking at me and the audience. You need to have skin in the game. And I really appreciate that you're taking the time to listen to us tonight. Thank you. Thank you. Another public comment. Please come forward. Good to be giving skimming. Good evening, mayor and city council member don darn. Our is my name. I'm in the first district, Elian Gonzalez. We've been working on a lot of issues and we're very concerned with the seniors. Me being one course of the senior population is one of the fastest growing segments of our of our society. In case you didn't realize that it's one of the fastest growing. So t here's lots of needs there and it's going to continue to get even stronger. I agree very much with this feeding program, and I'm glad you brought it up, Lena, because we, too, my wife and I felt very close to Ruth Ricker. And I think this is an opportunity to do something in memory of her and honor of her. And I think it's a great thing. Um, I, I'm, I've been to the Chavez Park many times. I go there kind of regularly. And I've noticed since the feeding program stopped there a year and a half ago, two years, whatever it is that the seniors the seniors don't come out anymore. They don't come to the park. We need senior programs at the parks and we need senior feeding at the parks. They don't seem to feel quite so comfortable just coming to the park. The feeding program was a tremendous help in doing that. So not only do we need to feed them with it, with the need those that haven't been able to get it, but we need to be able to get them there, too. Transportation is definitely an issue. As a matter of fact, just two, three months ago, back in December, Long Beach Transit had a public meeting at international school. There was 75 people that showed up, most of them seniors. And we gave all our opinions about the problems with transportation, especially the one that they were cutting out the passport. It no longer goes above third Street. It was at 10th Street. And seniors at that point in between there came down and used it very frequently. And we even suggested some alternatives that they could provide that would that would satisfy everybody, both Long Beach Transit, as well as the seniors. But unfortunately, of those 75 people that got up and spoke, they were ignored. It nothing happened. We offered an option of how they could do it to please both sides. Just, you know, as the bus now comes across Third Street, just go up seven blocks to 10th and back down over to Chavez Park and back. And they continue the route. That's all we have to do. So it seemed to me like there's some some funding, some opportunities, some grants that could not only help feed the seniors, but also if Long Beach Transit is hard up and can't afford to listen to seniors. Maybe we can help subsidize just a few more block extensions of of the present passport bus. So that's that's something that we'd like to see you help support us to do, to think about those things. If we can come up with some sort of funding, grants, anything you can think of, please come forward. Thank you. Don't. Thank you. Thank you. Is there any other public comment, Mr. Song? Honorable Mayor. City Council Member. My name is Charles Song, the chairman of the Cambodian American Civic Engagement Committee. I am here to comment on other issue, but since we brought up the senior issue, I think it's only appropriate for me to take a moment to acknowledge and applaud Councilman Diane Drew for keeping the hot meal for a senior, especially in the central area at the McBride Recreation Park, especially for the Ca mbodian senior. Thank you very much for doing that. I can't imagine, Andrew. And thank you. Thank you. See no other public comment. I'm going to take this back to the council now. Councilwoman Mongo. So first, I want to thank each and every one of you that serving on the commission and for your thoughtful public comment today. It's important that we have leaders who are passionate about the commissions they serve on and your attendance and your thoughtfulness and your comments that, you know, many of our our staff go to your meetings to listen in are just important. Many of you have encouraged us to go out and enjoy time with the seniors. But I'll tell you, I put on a hairnet and scooped food for the senior, delivered home, delivered meals. I'm sorry for the congregate meals where they sit together. And then I also went on right along for the home, delivered meals, and today spoke with the pastors in our district about the home delivered meal program and the areas of which we have applicants available, and then the areas where our faith based community can step up. Our Home Delivered Meals program both has an ethnic component and a non-ethnic as is our congregate meal program. And I think that localizing that and taking more local control and, and our health department taking a lead through your leadership is a big part of that. We talked a lot about transportation today, and a lot of the MTA grants for seniors go into multi-year extensions until they expire because of knowing and understanding the senior community's needs. And that changing demographic as seniors get older and move into different communities has been challenging for those organizations. And so we here in Long Beach are so fortunate to have you and your insights and your guidance. And we appreciate you very much. So thank you. And I hope we can continue to work together. I know that I've talked with some of you about some of the bus changes we're talking about with the health facilities that are all moving around in the fifth District right now. Because as those facilities move, one component of that is the added distance that seniors will need to take to walk when they get off at the bus stop. And so we're taking that into consideration and we're looking at that. And so I appreciate your comments that come to our offices. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzales. I just want to thank everyone for their beautiful comments. I think Ruth would definitely be very, very proud to hear that this is being looked into. And I look forward to the information coming back and your hard work. And thank you, everyone from Plymouth West. It's just lovely seeing everybody yet again, but on something very positive. So thanks again for every one's work and I look forward to hearing back. Thank you. With that member's piece, Peace. Gordon, cast your votes. And as they do that, I want to thank all of you for coming out today as well. And thank you for serving and really important work. So thank y ou so much. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you all very much. Thank you very much. Okay. We're moving on to public comment now. The first three, I have Larry Goodhue, John Dietz and Shirley Bouchard. Jason, please come forward. Thank you. We're going to go to item 33. They were going to go to a public comment. Communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilmember Wodonga. Councilmember Richardson. Recommendation to present a proclamation and celebration of such Chavez's legacy through support of our local Long Beach moving forward. Citizenship and Dakar Initiative. Partnership. A Brighter Future includes new American immigrant families and students. Oh. Okay. Thank you, Mayor. I first want to start off by thanking Central Cha C Jessica here in the audience and so many of our community partners in in working with Central Cha to make sure that we are reminded every day of the legacy and work of Cesar Chavez. And they certainly put that legacy into action. And in recognition of the day of March 31st, we will be issuing this proclamation to which I'm very, very proud. It's such an honor to have Cesar Chavez Park in the First District, along with Jenny Oropeza Community Center and as ever, Central Cha and their partners, including the California Community Foundation, the Immigrant Rights Coalition, Interfaith Coalition Organization, and our city departments are busy organizing a big citizenship fair on Sunday, April 10th, to assist legal, permanent residents and youth who qualify for DACA. This work is every day and we know it's a very hard work and we know that the individuals that are involved seeking the citizenship, seeking the support, certainly deserve that. And I am always supportive of that. And I now would like to invite Jessica Quintana from Central Cha to come up and share more about her work, but also about this proclamation, if you'd like to do that. Thank you so much, Councilwoman Lena Gonzalez and Robert Garcia and Councilman Richardson, so much for your support and your leadership in this initiative and knowing how important it is. And I also want to recognize Councilwoman Price for kicking this off and bringing this beautiful celebration here today. I have never been in council so much where there has been so much love and joy here. So thank you so much for that because, you know, our city is definitely a very diverse city and we are so fortunate. I know Councilwoman Red off all our collaborative members with Central Charm, the Immigrants Rights Coalition and the Interfaith Community Organization. And all of us individually work very hard in this city to help our immigrant families, whether it be through citizenship, whether it be through tax assistance for our students to ensure that they complete high school and go on to college and get a job and also support to their parents. But for the first time ever, you know, we as as organizations here has formed a collaborative and it's Long Beach moving forward for a brighter future that in cludes all immigrant families and students here in our city. And so we've been very successful not only to be recognized as the city of Long Beach and doing this hard work, but across the state of California. And now we put together a regional collaborative that not only expands to Long Beach, but it also extends all the way to the bridge, to San Pedro and to the right of us, all the way through Hawaiian Gardens and Artesia. So that has been the hard work of your groups here in the city of Long Beach. So we just want to thank you for your support. We want to also recognize the legacy of Cesar Chavez here in the city of Long Beach and and thanking you for that support. We truly appreciate it. But also just to have the partnership with the city of Long Beach, I can't tell you how important it is going to be going forward and helping our families to become naturalized citizens, to be able to come more civically engaged in their communities and helping the students. So right now, our organizations has resources and we have assets to be able to provide our city in partnership and work with all the various departments, with Parks and Recreation, with the library services, with neighborhood services, with the development services to really reach our families, to be able to help them to become naturalized citizens and help our students. Right now we're doing fee waivers, so we're all trained to be able to help with fee waivers for those who are on meets benefits and be able to get and waive that $680 that that's cost so much for working families and for folks that are on on benefits. So we're a resource here. We, you know, invite you to to come to our celebration on the 26th will be processing applications. We'll have attorneys there. And, you know, we truly need your support. One more plug. I also want to invite you to another huge workshop that's happening in the city of Long Beach. And this is again through our leadership of our mayor, Robert Garcia, who's going to be doing this huge mega workshop on April 10th. And it's going to be at the convention center. And it's working not only with our organizations here, but our partnership organizations in the city of L.A., with Charla Advancing Justice, Coffee and California Community Foundation . And so it's going to be a huge, huge push to really help our permanent legal residents become naturalized citizens. So we invite all of your leadership to be there that day. I do want to say something. I just want to say thank you for having us here today. And the Lumbee Immigrant Rights Coalition is happy to be, you know, working in collaboration with IKO and Central Asia. And we invite all of you to come attend our event on March 26. Good evening, everyone. I just wanted to say thank you on behalf of Greater Long Beach Interfaith Community Organization. As well as our partners here. With Long Beach Immigrant Rights Coalition in Central Asia. We're really excited to move forward along this work. Of course, this is work that's going to continue on for over a year. So we're really excited for that continued support and hopefully our fellow community members here, anybody who needs that assistance, that's exactly why we're doing this work is for all of you guys. So thank you so much. Thank you, Councilman Durango. Thank you, Mayor. I also want to thank Councilmember Gonzales for inviting me to join on this and this occasion. Citizenship has always been an issue that's been very important, not only for Long Beach before our country, and honoring Cesar Chavez legacy for the work that he's done for immigrants. But workers rights for basically creating equity and equality for all. Has is well known a Pulitzer Prize winner, a Pulitzer Prize winner, Nobel Prize winner that hey, he he's up there that really recognizes the wonderful work that he's done. And Central Asia, as the premier Latino organization here at Long Beach. And the work that you're doing is absolutely amazing. And you're right. And every day there is someone coming to this country and every day they need that support and to help towards a path to citizenship. And I only hope that this is the beginning of a realistic and working, workable immigration reform in the future. So thank you for your work, and thank you for all you do for the city of Long Beach. Thank you. On this and Central Asia, thank you for being a regional voice and bringing those other communities together. That's our role here in Long Beach to, you know, other communities may not have the means or the voice to speak on this, but you provide that resource and that's important. So thank you so much and keep up the good work. Thank you. Thank thank you. Councilman Andrew. Yes, I thank you. A councilman woman Gonzales for this because I truly honor the teaching of Cesar Chavez and his leadership to our people. And I commend all of the organizations who work together to improve, you know, our immigration policies, as well as helping students and their families create a better future for themselves. And thank you again, Jessica. Thank you, Councilman Andres. Yes, Councilman Price. I, too, want to thank Councilwoman Gonzalez and the coauthors on this item. And thank you for everything that you do. You educate us regularly and you do a lot of great work for the community. So thank you for being here and thank you to the councilman for the item. Thank you again. And you guys know I love all of your work and I'll just one more plug the the citizenship event that's going to happen on on the April the 10th, I think will be probably the largest naturalization citizenship event ever to be held in the city of Long Beach. It's a huge countywide effort or really proud of that. And I know there's a lot of partners from around the county and region coming together for that for that event. So I'm happy to be a part of that and support that event as one of the hosts. And I look forward to see you all there as well as the other events happening. So than k you, Mayor. Thank you very much, Jessica. And the whole team. Thank we had the proclamation to present to you formally. So will the mayor and myself will come up and give that to you. Thank you. And is there any any other public comment, I mean, separate of the presenters here? Seeing none. Thank you to the proclamation members. Please go ahead and cast your vote. Motion carries. Hello. Okay. We're going to actually go and do item 17 quickly, which is just appointment of council members to one of our our council committees. Sir. Can I get a motion in a second, please? Any public comment? This is the school board's joint. And now we're going to be doing item number 20 via email on that. Communication from Vice Mayor Lowenthal. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilwoman Price. Councilwoman Mongo recommendation to recognize the role women play in transportation in the city of Long Beach. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I wanted to thank everyone that is here today for trying to see people behind this, but. In honor of National Women's Month 2016, I would like to formally request the mayor and my colleagues to join me in recognizing the role of women. The role that women play in transportation in the city of Long Beach. Women all over the world hold key positions in transportation industry, whether they are building automobiles and spaceships or designing them. There's still enough there's still some ground to be made up related to the gender gap. But thanks to the early innovators, pioneers, adventurers, engineers, scientists and inventors, women have a strong foothold in the future of transportation. We have the port and the port affiliated organizations Long Beach Transit, MTA, Caltrans, the airport, all of these giants that help us get people and merchandise in or out of, as well as around our city. And at the heart and soul of these giants are many amazing, talented women. With us tonight, we have representatives from most of the entities that I just mentioned from Pacific Merchant Shipping Association, PMC. We have Michelle Grubbs here tonight. Michelle has been an international trade advocate for almost. For PMC. Michelle was employed by McDonnell Douglas and Boeing for 13 years. Future Ports is dedicated to ensuring a healthy and. 14. Kerry is responsible for planning, construction operation and maintenance of the state freeway and highway system in the region and has been with Caltrans for 25 years. From Long Beach Airport, I'd like to recognize Carolyn Carlton Lowe and Claudia Lewis. Carolyn is our operations and facilities bureau manager and Claudia is our manager of finance and administration. Owned and operated by the city of Long Beach. Our airport is a consumer favorite in the region and one of the world's busiest in terms of general aviation activity. Presently, the airport covers 1166 acres and has five runways. Delorme Transit is governed by a seven member board of directors and two city designees. Our entire lobbies transit board is female, excep t for one, and I couldn't be more proud of the women chosen to represent this agency. Maricela de Rivera Chair. Sumi Gant Vice Chair. Mary Zendejas Secretary and Treasurer. April Economides. Colleen Bentley, Nancy Pfeifer, Barbara Sullivan and Amy Bodak. This board, which represents an entire agency full of dynamic women, provides broad policy and financial decision setting direction for management. Also being recognized tonight, but not. Here are three of our harbor commissioners, Lori and Guzman, President Luann Bynum, Vice President and Tracy Gorski, secretary. The Port of Long Beach is governed by the Board of Harbor Commissioners, appointed by the mayor and approved by the council. And it helps create policy. The harbor department employees employs about 400 people, many of them women from the Metropolitan Transportation Authority. I have recognized Diane Dubois and Karen Hite, who are also unable to be here tonight. The MTA is the Public Transportation Operating Agency for the County of Los Angeles and directly operates bus light rail and bus rapid transit services. I'd like to thank these women and I ask them to rise at this time. If you are here, please and come together around the podium for a certificate of recognition. The City of Long Beach would not be the transportation hub it is currently without the significant contributions of strong women past and present. Without a doubt, the women being honored tonight play an integral role in the development and advancement of transportation and are committed to excellence in the transportation industry. Thank you for being here and thank you for your service. Councilwoman Gonzalez. I, too, just want to congratulate every single woman that is up here. I think what Vice Mayor Lowenthal said is is exactly right. Every single one of you have been a very important part of the expansion of the betterment and success of our ports, but also our goods movement, our transportation, our city. And I'm so very proud of that. It's amazing what key positions you each hold in your respective industries and your respective organizations. I also know that some of you refer to yourselves with the ladies of Logistics, which I'm really excited about, and it's been wonderful getting to know every single one of you in everything that you do. And it's nice that you'll be able to tie in business as well as environment, transportation and green space. There's a beautiful, healthy balance in everything that each of you do. So thank you very much and congratulations. Thank you, Councilwoman Price. Thank you. Ditto for me. Thank you for all that you do. I think that having strong, courageous, innovative, hardworking women in our community is such a positive asset and benefit and resource for all of the community, especially our youth, to see us doing so well, to see you doing so well. And in especially in a transportation industry which historically has been a male dominated industry. So to have so m any women involved in goods movement and mobility is just very impressive. Thank you. And, you know, I have to say, it also keeps you looking young because I was looking at some college photos the other day and I have some pictures with me and Mary and she looks exactly the same. So apparently being on this side of the dais does not do the same as being an active member in the transportation industry. So thank you for all you do and for your service. Q Councilman Andrew. Yes, thank you, Mayor. I think this is a great legislation, so I commend the Vice Mayor, Lowenthal, for bringing this item forward. You know, this is another step, you know, towards affirming that Long Beach is a city that stands for equality and commanded this amazing women for their role in keeping Long Beach, you know, mobile. And I want to thank each and every one of you and keep up the good work. Thank you. Councilman Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you guys can hear me this time, right? Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you to the authors, Vice Mayor Lowenthal and others. And I just want to say what a tremendous example you all are making for our community, the youth of our community, for other communities to look up and see. These are key players that are in leadership and the industry that is sort of chief here in our community, in our region. So I think it really says a lot. So thank you. Congratulations to you and keep up the good work. Thank you. And Councilman, you're Ringa. Thank you, Mayor. At the risk of sounding sexist, I find nothing more sexier than a woman in power. And you're all women of power. And I want to thank my council members for bringing that here, because they are also women of power. And without women, there is no Long Beach. So thank you very much. Councilman Austin. And how do I follow that? I'll just say I would agree with him. And I am just just I admire each and every one of you for the contributions that you make to our city, to our region that you have made. I know that many of our are the plans and the advances that we are making in terms of mobility, freight movement, active transportation throughout the city of Long Beach. But the region that makes Long Beach the example that it is for, for the region comes from the leadership of each and every one of you. And so I just want to say thank you and keep us moving in the right direction. Thank you. Councilwoman Mongo. We are a young council and we stand on the shoulders of all of you who came before us. Thank you. Thank you. And obviously, I know all you. I've appointed half of you. And so thank you for all your for your service. And we're going to that the photos going to be with the women of the of the council. So Councilman Price and Councilman Mongo can go up there. They're going to take a photo with you. I'm going to wait for you to get married. Yeah. Okay. I want. Good. I get all that? I'm ready to go. What happened? Oh, I thought, you know, if I never had a negative. You always got, like, a third of those certificates, but you tell them, like, you know. And just like. If you can have your. Apprentice certificates in front of you, like, that's. Yeah, wonderful. Gambling in their. Mind. Programs program. Just keep smiling inside and. We're having a contest. For that picture. Okay. I don't know. Oh. Okay. We I'm just going to ask if there's any really public comment on this item. I don't think I don't think there is. I like that. Okay. Seeing no public comment on this item, there is a motion and a second. Please go and cast your votes. Yes, you. Yeah. Oh, really? Okay. Councilman Price. Vice Mayor Longo. Okay. Uh, go. Ahead, sir. Vote. Motion carries. When we had that. Go ahead, make your comment, Ben. They had their own council members. I'm very pleased with our transportation. And because of these women and others working in our transportation agency, long major transit is going to be one of the first transit agencies in the nation to go with electric busses requiring no overhead wires. I rode the first one last Tuesday around the city. And tried it out. It is absolutely marvelous. Thank you. We're moving on now to item. We're going to go to item 33 then. So you have public comment on this. Larry Goodhew, firm, supporter of Long Beach Transit. They do a great job. I'm going to use this opportunity to suggest what I suggested to Mr. Smith this morning is that the city can consider and put in place a dynamic where. Four Express busses. Maybe five will leave our transit mall in the morning. Make one stop either Willow Wardlow, hop on the freeway and go downtown to Seventh and Figueroa, which is just beyond the Staples Center. And return with return trips in the evening. I think that makes eminent sense given the growth of of traffic, given the problems with the blue line, which are going to continue. And it just makes sense to run those express busses up there and have four or five in the morning return in the evening. We should be able to get funding for that out of the Fed to the county without any problem. Thank you. 15. Report from Public Works recommendation to find that excavations are immediately required for the general health, safety and welfare of the city and cannot be delayed and approve a discretionary permit to excavate in 60th Street from Avenue to the north south alley, west of Linden Avenue, District nine. Were first and second. Yeah. I'm a surgeon. Okay. So I would obviously, you know, this project is just months outside of the end of the moratorium. So I'm okay with with this motion to provide this permit. But I do want to I do want to just ask city manager, how long has it been since we've reviewed our moratorium process as it relates to excavation in these areas? It's probably about, you know, over five years. I would ask just informally if maybe there's time. It's time considering replacing a great focus on updating our infrastructure on those things that we reengage the c ommunity that typically typically excavates like, you know, folks who have pipelines under our streets reengage them just to have a conversation about what makes sense moving forward. And if staff would see any changes that might need to take place, any trade offs that meet that may need to take place to make sure that, you know, they have the means to update their infrastructure while we're updating our infrastructure. So just just a suggestion. But I stand in support of this motion. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Do you have anything? Okay. Are there any public comments? I see none. Please. Cast your vote. Councilman Andrews? Yes. Motion carries. Councilman Austin. Great, sir. Any member of the public that wish to address Council on item 25. CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries. The great item 26 report from Police Recommendation to receive and file the application of Chipotle Mexican Grill for an original application of an ABC license at 4250 Long Beach Boulevard District eight. Councilman Austin. Yes, I would like a staff report on this, please. Commander LeBaron. Vice Mayor and City Council. The item 26. Is an application also for a new Type 41 on sale beer and wine, ABC license for a restaurant. We've conducted a investigation and we do not anticipate any adverse impact with the issuance of this license. And that concludes my report. Thank you, Commander. And I like to stand in support of the recommendation on this item and ask to my colleagues, do the same. This is part of our great economic development revitalization of a shopping center in Bixby North. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Second. Is there any member of the public that was to address this council on 26 c none. Members cast your vote. Motion carries. We already took item 27. Item 28 Report from Public Works and Parks, Recreation and Marine Recommendation to award a contract to cease legacy construction for the Drake Chavez Soccer Fields and Greenbelt Project for a total Thank you. So any member of the public that wishes to address Council on item 21. CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries. Item 22 Report from Financial Management Recommendation to award a contract to Cape Toyota for the purchase of 32 Toyota RAV4 hybrid utility vehicles in a total amount not to exceed $1 million citywide. Councilman Austin. Okay. And Councilman Murang'a. Yeah. I'm glad to see that the city continues its efforts in removing high carbon, causing vehicles and replacing them with hybrids. I'm glad to see that, as well as knowing that the contract is going to a local business that remains here in Long Beach. So thank you. Councilman Andrew. Yes. I also understand the importance of replacing inner city vehicles, you know, with the safer and more efficient model. And I'm happy to see that the bid went to the families, businesses in the sixth district that employ 62 full time employees. You know, that's how the city keeps our city strong. So I'm very, very excited about this. Thank you. Is there any member of the public that wish to address the Council on 20 item 22? See None. Members, cast your vote. Motion carries. Item 23 Report from Health and Human Services Recommendation to execute an agreement with the State of California. Thank you. Thank you. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address Council on item 23? CNN members cast your vote. Councilman Austin. Motion carries. Item 24 Report from Parks, Recreation and Marine recommendation to execute a one year agreement with the County of Los Angeles for reimbursement of expenditures in an amount not to exceed $500,000 to assist in the cost of removing debris deposited on city of Long Beach beaches and marinas emanating from the Los Angeles River districts two and three. Mr. MODICA. Yes, MAYOR. Members of the City Council. Madam Vice Mayor, this is money that we get every year from L.A. County to assist with cleaning the beaches from the material that comes down the L.A. River. It doesn't cover the full cost, but it's very much welcome, and we can provide more details if needed. Thank you. Councilman Price. I just want to thank staff for continuing to make this a priority and identifying our funding sources and working with the county to undertake this major task. Thank you. Thank you. Sir, any member of the public that wish to address the Council on item 24. Seeing None members cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Item 25 Report from Police Recommendation to receive and file the application of Sushi San Maru for an original application of an ABC license at four or five for Pine Avenue District one New business item 27. Communication from Councilwoman Mango Councilwoman Gonzalez and Councilmember Richardson. Recommendation to request the city attorney to draft an ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code to require the installation of communications infrastructure in excavation projects in the public right of way where the city has determined that it is both financially feasible and consistent with the city's long term goals of furthering economic opportunity through connectivity. Councilwoman Mongo. Yes, thank you. I am excited. This policy intends to minimize the number and scale of. The projects that when we install telecommunications infrastructure in the public right away and coordinate efforts to reduce deployment time and duplicative work at the same location. So what that really says is when we're lifting up the street to pave it, let's just make sure we have as much infrastructure as we can in that road so that in the future, when we start rolling out this fiber and all the rest of it, that it's already in the ground, and whether we decide to take that on ourselves or we decide to lease it out to others, it costs us a minuscule amount to put it in the ground while the ground is already open. So let's just get it done. While an ordinance is being contemplated similar to other local jurisdictions, there's merit to considering changes to the municipa

I code after a report comes back from the city manager. As I am requesting or as we are requesting, laying out the potential roadmap based on current capabilities and the future excavation permit requirements, criteria and options that would align with our goal to prioritize and improve local broadband infrastructure. I think that all of us know that connectivity is the next real hurdle. And when you look at the studies of students in school, in their abilities and their achievement, often connectivity is the new barrier. And we need to make sure that every community, every child and every business is connected. And so to get to that point, we need to make sure that in that process, we do not overly impact the neighbors by tearing up those streets multiple times and costing extra tax dollars. So. I think I have two or three quick questions that I have on here. How might the gas and oil and water departments play a role in the big ones policy, taking into account the objectives of creating synergies and efficiencies across the city departments when planning these large scale capital improvement projects? Craig Beck, our public works director, will talk about that. Great. Vice Mayor Councilmember Mongo I think the best opportunity would be to engage the Water Department Commission directly to have a conversation with them. Both the gas department and Water Department use different methods. Gas Department does a lot of boring when they lay their pipe, unless it's a large diameter pipe. Water department typically does open trenching and that might provide more opportunity. So I think part of the staff report would be that we would go to those entities, have a discussion with them and bring that back to council. Thank you. My staff have done extensive research in deploying fiber optic cable and we are under the understanding that it would be approximately $27,000 per mile, which has a huge return on investment for us as a community. And so depending on the region, density and specific locations. How realistic is it for the city of Long Beach and the Technology and Innovation Department in there working on the financial modeling tool to assist in these cost determinations so that we know exactly what we're getting into in advance. Councilmember Mongo, from what we tell with the $27,000 is an estimate is when you do have an open trench and you have the capability to just lay the specific fiber when you do not have that, the prices can range depending on the density and so forth, anywhere from $97,000 per square mile upwards to almost 200,000 per square mile. So I think that it's important that we look at the DOT numbers and the standards that are across the region in the impact and costs, because the research we have is a bit lower. But either way, what we are finding as Santa Monica is 1998 telecommunications master plan stated, and that's still a really good investment for our future. So my motion is to have the city manager report back with a road map that would inform an optimal dig once policy before proceeding with an ordinance. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzalez. I just want to thank Councilmember Mungo for bringing this forward. I think it's really looking at efficiency in terms of digging once and adding this fiber, and it's in alignment with what we're working on already at Famous Dave. So I think it's a great step in the right direction. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Richardson. Thank you, Vice Mayor and Councilmember Mungo. This is you know, we have we've had conversations. I'm glad to see this item finally come forward. I think it's smart timing given there will be hopefully a bunch of trenches in our city. And we should really be thinking about digging once and laying down some smart infrastructure while we're at it. We talked about in addition and thank you for adding this into the body of the item. But think about within this roadmap a community broadband strategy so that that helps bridge the digital divide, not simply providing to businesses, but expanding, you know, looking at expanding opportunities to disadvantaged communities or perhaps residential potential residential Wi-Fi program. And there's a lot of already great things happening. You know, for example, last year's participatory budgeting, we invested in cameras and Wi-Fi on the Atlantic corridor. And that's been you know, we've been working hand-in-hand with technology innovation department to to implement that and is making great progress. Well, how can we make sure that that is a part of a larger citywide strategy to offer broadband or Wi-Fi access to the public? Right. We already doing our part. We already do in our libraries. But where where do we go next? So so I'd love for that to be included in in this in this plan. But again, I think this is the language that we need to begin to speak now. And this is when we think of infrastructure, we have to think about technology. Thanks. Okay. Thank you. I had some major work done in my district and for Willow. But it was not us. It was sort of California Edison. So is there a possibility of getting their plants also included in this? Because they're doing some major rewiring, I guess, of their of their services and making them out underground. And I don't know if there was any coordination with the city in regards to their program, but it was very disruptive in Willow on Wall Street for about a month and a half, two months. And if we are going to be doing this, I think we need to also include Southern California Edison in terms of what's their plans when they want to. Do a major project such as that when they did a will? Is that something that we can do? Are we two separate entities that we can coordinate together on that? Got to remember your anger. I think that is a good idea. Certainly in our response back to council, we'll talk about our efforts to coordinate with Edison. We believe it's important to dig once and maintain the structure of the street as long as possible to save our investment and as many utilities as we can coordinate with the better. I appreciate that. I'm guessing that what they tore up, they put back. But at the same time, I think that would be an opportunity that we can take as well to implement this kind of program. If they're digging it up, let's let's do it together. That's where we can put any kind of infrastructure that we need to put in at the same time. Councilmember Mungo. Thank you. I think that my colleagues brought up a very good point. Where's the future going? And I think that we've seen some great demonstrations recently, a big news article about Huntsville. I know the team is working on lots of things that this will connect with, so I'm just really thankful that my colleagues are supporting moving forward with this because as Councilmember Suranga said, let's tear up some streets and well, while we've got them open, let's make sure we provide access. Thank you. Being. Q And Mr. City Manager can staff remind me when this is coming back? The draft ordinance. They will come back with a two from four perhaps to the city council, as well as the city attorney, and then the city attorney will draft the ordinance. So. Brian and Craig. I think we would request 60 days to turn that all around. I'm very comfortable with that. And I think the two from four will at least set the direction that we're going. And I think that that'll get us prepared. And I think that the ordinance is something that's a nice to have and maybe we'll get there. But I'm really just looking forward to a policy setting the groundwork of opening up and one day things. Thank you. Is there any member of the public that wish to address the Council on 27? See CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries. Madam Clerk, what do we have left? Public comment. Okay, so any member of the public that would like to address council on items not agenda ized at this time, please come forward. Peter Rosenwald I would like to address something that was agenda ized, but I missed it. It was the

Tesoro Grant to Labor Leadership Program. Why don't you find out if I could speak on that? I'm sorry. Would you? Yes. It's permitted. If you can speak on. The Neighborhood Leadership Program. Grant. It's okay. Yes. If I could just maybe get my 20 seconds back. Of course. I'm truly concerned about the possibility, the fact that the Navy leadership program accepted a grant from Tesoro again this year and the 2013 graduate of the program. Madam Clerk, can we take up item 28. Communication from Councilman Austin, Councilwoman Gonzalez and Councilman Andrew's recommendation to request that the City of Long Beach become a co-sponsor of Assembly Bill 1771 to increase the penalties for human trafficking. Councilman Gonzalez. Yes. I want to thank, uh, my council colleagues for bringing this forward, particularly council member Austin. So we're asking the council to sign on as a co-sponsor to HB 1771 by Assembly member Patric k O'Donnell. AB 1771 would increase the penalties for human trafficking and give our prosecutor more tools to combat this terrible crime. The city is already on record in support of this bill, and the mayor has sent a letter of support by becoming a co-sponsor of the bill. The city would then be able to work actively in support of its passage, including helping to get support from other cities. The bill is currently co-sponsored by our city prosecutor Doug Halbert, and the city of Long Beach is Human Trafficking Task Force. I would like to on behalf of Councilman Austin, I'd like to thank Doug Halbert for being there, being here, as well as Assembly Member O'Donnell's district director. I think Marisol, is she here? There she is. And members of the Human Trust Trafficking Task Force. I would also like to acknowledge our manager of government affairs, Diana Tang, who coordinates all of the city's efforts with legislation. Thank you. Councilman Andrews. Yes. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I also would like to thank our councilwoman, Mrs. Lena, for bringing this forward, because the fact that I am very supportive of the Assembly bill O'Donnell bill, to have closed it. You know, this is a loophole that has, you know, admission and AB 1771 and is a bill that likes this will help us prosecute human trafficking and criminals to the fullest while prosecuting, you know, like protecting and excuse me, the innocent victims that they prey on. I think everyone is really aware of that because this is something that's so prevalent in our city and all over. So I'm really, really excited about this bill and I hope it really shows what we can do to help our young individuals who's a part of this. Thank you very much. Councilmember Richardson. Thank you. And I'm proud to join the chorus of support for this. You know, many people know that a lot of times this human trafficking network is directly linked to gang activity and other underground trades and such. So it's only important that we're smart and innovative and that we have our state supporting on the ground efforts and we have our local prosecutor at the table as well. So I think this is completely smart and the type of legislation that we should be supporting. Thank you, Mr. City Manager. Would you like to turn it over for a report from your staff and then as well as comments from our city prosecutor? We certainly would. We have Diana Tang and then, of course, the city prosecutor. Vice mayor, members of the city council, thank you for the opportunity to give a brief report on this. The city, as Councilwoman Gonzalez mentioned, is in support of the bill. And we've been working closely with the city prosecutor here on getting support for the legislation. It is currently headed for the Assembly Appropriations Committee later this month, and we hope to bring on San Diego and a number of other cities in support of the bill as well. That I'll turn it over to our city prosecutor. Thank you. I'd also like to thank Councilwom an Gonzalez, Councilman Andrews, Councilman Austin for bringing this forward to today's agenda. People may not know this, but the city of Long Beach has been a leader in the fight against sex trafficking. I want to commend the City Council for fully funding the city's vice department so they can operate sting operations to try to catch some of the people who are behind human trafficking here in Long Beach. This bill came about as a result of a case that happened here in Long Beach, where a gang member was found at a hotel supervising a prostitute. There was not enough evidence to present a felony charge in court. So the only thing that was remaining was a misdemeanor, capped at six months in county jail. And we know that the way the county jail, the situation with the county jail this time is one that results in early release or quick release of misdemeanors. This bill will help add give teeth to the city's efforts. It's important, but I didn't I didn't want to end before acknowledging the commitment of the leadership of the city council. I also have with me tonight Alan Miller, who is a deputy city prosecutor and leads our human trafficking division. She was a deputy district attorney in Fresno before coming to my office. And also Tracey McGee, who provides services to women who are victims of sex trafficking, wherever you are. Could you raise your hands right behind me? But I wanted to just acknowledge their good work and also the good work of the police department and acknowledge the city's leadership in this. You're all to be commended. So thank you. Thank you. There's been a motion and a second. Is there any member of the public that wish to address the Council on item 28? Please come forward. I am Frances, Emily Dyson Harris and I reside in District one and I wholeheartedly support the recommendation you have, and I want to commend you for bringing this forward. I have a background actually in nursing from Penn State University, and my specialty was children. And I saw when I worked in Washington, D.C., this type of thing going on and is just. There's no words to describe it because the person's life, that's the victim. You know, hopefully they'll not have scars. Physically, mentally, psychologically, for the rest of life. But it affects our family, their friends. But I want to say to you that I commend the city of Long Beach for this, and I urge you to go get every city in the state of California that you can tap to support this, because the more cities that support it will be a message basically to say, get out of the state of California. This is unacceptable. We will not tolerate it. And we're look, we're watching you and you will be found. Thank you very much. Good. Good evening, Vice Mayor. Members of the City Council party sold by the House District Director for Assembly Member O'Donnell. Some of the members sense his regrets that. He cannot be here tonight to encourage. Your vote to support his bill AB 1771, which will help judges ke ep human traffickers behind bars. Criminal street gangs have. Been continually evolving new methods to fund gang. Activities. For decades. In recent. Years, they have turned to commercial sexual exploitation as a new source to illicit. Income. While law enforcement has had success limiting human trafficking operations. Their efforts can be hampered by witnesses refusing to testify due to the threat of retaliation. In these instances, prosecutors must ultimately settle on a charge of supervising, supervising prostitution for those clearly in charge of these operations. The maximum penalty for this crime is only six months, the same as the prostitutes they oversee who. Are often victims. Themselves. Judges need discretion to recognize when this crime is part of a larger operation and deal the necessary blow to those operations. Abbie, 1771, does so by increasing the maximum penalty for supervising. Prostitution to one year and clarifying. The activities that can be used as evidence when prosecuting this crime. In closing, some remember O'Donnell is proud to author this bill with the support of city prosecutor Doug Halbert, a true advocate for Long Beach, as well as the Long Beach Human Trafficking Task Force. Thank you to Councilman Austin, Councilwoman Gonzalez and Council Member Dee Andrews for your leadership in bringing this forth. On behalf of Assembly Member O'Donnell, I. Respectfully ask for your vote in support of this bill. Thank you. Good evening, vice mayor and council members i'm virginia isn't here representing the Long Beach Human Trafficking Task force. I want to thank you for bringing this bill forward on the agenda this evening. As you all know, the task force is a collaboration of different organizations and agencies. And the task force and we've worked with with each of you and with the city on various things. In the past, we focus on three P's prevention, which includes education. In our event, the Youth Exploitation Safety Symposium, which we held in February. We also focus on protection, offering services and resources to survivors such as humanitarian bags and transportation. And the third P that we focus on is prosecution. And that is where cosponsoring HB 1771 comes into play for our task force as part of the collaboration to work to longer sentences for traffickers, which will also provide time for the survivors to rebuild their lives. We're proud to be a partner with the city prosecutor's office and with with Assembly member Patrick O'Donnell to bring a 1771 to Sacramento. And we hope to have the city of Long Beach co-sponsor the bill as well. We're working with different task force and organizations across California to help support this bill as well. The task force is about collaborating to fight this issue, and by working together, we can set an example of how we can make a change. Thank you. Councilman Mongo. I just want to thank everyone who worked hard on this. And I know that my colleagues and I joined Assemblymemb er O'Donnell at the symposium you mentioned, and it was a worthwhile event and all the things that you're doing a very valuable. So thank you for that. Thank you. There's been a motion and a second. Members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Madam Clerk, if we can go to item 21. Members, please cast your vote. Motion carries 19, removing the 19. What we're doing now. Item 19 is a report from economic and property development. Recommendation to execute all related documents to implement a fully amortized loan in the amount of 300,000 to Blue Haven Thai cuisine located at 740 East Broadway District to. First enrollment though. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I wanted to thank City Management for working with the corporation to help secure the successful reactivation of this corner. I know many of you know this corner for a long time it was Hamburger Mary's, and since Hamburger Mary's moved two and a half years ago, the slots been an unfortunate magnet for all sorts of public safety and code enforcement issues. My staff has been in constant discussions with the police development services, downtown Long Beach Associates and area residents about concerns related to this corner. I appreciate the new operator of this site. That the new operator of the site ran into some unforeseen difficulties. And I'm happy for all of us that we are able to find a solution. My staff and I certainly enjoy great food and we're a little delighted and giddy when we learned that Panera Pan Ramen had selected the Second District to open their second location. I tried the original place with Councilwoman Mango some time ago and was very happy to have been introduced to such a wonderful, wonderful restaurant. So I do have one question, Mr. City Manager, assuming that the item hoping that the item will pass, when will the owner operator receive the loan in hand or the ability to move forward ? Do we have an idea? Yeah, I can answer that. My coffee. And. I will. Probably have to lateral that specific response. But we did go to our loan committee who has approved that loans over $100,000 have to come to city council for. Actual timing as to receipt of funds. I would like to turn that over to Saeed Jalali, our economic development officer. Is it okay? Yes. Okay. We met with the owners this afternoon and. They once the. Permits have been issued, which we are in. Process of issuing those. We will be. Releasing the funds, but we will not release the funds until we know all permits are in place. Okay. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Councilman Mongo. I'm just so excited for this fantastic restaurant that is one of the best Thai food restaurants in the region. Every time I go there, there are people literally from Culver City, Hollywood, Pasadena, waiting in a line to eat there. So I hope that it has just as long of a line downtown. And we're so excited that this fifth District business is expanding into the downtown area. I had fifth district envy. Any public comment on this item? See ing that. Please cast your votes. Yeah. Come on, give it. Various. Motion carries. 17. Okay. We're going right now into item 25, which is related to this presentation. If I can have the clerk read out on 25. Item 25 is a report from Health and Human Services, Parks and Recreation and Marine recommendation to receive and file a copy of the 2016 updated Long Beach Strategic Plan for older adults. City. Thank you. There's a motion and a second counsel where we can turn this over to staff for you and opened it up for. Okay. I'm not. Turn this over to Mr. West. Mayor, council members, we have a report here from our Health and Human Services Director Kelly Copley, and also our Parks Recreation Marine Director Marie Knight. Living Animal Mayor and council members tonight will be presenting an update to the older adult strategic plan. I just realized we don't have the clicker for the. PowerPoint. And while we're looking for the quicker. Yeah. First, I'd like to think. Thank you. And I think to all those who participated in the needs assessment and the planning efforts that have taken place over the last ten years, I'd also like to thank the Senior Advisory Commission members for their time reviewing and providing feedback and insight into this document. The conversations were robust and provided for better for a much better document. The City of Long Beach is lucky to have many people who are truly committed to ensuring the lives of older adults are safe and productive. First, I'd like to share a little bit about our philosophy as we went into this process. So the older adult population in Long Beach is very diverse and we celebrate that diversity. We seek to achieve equity and access to services and support across the city, prioritizing underserved populations to reduce disparities in social and health outcomes. And we seek to empower active, engaged, older adults to help steer the future of the course of services and programs. A few days, a few data points about older adults in our city. We have approximately 119,000 adults over the age of 50 and 43,000 over the age of 65. Almost half of those live alone. 13% live below the poverty line, which is $11,770 for one person and just under 16,000 for two people. 40% have a disability. 25% have less than a high school education. And 24% speak English less than very well. We also have a very diverse population. And the projections indicate that our diversity, that our community will become more diverse as our diverse, younger generations age. Because of this, it's very important to ensure that the future service development take into consideration the cultures and the interests of the populations that will be serving. We're also finding over time that the poverty rate among older adults, it will be growing. So by 2025, it's projected that nearly 23% of the older adult population will live in poverty and will have less resources to support their health and well-being. There have been a number of studies in the past, starting in 2005, the Long Beach Strategic Plan for Older Adults. In 2012, Cal State Long Beach conducted the report called Determining Needs and the Creation of a Long Beach Village for Older Adults. St Mary Medical Center does regular community benefit reports with research behind those. And then the Health and Human Services Department held an older adult case management summit in October of 2015. Altogether, over a thousand people have participated in and research on these assessments efforts, and they've participated through one on one interviews, focus groups, surveys and. Key informant interviews, stakeholder meetings, all different ways that they've been engaged. Depending on which study they participated in. But they found throughout all of them really is that that the issues have remained consistent. So safety, transportation, housing, health and quality of life come up through all of the reports. And what we've found is that, you know, we continue to do the services that we provide that we'll share in a minute. But that overall, that we have not really been able to fully address the issues as they arrived due to lack of resources. So funding has been cut across the country as well as locally in L.A. County. And so as we continue to identify needs that we haven't been able to address them due to resource issues. Another key thing that came up and that we're really focusing on here is the need for coordination through the summit and through and other reports really said, you know, if we could just coordinate, we have better. We have a lot going on. It's just that nobody really knows about it. And so they develop a vision, a coordinated health and social service continuum of care that effectively links older adults to the care they need when they need it to support quality of life. And so the more that we can take what we do have and connect early on, then we can we can have that much more impact while we are looking for additional resources. For additional services. And with that, Marie Knight will discuss the services we provide. So there are some current services that we provide. And as you can see on the screen, those are our six senior center locations where we serve a vibrant. And. Important segment of our community. On average, we have over 42,000 visits. Per month to these sites by our older adults. The things that take place at these sites on. A daily basis are health and wellness programs, exercise, entertainment, social services. Socialization. And connections and links to vital resources. In addition, over 64,000 congregate meals were served a year at these sites at four of these sites. Some of the other current services that are provided by the city and through some of. Our sites are information. And referral line. And that takes about 1200 calls a month from topics ranging from housing assistance, utility bills, transportation and linkages to disability resources. We have our Senior Links program, which is conducted by our Public Health Nurse Nurse, and that includes. Home visitations. That help link our seniors to services that enable them. To stay safely in. Their own home, whether it be through meals, house cleaning, financial management or even mental health services. We have for risk assessment and prevention education classes that are coordinated by our public health nurse to increase awareness of the risks and implement, implement and prevention strategies. We have a multi-service center for homeless for older adults who are homeless or at risk with case management services, with case management connections to resources such as emergency housing. And we have multiple volunteer opportunities that are offered through the city for our seniors, for example, our very successful senior police partnership program, where the seniors assist the police. Department with vacation home checks at DUI checkpoints. Witness and sorry, witness and. Victim assistance programs, etc.. We also have our CERT program and we. Have a fire ambassadors program. In. Addition in our eighth Council. District. We have a great example of seniors who are empowered and work to provide programs and services. For each other. These services are provided two days a week at the Expo and they include physical and exercise activities, a variety of speakers. They coordinate field trips and they have worked with local nonprofits that come in and donate their services to the seniors that are meeting their. There are services that are funded by L.A. County that are provided to our seniors here in Long Beach. And those services are funded through the federal Older Americans Act. And that includes our congregate meal programs, home delivered meals to the frail and homebound seniors. Family caregivers support health promotion and health and wellness programs, linkages, nutrition, counseling and support services. Some of these are based on the greatest need, which they define as low income, minority limited income or geographic isolation. From the city's perspective, we provide just over $850,000 a year for those services through our Parks, Recreation and Marine Department that take place at our six senior center sites. We also fund $100,000 for our Senior Link's program through our Health and Human Services Fund. As I mentioned, there is funding that comes from the state through L.A. County to provide services across the county. Unfortunately, the distribution method is one tough to nail down because those services are provided to seniors at a number of nonprofits throughout L.A. County. And it's difficult for us to get a good handle on just how many of our Long Beach seniors are being served by the funding that comes through L.A. County. So the overall recommendations throughout the plan are really to implement a coordinated system of services. So really focus on developing an older adult task force, establishing a one stop adult resource network and enhancing community engagement while we continu e to look for additional resources. The older adult task force would really would be a comprehensive representation of county and city staff, community and nonprofit providers, neighborhood associations, hospitals, housing, emergency services, funders, and anyone else who is interested. It would identify common goals across existing efforts and leverage those efforts to strengthen the capacity of the city and its partners to meet the needs of older adults. This would be an ongoing task force really helping to drive service within the city. We also have the recommendation is an older adult and older adult research network. This would include a comprehensive resource list for older adults and their families. There are a lot of lists. There's not a comprehensive list. And so we would be able to leverage things like the senior center information referral line that's currently used to run one scan toll free lines. They're pulling it all together in a place that was truly accessible. And then the other piece would be the this a single point of contact, such as an office of Aging within the city to coordinate services, connect providers to support successful referrals, and answer questions connecting individuals and families to the services they need. Part of this would also be the use of technology platforms as part of the One-Stop Adult Resource Network. This would be using things such as apps organized by service type, geography and eligibility, maybe a referral system that supports what we call a warm handoff. So when someone comes in for a role, we actually referral. They actually may help support those connections, maybe GPS mapping of services and other innovative solutions. Sorry. The other piece of that is also the enhanced community engagement. And so really this was a key point which said, you know, we need to identify ways to connect families and community members to opportunities to support older adults within the community. And so if we're really training, engaging community members in that work, then they have a better ability to support each other. So in order for any of those next steps to be implemented, we would have to first identify the resources, obviously, to staff and to manage an older adult task force with partner identification and outreach will take a considerable amount of staff time or other possibly maybe volunteer or paid resources to make those happen. So in the. In the Council's request. In October, we were asked to review the feasibility of an Office of Aging within the Health and Human Services Department based on the identified needs regarding identifying and coordinating services, outreach and technology opportunities. We developed an office description to meet these needs. We would identify and co-ordinate resources, conduct ongoing needs, assessments of community need, support community members to advocate for their needs, research and seek technology platforms, leverage existing referral systems, market services, and act as a resource clearinghouse and identify additional resources. The focus of this office at this time would not be providing additional direct service, but to really help coordinate what is what we're participating with and the other services. So that is we're looking for additional resources this could build on. The staffing for this would be a program coordinator. So it's four people in addition to what already exists in the services we provide. So it would leverage that our existing services. So a program coordinator to oversee the office, an additional public health nurse to really outreach to older adults and assess and connect to services. A research analyst really doing the in-depth analysis work and looking at the needs and then really paying attention to the data as we move forward and the technology specialists to coordinate the development and maintenance of an online resource tool and a referral system. It's estimated that the creation of this office would be $493,000, which would provide the staff and technology needs to lead the effort and to address the recommendations from the plan. Our next steps. As rare as we are as we are, working within our current constraints is to continue our current services of linkages to research, funding formulas and priorities for L.A. County Area Agent Oxygenating and Aging, establishing a plan for the older adult task force so that we would be ready to hit the ground and implement that. To seek a partnership with locally, a local university, to conduct a complete service gap analysis, and then really to continue to look for additional resources. Without the additional resources, we will have to be maintaining services at our current level. And with that and our report, and we'd be happy to answer any questions. Thank you. Okay. Thank you. Very thorough report. I want to thank staff, but also let's give our commission a big round of applause for their hard work on this. And I'm going to turn this over to Councilwoman Gonzalez. Thank you both, Kelly and Marie for this very good report. I think my questions have been answered. It was I'm just glad to see that we're at least looking at the feasibility of an Office of Aging, because I know it has been talked about before and that, you know, specifically, we're looking to see what opportunities are available at the county as there are funding opportunities that we've taken advantage of. And then also going forward, I know we have another agenda item on the continuum of care that will be addressing some of that too. So that is about it. I just wanted to comment that I appreciate this information and I know our commission is certainly looking into this and looking to see what other opportunities we have available. So thank you very much. Council. Woman Mango. Yes. I also want to thank the Health Department. I think that you and Parks and Rec put together quite a presentation. I, I look at the analysis of the funds and the allocation of customers that we currently have. And I think that being a part of L.A. County, that the the differentiation of those groups is not really I'm focused on. And so I think that now as we're pulling away and doing our own area on area agency on Aging, that we will be able to better focus on growing some of those populations. I think that if the proportion of measure of the difference between the two different kinds of of meals is so striking that perhaps we don't have as strong of a partner in our home delivered meal programs, signing up and enrolling the community members. Because when it comes to Thanksgiving and the other times of the year, we're out in the community delivering those meals. So we know there is a need. And then in reading through the portions of the transportation issues that the seniors are having, getting to some of the events in the congregate meals, perhaps an RFP process to onboard additional partners in these programs would help us leverage and draw down additional grant funding for Long Beach. So I think that this is an amazing launching point. I look forward to seeing how these numbers grow and change over the next year. As our population gets older, we can only expect for our enrollment to grow as well. And so I'm here to support, I'm here to help and thankful for the work that the commission and your staff have done. So thank you, everyone, for what you've put into this. It means a lot. Great. Thank you. Council member Austin. Thank you. Also want to thank the Parks and Rec and Health Department for this great report. You know, I think the speaker said it best. Older Americans are contributors. My eighth District Senior Advisory Committee, I think, exemplifies that very well with the work that they have done to create a senior program at the Expo building twice a week, 8 hours a day, all organic. And I want to really recognize and appreciate them for doing that. And thank you, Murray, for mentioning it. When we talk about enhancing livability in the city of Long Beach, we have to pay attention to this very, very important demographic. Our older adults. Our seniors are extremely important. A number of our 119,000 residents fitting into that category is significant, and it merits further study and attention to this council to looking at creating an office of Aging or looking at putting resources or dedicating resources to make sure that we we create the best possible model to support our senior population. And so my my emphasis and focus will certainly be in that area, and I look forward to continuing the conversation in the future. Thank you. Okay. Councilwoman Pryce. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you to our staff, Kelly and Marie, for the excellent presentation and the very comprehensive data. I asked this question of Kelly earlier, and I don't know if I think she was going to look into it. Do we know if there are pockets of older adults in various parts of the city, or do we know how they're dispersed throughout the city?

We have that data. I don't have it with me right here. We have those data. The department. I'll get back to you. Okay, that sounds good. I'm just curious, in terms of the location of our senior centers and their proximity to where our older adult population may be. This is a very important issue, and I'm glad that we are starting these discussions, and I'm grateful for my council colleagues who originally asked for this report and brought this forward because I think it's important we talk a lot about youth programing and youth activities and long term sustainable programs for the youth. But sometimes we don't talk about the senior population, and that's really important. The seniors are going through a transition period where they are establishing a new type of independence and operating an environment where they may not have the support that they need to to thrive and that they should be doing thriving. So I'm grateful that we're having this conversation. Councilman

Superhot and I are also partnering together to try to bring some senior programming to the third district. We don't have a senior center there, but we are going to transform one of our current facilities and offer on a pilot program basis some senior programming over the summer to try to engage some of the seniors who live on the east side, who may have difficulty getting to the senior center. So we're excited about that. In addition to programming, though, I think the biggest obstacles that we have to address as a city are the poverty data that you have listed and how that relates to the citizens in our city that are of the older adult population who are living under the poverty line, which Kelly and I were discussing earlier today, is $11,000 a year or 13,000 for two people. And we have so many individuals living under that poverty line. And it's important for us to figure out some long term sustained. Strategies to help these particular individuals. I notice that in the presentation there are some next steps outlined. But what is what is the plan in terms of making some of these recommendations a reality? So is this establishing a plan for a task force, for example? Is this going to be coming back to council at some point? Where is our next data point, where we're going to check in and see where we are on these recommendations or. We're taking these recommendations on the sort of the next steps is under current resourcing. And so what we would do is we could provide an update along the way about where we are in those steps and what we found from L.A. County in terms of the resourcing there and putting together the plan for the task force. And we can bring that back additional steps after that, really we'll be looking for additional resourcing. You know, often we hear where we can write a grant for that, but grants for offices and more sustainable functions aren't they're not they're not out there as much. And so we'll be trying to figure out what is our best ways to sustain this wo rk moving forward. Because this 493,000, that would be an ongoing cost. It's not a one time cost. True. It's an ongoing cost. And so how would the older adult task force be different than our senior advisory commission? The older adult task force. We envision to be made up of not only senior staff members of our advisory commission, but a lot of our service providers. So nonprofit organizations, our hospitals, potentially our churches. There are a number of providers throughout the city that have seen your services and share our mission. And so it's bringing together those stakeholders in a working task force to put forth some of these next steps, look at linkages, look at the gap analysis, help us figure out what we are offering throughout the city. But more important, where are the gaps in services and then as a task force to look at? Are there funding opportunities? Are there opportunities for some of these partners to join together and take on maybe those extra services? So it is more of a working group of all of the providers and partners as well as community stakeholders. Okay. Well, I think that's a really good starting point because it would take, you know, relatively speaking, to the type of resources we're talking about to create an office of Aging. I think it would take relatively minor amount of resources to get a task force established and at least start the discussions across city lines with some of the main stakeholders, some of whom may be, you know, private entities with funding opportunities or interests and taking on the task of sustainable resource senior programming. So I think for me that's that would be a really great starting point and I'd love to hear more about how that progress is going and who who is going to be identified as a stakeholder on that task force, because I think that's a very cost effective way to move forward with these discussions and not let them end here. Thank you. Thanks for your work. Thank you. Councilmember Supernova. Thank you. Would also like to thank Parks and Rec and the Health Department and our commission for all their work on this. It's a it's a great report. We're very excited in the fourth District because we've already started a task force on our own. We're not doing our own thing. We want we have volunteers stepping up to the plate. And it's great to have this framework in place now so we can move forward, so we can roll into the citywide effort. And the reason I think that's important is that at the end of the day, I think this is going to take volunteers. And I think the best way to recruit volunteers is on a council district level, and that's what we're going to endeavor to do. And Councilwoman Pryce mentioned our joint effort also, which is kind of like on the border between the third and the fourth. So I just like to say thank you again. And we really look forward to moving forward. Great. Thank you. Councilmember Richard. Thank you. And I'll be brief. I just want to chime in and sa y that this is a this is a very solid report, although I think it's great that it's based on data over time. And I know there was an assessment in 2012 and then there's and we're doing a current assessment, a new assessment, correct. Needs assessment. We will be doing. That's a part of the next part of this. Yeah. Yeah. I think this is great. Our seniors certainly count on us to make sure that we're thinking strategically and comprehensively about the services we provide to them. I'll say I'm proud that we do have Highland Park as a regional park in North Long Beach, where a number of seniors receive those services. And that's why it's important and great that we see both Parks and Recreation and Health Department here, because to the public, they're one and the same as it relates to service delivery. So you can continue to count on my support and fantastic work. Thank you, Councilmember Andrews. Yes, thank you. I think also I want to thank the Health Department and Parks and Rec for this. And coming forward, because the fact that the NSA, myself, I know that the importance of, you know, having a place in one. Place where to go. And I know. You talk about, you know, volunteers. No. One, I think volunteers more than I think is because if I could, that gives them something to do. And this is something we've got to keep them active in, because in my district, I think one of my biggest projects are working with our seniors with low income. And this is a wonderful idea. And I think if you continue to live, you're going to get old. And this is a I'm a true example of that. So you guys. Continue to do what you've been doing, and I think it's going to be a great project. Thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Orenge. Behind. I too want to add my voice to the well done job on this report. It's very thorough. It touches upon a lot of issues. But one of the issues that I didn't see touched upon here is that there's a lot of. Abuse of seniors. That's done not only by maybe agencies, but by family members as well. And I don't see a position here that would provide some kind of personal assistance or a personal evaluation of older citizens who might be going through some kind of traumatic experience as they get older, that it may not be as visible as does it as it as you might think it would be because of the visible signs of abuse or any other kinds of trauma that that a senior citizen might go through. So I don't know if there's a plan. I know there's a there's a position for a public health nurse. But I think that this position would probably be just a check on the staff. But I'd like to see some way that we can get a some kind of a evaluation down to the senior citizens to ensure that they are properly situated and properly taking care of the other type of abuse that takes place, which is maybe not talked about a lot, is the abuse that takes place when they're mismanaging their their retirement, mismanaging their Social Security or any other kinds of financin g that they might get, which leads them to be in a position where they're alone or or in need of services that they're not taking advantage of that. So I think that there's also got to be that kind of evaluation done for the senior citizens as well. And I speak from experience. I have my my father in law passed a couple of years ago. But near the end of his life, he yes, he made a decision on his own, on his own to get into a reverse mortgage. And that just totally devastated the it helped him in his senior years. But once he passed, then there was it was who did that property go to. They went to the bank, or at least they tried. And it took the family quite an effort. Get an attorney, go through some hoops to get that property back and into the family so that it can be stay in the family. So, I mean, those types of counseling services I think are very important for them as well. And they'll maybe you could incorporate that somewhere in your plan here to provide that kind of a that kind of assessment and that kind of service. The service district is has a large number of senior housing. America Gold Star Manor, Bixby No Nos Towers Brethren Manor Vista Del Mar and Pancreas Grant and those are those are facilities that house quite a number of seniors. And I don't know how how connected they are to this or would be to this because we're talking about services to those that can't afford it, those that are that would be in these types of facilities that they get. These facilities are full service and they provide recreational activities. Health care and advice. But I would also like to see it as our responsibility to take care of our seniors, that we're also be able to provide that as well in terms of being able to guide them as they move into their through their senior years to make sure to make it as as comfortable and as livable as we possibly can make it. So. Just some food for thought in that respect, because I see this as an important issue and it's something that we need to take care of our citizens as a as a as it was said earlier, we like to expand a lot of our resources and energy to our youth to make sure that they have a great experience growing up. But we also need to do the same for our senior citizens. And I think that the more attention we pay to them and we give resources for them, the better off the whole community will be from the beginning to the end. Thank you. Okay. Thank you very much. All right. Vice-Chair Lowenthal. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I wanted to thank. Kelly Collopy and her health department team for the attention that they continue to give our senior population. And and I appreciate and understand our concern, or at least our fiscal concern about creating an eventual office on aging. I know that will be extremely expensive, especially considering that we are starting from not having even a small semblance of such an office. But I'm hopeful that this city will someday find the resources to do that. I worked in my first opportunity outside of university was at the city of LA's Department of Aging and learned firsthand how very critical those services were for older Americans, older adults, 55 and older. And regardless of our assumptions of how comfortable one might be in retirement because of their longevity in their careers, I think what I learned 20 plus years ago is that the ability to make ends meet on a retirement income or simply on Social Security is less and less possible for our folks. And so I hope we don't take our eye off that goal and find some opportunity and means to establish an office of Aging or on aging and perhaps start small. And certainly a lot of the programs that I worked on at the time were grant funded similar to the Health Department. I don't think that anyone could imagine that the city of Long Beach can afford to house a health department if it was fully general fund funded. But a lot of the programs, actually most of the programs are grant funded. And I see the Office on Aging as a similar resource that we can house here and seek. The grant funding that's available, whether it's through Title five, the Older Americans Act and all of the other resources that Dr. Khalifi certainly knows exists. So my support is there for that, and I hope you will continue working toward it. Thank you. Thank you. Now, is there any public comment on this item? Please come forward. Good evening, everyone. My name is Karen Reside and I also want to commend. The Health Department and the Recreation Department under the leadership of these two amazing women. They've done a fantastic job. And nobody mentioned that. They did it in. A very short. Turnaround time. They went to several meetings. And were really actively engaged in bringing in the community to. Discuss the updating of this plan. One of the things. That we suffered from the plan the first time was there was never enough. Funding. So a lot of the provisions with the plan were not put into operation. I live at seventh and Pacific in the tall senior tower, 17 stories with over 200 seniors. And I can tell you there is approximately 23 of these buildings in the general downtown area. This is where most of the low income seniors are concentrated. We have residents that speak 11 different languages. The least amount of money. That they live on. I have one tenant that now lives on $360. A month. And the average is about $960 a month. The only way that we can survive is by having affordable. Housing that's. Funded and only charges you 30% of your income. Otherwise, many of these seniors would be out on the street. So affordable housing is really, really a key. Component. For our seniors. I also. Wanted to mention that the language, 11. Different languages. We need to be respectful of the cultural differences. One of the things. That I really appreciate about the cultural diversity in our community is the attitude that other cultures have towards their seniors. They revere and respect. Them and welcome thei r contributions. Which isn't always the way it is in the United States. Nobody tells you how it is to become a senior. You have to learn as you go. And I thank you for bringing this forward and updating the plan. This is really going to be an important issue for our community going forward in the next decade. So thank you for your attention. To the matter. Great job, everyone. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name's Donna Berge 4681 Goldfield eighth District. Just a few comments I. Wanted to make and thank. You again for your report. One issue that came up and one of my. Colleagues I serve on the committee for the eighth District, for the senior advisory committee on the secretary. And my. Colleague, who is the arts director, was mentioning to me. Something that came up. Recently regarding. Seniors and others who are disabled this nursing home. Issues. We visited. A nursing home and. We found some. Deplorable conditions and trying to weed our way through the bureaucracy to try to get at who would help us resolve the. Problem was a daunting task. So I think. That's something that might be included as well down the line. Something that councilman you're under. Said about being connected I think is really, really. Vital. What we don't want to be myself being a newly retired, one year. Retired senior myself. We want to stay connected. We don't want to be the seniors. We want to be part of the community because we're an integral part of the community. We have an intelligent, incredibly intelligent, educated community of seniors, and we have a lot. In us still. So and we work for free, a lot of us. So the other thing is, is we were fortunate enough in the eighth District to have. The Long. Beach. University from the gerontology department. We had an intern there who worked with us hand in hand, and she was terrific. So the university has a huge resource, I think. For us as well. Integration. And the other thing. Is, uh. A small thing may seem small, but building. Friendships is really important to all of us. Keeping friendships as your friends pass away, as your family members pass away older, you lose your parents, etc.. Friendship is a really important key. And inside those friendships we're finding ourselves. Networking, finding out well what medicine works for. You and what kind of exercise you like. Well, you know, there's an exercise program over here. So we're all networking among ourselves as well. And in that. You. May find use for us as well. So thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. I know. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Councilmembers, administrators and citizens of Long Beach. Today I saw a senior. I saw a woman who's 68 years old who went to Wellesley. She's running for president. Her opponent is 76, isn't he? The scourge of volunteerism and the expectation that keeping seniors busy is what makes our minds go blank. Learning a new language. Learning a new skill. Having a phone to operate. This is what keeps the mind alive and w ell. I hope that you will reconsider that this should run on volunteerism. May I remind you that a woman 100 years ago next year at the inauguration of President Wilson had a thousand women standing at the gates of the White House? And you know that Alice Paul paid every one of them. There was no volunteerism in the National Women's Party that won the vote. They were paid. And that's important. Volunteerism crept into our lives in the second wave of feminism, and it is choking us into poverty because people want us to do things and not pay us as if our work is not valuable enough to be paid. My second point is I hope that you will consider that the LGBTQ senior has a certain special problem because marriage equality did not happen until recently. Most of us are single. Many of us are child free. We don't have a family to help us get around or take us after Christmas. That the LGBT concerns are serious as we consider going back in the closet. So we're not particularly abused as senior citizens by service professionals who still carry bigotry. So I hope you will consider all of these when you're talking about seniors. Keep us smart by asking us hard questions and giving us hard tasks and pass because we're worth it. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker. Surely start searching the Sultan's Swarm group and associates. As I listened to the outline and presentation. When we got to that point where the data was being itemized. I sat there and. Fat fought back tears. And the only reason why I will not allow them to come now is because I need to say what I need to say. If this office is opened before each of you, council persons draw your communities together and reignite what it means to be a resident and a citizen and part of a community, that will be a night that is a day when that office opens. That is grievous to me. We have lost what it means to be citizens. We have lost what it means to be neighbors. And if you open up an office and pay someone to do something that they won't do on their own. I marvel at some of the coffee shops around where they train their baristas to be nice and cordial. But if you meet some of those same baristas getting out of their car in the parking lot, they won't even smile at you. And it's because they're being paid to do so. We have lost what it means to really care from the heart. And we'll lose it even more if you open up yet another office and pay someone to do something that they should do because there are they are an American. You pay someone to do something because they are part of God's created human race. And somehow we've lost the capacity. To reach beyond the Federal Reserve note. And look, somebody's in the eye and say, if I see you follow me, help you get up because I am one of you. $439,000 will not be enough to do something for people who are become more big, becoming more hardened and stagnant in their care for one another. This city does not need an office of aging. We need just people to come outside your doors, come outside, knock on somebody else's door and say, How are you doing? I haven't seen you in a day. I haven't seen you in a week. How are you? Mr. Sloop, and I want to commend you. Commend you on getting started. I've been in your district for ten months. And God wouldn't let me leave. And I've been seeing people be coming out greeting me, saying, How can I help? I want to help. You don't need that office. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Yes, Don Darren, our one of the senior commissioners. I just want to throw in a few additional comments here. I agree with the previous speaker. We need people to be a lot more friendly and outgoing. And I think senior citizens have kind of a nature to do that more so. And people say so often the younger generation has lost the ability to be. Be as courteous as is they should be taught to be. Others are very courteous and I'm so appreciative of them. But I just I thought I'd throw in a comment about how much we appreciate what Health and Human Services and our Parks and Recreation have done in this study. It's really great. One of the things that Councilmember Turanga mentioned is about abuse to citizens, and I think that's something that we could fold in some things with the police department, the senior partners, the police there do more visiting, and especially when it's known that there's been any sort of abuse of seniors . I think that's a very good point that we could fall into it. Also, I want to point out transportation, for instance, all the senior citizens downtown and a lot of them have difficulty even getting to the grocery store. And even though it doesn't seem that far, maybe a dozen blocks. But, you know, some of them can't walk much more than a block or two. But it takes two busses to get to Vons market. Now we've been working, trying to work with Long Beach Transit to kind of fold in the passport bus to make routes around . And it isn't very far at all, you know, a dozen blocks at the most. To include that in there to these senior center not centers, focuses of concentration where the seniors are, all these big buildings. And for instance, the Cesar Chavez Park is underutilized by seniors because, yes, Long Beach Transit has a bus that goes there, but it comes from Colorado Lagoon. Not many people from there are going to Chavez Park. But the transportation problem could be solved with a circulatory route of the passport bus phrases. And right now, they don't feed seniors at the Chavez Center, but they do a lot of the other parks. We'd like to get them fed downtown, too. So those are just a couple of points I like to throw out in addition. To what we. Heard already. Thank you so much. Thank you, Don. Great points, Councilman Mongo. Actually, Mr. Stout. Right. Like that? Yeah. No. Ma'am. You want to speak on this item? Please come forward. Freedom. Freedom. Right. From yesterday. I'm sorry. Or. And this is on the senior item, correct, ma'am? I'm not. My son's here in case I don't make it

. Okay. You see this black guy? Do you do all of you see this black eye? Yes. I got this black eye outside of that door last Tuesday. I was coming. In here. To talk. And Phil on your sidewalk that was raised three inches high. And it's not a complete hit. My son was pushing me in the chair. He didn't see the sidewalk raised the wheels, hit the sidewalk. I went backwards. He fell on top of me. He got hurt. I got hurt. And that's where I got this black guy. So you can turn that damn clock off because I'm not going to stick to it. I earn what I get. First of. All. Wait a minute. I have to get myself together a. I want our version straight. Just got fixed. And Fashion Street wants to thank a young man by the name of Luis Garcia. He's worth its weight in gold. He gave us a state of the art st. And you should have more employees like him. It's gorgeous. We love it. It just raised our property values 100%. Now. What was I going to do now? I'm very cold. That's why I'm shaking. It's not because I'm falling apart, but at you lose your wood anyway. Of when you if your tax issue gets passed. Is there any way that you could build a structure for the homeless? Because on the West Side they are just. Running rampant in tents and what have you in a home for them where they don't. Have to pay to live with the cafeteria because it would be cost effective because you wouldn't be giving out food stamps. You get grants for it and donations, I'm sure. And we definitely need a bigger police department because I'm following next door and all of you on air. Okay. I follow them every day and I keep copies of everything I see. And so. I in fact, when I came down here, I. Was on it and there was a stalker on 25th and Santa Fe just before I came down here. Last Sunday, I woke up at 130 in the morning, gunshots that behind me by the freeway. We need more police. Put the money where it's going to go to good use. Now, I don't know what you. I know what you have planned. For the future. Oh, please, God. Stick with me. Okay. You're bringing up these three properties. I know, aren't you? The ones on. Broadway. Broadway and Promenade. Yes. They're at 45,000 feet, 280 feet. There later in the agenda. But there will be brought up. Yes. I'm sorry. I didn't hear what he said. Oh, I'm over here. They are on the agenda there. Later in the agenda. They will be heard later today. Well, I can't. Stick around in it. There's things that people need to know. Like the ones. The one that's. No, you don't want me. Okay. You know what? I can't fight you people. I just can't do it. But I got. Information. Because I've been tracking you for two years, and I copy everything. And I want you also to know, as far as making friends with foreigners, I live between Filipinos. And. Hispanics and black, all black across the street. Two years ago, my son and I hosted. For the. Neighborhood. You know what? You'll just have to endure me. It's all I can do to just stand here, and I don't think I'll be able to m ake it back again. Is it all right with everybody? Does anybody care? I'll leave if you. Want to, ma'am. So what? I'm going to give you a little more time. But just so you know, legally, I have to follow the city attorney's rules on public comment. I have to limit give everyone the same amount of protocol. I'm giving you more time, though. So I want you know, I have given you some more time. I will continue to give you some more time. But I do have to say. I'm not going to be able to do. That. No, I want to give you some more time, so please continue. But I just want to let you know that I have to also follow the the the mandated rules here. But please continue. Okay. Okay. I guess I. Want to say. Finish that. You if there's anything else you'd like to say, ma'am, please go ahead. Okay, you finish up. All right. Oh, with the with the kids, we had an Easter egg hunt, and because we wanted to get to know our neighbors and talk to them, they did talk my language. And I was lonely because my son's my caregiver. But afterwards, nobody talked to me. They didn't talk to each other. Kids don't play with each other. Nobody. No communication. So then last year. I brought in. £50 of snow, cost me 1200 dollars, and my son built a slide for the kids. And so the kids come over today. They played nets. No, they had a ball. After that, nobody talked to each other. Kid didn't play with each other. It was like. I'd done. Nothing. I hosted a clean up street, whatever. And they all came. But they were all Hispanics. And I, my son. Brought out a patio table. And we filled it full of food to help everybody to accommodate them. And I'm. Sitting there and they all come in card way and then they all take off and walk. Down the street and huddle up in a crowd. And I'm sitting at the table all by myself. Nobody want to talk to me. So that was after that I thought, You know what? I don't know what to do to get people together to communicate because what I'm doing is not working. So that's all I'm going to say, except for the building that you guys have got planned for the future that people should know about. But I don't think I can go through that. I'll come back at another time. Thank you, sir. If I could make it. Thank you very much. By the way, I'm 82 years old, so I'm and I appreciate your senior citizen presentation. Was great. I learned a lot from that. Thank you. Thank you for coming down here, ma'am. Thank you very much. Thank you for hearing her out. I do. Every day. Every day. Think they got. At least I go to work for 7 hours or nine. Thanks a lot. Good evening, counsel. That's a tough act to follow. I just think I'll sit down. But I think an important point was made that, you know, she's going well beyond what most of us do to get to know your neighbors. I think that's wonderful. If we all did that, we'd probably have much more cohesive neighborhoods. And the other point is they were talking about how difficult it is for some seniors to survive. On their incomes

. You know, some people, you know, through whatever reason, they're very stressed when it comes to their finances and. Small differences in expenses make a big difference to vulnerable people. And I think that you should reconsider measure aid, because that can affect seniors in a negative way. Small changes affect people in a big way. So thank you. Thank you, Mr. Stout. Any further public comment on item 25? Please come forward and state your name. Hi, I'm Myron Wohl, and I'm with the Long Beach Gray Panthers. And we wanted to talk about the Duke plan. It would be nice if we had a current copy that we could look at it more closely. I understand it'll be available after today's meeting, but I did see a draft at the Long Beach Senior Commission and I had some comments when I saw that I was concerned about the input from the community. For one thing, that is how much it did. People, seniors were able to see this draft and input and have access to what was going on. So that's one thing, which was the process. I would, you know, like the process to have been better. The other comment I would make is that for all the senior services in Long Beach, the major problem is money. How are we going to provide for seniors if the money involved is limited? I would have liked within that draft a proposal that the that the commission, whatever is set up would make the the ability to look at services, to look at where where money is available, to come up with innovative ideas so that we can have more money available for senior services. Finally, in the draft itself, at least what I saw, some of the statistics looked rather stale going back to 2010. I would wish that we would have updated some of the statistics. Again, if I had a copy of it a little more clearly, I could be more specific about what I how I feel. In general, though, I would like the idea of having such a strategic plan. It's necessary. It's needed. We need to make it better. Thank you. Thank you. That concludes our public comments. I'm going to turn this back to the council then for a vote. And I was seeing Marilyn out and she wanted to tell everybody again. She wanted to make sure that I told everybody again, thank you for giving her time. So I'll just say that again. Councilwoman Mango. I just wanted to thank our eighth District Senior Representative Secretary for bringing up a very, very important program, the ombudsman program that looks in on our senior facilities. And I thought we could perhaps take a quick second to ask Kelly Copley if the Ombudsman program would be a part of our strategic plan and or if we would rely upon county services. I thought I thought 23 I handed off my copy to a resident who didn't have the strategic plan, so I didn't know if you could cite what the numbers were and where we are on that. The Ombudsman's program is a county program, but we have let's see here. I think it was on page 13. We don't have a copy anymore. And and we will be embracing that into our plan. Or will we be still allowing them to maintain ombudsman services? You know, so the the services that are currently provided by the county would remain provided by the county. That is that's their funding source that there hasn't really been a conversation that they would carve out or end their service here and that we would open our own area. Agency on aging, L.A. County. L.A. City did that. But there are very large city. Generally services are provided by the county. So those forms that they do provide would remain there in terms of their funding, but we would look at additional opportunities for support. Wonderful. Thank you for that. Okay. Thank you. I want to thank all the public comment. Just I just want to, again, thank all the seniors that were involved in this. This is very important work. As you all know, updating this plan is also long term important for us so that we continue to get grants and all the support from hopefully the state and the federal government as well. And and there's clearly a lot of work that has to happen in the in the city as well. And I think we're all going to meet here in the next couple of weeks. So I look forward to meeting with the commission as well on on other issues. And so thank you all. With that, we have a motion and a second members please go out and Castro votes to receive and file. Councilwoman Pryce. Bush and Kerry. Thank you. And if there is an objection, there's one more item that has some babies attached to it that I see in the audience. So I want to get those those little, little, little folks home. So item ten, please. Item ten is part of the consent. I think then they're here for item ten, right? Yes. The Promenade Park. Okay. So why don't we do item? Let's let me let me pull item ten. And if I can get a motion, I can all the consent items that are not. Ten, please. That's fine. Can I get a motion in a second for all items that are not ten? Okay, there's a second and a motion public comment on all items that are not ten. Larry, now would be the time. 17. Item 17 is a report from City Manager and Financial Management. Recommendation to Award a contract to Los Angeles Engineering for the Colorado Lagoon Restoration Phase two B Project for a total contract amount not to exceed 3.1 million. District three. Can I get a motion in a second? Okay. Public comment. Please come forward. Larry. Larry. Good. You clear Casey dressed before I get into the specifics of how I think this can be adjusted better. My support for this concept. I fully supported the concept that I became involved in it. I think it was the second week or second month that Doug Drummond was a council person, and one day when after work workout going home, I had noticed a guy in an orange vest with a surveyor survey equipment, and I asked him what he was doing and he said, Well, well, we're bringing down this. We're creating the Terminal Avenue storm, Barry. And I said, Where are you going? To empty it. And he pointed right to the end of the Marine Stadium. So Doug Drummond set up a meeting with a bike person who is then Dean? Dean, his chief of staff. We had a meeting and the guy from the county, he was a young guy, was very pleased because he had gone knocking on all the doors at the other end where the floods were and said, Would you like to take care of these floods? Yeah. I said, Did you ever bother to knock on the doors of the people at the other end to see how they like it, i.e. the residents there, but more particularly the water skiers and also the rowers that come in contact with the water. And essentially I told them, you're not crossing the Rubicon and enter into the picture than the good Michael Paul's who started vocal and then the rest of it. They've done a tremendous job on it. My affinity for such projects itself started way back when I was in high school and college, when I had the good fortune to interface, particularly in college, with Rachel Carson. What I think needs to be done here. One, there's a policy that the city needs to change. And I actually before this item came up, I had suggested last week or a week or two weeks ago to the city auditor that we should reduce we have this is this city should have a policy that only the contingency fee for any project will not exceed 3%. I've asked her to give us the figures so we know how much we're paying in contingency fees at the end of a year in all these contracts. And I venture to say not a you know, I don't know. And I think we'll find it to a sizable sum. But one of the concerns I have and I attended some of the meetings and I think that led up to this. And what they had said is that they were going to they were very proud and said, we're going to meet all our standards. I'm not interested in meeting the standard. I want to exceed the standard. And I want to make sure that it's done right. But I don't think as a matter of policy, this city should never have a contingency. Over 3% and 15% really raises the red flag. And I'd get inside of that. But I want. If it takes more money to exceed the. Standard, then go ahead and do that. But cut down to it. Thank you, Mr. Good. You 15%. Any other public comment on this item saying now please cast your votes. Councilwoman Mango. Councilman Alston. Bush and Kerry's. Okay. Item 18. I know that staff is asked to do a brief staff report at a meeting. Hearing item three. Item three is a report from Public Works recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the public hearing. Find that the area to be vacated is not needed for present or prospective public use. Adobe resolution ordering the vacation of Alta Way between Marietta Court and Olive Avenue, as well as a portion of Olive Avenue, north of First Street, District two. Thank you. Can you please now go on to the staff. We'll have the staff report. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. A staff report was given by Shaun Crombie, our deputy director of Public Works and our city engineer. Good evening, Hono rable Mayor. Council hearing number three involves vacation of all two way between myriad a. Court and all of avenue. The vacation has been requested by the majority. Property owner and after the request, staff. Did review the situation and found the vacation to be. Feasible and found the property not needed for public use. Petitions have gone out and the majority property owner has. Worked with the surrounding property owners. The recommended action. Tonight will. Conclude the OR conduct a public. Hearing. Find the area vacated not needed for public use and order resolution to vacate the alley. I'm available for any questions. Is your public comment on this hearing? Please come forward. Thank you. Researching consults and so I'm an associate recommendation to receive supporting document to record conclude the public hearing find that the area to be vacated is not needed for president or prospective public use. We haven't asked the homeless. Could they possibly use that property for anything safe light program if it's a structure on that facility with some of them, maybe seniors who are homeless, could they possibly use that property that is being vacated? Has anyone on council asked, is there possible that that some of this property could be used for homeless services if it is not been questioned? If we have not petitioned or questioned our homeless population, those citizens who are members of this community, then we have not done the appropriate research to bring this item to closure. The homeless are part of our community and if they have not been included in this, then to close this this particular item. Without their input, without hearing their desires. Plans for this perspective vacated, not needed for public use. Property. I'd like us to consider that before we move forward with this. The homeless are part of our community. And as we keep adopting plans and processes and spending money and deciding whether or not we can use a closed property without including. Optically the homeless is to say that these people do not exist. We're saying it yet again with this adaptation. We're saying to the homeless, you don't exist. If I were to fill these three seats with the homeless population and they would fill all the vacant seats or line them up outside, what would they have said about this recommendation to receive documentation into the record? Conclude the public hearing. Find that the area to be vacated is not needed for present or prospective public use. What would the homeless have said? Those who are sleeping in their cars yet again tonight. Who could have used this land maybe to park their cars so that at least they can feel a little bit more safe for eight more hours. What would they have said? And not to include them in this argument into this. Public comment is again to ignore that they are breathing guys not pleased with that. How long are we going to continue to do this? Thank you. And I know it's not clear on the description, but this is the vacation of a partial, Ali. So it's not. A developable area. It is an access point. My name is Richard Gomez and I owned 7 to 5 years. First Street, which abuts this thing, is adjacent to the Serious Regis project. And my understanding from the staff of public works is that I'm going to get a ten by 50 foot section that was formerly the alley. The problem I have is the rear portion of my property has an easement from the Dragon house for parking and for drainage. So what I'm going to have as a problem is I own the first portion free and clear. Then I would own a ten foot section in the rear. And there's this easement in the middle. I think one of the conditions of this would be that Sarris Regis release or vacate their easement. They're here right now. They can discuss this and this way. We have no problems in the future if something were to happen in this thing weren't developed. There's going to be a ten foot section there that, you know, I don't have access over, you know, because my there's an easement between my property and that one. They're here. Perhaps they can discuss it or tell, you know, what we can do. But I ask that one of the conditions of the vacation is that Sarris Regis vacate or release that easement so that there's no problems in the future. With my property. So I know that those conversations have taken place. Hopefully between you and Sara, you have it. Okay, so you should have reached back. Excuse me. No, I was going to say you should have reached out to them. But I'm going to turn this over to Mr. Crumby to address the salient points as it relates to tonight's vote. Our staff will continue to work with the both property owners to address the easement issues going forward. Thank you. I wish I had known about this earlier, but I just got the information. I got the mail in Saturday, so I had two days to discuss this with your staff. Your staff. You know, we had no conversations regarding that. But I think it's a brutal can of worms. If in the middle of this whole thing you have an easement, you have property, and then you have ten feet behind it and there's no continuation there. Understood. So if you'd like to speak with Mr. Crumby after this item, please feel free to do so. Off to the side. Thank you. So any other public comment on this item? Item three. Can. Councilman Gonzales. Thank you. Members, cast your vote. Vice Mayor LOWENTHAL. Yes. Motion carries. Hey. Item. 35 Vision zero. Next item, please. Report from Human Resources recommendation to purchase insurance policies for excess municipal liability or airport liability and aircraft liability and whole insurance for police helicopters. The total cost of the liability renewal premiums will not exceed 1.1 million citywide. We have a motion. Thank you. Council member Austin. I certainly motion to support this because we need insurance, but I would love to have a staff report. Okay. Staff vice, chair, council members, we have a lot of insurance items tonight and they're presented by our human resources director, Alex Vasquez, and also our new risk manager, Randall Sellers. Good evening, honorable mayor and members of Council. My name's Randy Sellers and I'm the interim risk manager for the city of Long Beach. There's three separate items I'd like to cover with your permission numbers 22, 23 and 24. They all cover insurance and we buy them annually at the same time. The first item protects the city from liability, which pertains to claims from the public or others for negligence. Essentially, there's $50 million in coverage and it will be excess of a $5 million self-insured retention. We're self-insured for amounts now up to 3 million, but we're recommending that that be increased to 5 million. The $50 million is there to protect us from catastrophic losses. Then we're also requesting two smaller policies protecting us from aviation and aircraft risks. If we go on to the next item, we're recommending the purchase of excess worker's compensation insurance, and we're recommending that that retention, which is essentially a deductible, be increased from 4 million to $5 million. But we're also going to be getting a lot more coverage at the back end. In exchange for that, we're getting $50 million in coverage. Raising the limits from 100 million that we currently have to 150 million. And finally, the property insurance covers city vehicles, buildings and equipment, and that premium is paid for one third of it for covering the Queen Mary. So that concludes my presentation there. Relatively straightforward and routine matters we come to council with every year. Thank you. Thank you. Councilman Austin. Councilwoman Gonzales. Okay. So any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on item 22. Why do we have helicopters? The suggestion is that there could be a problem with the helicopter. That's why we need insurance to guard against the risk. Why would you have that risk if we didn't have helicopters? The helicopter serves no function at all. At all? Has it ever stopped one criminal? Has that been proven? Has it ever stopped one criminal from his mount malfeasance? It has not. It is just something that we're spending millions and millions of dollars on. Not only mentioning the insurance, but the maintenance. Do you have any idea the maintenance costs of two helicopters? Why do we have to? We don't even need one. Thank you. Members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Thank you. Report from City Manager Recommendation to enter into an agreement with Fuze corpse to participate in the Fuze Corp's fellowship program in an amount not to exceed $300,000 citywide. Councilmember Richardson. I want to just request the staff report. But I do want to say fantastic job. So far, we've been hearing about some attempts to find resources to focus on some of this work. I'm really proud to see this move forward, but I do want to hear that report. Thank you, Vice Mayor Council member

s. Arturo Sanchez, our deputy city manager, will give the staff report as he will be ultimately in charge of the Fuze fellows. Vice Mayor Lowenthal, Members of the City Council. The item before you is to authorize the city manager to execute all documents necessary to enter into an agreement with few score a nonprofit corporation of San Francisco, California, to participate in the Fuze Core Fellowship Program in an amount not to exceed $300,000 and increase appropriations as necessary by $300,000 to offset by grant funds from the California Community Foundation, the Irvine Foundation, and up to 100,000 in savings from fiscal year 2016 election expense. We are really excited about this particular program. We have an opportunity to get executive level experience, experienced folks with executive level experience in private corporations who are willing to take time out from their from their current employment to provide their expertize to us as new as a new fresh set of eyes to work on initiatives that they have their heart and souls committed to. And so for this particular fellowship program that we are that we are pursuing, we will have an opportunity to have two fellows, one who will be assigned to work with us on the Safe Long Beach Initiative, in particular, focusing and really drilling down into the My Brother's Keeper initiative. And a second fellow who will be and that fellow will be reporting to me directly in the city manager's office as we try to coordinate the safe Long Beach through development services and My Brother's Keeper initiative as well on a citywide basis. The second fellow will be reporting to the director of health out in the Health Department and they will be focused on homeless issues and really focusing on the work that needs to be done to take an already great program and our Continuum of care initiative and take it to the next level and figure out where we can we can leverage the existing programs and make them better. With that, that would complete the report for staff and available for any questions if you should have them. Thank you, Councilwoman. Councilmember Richardson, when you finished. When you. Yes. Yeah. I'll defer to the rest of the council. Councilmember Alston. Thank you. And this is a great news. I am going to support this enthusiastically. I want to congratulate our staff and and acknowledge your work to make this grant and this fellowship happen and just say how enthusiastic I am that it's going to be going towards safe Long Beach and somebody to help coordinate our homeless issues here in the city. I think that's a great use of resources and like I said, I support it wholeheartedly. Thank you. Councilman Price. Thank you. I, too, think this is a really great development and I want to thank staff for their efforts on this. I do have a question regarding violence prevention. I spoke with the city manager earlier today trying to get an understanding of the scope of that. And I hear you, Mr. Sanchez, talki ng about a focus on My Brother's Keeper. When I spoke with the city manager earlier, I I was under the impression that it was more part of the Be Safe program and that there would be programs offered throughout the city. There would be a focus on programs throughout the city to focus on things such as bullying or school violence, things that may not fall directly under My Brother's Keeper. Is that true? The fellow will be working under the safe Long Beach umbrella and looking at a citywide basis across the continuum of work that we do. Yes, but one of their subsets will be to try and develop a strategic roadmap for us. And then My Brother's Keeper. We will continue to work on the initiatives so such as the bullying efforts. And I believe we have a community forum and Ms.. Columbia should be behind me. And she could talk about the fact that we will be having a a forum out in District three to talk about bullying and our efforts to try and address those issues throughout the city. Yes. Yeah. And that's one of the things we've talked about. But in terms of this position where they develop, will they be developing kind of new programing going forward? We will be looking at ways to build on all, both safe Long Beach and My Brother's Keeper. So they're they're all interconnected. But we'll be looking to strengthen what we already have, including the bullying efforts. That sounds good, because I think the violence prevention piece of it really affects, you know, every district, especially right now. And if we can try to target the violence prevention message to the different communities, especially with our youth, I think that would be a really great way to use this money more broadly. So thank you. Thanks for. Your work. Thank you. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on item 14 saying none? Members cast your vote. Motion carries. Next item, please. Item 33. 33. Sorry. Communication from City Attorney Recommendation to declare ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code relating to the nomination of the property located at 260 East San Antonio Drive as a historic landmark. Read and adopted as Read District eight. Is there a second? Okay. Councilmember Richardson. Is. Okay. I got this. I think being aggressive with it doesn't help. No. Council member Austin. Yes. This is a like I said last week when this came before us. This is actually the first residential property in the city to get this distinction as a historic site. It's a beautiful home, and I would ask for your support. Thank you, Councilmember Superhot. All right. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on 33, item 33? SINGH None. Members Cast your vote. Motion carries. Great. Item 16 report from Economic and Property Development Recommendation to execute all documents necessary with the State of California to accept. We owe funds totaling 5.5 million citywide. Council member Austin. Is. Thank you. Obviously I support this, uh, this effort to, uh, to get five and a half million dollars of workforce innovation and opportunity funds. I'd love to get a staff report, though. Yes. We have Nick Schulz with our Workforce Investment Board, who is been so successful in getting all these dollars. So, Madam Vice Mayor, members of

Council, this item before you represents our annual allocation of federal pass through funds. This this number before you tonight is about a 3% increase for the funding for the cities of Long Beach in Signal Hill over the last federal program year. This this money supports our infrastructure, staffing, technology, pre-employment and actually physical skill training and development for our customers. With this money, we will see about 35,000 customers within the doors of our career transition center here in Long Beach and additionally pay for hard skill training for about 3500 people. And that hard skill training will run based on individual need anywhere between 380 $500. That would conclude initial staff report, and I'm happy to answer any additional questions you might have. Thank you. Councilmember Austin. Yes. I just want to salute our Pacific Gateway Department and Nick Schulz for making this happen again. This is this is great news for for our city and for, you know, many who are struggling to get into the workforce, particularly our youth. And so I'm looking forward to support. Green. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Thank you, Nick, for for just being able to gather these funds and get this going for our city. I know you your team is really in depth with all of the funds that you receive. And we often hear about all the successes that you're doing and work for. So thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Pryce. Nick. I echo all the thanks and you are doing really excellent work. I did have a couple questions regarding the staff report on this. Just because I'm not familiar with this allocation, is this something we get annually, automatically? Do we apply for it? How does it come to us? With the city of Long Beach, in the city of Signal Hill, our federally designated local workforce investment area. So this allocation is annual. For as long as that designation remains intact, there's no reason to see that designation being changed within the next 2 to 3 years. Okay. And is this about the amount that we get usually or is this higher than it seems pretty significant. Is this higher than what we've gotten in the past? It's about it's about 3% higher than last year, actually, at the federal level, total allocation for Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act. Actually, since 1998, these these funds have been trending down at the federal level. There's about 60% less than there was in 1998. It's distributed on a formula that takes into account population, relative poverty and relative unemployment. So there is some unpredictability year to year in what the funding will be. Again, as everyone is across the nation, we're losing we're losing some funding overall, but we remain relatively stable over the last three years at the local level. Okay. And then what is our plan for implementation of the youth job skills training component? Do we work with local high schools? How do we roll that out? So that's that's actually changed over the course of this last year. So 75% of the youth money that we receive has to be focused on serving out-of-school youth. 25% goes to in-school youth. And we work heavily with the school district and we leverage their investments in link learning, their career pathway trust investments and some other investments that they have from from the Irvine Foundation to wrap around our services to to provide a more robust set of services to the in school population. The out-of-school youth. Now range anywhere from from 18 to 26 years old. And out of that 75% of the total money that must go to the out-of-school youth. 20 of it, 20% of it has to be focused on work, experience, wages. Okay. Thank you very much. And again, thanks for the report and the great work that you're doing. We appreciate it. Thank you. Vice Mayor Councilman, if I can just button for one of the answers that Nick gave. He's been very humble here when he says that the money just comes to the city through an allocation. If at any point we have one of the stronger webs in the state of California, and if at any point in time that Nick and his shop stumble or anything like that, don't meet any of our metrics, don't pass one of the 20 audits that he goes through every single year through the federal government, then that number could change. So I do want to applaud Nick and his team to keep up the metrics, do the great job that they do, so that we're never in a situation where we're looked upon to receive less funds. Councilwoman Mongo. Thank you, Pat. That was one of my favorite things to talk about. I think that the advances that you've done in performance based outcomes has been phenomenal, and I think it's a testament to the partnerships with our nonprofit organizations and our partner agencies. And I think that that has been demonstrated time and time again. And so I'm very I'm thankful to have you and your leadership to and with the Web. And I think that the diversity of our we are with board is demonstrating that. And I think the quality of our programing has also done that. So I think that all of those are really important factors in increasing and growing both our reputation and our funding. So thank you, Nick, for the work you and your team continue to do. Thank you for the Web members for the commitment, and thank you to all of our partner agencies who without which we would not be able to place these individuals into jobs. So thank you. Councilman Andrews. Yes. Also, I'd like to thank you, Nick and Erica, you know, for the really amazing job that the residents back to work. The biggest prize by that I'm excited about is to see the grants. You see this going on the agenda because especially it adds vocational training a nd this gives our, you know, just located workers a second chance, you know, at new careers. And I think that's what everyone talks about during the summer, especially for our youth. And now we talking about individuals, you know, much older, where so much a large portion of this grant will be going to those. So I don't think many individuals now can come running up to me again tomorrow. I want to get a job. All you gotta do is go down to the training center and I think at least you will have a chance to be heard or get on the, you know, application list where you there's a possibility that you could get a job. So I want to thank Eric and Nick again for for just fine job that you guys are doing. Thank you again. Councilman Richardson. Thank you. On a federal level. On a state level. Our our Workforce Investment Board is well respected. And that is clear. And the fact that we continue to receive these funds and we're increasing increasing the level I think should be recognized. So, Nick, this is a fantastic job and I look forward to helping you spend this money. Thank you. Is there any member of the public that wishes to address the Council on Item 16? CNN members cast your vote. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you. Next step is we're going to do item number, is it that was 16. So I could do item 16. We'll try to get through these as expeditiously as possible. And there's going to be a motion that's ready to go here. So can we the the the item please. Report from city clerk recommendation to receive and file the certification of the petition regarding the regulation of medical marijuana businesses and approve one of the following three alternative actions adopt the initiative ordinance without alteration to submit the initiative ordinance without alteration to the voters to be held on November 8th, 2016 or three. Adopt a report pursuant to California State Elections Code. Thank you. There's a motion and a second device. Marie Lowenthal. Thank you. And Mr. City Attorney, I'd like to add to the motion to prepare an analysis that comes back to this council. Mayor, Vice Mayor. I'm not sure which what the motion is as read by the city clerk. The council this evening has three options. It's it's items two and three from the three options to. To approve receipt of. The clerk certification and then to ask for a report. Yep. Okay. There's a motion in a second. So it's to approve the ballot, the ballot measure that the caucus sent over, but also concurrently to ask for a report that would come back to the council. Yes. Okay. There's a motion and a second. Ah. Any public comment on this? We'd love to take the vote expeditiously. Mr. Goodhue. If it's all possible, I would suggest. Taking whatever steps necessary and figuring out what the cost would be to oppose any actions. And that would end with that would result in having marijuana legalized within this city. If we're prepared to spend $90 million, urinate away $90 million on a city hall, we can certainly af ford the millions to fight this off in court. To forestall what the police department has counseled against the consequences of having legalized marijuana here in this city if we think we had problems here tonight. The day would pale in comparison to what we'll have if marijuana is legalized in this city. Thank you. Any other public comment? We want to take a vote. Quickly, please. Just real quick. Although I would have preferred number one, I know there's no consensus or probably won't be. But I'm here just to say. That the. City clerk really did a fantastic job in what was a very tedious and detailed process. And I'm very proud of the professionalism. That they displayed. Thank you. Okay. Thank you. There's a motion and a second. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you. And now we're going to item and I'm sorry, jumping around. Give me 1/2. I think it's 12. Motion carries. Next item is to 18. Report from Economic and Property Development and Development Services Recommendation to adopt specifications for the purchase and development opportunity at 6013 685 Estrategia Boulevard 6602 6620 Atlantic Avenue. Declare the city owned property a surplus and execute all necessary documents with frontier real estate investments for the sale of the property in the amount of 2.1 million District nine. Vice Mayor Richardson. I want to reserve my comments after the staff report, please. Mr. West. Mike Conway Mayor Garcia, Member City Council. This item relates to a future development. Property located at the northeast corner of Atlantic Avenue and Artesia. Boulevard. This property contains 2.14 acres and is undeveloped. An RFP was released and four submittals were received. The selection panel unanimously preferred the proposal submitted by frontier real estate investments. While the price offered for the property was slightly. Lower than the highest price, the total investment value. Was significantly higher. The developer proposals proposes to develop 13,200 square feet of commercial and retail buildings with proposed uses that are needed. Within the local community, including. A commercial bank. Staff request the council approve. The recommended action, and I stand ready to answer your questions. Thank you. I'll go ahead and give my comments now, Mr. Mayor. Okay. So I'm obviously thrilled to be approving this project tonight. Having worked, you know, as chief of staff to Councilman Neal, who's here in the audience and working in this community for four, six, seven years. This is the one project that, you know, people for decades have asked about when are we going to develop this vacant lot on Atlantic in Artesia? So so tonight, this is the second of three major ninth District successor, Regency Park properties that's moving forward and really anchors the corner of Atlantic as well as Artesia, the developer Frontier Real Estate Investments has extensive experience and experience in development construction. I was very impressed with the prop osal that they submitted. They demonstrated a strong focus on community needs, and it was very responsive to community interests. They've committed to civic engagement, continuing civic engagement through the course of this process, setting a new design standard for for our community and helping us to achieve our goals that, you know, we've we've we've looked for for a long time a number of amenities that have been lacking in District nine and North Long Beach, namely a financial institution targeting a sit down restaurant and retail space spaces for the community to gather. And I want to borrow former Vice Mayor Lowenthal comment, the public living room, a coffee shop and a development that really anchors much of the other activities taking place on the Artesian Atlantic corridor. So this is this is pretty huge for for us here in North Long Beach. We're really excited about this. I'm confident that the developer will fulfill the vision of the site and look forward to the full development along the timeline. So thank you. And those are my comments. Councilman Ranga. I totally support this motion and I congratulate Richardson on a successful project. And I also want to congratulate Vice Mayor Richardson, but also staff. You guys worked very hard on this. Very, very hard. And I love all the development that's happening in Long Beach right now. I love it. I love this. I want to fill all these frickin open parcels with development. The more, the better. Come on down. Develop our city, the more. It's missing a couple flagpoles. But besides that. Any public comment? Please come forward. Yes. Josh Butler with Housing Long Beach. We two commend the city for being able to sell all these vacant lots and develop them as well. We just want to be sure and I know a speaker came to council recently to ask if we're following the Surplus Land Act, which requires that these properties be offered up for affordable housing development as well as perhaps parks space as well. This has been a major issue in other cities and including Oakland, which had to turn back around on the sale of many of their properties to provide opportunities for public space, affordable housing and given the amount of public land that we've been selling off on a regular basis here all throughout the downtown, and now we're seeing already a lot sell sold off in other cities. I just want to make sure that we don't come back and have to look at that. We did not follow the Surplus Land Act and if any council members have had any conversations about that at all. Thank you. We just want to go on record as at least questioning this and the sale of other properties as well. Well, Miami property, the Long Beach Boulevard property that was recently sold as well. Questions about whether or not affordable housing developers had an opportunity at purchasing that property. Thank you. We have addressed that question. Mr. City Attorney, do you want to comment on that? Yes, we have complied with the Surplus

Land Act and that notice was sent. I think you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor. City Council and Staff. My name is Tasha Hunter with the Uptown Business Improvement District. And I want to say that we're very excited to have this development frontier come. The community has we've had some focus groups since I've been in the position as the business district manager and one of the common denominators and common things said was that the community wanted something to do, they wanted a place to go, and they wanted they wanted a nice sit down restaurant bank and as vice mayor said, coffee shop, different things. So we're very excited. The business district supports having Frontier there and we look forward to breaking ground. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker. Good evening, esteemed Mayor. City Council. My name is Steve Neal. Address on file. And I would like to thank the city council and Councilmember Richards, Vice Mayor Richardson, for his diligence in this project. I can speak on behalf of the communities of North Long Beach and they are very excited about this development. This parcel has been sitting vacant prior to my term, going back into the term of my predecessor. So it is well overdue. So I'd like to commend you on your hard work and thank you for your diligence. Congratulations. Steve, I just want to tell you, we desperately miss you. I just getting your. Let me say something. After after sitting here tonight. I loved it while I was here. But you guys are doing a bang up job and continue to fight. I just get it. And congratulations, Councilmember, on the major appointment. Next speaker, please. Hi. Good evening. My name is Susan Doan and I'm a property owner in Long Beach. I'm also a broker and I really want to say thank you for letting me speak tonight. And Councilman Richardson, congratulation on your magnificent project. These RDA properties have been sitting vacant and unused long enough since the I guess the idea went away in 2011. I have one question. There is over a 500,000 shortage of housing in the state of California. L.A. County alone has 50,000. These are facts that you can substantiate. I also have a client in Long Beach who is an affordable housing developer, and he indicated to me on numerous occasions that Long Beach was unfriendly to to them as far as their developing. So they went out of the area and even out of state. My question is, can we use some of these RDA properties for affordable housing? That's it. Thank you. Thank you. And I do know that just just to clarify. So the way that these properties work, I believe we've actually had about over 200 parcels across the city that we're selling. And part of the process is that the city is also limited on what actually can be develop on the site. And so there's actually a state stamped, approved, approved process of what and how we have to sell these properties. And in many cases, in some cases, it's to the highest bidder. In other cases, it's a pre-d evelopment agreement with the city. In other cases, it's just a fire sale on the property. And so I just want to also clarify that with the city part of this process, the city lot has lost a lot of control in how to develop these parcels as well. But we have a motion in a second. And again, congratulations on this is fantastic. Please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item, please. Item 16. Let's go back to 17. I'm sorry, did we do it? I don't think we did. 17. So. Is there a 16 also? What is six? I'm sorry. Let me go back one more. Okay. Let me do 16, which I think is being moves forward. So watch. Thank you, Mr. Gideon. Thank you. For those people that had been asking, that's the answer. Check to see. You know, thank you. That was a crime experience. But two years ago. Two and a half years ago. Thanks. Thank you. All right, Madam Clark, we're going to skip to item number 14. Could you please read on 14, please? Communication from Council Member Pearce recommendation to request the city manager to have the LGBTQ Pride Flag fly every day at City Hall to show support until the LGBTQ community has equal rights nationwide. Okay. So we have a motion council member. Is there a second to this? Councilmember Pearce, you want to speak to your motion? Thank you. I want to say I was really honored to put this item as my first item. Long Beach quickly became my home. Once I found a community at the LGBTQ center and I was, you know, raised by somebody that was part of the LGBT community in Texas. And so I know firsthand the struggles that people in our LGBT community face every day outside of of Long Beach and Long Beach, we've come a really long way in the rights of LGBT community, but we still have a long way to go. We have people in our community that are continually facing struggle turned away from establishments based on their sexual identity. We have people that are still struggling to find public accommodations, making sure that we have public education, where LGBT community would be protected from discrimination, and also making sure that our LGBT community has opportunities around federal funding for education and health care. And so here in Long Beach, we all stood outside City Hall, a group of us a little over a year ago to celebrate marriage equality. And what we said was that marriage equality was a great first step, but we still have a long way to go that we wanted to fight for equity. And so I propose raising the flag to celebrate our LGBT community here, but also at a national level. And I want to make two amendments because I know that there's been some discussion about why the LGBT community. So first, I would like to make an amendment to the item that we asked for a report back from city staff to include a report back on all of our flags. How many flagpoles do we have? What flags have been flown? What flags have been taken down? And what's the process for moving forward to raise one of these flags? I also want to make sure we include how many flagpoles do we plan to have at the Civic Center at our new civic center? My Second Amendment to this item is that we raise the flag starting as soon as we can, and that we keep it up until either this group decides that there's another process for how we raise flags or until the Equal Rights Amendment is passed at the federal level. So it's not a forever situation. It is a until we have rights at the federal level. But I'm open to some discussion about that. I know that there was some discussion about an interfaith flag, veteran's flag. And so I definitely want to make sure that we have an open discussion about how our city celebrates our diversity, but how we also whenever there is an opportunity to say people in the LGBT community in Long Beach should walk around feeling proud, and we should also have a symbol to say that we respect those rights and that while we are divided, sometimes the city as a whole values equality and equity. So thank you. I ask for your vote tonight. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce. Councilmember Gonzalez. Yes, thank you, Councilmember Pearce. I think this was a, you know, brought up a lot of good discussion. I, too, am a strong advocate for the LGBTQ community, like many of us here on the dais. I know Councilmember Pearce, his story and it's definitely something I know she she certainly believes in and I think many of us do here in the city of Long Beach. I would also like to see the process unfold to see exactly what we can do. You know, going forward with the new civic center, how many flagpoles we will have. There has been discussions. Maybe we raise the flag. I believe we have. The Purple Heart flag is one of them during November Veterans Month. And so there's a lot of discussions that have arise from this. I think although this was intended for one thing to begin with, it's really opened it up to a lot of other beautiful discussions for many other demographics. So I'm looking forward to hearing that first before we move forward. So thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Councilmember Price. Thank you. I want to echo the comments of Councilwoman Gonzales with, with one exception and rather than many of us behind the dais, support the LGBTQ community. I'd I'd say without a doubt, all of us on this council support the LGBTQ community, and we have done so not just in our actions and our words, but in both and everything that we do. So I don't think that I'm glad that we're asking for a study because for me, while I'm very supportive of the LGBTQ community and the pursuit for equal rights, I want to make sure that all residents feel represented and that we as a city are not giving special attention to one group or another. I would hate to be in a position where we're denying a request to fly a flag from an organization like the Veterans, for example, because that's one of the issues that we've gotten calls about over the last few days, is what about our organization? We'd like a flag to and every single person who and not just organizations, but that's probably a bad word. Like the veterans aren't an organization, but they represent. A group. Of people who live in our community who deserve to be recognized and protected. And it's to me, it's about inclusion. So I don't want to be in a position where we're not able to. I accept the requests that people make, and I do like the idea of looking at what the flagpole make up is going to be for the new civic center, because it may be that we have, you know, the the flags that are inclusive of all of us, the American flag, the state flag, the city flag. And then maybe we have another poll or a couple of polls where we can highlight additional causes, groups, individuals, anything that women's rights, you know, domestic violence, anything that we want to highlight, we can do so with some additional flags that are out there that give us an opportunity to say yes to everybody. That's important to me, to be able to include everybody and not have anyone feel that they're not involved as as residents and that they're not valued as much as others . So with that, I do want to thank Councilwoman Pearce for bringing this forward. I think it's going to spur a really good discussion and actually probably prompt us to look at something that we hadn't looked at for the nearest civic center. I don't think we've even talked about that. So it's actually a great discussion for us to start having. So thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Price. Councilman Austin. Thank you. And I don't disagree with anything that any of my colleagues have mentioned thus far. This is a this is Long Beach and we know that here the city government certainly supports our LGBT CU community. I personally have worked to help elect the first gay male here. Dan Baker had the opportunity to work with Jerry Ships Key, the first lesbian, openly lesbian, a member of the city council and obviously our mayor this is this is a the LGBTQ community has a rich fabric in our community and deserves to be honored. And I think we do so quite frequently with the new Harvey Milk Park. We have a great gay pride parade in celebration and a month that we dedicate to that. I'm the I have one question because I know we have a number of flags flying right now. And there's two parts of her motion. The original motion was to do a study, which I certainly support. The other part is to to fly the flag until. So what comes down? In the interim. Is there a blank open flagpole now? It's my understanding that the last time we flew the pride flag is that it flew underneath our state flag. Or is that correct? State flag that it would be two on one pole. Yes. This is exciting stuff, guys. Exciting stuff. Wow. Sorry about that. There's. If we choose to fly. Below the state flag, that there's certainly room for that immediately. Okay. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Austin. And I'll just I can't really queue up, so I'll just make my comments now. I would say thank you. Thank you, C councilmember Pearce, for for bringing this forward. And congratulations on your first city council item. I'll say that. And I would say that, you know, sometimes sometimes it is good to, you know, go ahead, allow staff to, you know, put it all together, look at it and come with a recommendation that, you know, the whole city council can support. I'm certainly going to support the proposal and what I heard and I want to make sure that this is in your motion. What I heard was you want them to take a look at the gate, the pride flag. You want them to look at the, you know, Purple Heart, Gold Star mothers. You know, those groups, the Gold Star Mothers had a flag and it came down to the process of the move as well as the interfaith flag. Yeah, those are the three you want to make sure are included in this study. I want to make sure that we include those and any others that might be down in the past. Certainly certain and correct me if I'm wrong, the flag come down. It's still there. All right. Thank you. Thank you. Okay, councilman. Subpoena. Okay. I guess I would like further clarification. I thought Councilman Austin's point, I wasn't sure where you're going, but I guess I would make a friendly amendment in that if we're going to do a study, let's study it and not take any action right now. So how would you like to frame that in terms of that? Would that be a friendly amendment. A city, a city attorney? Could you just restate what you understand is the motion? My understanding is that, yeah, I think there's a little confusion here, but the my understanding is that staff is going to look at all the flags together. Yeah. My my understanding of the motion from the second District was that she had requested a report back to the city council on on the flags, the number of poles, what's flying on them, how how you determine a flag is placed on the pole and what is the procedure to do that? And then the second part of that motion was to fly the flag, the LGBTQ flag, until that study comes back. Way I understood. It. And that's what I heard also. I think we have a cart and a horse syndrome here. If we're going to do the study, let's do the study and find out how we proceed. So that would be my I want to call it a friend of the amendment this time. So. So looking for a second on that. Thank you so much. Well, there is no it will. Be a subsequent motion. Friendly, friendly amendment. So if it's not Councilmember Pearce, so you have a friendly to combine the study with the pride flag. Are you open to that? Let me think. Yeah. Thank you. Thank you. And I would just ask, what is your timing? Your timing considerations? You get that back in the next 30 days to shorten. We will certainly tell you. Where we are in 30 days, but we'll try to come back in 30 days. Just a recommendation, I would say. Try to bring it back after the budget. Give them a good 60 days so they actually have a report. Sure. If you could bring it back right after the budget, which is September

15th, that. Will come as fast as we can and give you updates. No worries. Thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Price. Just one quick question. Do we have a flag policy? And if not, can we look at creating one so that in the future, if a group comes and says, we'd like our flag flown, we can have a policy that's kind of consistent and not arbitrary. Councilmember Pierson Members of the City Council. Price Scuse me. And Member City Council, we do have a flag policy. It's actually a. City manager administrative regulation that does spell out and we do have information on the flags. But one of the provisions. Of that policy is if any other flag wants to be added, then it's. There's a discussion at the city council that happens. So we're appropriately following that process. Thank you, Councilman Austin. And as a follow up to that policy, is there in that policy, is there direction on on taking the flag or removing the flag from our poll? Because I have my staff research all of the flags and there's at least one of them that gives me some some concern. Not having committed it to memory. I don't recall exactly about removing, but I don't believe it really talked about removing it talks. About the federal flag and how that should be flown because there are some protocols on the federal flag. It talks about the city and the other flags. We have a list of some others that have been added over the years. There are several flags that are flown every day. But we can certainly revisit the policy that's currently there. We'll talk about that in the report and then we can certainly look at how to remove flags. And again, I think all of that really does happen at the city council level. Okay. Thank you. Thank you. There it is. Thank you. So seeing no more council comic will open it up to public comment. Very good. You click as the address. I would suggest to the council person from the Second District that our energies should be focused 100% and trying to forestall. The bankruptcy that is facing this state, this city, instead of going off on a harebrained idea like this. We fly the American flag, the state flag, the city flag and the flag. And I don't know if the official policy is relative to the gold star that is connected with veterans. Military affairs. Buried. Any other flag can certainly be flown, but not here. At the city hall. What I've long suggested is we create and this and this is particularly true given well. Let me go back. I've suggested a couple of years ago. Three years ago. What we develop is that in our largest city park, Eldorado Park, we set aside a place where we call pandering park. And on the longest weekend of the year in the summer, starting at Friday till Monday, any group, whatever they are. Good, bad, whatever, good looking, bad looking, whatever group left, right. They can march over Hill, over Dale, over here, there and anywhere they want and get it out of their system period. And that is particularly true when we're talking about the. Gay flag and the Harvey Milk debacle, which was engendered by despicable conduct of a mayor that capitalized on the tragic death of two individuals. Neither of whom had any connection to whatsoever. But he thought he could make some political hay out of that. That. Will be eventually removed also over to and we can put it in pandering park. But the policies should be these three flags that are flying their. In addition to the other flag that was referenced dealing with veterans. Period. Otherwise, what we've got is every Tom, Dick and Harry with every group from Mickey Mouse. To the Boy Scouts. To the Klu Klux Klan. What about the group that was in here? Parties complaining about the massacres in their country? We start doing that. Stick with those three flags. And thank you, Mr. Goodhue. Thank you. Next. He's. Good evening again, Diana Le Gene. First of all, I do want to commend Councilwoman Pierce for her empathy and to her feelings about this particular issue. My my concern is, is that if you're going to represent one group, then you need to represent all. So one thing that could be considered is like the U.N. the U.N. has flags from all the different nations. So you could have in the courtroom in the area outside city hall, you could have a number of different flags and you could have a number of different groups represented. However, you're going to have to really use your judgment on which ones because you might want to have the veterans flags or what about Black Lives Matter? Or What about the Hispanics? Or. So, you know, you're going to be very careful to be inclusive. One of the things that concern me are that you're going to have to have a flag with a green cross on it because medical marijuana patients are also very underrepresented. So I'm just and I'm not saying that to be funny. I you know, they are legally persecuted. So. So I'm just saying, you might want to be very careful with them. And I do understand wanting to support people who are not being honored. And in that respect, what I have personally done is I will not stand up from this day forward. In fact, I started a couple of weeks ago to stand up for the Pledge of Allegiance because it ends with and liberty and justice for all. And that is just not true in this country. It is just not true. And until that happens and I don't care what it I don't care whether you're black, white, purple, green, medical marijuana patient or you're Hispanic. It doesn't matter to me. It should be liberty and justice for all. And so if you really want to object to that, then my suggestion is you do not stand for I love the country. I just do not appreciate the the empty words of liberty and justice for all. So I'm just suggesting that if you want to truly object to it, sit down. Don't. You know, that's a great way of quietly objecting to the injustice in this country. Thank you very much. Thank you. My name is excuse me. My name is Lynn Roba. I've been a resident here for 36 years. I sugg est that the lady before me might want to visit some other countries where there is no liberty and justice for all before she stops saluting our beautiful flag. When I found out about this item agenda, my first reaction was, I don't remember getting to vote on this. And so I decided to come down here and give my opinion. I've always bragged about Long Beach as being so racially diverse, and we have a lot of people that we know from other countries that we show around here, and we're so proud of Long Beach and its diversity. It's also diverse and backgrounds and cultures and religions and persuasions. I think it's a mistake to lift up one particular persuasion above another and to honor that persuasion with flying just their flag below these three flags. I think it's a mistake. We all have persuasions and we all are waiting to see our goals be realized. How many flags will there need to be to represent all of us in Long Beach? I recommend that we not approve this recommendation. Thank you. Thank you. Next. Hello. I'm David Pope Grover, and I'm the pastor of Hope Chapel in Long Beach, and I'm a resident here the same time as my wife, Lynn, who just spoke. And I would like to say something about the American flag tonight. We saluted it. Together and we were in unity. And there's so much diversity here. But when we see our flag, the the the red, white and blue. And we see ourselves as a nation under God. We're in. Unity. And this this flag protects all peoples. There. There should be liberty and justice and freedom for all. But I don't feel that it's a righteous act. To endorse what the Bible says is a sin. And we need to get to the root of the matter. We need to get back to the Bible and back to the Word of God. And so I'm here at

Happy. To call you to repentance. And to come back to the truth because it's only the truth will truly set us free and make us find peace among ourselves. God bless you. I hope you'll consider that. Thank you. Thank you. Next. My name is Daniel Cartagena. I live in the first district. I'm a veteran from the Korean War. I was in the first Marine Division from 1951 to 52 and Korea. And I was at the VA hospital yesterday when this discussion started about the flag. At first, you know, I was upset. Because to me, the American flag means a hell of a lot. I know many of you weren't even born towards the end of World War Two, but at the Battle of Iwo Jima. There were five Marines and one Navy corpsman that raised the flag on Mount Suribachi. And to me, that represented the strength of our country. I'm a very proud man to live in the United States. I did my service time. And so when this item came up, I wasn't too sure how hard to digest it. At first I was upset. But then I decided I wanted to come down here to. To find out more about it. And I don't have a problem talking about maybe a policy for flags. But I think I like to everybody to know that, you know, the American flag means a hell of a lot to a lot of us veterans. And

I think that veterans should be included if there's going to be any input on any of this discussion. And I can I know several guys that would be more than happy to come down and discuss this whole issue. So that's my response. Thank you. Thank you. Next. Hi, Dave is Keith resident in Long Beach. I just want to say on this topic of the flag for the LGBTQ being flown. I feel that it's opening up a can of worms and you're going to get some pushback. And lastly, there is inclusion, inclusion, inclusion. The study must be done. Because other groups are going to come forward and say, hey, my flag should be able to fly as well. I agree with you, Suzy, and what you said, Jeannie, all of those things that you mentioned about the issues that the L, g, b, t q deal with, African-Americans are dealing with that. Almost since the beginning of time, and we still don't have equality. So if that is the case, the study must be done because the Black Lives Matter is going to come up and say, Hey, our flag should be flying up there too, because we've been dealing with the issue much longer than the pride community. That is what's going to happen. And this is a hot topic. As a former reporter for an ABC affiliate station. Trust me. It's going to be some pushback in the community and the news is going to grab on to it and you're going to be seeing a lot of stories going on. So I'm not saying that I'm against it. I'm not saying I'm for it. I'm kind of neutral right now. But if. The Council decides to move forward. Then you have to open it up for everybody. And on the topic of flying all year long until equality runs, until equality is achieved, rather than if that's the case, then it needs to be opened up to other groups to. For African-Americans and the Latino, Latinos and everybody else until equality is achieved. So there's a whole lot in there that needs to be considered. A whole lot. So think about it very carefully, because once again, it's going to open up a can of worms. If we move forward. If we go forward. This is Long Beach. Hey, more power to you, but it has to be open to everybody else. Thank you. And one last thing. I agree with the lady. I think she laugh in regards to the Pledge of Allegiance. And justice for all. We haven't got there yet because if we have, we wouldn't be having all of this push back and confusion going on in America. Thank you, sir. Next. Hello. Jim Hutchinson. Again and. Again. I just going to echo some of the same sentiments that have been articulated. I have appreciated the ethnic, cultural and demographic diversity of our city, but I am again convinced that we must put the brakes on this resolution for several reasons. Most of us agree that the American flag is a powerful symbol of unification, patriotism and shared values. However, the rainbow flag does not unify or reflect shared values. It exalts one group above the others, as has been said. And it's going to divide rather than unify. It sends the wrong message, although many w ill say that it invites inclusiveness, it's going to do the opposite. Many in our community believe the LGBTQ issues and lifestyles are not healthy on many levels, but we respect the community's right to choose as long as it doesn't promote itself above other cultures and values, which also have the equal right to expression. This is exactly the message you will send if you vote yes on this resolution. Cultural flags, in my opinion, are just not appropriate for government venues. Also, many of us feel. Our voices. On this issue are either not heard or ignored, and that politicians, by attempting to pass these. Kinds of resolute. Resolutions, confirm the sentiment and disregarding large segments of the city's citizens who believe traditional and biblically based relationships are the best for physically, emotionally, socially and spiritually. Please vote no on this resolution a proposition which is divisive rather than unifying. Let us continue to agree to pledge the allegiance to the flag of the United States of America. And yes, we do not have liberty and justice for all, but we're pursuing that. So thank you for the time. This time, I pray that you would consider our opinions. Thank you. Thank you. Next. Good evening. My name is Porter Dahlberg and I am the executive director for the LGBTQ Center of Long Beach. I am also an LGBTQ person. I am here in strong support of Councilmember Pierce's original agenda item. Last night I was in Las Vegas on vacation with my parents as a treat to my mom. I took her to see Terry Faders Puppet Show at the Mirage. After three incredibly demeaning jokes about LGBTQ people, including putting a male audience member in a dress and then proclaiming that he could now use any restroom he wanted, I left, holding back hot tears of anger. I complained to the manager as my mother, who I love deeply and who I know loves me deeply as well, and tries her best to understand who I am. Did not stand beside me, but instead waited down the hallway while I expressed my concern. The manager told me that he was sorry I didn't enjoy the show and gave me the email address of someone else to contact. A gay man interrupted my complaints to tell the manager that he was gay and wasn't offended at all and that quote unquote, we needed to learn to laugh at ourselves. I felt the tears of raw vulnerability, threatening exposure, so I did not get to ask him when the last time he was harassed and a restroom was. I knew his answer would have been never. But the memory of the last time this happened to me was quickly surfacing in my mind. When Caitlyn Jenner accepted her SB award last year, she said, If you want to call me names, make jokes, I can take it. But for the thousands of kids out there coming to terms with being true to who they are, they shouldn't have to take it. And I was one of those kids last night, childlike, full of insecurity, helplessness and doubt. And in that moment with the manager, I knew that I was all alone and no one was going to believe me or acknowledge my hurt. I did not feel safe in Las Vegas. Symbolism is important. When LGBTQ people see a rainbow flag flying at our civic center. They know we will believe and acknowledge them when they come to us with their hurt and pain. They will know that we are a city that cares enough about LGBTQ people and the messages we constantly receive that we are punch lines and punching bags are unacceptable. And they will know that we are a city that values, embraces and acknowledges how much farther LGBTQ people have to go in the world and among ourselves to live with safety and dignity and without shame. I deeply value the kindness and respect each of you has demonstrated towards the LGBTQ community. Our flag, our symbol of hope, is worthy of official acknowledgment more than once a year. And I strongly encourage you to honor the spirit of the original item and fly the flag for at least 30 days. While this study is conducted, it will go a long way in mending many wounded spirits and broken hearts, including mine. Thank you so. Thank you. Our next speaker. Hi. My name is Dr. Elaine Villanueva. Bernal, and they reside in the fourth District and. I. Support the study. And just so thank you just to and I. Want to share with you. With with this entire audience here that I am also a. Daughter of a Vietnam vet. My dad serve in Danang for two years from 1965 to 67. But tonight I am here to speak about the LGBTQ community. So I'm going to speak from a professional and professional. Professional and personal standpoint. And for. Those of you that know me, I teach chemistry, and I also teach with. Science education at Cal State Long Beach, and I'm faculty there for ten years. And while there has been great strides in. Promoting women, especially women of color like myself in STEM. We have a long way to go with the LGBTQ community. In my. Profession. From my experience being 15. Ten, 15. Years in the STEM community. In the profession, that science is pretty straight, very heteronormative. There was a recent study, Queer in STEM survey with 14 over 1400 participants, respondents where 40% of queer STEM workers reported that they have not come out to their colleagues and coworkers. And just to close this out in the last minute and a half, I want. To share one of my students stories. His name is Victor. He was one of my biochemistry students where when he came out to his parents, his parents kicked him out. And, you know, as far as the studies, it's like a tank. And on a positive note, fortunately, he returned home. Where while there's much conversation and healing that had to take. Place. He's one of our top student. Researchers now at Cal State Long Beach. So it's those things that I keep in mind as far as a symbolism that we need to show as a community and for the LGBT community. I think you. Thank you. Next. My name is Cynthia Newsom. I've been a. Resident in Long Beach for over 36 years. I just kind of want to give a timeline of. Our world. Our world was created by God. And when he made all the heavens and the earth and all the. Animals and everything, he made. Adam. And then he made Eve. His goal was to be a man. Woman marriage. So what has. Happened? You know, Adam and Eve ate the fruit and. Sin entered the world. Okay, so. So then we come to Sodom and Gomorrah. Well, God's view. Of homosexuality is. An abomination. And what you know, because they didn't repent. They were destroyed. And so we see throughout the whole Bible that. That God condemns it. So then we've we've got America. We've created America. Most of our founding fathers. Were believed in the Bible. They wrote all these wonderful. Things the Declaration of. Independence, the Bill of Rights, etc.. Okay. So, you know, I would say most of the citizens were God fearing people at the time. Well, our society has changed a lot. Now as far as marriage is concerned. If you look at all the states that have. Voted. For homosexual marriage, it's not been the people. The people have not voted on it. Here in California, twice we put on the initiative. To have a marriage between one man and one woman. And it got shot down twice. And so it's not that the people have voted for it. It's that our courts are judges, our legislators. Everyone has catered to. That lifestyle. And I when I heard that. All of you council people voted for same sex marriage, I was ashamed. I could not believe it. Well, yet I couldn't believe it because I know what kind of influence we have here. But. And then we've got the Supreme Court that totally went against God's law. I will say one thing that, you know, the Supreme Court, they can. Do. Whatever they want to. But marriage was. Created by God. And he's the only one that can change it. Thank you. Thank you so much. New speaker, please. Good evening. My name is James Sweitzer. I live in the third district resident. I actually was not planning to speak tonight. I came to catch up on emails after my four week absence. But I think in light of some of this conversation turning into all Flags Matter conversation, and I think a lot of the other commenters being the perfect example of why this item needs to be discussed and why we need to. I mean, I'm so proud of all of you for even entertaining. This, I think, speaks volumes to it. And I think that I want to let you all know personally. I'm trying without crying. What kind of message you're sending? I don't want to do that with the story. Sunday morning on June 12th, I woke up, um, actually very now when we sit back very early morning on June 12th, I was at a bar with some friends and waiting outside after the bar had closed at the entrance on the street and talking to people and enjoying the space and the freedom that I had there. And to wake up the next morning and find out that the same people who were doing the exact same thing I did were not alive at that same time. It was terrifying. And I remember I couldn't even consider going on social media. Frien ds that invited me to come out here and join the amazing community out here at Harvey Milk Park. And I honestly wasn't ready for that. As somebody who's gone through so much trials and tribulations and contemplating my own suicide at the age of 16 and struggling with my own identity, not only just as a gay man, as a gay man of color. It was terrifying. And the first time, two weeks after that night, going back to a gay bar and a gay bar because it's a safe space for me to be and be myself and seeing other people and especially people of color and seeing that rainbow flag. I cried. I cried. And to be able to see that and to know that I can look at the American flag and say, that's beautiful. Because as some of these speakers said, that represents everybody. Everybody, whether we're disabled, able bodied, whether we come from where people of color, whether we whatever, regardless of our income, that represents everybody. But the message that you all are sending right now by saying whether it's until we have equal rights nationwide or whether it's just for 30 days to see that everybody is beatable. But right now, we need to care for the specific people in the LGBT community because they are hurting. And I agree with our speaker. If there is a Black Lives Matter flag, let's play that, too, because right now there is a lot of hurt and a lot of hurt right here, not just in our nation, in the world, but in our own community. And I'm so proud of all of you for entertaining this. And I would just encourage you so much. To you know, I know you're for the study, but to really consider this is a very important item for our community. So thank you. Thank you next week for please. Hi. And it's Tom Stout. Information on file. I'm not really. In favor of this ordinance. The bottom line, I think the three flags that are displayed there are what should be displayed at public buildings. Now. You do fly the pride flag. You see it all over Long Beach. It's flown during the Gay Pride Month. That's fine. But I don't think there. Are enough flagpoles for every group that wants to fly a flag at any public building. Maybe you should get one of the RDA properties that you're giving away anyway. And let's make it a flag park and you can fly whatever flag you want there with, you know, certain exceptions. So what do you think? Let's use an RDA proper. You're giving them away anyway. What the hell? All right. Thank you. Thank you. And the other public comment synonym closing public comment. Back to the council. Councilmember Pearce. First turn on my mic. I want to thank everybody. Literally everybody that came and spoke tonight. I want to be reflective. You know, we heard a lot about other community members that might have been left out of this this flag discussion. And to be clear, members of our LGBTQ community are members of every part of our community. They're veterans. They are Christians. They they're African-American. They are cover every single part of our community.

But there are small minority still that still has been struggling every day. And I want to thank James Swasey for sharing where you were and how you were feeling when lives were lost. Since 2010, we've had over 150 hate crimes on the LGBT community that made national news. And that's not including what happens in our streets. That is not reported. And that is, again, one of the reasons why I brought this item up, thinking about the state of our country and the fact that we lost lives in Orlando, 49 lives, 53 wounded. It is a time that I think sometimes we feel that we have made a lot of strides, but we haven't quite gotten there yet. So I want to thank everybody for the fruitful discussion on the study, which I look forward to staff coming back, and I would like to ask that council members reconsider their friendly amendments. We had some requests from the audience around flying the flag for 30 days or some shorter period of time, preferably 30 days until that study does come back. Would you be open to that? Okay. So I wasn't here when the friendlies were done. So there's a motion in a second. Who was there? A friendly member. Okay. Council member. Supernova. Thank you. And thank you to the speakers, Elaine James and to Porter. I think Porter introduced the 30 day window and by my friendly amendment I someone used the word divisive and that's all I was trying to avoid. So we wouldn't have this here tonight. But it was inevitable to go to a study I think is make sense. I guess what I had question was flying the flag and then tell the point we have a study and then what if the study has the wrong result, then you have to take the flag down. So I like the concept of having the flag up for a limited time. 30 days is fine and then it comes down and then we go to a study. So that's if, if I could revise my friendly, I guess that's what it would mean. Q Thank you. Okay. So the there's a, from what I understand, correct from wrong because it wasn't here. The friendly amendment is to do a study on the flags that are we currently have as far as inventory of what we fly with possibly looking at what we should be flying is that that right and then 30 days for the pride flag. Okay. Yeah. Councilwoman Price. So I really I appreciate the discussion that we're having. I'm a little bit I don't quite understand the 30 days. I mean, the idea of taking the flag down once we hang it to me seems. I don't know. I think I would have a really hard. If we're going to fly the flag, let's fly the flag. I don't I don't understand the concept of hanging it for 30 days and then taking it down. It's not even, in my opinion, unless I'm missing something. This 30 day period isn't even. Coinciding with anything else, a message or a reminder? I don't know. I just I feel like putting it if that is what will make people happy, that's fine. I just don't know the wisdom of that. Wouldn't it be better for us to establish a flag policy, determine what consistent methodology we're going

ing to use to hang flags? And and I really appreciate James's comments. I mean, they they really they they're very touching. And he says, well, you know, if this organization wants it to hang their flag, too, that that's fine. I mean, I actually really like that philosophy is that I don't think we should be saying no to anybody. I mean, women I'm sure there's women who think we need equality. I'm sure there's people of color who think we need equality. And they might come in next week and say, you know what, we want our banner or we want some symbol of our fight and our struggle hung up there, too. And then we don't even have any sort of guidelines right now. We can't even justify what we would say is we're going to hang this flag for 30 days because our colleague brought the item forward and your request alone isn't enough. But if you can get a council person to bring the item forward, then we'll fly your flag for 30 days. I just I don't want to set that kind of precedent. I respect this honestly. The concern that I had when this came forward is, is how do I express my real concerns without it being misinterpreted? And I know a lot of my colleagues feel the same way. The concern is that tomorrow, if an organization comes and says, you know what, my husband's a veteran, and when I was talking about this item with him, he said, you guys should hang the you know, do you have something out there for veterans? And I said, gosh, I don't know. But it was like the slippery slope, like we could we could end up having 20 flags out there. If we are like I, I genuinely appreciate and love the diversity of my community. I love it. But we cannot be in a place where we're hanging everybody's flag because we just we can't we have to have some sort of limit. We represent everybody. And the most inclusive way to represent everybody is through the flag of the United States of America. That's how we represent everybody. So I'm not saying I'm not saying let's not hang other flags. I'm just saying let's have, you know, a method by which we decide. And, you know. If if. We've hung the flag before on multiple occasions, but they've always coincided to some sort of message. I just I'm missing the message. But again, I want to listen from my colleagues on this. If it's something that people feel strongly that that there's something to that 30 days, I will say I think that. Our. Our actions should mean something. In regards to our commitment to this community, I think our actions should mean something. I know that I represent a district that has in the past not been very active at all in these efforts. And yet for the last two years, I have participated in, supported, done everything that I can to support the community. And I don't want my concerns about allowing one flag because it opens the door for others to be misinterpreted, to mean something that it doesn't. I think our actions should mean something. We live in a beautiful, diverse city with a gay mayor. Turns out he

's gay and he has done a great deal for to educate every single one of us, teach us about everything, include us. And so much he's been so inclusive in allowing us to be a part of his community. And I respect that and I appreciate that. It's made me a better person. I think we should be, as a city, judged by our actions. And the other concern that I have is the way that the agenda item was written. I respect it, I appreciate it. I don't think we as a government entity should be hanging flags or banners in some sort to send some sort of a political message for a fight for equality. Because there are so many organizations and and people that deserve equality. There are so many disenfranchised people in America. We live in a beautiful country. We have a land of opportunity. But we really should be we should be in a position that we say yes to every group that wants that fight for equality. And if we're going to do that, then it's it's we're opening it's a slippery slope. And that's my concern. So I just I have a concern. Yeah. It might be easier thing tonight would have been for me to say, all right, 30 days, let's do it. But. What? What is the meaning of the 30 days? I guess that's just what I don't understand. Why? 30 days? Because we were just told the report's not even going to come back for 30 days. So we're going to take the flag down and 30 days with no report. I don't quite understand that thinking, but if somebody can help me understand that again, I'm I'm I'm more supportive of the community and the message and the fight then, then I can express in my words. And if it takes me voting for a flag to go up for 30 days and come down in 30 days to prove that, then, then I'll do that. But I would hope that my actions would mean more than putting up a flag for 30 days. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mayor Garcia. And so I would I would say that, you know, I was I was I listened. It was my first first time in the hot seat. And I listened. I was, you know, front and center and listened to all of the testimony. And some stuff did stand out. To me, particularly, James, was those comments when he said, you know, a conversation about a single proposal turned into an all like all all flags matter conversation. And that did resound to me because before rushing to and I'm guilty of as well, I also, you know, I threw in the interfaith flag and all those things because I was approached with that over the course of the last week. But I think there you know, there is something to say there about when you step forward to say here is one community that has a certain circumstance and we are in the middle of a fight. Let's talk about this fight. Not all the fights right now. We can study and talk about all the fights that it may actually make sense to me. So if a colleague were to come forth and say, here's an issue that I sincerely care about, I want our council in our city to acknowledge it for a period of time. I also acknowledge all of the se other things, and I'm inclusive of those as well. But I'm asking for a special acknowledgment. Hearing that and putting that perspective. I think the compromise proposal by Porter does make sense. Now, that came from public comment. Now, the distinction is what I heard. What I heard from from the public comment was, you know, acknowledge the request by flying it over the course of the study. It didn't say 30 days. It said over the course of the study. And that makes that make sense to me along the lines of, you know, the thinking that Councilmember Price said. So I could I could understand I could actually support that, because it does make sense. We're acknowledging the request, and we are also why we go through the process of evaluating our flag policy, looking at, you know, all the groups that made these requests because frankly, you know, certain issues, you know, it's very passionate to a lot of people. And we do have a job as a city who cares about tolerance and cares about diversity and values, differences. We do have a job to look at all of them. So I would just say I'm going to be supportive of the motion. I would hope that it actually just it just aligns with a study to where we fly it until we make a decision as the full council on what our flag policy is. So that's my hope. And it's not a friendly I'm just throwing it out there. That's where I think where where I think this conversation should go. Thanks. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzales. Again, I'll just reinforce, you know, I think this was a really good, fruitful discussion. I think, you know, as much as we want to, of course, see what the flag study will bring, which is something that we will certainly do. I think that is very important knowing that we have a new civic center coming up. But I will agree, I think in the interim, there's always going to be there's always going to be a demographic that needs our our support. And I think that if there's any demographic here in the city, of course, certainly veterans I'm a granddaughter of a World War Two veteran. That doesn't make me any less caring for veterans. We fly the veteran flag. We fly the American flag. I have the American flag of my grandfather's grave sitting on on my in my mantle at my parents house, care much deeply about that. But I think also there's you know, if if there is a council member that is raising a concern. You know, we can't address it for that meantime. And so I think it's important that we at least address this. I don't think it's unreasonable to say that we will be flying this as council, as Vice Mayor Rex Richardson said for a short period of time, until we can decide what the flag pole study will bring and then hopefully bring a policy back that will be very solid. And so we can move forward from there and decide from there what we need to do. And maybe there's more flags that could come of it. Maybe we take some flags out. I don't know what that discussion will bring, but at least we'll have some s ort of information. So I hope people can be a little bit more open minded. And, you know, the disrespect that I've been hearing out there, especially from Larry, you know, it's really it's really bad when you hear that type of disrespect, especially with such sensitive issues. It's really disrespectful. And I know you come here every every day, every Tuesday. But to hear things in light of, you know, what people have shown is concerns. I would just ask for your respect in that sense. So thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Pearson. Well, first I have to say, I didn't think my first agenda item would be a flag. We were talking about flagpoles for an hour. So thank you guys for sticking out with us and going through this conversation. I want to just get some clarity because Vice Mayor Richardson, you had made a comment about keeping it up. Was that a. Because right now we have a friendly amendment for 30 days. Sure. So you're just point of order. You're in control of the motion. It's your motion to accept it, to recommend the friendly as a recommendation to change it. And I just simply said the recommendation from Porter, what he said was to go ahead and fly the flag through the course of the study that I think I would support . It's ultimately in your hands there. What? Porter actually went second because the city attorney wanted to say something. Just a slight correction to the vice mayor. The motion now is the motion of the floor. It's been made in a second and it's been amended. And so anybody could make either offer a friendly or a substitute motion. At this time, it's not controlled by the maker anymore because it's now been accepted. And it's it's a motion of the floor. And do you want a city attorney? Do you want to read the motion on the floor just so that everyone's clear? As I understand it, the motion on the floor is to request city manager to conduct a study regarding the flags at the Civic Center and that the flag would fly for a 30 day period. Okay. That's the current motion on the floor. Back to Councilmember Pearce. Okay. So that's a commotion on the floor. I'd like to accept that motion. Yes. I ask for your support. And you mean you're going to. That's the motion that's on the floor that you support, right? Okay, perfect. Hey, everyone. Everyone has a first couple of weeks, so, you know, we got to make sure that we go over this stuff some time, so. Great. So just so just to be clear, Councilmember Pearce, is that there's a motion on the floor which is to do a study asking management and then to also fly the pride of flight for 30 days. Councilmember Pearce. Sorry, I want to get clarity how I think that I've heard from a couple of the council members that we don't want to be in the situation where we're taking the flag down. Sorry. We're we're in that process of taking it down with it. Require a vote. Could we? Is it only 30 days and then it removes that. Okay. It's only 30 days. Are you okay with that? I would prefer to stay up thr ough the course of the study. That was that. Okay, let me just. Actually, no, no, no, no, no, no. Actually, hold on. The only person that has a flaw is cancer fighters. I would like to go ahead and request that the friendly amendments that we remove the friendly amendments. Yes, that. So who made this? Who made the friendly amendment? Council member. Anon, I remember you guys when you were first new to. Yeah, of course. That's okay. Still. Still? Yeah. So the original motion I would like to ask you withdraw the friendly Daryl Mr. Supernova council membership and all that way we don't have to be in a situation where we're taking the flag down. If the if the friendly is removed and the motion is to conduct a study in the flag would not be flown at this time. That's not what my original. Original motion said, that you wanted to fly it until there was, I believe, sorry, recognition at the federal level. Yeah. Okay. Okay. Actually, guys from the audience, please be respectful. Thank you. What I would like is the study to be done, and I would like for us to raise the flag until the study is complete. Okay. So there's a motion. There was a second on that motion, I'm assuming from my thing was Councilwoman Gonzalez, is that right? Okay. Is is. Is that fine, Dulles? Okay. So the motion is to go forward with the study. And until when the study is complete, we'll fly the fly the flag until the study is complete, basically. Thank you. And Vice Premier, that technically is substantive motion because the original motion has been now amended. There was no withdrawal the second. But. But can you substitute yourself? Yes, you can. Okay, great. That's. That's we learn something every day. Okay, so. So there's that. We have a substitute motion on the floor, which is to do do a study and to fly the flag until the study is complete. That's from what I understand where we are right now. Thank you. Okay, Vice Mayor Richardson. I'm good. Thank you. Okay. Okay. Not to throw everybody. Sorry, everyone. No problem. Okay. Councilmember Superman. I just have to go on record as saying that I brought forth a friendly amendment based on what the speakers said, and that is what has been rejected. Thank you. Okay. And I just want to make one comment before the vote. Not that I want to add more work to the city manager, but I know that and I wasn't here for the whole conversation. But something that that's important to me that other cities do is other cities, when there's actual private development that happens, they actually require the United States American flag to be flown on private commercial development or large developments. I don't think we have that in Long Beach. And it's something that I even believe the city of Los Angeles does, where you fly the American flag when there's other large private developments. So can we look at those those policies when it relates to the United States flag? Separate of this flag conversation. But for because I think that would be great if we could do that. Okay. Okay. Any other conversations about this? Okay. So there's a motion and a second on the floor. Members, please go ahead and cast your votes. Motion carries. Motion carries. Thank you. Next up, we're going to go ahead and do item number. 13. Motion carries. He was thinking item number 25 Please. Report from police recommendation to receive and file the application of mod pizza for an original application of an ABC license at 4230 Long Beach Boulevard. District eight. Councilman Austin. I want to just say that I support this. This item would ask for your support as well. My piece is a new establishment that is just the latest and greatest in terms of fast food pizza that will be located in our exciting new normal shopping center or actually complete the shopping center there. I have met with the with the representatives from my pizza and I have no issues whatsoever with this permit application. So I would ask for your approval. Thank you. I don't see a need for a staff report on this. So unless you object past Mr. West, let's go ahead to public comment. Seeing none. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you. 23 Report from Financial Management and Water Recommendation to receive supporting documentation and to the record regarding the debt issuance by the City of Long Beach. Adopt resolution authorizing the issuance of Senior Sewer Revenue Funding Bonds Series 2060 made by the Board of Water Commissioners on behalf of the city in a principal amount not to exceed 11.5 million citywide. Thank you. Staff report. Yes. We have a cook staff report by our city treasurer, David Nakamoto. Honorable Vice Mayor and members. Of the City Council before you is a recommendation to receive the supporting documentation into the record. Adopt a resolution authorizing the issuance of senior sewer revenue bonds in the principal amount not to exceed $11.5 million and authorize the execution of all necessary documents. The purpose of of the 2016 eight bonds is to refund the outstanding principal of 11.25 million for the sewer systems revolving line of credit. The purpose of the revolving line of credit was to it was to fund capital improvement projects for the city sewer system. There was no impact to the general fund as this is an obligation of the sewer revenue fund in the water. Department and will. Be repaid by revenues charged to customers of the. Sewer system. City Council action is requested on August 16th, 2016 to allow the city to take advantage of the. Current low interest rates. This concludes staff's report. Thank you, Councilman Alston. Yes. Just one quick question. What what impact will this have on the rate payers? Direct. I mean, is it going to increase their your bills in any way? Okay. This refunding was part of our long range finance plan. It's been incorporated into our FY17 budget and that is part of our rate increase for the coming year. Okay. I just wanted to make sure we're on record with that. Obviously, this is something that needs to happen and it's responsible financing. And so I would recommend approval. Thank you, Councilmember Yeager. Okay. Public comment on this item. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you. Next item is item 20. Report from Economic and Property Development and Development Services. Recommendation to declare the city on property located along Atlantic Avenue between South Street and 60th Street as surplus. Authorize the city manager to execute all documents necessary with the lab for the sale of the future development properties in the amount of 2.5 million and execute all documents necessary with the lab for the lease of city owned properties located at 5834 Atlantic Avenue, 5870 Atlantic Avenue and 5885 Lime Avenue and 5895 Lime Avenue districts eight and nine. Thank you. We're going to hear a staff report in just a minute. The reason we're moving this up as well is I want to make sure the council gets a chance to join me in thanking Mike Conaway, who is, as you all know, leaving us. And this is probably Mike's I know he does not want me to do this. And he specifically asked not to, but I just think it's really important that we know that Mike's been with the city for a long time and he's really committed himself. These properties and the selling of the properties and the dissolution of RTA could not have been had could not have happened the way they've they've had it not been for Mike's work. He's been incredible with the Economic Development Commission. He's been a great friend to a lot of us. He understands real estate better than anyone in the city, and it's going to be a real loss to us. But we're just very excited for his his next adventure. So let's give him a round of applause, first of all. And with that, Mike, please, this amazing deal you put together here. Thank you, Mayor Garcia, members of the City Council. This item relates to the sale of former redevelopment property located along Atlantic Avenue corridor in Council District nine, including property that was previously approved for sale by the successor agency, oversight Board and State Department of Finance in Council District eight. Lab Holding LLC is a Costa mesa based developer of synergistic and boutique restaurant and retail destinations, focusing on historic preservation, environmental sensitivity, eclectic art and support of local and small businesses. The Lab Holdings projects include the Anti Mall, the Anaheim Packing District, the center and the camp. We have a few visions on the screen here of a few of the projects that the lab is has developed, and these include the Anaheim Packing District. A few visions from the Anaheim Packing District also includes the camp, which is another development in Anaheim. Again, a very eclectic and small business oriented development, and then the downtown Center Street and Anaheim as well. Having this type of a development as a village center concept in North Long Beach, I think will be an incredible economi c impact for the for the area. And the lab intends to seek approvals to develop the former RDA properties into a North Village center, which has long been contemplated in the guiding documents of the North Long Beach Project area. Staff believes that the lab development will be a significant economic engine and a catalyst to additional investment and job generation and revitalizing the Atlantic Avenue corridor in North Long Beach. Purchase price is based on accommodation of fair market value for the for sale property in Council District eight and land residual value for the future development property in Council District nine. The land residual value applicable to the future development property in the long range property management plan allows the city to utilize an alternative appraisal methodology in order to reflect the land value necessary to support the contemplated project. This is not a city subsidy, but instead a calculation of the land value required to achieve project economics. The lab also seeks to lease government use properties, access to the needs of the new Michelle Obama Neighborhood Library in order to better activate these properties as well. The lab is prepared to proceed to acquire the property, with the city holding a promissory note through the entitlement and construction period, allowing the lab to generate a stabilized cash flow sufficient to refinance construction costs and pay off the note after 120 day due diligence period. The lab will acquire the property and begin its entitlement efforts so staff request city council declare the property surplus. Authorize City Manager to execute all necessary documents for the sale of the future development property and the lease to the government. Use property and accept categorical exemption. C 16 dash 190 in this concludes my staff report and I'm available for questions. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. First, I want to just acknowledge Mike Conway in the last two months. He's, you know, successfully moved forward on helping the city to encumber every single former successor agency redevelopment lot in District nine. And I have to say, the fact that tomorrow is his last day, this is a this is a strong way to finish. This is a really exciting project. I'm really, really happy to see how he was able to use different techniques that were in the land land long range property management plan to incentivize three different types of properties for sale in District eight, the Future Development District nine and the government use to really prepare and situate a comprehensive development anchored by the Michelle Obama Library spanning two districts and really a representation of what we've been talking about for a number of years, the Uptown Renaissance. So I can't say this enough. This would not be in this position without Mike Conaway. This is a very innovative approach. We did not know whether this could happen and we made it. We made it happen.

So I'm really excited to take this vote tonight. I want to say that this is this is the again, the third of three developers on the North Atlantic corridor. So we voted to bring in West Linn two weeks ago. We brought it brought voters to bring in Frontier and now it's rounded out with the lab. And we I don't believe we could have found a better developer to complement what we're trying to accomplish here in District nine. So I want to acknowledge city staff one announced, acknowledge Councilman Austin for putting, you know, assembling all the for sale properties the way that they did. And I can't wait to see this exciting timeline that's spelled out in this in this motion. And I encourage my colleagues support this motion. Thank you, Councilman Austin. Well, I, too, will be supporting this motion for obvious reasons. This is great news for for uptown, more specifically for the residents who have been waiting for many, many years for something to happen to make the north part of our city relevant. And this has been a long time coming. It has been it was very frustrating to sit here for several years. And and when the redevelopment process was unwinding and we could not do anything with those properties. To to work on the state led committee and to lobby in Sacramento. To. To get the Department of Finance to approve our land management plan. Once that was done for sale properties were in our storefronts were actually there was interest there was immediate interest in private developers developing those properties. And I can't think of a better, better developer to work on the North Village than the land holdings. I had the opportunity to to to welcome Mr. Shaheen Sadeghi, the the principal of the lab to to North Long Beach, and walked him around North Village. And he looked at other opportunities. And and today we have a deal in front of us that is a, I believe, a game changer for Uptown and for all of Long Beach. This will make our neighborhood stronger. This will make our city stronger. And so I'm happy to support this. And and congratulations again, Mr. Conway, for your efforts, your strong negotiation skills, being innovative to to make this this deal work. I think, along with the Civic Center, this will be a crowning achievement in your career. Thank you very much for your efforts. And I do encourage I vote as well. Thank you, Councilwoman Price. I want to just echo what my colleagues have already said. This sounds like a really exciting project. And I'm I'm very excited for my council colleagues who are going to be welcoming this new addition to their district. I've visited some of the venues that you put up there as I work in Orange County and fantastic. I think they're going to do really well in Long Beach and I support this 100%. And thank you, Mr. Conway. You are totally awesome. We're going to miss you. Thank you, Councilman. Mongo. I want to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Conway for all that he's done for this city. It has been an a mazing opportunity to work with you. The amount of knowledge and history of property and development and everything else that you have about this city is remarkable. And I hope that we'll see you back often because all of these things you started, there will be many ribbon cuttings to come. Councilmember Pearce. Thank you. I want to first just congratulate council member Austin and Richardson, Vice Mayor Richardson, on the transformation that you guys have seen in your districts over the last ten years. It's amazing. You guys talked about the Renaissance and it happened really quickly. And so great job doing that. And definitely, Mr. Conaway, you've been an asset to me in my four weeks here, and I just really thank you for being creative. You've set the bar really high. So good luck. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Congratulations to my council colleagues in North Long Beach. I think it's wonderful that we'll be having this amazing new development. And I also wanted to extend my appreciation to Mr. Mike Conway. I remember years ago you let me run around the old public service yard and we created amazing opportunities for the Willmore and so many different communities . So thank you so many, so much for all of your hard years of work here in the city of Long Beach. Appreciate it. Thank you. Just to close this out in the media, turn over to Mr. West. He's going to say something as well. But let me let me just say one thing real quick, which is really important. I don't think people in the public don't know, but we sold over 255 parcels of land. That's a lot of parcels of land. The city of Long Beach had one of the largest inventories in the entire state of California. And obviously a lot of those parcels you put together to make a larger parcel. But regardless of the process to go through the state's approval and Councilman Alston is totally correct. The working with the Department of Finance for the last few years to roll out the the sell, selling and development of these parcels has been probably one of the larger economic development efforts that city has done in the last few decades. I will say that if you look at the last few months, Mr. Conway has led efforts to sell and to sell off, I think almost every if not every parcel in the downtown area now, every parcel in the north Long Beach area. And I think we may still have some left in central and maybe a couple in West. But beyond that, all of the downtown and all of the north and some of the central have all been are completed. And that couldn't happen without without Mike. And now what we're going to get is hopefully great projects. We think we will in all of these sites. I just wanted to say also one thing about this developer and this project. I think this is one of the most exciting things that happened in North Long Beach in a really long time. This if you know, if you're familiar with the lab holdings, if you're familiar with with the camp development or the anti mold development or the Anaheim Packing District, these are really creative and unique spaces in other communities. And the fact that these these developers want to work in Long Beach in a way that's creative and community centered is very exciting for for for the North. And this is this Lab Holdings megaproject, which is really a lot of smaller projects that they're building. A community will dramatically impact both District nine and District eight. I mean, there's properties right there along along that border. And so I want to thank them for investing in Long Beach and look forward to all of this activity in the next few years ahead of us, which will be pretty exciting. Mr. West Mayor, Councilmembers. This is just all about Mike. I've had optioning work with Mike since 2005 and I've learned a lot from him. I'm not going to go on and on about the fantastic stuff that he's done for our community. But I do want to say that if Michael Conway was a swimmer and he's not, he would have more gold medals and Michael Phelps. So there you go. And with that, to get to a transition, I want to recognize we're bringing on board an interim economic development and property manager director. She'll start tomorrow as well. Her name is Catherine McDermott. Catherine, if you could stand and wave. So Catherine comes to us from the port of Long Beach, where she worked for about 15 years or ten years. I'm not which not sure which. And then she went over to the Port of Los Angeles, and she was the number two executive director at the Port of Los Angeles for some time there. And she is a real estate expert, an economic development expert, lives in Long Beach. And while she's retired, she'll come out of retirement to go in Michael's stead until you replace a full time economic development director, hopefully in the next two months. Thanks, Catherine. Thank you. Welcome as well. Thank you. Without any public comment on this item, please come forward. Good afternoon, Mayor Garcia. Council Staff Attendees. My name is Tasha Hunter and I'm the manager of the Uptown Business Improvement District, and I'm going to see how many times I can not see excited up here or how many times I'll say excited. I'm very excited about this development. We all are. The community, the businesses, they've all been asking when it's going to happen. And so I think second to the day actually break ground. This is one of the most exciting times. And we look forward to the bid. Looks forward to working with Labbe to talk about what's going to happen in the future, how we can help them continue to protect their investment with talk about employment and marketing and being the liaison between the city and and the community. Let's see. Even though we have to move out of our office, we're excited. This is a great reason to have to move out of our office because they're coming in and we're excited to get into our new space and watch this process. Just want to say thank you to city manager, to Mike Conway, to Councilman Au stin, as well as Vice Mayor Richardson in this whole entire process and including the bid. It's been five months for me in there and it's been a great learning process. So please vote yes and congratulation. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Josh Butler with Housing Long Beach and congratulations. To the ninth district in the eighth Council District. This is something that will be great for the community. I do want to once again want to point out that this is a the. Sale of surplus land and that according to the state law, the Surplus Land. Act and conversations I've had with city. Staff are we are to be prioritizing the sale of this property for affordable housing development. That doesn't necessarily mean that council. Or a staff has to select development for that property, but we ought to be reaching out to our affordable housing developers, notifying them of the property and accepting any bids and entering into good faith negotiations. If they do submit said bid, if their bid is not accepted, an affordable. Housing development is chosen. Such is not the case here. 50% of those units would have to be set at affordable rates. Now, the mayor has referenced the sale of 255 parcels. We would encourage the council to be proactive and reach out to affordable housing developers and put them on that priority list. We understand that it is incumbent upon the affordable housing developers to request to be put on that list. And to date, no developers have made such request in speaking with them. They are unaware. They are unaware of this. They are unaware that they need to make a request. And so as we are reaching out to them to have them put letters in or we would encourage the Council to be proactive and reach out to those developers and. Start moving forward. And honoring the Surplus Land Act and making sure that we're prioritizing. A major need in our community, which is the need for affordable housing. And I thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good. You click as the address. Let me begin by thanking the actually the city clerk for coming up with a new filing system that makes it very easily now. She, as most people may know, the agenda is up, posted on a table there. And it used to be on a paradigm that was very difficult to get inside of and look at all the details where the devil is often found. Now they have an easy thing set for tabs. You can do it. Development as I looked through that. To me, the biggest. Missing point piece. Is any analysis by our city auditor. Period. And I think that automatically raises a red flag. And what raises a red flag even further. Is the absence of a process where you follow what most. Municipalities, states, counties, governments do when they have excess property, they advertise it and say and essentially say, say, we're going to be selling this property and x date x tower. The guy with the biggest cashier's check that'll pass the bank, clear the bank gets it. Absent that, what you've got, you're dealing more often than not. Not always. More often than not with hankie, panky, period. So I would suggest. That the best course of action for this city, the most prudent course of action for this city that is heading already on a road to bankruptcy. Is to hold this off and wait for an analysis from the city auditor. If it's that good a deal. A few weeks is not going to rock the boat one way or another. You have a fiduciary responsibility to act responsibly. The data in front of you shows that you have no analysis from your city auditor. So unless you've got something to hide. Vote to hold this off until you get a report from the city auditor. And then follow the process most other governments follow. Advertise it for sale on the courthouse step, giving the sale to getting the property to the individual that comes up with the largest cashier's check. Absent that, some of you may be cashiered from your job. Thank you. Thank you. Any other speakers? Please see nonmembers. Please go ahead and cast your votes. Councilmember peers. Motion carries. Unanimous. Thank you very much. Congratulations to Vice Mayor Richardson and council member Austin. We're going to go now right into our budget hearing, which is the start of the meeting and then the rest of the meeting. So let staff get ready for that. Okay. Thank you. We are going to hear now. On second. Item number 13. Report from Development Services Recommendation to receive and file report on the development of a comprehensive cine program citywide. Think I'm going to open this up and then turn this over. As part of my budget that I presented last year, I specifically called out the city investing and preparing a new signage program for the city. So we set aside dollars and the council agreed to do so. I said this for for a few years that our entryways and our signage across the city needs a dramatic facelift. We have incredible opportunity to really grow and develop the way people view our city when they come in, when they enter, when they egress. And we're excited that this is going to be a presentation so we can begin the conversation about citywide signage across Long Beach. And when we're talking citywide signage, we mean the entire city. So from north to west, the downtown, all across the city and on the east side as well, which we see incredible traffic coming in from Orange County. And so this is our first kind of large presentation on this topic. There's a lot of exciting things happening. And I'm going to turn this over to staff to give a staff report, and then we'll go from there. So. Mr. MODICA Thank you, Mr. Mayor, and I think you introduced that very nicely. We are excited to have Sylvia Perkins here to really talk about what this effort is. In addition to what the Mayor had mentioned about wayfinding signage, we also use this opportunity to look at two other areas that we've got some opportunities to do directional signage. And one is how to improve parking, part icularly in the downtown area. And so you're going to hear a presentation about that tonight and also about our beaches. Our beaches are one of our biggest assets. We've got permit requirements to help get people to our beaches. And so we're also going to be talking about beaches. So with that, I'd like to have Linda Tatum give a couple points of introduction and then we'll hear from our

our consultant. Good afternoon, Mayor and members of the City Council. I this process came about because during the discussion of the fiscal year 2016 to 17 budget process, the need to update the city's entry signage was identified. But we also identified the need for wayfinding signage in the downtown area as well as as the deputy city manager. The Assistant City manager said to our coastal resources. So the staff initiated an RFP back in December of 2015 and as a result of that process we got some pretty extensive responses. And that process we selected Silbert Perkins design. And one of the benefits of of that design is that they've done similar work in other coastal communities, not only in California, but throughout the nation as well as internationally. And a another benefit of selecting that firm is that in addition to their experience, they also have a local project manager from here in the city of Long Beach on the project team. So we're really excited about that. What will come out of the consultant's work is a design template for a comprehensive program that the city can use for various types of signage in the public realm. And that includes the entry sign that was mentioned earlier, as well as wayfinding to downtown parking, coastal access. And over time, these, as well as other different types of signage programs can be used, can use that template that's prepared by Silbert. Perkins. And what we're looking for as a result of this outreach process is we really want to get very broad community outreach so that we can make sure that it's a very open and collaborative process. And the core objective is to make sure that the design that comes out of this process embraces the city's core values and it's its identity. So with that, I'd and this is about a seven month process from the beginning, and one of our key partners in this process is the DLP. They will likely initiate a wayfinding signage specifically in the downtown that would be funded by the LBA. So with that, I'd like to turn it over to Cliff Cliff of Sailboat Perkins to do a brief presentation. Thank you, Linda. I'm Clifford Svalbard of Silver Perkins Design, and I want to thank the city council and the mayor who obviously just walked out. Thank you for listening today. So we could provide you an overview of the work we'll be doing. Long Beach is obviously a spectacular city, one those it's the seventh largest city in California. And this picture shows you just a fraction of the city. When people come here today, though, they can't find their way. And they might want to go to the Queen Mary. The y may want to go to one of the other neighborhoods. And they can't find their way, really. So we want to develop a wayfinding system. What is wayfinding? We find those signs that direct you from one place to another. They get you from A to B in the simplest form. And we do it for vehicles, trains, busses and pedestrians as well. The benefits of our public wayfinding systems include promoting and reinforcing a city identity, neighborhood identity, establishing a sustainable model and reducing pollution. The way you do that is people read the signs. They actually drive around a lot less to find their parking spaces. And it saves a lot of it. Reduces pollution. Links all transit modes in real time so people can plan their day and really work to connect to themselves. One end to the other encourages tourism physical activity. We found when we put up signs, people walk more. And it provides educational, cultural and historic information. So we could tell the stories of the city. We also would our goal would be to integrate web and mobile app. So in combination with the science, people can use maps and storytelling elements to find their way. It also really benefits the city by promoting local events, stimulating the economy, giving you management tools, integrating maps, and ultimately creating revenue for the city, and giving you a great database for the city. Our goal is really to look at three very big picture elements one of the city entries identifying city entries, helping people find parking around the city, and then finding coastal access to the beaches and the coastal areas of Long Beach. At the same time, we want to enhance the historic character of city and complement the future development, which is very dramatic. We want to link those together and tell the stories from the past, the present and the future. So our goals are really to update the city's monuments and identities at entryways, improve parking signs, improve wayfinding signs around the city for cars and pedestrians, and reduce the amount of sign clutter that's out there. As we put up new signs, we hope to take down a lot of old ones. And there are thousands of old signs that really create a lot of clutter in the city. Our first priority is to look at primary entry signs at the bottom. There you can see some of the existing identity signs. And the city second priority is looking at parking. There are all kinds of confusing parking signs around town. We want to simplify that and then helping people find their way around downtown the coast and the rest of the city into all the districts and neighborhoods of the city. And then making sure it's the regular regulation signs are easy to read and very consistent and unified. So the city feels like a unified city and giving consistent messages to people who look at the map of this great city right now, those gray dots represent the primary entry points into the city. So this is our first step, is analyzing all the entry points into the city and prioritizing the ones that would receive a new identity. So, you know, when you've truly arrived into the city, I think a lot of people might know that if you look, you don't always know when you arrive into Long Beach, it's not easy. I've taken numerous roads into the city and don't always know when to arrive. So this will really identify a city. And then, of course, helping people find a place to park. Most people don't realize how much parking there is in the city. We want to facilitate their ability to find that parking and then when they get there, help them know how many parking spaces they have and help them find the way around the entire city, around downtown and around all the coastal areas. We also want to help people get to destination, so we'll be analyzing all the primary destinations in the city and working with people in all the neighborhoods and districts to understand what the primary destinations are and how they want people to find those places in their cars or on foot. And then, of course, we want to help people get to the coast. That's why people really come and that's why tourists really come to Long Beach. They want to see the coast and they want to see all that it has to offer. And your coast has one of the most richest offerings of culture and social activity of any coast anywhere. So we want to make sure people can find those places, find parking, and enjoy their stay while they're here. Other cities have taken on same programs. The Port of Los Angeles we've been working with for many years, city of Santa Monica, Marina del Rey, West Hollywood, and City of Los Angeles. Many other cities are currently taking this on to unify their cities, identify their cities, and help make them more efficient and greater places to live. I'm going to let Linda tell you a little bit about our next steps here regarding outreach. As we mentioned earlier, one of the key reasons that we selected this firm is because of the robust outreach plan that was programmed. And I'd just like to give you a snapshot of what is programmed as a part of this effort. We will be conducting a number of stakeholder in stakeholder outreach meetings, and that's with very specific groups in the city. Those are listed up in the first bullet under number one. A lot of the downtown businesses in this is downtown businesses, including the hotels, Seaport Village, the Pike. We also will be getting feedback from all of the business associations or the bid's the business improvement districts throughout the city, as well as the COBR. And that's another a series of businesses, business associations in the city, but it also includes the Convention and Visitors Bureau, as well as the Chamber of Commerce. So we're doing a very extensive outreach to the business communities. And after that outreach is done, will actually be meeting individually with the mayor and council members to get their feedback and input, because that will be a critical element of shaping the design of this program. And next, after this council meeting, we are preparing a draft of a survey, and that survey will be posted online with a much more extensive and robust outreach into the general community so that we can pick up the feedback from residents, neighborhood groups and just a very, very broad a broad reach of the community, including potentially as many of the tourists that come to the city as possible. So we will be working with the Convention and Visitors Bureau to make sure we access that group as well. And after that, I'll let Cliff close out the presentation by talking about some of the next steps in the way of design and implementation of the program once his work is complete. When we complete the. Thank you, Linda. When we complete the outreach program. Our next step will be to develop the actual design. And we'll develop a variety of design approaches and present them to the team here in the city. And as part of that, also a phased implementation strategy. Our goal would be over the next within the next six or seven months to actually start implementation. Projects like this can often take years, but the starting point is critical. So people could see that action is happening and then we'll begin installation of that science system and evolve it over time with collaboration with the mayor and the city council in the city. So in summary, thank you very much for the opportunity to present Mayor and City Council and I hope you approve this approach. That concludes this presentation and we are available for any questions you might have. I think I'm going to go into some questions and comments right now. Let me just say, I want to thank you for your extensive work already. I mentioned this to you before when I had a chance to meet you. This is this design group, by the way, which I was not aware of, which Mr. West mentioned to me. Besides working in all this and a lot of the cities that were discussed earlier, they also designed the L.A.X. Airport signage. So that big L.A.X. you see out there, when you go out there, that's one of their larger same projects. And so this is, you know, a little smaller, but that obviously is very iconic. And you guys did a great job with that big project as well. Councilman Mongo. No. I just want to say that these corridors are crucial to the way people come and go in and out of the city. So I'm very excited about this project and I think it'll gain great benefit for those of us who are border cities especially. Councilmember Ringa. Thank you, Mayor. About 20 years ago, I was a part of a committee that was looking at new signage. And I see the old one right here on slide nine. There it is. And we had a lot of discussion about how we were going to brand Long Beach, and it was all about the branding. And I'm sure you're going to be having that discussion as well as how do we brand Long Beach? And that's going to be an important discussion. So I hope that in your in your outreach

, that you're going to be including, you know, people from from the communities that I represent, especially those that are in those corridors that enter Long Beach, which ought to be one in my area. And then, of course, in North Lawn, which we have Artesia, and then we have Carson in the East Side. So I'm hoping that maybe in part of that branding that we do, that there's some kind of community feel for those areas as well, because there's that's part of the that's part of the the appeal of Long Beach and why people come here. So I'm looking forward to the project. I also noticed one more thing at the last slide, you had the Civic Center and excuse me, the news that New Year's that's going to be coming forward. So I'm expecting that you'll probably have something unique and different about that. And also, just for your information, I also sit on the Coastal Commission. So coastal access is going to be a very crucial component for us in Long Beach and ensuring that people know that where those points of coastal access are going to be. So that would be, I guess, a good discussion to have with our city management in in that regard, because parking is going to be a major, major issue. We already have one going on right now with the Long Beach Marina, with the restaurants. And what about this point and and the other restaurants around that area? So that's going to be important as well. So just to keep those those other things in mind. Thank you. Look forward to hearing all these issues. Thank you. Councilman Andrews. Yeah, thank you, Mayor. You know, I just want to say that these signs make you really seriously make our city, you know, stand out and really reflect the pride that we have, you know, living in Long Beach. But I hope that, you know, the signage program makes its way into my you know, to the central area, you know, and these are some things I think is very important because I think everyone needs to know what the century really is. If you don't know by now, you know, and we have some beautiful, you know, locations like in Riverside that have been sponsored, you know, and sponsored by our residents. So I hope that we can bring some more light to Pacific Coast Highway and down to Anaheim and even Orange and Martin Luther King Street. So of all of this, you know, I would hope that the consultants and the group that makes these signs are really our local businesses also, because we really need that, too. So please understand that. Thank you very much. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mayor. So, I, I, I think this is an exciting process to to begin. But when I visit a city and I like to visit cities, I like to go off the beaten path a little bit. And, you know, when I'm in a certain city, I might want to go see where the locals go, or I might not want the traditional tourist experience. And when I think of Long Beach and what it should be, it's not all focused on tourism in one area, but I think it's a lot of different neighborhood

s that have a lot of things to offer. And this presentation is great. And I like the fact that, you know, they're using data to select different corridors to highlight traffic counts. I think that's important because, you know, not only do tourists and residents look at that, but businesses look at that when they locate on those corridors. So it's important that those are tied into the larger city communication network of sort of wayfinding signage. My my my concern is I need to understand if this scope of work has actual deliverables for the rest of the city. Because when I look at the deliverables, it it's a lot for the coastal areas and a lot for the tourist areas. But I know that there are a number of business districts who are already engaging in wayfinding sign programs. We've talked about it for many, many years, particularly in North Long Beach. We tried it before and we realized our or our ordinance said that you had to have a business district or historic neighborhood. We didn't have either. Now we have a business district and we're struggling to figure out, figure this wayfinding signage stuff out. So like Councilman Andrew said, I would love to see through this process some concrete deliverables that we can, you know, some templates. Something that we can easily hand to a business teacher and say, Here's a template. Go ahead and highlight the new default wetlands of the Michelle Obama Neighborhood Library. So my question is, what are the specific deliverables that are, you know, that neighborhoods or business districts will be able to count on at the end of this? Councilman Richardson, the deliverable that will come out of this process is exactly what you described. It will be a design template, and that design template will cover all manner of potential types of signage or different aspects, including biking, walking vehicles for those entering the city and those driving in and around the city. And you're also correct in that the template would be available to the debate. It'll be available to any of the bids or any of the neighborhoods so that when they are ready to install signage for their neighborhoods, they can they will be asked to use this template and some version of the template. The idea is that all of the signage have a common vocabulary, but obviously the neighborhoods would like to customize it in some way to have some uniqueness for their neighborhood. But it will still share the core themes of the template that's designed out of this process. And in thank you. And that's what I was hoping for that it's, you know, consistent but some level of flexibility for, you know, the business district of the corridor to theme their own individual character. So I guess the last thing I would ask is, can you just restate the timeline for when those deliverables will come out? And I just want that to come out one more time because this is an important conversation. The timeline of this process is is approximately seven months. And we are looking to have the process complete and wrapped up, I would say, within the first quarter of 2017. Outstanding. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes, thank you. I am representative of the downtown area, so I'm very excited about this specifically for the parking attributes that will be added and make it a little easier for residents. And I agree there is an abundance of parking. It's just sometimes hard to find. And so I think that is great. I'll also just mention, I think I trust that both Linda and Amy, I'm sure, will be working with them already. But our historic groups are such a large component of Long Beach. We have about 17 here in the city and working with them to tie in the history with a modern feel. There are some signs already on Pine Avenue that we've created that do just that. And so I think keeping with that element is is always important. And then also throw something out there. I know Councilmember Turanga will agree is some sort of connectivity between West, the west side and downtown or the west side to this side of the river, because a lot of the West Siders feel very disconnected. So I would say that is another big portion. But also agreeing with my councilor colleague Rex Richardson that, you know, hopefully we're working with all neighborhoods because it looks like from here that we're working just with downtown. So I would hope North Long Beach and and other groups would get as much love as as we do here in downtown. So thank you so much for taking up this task. We appreciate it. Councilman Pierce. Yes, thank you very much. I definitely am excited about the branding opportunities and would just like to echo, I think that particularly in the last several years, we have a lot of landmarks throughout the city, whether it's an east side or North Long Beach. And for downtown, it's obviously something that we think about with tourism. But I like the idea of the package to allow neighborhood associations in different neighborhoods to brand themselves. I would also encourage us, you know, thinking about mobility and the fact that we are one trying to ID where parking is, but also where our bike paths are throughout the city. And it would be great, you know, at the end of this, whether it's with you or with the city staff to have a key of the of the city that says here are all the great things that our city has to offer in one vision. So thank you very much for the work. Really looking forward to it. Thank you, Councilmember Supernova. Yeah. The topic is for staff and that is outreach. And this is kind of a follow up to Vice Mayor Richardson's point. The mayor and city council was listed second. I don't know if that listing is c'erano, but perhaps you'd like to consider reaching out to the city council offices and the mayor prior to going to these other organizations and not that were more important that we might be able to identify groups for staff or actually have historical information about things in our district that ma ybe other organizations may not. My second point would be I know this is the design phase, but moving forward, I hope we can look at local vendors for the building installation. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on this item? Please come forward. Good evening, everyone. My name is Jack Smith. I live at 240 Chestnut Avenue. That's Plymouth West in the first District. I happened to see this presentation at the COBR meeting. The Council of Business Organizations, that's the group of bids in town several days ago. My first thought and looking at it is how very 20th century? It really looks old fashioned to be painting words onto metal plates and strapping them to poles. I think there's much more modern solutions and new technology that can happen that we just went through Pokémon. I know a business. On North Pine that had to extend their hours and hire more people because they had a Pokemon lure in front of their business. To be able to be flexible quickly. This wayfinding system. This business is new. This way, finding system wouldn't have guided anybody to that business. The technology needs to keep up with the rapid change of our city. And I think that. That this. Kind of signage that you're talking about is really, really old fashioned. A lot has been talked about with. With parking. Well, now, unless I heard it wrong, I thought I heard Mr. Beck during the Public Works budget presentation talking about the new parking app. That will guide visitors and residents to parking places throughout the city. So maybe big ugly pees posted on post around the city isn't really the right answer for that. Is this signage for residents or is it for only visitors? The answer I got in that meeting was, Oh, well, it's for visitors. Well, I think that North Long Beach would like residents of downtown to find North Long Beach so that the wayfinding really has to be accommodated to guide all the residents and visitors throughout the city. The fact that everything is focused on downtown was very disturbing to the COBA group because they are bids from throughout the city. So I think there's much more modern solutions rather than posting metal to pole, strapping metal to poles. It has to be wayfinding for the residents as well as visitors to the city and it needs to be for the entire city. One of the things that is missing from all of these presentations I've seen is there's no estimate of what the cost will be for this, and I think that needs some serious discussion. Thanks. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi, I'm Stephanie Howard. I represent fourth Street Business District. I was also in the same meeting and I just wanted to emphasize something that Rex said. This does focus a lot on downtown, and we want it to be a template that reaches out so that when people get off the train, it's not, hey, you're in downtown and this is how to get here. But hey, welcome to downtown four streets that way. Bixby Knolls is that way, Belmont Shores that way. This is how long

it's going to take to get there. And so that in the future, when we are able to implement these things, it's easy to happen. Because as I also mentioned, the Robert, when you were talking about it, trying to get things done in the city as far as signage does take 20 years sometimes. And so if we have a door so that other business districts can utilize that, that would be great. In 20 years, we'll all just be virtual folk. Come on. Jack. Actually cut to where you're sitting speaking. Go ahead. My name is Karen Reside and I live at Southern Pacific and my hope is that the signage is clear and distinct and communicative. I know that I watch people every day with the diagonal crosswalks, totally ignore the instruction on how to cross with that. So I would hope that the signage would be clear and understandable and also visible. I am about five four, which is the average height. I cannot see any signs way up on the pole if that's what you use. I'm visible for those people with limited vision opportunities. I love the transit signs, the digital ones. They're easy to read. They're at a height that is readable and also understandable across multiple multi languages. And it's about time that Long Beach had some consistent signage. Thank you. Thank you. There's a motion on the floor to receive and file a report. Members, please go ahead and cast your votes. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you. We're going to go ahead to our budget hearing and then go back to the agenda. So I'm going to give counsel a minute to transition. Mr. City attorney. Are you are you doing the first hearing or are you doing hearing to first? Thank you, Director Bolek. And on behalf of the whole Council, welcome. And toward the end of the meeting, we get a little quick with our fingers. So but thank you very much. Let's go ahead and have item number six. Please report from financial management recommendation to award of contract to leader industries for the purchase of for type one ambulances for a total amount not to exceed 1.4 million citywide. Thank you as a staff report on this. Yes. Dan Bernbach, our manager of our fleet operations. Good evening, Vice Mayor Richardson and members of council. The fire department uses rescue ambulances to provide 24 seven emergency medical response around the city. These four rescue ambulances have come due for replacement as they age, considerably causing increased maintenance and operational costs, as well as higher. Downtime that has affected department operations. The rescues that will be replaced by these new units have seen hard service and have accumulated high mileage. The average age of these vehicles is 14 years, and adequate maintenance support has become increasingly difficult to due to their age. This purchase was competitively bid with extensive outreach to ensure best pricing for the city. That concludes my presentation. I'm available to answer questions. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item? Seeing nonmembers, please cas t your vote. Thank you. We're moving on. Item number 15, please. Report from Development Services recommendation to execute an amendment to contract with EA Plan soft for phase two of the Electronic Plan Check System to increase the contract amount by 343,000 citywide. Thank you. Any public comment on this item saying none. Members, please cast your vote. Council motion carries. Vice mayor before we start or go to the next item. Hello. Robert does it all the time. Go ahead. I would like to take this opportunity to introduce Oscar Orsi, our new deputy director of development services. He will be responsible for helping to implement electronic plan check. And we are very happy that this is moving forward. And it is just on the heels of what you heard at the last item. You know, we are also moving forward with technology in our own way, and Oscar will be heavily involved in this process. So I wanted to first introduce him and then thank you for your support. On the plan check item. Thank you. Thank you, Director Bolek. And on behalf of the whole Council, welcome. And toward the end of the meeting, we get a little quick with our fingers. So but thank you very much. Let's go ahead and have item number six. Motion carries. Thank you. Item number 13, please. Communication from City Attorney. Recommendation to adopt resolution expressing its intent to prioritize spending of marijuana business license tax revenue for specific purposes. Thank you, Councilman Price. Yes, I'd like any money that that is generated as a result of the tax to go to the items and areas specified by the city attorney in the resolution with a special focus on public health and safety. Thank you. Great. Thank you. And I'll just add my comments here. In August, we submitted this this resolution indicating our intent to use the business license, tax revenue for public safety, public health, homelessness, and general services for regulation and enforcement. And it's great to see that in the final resolution, all of these will be prioritized for spending if this tax passes. So I do want to thank city staff and the City Council for collaboration on this resolution to ensure that the revenue is spent in a way that fully benefits our city and our residents and recovers any costs associated with the regulation of the medical marijuana ordinance should it pass by the voters. So, Councilmember Pearce. Yes. I also want to thank staff for their report that they did previously and just want to reiterate that do want to see the funds go to cost recovery, prioritize that and then additionally making sure that we are addressing things like first responder times both with our police and our fire, that we are using these dollars to bring back our public safety. And then you know that. When we have that in the general fund, I would definitely support any additional funding after cost recovery and public safety. Again, going to issues of health equity and and areas like that that can be addressed throu gh services. So thank you for your work on this. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Thank you, Vice Mayor. You know, I'd like to thank Mr. Parkins for drafting this resolution. And I would hope that when we talk about public safety, we're not only talking about police and enforcement, but the critical fire service as well. Thank you. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item? Mm hmm. Good evening, my Mayor Richardson and honorable city council members. My name is Margaret Dudley and I live in the ninth District. And I would just like to speak on the. The priority for the. The measure a spending funding. I believe you're going to need that for first responders. Police first. Hospitals, mental health care. Also paramedics. You're going to need it also for attorney lawyers because it's going to be a lot of lawsuits. So you need to prioritize that money that you're going to get from Missouri for that. Thank you very much. Thank you, Margaret. Next. Night seven works in Soho district is for two resident. Speaking on this agenda item for two different reasons. One, as I stated before, the current tax rates that are being considered under measure M-A are cost prohibitive for a business that is that is currently built for businesses that are going to be taxed under federal schedule to 80, an effective rate of anywhere between 50 and 80%. So for the purpose of controlling the black market, the best way to meet and to ensure that that will happen is to give support to the businesses that are putting themselves in front of the breach and accepting the registration and working within written to the the created regulatory scheme. As such, it would be, you know, even a business like a business tax that anywhere from 8 to 12% is really cost prohibitive for, especially in the retail sector. Secondly, in the interest of protecting measure, it may and the ability in the city's ability to tax at this particular at at these levels, it's I think the city's being too cute by half by engaging in what is by all means a special tax. Any proposition to analysis that goes into the legislative intent of this measure, especially the ones that are being expressed at this turning time, especially for specific allocations towards public towards public safety and cost allocation, as we're talking about, really indicates something that is a special tax and that's fantastic. If the city wants to raise money for first responders, mental health, public health, I'll go along with them. But you also are going to be subject to it to the to it towards passing that particular measure at a two thirds rate, not a 50% plus one. Simple as that. Thank you. And have a good day. Thank you. Take it back behind the rail. Let's go ahead. And members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. Let's have item number 14. Thank you. Let's move forward to item number eight. Report from Long Beach Airport. Recommendation to execute all necessary documents to amend. Contract with J acobs Engineering Group for additional community outreach related to the FAA study and increase the contract amount by $20,000. District five. Is there a motion on this? Okay. Councilman Hooper now. Yes. I'd like to start off by asking staff for some clarification on this item. It's my understanding this was not part of the original request from City Council. So in the interest of transparency. Can we get an explanation on what what the additional costs for? And then I'd also like to ask what the vision is for moving forward to these meetings by the Commission. So we have October 20th, the Airport Advisory Commission meeting, October 25th, the Economic Development Commission meeting, and then a tentatively scheduled meeting at City Council. Is it the intention of staff to have decisions made at each of these commission meetings, then report to the City Council for a decision made on November 15th? Is that what you have in mind or just tell me what what your ideas was? Go ahead and just hear the staff report now. Mayor counts matters before I give it over to Jess. I'll answer the second question first. No, it is not our intent to have the Airport Advisory Commission or the Economic Development Commission make decisions to report to the city council. It's our intent to provide an opportunity for the public to weigh in after hearing Jacobs and our staff and city attorney and also to listen to our airport advisory commission and our Economic Development Commission. So any comments that they might make would be in the record. And those comments would be forwarded to the the the city council. So again, we're not asking them to make decisions or anything like that, but they certainly would have the opportunity to express themselves on after the presentation and on information that they would want you to know or hear or how they feel about that. Secondly, back to the consent calendar item. Schneider mentioned that over to our airport director, Jess Romo. If I could just get clarification on one point, Mr. Vice Mayor, on that explanation just happen. Sure. Go for it. Okay. So the if I understand you correctly, the commission's filed a report to city council prior to the 15th. Are you not saying that? I'm not saying that the commission will. The commission will respond. And those we will then prepare that and get that to the city council. But based probably on a memorandum on how the Airport Advisory Commission turned out, how the Economic Development Commission turned out, and basically prepare for the council, the comments that we're getting from the community and also from the commissions. Okay. Thank you. Thanks. Yeah. Maybe the staff report would clarify some of the questions. Let's finish the staff report. Honorable Vice Mayor, Honorable Council members. The item before you is for an allocation for additional funds for two study sessions to be held. To your question, Mr. Councilman. The the study originally contemplated and did have two community mee tings that were held in March and April of this year as the study was getting kicked off to elicit and gather community input as part of the report process itself. This because those items were held. They they did not allow for the study sessions that are now contemplated to be held here in the next two weeks. So it's the request of staff to hold those study sessions so that we can gather the information. As the city manager noted, prepare that in preparation for council consideration in November. Thank you. Councilman Austin. Yes. And I want to thank Councilmember Suvarna for pulling this item. I appreciate the staff report. I'm not sure that I am clear on on the need or the scope, I guess. You said there are two additional study sessions and not just presentations before the commission. Is that correct? Yes. The study sessions really will consist of presenting the findings in summary form of the report that were the study that has been released. It'll help ensure that the commission who are are presented with these these data that are in the in the study sessions or in feasibility reports can have a full picture of what's contained in there relative to what was originally contracted for the six items, specifically on the feasibility of Annapolis at Long Beach Airport. So I guess the question is at what point in who was it staff that determined that the consultant was actually needed to be present at these study sessions? Well, we believe that this is going to be a team effort, but because the consultant team, which consists of Jacobs Engineering Group, as well as a number of sub consultants, they took fairly deep dives in some technical areas that they're in the best position to present that information at the study sessions. Staff will be available as well to help answer any additional questions. But we do believe that there's a benefit to having the the consultant team present the findings. So I guess I need to get some details. How many members of the consultant team do we expect to have present? I mean, because it's it breaks down to $10,000 a meeting and that's just seems a little bit excessive in this regard. I understand being safe and sorry, rather I'd like to be safe, but at the same time, I'd like to be prudent with resources. Yeah. Well, just to be clear, the while there are team members who will be participating in preparing for the study sessions, we and we will have only two members from the Jacobs team in attendance and one principally who will be in charge of presenting the material. But it will take an amount of time to prepare for it, to ensure that the presentation itself is is very solid and thorough. And for that reason, that's what we have budgeted, the amount that we have for the two meetings. So, Mr. Romo, ultimately, I would hope that we are in a position that our staff and our city attorneys are capable of and qualified to answer questions regarding this feasibility study, because the feasibility study, I believe, was actually developed for our city, not for Jacobs engineering, to continue to to to make make money. And that's a statement more than anything. And so and I guess the question is, do you feel that this is this expenditure is necessary for these two meetings? I believe that it is for these two meetings. I think, again, a lot of work has gone into this, as everybody knows, over a series of several months. We believe that having the team from Jacobs be part of preparing it and then executing it at the next two study sessions would be of benefit and a value for the city, for the constituents that I think want to hear about the feasibility study. So will Jacobs engineering be on hand when they come back to make and when this issue comes back to the city council? That's part of what is covered in the base contract, the precise or the exact nature of how will be presented. I believe that there will be a stronger, greater presence of staff in in presenting the report to council in November. Okay. Well, I'll just make my comments. It just doesn't seems excessive that we have to go through to 30 sessions and incur extra cost where I think we do have staff expertize as well as city attorney expertize. The city attorney I've been reading the the feasibility study as well as the city attorney's opinion on this. And I think the most you know, the weight of this, the study, a great deal of weight should be given to our city attorneys in this regard. And so I don't think I could support this. Thank you, Councilmember Stabenow. Thank you. I have to concur with Councilman Roston and not to put our new director on the spot, but what is the total cost of the study? The total cost of the study to date of base contract cost $349,000. Okay. And then add to that another 20,000 for the two presentations. Yes. Okay. Yeah, I agree with Councilmember Austin. That is excessive. So I will not be supporting. Thank you. Councilwoman Price. So just for clarification, if this budget doesn't get approved, then we don't have the community meetings. Is that what happens? What's the consequence of us not approving this? We would go ahead and continue to have the meetings. We just would not have Jacobs engineering there. Oh, so who would lead the meetings? Our city attorneys, the. City attorney and city staff. But we wouldn't be able to delve into the Jacobs report as much. Well. Does anyone on staff have a preference as to whether Jacobs be there, or is that an appropriate. Question recommending that Jacobs should be there 100%. And we believe that the two commissions, in order to respect them, that the authors of the report should be there to be able to answer any of the questions, to get into the weeds. I think of the authors of the report are not there. I don't think it's it's not it's not going to answer all the questions of the two commissions. I just, you know, thinking out loud here a little bit, I to trust our our city staff and our city's city attorney's office implicitly. But I, I wonder this is a very technical report that was conducted. And sometimes I know what happens at community meetings is. There are. Assertions and things that are made that may not be technically accurate. And I wonder if staff would be in the best position to be answering those questions in such a circumstance, or whether it would be more prudent for us to invest in having the actual experts there who can answer questions about their own report. I'm assuming these outreach meetings are about the report that they authored, correct? Absolutely. And you're absolutely correct. If a community member or a commissioner wants to get in the weeds and they question anything in the report, the author of the report should be there to defend it and explain the criteria when they prepared the report. Okay. So, you know, with a great deal of respect for my colleagues, Councilman Superdog and Councilman Austin here, but I have to disagree with them on this point. I think we've already invested a great deal of money into this report, and I don't think it's fair to put city staff in a position where they have to defend conclusions made by another individual. I think it just would not lead to a very efficient meeting because all city staff would be able to say, as, I don't know, that's what it says in the report, I can't tell you anymore. And the actual person who came up with the conclusions, the expert that we've hired to assist us with this process, good or bad, that's the expert that we've chosen to help us with. This project wouldn't be there to defend their own recommendations and conclusions. So to me, it almost seems like we may as well just not even have a meeting about the report. We should just have a meeting in general just to talk about airport opinions, because if we're going to talk about the report, the author of the report should be there and should be there to answer questions and whatever fee is associated with them. Answering the questions, you know, we don't set those fees. We can argue all day long about whether it's reasonable or not, but in my opinion, it's not prudent to have a meeting about the report if the authors of the report can't be there to defend it. So that's my $0.02. Thank you, Councilman Pearce. I agree with Councilmember Price. I was going to ask the same question, just the fact that we have already invested a lot in this and there's a lot of issues around transparency and making sure that community members have all their questions asked. And so I would hate for us to cut ourselves short of being able to have a thorough, fruitful conversation on this. So thank you, staff, for answering these questions. Thank you, Councilmember Garrincha. As a member who opposed the study in the first place, I do have concerns about the cost. Oh, I thought it was. Because that we didn't we didn't need to make. But I was proven otherwise by the majority of the council who voted to have the study. But now we're here. And now let's finish i

t. My issue is not the price so much, but how is it going to be conducted? I mean, these are meetings of the Economic Development Commission and a meeting of the airport commission. So I see this going sideways if it's not done correctly in the sense that. There was a lot of community interest when we held the scoping meetings back in March or April earlier this year. There was a lot of community input. If the format of these meetings that we're going to have with the Economic Development Commission and with the airport commission is such as is held here where the public doesn't really have a voice in expressing their concerns, but rather that the the questions are being raised or being addressed by the commissioners themselves to the consultants. I don't I don't see the effectiveness of that, only because you're going to get a slew of people. You're going to get a roomful of angry constituents. Here who are not going to be able to have a voice and to express their concerns and to ask their questions. Which brings I guess brings it all around to the format. Will the public have an opportunity themselves to ask questions? And to engage the the consultants in a conversation regarding concerns they may have about the report rather than just having a 1a2 phased. Exchange between the commission and the consultant themselves without without the community being engaged in this. So how do you. What's what's the plan that you have here? Councilmember and other council members. The these these are commissions that are led by one of the city attorneys in Mr. Parkin's office. So they actually control the decorum of the meeting and how the meeting flows. There certainly are requirements to allow the public to speak, and that's exactly what will happen here. So we we plan to have a presentation from Jacobs Engineering City staff, as well as the city attorney on the aspects of the study that the city attorney's been tasked to do at that point in time. Will similar to a city council meeting, we'll hear comments from the commission, I suspect, and then there will be the opportunity for the for the public to weigh in. And at that time, the commission can then, just like the council can direct the staff or the consultant to answer the question specifically or wait until the end of the questions. And then the commission can then raise those questions that they've heard from the Council for the for Jacobs staff, for the city attorney to answer. So there definitely will be ample opportunity for the public to weigh in and have questions answered. Okay. I haven't heard that. As long as there is going to be some community input and community interaction. I will go ahead and support this item because I, I brought it up in my, in my meeting with you city manager that if there was going to be any meeting to be held, that we needed to have the consultants there. I don't like the price, but that's the price we're going to pay to have this study. So I will approve it. Thank you, Councilmember Pearce. So sorry. I was just curious, are there other council members that are hosting community meetings outside of these two meetings? Staff we're we're not aware yet. We want to send there could be and we stand ready to support them. But at this stage, we've not had a request or a date to have a meeting through a council office, but we certainly will be there and would support that. Okay. Thank you. Councilman Austin. That raises a very good point. Thank you. Councilmember Pierce. So if we were to have a community meeting, we wouldn't have the benefit of having the, the, the, the, the, the, the consultants. We would have to rely on staff. Is that correct? Manager Those are some of the ground rules that you set with the company that for community meetings that we'd have city staff there. We certainly have the city attorney, but for the meetings that go before the commissions, we're going to pay for Jacobs to be there. That's exactly why I'm voting against this. Councilmember Suvarna. Just to respond to Councilmember Pierce's item. Yes, this body decided that Council District four would host a meeting. However, I had at the conclusion of this item were talking about right now before we move forward on that. And Councilman Ross makes a very good point that we don't have the luxury of having the I guess if we paid $10,000, we could have them at our meeting. There you. Go. Okay. Thank you. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item? Thank you. Please state your name and you have 3 minutes. Hello. My name is Robert McCarthy. Just listening to what is being said here. Does it make sense to me? I'm not a member. Living here in the city. However, maybe I will one day. But then, you know, the decisions that you guys are making are. Are not making sense to me. How can you expect to spend several hundred thousand dollars on a study and then not have an explanation by the people that did the study? It doesn't make sense, you know, to pay any amount of money on for an expert to do their work should come with their explanation without an additional cost. And that would only make sense to, I believe, everybody in the city. I mean, it wouldn't it doesn't. It doesn't. Jive with what's accepted with doing a study of any sort because. You're supposed to have that explanation, and it's supposed to be clear enough so everyone understands it. Who reads it? If it's only that the staff is going to be available to speak on its. Worthiness to the community, then that should have been included in the bid for the study in the first place that the step or any other person who is going to explain it outside of the. Business that did the study. That would be included in their costs, $700,000 for a study. And then you guys think that $20,000 more is. A great thing to do doesn't make sense. Thank you. Thank you. Seeing no further public comment was bringing it back behind the rail. We have Councilman Austin. Thank you. We have one more, please. Is t here any anyone else for public comment? Will seven line up, please? Hi. I've got just two really quick questions. One would be, if you do a project, isn't there a presentation at the end and isn't that included in the cost of the contract? That's one question. One question two is it is very expensive to have people travel. I used to do engineering projects with a team in Korea and a team in Russia, and we would set up video conferences so people could ask questions. We would have whiteboards, we'd have all kinds of things set up so that we could communicate. And if they're an engineering firm and they're doing a very expensive project for you, you do want to know what the conclusions are. And if they can't travel, you could use video conferencing. That's just a possibility. Thank you. Thank you. So we're going to take it back behind the rail. Councilman Austin. Thank you. I do need some clarification as well because in the the the staff documents, it reminds us that on January 19, 2016, we awarded a contract to Jacobs Engineering and the amount not to exceed $349,845 to conduct the work to determine the feasibility of a new fire station here. I guess this death. Did we or did Jacobs engineering expend all of the $349,000? We're for the study. Jess, would you know that? Yes. To date, I think the majority of that has been expended. There are certain amounts to be excuse me, being held back pending finalization of the study. The study is not final. Well, in terms of presenting it to both the commissions and city council. So the presentation to the city council that that was included in the base contract. So that presentation to the full council is part of the 349,000. Should I assume that that's the $10,000 to present to the council? Because essentially we're actually exceed the contract. The contract hasn't been fully we don't know how much of the contract has been been, actually. Expand it to this point, how much we've actually expended toward that that that contract and help you clarify, please. I think I'm I think I'm hearing the director say that the 349 I believe that that that amount has been expended. And we're going to reach that with the completion of the FISA report. And that's why we're here before the city council requesting the additional $20,000. We this is above and beyond the contract. So it doesn't it's not something that we have the authority just to allow, which is why it is on the city council agenda to get permission to expand the $20,000. Otherwise, we want to spend it. Thank you, Councilmember Supernatant. I'd like to thank both public speakers and to the gentleman, you may ask a very good question. And what the public may not realize is that the Council did not decide to take this item to the commissions. So city staff, can you explain that, that we couldn't anticipate making the money available or extending the contract for that because this was not our call to take it to the two commissions? Council Member Yes, that is true, and I apologize for making that, for not making that clear earlier. This is something that came about later as the studies going forward and we're talking to the council and the public after we awarded. We all felt that before it went to the city council, we should bat it out in the community through to appropriate commissions, economic development mission and the Airport Advisory Commission. And again, certainly that's something that those commissions exist for and they certainly should have the opportunity to weigh in on those things. And we added that afterwards. You're correct. Thank you. Seeing no more no further council deliberation? No. The no choking scene. No more council deliberation. Members, please, please cast your ballot. Your vote. Motion carries. Thank motion. All right. Next is item 11. Apart from economic and property development. Recommendation to approve the downtown Long Beach Parking and Business Improvement Area. And you report continuing the assessment for the period of October 1st, 2016 through September 30th, 2017. Districts one and two. Mr. West. Mr. Mayor, council members. This is basically the same concept of business improvement district and it goes to the person who runs those for us out of economic development. Jim Fisk. Honorable Mayor and city council members. This item is the annual approval of a downtown Long Beach parking and business improvement area and report and ongoing assessment. The recommended action on this item continues the assessment for another year. There are no proposed changes to the basis of the assessment, nor significant changes in proposed activities or programs. Therefore, staff requests that City Council receive a supporting documentation of record and approve the recommendation to continue the levy on the assessment and authorize the city manager to extend the agreement for one additional year. That concludes my report. Thank you. That was very expeditious. Councilwoman Gonzalez. I'd also like to thank our partner in the downtown, Craig Cogen, who is here. And I am very excited at all of the great work yet to come, but all of the work that has already happened. I see so many different events. The businesses that we're working on as well. And it's just exciting to see the change in downtown for the better. And I would also be remiss if I didn't mention Jim Fiske, who manages all of these business improvement districts. He does a really great job. And oftentimes we get them coming to the council. And Jim, thank you for all your hard work, too. But, Craig, you're you do a great job and I appreciate you and our communication back and forth. It's it's been great working with you. Vice Mayor Richardson. I just think it's great seeing the bids really step up in the wake of the loss of redevelopment and really just keep the momentum going on the economic development front. So, so Craig, keep up the great work. Thank you. And I also just say Craig, very happy. I think the deal is going a bsolutely in the right direction. And the investments that are happening, the outreach, the the now the downtown Long Beach Alliance. Right. I got to train myself the downtown Long Beach Alliance. And it's focus on our own residents and community I love as well. So great work. Any public comment on this item? Okay. Members, please cast your vote. Councilman Austin. Okay. Thank you. We're going to go now to our second hearing that we have. And so if I can have the clerk, please read the next hearing. Report from Economic and Property Development Recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the hearing. Adopt a resolution continuing the Bixby Knolls Parking and Business Improvement Area Assessment for the period of October 1st, 2016 through September 30th, 2017, and authorize the City Manager to extend the agreement with the Bixby North Business Improvement Association for a one year term. District seven and eight. Thank you, staff, please. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. That staff report will be given by Jim Fisk, our development project manager. Honorable Mayor and City Council Members. This item is the annual approval of the Bixby Knolls Parking Business Improvement Area and report and ongoing assessment. On September 20, 2016, City Council approved a resolution granting approval of the annual report and set today's date for the public hearing. The recommended action on this item continues the assessment for another year. There are no proposed changes to the basis of assessment nor significant changes in approach and proposed activity. Therefore, staff requests City Council received a supporting documentation of record. Approve the resolution. Continue the levy of the assessment and authorize the city manager to extend the agreement for one additional year. That concludes my report. Thank you. With that, we're going to go ahead and did there's nothing additional from economic development, correct? That was it. I mean, note that said that maybe this McDermott was going to say something. Is that not correct? I know. I think that's the some of our staff report. Okay, great. I'm gonna go on to public comments. Any public comment on this issue? Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Council members. I would take more than 3 minutes to talk about what's happened in rolls over the last year, so I'm just gonna give the top line of what's happened here first. We've welcomed over 70 new businesses in the last year, which we're very pleased with covering from services to retail and restaurants. We saw Trader Joe's move into the north shopping center, which is now full of tenants Crunch Fitness, Jersey, Mike's, Tripoli Pizza, Verizon and Pet Food Express. The current retail store from Goodwill called Ed and James will take the Trader Joe's space and open on the first of the year. Last night, our new restaurant, Russell Bok, opened Dutchess Brewhouse, opened the week before the pan, and Lola's restaurants have some of the largest draws in. The Neigh borhood Liberation Brewing Company has started its demo and the highly anticipated steel craft will open soon. We received we got new markets in the district. I own Pacific Aldi will open in December. Smart and Final will be here just after the first of the year for retail tweaking will open their second store shown to a good second store. Covent Lane will open just down the street from Steal Craft and the merchant will be a new bakery in the neighborhood. A new post office is built out and we're waiting for the grand opening date for that. On the street we are continuing with our facade improvement programs, painting facades and our clean and safe line items remains a priority. That means we continue with our security patrols five nights a week and during the days as well. And currently we're working with ten business owners for the installation installation of safety lights at their property because it's very important that the corridors, front back are lit up and safe for everybody. Our events continue with concerts in the parking lots, grand openings, anniversaries. We have our business breakfast to bring our members together and share relevant resources. Are we a walkable neighborhood? Community, yes. The fictional stories have been walking together for almost nine years now, and there are two new running running clubs that have been formed in the neighborhood. Are we bikeable? Yes, indeed. We've been teaching kids and families bike safety for four years with our monthly critical mass bike rides for reading and literature. Our literacy society has 105 books strong and we will have a drink together each month at a good spirits club. But one of the biggest milestones for this year will be that First Fridays will celebrate its 10th anniversary next month. We've used arts really as a catalyst to spark the economic development in our district, and it's our strongest economic development driver. Some businesses will pay the rent for the whole month just on one night and they look forward to it each month. And we look at it really as as the monthly showcase for the district. We've included everybody from Public Works who installed a temporary separate bike lane this year to the council offices, senator, lawyers office, the city auditor, the airport rentals, retailers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, area nonprofits and our schools and churches. It's really a family friendly community building event. It builds neighborhood pride, and it's the best business showcase. And you can bet that in November we'll have just as much of our surprises and tricks up our sleeves as we normally do. But we don't do it alone. We have to think, of course, the support we get from the council offices for the seventh and eighth. Again, thank you very much for opening the doors and kind of letting us do what we do. Support from the mayor, mayor's office and city managers. All the help we get from public works, environmental services, LAPD, which fire all of our community partne rs, my board who helps drive the momentum and progress in the neighborhood. And of course, all of our business owners who work hard every day to serve the community. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Austin. Well, thank you very much. And thank you, Blair, for that summary. You've summed up quite a bit in a 3 minutes. And pretty amazed that you were able to do that because, you know, the Business Improvement Association is doing a fantastic job and does so much to to enhance the character, not only of the businesses, but both our major corridors and Long Beach Boulevard and, of course, Atlantic Avenue. I can tell you that it has been a pleasure over the last four plus years that I have been in office to work with the BCP. I do see them as an extension of the eighth district office in many ways. They are truly partners in every sense of the word. And it is, Blair mentioned, full of surprises. I'm and I say that seriously. It's good to see you in a suit and tie today. Blair, you look very distinguished. And I also see your family here, your beautiful wife, Eliza, and Marlee, who is well known across the city. I am static with the results and the continued progress that we have with in Bixby Knolls, thanks to the Bixby. And so I certainly stand in support of the motion to receive and file this documentation into the record and to extend the agreement with the Bixby notes Business Improvement Association for a one year term. I will just say that Bixby knows we've talked and for many years that it would be really nice to to borrow what we have in that community and move it across the city and across the region and in other places. Just yesterday was in an office and there were a couple of commissioners from the City of Compton who were interested in, you know, doing an art walk, emulating what is happening in Bixby Knolls and so many others across the city have emulated. We often jest and say, you know, we're often imitated but never duplicated. But but we're willing to share because it does build a strong sense of community when you have a good, thriving business district, business improvement district that has strong business support and community support as well. And so, again, I would encourage your support for this. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Ringo. Thank you. I think Councilmember Austin said it all in about 5 minutes. Yeah. All I had to say is you're looking great. Make it look good in the suit. More often, man. You know you are running a business, this great business, man. And I see Marty was very anxious to say a few words while you were up here talking and you were looking over your shoulder like, Oh, she's coming down , but you got a great, wonderful family, very much engaged. And I support wholeheartedly the receipt of our motion that Councilmember Austin is a push forward and looking forward to see more events in the near future. Thank you. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. I just wanted to say congratulations on all the amazing work I know my council colleague Al Austin is always parading about all of the the fantastic work that you all do. And so it's great to have the synergy from downtown all the way up to Bixby. I go to a lot of those shops up there and spend a lot of money that I probably shouldn't. But it's exciting to support local business both in downtown and in Bixby. Don't give me that look, Craig, but congratulations. Thank you. Thank you. Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you. I just want to say I'm honored to support this tonight. I've seen this transition from I was actually as a college student. I worked at Genesis Motorsports. That was on Atlantic Avenue directly across from the the Cold Stones back then. And just to see that transition from, you know, what it was like back in, say, 2000 to 2003 to today is just fantastic. So I just want to say, I'm you know, this is this is great. I mean, it's just amazing. And I tend to agree. If you could just bottle up Blair Cone and just just take him all over town, that would be fantastic. Thank you. Hey, Blair. Mr. Cohen, you're. I think, obviously, we're all big supporters of you. And I want to just recognize the work you do, not just obviously in the Bixby area, but your work with Kobe. I know you're sitting next year, Kobe partner in crime there next to you. And I think your your work in developing a really new voice for the business community, which is much more community centered and really thinks about bringing community together. It's been really great and I think welcome for the city of Long Beach. And so congratulations on all the success. Obviously, I know I know that you that in many ways it's a it's like an orchestra. There's a lot of moving players out there, a lot of businesses. The council office I know Councilman Austin is always talking about Bixby Knolls, but there's a lot of people up there that are the small business owners who have done so much to kind of roll up their sleeves and fix the street up. So thank you for all you do. And I want to also just take a minute to just say thank you to our staff that work with the associations. A lot of you look at Bixby Knolls and the success. We're also looking at a successful use of tax dollars. And so all those investments, those infrastructure investments, those investments on the street are all because I think we've wisely used the the revenue, not just from the businesses but from the city to improve a neighborhood. And that's what really what what this is all about. So congratulations to you. Congratulations to Councilman Austin. I wanted to make sure I spoke longer than Councilman Austin, which is why. I'm just kidding. I'm just making a bad joke. So with that, we're going to go ahead and take a vote. I'm trying to keep up with Councilmember Price. Motion carries. Thank motion. All right. Next is item 11. Motion carries. Thank you. Adopt resolution authorizing the Director of Development Services to submit a Zoning Code Amendment and local coastal program am endment to the California Coastal Commission for approval and accept categorical exemptions. C 16 211 and see 16 two two for citywide. Members, please go out and cast your votes. Motion carries. Thank you. I think there was all five. Correct. Okay, great. Thank you. So we're done with hearing number two. We're going to go ahead. And before we begin the regular agenda meeting, we do have a pet adoption, which we're going to go ahead and do. So please come forward and tell us about who we have. Hello. Oh. Privately. So this is Tarzan. He's a great domestic shorthair, four month old kitten. He is already neutered and. Microchipped, and he'll be available tomorrow at 10:00 at the SPCA, L.A. waiting for his forever home. Okay, so let's find this little guy. A little home. Thank you. Thank you. What's your name again? Tarzan and Tarzan with the name. Right. Okay. Available starting tomorrow. Okay. Thank you. If I can get a motion in a second for consent calendar. Motion carries. Thank you. Please, if we can just go on to hearing number two. Report from Development Services recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record, conclude the public hearing and consider the appeal by warm Lisowski and Long Beach Citizens for Fair Development and uphold the Planning Commission's decision to approve it. Approve an addendum to the Shoreline Gateway Environmental Impact Report and approve a modification to site plan review to allow a 35 storey mixed use building with 315 residential units and 6711 square feet of retail restaurant space, previously approved for 221 residential units and 6367 square feet of retail restaurant space as part of the Shoreline Gateway Master Plan to be constructed on a vacant parcel located at 77 seven East Ocean Boulevard District two and authors required. See City clerk. Go ahead with the oath, please. Okay. Anyone who's going to speak on this, please raise your right hand. You and each of you, do you solemnly state that the testimony you may give in the cause now and pending before this body shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God. Thank you. Let's go ahead and turn it over to staff. Mayor, members of the city council providing the report today will be Linda Tatum, planning bureau manager and Christopher Koontz advance planning officer. Good evening, Mayor, and members. Of the Council. I'm pleased to present to you this project. Called the Shoreline Gateway Project. This is phase two of a master planned project. The project site is located at 777 East Ocean Boulevard, and that's on the corner of Ocean Boulevard and Alamitos Avenue. It is also located within the city's PD 30 downtown plan. And for just for context, it is diagonally north and west of the Villa Riviera project and other towers in the area are the International Tower and the Current. This project is part of the. Shoreline Shoreline Gateway Master Plan. This project was originally approved by the city's Planning Com mission in 2007. The West Tower of this project, called The Current IS has now been constructed and is under occupancy. The East Tower, which is the subject. Power, the subject tower for tonight's discussion, was also approved by the Planning Commission, and that approval included a tentative track map for condominiums for this project, as well as an administrative use permit which allows. Shared parking between the two towers of this project. The site upon which. The tower will be built is. Currently vacant and is now used for parking. Just to familiarize you with the site plan. Vehicle access to the project will be from Medio Street. That is the first street in the north and parallel to Ocean Boulevard. The site is the project will be developed with a five level subterranean parking garage that has 458 spaces. Pedestrian access to the project is from a public plaza that shared. Between the two towers. And the project will be designed with retail on the ground floor, with the residences above. And the retail has been designed so that it faces both Ocean Boulevard and the Alameda Street corridor. The site is lushly landscaped with street trees and other rich landscape plantings. Let's talk a little. Bit about the project proposal. The details of the project is that it was approved with. 221 condominium units, and that also. Includes 6300 square feet of. Retail and restaurant space. The project is intended to complement other developments within the PD 30, which call for a mixed use project that provide a restaurants and retail and other commercial establishments to service not only restaurants, but generally the population of the greater downtown area. The modification of this project. Which has been requested as a part of this approval or is a part of the Planning Commission approval was to increase. The number of condominium units in the project by 94 units and also a total of four, a total of 315 units in the project and that's within 67 100 square feet of residential area. The previously approved project was 35 storeys in height and that will not change to arm. This project is at 35 storeys, approximately 417 feet in height, and that this is not any change from the previously approved height of the project. Briefly. Some of the project amenities include a common open space area on the project, both a podium level garden and open space area. There is also a roof deck, an approximately 8300 square. Feet of roof deck. There are also common indoor. Com. An indoor open. Space area is inclusive of two community rooms. And lounges. And that's in about 7300 square feet of common indoor open space area. That also includes a 2200. Square foot gym. Rooftop pool and spa. And the. Project has. About 93% of the total units in the project, which come in a range of sizes, but they are mostly about 93% of them have private balconies. Briefly to the building design, the the. Tower is designed. To represent a a sale of the mass of a sail, a very graceful curvat ure of the building accented by the balconies. The exterior materials of the building are primarily glass, but it does have bird safe glazing on the windows and the concrete slabs that give you the vertical elements of the building. It very nicely complements the existing current building in both in terms of the design and the materials of the project. This design, as I mentioned before, is not changed from the previously approved project in height or in design. I would also note that in terms of the project's parking, the height. The setback requirements. And all of the other PD 30 or the downtown plan requirements have been met within this project. As a matter of fact, the project exceeds the parking by 50 approximately 58 parking spaces. I'd like to turn briefly to the environmental issues on the project. The project, as I mentioned earlier, previously, had a certified EIA back in 2006. And in 2007 the project changed slightly and had a supplemental air that was also. Certified for this project with the requested. Change in the addition of units, an initial study checklist was proposed or was conducted, and the purpose of that checklist. Was. To look at each one of the 18. Categories of potential impacts to determine if there were any additional impacts. And that was done due to the unit and the square footage increase. What did occur was the consultant looked at excuse me, they prepared updated traffic studies, NOI studies, air quality. Analysis and greenhouse. Gas emissions for the project. So those were the extent of the technical studies that were prepared. In the basis of. Those studies fundamentally determined that there were no additional significant project impacts. And the basis of these studies. Was the cities or the the decision to proceed with an ER addendum and because. The studies demonstrated. That no significant impacts were going to be resulting from the addition of the 94 units. The addendum was the choice that was made in terms. Of pursuing the. Environmental determination and seek what does allow this when no additional significant effects can be determined? In summary, I'd like to just note that the Planning. Commission hearing on October 26. 26 or. October 20th, 2016. The Planning Commission conducted a public hearing on this. Project, and they unanimously voted to approve the project. They certified the Environmental Impact Report Addendum. They also approved the the site plan review. Modification for the project. And I would note that during the public hearing there was there. Were. There were residents or members of the public that. Spoke against the project. But there were a substantial number of supporters of the project. Both residents, business. Owners, as well as the. Local business associations came out to support the project. I'd just like to briefly note that the appeal of this project. By a third party, Mr. Warren Plus AFC, he's an individual as well as representing a group called the Citizens for Fair Lo ng Beach Development, they said. They cited the grounds for the appeal as the improper use of an ER addendum and because the planning commission was the deliberative body, an approval body for the those actions that I noted earlier. The City Council by. By our code is slated to hear the appeal. However, Planning Commission. Decided to. Approve the project and in closing, staff recommends that the City Council uphold the Planning Commission recommendation. To deny they. Deny the appeal and to uphold the Planning Commission's decision to approve. The project. And also to certify the previously certified addendum to the Environmental Impact Report, as well as the site plan review application to allow the. 35 storey mixed use project with. 315 units and 6700 square feet of retail residential space. This project completely complies with all of the city's development standards and the environmental impact reported. Denim was appropriately prepared in conformance with sequel requirements. That concludes today's presentation. And we have staff available as well as the city's traffic engineer, to answer any questions. Regarding the project or the environmental document. Thank you. With that. Before we get to the council, I want I know there's a few folks that that raise your hand took the oath, did some public comment. So let me go to the public comment for the hearing and then we'll go to the city council. So if you have public comment. Well, hold on 1/2 before we go. If we have public comment, we're going to go line up after the I believe the appellant goes first. Let's go first. Okay. So if we can, please have the appellant, please come first. M city attorney believe that a reasonable amount of time, if they want, is up to 10 minutes. That's correct. Okay. And then everyone else will get 3 minutes of public comment. So please. Hi. Thanks for having me here tonight. Thanks for taking this appeal. And I just want to introduce myself. My name is Warren Lisowski. I represent myself personally as well as Long Beach Citizens for Fair Development. I'd like to start out tonight by addressing a couple of the concerns I had with the staff's oral report tonight. She stated that the original EIA that was approved changed slightly when they created the supplemental air, I believe it was in 2008. That originally was, I believe, a 21 or 22 storey tower. The West Tower changed to a 35. So calling that a slight change, I think is a little bit of a misrepresentation. And also, I just wanted to note the term no significant impacts because that's going to be a theme tonight as we review the school guidelines and how the city has addressed how to proceed here. So let me just start out by saying that. We're here to establish ourselves as an aggrieved status. One of the ways that we become aggrieved is to register our objections with the City Council and then come and speak here for or against that particular approval in a hearing. I just wanted to go ahead and make the point that this hearing would not be happening here tonight if we had not made the appeal. The city was fine with the developer to just push this through the planning commission and never have this come up at full council. So I just wanted to know the fact that this may seem like a normal approval process, but it was only due to the objections of some stakeholders that we are now going through the appeal. So we feel that the city is colluding with the developer in attempting to make what are significant changes to this project with significant impacts to the environment to the environment without environmental impact report is a violation of California Code 15162, which governs subsequent environmental impact reports. So I just want to make a couple points as to why the site plan, revision and addendum to the EIA should not be approved. And in fact, it just popped into my mind while staff was speaking that most of the focus has been on the environmental review. But we should also note that in revising the site plan review, that that I believe falls outside of environmental law. And so, you know, there's a lot of emphasis being placed on what are the effects of the environment and is the city and the developer following the law in terms of environmental review. But I just wanted to put it out there that by significantly changing the site plan, the Planning Commission had an opportunity to really let the stakeholders and community members review the changes that were being made to see what best suited not only the environmental regulation, but also what's best for downtown Long Beach residents. So just a couple key points here on the supplemental addendum to the EIA. The project was approved as a condominium and I believe both of the towers were approved as condominiums. And it sounds like from the developer's testimony at the Planning Commission that these are going to be used as apartments. I might be mistaken, but I think there's some evidence that the environmental impact of a rental high rise is possibly different than an owner owned condominium development. Number two, the change in the number of units. The developers proposing to change the number of units from, I believe, 221 to 315. If you do some simple arithmetic, you will find that this is a 40% increase in the number of units. When we look at the supplement to the EIR that the staff has accepted from the developer and I believe it was Rincon consultants, you'll find that 18 categories of environmental impact with something like 100 subcategories have all been determined to have no significant impact. Now, let's just think about that logically for a moment. If you have 220 some units and now you have 315 units, an increase of over 40%, I think it would be logical even for a child to understand that this will have significant impact on traffic, parking, ingress and egress of the building. Regardless of what staff might say and the developer about the parking being overstated by 67. S ome units, parking is in fact understated, depending on how you count by 2 to 300 spaces. Also number four, I'd like to bring up the administrative permit for these shared commercial and guest spaces that was issued in 2007. I don't know how many of you used to live in downtown Long Beach or use any of the businesses parking in downtown Long Beach. But. Shared commercial and guest spaces is just not it's not going to work. And this administrative permit that was issued in 2007, which is now almost ten years old, the downtown parking plan requirements have changed since then. The densities and ratios have changed. And I saw no evidence that the staff or the developer or the consultants had addressed the issue of the change in the code and if the administrative permit is still valid. At the Planning Commission meeting, staff stated that because the developer used a tentative condominium map that there is indefinite extensions under state law for both the administrative use permit as well as the tentative condo maps. I find no evidence of that under state law that a tentative condominium map would result in an administrative use permit being extended indefinitely. So. Basically to summarize, it appears that staff and the developer, with the help of their consultants, have, quote unquote, backed into the result they wanted. They wanted to make significant changes to the building. The environmental code says that if there's no significant impacts, that there's no new air is needed. And surprisingly, they have a 35 page report with over 150 different sub items, all resulting in exactly that result, no significant impacts. That's very suspect on its own. Finally, I just wanted to wrap up with the history of this project. It was originally approved at, I believe, a 21 or 22 storey towers. There was a subsequent amended E-R that was issued later and now. So it has grown from a 21 storeys to 35 with 220, 221 units now to 35 storeys with over 300 units. You can see how the city approves one project. And then over a ten year period the project changed and grows. This is called piece meal and it does not give the stakeholders an opportunity to properly see how these developments are going to affect the community. Also, I believe that each of these should not stand alone. They should be looked at as a whole per the school guidelines. And so just to wrap up, I see a couple of paths forward. I spoke here a couple of months ago about a different project. I told the city council that I've been a long time Long Beach resident. I feel that you never listen to public comments. The votes are almost all unanimously rubber stamped eight to nothing, and that I feel that the only thing that the city listens to is litigation. And so I see two paths forward. We can go back, we can accept this appeal. We can make the developer go back and follow the law just like everyone else has to follow the law. Or we can once again litigate, which we're prepared to do. So if you g uys have any questions for me, I'm sure you don't. I'd be happy to answer them. And with that, we'll wrap up. I'll stick around for the rest of the hearing. Maybe we'll have some surprise tonight, but I appreciate your time. This is sincerely an important issue to me and many other of the residents of Long Beach. And so thank you for your time. Thank you. And now we're going to go ahead and have the public comment, please. So this is for 3 minutes each. So please come forward if you're doing public comment on this issue. And yes, so please come forward. My name is and Prophet. I've been a resident of Long Beach since 1975 and a homeowner in the East Village for more than seven years. I also used to own a home in Belmont Heights, and I'd like to congratulate the Planning Commission and City Council for running once again, showing callous disregard for citizens quality of life. Last month, the Planning Commission rubber stamp the sea, towered ocean and Alamitos. Even though the project is added 13 stories, 94 units and only added 65 parking spaces. How delightful. That does not conform to the horrid downtown plan and needs a new air and secure observation. Obviously, neither Council nor Planning Commission is thinking about the current residents of the East Village Arts District, where ponds do your desire for more people, more density, less light, less air, and insufficient infrastructure for incoming residents? Less parking, of course. I know nothing I say will have any meaning for you, but I ask you to consider the needs of the people currently living here. It's not right to dismiss us as chattel. The West Tower of this complex was approved as a very, very different building from what was constructed. It was supposed to be life like the one that you're going to construct later. No doubt the contractor will flimflam the city once again, send envelopes and make it just as ugly as the West Tower. So once again your callously disregard my comments as you always do, and act in your own benefit. Since none of you live in the East Village. You don't have a clue of the harm that you're causing. But you will once all of this is done, because we're all going to commission for diminished value of our properties, because that's what's going to happen to all of us that surround this area. Thank you. Next speaker, please sit down. Jim. Danno. I live at 539 Daisy Avenue. Do we have any white sage? Because I'm here to support this project. I think it's a fantastic project. The developer's done a great job. Ten years ago, Long Beach was not the city we are right now. Thank goodness we're starting to see some skyscrapers and cranes in our skylines. We need some density. I personally see the maintenance issues on the city on a daily basis. We need people that are going to be living here. More units are better for us. I'm glad that they've switched from whatever it was, 200 condos to 300 apartments where more people can come in and enjoy our city. It's a it's a won derful development. I support it wholeheartedly. I know local businesses here support it. They need people here to support the ideal that we're trying to have in downtown. Thank you very much. Appreciate you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hello, I'm Joel Weinstein. I live in the eighth district. I'm speaking on behalf of myself and on behalf of members of citizens about responsible planning whom you may have learned recently had a favorable settlement with the developer with the Riverwalk project. A little over a year ago. We were here to oppose that project, not because we're opposed to density per say in every place, not because we're opposed to development, but because we want good development in the right place. And because we want to see. The laws of the state of California, which, after all, is what charters the city of Long Beach. We want to see those laws upheld. We don't want to see scofflaw try to cut corners on the law. Behavior by our city council. But that's what we got a year ago. For example, you approved a new zoning for Riverwalk, which did not exist and could not legally have existed until a week after you approved the project. It just didn't make any sense. Why not do things in the proper order? Take a little more time if it's even more time at all and do it right. We have a situation like that here. Here is an air which is almost ten years old, refers really to a different project. The right thing to do is to do an air that actually refers to the parameters of this project. Well, in place of that, there is this proposed addendum that allegedly finds no significant impacts. Our number 100 category. Well, you know, whatever you ever note about the straw that breaks camel's back, each little bit of straw has no significant impact together. Its tremendous impact. Let me take one example. That is carefully elided over into so-called no significant impacts. And by the way, the addendum tries to use qualitative language when in fact the big impact is that every single impact is going to be an impact on or by 94 additional units. How many of you have ever been trapped in a tower? Lights off because an earthquake has just disrupted the power. How are you going to clear a building with 94 additional units? I have been in that situation and to my good luck, I was not 35 storeys up or even 18 storeys up. I was only five storeys up. I can tell you that even if the building is pronounced safe by the engineers, you're not going to want to stay there. And the emergency services that allegedly exist. Thank you so much. Not will exist on paper. Just see how well they perform. Thank you so much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Yes. My name is Jess Johansen, 700 East Ocean Boulevard. I've been a homeowner at the International Tower for 14 years. I'm here in support of the project. I think it's fantastic for the neighborhood. I remember when it was a different project, but over the years, which has been quite a few, you know, there h ave been changes and I think they've all been for the better. Obviously it seems like the focus has been on the increase of the number of units, but from what I understand of the real estate environment these days, I mean, that is kind of the the way things are. I mean, you are getting smaller units. So affordability is still available for as many that can possibly buy or rent in a tower like this. Long Beach should be very proud to have a developer who wants to erect a tower like this. I'm still lamenting the fact that Lennar decided to give up their tower and go with a box for the ocean air. I think that's unfortunate. This not to trash them. But the point is, I think we have a fantastic opportunity with seven, seven, seven tower. I bought it International Tower because that was an iconic tower. I'm excited to be across the street from the Village Riviera, another iconic tower. And I'm looking forward to the time when we have seven, seven, seven tower complementing the corner of shoreline and ocean. So with that, again, you have my support and I would encourage you to follow through with the approval that the Planning Commission made and allow the developers to move forward with the project. Thanks. Thank you. Next beacon, please. Yes, my name is Rick Hopper. I'm the chief information officer for Molina Health Care here in Long Beach. Molina currently has over 8500 employees that work in Long Beach. Personally, I moved to Long Beach two years ago and a year ago I purchased a condominium for my mother here. It's a wonderful area. I work on Sixth and Pine in the old Meeker Baker building and Seventh and Pine and I have almost 800 full time employees in those facilities. Many of them live in Long Beach. I'm looking at opportunities to continue to attract more employees here. And the more housing we have, the better. I think you've built a beautiful building with the current and very much in favor for this project. So thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. Thank you. My name is Jane Netherton, and I'm not representing a company or a group, but I'm here as an individual who has watched this project from inception. I was on Redevelopment Agency looking at what we wanted to do in the downtown with the community, wanted to do and what the spirits told us they wanted in the downtown in this project was everything we had hoped it would be. It took a long time to get it going. And I'm here to talk not about the square or the air, because what the staff is has documented and that is appropriate. I've looked at a lot of ERs during my redevelopment days, and even now looking at it through the Oversight Commission that I sit on, what I'm here to talk about is the developer, the integrity, the developer, the stamina of the developer who from 2004 on went to the public constantly to find out what it was they wanted , what they didn't like, what he could change to make them happy. You know, you might block the sun for 35 minutes if you put a buildin g up. There's just too many things you can go through to say why you shouldn't do something. However, he stuck with it oh, eight, nine tough times. He stuck with it. He could have walked away.

He didn't walk away. And he got very involved in the downtown, actually recommended him to be on the downtown Long Beach Associates board, which he did, and then ended up being chair for either two or four years. So he was very involved in what went on downtown and very passionate about the downtown. He does what he says he's going to do. He carries forward great partner. Led court came along. I must say that not only was I redevelopment, but I did an interim financing for the project through International City Bank. But led court to me just said, Hey, this is a great project I want to be involved in as well. And I think it just showed the strength of the project 2000 2016 and he has 75% occupancy in a building that hasn't even been open a year. That tells us that there is a need for the for the project. There is a need for that for the units. The more people we have downtown, the livelier downtown is going to be. And we have businesses coming in. We need to have housing for them. So I just think the developer is a stand up developer follows follows the guidelines and I would urge the council to approve the project. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. But I close the speakers list, so. Okay. Mr.. Good to hear the final speaker. Good evening. My name is James Sullivan. I reside at the Villa Riviera at 800 East Ocean Boulevard. I actually own there as well. I've been an owner for nearly 14 years. I owned more than one unit. And I also some of the previous speakers have kind of stolen what I was going to say. So I'll just echo what Mr. Netherton said. The builder came and was very, very responsive and open with our homeowners association. I was president of the board back when they first started proposing this. They were very receptive to what all of the owners had to say. And our comments and it's reflected in the project that we see today. I'd also like to echo what one of my neighbors at the International Tower said. I do. This is another iconic building. It's going to fit very nicely, I believe, with the nature of that intersection. And I look forward to it. And I urge the council to uphold what has already been approved. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Members of the. Council. My name is Craig Cogen with the downtown Long Beach Alliance. We're here in support of the project for the same reasons that we've supported this project since day one, spanning over ten years. We have included those reasons and our public letter of support that we'll provide to the city clerk and certainly look forward to your support this evening as well. Thank you. Thank you. And finally, you're good to. Very good. You click as the address. As I see this. This Council is presented with a very rare opportunity that very few co uncils. They find themselves in this situation they're in are presented with. You have a chance. To try to mitigate or ameliorate. The disastrous decision you made relative to urinating away near $9,000,900 million or whatever the figure is for the $100 million for the new city hall. Following a paradigm that almost bankrupt the California state judicial system. My suggestion is you look at this project. And look at it not as the. It's presented now, but it is an opportunity to relocate the city hall. In that structure period. You've got the parking. You've got the building. You know, it's you're going to have to make the requisite arrangements with the developer, do the mea culpa and try to salvage as much as you can. But this you. To pass up this opportunity really would be an indictment. Of this council that will last forever. You represented you made a mistake. You lacked the character as a council to step up to it. And again, as if my information is correct, you were told in a closed session that aside from the elevators. Structurally there's nothing wrong. There's no great earthquake, that potential damage to this building. You've got an opportunity to correct that mistake. I would suggest you lay this over. And review the option that I suggested. Thank you. Q That concludes public comment. At this time, I'm going to give the appellant, if you want a couple minutes to say anything else at the close if if you didn't say. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Just one thing. I just wanted to say that we're not against development. We're not against density. We're not against the general plan. We just want the city to follow the law. If I jaywalk, I get a ticket, I pay the fine, and the city runs roughshod around environmental guidelines. So follow the law and we won't have this issue. It's not that hard. We know why the developer doesn't want to do it. The Environmental Impact Report probably cost four or $500,000. So don't facilitate the developers circumventing the law. The law is there for a reason. We follow it for a reason. One more thing. There was a big court case from the Supreme Court on just this issue that came down last month, and it didn't really clear up the issue very much. The one thing it did clear up is that the standard possibly was changed a bit. And you don't have to do a new air just because you've made small changes. But if there's significant changes, you do need to do it the air. And that's exactly what situation we're in. So thanks so much for having me. Those final comments. Appreciate it. Thank you. With that, we're going to conclude the comments with the public hearing and go back to the city council. Councilmember Pierce.

Thank you. I really want to first just get a question out of the way before I share my remarks. City Attorney Are we following the law? Yes. Thank you. I would like to very much thank the people at Anderson Pacific for their diligent work on this. This has been a project that's been 12 years in the making with literally hundreds of neighborhood meetings, a thorough review by Development Services, Planning Commission and secret process. One of the biggest concerns for my district, of course, is about process over development and parking. But this project is not that the developers have made sure that the Shoreline Gateway provides community benefits. They've created a temporary park that will become permanent, which provides much needed green space in our district and a path to the beach. We've also included on the lobby floor they've included public space with public art, which is accessible to everyone to come through. Although the city parking requirement is different in the downtown plan, when they've increased the units in this development, they've also increased the number of parking units. My understanding is roughly around one per bedroom, which is more than the downtown plan. And so when constituents ask about parking, this obviously is the first thing. And I think they've gone above and beyond what the downtown plan has requested. In their first building, the current was LEED certified Silver Tower in Long Beach and Shoreline Gateway will be the first LEED Neighborhood Development Gold Project in the city of Long Beach. They're bringing more good paying jobs to Long Beach by committing to pay their workers prevailing wage. And Shoreline Gateway is just that gateway from east side of Long Beach that welcomes people into our downtown. It will act as a catalyst for the East Village and these pieces of land that have remained dormant for decades. Shoreline Gateway continues to be the goal of creating a good, walkable, livable city. And I look forward to continued development in downtown. I think we've done a great job about that challenge we had with enough market rate housing in downtown. And so I see this is one of those projects that continues to do that, knowing that future developments. You know, we will obviously have conversations around diverse housing options in downtown and throughout my district. But tonight, I really want to make sure that my community knows that I've had I have a big stack of letters in support of this project, and I have two letters opposed to this project. And so definitely when thinking about community support and where community is on an issue, that's something that's really important to me. And so I want to ask my colleagues to deny the appeal and to support moving forward with this project. Thank you so much. Okay. And that's the motion, Councilwoman Gonzales. Yes. I also would like to just copy the sentiments of my my colleague, council member Pearce. I think what she said is definitely true. I know many of her residents have been in support, have had many discussions and community meetings. I want to thank Anderson Pacific Development staff as well as our planning commission as well. And I know when we look at many of these being the other half of downtown, if you will, we look at what is going to creat e a new wave of urban living growing. I'm a downtown resident myself. I think myself along with the mayor downtown residents. We love being there. It is where we raise our families. It is where we patron many of our local businesses. And it's where I hope to continue raising my families and growing many different opportunities there. And when we are looking at projects, we're not just looking them at looking at them solely just as a project, but building a place that creates an atmosphere as this would also transit. We have to think about that as well. Transit oriented development when we're looking at development and growing demand for walkable, bikeable cities, which I think this exactly exudes. So thank you so much for this. I support the denial of the appeal and also Councilmember Pearce's comments. Thank you. Thank you. And I just want to just briefly, you know, I think it's no surprise I'm a huge supporter of this project. I've been supportive of this project ever since I first heard about it. And I probably attended, you know, half a dozen meetings as a as a local downtown resident who had just bought a, you know, a place downtown and wanted to get involved and wanted to learn about what was going on. And so I just want to I know this is in some ways, a conclusion of the of some of this process. And I just wanted to thank, you know, Jim, Jane, Ryan, Craig, everyone that's been involved in this. Thank you for the dozens and dozens of community meetings that you all hosted to get public input on this project over the course of all those years. And this is we need more housing of all kinds, but we also need more housing for for people that want to work. One of the things I hear all the time from the engineers at Virgin Galactic and the people that are that are moving in over at Douglas Park is how difficult it is for them to to find homes or apartments in Long Beach. And so this is going to provide another opportunity. And I want to just thank you for a stellar project. And we'll also, by the way, be the tallest tower in the city of Long Beach when completed. So that is also, I think, something to be very. Proud. And so, Mr. City attorney. In there, I just wanted for the record to make sure that the Council understood that the approval of this motion includes approving the addendum, approving the site plan, review modification as described by staff, and the increase in the various numbers that were presented in the staff report and the recommended action. Thank you, Councilman Pierce. Perfect. Okay, so there is a motion in a second on that. Please cast your votes. Lucian Karis. Thank you. Motion. Okay. Motion. Pass around. Good. Thank you. A little slow. Let's go ahead and have our number 15 clerk please read. Communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilmember Pearce Council member, super nor council member. Your UNGA recommendation to request the city attorney to draft a resolution in support of the efforts of the Standing Rock Sioux T ribe and their allies opposing the construction of the Dakota Access pipeline. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. Thank you all for being very patient. We appreciate it. And I want to thank my colleagues, especially the colleagues who supported this item, Councilmember Pearce, Councilmember Muranga and Councilmember Supernova. We've all watched the news, of course, over the past couple of months, the Standing Rock, the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe and thousands of people from around the country have joined in protesting the Dakota Access pipeline, which would disturb the tribe's water, fresh water supply and over to over 200 rivers, creeks, tributaries, soil and, of course, sacred land. Tonight, with the passage of this item, we will join with many other cities around the country declaring our support for Standing Rock, including Seattle, Saint Louis and many others, and telling the federal government that protecting sacred ground and maintaining access to clean water is, is and should be the priority over private interests. And I want to be clear. This protest and fight is not just about oil. It is about respect for indigenous communities and respect for the rights of the treaties that were signed with this tribe nearly 150 years ago. Over the weekend, yes. And over the weekend, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said it would seek alternative routes for the pipeline. And while this is great, certainly it is just a start, but it is not binding at this time. And considering the the approach of the new administration that will take office in a little over a month, we need to ensure that our voice is heard very loud and very clear here in the city of Long Beach. And so I think, again, my colleagues, I hope my other colleagues will come in support. I think the community for coming together on this. I heard loud and clear through Facebook and emails, through many of my council colleagues who are really passionate about this issue. And some people said, well, why are you why do you even care what's happening in North Dakota? Well, we do care. And there's a lot to consider that may or may not and possibly could happen here in our own home. So we have to care about others, don't we? So, again, thank everybody for being here. Appreciate the patience and the time and I hope my colleagues will support. Thank you. Thank you, Councilmember Pearce. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. And thank you to Sandra Acosta and the rest of the folks who brought forward this resolution and all those that have been active through this. As was mentioned, activists of Standing Rock won a huge victory on Sunday when the Army Corps denied the permit that was needed for the pipeline to undergo dam's selection of the Missouri River called Lake Ahu. And I know I probably butchered that name. I'm sorry. This is the result of thousands of committed activists who braved the North Dakota winter to stand up for their rights, their land and their drinking water. They were met with disproportionate use of force in substandard freezing temperatures, tear gas, rubber bullets and even grenades. Yet they still remained strong. The Obama administration has sent a strong message that any future projects such as this must take into account serious consideration the impacts that it will have on their communities and our environment. Tonight, we're here to celebrate the hard earned victory, but also acknowledge that the fight is not over. With a new administration on the horizon, we must stay vigilant in our support for Standing Sioux Tribe. I ask my colleagues to join me in support of this resolution. It's a first step. It's a right step, and it's a step to say that we are connected, whether we're in Long Beach in California or somewhere else, on the anywhere that we have to stand together and we have to support what's morally right and what's the smart kind of policies to move forward. And again, I thank you all for your courage. And I implore our council to stand with us tonight. Thank you. Thank you. Any public comment on this item? Okay. I'm counting.

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17. So here's what I'm going to recommend. We're going to instead of 3 minutes, we're going to go down to 2 minutes. And if you and I encourage you, if someone has said the point already, you don't have to reinforce that point. So we can make sure everyone has an opportunity to speak. So. Madam Clerk, please queue up 2 minutes. Let us know who you are and go ahead and start. Thank you. My name is Gloria. R.A. I am a tongva. I am this land, the Los Angeles Basin for the Channel Islands and our center of creation comes out of Long Beach on the campus of Cal State. Long Beach. I have talked to many youth who have returned from Standing Rock, from Southern California, and who have been there. And they are profoundly touched by what they have learned and what they want to give back to the community. They had learned that everybody was so generous and helpful to them as they arrived in anything that they needed. But they also said that it was they learned to test or protect, as they prefer by love, nonviolence and prayer. And they have been met with terrible violence. Many have been very injured. A woman has is fighting to keep her arm. One woman was shot in the eye and is blind in that one eye and they have no weapons whatsoever. Over 2000 vets went out there over this weekend and it was. Very impactful to see that they were that they apologized for what this country has done to the first nation people all across the nation. So I encourage you to support the actions there that they continue in this peaceful, nonviolent, prayerful way. And teaching the young people, the elders are leading it with the youth. The youth actually are the ones that started this whole movement and the elders set what is going to happen each day in these camps. And so we ask you to I ask you to support this. And, you know,

I'm very thankful for everything. And I thank you for your votes. And I hope you will really understand what is going out there, as has been explained by Miss Gonzales. Miss Pierce, thank you very much. That was very thorough. Thank you. Thank you for your time. Next week, a police. He only watched me talk up until I said nope. It shows up at all. Meanwhile, Cody out there to Hawaii where I'm new. How did I march up? Meanwhile, out there to Hawaii, homecoming king guy to hooch, to courage, to wanting you. I greet all of you in my native Dakota language, and I want to thank you for listening to us and Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilwoman Pierce, for leading this. And I think this is very important. Even though Long Beach is a little bit late to the game. Seattle, Phenix, Oakland, a lot of the Minneapolis, a lot of the major cities already passed a resolution to support Standing Rock. So we urge you to to support Standing Rock. And one of the things that we asked, too, is that if you support Standing Rock, you have to look Long Beach has to look at their own oil addiction, their own. It would be hypocritical for you to pass a resolution to support Standing Rock, but you're benefiting off of oil and fracking, which is destroying our Earth. So if you pass this resolution, that's good and I'll be proud. I'm a resident of Long Beach for the past ten years, and I would be very proud to say my my leaders, this Long Beach leaders pass this. But I would be even more proud if you came back and started making changes here in Long Beach. And it's not about this pipeline. It's about transitioning to renewable energy and keeping fossil fuels in the ground. So that's the bigger picture. And we have the technology to do that. So I urge you to to look at that look at our own history and how it's destroyed our Earth. We want clean water for our children, our young kids here. We want them to have clean water. We want them to have clean air to breathe. So we're looking seven generations ahead. Our great, great grandchildren. What on earth are we going to leave for them? So this is important and it's a human issue, not just an indigenous issue, but a human issue. Thank you for your time, sir. Thank you. Next speaker piece. Mugabe Libya child with all we have here. Took out Angostura local champ, opium sativa. My dear, relatives always like to thank the creator first. My Lakota name is Bear Woman and I do come from Wounded Knee. I was at Standing Rock on October or November 20th. When they shot rubber bullets and sprayed our people. Once Sophia's arm. When she was hurt. And Vanessa, we call her blue corn. When her eye was shot out. Those were very hard things to deal with. They're still hard because for my fiancée and I, we knew Vanessa personally. But I came here to to ask the. Will you please support the gray Lakota Nation? In the North Dakota Access pipeline. But as you do. Will you please make an amendment? In a to help in a class action lawsuit against the Dakota

Access pipeline for violating treaties in Article six. Clause to it declares treaties are supreme law. 1781. Is the people's constitution. 1880. Ah, no, let me let me rephrase that. 1787 is the people's constitution. 1871 is the corporation constitution. The class action lawsuit will be based on the 1933 bankruptcy of the United States due to the fact they failed to ratify dialog and notify 564 federal recognized tribes regarding this. Thank you for your time. We still have a full life and thank you. Sorry I took up all your time. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is No Ramirez. I am Artemis now with the protectors of Earth. Mother, I first want to acknowledge the Tongva whose land we are living on. And I hope that we are treating this land with respect and with dignity. I am here today to acknowledge and to commend the city of lives for moving forward with this agenda and support of Standing Rock. But I feel that now more than ever. This is the statement that is about to be given or hopefully be given as needed. Given the statement that the Energy Transfer Partners issued that evening, the Army Corps of Engineers ordered when they halted the pipeline, they said, and I quote, ETP is fully committed in ensuring this vital project is brought to completion and fully expect to complete construction of the pipeline without any additional rerouting in and around Lake Oahe. And quote, I urge the city to issue a strong statement of support because it shows that we are doing our part to shut down that which is a threat to our native land and earth mother in general. And it shows that we as a collective can do our part to avert other pipeline and mining operations. Thank you to my thoughts committee. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi. Good evening. Council members and staff. My name is Tiffany Chan, representing Green Long Beach. I'm here today to encourage you all to support this resolution and to draft a strong statement in support of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe. Green Long Beach represents and works in each and every district to bring together community members in becoming conscious caretakers of the Earth. And our membership believes that the Standing Rock Sioux tribe, the water protectors in North Dakota and their allies are acting on behalf of the entire nation to ensure the safety and quality of the environment that supports us all. And as we said earlier, despite the denial of the permit, the Energy Transfer Partners declared the termination to construct it without any changes. And if constructed as planned, the Dakota Access pipeline will burst and contaminate the drinking water of over 18 million people while violating federal treaties with sovereign nations. We resolve resolutely oppose this shortsighted and dangerous greed and all actions that threaten the lives and livelihoods of our fellow human beings and the Earth. We are seeing accounts of pipelines bursting nearly every month in the United States alone. And the numbers o f green Long Beach stand firmly with the Standing Rock Sioux tribe and their actions against the construction of the pipeline and our ongoing dependance on oil. We trust that the council members can understand this long term rather vacations of oil dependency at the cost of human life and environmental health. Thank you. Thank you. Next week, Mexican police. Good evening. My name is Kobe Sky. I am a principal engineer with the County of Los Angeles, also very proud to serve on the Sustainable City Commission. And I'm here to speak in support of this item, but also to draw an important connection with two other items that are on the agenda tonight. The first is the item passed earlier that laid out the strategic plan for the Sustainable City Commission and some of the priorities that we were presenting on behalf of the Commission and the residents that we heard from about the future of Long Beach and how to make it more sustainable. And the second is a report that's going to be requested regarding oil and gas operations in the city. Standing Rock is about three key issues indigenous rights and how they're being trampled. Protection of water and climate change. And there are things that the City of Long Beach can do to address those things that would add more meaning and impact to the resolution that you're considering tonight. For example, we were recommending, based on feedback we received to move towards 100% renewable energy, that's going to reduce our reliance on oil and gas. It's going to reduce the impacts that we have. And not just in extracting oil, which is potentially impacting our water, but also the role that we have in facilitating the transport and sale of fossil fuels of all type, which impacts people from not just the US but even from other countries. So we need to address the roles that we have in addressing all of those issues. We can take a resolution supporting the transition from Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day, for example. It sends a message that we want to address all of these issues climate change and indigenous rights and water protection. And there's a lot we can do locally to do that. Thank you very much. Thank you for your time. Next speaker, please. Good evening, everyone. My name is Becky Sanchez. I'm a resident of Long Beach for the last 13 years, and I'm also Long Beach Unified School District teacher. I wanted to say that I was also there on November 20th night where the violence happened that finally made mainstream media airwaves. And I wanted. To let you know that I was not there for violence. I went there to help. With the many with Tony School, the children who were there in camp. The youngest water protectors who were there. I went to help those kids because more than anything, this is definitely about respecting sovereignty. This is definitely about protecting our water. This is definitely about protecting Mother Earth. But more than anything. It's about protecting our children. Because in the end, they were the one. They will be the ones to feel the brunt. If DAPL proceed. To continue with this project. Someone earlier said that this that maybe Long Beach is coming in late. I see. We're coming in at the most crucial time. We have the support of Obama, but when. Trump comes in, there's no telling what's going to happen. So it warms my heart to know that this city that I love has representatives. Here even. Bringing this to the table. Asking our. City to support the first. Americans, asking our country to stand up to what the Constitution says is the supreme law of the land. I had nothing, but thanks for you taking the time to consider this, to hear us out and hear the cries of people across the country and. Around the. World that I met at Standing Rock asking for the same thing. Please protect our water. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Yeah. It's on us. We're showing Phenix and your show. So what did you, me and Sloan and then paper shushing. I said, Hello, everybody. I welcome you with open heart and open mind. I am Cheyenne Phenix. I am a member of the Navajo Nation as well as the Northern Paiute Nation. I am also a resident here of Long Beach City and I attend Long Beach City College for the past two years. I sit on the associate student body or the student body government of Long Beach City College as a legacy cultural affairs chair. And I also am a part of a club called the Native American Student Association, which started last year. And as a leader within my community in L.A., Long Beach community, I stand with Standing Rock. And I have been doing my part in promoting awareness about this critical issue that as a youth perspective, I am very critical about this issue because as a human being as well as we all are human beings, we need water, we need life, and we don't need oil. There are other energy sources out there that are much cleaner than this. I also ask and support the idea of looking at clean, renewable energies for Long Beach because our lives depend on it. Our very lives depend on our clean water or clean oil, our clean water and air here, as well as protecting the sovereign rights of our indigenous people as well as everybody else's rights as human beings are human and civil rights that we have here. Thank you again. Thank you for your time. Next speaker, please. And a little taller. Good evening. My name is Natalie O'Neill. I am a. Member of the Nikko the Nation. I want to thank Councilwoman Gonzalez and Pierce for their eloquent description of how this impacts the sovereign rights of my ancestors were actually at the sign the Treaty of Fort Laramie in. 1851 for this new nation. My uncle ran his horses. Thunder was a former chairman of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe. So this movement directly affects me. I'm a proud member. Of the alumni. Of Cal State, Long Beach. And so from a personal perspective, having my uncle and my aunt arrested on October 24th for doing nothing more than praying, praying for the young.

Men and women that were in the. Front lines. It affects you personally. It affected us so much. And my husband and I both have successful careers. Took our time to go out there to Standing Rock. To visit our home. My home lands. Which are only a couple hundred. Miles up from the Missouri River to. See my uncle's ranch. Right is just right on the Lake Oahu and see what the potential danger that could. Happen if a pipe like that broke, to see the peacefulness that all the people that were there. At the camp. Were embodying and embracing of people of. All nations. And I think a city like Long Beach had always. Has historically embraced diversity. This type of resolution is absolutely in line. With the culture here, in line with what I feel like. The vision of the city is, and for it to continue to be a leader. Of not. Only in California, but also nationwide and worldwide in support of. The Standing Rock Nation. So I thank you for your time and I thank you for hearing us out. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Let's look at Liam at the chimney maker. My name is Mr. Susheela Aguilera. I'm 18 years old and I'm a student at Cal State Long Beach. I am also a descendant of the Mexica people from Mexico and the Tongva people from here. I'm coming to you today, not as a as an indigenous person, not as a student within your city. But I come to you as a human being. A human being who? My language, my ancient languages were taken from me. My lands were taken from me. The last thing I have left is my water. Last thing I have left of my resources. The last thing I have left is my life. Thank you for supporting the Standing Rock Sioux in North Dakota, but I ask that you also support the younger people from here. I ask that you support the indigenous people from here. I ask that you support the next seven generations of indigenous children who grew up here in Long Beach. I want to be able to take my children to the beach. I want to be able to bring them out into the light. I want to be able to bring them to parks without worrying. Well, maybe emissions will hurt my child. Hurt my child. Or maybe the water from Long Beach is so polluted that they can't even play water. I was in a history class in which a history professor claimed that American Indians do not exist, that we just came from Asia. And he attributed the Bering Strait theory as a fact. And what I heard there basically was that I have no right I have no right to fight for my water. I have no right to fight for my land. But the truth is, I do. And I ask you to do the same. Thank you, Jim. Thank you for your time. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Honorable City Council. And also special recognition to the Tongva people and other native peoples who are here today. My name is Alex Montana. I live in the sixth district and I'm with the Filipino Migrant Center and the National Alliance for Filipino Concerns. On Thanksgiving weekend, I was part of a six person delegation from Long Beach that drove over 1500 mi les to stand with the Standing Rock Sioux and other water protectors against the Dakota Access pipeline in North Dakota. We drove for almost 24 hours. In a packed car. Full of donations and blankets and clothing and prayers and messages of love from Long Beach residents to be donated to the. Standing Rock Sioux. But the most. Extraordinary part was witnessing the Standing Rock Sioux and other water protectors united to protect what should. Be sacred to all of. Us water, land and our Mother Earth. We learned a lot that weekend. We were freezing cold, but we felt warm watching the native dancers and elders gather in front of the sacred fire in the camp. We often forget about native women in our society, but it was the Native women who were on the front lines that weekend who led a women's march onto the bridge and faced a wall of police and barbed wire to chant, sing and declare that water is sacred and that women are sacred. We are often told that we need money to survive. But at the camp, the donation center, the mess hall, the medic tents, everyone was welcome to get free health care, a hot meal and borrowed clothing and blankets. We all survived and took care of each other. I met one Native American artist named Steve Whitehill from the Oneida Tribe who said this was the first time in history that almost all of the Native American tribes are united together to protect what is sacred to them water, land and Mother Earth. And that's why I urge City Council to pass this resolution to support Standing Rock and their struggle to protect the water and the land. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is Erin. Erin Foley. I reside in the first district. I want to thank my councilperson as well as Councilwoman Pierce. I'm sorry, my friend Janine. I'm a co-founder of a local community organization called the Friendship Neighborhood and a member of the Long Beach Time Exchange, among several other Long Beach community based organizations that seek to make our city one that works for all. I love this city that I've called home for the past decade and appreciate having the chance to speak to you. Now, I would like to urge you to pass the resolution in support of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe, despite there being basically a media blackout, this historic fight to protect the water source of the Sioux has invigorated indigenous rights movements, environmental movements and progressive movements across the world. Put simply and straightforward. Pipelines leak, water is life and you can't drink oil. Long Beach should stand on the right side of history. By adopting this resolution, we must show that we to see the injustice of moving a pipeline originally set for the white city of Bismarck to the sacred lands of the Sioux. I urge us all to recognize the white privilege that came into play upon the changing of the pipeline designation. In such a way, I can't change history and neither can you. But we can acknowledge the wrongs that have been do ne to the native peoples, by the colonizers, the stealing of land, the terrible genocide, as well as the continued suffering wrought by both historic and current traumas. We can choose to lead and do all we can to not continue on that path of destruction. And with this examination of white privilege and our desire as a city to lead with progressive, proactive policies, I urge us to also examine them in the context of our own addiction to unsustainable fossil fuels. Urge you to consider the environmental racism prevailing in our own city. What are we doing to move as a city to sustainable, renewable sources? What are we doing to eradicate environmental racism? There are so many sustainable alternatives and we are a city full of innovative creatives and talented entrepreneurs. We might not be able to end oil right this very second, but we must strive to meaningfully divorce ourselves from it immediately. I know we can if we want to. So in summary, no more pipelines, no more enslavement to oil. And tonight, let us stand as a city in solidarity with the Sioux. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. Good evening. Council members and vice mayor. My name is James

Swayze. I'm a third district resident and I'm here tonight. This is a very personal issue for me, but also on behalf of our building of the community's Long Beach Steering Committee. And here, just to echo the amazing comments that were made here tonight, but also to offer another perspective and I know you all do the right thing and vote for this tonight, but offering and reminding you that actions speak louder than words. Right? When we think about the health impacts, then we talk a lot about what happens in the Latino, the African American and the Cambodian community. But often we don't talk about the Native American community here and the large health disparities, the large health inequities that not just in Long Beach, but in communities across the nation and particularly in California. When we look at cities like Del Norte in Kern, in Coachella Valley, where a lot of the native community doesn't even have access to fresh cleaning water. So fresh, clean water. Right. So there's a lot that we can do. And I think a lot of my community members out here have also made those echoes and calls for action and for us to really look at how do we localize this and how do we move forward on actually achieving health equity because actions like this achieve that and get to that conversation where we can lift up the health and safety of everybody. So thank you very much time. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Vice Mayor Councilmembers My name is Gerald Mangino. My address, 4301 Boyer Avenue, Long Beach. But I am a citizen of this earth. I come here tonight. Obviously, I'm a white man. I have no no Indian blood in me, no, no Native American in me. But I do represent a group of scouts and we've been around for over 90 years. And what we've taught our boys is. They grew. To men, was respect of others in respect of the earth. We study the. Ways, the laws and the customs of the Native American, because that's the prime example. Before I read something I want to finish with, I want to just say here's a little history on the Dakota Access pipeline. The pipeline was moved from its original crossing of the Missouri River above the city of Bismarck, North Dakota, when objections were given regarding the potential for environmental impact. If the line leaked and polluted the area's water supply, it was instead moved to the Standing Rock Reservation lands the Lakota have occupied the this land for the Lakota have been there forever. They've been there for our history. It's been their land since we decided to give it to them in terms of our treaty. We acknowledge that they belong there and that they can have those lands and then we take them away, as we've done over 500 times. The pipeline's path was moved down Missouri River to the river crossing on the top of the tribal lands. It was done so because there is a lower population concentration. The Standing Rock tribe, that area and a lesser political financial influence on. Well, thank you for your time. We still have a number of people speak. Thank you so much. Thank you. And thank you for your guide tonight. All right. Next speaker, please. Good evening. Counsel. My name is Anna Kristensen. Born here. Raised here. Still here. I. My daughter is at Standing Rock tonight. She's. It's her birthday. Her birthday present was a gas mask. I never thought I'd have to buy my daughter a gas mask for her birthday. I'm not doing very well emotionally. It's funny you feel good about the last decision, and then you talk to somebody from the National Office of Historic Preservation who said no. They didn't really deny it. They just pushed it further down the line. They they and I said, Are you telling me that they she said, because they were afraid of getting sued. So they're not. I said, Are you telling me they weren't afraid of getting sued by the tribe, but they are by the oil company? And she said, that's right. So. So Standing Rock really is as. As the keeper of the white buffalo. Pipe said everywhere. And it doesn't really matter what race we are. It does matter if we listen. To our elders. And he also said that the term Mother Earth is not. Symbolic. Gentlemen, please. It isn't a euphemism. It isn't. It is our mother. She is our mother. She is not a resource. She is the source. And I'm glad to see the full council is here. Almost the full council. I hope you vote in favor of this. But if you do, we'll be back. We'll be back when you have a vote on the Lo Cerritos Wetlands, a project that will allow 120 new wells to be built, built, built on an active earthquake fault in our wetlands, destroying our pristine wetlands forever. We will be back. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Thank you. Council. Hello, Mr. Mayor. Tony Taylor, investigative journalist, poet and songwriter. I'm going to take off a polit ical hat. This is not a political speech at all. Nonpartisan. It's about building empathy. For all people who are oppressed, no matter black, white, whoever we are, especially indigenous right now. And this is something from Stephen Grumet. And his classic book, American Place Names where the New York Metropolitan Museum now sits. Steven Grumet About building empathy. Young children bound in small cradle boards were stuck pierced in a manner to move a heart of stone. Other pieces were cut off and thrown into the fire. So other pieces were cut off and thrown into the river. So when? Parents of the tortured child or children went into the river to save the young children. The parents were trying to do this. The soldiers would not let the parents come up onto dry land, making both parents and children drown. That was the murder of peaceful Algonquin Indians. In what's now known as upstate New York. So when we know about these stories, whether they're the genocide of Native Americans, African-Americans, Jewish Holocaust, any Holocaust throughout history, it helps us to identify with people not from a cerebral point, but more from a spiritual, emotional point, not a Republican political point, Democrat point, but a human point. So I just wanted to bring that out so we can see it more from. What Marvin Gaye said, keep a tear in your heart for humanity. And that's my point. Okay. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. Yeah. I thought I shouldn't be gay in here. Not quite an initial. I can't onyebuchi the agenda. Straight out, another awkward egg on that Latin initial. Hello, everyone. My name's Ewa. I've lived here since August 2011. I love Long Beach, but if someone to tell you that I'm also a member of the Navajo Nation and I don't know if you guys know about the, um, the mine spill that happened in Arizona. Although it's not an oil spill, it was. It still affected water source. Many people think I just affected the water. And then it had long term effects on other things. One of the things that I had affect on is agriculture. We need food, like we need water. And the Navajo Nation, a lot of Navajo farmers had to temporarily close off their water supply because they got it from the San Juan River. Um. I also noticed that we also have a similar situation where water is in jeopardy in Flint, Michigan. They don't really have access to clean water as well. I think it's easy to sit here and think that Standing Rock is an isolated incident away from us when it's not. Just a while ago, I saw Councilwoman Susie Price drink something, obviously, that had water in it, correct? Yeah, I had water in it. So it doesn't matter what profession you are, what your career is, who you are, your statuses. We all need water. It doesn't matter if you're an archeologist. It doesn't matter if you're a doctor. It doesn't matter if you're a council person. We all need water. So I just wanted to reiterate that fact, and I hope you support this talk in its air, water as life. Than k you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is Julianne Yolande Gael. I'm a resident of Long Beach. I am not native. I am Ashkenazi Jewish and Han Chinese heritage. And I'm also a construction worker. And I just spent the last three weeks in Standing Rock because as a non-native construction worker, I believe that we need to be building community. We need to be supporting treaties and native rights. And we we need to be building renewable energy. And we can do all of those things. And we do not need to be building pipelines that violate sacred rights. And I was there on Sunday, November 20th. I got to. Be out there in in subfreezing temperatures as water cannons were being shot at us. And for people living in tents below freezing, that that's pretty much a death sentence. If we didn't have the the medics and the healers to support all the people. One of the people in my camp was handing out hand warmers when she was shot multiple times with a water cannon. People in my camp were shot point blank with rubber bullets. For praying, people in my camp were arrested on their knees, hands in the air, praying, and then put in dog kennels with numbers written on their arms. And even with all of that, the core Lakota value of generosity and. And that spirit was present. Just a few days later, the International Indigenous Youth Council saw that the Morton Sheriff County, the, the main law enforcement there, even though they had just received $10 million in loans to continue hurting and oppressing, these people, had put out a request about how they need donations for hand warmers and all of that. And the Indigenous Youth Council said, okay, we are generous, we will fulfill every single thing on your donation list. So this is the kind of nonviolence and spiritual generosity that we can support as as Long Beach. And I hope you will support this resolution. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Looks like this is our final speaker. We'll close the speakers list, so please. Thank you. I'm Patricia Chen with Long Beach 350. And I just want to say that I'm very much humbled by the speakers that went before me. Long Beach, 350, supports the proposed resolution for Standing Rock. We would very much like to see oil and gas left in the ground so that there would be no need for pipelines that threaten water supplies and degrades sacred burial grounds and no need for fighting dogs and water cannons and freezing weather. Here in Long Beach. We can do more than just a resolution. Um, under item 16, I'll talk about oil and gas operations, but at this moment, I just want to speak about, um, the opportunity to change Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day. This is an important step forward that we can take in recognition of the importance of our First Nations. Hopefully, it will lead to more and greater steps reflecting greater respect for indigenous peoples and lands. Thank you. Thank you so much. Going to bring this back behind the the council. So council member super now. I'd just like to thank all the supporters for being here tonight, and especially to the speakers. I'd also like to recognize someone who didn't speak tonight. That's Craig Stone from Cal State, Long Beach, right here in the front row, and also to Jake Heflin from the Long Beach Fire Department who could not be here tonight. I think he's teaching a certain class. But for those who don't know. Last month, city council for the very first time celebrated Native Heritage Month. And Jake and Craig were instrumental in putting that together and moving forward. The three of us are working on a new project and I will be bringing to council in the very near future a proposal to create a native heritage commission for the city of Long Beach. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce I just wanted to close with just a very big thank you gratitude for coming and sharing your stories and your travels. I think it's really important that we continue to hear those, not just at times when we have something on council. And so I implore you guys to work with our history departments, at our colleges, with the society here, the association, and continue to share those stories. So and also, don't worry, there'll be there'll be items coming down the road. Okay, guys. Thank you, everybody. Thank you. I know I wasn't able to join much of the conversation. I just want to say something briefly for those that I did hear. They had a chance to hear that we're here. I want to thank you. If you were over at Standing Rock and you had a chance to participate in really incredible show of strength and support. I've been following it pretty closely. I've been pretty vocal on social media and in other venues about my support, of course, for the native people there and for the work that was happening. And while I think the Army Corps and the President obviously did did the right thing, all of the credit really goes to the Native people and all the supporters and the water protectors and everyone that did such a great, really outstanding job over there. And so so thank you. Thank you for those that were out there. Thank you. Those that are here in solidarity to all of your other brothers and sisters, this is was a really important issue that I think brought a lot of awareness also, I think, across the country, which was really great to see. And so I appreciate this and I appreciate Councilwoman Pierce, who had mentioned to me she was bringing this forward. I'm a strong supporter of this resolution. I think it's the right thing for the city to do. So thank you. And with that members, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Great names. Congratulations. We're going to have just had a request to quickly hear item 19 and then we're going to go to 14. Okay. Next is item 24. A report from Technology and Innovation recommendation to improve the city's open data policy and related standards to implement modern city wide practices for sharing data with the public, staff and policymakers c itywide. Okay. There's a lot of big items tonight. This is another very important one that we're very proud of. I want to make sure that staff stay with the council, know what we're doing, because it's going to it's going to change a lot of the ways we do business, which is great. So Mr. West. Brian Stokes, our director of innovation and Technology. Honorable Member, Members of the City Council, before use a recommendation to approve our city data policy as it's related to standards to implement a modern citywide practice in sharing data with the public, staff and policymakers. The purpose of this policy is to set guidelines for incorporating an open data framework into existing and future systems and procedures, and to aid in determining which data sets should be made public. How to make those data sets public, and how to maintain the existing published data sets. Back in 2015, the Technology and Innovation Department met with the Technology and Innovation Commission and with the idea of creating this open data policy and in the spirit of openness and collaboration , TID wanted to engage the community as well as city departments. So we had conversations around open data by holding three community forums. One was virtual, one was at Long Beach City College and the other one was at California State University at Long Beach. In addition to those forms, we've also held out citywide surveys and we put out an online on Speak Up Long Beach with regards to open data. All of these results and community engagement came back with feedback and in partnership with the city departments. We've established this policy and that is what is presented to you tonight. And with that, that is my report. Okay. Thank you. I want to just also add. It's really important. I think also that we think a lot of this work is also done by the Technology and Innovation Commission, and they felt they actually were at all these forums. They held the forums, they work with staff. I know that the the chair of the commission is here, Rob Kariuki, who's in the in the back there. I know he's going make a few comments I think doing public comment, but I just want to thank them for that. They worked very hard on this policy. They got a lot of input to put this policy together. And because of this, we're going to start to start putting a lot of data online for folks to look at and hopefully to use it to make the city more open and accessible and transparent as well. So thank you to everyone that worked on this policy. Councilmember Austin. Thank you. I made the motion here. But Mr. Mayor, I want to commend you for your leadership on this issue. I know this is something that you work very, very hard to make sure was implemented. I want to come in to commend technology and innovation in the IT team for all their great work and most importantly, the community for their input and feedback on this. I encourage my members, my council colleagues to support this idea. Thank you. V ice Mayor Richardson. I thank the maker of the motion. Said it really well, not much more I can add. Keep up the good work. Actually use those maps a lot. You just, you know, dispelling, you know, things that aren't true about North Lobby. So I support this. Thank you. Councilman Orengo. I think this is an excellent policy. It creates a 24 hour city hall. And you said it already. It creates more transparency so people know exactly what we're doing here. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. I just wanted to give our I.T. manager an opportunity to discuss a little bit about how we plan to integrate that data with a bigger surrounding community. So what many of us know is that many cities are doing open data, and then the county has an open data site that has a lot of data, especially for cities that contract out more of their services to say, the sheriff's department or animal control, L.A. County or any of those. And I was hoping to at least get a little insights to the community on where we're going next and how we can integrate that on a wider scale. Okay. Thank you, Councilwoman. I'm going to have staff respond to that. Yes, Councilmember Mongo. The intent in our soon to be release portal does look at avenues to incorporate not just data sets that are solely owned and managed by the city, but also data sets that can be not just regionally but globally. So, yes, we would reach out if they had and wanted to share certain data sets, we would incorporate them into the site as well as any APIs that they may want to share. And vice versa. Correct. Wonderful. Because right now, when you go on to the larger model to look at the animal data right now on an L.A. County site, the entire Long Beach area is just blink because they don't have our data as well. And so hopefully they'll be able to click on it. It would bring them back to our site, which would then create a loop of people engaging with our open data portal. So I look forward to seeing that. Thank you so much. Great. Thank you. And now we're going to move on to public comment. Public comment, I think we have Rob here. And as it's coming down, the this will this will initiate the launch of our actual site that all this amazing data is going to be on the for the public to use and see in real time. It's going to be really exciting. So. Mr. Chairman. Thanks, Mr. Mayor, in a city council. Thanks very much for taking this issue up tonight. I think that Brian did a really excellent job of outlining what the portal is going to do. But and as you alluded to, Mr. Mayor, this is a very big deal. It's a big deal for the city of Long Beach. I think there's not an issue on the agenda tonight that open data would not contribute to the discussion, too. It helps inform administrators as they work among the various departments, helps inform residents about what's going on in their city. And then ultimately you as policymakers can make use of it as well. I've worked on this issue in a lot of different jurisdiction

ions. I sponsored legislation at the state level on the issue. It was discussed the stakeholder process that we went to, and we had a lot of really great engagement in shaping this policy. We'd be the 10th city in California to adopt such a policy, and I think just the 50th nationwide. But I want to talk just briefly about the three kind of macro opportunities that I think this policy presents. The first is to spur innovation in our community by freeing up this information, allowing folks to combine it with other jurisdictions. As Councilwoman Mongo mentioned, you can create new apps, you can learn new things, and the community can really aid the city in trying to solve some of its more pressing problems. That data is also of inherent value, so that spurs economic development. The McKinsey Global Institute pegged the worldwide value of open data at over $3 trillion. And so, again, Long Beach could be at the forefront of this. There's a lot of great firms in our city that want to make use of this data, and they'll have their hands on it soon. The second is to spur innovation within government, to allow departments to collaborate with one another, to allow cities and counties to share information among themselves. In the city of New York did a study after the implementation of their policy, they found they're saving $10 million a year annually just on Freedom of Information requests through their portal. And then the final and possibly the most important is I think this affirms the city's commitment to open, honest and effective government. It's a critical peg of transparency, and it's going to invite the community into the goings on to the city and invite them in to help shape policies in the future. So last point I want to make is to specifically call out Brian and the staff of our commission and of the Society Department for the terrific work they did. I think they've craft the best policy I've ever seen, and I encourage you all to endorse it here tonight. Thank you. Thank you. Thanks again. And you guys you guys did a great job. And don't forget this community. We have these amazing commissioners who are volunteers who are working on this stuff for us every single day, and we're very grateful. So, Councilmember Pierce. Yes, I just wanted to, you know, thank Rob for his work on the commission, but also really thank you, Mayor. I know whenever you were elected, transparency and open government was something that was a key part of coming on. So I wanted to clarify this would also include our PD to our police department as well. Yes. This includes data that is available through the city. Whether it's any specific department, all data would be available as as it goes forward. Okay. Thank you so much. Great. Thank you. There's a motion in a second. See no other public comment. Please cast your votes. Motion carries. Great. Now we're going to here real quickly. Item 12. Motion carries. Thank you. 15, please. Item 15 is a report from Technology and Inn ovation recommendation to receive and file report and presentations on data LP, the city's new open data portal citywide. Thank you. Their staff report here. Yes. This is the receive and file to talk about data. Long Beach, which is a new, fantastic program that we're launching. I'm going to turn this over to our technology innovation director, Brian Stokes and his new bureau manager, Jasmine Frost. Honorable Vice Mayor and members of the City Council. On December 20th, 2016, the City Council adopted an open data policy. And last week, in fact, two weeks ago we launched our new data portal data MLB. This allows us to offer opposite. I can never say that word. Operationalization lies the city's open data policy to allow for new public information to be represented geographically and for the exploring and visualization, downloading the data for everything that we make publicly available. Long Beach is one of the first cities to embrace open data in a more interactive way, and this portal allows the users to analyze and combine open data layers using map viewers. In addition, users may create their own web maps applications with the data that we provide online. So providing data online is not a new concept in government. However, the City of Long Beach wants to drive beyond presenting just data online. And our Data Lab portal is an innovative approach which allows the public just that access to use it in a more effective way and committed to the city's commitment to transparency. It's a new way of thinking about deploying open data, and the city developed LWB as a civic engagement platform and extended these systems to the whole community. And with that, we'd like to present you a short video. Want to know what's going on in our city. Like to know where Missouri funds are being spent. Want to know what's being done to make Long Beach more livable? Need local data to make business decisions or even design a new killer app to answer these and hundreds of other questions. We all need access to information, but not just raw data, but data that is organized in a way that helps us quickly see patterns and tell a story. Now with Data, MLB, the new portal developed by the city of Long Beach. All this and more is possible. The City of Long Beach is one of the first cities in the country to embrace open data in a more interactive way, with data lby the data sets published by the city will be centralized in one location. But then, instead of just giving users the ability to access this information online data, MLB provides an engaging environment where the data can integrate with maps, charts and more that quickly tells a story. And the best part is that data LWB also brings together regional and global data as well, providing even further insight and fostering more collaboration . Think of it as layers of information. For example, use the measure a data set to map the precise locations where projects will be funded then by clicking on any specific site. A dee per, more detailed set of data is revealed. Having all this at our fingertips allows us to see our government in action and better understand what is being done. The added bonus is that data LBE also provides various application programing, interfaces or APIs, which allows business owners, community members and entrepreneurs linkage to data that can become the building blocks they need to develop new applications. Those are just two examples of the hundreds of ways this versatile portal will help us explore. Visualize, build and share data so we can create meaningful dialog, encourage public engagement and drive innovation. To get started, all you need to do is go to the data lab portal. So this deployment was not just solely lbe did. We had a great partnership with our Technology Innovation Commission as well as our partner Ezri. And Mike switches here from Azeri just to talk about a little bit of our engagement. Thank you, Brian. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richards Council. What I really wanted to speak briefly on tonight is really to kind of bring home and qualify how proud we think as we add as we think Long Beach should be about this. This is not any old open data portal. The back story on this is a couple of years ago we had Ezra who, you know, we have over a thousand cities using our open data system. Our founder wanted to take kind of a different approach and start working on the next generation of open data. And to do that, we thought out some of our partners that we've worked with closely throughout the years. In fact, we've worked with Long Beach since 1982. So we started working on this on this idea. So 11. is that Long Beach is actually only the second city to actually do what we call a hub. That's the our term for this next generation open data. And I'll talk very briefly in a second on, you know, what we think that is. And Brian hit on it already. But in doing this, what you've seen here, Long Beach is really the first city to kind of do everything that we think a next generation open data city should do. And a testament to that was that last week we had a press conference that the mayor did. And immediately afterwards, I was inundated with emails and social media posts from Rio de Janeiro, Toronto, Dubai, New York and several others. Because they were all watching, because they're going to be the next hub of next generation open data cities as well. So they were all watching it. It wasn't just something that Long Beach did. You really are kind of a bellwether that people are are watching. So we wanted to be sure that council was was aware of this. And just so you know, kind of, you know, what makes it different. Brian mentioned one of the key things is this idea of sometimes open data is thought of as, you know, kind of a passive thing where you say, here's all of our data. There you go, have fun with it. Next generation open data is all about being kind of operational and active where you create applications that tell the story so tha t when someone comes to the site, you know, wanting to know the answer to something, you kind of package it in a way that's going to be best for them . The other thing that's very important about this is the bringing in of the broader community. So we see it as kind of an open data, not just for the city of Long Beach, but for the municipality or the whole community, I should say, of Long Beach. And we've already started working with Long Beach State, Long Beach City College and many other kind of regional entities as part of all this. So that that. Thank you. So with that, that's the end of our presentation. I want to thank you and we're open to any questions. Thank you. And what a great presentation. Thank you for that. I just have a couple comments on my own. I would say, you know, the video was fantastic. The open data platform, I looked at it on my phone, looked at the mobile version. And when I think of open data, I don't necessarily just think of it's, you know, just a platform for developers or to show how great things are. I think, you know, I want to see staff using this. I want to see community groups using this. I want us to be open and transparent about even data that we're not too proud of. You know, I'd like to see, you know, how we can use this as a platform to really change the narrative on the whole tale of two cities. Right. We just you know, we went forward over the last couple of years on the My Brother's Keeper initiative, and our health department is moving forward on equity. And I want to make sure that that's featured in this in the next iteration, the same way that measure is featured here. So I don't want to just see the good things. I want to see the areas where we do need work. And and I think and I'd like to see our city staff actually be and you know, it's heading that direction. But I wanna see our city staff continue to be more data driven. So that's just my thoughts on this. Councilmember Pearce. Oh, I'm sorry, Councilwoman Gonzales. I didn't see you. That is okay. I think this is fantastic that we're at this point, that we. Have. Started open data and the dialog around that. I would also like to see I don't know if this. Is already happening, especially with your interactions with LBC and Cal State, Long Beach, but some education. On how to visualize data and how to do it effectively for a specific industry, whether it's real estate or. Economic development, because oftentimes we don't want it to be passive. We want people to be able to maximize that data as much as possible, but they have to learn the tools. And that sometimes is a little difficult for for novice beginners utilizing data. But thank you very much. This is fantastic. Thank you for your work and for coming to council. Thank you, Councilman Andrews. Councilmember Pearce. Yes. I wanted to also think the staff and everybody that's worked on this. I think that you guys made a lot of great comments about data can be used to be passive. It can be engagi ng our city. We do have a tale of two cities and we do need data to tell that story. And when we started, the people say the city where we now have about 500 people that come and have a presentation from community members, it's data that we try to find on Long Beach, and we have not we've struggled in the years to try to find the right data and everything from greenspace in our city to, you know, how many calls for service we get everything with PD or fire, all of that. The more that we can be including that in this, the better city we're going to be. Because when we're transparent, we're able to be held accountable and we're able to build on that. And so I'm really excited that Long Beach has really spent the last two years talking about transparency, accountability in data. And so everything from, you know, the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women, which we tried to get out there to Cal State, Long Beach to get some data on. We have the data. It's about pulling it together. And so I hope that we can use this platform as an opportunity to try to get some things that we've tried to outsource in the past. So, again, thank you, everybody. I'm really looking forward to what is going to come. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Austin. Thank you. And I appreciate the colleagues my colleagues comments on this. I don't disagree with any of them, but I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and applaud the the team in the innovation and technology department for getting us to this point. Not many cities are even here. And so this is, I think, pretty pretty significant in terms of a giant leap for for Long Beach. And again, we're setting the standards in terms of data and what's possible. I think the the the options are or the possibilities are limitless in terms of what we can get and learn from from our city. And so the suggestions made here, I certainly hope, are taken into serious consideration. I'd like to to just throw this out here. I'd like to host a community meeting and to Councilmember Gonzalez's point, maybe a workshop on how to utilize this new data portal for for our residents who may have an interest in learning more about this. And so I'll certainly be talking to our I-Team in our city management about setting that up as well. So congratulations. And, you know, like I said, the possibilities and the the information is really limitless in our future. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. I'm very excited about the Open Data Initiative. I look forward to seeing much more data incorporated into the platform. I also look forward to a significant increase in the amount of interchangeability between us and the neighboring cities and the county of Los Angeles as a whole, so that our residents and our media sources and everyone can keep us accountable by knowing the facts. So this is a great first step. But I'd like to see an aggressive next 12 months. And I think those community meetings that my colleagues have mentioned are a step in the right direction. So I look forward to helping in those opportunities and watching to see what IT team says. Thank you. Is there public comment on this item? Roy Moore. So again, you guys talk about data and being accountable for you guys. Action. I came here almost three months ago and told you guys that I had been involved in the housing authority, the multipurpose center. You know, things were said to be Andrews that was falsified. And you guys said, okay, we're going to look into that. It's been months. I have not heard anything where y'all are standing accountable for the things that they're doing. So how is it that the data is going to be represented on all levels, meaning the community and you know, the different resource centers are regardless of whatever is going on, how are we able to see what data is, you know, smeared or not, what is in it? Because certain people don't want to say, hey, I did wrong or I overlooked something or I was wrong. So who's to say that they're going to be truthful on their statistics are on their numbers are saying they do a survey just to find out have any homeless people are out here and they come back saying is only a couple of hundred when it could be thousands out here. I mean, will someone look over that and audit that person or how would that, you know, really show that you guys are really standing firm and the mistakes you do make, you know, you are human just like us. We're not saying that you guys are perfect, but it seems like when your guys make an error is overlooked or easy, race is never brought to the front page. Hey, look, we did do it. Is it in or we gave this fine thinking that it was going to do one thing and unfortunately, funds went somewhere else where we apologize for this. I mean, I feel that the city has every right to know what's going on, how it's going on, and how certain, you know, services are mistreating the people that come in for these type of services or whatever and then give shine away or told we came as issue are be really insulted where a person feels like, hey, now I don't even want to go to certain offices that I need to go to to have these resources because I'm being mistreated. So I think you guys really need to look at who's doing these data report, and maybe that's why you guys are not coming out with the right numbers because they're trying to hide the truth that they're messed up or they used it for they own benefit at the end of the day. Thank you. Seeing no further public comment. Members, please cast your vote. Thank you. But you guys are doing great. You know you're doing great. Okay. Thank you, guys. All the all the all the bike folks. You guys are awesome. You are always fighting the good fight. Always out here. You're always with doing things. Thank you guys so much. We're going to do out of 17. 216, first or 17th. All right. Report from Human Resources Recommendation to adopt resolution approving the 2016 to 2019 MCU with th e Long Beach Police Officers Association citywide. Mr. West. Alex Vasquez is going to give us a quick report on our police officer association contract that was voted upon, but with 97% approval recently by the police department. Alex. You have before you a memorandum of understanding. Hey, guys, if we're going to have conversations, I need to be outside. Thank you. You have before you proposed Memorandum of Understanding with the applicable resolution between the city and the Police Officers Association. The City staff and the Police Officers Association had over 13 sessions since May 26 to discuss a successor and will you play represents approximately 800 sworn police officers. The city conducted an independent salary survey and also conducted a salary survey in conjunction with comparable police agencies. What we found was that Long Beach ranked on the bottom compared to ten benchmark agencies. Specifically police officer salaries rank last and sergeant tenants rank ninth. The city also met with the police department and Civil Service Commission and found that the city was having difficulty in recruiting candidates for police officer. The proposed annual U provides modest salary increases and changes to certain skill based systems to compete with these agencies. Some of the key terms of the proposed, and you include basically a third year, a three year contract, 9% over three years, 3% each year, and also modification, as I indicated, to certain skill pay. The total general fund cost. This contract is approximately $14.3 million. In the fiscal year 17, the cost is $6.2 million. And I'd be happy to answer any questions or get into any of the specifics of these like. Mr. West, anything else? No, we just strongly support this and we appreciate all the all the work behind the scenes that the city council put in on this many, many months of negotiating that Alex did with our team and the direction that we got from the city council to get a 97% approval rating from our police officers. Mr. Richardson, vice mayor. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And just quickly, I think I want to thank city staff, mayor, entire city council and peel away. This contract is modest and fair, but it also brings us bring us to a point where we can, you know, have better retention of our of our police officers. That's something we're really proud of. And we want to just say thanks to our our men and women of our fire, to our police department for coming to the table. And I think it says a lot that we achieved a 97% vote in support of this. So this is all good stuff. And congratulations. Councilman Price in the second. Thank you. I, too, want to thank city staff and everyone who worked on these contract negotiations. I think this is a very good contract. I appreciate the work that our police officers do day in and day out. And frankly, they were incredibly underpaid for many years. And I think that investing in our police department, investing in policies and procedures that will allow us to continue to recruit police officers to the city of Long Beach, making us a desirable location for them to work is an important goal for us to have. I know that I'm in the industry and I know that it's very difficult to recruit good officers, especially at this time, given the sentiments that some police officers feel when they're out doing the work that they're doing with very limited resources. So anything we can do to support our police officers and allow for a police department that continues to be attractive to new police officers who are interested in coming here or lateral transfers, that would be fantastic. So thank you, everyone. Thank you, Councilman Superhot. You know, we can go to public comment first before I speak. Sure. Without objection, we're going to public comment. Please come forward. I am back and the name is Larry Boland and not the other Larry. I heard that back when the recession if you remember that 23 2013 that the police received an extra 9% and it was just kind of a rumor around that oops, we made a mistake on that. If that's true, since 2002, what is when? And you have to remember, during 2000 and 2002 until 2000, 2008, 2013, the average person out there was losing their job. 15% unemployment. Nobody could ever get a raise at 3%. And I think during that time, the police got 9% now and the fire and the other employees. And as long as the city uses the inverted pyramid, it says, we're going to go and look at see what the other guys are. You're always going to be escalating and it's going to be an inflationary it's a very inflationary use of a term. There's no checks and balance in government, not necessarily talking about Long Beach, but when you go and picked the ten highest guys, you want to be in the middle, you're always going to get an increase. But in the private sector, there are checks and balances that don't exist in the government. Big government, all government. Because we're in a company, a guy says, Well, I want to attract good people, but I can't afford to pay that. That's why private sector salaries lag in government salaries because of no checks and balance. Now, the guy who can figure out the solution to the problem should be president. But you see what I'm saying? That there's something wrong here, that we we always have an increase. We never say, well, we can't have one. And by the way, when the remember, the in lieu of thing that we paid the 25 million a year and the employees only had to pay 2% of their share of the 9%. You remember the letter that came down from the union boss in Sacramento that said to all employees, do not accept anything from your government employer for the in lieu of that does not make you whole. So what Mayor Foster did was real simple. He increased he took away 8% and he gave everybody an 8% increase. So the 25 million was eaten up by the 25 million increase in salaries. Anyway, I just want to express that thought about it for a long time and I know we need g ood police, but something's wrong. Needs to be fixed. Thank you. Thank you, sir. Any other public comment? This is Steve Downey, and I'm a homeowner and taxpayer in the third district. I sent an email to each of you earlier. I just think that this what the public has been given lacks transparency. We've asked for this so called market analysis in the benchmarks, and we're told there's there's nothing on paper. Well, how can there not be anything on paper when the announcement, the press release first came out? We come to the website and we look for the memo. You it's not there once you're going to be there. Well, we're still working on it. I don't know how you're still working on it when the play had two weeks to vote on it. I guess that suggests that the members of the play didn't get to read it. My big concern is not knowing. The changes that are in this whole new section, whether those changes are spiking the pension. And that question should be asked how many changes are adding to the pension computations as compared to before in terms of the bonuses and the incentives and things like that. And then the last thing, it's just something that's been on Microsoft for a long time. We have the. Millions. Brown Act that provides all of the working condition representation that the play needs is provided for in law. But on top of it. We are paying full time benefits for the past 17 years. Why we have allowed an individual with no experience in the field to promote from policeman to sergeant to lieutenant. How can we do that when he has no experience in the police department? And what really bugs me? They have a First Amendment right to go back. The Washington and New York. And to vote for that toxic play. Thing and a vote for Trump. That's your First Amendment right. But they're doing it on my dollar. They're doing it with a taxpayer dollar. And we have the Miller the the Milius Meyer Brown Act. It's plenty. Let's roll that back. Let's give something back to the taxpayer. Thank you. Thank you. See no other public comment. Go back to the council. Council member supernova. Thank you. I have a question for staff and maybe the city attorney would like to weigh in on the document under item two, skill adjustments we have with $3.8 million for recruitment and retention. And as opposed to taking a look at this in three years and see if it worked or not. I think it's in the interest of the taxpayers and also to the DOJ to have some benchmarks in here to see with what we come up with if it's working. So what I'd like to suggest is, is maybe a progress report come back to the city. If Chair Price will agree to our public safety committee and we get some type of benchmarking or some type of report as to what systems are in place and how they are affecting the numbers. Council member. Sure, we could work with the police department and the Civil Service Department to put together a report and provide you. An update on how. They're making progress in terms of bein g able to recruit and fill their. Positions. Okay. And I probably would have been a lot more articulate about 4 hours ago. But I just want to be really clear that that this is about we have a need here. We have a $3.8 million need. And we just want to make sure it's working and do our part here on behalf of council. Thank you. Thank you. Council member Austin. Thank you very much. I just want to congratulate you. I'll start by congratulating the players. I expect we will ratify their IMO you this evening. Our our director and her team. I believe that this and I work in the labor relations field. I believe this email you and about financial packages is consistent and in line with many of the public law enforcement agencies in the IMO use that have been ratified in other agencies in the region and throughout the state. And I do believe that we need to do all we can to make sure that we are retaining and recruiting quality police officers for the city. The taxpayers expect us to to do that. Public safety. When you when we do surveys during the budget season, when we talk to our residents, at least I can speak for myself. When I talk to my residents and residents, public safety remains a top priority for our citizens, and I do believe it is a very high priority for our council as well. So I'll be supportive of this and more you. But I will just close and state to our police officers to whom much is given, much is expected. I know you guys will be great professionals out there and you'll earn your the money that you have gained in this contract. Thank you. Councilman Mongo. I've been very fortunate to travel the country and talk with police agencies and be able to share great stories about things that we're doing in California and things that are being moved around. But one of the things that I always try to do is promote the Long Beach Police Department and some of the programs that we have, and people are always excited to hear that we have openings. Until they realize the cost of living. As we look at the pay here and we compare them to some of the places that I've traveled to in the last year in Colorado and Florida and other places. Police officers would be ecstatic to make that amount of money if they lived in those cities in Florida, in Colorado, in those places. And so I would really implore us to take a strong look at what kind of housing incentives we can offer to our police department locally, because the only way we're ever going to get solid good transfers from out of state is when they can move here and have the kinds of private sector benefits they give to move someone to a region that is so expensive as ours is. So I look forward to seeing some things with that. I know I've talked with some of our police staff and the Pope about it. The cost of living variance. I mean, the dollars per hour were astronomically higher here than in Sanford, Florida. But Sanford, Florida, you can get a three bedroom, two bathroom house for $74,000. That'

s not even in the range. I think a two bedroom, one bathroom in the fifth District is 600,000 right now. And so it's just not a same quality of life opportunity for these police officers and their families to move here. So I hope they'll move here eventually. But I think we need to address the housing component, too. It's not just about pay. It's about everything if it's going to be for transfers. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Gonzales. I just wanted to thank Alex and, of course, our police department for all their hard work. I know it's you know, it's always tough sometimes getting to this point, but we've gotten here. I think we're in a good place. And I will say similar to Councilmember Super Na I and Councilmember Austin who mentioned about recruitment and I think we'll hear that a lot. We want to make sure we're recruiting good police officers. And I know that some of the conferences that have been attended by the chief, I've been looking at some of their conference program agenda and they do have really good ideas on police recruitment. So I don't know if any of that has been put into action, but it'd be good. As the evolution of recruitment evolves that we maybe take a look at some of these conferences and what they have to say regionally to bring that back to the city. So thanks so much. Councilman Austin. Now everybody's ready to vote. But I did want to ask our H.R. director just a couple of questions, just so that our public at home can understand the some of the recruitment challenges for a lot of these people. PD Mr. Vasquez, can you explain the the difference between the pensions? The pension package for for Long Beach PD and competing agencies across the region and state. Today for new, new hires. I'm sorry. Can you repeat the question? The pension formula for our police P.D.. Our public safety versus public safety in the region and throughout the state. Can you explain the difference or is there a big is there a difference here in Long Beach that that impacts our recruitment? Most agencies that are in the CalPERS system have the same formula at this point with Keppra. The differences might be if the agencies provide any. Support in terms of. Picking up the employee cost of their pension. Some of the other our competitors, such as. LAPD and. L.A. County sheriffs, have their own pension system. So that might also vary. But I think the. Biggest difference what we. Found when we did our survey was. Actually the salary. So again, as I indicated, we looked at agencies such as Santa monica, Orange County, LAPD, Lasso, Glendale, Pasadena, Huntington Beach. Santa Ana and Torrance. And we were. At the bottom just in terms of base pay and also in when we added in skilled pays that are provided across the board. They add to that? One area that we do see some challenges is with laterals, because Long Beach was one of the very first cities to take on pension reform and we were a leader in that area. We actually have a lower pension formula fo r people coming into our established police officers coming into our organization. So that is a challenge for us because we've been a leader in the past on pension reform. I think that's where I was going. Thank you. Okay. Thank you. There's a motion and a second. Members, please cast your votes. Motion passes seven zero hearing to. Report from Development Services Public Works recommendation to receive supporting documentation under the record, conclude the public hearing and adopt a resolution approving an update to the bicycle masterplan as a technical appendix to the mobility element of the Long Beach General Plan and accept mitigated negative declaration number and d04-16 citywide. Thank you. I'm going to turn over to staff for this. Thank you. This is a really important one as well. So I know it's it's late. I hate hearing stuff like this at this time, but. I just don't want you guys to, like, rush it either, because it's important. So thanks. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. We absolutely agree this is a very important update and a hearing. So I will turn to Amy Burdick and Craig Beck, our directors of Development Services and Public Works, to give the report. I will ask Eric Winston to join me instead of Craig Beck. So, Mr. Mayor, members of the Council, thank you for your time. I will go quickly, but take my time as well explaining this. As you well pointed out, the Long Beach Master Plan is a milestone effort in our long range planning efforts. This was last updated in 2001. So we are a little overdue in updating it in 2013. You as a City Council adopted a groundbreaking mobility element that was very progressive for its time and proceeded Los Angeles in their mobility efforts. So we are very pleased to be always one step ahead of our larger neighbor to the north. This mobility element that you adopted in 2013 called for a great expansion of our mobility efforts citywide, both on the pedestrian perspective and then in other mobility modes of transportation, including bicycles, transit, as I said, pedestrians. So with that, in 2016, we kicked off a very significant planning effort to update that mobility element, which, as I said, was last updated in 2001. So we were focusing on safety for road users, equity across the entire city, environmental perspectives, public health, quality of life. All of those outcomes were critically important to us as we strove to reach the goal of creating a more livable community and continuing to progress the city forward. As I said, 2001, we adopted the first bike master plan, 2013, the groundbreaking mobility element. And then today we're considering the update to the bike master plan. It does coordinate with other efforts. You have been adopting these piecemeal, but we as staff understand how they all linked together. You recently adopted the TOD in downtown pedestrian master plan, the green tie plan, the mobility element, and then a couple of other documents. This will also tie into our land use planni ng effort that we are trying to conclude this year as well. Some of the recent progress you've all seen in your neighborhoods, we've got separated bikeways across the city. We launched a bike share program. We've got road diets and buffered bike lanes going on throughout the entire city. Newly separated bike lane on Artesia Boulevard. Signalization and bike lanes on Shoreline. We've got grooved bike ramp installed at the beach access lot, a new beach path renovated with a new beach counter, shared lane markings and then bike lanes also on Seaside Way. So you've seen these throughout the city. But one of the things that we needed to do is try to figure out the best way to link all of these different improvements together and to try to match that goal of creating access and equity throughout the entire city. So here's our existing maps. They look pretty okay. There's a lot of activity down towards the south and towards El Dorado, some of the major East-West corridors as well. But there's a lot of white on that map that needs to be filled in with new access routes. You can see also that this is a pretty telling map because it does focus on the bike collisions and where in most of them occur. And the focus of one of our goals of safety is to reduce those bike collisions to the greatest extent possible, actually, through an effort also called Vision Zero. This had extensive outreach that took the form of open houses, community events, pop up workshops, going to some of our open street events, having focus groups and then survey responses both online and in person. We did set the goal of trying to design these bike facilities so that they were fully accessible, increase awareness and support efforts to enhance bicycling throughout both programs and social equity, and identify, develop and maintain a complete and convenient bike facility network. There are four types of bike riders and there is a strong and fearless, which is our city manager, the enthused and confident, which is our Deputy Director of Public Works, the interested but concerned Director of Development Services and the no way, no how. I'm not sure who they are, but we're working on getting them into the yellow. That would be Mr. Super nor apparently we're going to work on him, getting him into the yellow in the summer. I'm a blue, but in the winter I'm a yellow. So here is something. It's a maybe a new concept for some of you. It's called 880 facilities. And we learned about this over the last couple of years where we are trying to establish a citywide network where an eight year old or an 80 year old can feel comfortable accessing that network. That is how safe and accessible and equitable that bike network or that mobility network is throughout the entire city. So it's called an 8 to 80 network, and that is really a key focus of our entire system. I want to highlight the recently completed Artesia parking protected bike lane. This was an effort that we tried out where we physically rel

located the parking spaces away from the curb. It has been proven through scientific research that the safest type of bike lane is separated from traveling cars. And one way to do that is to separate the bicyclists from the traveling vehicles through parked cars or other forms of barriers. We also have a number of bike boulevards that we've we've implemented in some roundabouts, some of those bulb outs that you've seen, some of those median refuge islands, those are all in efforts to enhance safety and slow traffic down in order to reduce those bike collisions. Again, here's some of those 8 to 80 pipeline facilities that we're focusing on in this master plan. And then you can see that we are trying to layer those with other facilities that the more confident rider might feel comfortable in. And then we're focusing on facilities that close a gap in the system between protected bike lane or a another kind of bike lane where there is frankly a gap. And it's not very easy for a cyclist to traverse the city. So this map focuses on where we would do those gap closures. And then there are vision network facilities. This is to try to reduce those collisions to zero and what it would take for us to implement a Vision Zero network throughout the entire city. So with that, our plan focuses on the vision. The traditional table of contents. Introduction, existing conditions, our community input process, what we were trying to achieve and how we're going to implement it through administration and funding that will come later. And then here we are today. We're asking for your consideration to adopt to this. We intend to continue this. This is not in any way a static document. It is a living document that our mobility folks, particularly in our traffic engineering section, work on on a regular basis. We will use this for grant applications. We have submitted a couple of grant applications already for a couple of specific protected improvements. We do have also have a number of improvements under construction that some of you are familiar with, Sixth Street in the Third District and then Daisy Bike Boulevard going in a North-South direction as well, particularly in the seventh District. So I believe that concludes my staff report. Eric with Strand and I are available to answer any questions. We also do have our consultants in the audience and then various members of staff who worked on this effort for the last year and a half. Thank you. Thank you. Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And I just want to thank everyone who played a part in putting this together. And I did read the entire plan. And the reason I went through the entire plan is because I actually saw my neighborhood represented in in throughout this plan. So it was really interesting to me. So I see the intent. I heard equity twice in the presentation. I saw equity in the plan. I see there is a real intentional effort to make equity a part of this. And I see there was an intentional effort to make sure all the neighborhoods all the neighborhoods were represented. And, you know, if this is a direction, we're happy we're heading in. I'm happy. I'm happy with this. This is a good direction to go. So I'm really proud of this. And I think this is the kind of document I will be proud, I will be legitimately proud to put in front of our residents and say, I stand behind this. You've seen this coming. You've been engaged in this process. And they would they will believe. They will remember. Taking part in different different points in this process was good stuff. And, you know, last thing I was just say as a part of this is and Councilwoman Gonzalez would probably agree with me, we were we got a chance to go with Skegg to Shanghai and Beijing, and we were able to see like true multi-modal. There were just as much on a small street, just as much road dedicated to bikes and, like, mopeds and things like that. As as cars. The cars the area where the cars were was much more dangerous in the areas where where the bikes were. And, you know, it might have seemed chaotic, but it was a lot of ways safer. It seemed a lot more safer, more walkable. And they were way more dense. And and, you know, I know that city staff has done different, you know, visits to other communities to see that stuff. I support that. I think we need to continue to look at what things are happy with, things that are happening around the world and make sure they're implemented and integrated into our planning. So thank you and keep up the good work. Councilman Gonzales. Yeah, I'd like to reiterate the same. I think this is a really great document, very comprehensive of the whole city. And I also what struck me was the education component, because I know all over the city, but particularly in places like downtown, people are not super educated on where you can ride and what the safety rules of the road are. And so I think it's great that we're going to be emphasizing education in that sense. And even, you know, small points of facts like 11,300 Long Beach residents do not have access to an automobile. I think is is great to point out and so wonderful plan. I look forward to seeing it evolve. And thank you for your work, both of you. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce. Yes. I also wanted to congratulate everybody on their work. This was something you guys have done a lot of before I was in office. And I want to say on both the presentations, I know Vision Zero is something that's extremely important. To a lot of residents in my District, both around Rose Park and around AOC seven. And so I appreciate it seeing that. We're trying to include parts of that where we can because it's a. Really big lift. I did have a resident question around the Anaheim corridor. You know, it's not in my districts. AOC seven shares that area. And so can you expand on that for me since the councilmember. And part of that area isn't here? Certainly, we believe that Anaheim Street has a role as a multi-modal corridor. We don't know if it's feasible to have bikes on that street or a protected bike lane on that street in particular without removing parking. But that's something that we could continue to study as we go forward. Okay. Thank you for that. Great job, everybody. I look forward to seeing this come to fruition and also really happy to hear the word equity and things that, you know, when Charles first came and started doing the single bike lanes as a constituent, a lot less just one bike lane, you know, and you get a little frustrated because like what what's the point of one bike lane of A to see everybody really advocating for an entire network, a bird's eye view of how we're really connecting the community? It takes a big vision and it takes a real commitment from the city. And so I'm really proud of all the work that you guys have been doing over the last couple of years. So thank you. Councilman Price. Thank you. I want to echo the same thing and thank staff and our consultants who are involved in this project. We have been the beneficiary of some of the innovative traffic enhancements that have been going on throughout the city. And change is very, very difficult for folks to accept. But I think that all the improvements that I've seen have been very positive. So I want to thank our staff for giving us the the confidence and the support that we need to make changes like that. And I look forward to seeing this plan come to fruition and of course, seeing the Sixth Street Bike Boulevard come to CD two and three. So thank you. Councilor Mungo. I want to echo some of the comments of my colleagues. First, I want to thank the staff for the work that they did, not just in the plan and the implementation, but in the recovery that we've done a little bit through the communities as some of these have rolled out, because similar to what Councilmember Pearce said, someone sees one bike lane go up and it's not connected to anything and. Some think it's beautiful and some think it's atrocious, and the community's come out and they're upset. And so it's important that we do this and continue to do outreach. You did considerable amount of outreach. I would only recommend that in the future before bike bollards go in a residential community, that we notify that residential community and gain their input. I look forward to potential modifications as we roll these out and connect them to understanding the difference between what belongs in a residential community and what belongs in a commercial corridor, and how that all connects together appropriately. Because I think that we're going to have to make some minor changes along the way. But I think that we're open to a. A period where they're all together and connected and then an assessment of modifications and what that looks like over time. And the most important component is maintaining things every time the council brings up great ideas that make the city better. We also have to talk about what do es that cost us long term and how are we going to pay for that and how do we make sure that it doesn't take from other important infrastructure needs and public safety needs? So I will be supporting this item and look forward to a 6 to 12 month turnaround and modification as needed for residential communities. And just to reiterate that you are committed to doing before and after studies on these projects as they go in and afterwards. I appreciate that. I know that a lot of the community is very happy to have the road diet that is created by the bike lanes because it does slow down the traffic, or at least I feel that it has. I like Amy and probably in the yellow section. I've been biking a little bit more since the bollards have been up, mostly because I feel like I have to. And like these, these bollards are here. I better go biking and see what that's like in the BOLLARD area and I had not done that before. I'd only really stuck to the riverbed because I felt safer there. And so now I'm out in the community. But it is scary when you go from a protected lane to a completely out in the open. I have I will I don't I don't know how to bike down, Clark. It's just a scary experience and I probably won't do it again. But we have a lot of college students that do that every day. And I thought to myself, Man, I should try it. Oh, my gosh, how do they do this? So I look forward to creating that safety for both cars and bikers and also maintaining the esthetics and beauty of the community. Thank you. Councilman Austin. Thank you. And I'll be brief. I think both of my colleagues have said it said most of what needs to be said. I'd just like to thank everybody and appreciate everybody who contributed to this or most importantly, our staff and our residents who who I know for a fact, at least on one of these projects, the Daisy Lane, we had close to 18 meetings, community meetings, too. And I don't think we ever reached complete consensus on that. We got a few nice roundabouts and some treatments in the neighborhood, and we're looking forward to the Linden Project coming on board really soon as well. This active transportation mode is where we need to go for the future. I think these both presentations, the pedestrian as well as the the bicycle master plan will help us get there and make our city much more livable. And so, again, I just want to salute the staff and the consultants and the residents and everybody who had anything to do with this, this plan. Councilor Entrepreneur Yeah, briefly. I was just being facetious. I'm not a no way. No. Hi. No how bicyclists. In fact, I'm assuming you may remember I think it might have been like 2010. You had a meeting at many Gan school. I think Alan was probably there too, and I was the only attendee who rode a bike to your bicycle meeting. So but I just want to mention, because Clark Avenue was brought up that there is no bicycle lane planned for Clark Avenue in the fourth district, that is between Atherton and d PCH. And what Councilmember Monga was referring to would be north of the four or five freeway. I believe I'm correct in that. We actually don't. Have one either. Okay. I just won't bike there anymore. Okay. I'm just trying to say it was both a lot of calls to our office. Thank you. Thank you. We're going to go to the public in a minute. Wanted to say a few things and then turn to Mr. West. Mayor. Councilman, I. Just want to actually, I'm going to say a few things and then turn to Mr. Smart. That's okay. So just a couple of things. So first, obviously, great document, very supportive, have been, you know, since I was on the council of all this stuff. I'm I just really want to make sure that we're like really pushing this stuff. Mr. WEST Because I know that sometimes it's I feel like we're making more progress and and other times we're making less. And I know that's important to all of us. But are we being aggressive when it comes to infrastructure when we're doing our cap? Or are we going to see a lot of this progress implemented through the budget process? Because there's a lot of projects in that they're not adequately funded. We can have like Eric Wickstrom. Give us a quick little report. He's been he and his team have been extremely successful in getting a lot of Metro dollars that are going to come down the pike in the next 12 hours. And now we're going to get more of this. Well, we can put that in a report or something. But Craig and his team have been very, very successful in getting infrastructure dollars to implement a lot of this and make it reality. Well, I mean, do we have a lot of dollars to implement this stuff? Eric So, Mayor, we have. We've been successful with a lot. Of the grant funding. I think historically some of it's 25 million we've gotten. But how much do we have now? Now? Well, that's kind of we're still implying with that, but we've been going after grants continuously. And you saw that we've got the Spring Street and Orange Avenue backbone networks that will be submitting a grant application for we've got money in the pipeline for Artesia coming for Metro, coming online in several years. So it's a it's a continuous effort going after grant funding. Is there is a daisy project fully funded the Daisy project. We have a federal earmark. We're waiting to get processed. So there's funding there, but it's a process of swapping dollars. Okay. So when when does that start construction? Daisy We don't have a. Timeline yet because we have to wait for the. Dollar. We've been talking about. We've been talking about that project for like five years. I know. Okay, so when do we start construction on the Daisy project? We're hoping to get dollars finalized this year and then start construction later this year or early next year. So this project is way behind what it should be. Yes, correct. Okay. And what about the Sixth Street project? Sixth Street. Bids open on that tomorrow. So construction will start this summer with completion b y the end of the year. Because we've been planning the Daisy Street project, even when the six year project was a twinkle in the eye. Right. Okay. So that's concerning. Not that the other one is an important because it is, but I just want to make sure that that north south connector connecting the north of the city to the south of the city has been put on the back burner over and over again, it appears to me. So I just want to make sure that that gets the priority it deserves. Absolutely. Okay. Mr. West. I just wanted to point out, Mayor Councilmembers, that we've always had active mobility coordinators in the city. We have three out of the four that we've had in the audience tonight. We've got our first mobility quarter. So Meghann is here tonight. Yay, Sumi. We have our second mobility corner. Charlie Gandy is in the audience tonight as well. Our third coordinator, Al Crawford's in the audience tonight. Nate Burgess just left us and we're recruiting right now for another one. And we also have our bike ambassador for a long, long time, Tony Cruise, in the audience. They've obviously been very, very instrumental in the whole effort. You guys are the best. So thank you, guys. Any public comment? Ford. Let me start this off, Alan Crawford. I was the former white coordinator. Representing Bikeable Communities, and I get to do a lot of consulting with communities throughout. Southern California on putting. In bike. Facilities and in walking facilities. And I assure you, everyone is jealous of Long Beach. One of my colleagues in the San Fernando Valley the other day said, You guys are 20. Years ahead of us. Not sure it's quite that good, but we're certainly leading. And what's so cool about it is that it makes Long. Beach such a desirable place to live, to work, and to play. Look at what's. Happened to downtown just in the last few years, since we've put in the separated lanes. We're doing things that make people want to move here. We're making things where people want to build businesses here. We're transforming it because we're making it biking and walking friendly. Eight years ago, I was at a meeting with then Councilman. Garcia at Jennifer Peyser, and he had just gotten back. From severe Seville, Spain. And we had looked at a world class city of infrastructure. And he came back and was, we can do something better. There was a woman that stood up. She said. Mr. Garcia, I. Have three children. One of them goes to Cabrillo High School. One goes to Stevens. Elementary and one goes to Jefferson Middle School. We get up very early in the morning, we get on our bikes and I drop each and every one of them off at school. I don't do it by choice. I do it because I can't afford anything else. She said. Can you please do. Something to make it safe for me and my children to get to. School? What you have just done, what you are about to do, will accomplish that vision that Robert had of eight years ago. Bike lanes make a difference. Third and Broadway. We've dr opped. Ex crash rates pardon me by 50%. While we've doubled. The number of people walking and triple the number of. People biking. Vista Street Bike Boulevard. We had nine crashes at the corner of Park and Vista in the corner examined on Vista in the two years before we put it in. In the three years after we've had one, we dropped accident rates by 40% on that court, or we increased the number of kids walking by 100%. We increased the number of kids biking to school by 150%. You are going to make a huge difference in our community. I'd like to thank Dr. Dr. Garcia, Dr. Lowenthal and in particular, Pat West, who has been just a phenomenal. Champion for this whole biking movement. Thank you, guys. Thank you for our support. Appreciate it. Yes. And good evening. All right. I think that language really needs to be recognized for the fantastic job they've done on bike lanes on Saturday and Sunday. I'm sorry. I'm going to say something very politically incorrect here, and that is as I drive around the city, there's nobody using them. I used to go down Second Street from one end to the other and look at that green thing on the ground. And there's not one bike there. The bike along the trail, along the beach. We can use the bikes on the river we can use. But I'm sorry. I've lived here all my life. Rode my bike to school. Didn't need a bike lane. I'm still here, but has any. But I didn't hear the word utilization at all in that presentation that was just done. Utilization. What is it? From my perspective, the mind may be all wrong, but I think you've got an underutilized system with a lot of money being spent. And what I was hoping not to hear was the word grant. It seems government thinks that Grant is free money. No. When you get a grant from the state, where do they get it? Taxes. You get a grant from the feds. Where do they get it? Taxes? Well, they print it, I guess. But anyway, I'm sorry to throw that on there, but I think. Maybe you could ask staff to give you a utilization of the first bike paths that are in on every day and make them different colors. Don't you know, start out slow but make the people who are putting these bike lanes in show utilization. Why do we want to spend the money? It was not being used. And you're not evidently tracking the utilization of the current bike paths we have in it. Mr. Mayor, I know you have a dream, you have a vision. I appreciate that. But Vice Mayor Richardson, as we were talking, I got thinking of the pictures of Vietnam, Sully spikes or somewhere in the Philippines or or in China. This is not China. We have 28 million cars and trucks. In California, you have 3 million in Colorado. Just to give you a thing, this is a car place. Anyway, please do a utilization study and require the people who make the plans to build this stuff to measure what goes on to it. Thank you very much. Next speaker. Thank you. Good evening. My name is Laura Mary Field and I'm representing the walk bike Long Beach Steering Committee.

Walk Bike. Long Beach is the newest chapter of the Los Angeles County Bicycle Coalition, and we're an all volunteer group who is really looking to center the experiences of working class folks of color in our equity, in our mobility movement. Really looking at those who are using transportation, active transportation as a necessity, as a utility beyond just recreation. Bringing the improvements that we've seen in our downtown, across our city, we were able to participate in the Bicycle Master Plan process. Through some of the great outreach events like the Open House on Anaheim, the focus groups surveys. And there's a lot of exciting things in this plan. But for us, one thing we saw, we really engaged community members around Anaheim in the Anaheim corridor. And it struck us that Anaheim really should be on that map. And the biggest reason is that heat map you saw earlier in the presentation when you're looking at collisions. Anaheim corridor has a very high rate higher than any straight corridor. But it's not been prioritized for bicycle improvements. We do understand and our members actually know this story. One of our members was who is a cycling instructor, has tons of experience, was hit on PCH in Anaheim. Really due to insufficient streets and infrastructure. So what we're looking at. Um hmm. Re going over my I was, you know, 1030 good times. But really. For us that it's just important and imperative that Anaheim is included on this plan. We understand that it is a transit priority, but we also believe that being a transit priority doesn't mean it can't be studied and looked into as a bicycle priority as well. We think these things can go hand in hand. We know great things are going to be done on 10th Street and 15th Street to make those streets better. I ride my bike every day on 10th Street. It's a safer street than Seventh Street or Anaheim, but people are still going to ride on those main streets where the destinations are, where they're thoroughfares. To get places. So we know that the improvements on the other streets are great, but it doesn't take away the need to use these streets with destinations with several business districts and many opportunities. So we encourage the City Council to consider the study of including Anaheim in the Bicycle Master Plan. Thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker. Hello. The mayor and council members. My name is here on the. And I'm the policy and outreach coordinator at the Los Angeles County Bicycle Coalition, also known as L.A. CBC. We are a countywide bicycle advocacy organization with about 3000 dues paying members and 30,000 supporters throughout the county. Our mission is to make all communities in the L.A. County a healthier and safer and more fun place to ride a bike. We strongly support we strongly support the city's new bicycle masterplan. However, we are concerned that the key quarter, like Anaheim, used by hundreds of bicyclists, were removed without enough community engagement and proper assessment. People who walk and bike on the street know the best when bike lanes are needed before removing the street from the plan entirely. We urge the city to reexamine Anaheim Street as the bicycle quarter and assess the mobility needs of all road users, including people on bikes. Oftentimes, a lot of cities in the county and even in the nation look up to Long Beach for its great infrastructure and mobility. Innovations made earlier than many cities in this region. We appreciate the city's national leadership in bicycle infrastructure, but we truly hope that Long Beach steps up, takes a wholesome approach to the bicycle infrastructure system from the mobility equity lens, and listen to the real needs from the communities through meaningful community outreach processes. Thank you so much. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. Good evening. I'm Michel Morey, native Southern Californian Beach alumna, and I live in the third district. I've been a non motorized transportation planner for a little city west and northwest of Long Beach for almost 23 years. So I've been doing this a long time. As the region becomes more dense and complex, we have an increasing need for multiple modes of transportation, including transit, bicycling and walking. As we are on the brink of an obesity epidemic. It is important to safely offer modes of transportation that get people moving. With all due respect, there is not a current bikeway network. We have a fragment of abandoned bikeways that don't connect. And until you connect the network, we're not going to have people riding and actively using that space. I encourage you to connect the existing bike lane bikeway facilities and ask for your. Yes vote on the plan. Thank you. Thank you, Nick Speaker. Hi there. My name is Connor Locke. I'm in the fourth district. I studied city and state development in Munich, Germany, where I rode a bike all over the place, walked all over the place while I was exploring Europe and the modern infrastructure they have there with some of the projects that are trying to be put in place by this plan, I learned that the Dutch opened their car doors and I didn't hear this in terms of education. It might be in your briefing book, but they open their car doors with their opposite hand, so it forces them to look over their shoulder to see if there are cyclists coming in those protected bikeways. So this is something that happens in Amsterdam, in The Hague, in cities all across Northern Europe, and it's something that I think should be raised. It's something I just wanted to get up here and bring up because it's a super simple, easy and effective education technique to get this made safer for everybody. When I first moved to Long Beach, I would ride my bike every Friday morning before work from the Bixby Village area all the way up the river and then back down the Studebaker. After grabbing a donut. And the amount of times I had to dodge around, people who just threw their car door open was pretty shocking, especially on a Friday morning at like 7 a.m. But it's just a super simple thing. I don't think it adds really pretty much any cost. And if you have thought of it, awesome, then I'm not a broken record, but if you haven't thought of it, I think it might be a good idea. So thanks. You speak? Hi. Steve Gerhart with Long Beach. The bicycle masterplan is an important update to our active transportation puzzle, and I applaud the efforts that the city has made so far. A few years back, bike bike facilities were being installed so quickly around town that there's no way a plan could have kept up with it. And we have lost some of that momentum. We'd love to see it come back. We're super excited about the ADT concept. It's a great way to design our streets and the city and the idea of closing gaps. That's really important to make the network complete, and we want to stay focused on that. That's really all I had to say. I did want to point out that I just had a conference of healthy community activists all around the country, and when I told them I was from Long Beach, he said, You guys are doing amazing things and I want to keep it that way. So let's stay ahead of that curve. Thank you so much. Thank you. Speaker. Darling. Thank you, Mayor. Council people. My name is Charlie Gandy. I'm a citizen of the second district. I'm also a bike advocate. And I support, obviously, this bike master plan. As a professional in this world, I see a lot of plans and this is state of the art. I think it's going to be something we as citizens of Long Beach are going to be proud of. But I really came tonight to talk on behalf of a friend, and that's Mark Bixby. He wanted to be here, but he couldn't. And so he sent me. Mark was a serious bicyclist. He was also a serious runner, a serious swimmer. He was a businessman. He was a community builder. And of course, he was a family man. So he would endorse this ambitious bike program. He'd endorse a serious swimming program. He would endorse anything to encourage people to get out and enjoy Long Beach under their own power. And because he saw what the potential would be if Long Beach became a place where people could be free range kids and get around town by bicycling or walking or transit. So he endorses all this as a business man. He knew that this was going to be an important part of Long Beach narrative. He knew if we wanted to attract young people and new businesses, we needed to keep up with these sorts of trends. And he would have said, go big or go home with this kind of program. So as a community builder, he saw bikes as influencers. He saw police in recognizing that if kids were cranking on bikes and learning to build bikes, there were less kids that were trying to steal bikes. He saw that the Health Department was carrying on all these active living programs and endorsed the concept because he knew that he wanted his kids to be raised in a place that they could be active. A nd they knew the public works department recognized that these facilities were invitations for people to get out and ride bikes. And so all combined Mark knew and embraced active living. He knew that it was good for his hometown. It was great for his city, his family, his friends and his neighbors. He influenced us all, and he continues to do so here. So in his name. Let's go big. Thank you. Thank you. Speaker. Hey, Mayor Garcia, council members. My name is Tony Cruz, and I'm the bike ambassador for the city of Long Beach. And I just got to say, it's really nice to listen to all of the previous speakers because I think it really shows how much support we have, you know, not only on the consultant side, but just, you know, community members. And then as well on the planning side for our bike master plan. And your guys's support for updating that plan is critical, and especially if you look at the network that we are envisioning, you know, having here in Long Beach. And so for me personally, I do a lot on the education side with kids. And my number one goal is to teach kids how to ride from one does or to ride to a destination, to pick a destination and then figure out how to get there using bike infrastructure. So I typically run a 3 to 5 week camp and by the third week all the kids in my group can tell you what the type of infrastructure that they run on. And also by the third week, a parent will usually join. So it goes from just being a kid type of activity to now I have parent involvement and it becomes a family activity. And so now I if I'm out on the beach bike trail or on trail close to home, I'll run into families riding, you know, after taking a class like this. So it's really important that we continue to be leaders in the bike advocacy and infrastructure world so that we can, you know, build a better network, obviously, for our community and be that example for, you know, cities like L.A. and others. So that's, I think you. Thanks so much. Next speaker. My name is Jim Dorsey. I'm a longtime resident of Long Beach. Three generations in the ninth District. Councilman Austin and Councilman Richardson, I. Share your pain. Long Beach does not stop at Del Amo Boulevard. It actually goes on beyond that a little bit. And I know, Mayor, that you know that because we spent some time together at the opening for the Artesia Bikeway. And I'm glad that the plan does include so much, so many of the areas of the city that often get left out of these things. Councilman Mongo. I'm glad to see that you've kind of come around on this or or maybe understanding a little more. I was in attendance at the Eldorado Public Comment event and. To see that you're not willing to throw the baby out with the bathwater on this is very encouraging to me. I think that something probably will get done about those bollards and make them a little more attractive. But I think. As a user of. All of the bike lanes in the city because I do like to cruise around the city and che ck out all the different bike lanes because I'm really interested in that and, and, and being involved in. Go into the public comment meetings and and getting involved in this process. I started writing my cycles about again because I wrote them with a kid. I started writing again about ten years ago because my I met Tony Cruz. I don't know if that was a good thing or not. But getting out on the bike. I've learned so much more about the city that I've lived in all my life and about some of the other neighborhoods that weren't necessarily accessible. To me because of the natural barricades that they get put up. You have freeways, the 91 freeway cuts, north Long Beach right in half. And these things are important to the quality of the quality and the connection of the city so that. Everybody gets to see more about what's going on with the city. And I think the last thing we need to do to really improve bicycle safety in the city of Long Beach is to get pet West to learn how to ride a little more safely. I'm just kidding here. But that's what I and I just. I think we're headed in the right direction. I want to be Portland at some point in time. And and I think this is an important step in the right direction. Thanks. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. I appreciate many of you staying after the meeting to talk with me. I've learned a lot. My fiance and I bike shopping. I've had the same bikes in seventh grade and I've recently had to replace both wheels. I've learned the difference between a bollard and an armadillo and a bunch of other things that I didn't know that I had any importance in my life. But as I learn, I hope to grow. And I think that's a big part of being a council person. And we have to go in and listen to our constituents and those with the loudest voices often get heard first. But that does not mean that that is the end of the argument. I've always said that. Research and knowledge and speaking to all the constituencies, even the ones that aren't loud, yelling the loudest is very important in the decision making process because sometimes the most supportive people are the quietest. So thank you. Thank you. And we're going to go to a vote and please, please fix the connection between the cycle track and then going on to First Street. I know I've been complaining about it forever, so it's an easier connection ASAP. Please. It's annoying me. Okay. Please cast your votes. Motion passes seven zero. Thank you. But you guys are doing great. You know you're doing great. Okay. Thank you, guys. All the all the all the bike folks. You guys are awesome. You are always fighting the good fight. Always out here. You're always with doing things. Item 20 East Communication from Vice Mayor Richardson Council Membership in Councilwoman Mango and Council Memo Durango. Recommendation to request the City Manager to work with South Coast Air Quality Management District to report on the impacts of the City of Paramount air quality to Long Beach residents. Council member I'm sorry. Vice Mayor. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Here in Long Beach, we border a number of cities, and in the ninth district border, the cities of Paramount, Bellflower, Bellflower, Lakewood, Compton, and the community of Rancho Dominguez, an unincorporated section of L.A. County. So issues commonly across across commonly cross city boundaries. What's important that we stay up to date on manner matters that can potentially impact our residents? Our request today focused on a recent air quality concern with businesses located in City of Paramount, which are both only about a half mile away from District nine Long Beach neighborhoods. In October 2016, the South Coast Air Quality Management District began investigating two metal processing facilities in the city of Paramount after detecting hexavalent chromium, a potentially cancer causing metal. And in the interests of transparency, we placed this motion on the agenda to request city staff to do our diligence and coordinate with HQ, M.D. and City Paramount to better understand any impacts that this incident has had on our Long Beach residents and their quality of life. So tonight we're beginning that conversation and that discussion and will ask city staff to come back to the City Council with their full findings after engaging HQ, M.D. So we'll start with a brief staff report in a few questions now. Diana Chang, our manager of Government Affairs. I can talk a little bit about this item. Vice Mayor, Council and mayor. We are aware that there are concerns that the City of Paramount and accused have around their metal. Facilities without. Getting into too much detail on on. The findings that a Camden Paramount have been. Discovering. We are willing and interested in working with the Air Quality Management District and our neighbors on figuring out any impacts to Northampton and the city of Long Beach. Okay. And I just have a few questions, Miss Mustang two, and I would hope that the responses could be included in whatever report comes back. I'd like to better understand what hexavalent hexavalent chromium is. I'd like to know the difference between a regular metal shop and the ones that have hexavalent chromium emissions. I know that we have Weber Metals here in Long Beach and Paramount and a number of metal shops that are not necessarily hexavalent chromium emission emitters. And so we want to understand the difference between those two and understand where they where they are that are in Long Beach and close to Long Beach. So we want to understand that and we want to confirm and maybe you can answer this for us now, who is the lead agency that does evaluate potential potential impacts of air quality of businesses that surround Long Beach? Sure. So the US EPA establishes health based air quality standards that all states must achieve. And in California, the California Clean Air Act also establishes requirements for cities and counties to meet. It is the company's responsibility for developing pla ns and regulations to. Achieve these public health standards by reducing emissions from business and industry. So and it appears that ACME is is the lead on this. Okay. And we have already engaged them, correct? Yes, that is correct. Okay. And so when do we anticipate to have some report of the findings of that discussion back to city council? We think we can have something back to you in about 45 days. Okay. Have we spoken with the City of Paramount as well? Yes. Our office has been in contact with the city manager's office and Paramount. Okay. So and so in 45 days, we'll have a report back. And can that include potential next steps if we do find that there is some impact along beach neighborhoods? Yes, certainly. Well, thank you very much. And so that's my motion to come back in 45 days with a report. Any other accounts, comments, seen, any public accounts of your anger? I want to I want to thank Vice Mayor Richardson for bringing this forward. I know how equality is important to his neighborhoods as it is in mine. So I'm glad that you're bringing this forward and I strongly support it. Katie, public comment CNN. Okay. We'll go ahead and do the this motion for this for this report. Then with consensus, no objection. Next item. To. Item 21 is a report from financial management recommendations received for the fiscal year 2016 year end budget performance report citywide. Adam, 18, is communications from Councilwoman Mango Councilwoman Gonzalez. Vice Mayor Richardson. Recommendation to request the city turned into draft resolution in support of the state of urban manufacturing report. Gentlemen. Yes? I want to thank everyone for waiting. I know it's been a long night and we're already at almost 830. Many of you know that the. Presentations get filled up pretty quickly in the beginning of the agenda, months and months in advance. But I felt that this was important enough to make an agenda item. The State of Urban Manufacturing Report is a 24 2017 workforce and industrial development study across 13 U.S. cities, and the language has been identified as a potential pilot city for this study. The leaders of the study are Urban Manufacturing Alliance, a national nonprofit organization with approximately 500 member organizations and city partners who are focused on revitalizing manufacturing in metropolitan hubs. And what we're talking about is the high paying job manufacturing. Ezra has partnered to integrate the study's data into the data lab portal, and we are really excited for this opportunity with that. I think that our speaker on the matter has stepped away. And so I urge my colleagues to vote in support of this resolution by. Any public comment saying none. There's a motion. Who's a second K Vice Mayor Richardson. All those in favor say. I also want to say that Lina was really supportive of this, but she had to be home with sick baby Luca tonight. But she was very supportive. Any public comment? I was in favor, said I. Others no. Oppose. Sure. Li ke. So tonight. Can you hear me? I just want to say. Great work on bringing this item forward. I think that it's definitely the right direction. And I wanted to make sure that when the item comes back, that they also include some next steps, policy ideas, because that wasn't necessarily laid out in and the agenda item. Yes, this is just the resolution to support the study. And once we've had some preliminary meetings with multiple council members, actually. And so there's a lot to come. Okay. So just to be clear in that in that study that comes back, that part of that study, because I know that the organization does do some policy recommendations or ways to make sure that that's carved out. So I just wanted to say it's a great next step. Okay. All those in favor of should I mention carries. I guess we just did that. So item 816. Adam 23 A report from Water Recommendation to adopt resolution increasing appropriations in FY 16 in the Water Department by 11,250,000. Citywide k there's a motion in a second by Councilman Andrews, seconded by Councilmember Ranga. There's really a public comment on this item. No, but I'd like to make a comment. Absolutely. I'd like to thank our director, Chris Gardner, for his excellent leadership at the water department. It's it's particularly relevant now, although it doesn't relate directly to his appropriation request, but his swift response to some of the issues that we had with storm activity throughout the city really saved the day, especially for those living in the coastal zone and along the Alamitos Bay. And so I want to thank you personally for that and on behalf of the city, thank you for your excellent leadership and very, very efficient and high quality work product. Great job, Greg. Excellent. See no other comment from the council or the. We went to the public. There was no comments. Okay. Without objection, we would consensus. Next item. Item 24 is a report from Development Services. Recommendation to Declare Ordinance Amending the Long Beach. Melissa Picone by repealing Chapter 2.66 relating to the Long Beach Redevelopment Agency. Read and adapted as Read City. Hearing item one and authors require. It's a report from Development Services. Item one involves the Planning Commission's recommendation to approve the development of real property located at 3655 North Norwalk, below a project with 40 detached single family homes. And the appeal of that recommendation by Warren, Blair, Starsky and Long Beach Citizens for Fair Development District five. Thank you. Before we begin to do the oath now. Yes. Okay. Raise your right hand. You and each of you do solemnly state that the testimony you may give in the court now and pending before this body shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God. I do. All right. That's handle. So, city manager? Yes. Interim deputy city manager Anita Will Dempsey will introduce this item. Thank you, Vice Mayor, members of the council. We're asking our planning bureau manager, Linda Tatum, to provide the staff report. Good evening, Vice Mayor, members of the City Council, I'd like to give you a brief overview of this item. It is a proposal for a series of discretionary approvals that would be required to facilitate development of a a new 40 unit single family subdivision. We're really excited about this project. It has been some quite some time in the making and there are so few parcels in the city that are available for single family detached subdivision. So we're really pleased that this project has made it to this point in the process. First. I'd like to just give you an overview in terms of the site itself. It's a five approximately five acre site. It's located in the very far north part of the city. And just to orient you there, that the street on the right of the property is Norwalk Boulevard. To the north of the property is 226th Street. So that's a rough area in the far northwest part of the city in terms of this. Immediately north of the project site there, just south of 226th Street is a senior housing development. And that project is actually within the City of Hawaiian Gardens. This property is literally on it. It abuts the city, limit lines on the north and to the south. There are single family dwellings in the city of Long Beach. And to the to the east, there are also single family red residents. And there's a drainage channel immediately west of the project site. Next slide. Just to give you a feel for the site. It's an existing there is an existing church on the site. The church was developed back in 1957. It was a drive through church. And you can see the church building is still there. After the church was the drive through church was established. The church itself was built and it had a series of expansions that continued through 1972. So this is the site, what it looks like generally today. And that open space in the rear of the church property was just used by the church for various activities. Next, the approvals that are requested. This project requires several actions. I'll read through each one of those actions briefly. The first one is a statement of overriding consideration and findings in order to certify a final environmental impact report. The second item is to amend the city's general plan, and that request is to amend the general, the current general plan land use designation, which is institutional. The current zoning reflects the church use that's there now, and the request is to change that land use designation from from institutional and schools to elude. Number one, which is a single family residential general plan designation. The next item would be a zone change. Again, the zoning on the property is currently institutional and that reflects again the use of the property as a church and the request is to change it to a single family residential zone. r1m And that reflects the proposed density of the project. The next action that's requested is approval of the vesting tentative tract map, and that is what would actually subdivide the property, the 5.7 acre property into 40 residential lots and one common area. And the the next action that is being requested tonight is a site plan review. And that site plan review is for the review of the single family homes and all the appropriate conditions of approval. And lastly, a an appeal for this project was filed when the Planning Commission heard the item. And the final action that's being requested is for the council to act on to uphold the designation or the recommendation on the project by the Planning Commission. Next slide. This is a summary site plan of the project. Again, for purposes of orientation, the Norwalk Boulevard is there to the right of the screen to the north. And. Is the senior project. And this just gives you an idea of the orientation of the project. And I'll briefly go through some of the some of the amenities on the project. This is a view of the site of the proposed site from the entry. You can see that it would be a gated community with gated access, very lushly landscaped there at the entry of the property. Next slide, a couple of other key features of the property. You can see on the slide at the upper right that there is a meandering walkway that separates the both the backyards of the properties. And all of that would become an open space that would be used by the residents of the property. So in addition, you can also see that there are there's an outdoor play area. There is a picnic and barbecue area and of course, seated bench areas. And to the lower left, that's again, another schematic of the entry, the the circular entry with the gated access to the site. Again, this gives you an idea of the parking and circulation on the site. The site does have all of the code required parking for single family residents. In addition, they have provided guest parking for the site and that the guest parking is up north is highlighted. In addition, there is parking on one side of the street. This gives you an idea of the architecture and design of the project. It is influenced by the craftsman style architecture, and the units are three and four bedrooms. The the smallest of the units is about 2400, and the largest of the units is 2700 square feet. And you can see that there are three different designs and a couple of different design styles within each one of the unit types that makes for a little bit of a variety. In terms of the unit selection within the project. Look. Like to talk a little bit about the environmental review and why a project like this required an environmental impact report. The rationale for requiring an environmental impact report is that the project did have a a historic church, which was the drive through church that was on the site or is was previously operated on the site, was determined to be a historical resource and accordingly a draft environmental import impact report was completed. However, after the a nalysis of that report was completed, it found that the proposed project would have potentially significant and unavoidable unavoidable environmental impacts in the area of cultural resources. Regarding the chapel structure and of course the historical drive in church facility. And because the it is significant from a cultural perspective being that it was the first drive in church in the region and the architecture of the church itself was an example of a mid-city century, modern architectural style that was applied to an institutional use. So those two features made the project, the actual church itself, a significant historical resource. And after looking at the potential alternatives, there is no alternative to move forward with the project except with the demolition of the church. And because that is a historic resource that cannot be replaced, the that is a significant and unavoidable impact. So after the mitigation requiring archival documentation of the church and the chapel, the impacts related to the demolition of the building would remain significant and unavoidable. And therefore the City Council, if this project is to move forward, would be required to adopt the findings and to approve a statement of overriding considerations for the project. And that statement has been prepared. And I mentioned earlier that the mitigation requirement would be that there would be a full documentation of the resources on the site as a part of the mitigation measure for this action. I'd also like to point out that the appeal that was filed for this project, it was quite unusual because typically you file an appeal for an action that would not otherwise have to be heard by the City Council anyway. However, an appeal was filed on this project and the appellant in summary stated that they felt that the project was inadequate in the openness and the transparency of the planning and development process relative to the secure, the air and the historic buildings. So that's a summary of the application, the appeal application that was filed and a copy of which was included in your packet. So I'd like to summarize and to close out by saying that on January 5th, the Planning Commission heard this item and voted unanimously to approve each of the actions that I've mentioned and recommended that the City Council approve the project, including the ER and all of the other associated actions. And so staff is recommending that this project move forward. I would like to go on the record and say that today we did receive a letter of support for the project. And with that, I would like to close the staff comments, but I would like to acknowledge that we do have our environmental consultant here to answer any detailed questions. We also have the project planner, Monica Dick, of work and who worked on the project, as well as our environmental liaison, Craig Shell, Fonte and Rincon. Our environmental consultant is also here and will be available to answer any questions y ou might have on this project. Thank you, Ms.. Tatum. Before we begin the council's deliberation, we have public comment. Is there any public comment on this hearing? Now be the time. I believe the person that filed the appeal. Okay. So the appellant gets to speak first. That's correct. Mississippi attorney want to outline how this. Goes, the way that this should work. Mr. Blazer She is the appellant in this case, speaking, I believe, on behalf of himself and a group that he's identified in the appeal. Staff has already given its report. Mr. Lisowski now gets a chance to make his presentation. Then we would open it up for public comment and then back to the City Council for deliberation and determination. Thank you, Mr. Lisowski. You have the floor. And before you begin, let's clarify what is the time constraint here? I think in a hearing such as this, we provide a reasonable amount of time, but there's no set timeframe. Okay. Let's say let's start with 5 minutes. Oh, how about ten? Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. I've got my own clock up here to here on behalf of myself and Long Beach Citizens for Fair Developments with respect to this project. Staff noted that it was unusual that we appealed the planning decision. Well, we wanted to make sure that we opposed the environmental impact review process in its the way that it was carried out. I've entered a letter from our attorney, made a copy for each member of the council and handed a copy also to the city clerk. And I would like to read some of those comments into the record. The air is inadequate. It should not be certified and it should be revised. The project is an exercise in impermissible spot zoning and should not be approved. The alternatives analysis, discussion of historic and cultural resources and traffic analysis contained in the EIA are inadequate. This letter and my comment tonight are intended to inform the council that the E.R. and the statement of overriding considerations prepared in relation to the project are inadequate under California Environmental Quality Act secure. And that if you approve this development as planned, you would be exercising impermissible spot zoning. I won't review the project because staff already did that. I'll just start with the fact. Let me highlight the high points. Number one, the E.R. failed to analyze a reasonable range of alternatives as required by secure. Number two, the E.R. underestimates the campus's historical significance. Number three, the E.R. contains inadequate analysis of traffic impacts. The number for the project is an exercise in a legal spot zoning. And finally, the E.R. violates secure in approximately 20 other ways, which I will briefly run through. The alternatives analysis in the Environmental Impact Report is flawed because the E.R. only analyzed alternatives that meet almost none of the project objectives. The project objectives are to have desirable housing be created. The ERs should be required to consider a reduced developmen t alternative that meets some of the project objectives. They should have also considered the project involved develop some housing and also keeping some of the historic structure, which is the chapel. The E.R. should have analyzed the alternative of building homes to the extent possible without demolishing the chapel itself. Such an alternative could potentially meet all of the project objectives and reduce the impact on historic resources. Instead, what happened was the E.R. impermissibly analyzed project alternatives that met almost none of the objectives. So they only looked at destroying the chapel. They should have been an alternative up zoning of neighborhoods nearby to allow for the level of development that's contemplated by the project. By only rezoning the chapel parcel to allow higher density development is a problem. And finally, the E.R. should have analyzed the alternative of building the project at another site, which did not have such historic structures . A little bit about the historic significance. This drive in church came about at a time when it was originally broadcast from their weekly national television broadcasts for a ten year period between 1971 and 1981. The buildings are historic. Examples of the automobile centric development in Southern California, also associated with early televangelism, which gave rise to, excuse me, televangelism and as a phenomenon in American history. More notably, the building was designed by Beano Fisher, who was a Nazi war camp survivor. He also designed the Los Angeles Martyrs Memorial, and he helped design what became the Crystal Cathedral with Richard Neutra, a world renowned modern architect. So we've got this example of mid-century modern architecture. It has this distinct expanses of glass. It's a beautiful space if you've seen the pictures and it is eligible for listing on the California historic resources and for a designation as Long Beach City landmark. As you know, myself and other organizations are pretty upset about the destruction of historic buildings like the Jurgens Trust building. And so this would be another example of a historic building that could be saved here in Long Beach. The traffic impacts the way that the air analyzed the traffic impacts was merely to assume that there would be less traffic coming and going in a residential setting than there would be with a church or a preschool or other use. And the project is also an exercise in a legal spot zoning. Spot zoning is uniformly frowned upon as a poor you poor land use planning that that points towards favoritism. It's our understanding that. If we want to challenge spot zoning, there's a lower standard because. Spot zoning constitutes a blatant example of discriminatory land use legislation. There's some government code sections, for example, 65 852 that requires all zoning regulations to be uniform for each class or kind of building or use of land throughout each zone. But the regulation in one type of zone may differ from those type of zones. I think the council people, I hope, would see that when you're looking at the slew of approvals that need to happen from changing the general plan to changing the zoning in that particular spot to approve any site plans, it's all being pushed through in a business as usual type sense. Briefly, the E.R. also violates secure in failure to analyze and mitigate traffic impacts. Air pollution impacts biological resources. Also, we see no evidence that under the California code that the Native American organizations were consulted for any significant Native American prior uses of the site. Also, there was no analysis of whether the building can be relocated. We've got one of the 40 under 40 designees is has a business that has been supported by this council specifically for the purpose of saving buildings and moving them. Unfortunately, the transition did burn down, but we have those abilities here in Long Beach. And so school requires the E.R., the Environmental Impact Report, to have a significant description of existing environment that may be affected by the project. And this just does not meet those guidelines. And like I was saying, I don't see any evidence in the report of consultation with Native Americans as required under Senate Bill 18. Just to finish up here, when we looked at the A.P., there was no notice in the A.P. there was alternative uses being suggested. One of them was for a technical college that wanted to use the site to retrain veterans returning from war. And they were begging that this not be spot rezone so that they could possibly purchase the property to continue being used as a day to day school, Montessori day school, preschool and also a place to retrain returning veterans. And the single family use of this doesnot does not for the best and highest use of the community and does not follow. That's been about 8 minutes, 45 seconds. If the vice mayor wouldn't mind, I would like to save a minute or two for any rebuttals that might happen later. And I'm also available for any questions that the counsel or staff might have. Absolutely. So we have the applicant here and they have a right to speak before a public comment as well with the applicant, like an opportunity to speak. Go ahead. Proceed. Give us your name and go ahead and proceed. My name is Brian Coggins. I am with Preface. We are both the applicant and the land owner. So good evening to the council tonight. Vice Mayor We just want to say a few quick thank you and address a few of those comments. We are. We had a great experience working with staff, so I wanted to thank staff. We originally brought this project to staff and it was the same number of homes or lots, which was 40 a couple of years ago. And staff asked us, they said, look, we're very, very pleased about large homes for families in our Long Beach community, and that's something we'd like to see. And it's very rare and this is an are one very low density project. So staff sai d this is a great project, but we'd like to push you to bring more communal or common spaces into the project so that the gated entrance, the quarter mile loop inside the pocket parks, the picnic areas, the barbecue areas, the project is designed such that kids are playing in the streets, kids are shooting basketballs, everybody is hanging out, you know, doing barbecues together. It's definitely intended to be a communal atmosphere. So I want to thank staff because they really pushed us in that direction to address, you know, there's a lot of approvals necessary tonight. And he he mentioned several of those. The only reason tonight that we need a general plan amendment and a zone change is because of those common areas in your Long Beach City Code, as Linda will certainly tell you, are one or a low density residential project is absolutely approved approvable in the institutional zone. So in your zoning code, this project is absolutely allowable. But again, credit to staff, they wanted to see this much cooler community, an interactive community. So that's the reason for the general plan, amendment and zone change. 40 lots are allowed under current zoning. I want to thank Councilmember Mungo's office. She was fantastic, facilitating large, large community outreach meetings with the stakeholders. And then want to thank the the excellent Eldorado Park Estates community adjacent to us. We, within weeks after buying this property, met I think there was 115 people at the first meeting. We had three or four other very large meetings. So I've been doing this 15 years. I've never seen something like this where hundreds of people from the adjacent community come out and they support the project, they help you design the project, they talk to you. They say, We want to see a gate, we want to see these colors, we want to see these number of bedrooms. So big credit to that to the community there. I think in the back of your packets, you'll find 70 excuse me, 70 to 80 people who are supporting this project adjacent to us. And we did not go seek those comments. They did that organically. We as the developer did not ask them to do that whatsoever. So I've never seen that in doing this for 15 years. Just a couple of quick comments. Spot zoning is typically when you put, say, a residential project in the middle of an industrial zone, this has a residential all around it, northeast, southwest. This is not spot zoning whatsoever. Traffic, a low, low density six units per acre residential project is substantially less traffic than a a church use which is there today. He mentioned high density. This is actually the lowest density in your city, the absolute lowest. And then he mentioned alternative projects. But, you know, this church was in need of capital and they put the property up for sale. They've since moved on this. The church is still thriving, but they downsize. So we're seeing that in a lot of a lot of places. But myself, Derrick and our whole team, happy to answer any questions you may have. Thank you. Thank you so much. We we did allow you the one minute if you want to take it. Otherwise, I'm going to pull the comment. Mr. Borkowski. One minute, please. Before public comment. Mr. Lisowski, you have one minute. Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. I would just want to respond to the developer and say, why don't you try to save the church steeple? And one more point here is that the way that the city did, the E.R. process. They submitted a draft E.R. and there was significant new information under public resources Code 21092.1 and guidelines of Sequel 150885 that a new fine. Before the final air was distributed, the city failed to recirculate the air or any portion of the air as as a result of the city's failure to recirculate the air, the public and other public agencies were being deprived of any meaningful opportunity to review and comment on the project. And just finally, the 700 foot zone that that you'd notice residents, local residents on projects. I mean, that zone is nowhere in sequel. That 700 feet. That was something that this council did by ordinance a decade ago. And that zone could certainly. Thank you. That zone could certainly be expanded. And also we could use technology. I see. Thank you. Excuse me. I see all of you on Facebook, Twitter, etc.. We could certainly have a place for citizen input to where a draft air could actually have input and not from the restricted. Thank you, Mr. Boesky. Thank you. So at this point, we're going to open it up for public comment. If you have it, if you want it, if the public would like to comment on this, please come forward. And there's 3 minutes. Please give us your name and go ahead and begin. And Cantrell and I live in Eldorado Park Estates, not exactly adjacent to this proposed development. And I know of other people that are not as thrilled with this, especially the people that live along Ring Street in one story houses. And these are going to be two story houses looking right into their yards and houses. I'm a little concerned, confused about whether this is three or four bedroom houses. I understood they were all going to be four bedrooms with three baths. Tonight I heard that they're three and four bedroom houses. Nonetheless, they're very large houses, over 25,000 of 2500 square feet. And I agree. Long Beach needs more housing, but I think they need low cost housing. These houses are going for 700 to $900000. This. The cultural. You're being asked for overriding considerations to destroy this culturally historic church. As Mr. Lacasse said that there was an organization that the College of Industrial Technology that wrote to the Planning Department and offered to buy this to train returning veterans and injured workers. They said that they would retain the church. They would retain all the buildings. The church they care of that has been going, been there before, could continue. And I never saw any response to this proposal from them. I think there were other alternatives that could have been explored in Institutional. You can have hospitals, you can have medical offices, you can have schools and. Of course, this doesn't make the money that 700000 to 900000 houses do. I question the trip generation? Because according to the table with single family homes there, there will only be eight. In and 23 cars out for a total of 31 cars in the mornings and a total of 40 cars in the evenings coming back. Thank thank you for your time has been 33 minutes. We have to stick to the rules. Thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. My name is Diana, but I'm from Wrigley. I attended the Planning Commission's report on the final. Ali al e where they were. Packing people into regularly on the West Side and central Long Beach and said there's no place to do any building on the east side. And here suddenly we've got a place and we're going to build elitist homes when we have a housing shortage, a need in this city. And we're going to put we're going to increase the density in in my neighborhood where that's ten times more than in this fancy neighborhood you're building. It's time you got some some creative architecture to make some some multiple storey housing for people at the VA, Cal State, Long Beach and and start equalizing the city by putting your your your multiple housing on the east side instead of packing us in on the west and central side. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Yeah. My name is Robert. Pete and I. Come and they met Trump. So I agree with her. Everything she said as elitist, wrong you. She's got multiple housing. Don't try to keep this. That's the problem from Carson in the Alamo and that's the problem with our neighborhood soon as we got 18 ain't no ain't no apartments out there so we had a choice. You can either go to Hawthorne. You can go to L.A.. And go to Compton. You go to Long Beach. And most Alamo people choose Long Beach because rent's low and it's nice. You know, unlike what Josh Butler said, the rest rent is highest in the world, is low and is nice. So the thing is, is though by the college. That's true what she said. I mean, that's an elitist stuff to only make houses. And that's kind of what they did in my town. They kept houses, no apartments except way over by Scott Park. So everybody ends up having to move out. And now Carson isn't winning no more championships because when we were there, we were the kids and a generation after some grandkids with us, great grandkids. Carson High banning is sorry everybody knows that because we ain't had no new kids coming any young people some different so whatever you know come on do the right thing don't be elitist multiple story, you know, get that going. Listen, what that lady said, she's right. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. My name is Barry Harris. I live in the Eldorado Park estate and I frequent frequently talked to my neighbors because of the business that I'm in real estate. And I asked them what they thought about the project going in in their neighborhood. And I have to say, overwhelmingly, I got very positive reviews from many of my neighbors. I did have a few negatives, but mostly they were all positive. They're glad to see more help me going in the area. We don't have enough homes in our area to house families. And so we're thrilled to see some home, some larger family homes going in the area to bring families into our area. Thank you for your time next week, please. Good afternoon. Councilman Malcolm Bennett, a business owner in Long Beach and a 42 year realtor. I certainly support this project. There's not a day that goes by that every newspaper article hears about the housing shortage. Long Beach has an opportunity to take a stand and really make something happen. Stop talking about housing, start really do something about housing. When you think in terms of the jobs, the income, and in order to create housing, you have to have move up housing like this, maybe a little on the high side. But if people in current places don't have anything to move up to, then you'll never be able to bring in more in terms of affordable housing. I've served for three years on the California Association Realtors Housing Homeless Committee. Tomorrow we're meeting with the Regional Homeless Advisory. There's just a lot of talk about housing, but someone needs to put a shovel in the ground and build some houses if we're going to get people off the street. So I support this project. As the gentleman said, has very low density and we just can't keep saying no. And people are looking for every loophole there is to prevent a project from moving forward. We need to set new standards and we need to wake up and realize we have a housing shortage. If we don't build houses, we're going to continue to have a housing shortage. And is that simple? People need houses to live in. You have a project that that meets all the environmental and all of the other steps and takes. And so why would we then just look at every little nitpick and loophole to prevent this project from moving forward? Thank very much for your time and consideration. Thank you, sir. Our final speaker, please. Excuse me. My name is Ryan Bailey. I grew up in Long Beach, just down the street from this site. This is a great use for this property. The church is long gone. So, you know, instead of having a homeless encampment, which it's becoming, to put in some nice houses would be a good thing. Thank you. Thank you. So that concludes public comment. So at this point, we'll close the hearing and take the deliberation behind the rail. So is there. So, Councilmember Mongeau, are you making the motion here or is there a second here? Okay. Five motions to read. All right. So it's been moved and I think I see Pierce. Okay. And so let's go ahead with our deliberations. So first, I want to thank the developer. This has been a long process, a process that has been open and transparent since the very beginning. While there h ave been comments of more density, I think that even at the very first meeting, the developer gave those options to the community, that a meeting where over 100 people attended the community had, I think, little sticky dots, where there were multiple options of where what do you want to have as your next door neighbor? And so the community who was there really responded. I think that it was very interesting to hear how many of the neighbors who actually live adjacent are in homes developed by a developer, S.A. back in 1964. And they are actually being aged out of their homes because there are no bedrooms on the first floors of many of the two storey residents there. And so in the discussion about some of them are either three bedroom or four bedroom. There's a den option in one of these where if you decide to buy a lot, you could have your master bedroom on the first floor. So should you have ailments that don't allow you to move up and down the stairs as you get older in life and these properties are made in a way where they could be changed later in life and or start in a position where you have a bathroom and a bedroom on the on the ground floor. So I think that that was really important to a community that everyone who lives in this site of Long Beach wants to stay in the site of Long Beach, but perhaps is in a financial position where they could give their home that's no longer suited to them, to a family member, and perhaps move adjacent to a neighborhood and stay nearby. With that, we talk about open and transparent. The developer has been open and transparent throughout the process. They've had meetings both on site and in the neighborhoods adjacent, and I think that that's been remarkable. They've gone through several plan revisions, which has gotten them down to the 40 homes and they've taken every single comment from the planning department. We appreciate Linda Tatum and her team who've brought in a wealth of knowledge and information to ensure that this community is the best and brightest. The neighbors adjacent are very concerned about property values. And so they want to see like housing, housing that is most similar to the housing that they have so that they can maintain their property values and that those homes will sell in the range of the high seven hundreds or more. And I know the one thing that's still outstanding, I hope that my colleagues will support me on this. I will read the five motions, but also there's a lot of discussion about the school district. And while it previous discussions, Superintendent Steinhauser had said he'd be open to letting this development into Long Beach Unified, it is not currently along each unified school district property. It would actually currently be with the neighboring school district. So we want to make sure that those homeowners have options so that your neighbors don't have to go to a different school than their next door neighbor. So we'll keep that in mind as we move forward. The res idents have reached out to me and said approve it and approve it quickly. We don't want a vacant lot anymore. We want to take down the tarps and build and we want to see and get past the dust and dirt that will be with construction. So we. Enthusiastically. I ask for my colleagues support in one. I make a motion to uphold the Planning Commission's recommendation to the City Council. And then I the appeal of Warren Liszewski and Lombard Citizens for Fair Development. Motion to receive supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the public hearing. Adopt a resolution clarifying final environmental impact. Report 04-16 and adopt findings related there to adopt a statement of override considerations and adopt a mitigating monitoring and reporting program for 40 new, detached single family homes located at 3655 North Norwalk Boulevard. Motion to adopt a resolution amending the land use element of the general plan from a flood number ten Institutional and school to lady number one Single Family District. Motion to Declare Ordinance Amending the Zoning District Map by amending portions of Part 20 from Institutional II to single family residential AR 1 a.m.. Read the first time and lead over to the next regular meeting of the City Council for Final Reading and Motion to approve the vesting tentative tract map for the subdivision of 5.76 acres into 40 residential lots and approve the site plan for 40 new, detached single family homes located at 3655 Norwalk Boulevard, suite five votes, correct? Yes. Excuse me, Vice Mayor Richardson, that we can take those in order. We have to have separate votes on each of those. We can refer to them as motions one through five. And I'd point out for three of the motions, one with the zone change, one with the best intended map, the other with the site plan review. There are findings in your packet. Those motions include adoption of the findings, as is our normal practice. Okay, so we'll just go through. So we're going to call for motion number one. So that's been moved in second. It all in favor of motion number one. Say I any opposed? Say nay. Motion number one is adopted. Motion number two. Moved. Second. Second move by Mongo, seconded by Andrew's councilmembers. So all in favor say I. I'll. Oppose they may oc motion number two is approved motion number three move by mongo seconded by. Seconded by Pryce all in favor say I any oppose seeing none. Motion three is approved. Motion number four. Okay, Mongo. And I think I heard Austin and all in favor say I. Okay. Thank you. We're now at our time certain for our study session, a little beyond that. So we just need a minute or two to just get the presentation and everything ready and cued up and we'll start the study session. And then once that's over, we will go back to the regular agenda of the city council meeting. So just give us one minute. We'll begin in just about a minute. Think we are. All set up here for the study session. And again, if you're if you were here for the council meeting portion, that probably won't happen for we won't restart that part of the meeting probably, I imagine for for a little while. So we're going into the study session right now. Okay. Well, I'm going to go ahead and get started. I'm going to make some opening comments and just kind of give everyone, since we're doing a study session about what the process for our study session is tonight, we will have I'll make some opening comments. I will be then turning it over to staff who will make the presentation for tonight, which they've been working on pretty extensively. And then I'm going to invite Assembly member Bonnie Lowenthal to make a few remarks, who headed up the study group for the housing study. And then we're going to go to the city council. And of course, like we always do to ask questions and to make any comments. And then, of course, we'll be public comment like we do for all items of study session or any items before us. And that is the process. We have a draft report in front of us. So as you all know, the the process is that draft report, once comments are received tonight, will become a final report to the city council, we imagine, in the next couple of weeks. So in the next few weeks, that draft report will be final report and it will be presented to the City Council for recommendations to adopt the report as as policy. Okay. So let me go ahead. So we'll go ahead and get started. Tonight, we're having a study session on affordable and workforce housing. It's certainly a topic that has been discussed much, not just in Long Beach, but we know across the country, but especially here in California, we know that California in particular is having incredible demands when it comes to housing, whether it's for working families, whether it's homeless veterans, whether it's students. But we know that there is a housing crunch that's happening across the state. That housing crunch is also very real here in the city of Long Beach as well, because we know that this has been a challenge. The city has been embarked for many years on affordable and workforce housing policy. A lot of people don't don't realize this, but cities are actually mandated through this, through state. Ask that we build affordable housing every single year. And so the state actually sets numbers for the four cities, Long Beach included, to build affordable housing every single year. It's it's safe to say that Long Beach, along with most cities, normally fall short of the targets that are set for the state by the state of California. But we are expected to build affordable housing stock year in and year out. And we have obviously done some of that work in the city of Long Beach. At the same time, over the course of the last year, there's a few things that happened, which I think I think we're very good for the community. One was we hosted some community citywide conversations. These community conversations were organized with the help of the Afford able Housing Study Group that we put together through staff and through a lot of folks that were involved. And so I want to thank everyone that participated in those three sessions. There was included in those sessions was one session where we had the public and public comment and advocates from across the city that weighed in on the issues. In another session we had developers and so we brought in both public and private developers, both those that develop affordable housing and those that develop only market rate and private housing. Also at our roundtable to get input from the development community on what is what's happening and what is what are the latest policies happening across the country. In addition to that, we also had a conversation with housing advocates and that also happened in the course of last year. So all three were well attended, they had a robust conversation and those concluded towards the end of the last year. Picking on that topic, picking up on that, we had the study group, which was also health and staff by Mercedes Marquez, who's here with us today, who is a national expert in this area, as well as our staff. We were able to produce the report that you will that you'll be presented to in just a few minutes. The report is a comprehensive look at what the need is across Long Beach. It's a look at what we're already doing. So what has the city of Long Beach actually done over the course of the last five, ten years? And then a look at what are some of the best housing policies that are happening right now across the country? And what are some opportunities for us here locally as well? I want to say, just as we as we begin the report, that about two, maybe two or three months ago I was having a breakfast at one of my favorite cafes, and I. Most of you have probably been to this place. It's very well known in Long Beach, and there's a cook there who's been working there for eight years. He lives in our city. He's probably made breakfast for most of us at some point in our lives. He's a very hard worker and him and his family have been living in our community. They make our community strong. Him and his family are great contributors to our city. And he's been working at this place now for almost 20 years. You know, it's difficult for him to be able to get to a point where he can reach homeownership. And I think that as a community, we should want for folks like him and others to be able to be in a home, to be able to purchase their first home for him and his family. And so I think part of that conversation tonight is ensuring that Long Beach, for all the amazing things that are happening in our community and we see what's happening with home values, which are going incredibly, incredibly well for most neighborhoods across the city, we see what's happening with development. We've got to make sure that the cooks and the folks that are cleaning our parks and the workers remain an important part of our community because they have made our city strong. And I think that they're important part of who we are as a city. In addition to that, and I've said this before as well, we need to ensure that we're building housing for the thousands and thousands of professional graduates coming out of Cal State, Long Beach. Every single year we have and I attend almost I try to turn almost every graduation and I get to shake the hands of these amazing teachers, engineers, nurses, young architects then that if you're a teacher and your graduate going to Cal State, Long Beach and you marry another teacher graduating at a Cal State Long Beach, you cannot buy a home in Long Beach. And it'll it will be highly unlikely that the two of you are have no support if there's no parental support or no other support. It's very difficult for those two to be able to purchase a home or have a dream of homeowner homeownership in the city of Long Beach as well. And so that's also a challenge. We got to make sure that we are we are building and of housing for our graduating students that we're building and of housing for our workers, and that we continue to build all the great market rate housing that we're already building. And we're building some incredible quality housing that is providing folks of all levels with opportunities to enter the workforce. And so I'm excited about tonight's presentation, and I'm looking forward to obviously to the comments of the of the council and its course and to the comments of the public as well as we've been having this conversation for over the course of the last last year. Again, thank you to the group. We're going to hear from them, I know, later on today. But with that, I want to thank city staff and to turn this over to Mr. West, who's going to think open and open things up to our planning staff. Mr. West. Thank you, Mr. Councilmembers. This is a long time coming. I'm going to turn this over to our Director Development Services, Amy Bodak, and our Director of Housing, our senior housing manager, Patrick Ray. Amy. Mr. West. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the City Council, thank you very much for your attention today and for scheduling this study session on such an important topic. You know that you have a few agencies within the city family that work on housing, but today is our opportunity to recognize their work and then also expand that conversation with the community. So first, I want to acknowledge that the board members of the Long Beach Community Investment Company, which is the city's wholly owned nonprofit, is your production and rehabilitation entity for the production and rehabilitation of affordable housing. And we do have Vice Chair Diane Arnold here in the audience. I also want to recognize you in your role as of the Housing Authority, play a very important role in providing affordable housing to many members of our community. And we also have housing authority staff in the audience. Kelly Collopy, Alison King and Keesha Nathaniel are also in the audience for questions that you may be having. What you may not know is Patrick and I. You usually see me up here for planning issues, but Patrick and I also serve the lby CIC as the president and vice president of the city's Affordable Housing Development Corporation. And in that role, we work with them to utilize our resources for the production or rehabilitation of that affordable housing. But our resources are limited. And part of today's discussion is to talk about opportunities where we may be able to expand those resources, but then also constraints. So our big question is, with the public funding dwindling, how are we going to move forward in invest in affordable housing as a legitimate infrastructure investment? And what policies can we implement to stimulate housing development, both affordable housing and market rate housing? How can we incentivize developers? And what's new? Revenue sources may be available that we can capitalize upon. So one of the big questions is what is affordable housing? And everybody has a different definition of what they think affordable housing is. There is the definition that is in state law. There's the definition that HUD uses. There's the definition that a constituent might use because they don't believe that they have the ability to move into a bigger unit or they're facing or for affordability issues or overcrowding. But here are some types of affordable housing that exist that we have all been a part of. Either developing or rehabilitating special needs housing for certain segments of the population that have special needs. Certainly Section eight is a huge component that is now called housing choice vouchers. We have emergency shelters, transitional housing, senior housing, supportive services. We have large family housing, group housing, and then, most importantly, covenants that go along with the protection of those houses. There's two ways, basically, to develop affordable housing. One is providing special financing that underwrites the market rents for those units in exchange for underwriting those market rents. We we achieve covenants that that require that the affordability of those units remain in place either for 45 years or 55 years. The other way we do that is through direct rental subsidies, most commonly through the housing choice vouchers. As you probably know, emergency shelters typically provide temporary shelters on a very, very short term basis. Transitional housing is more of a 3 to 6 month type of housing environment where you can stabilize an individual or a constituent and then get them into permanent housing. Supportive housing is where you combine different types of services to that individual community, whether it is additional child care, additional job training and computer training or work readiness training, or whether it's actual counseling that can be provided on site. This next chart demonstrates the housing need for the city of Long Beach. If you look on the left h and side where it says Long Beach households, we broke the city out into population based on their average income or average median income, which is am-I. You can see that the majority of our individuals, 38%, are above moderate income. We do have a moderate income of about 17%. But if you look at the low, the very low and the extremely low, those are very high numbers that we have in the city of Long Beach. On the right hand side is the state's regional housing needs assessment. These numbers are assigned to us by the state on a semi-regular basis. We get these numbers handed down to us every time we have to update our housing element. And so I'll go into more arena numbers later. But what this does show is that our greatest need for housing units is both in the above moderate category and then in the combined low, very low and extremely low category. So our arena numbers generally do reflect our income for our Long Beach households as well. That's the good news, that there is consistency between our need and who our population actually is. So clearly we've heard quite a bit about what the housing issues are that we're facing in the county, as well as the city of Long Beach . Low paying jobs and poverty, rising housing costs both at a regional and a statewide perspective. Housing cost burden, which I'll get into. And then clearly the reduction in financial resources for the production of these units, rising housing costs. This chart should give you an example of the rising housing cost that we have seen since January of 2012, both for L.A. County and for Long Beach, both for one bedroom and two bedroom units. So you can see that there is a clear pattern over time of trends and housing costs increasing. This is our renter versus ownership rate. This is something that we look at quite a bit and really does impact the type of communities we are developing within the city. We have generally been for the last 15 years a high renter proportion community that is inched up over the last five years. It used to be about 58%. Now we're inching up to 59. 60% renters. You can see that that is not too much higher than the county, but certainly higher than California and certainly higher than the United States in general. It could be because of our immigrant population. It could be because of our ethnic breakdowns that we're much more diverse. Or it just could. Be that housing costs are much higher in California than nationwide in general, and that could affect the ability to create homeownership opportunities. I wanted to compare housing cost burdens for all households. Housing cost burden is when the federal government defines a burden as when you or your family are spending more than 30% of your income on rent and you are considered severely overburdened if you're spending more than 50% of your income on rent. So we did a comparison of several cities that are both comparable in size or in our diversity or our housing stock to see where we stood within Calif ornia. You can see that for cost burdened perspective, about 40 to 47% of all of our households experience paying more than 30% of their income towards rent. Of our entire households, 24% of that, those total households spend more than 50% of their incomes on rent. Compare that with Los Angeles. We are slightly lower than Los Angeles and we're slightly lower than Anaheim, slightly higher than Oakland. But interestingly, San Francisco gave us quite a pause because we weren't quite sure how such a high cost city could have lower cost burdens. But that is, frankly, because the incomes are so much higher in San Francisco that they're able to actually afford the high cost rents in San Francisco. And we're not too far off on San Jose either. Four renter households. We did the same comparison of the same cities. And you can see across the board where we're kind of in line again with Los Angeles and Anaheim, Oakland as well. San Francisco, great difference. And then San Jose. You know, we're also sort of in that range as well. So really, this is not a Long Beach specific issue. It's not an L.A. County specific issue. It is a California issue that contributes to the issues that we're facing in Long Beach. This chart should be a little bit telling for those of us in the business. This shows the decrease in revenues that are available for funding of affordable housing. It's a very expensive proposition to develop affordable housing, and the resources that used to be available have frankly plummeted. The green, which represents the smallest amount of cash, represents a local and other state funding that we can get, usually through CAL Home grants or other state grants there. They tend to be competitive one time grants. We've been successful in getting them, but the money's just really not there for us to do anything worthwhile with it. Federal home funding is in blue. You can see that there was some high points in 2009 and ten, but again, those revenues have expired, have decreased greatly, and we probably only get about 2 to $3 million a year in federal home funds as opposed to the peak of $5 million that we used to get several years ago. And then clearly, the red represents redevelopment. And in 2012, those dollars went away as an ongoing funding source. We still did have revenue coming in 2013 through 2016 through debt repayments of the redevelopment agency. But you can see that from a high of $35 million in 2011 to a low of $7 million in 2013. We just don't have the resources that we used to have to produce affordable housing within the city. So I mentioned this earlier, but there are several entities, two entities besides the city council that play a key role in the development of affordable housing. One is the housing authority, which the City Council sits as the governing board. They focus on the disposition of housing choice vouchers, VASH vouchers, which are focused on veterans programs. They focus on homeless assistance programs, and then Hoppa

, which is housing opportunities for persons with AIDS. And then the Long Beach Community Investment Company, which is the city's wholly owned nonprofit, they focus on new affordable housing production, rehabilitation. They also have the ability to focus on economic development. And then they're the ones that make recommendations to the City Council on the use of our CDBG block grant dollars. So here's what we have within the city for existing affordable units. This focuses on our stock of publicly assisted rental housing. This includes multi-family rental units assisted under federal, state and local programs, including HUD, state bond programs, density, bonus and redevelopment. The Public Housing Units in Green 713 that represents the County of Los Angeles Carmelita Project, north of Delano. Publicly assisted rental units represent in the light blue represent those units that we have 45 or 55 year covenants on and that have been funded through home KAL home or redevelopment dollars. And then the housing choice vouchers, the dark blue, 6600 units are supported through housing choice vouchers through our housing authority, totaling approximately eight and a half percent of all of our housing stock is either covenanted or has protections for affordability covenants on them. This is an interesting slide because this shows how we're able to leverage our dollars and we work the Long Beach Community Investment Company and the city works extensively with developers who are experienced in the production or rehabilitation of affordable housing. I want to make it clear that the city of Long Beach itself does not produce the units ourselves. We assist in the financing of units, and with our dollars we have been able to leverage developer dollars for a 3.8 times ratio on all of these dollars. So the L.B. CIC in the city put in $141 million. In the last ten years. Developers contributed $401 million for a total investment of $543 million in affordable housing investment since 2006. This includes actual units produced or preserved, rehabilitated and newly restricted or first time homebuyer assistance where we offer mortgage assistance through some of our programs. And as you can see, over the last ten years, 4500 households have been directly affected and influenced by this investment. I just want to spend a few moments going through some of our completed projects and planned projects so you can see what the face of affordable housing looks like in the city and what we've been able to accomplish. This project Gallery for 21 is a market rate project, but 26 of those units are affordable units with covenants that were achieved through a density bonus project process. And so while it may look like a market rate project, it is a market rate project. But there is mixed income in this building, which is a great ability, a great use of the density bonus program. On this page. We've got the Long Beach and BURNETT Apartments on the upper left hand corner in District s ix. That's a new construction that was recently completed. 46 units on the upper right is the Puerto Del Sole on the third street in District one. New construction, 62 units. The family comments at Cabrillo is in District seven in the lower left hand corner, 79 new unit construction project there, and then Pacific City Lights at 1643. Pacific Avenue is also new construction in District one, and there are 41 units in that project as well. A couple more examples. The Decora apartments are scattered sites throughout North Long Beach and District six. This was a significant project, 308 units that were rehabilitated. Bellwood arms in the upper right hand corner District nine for 34 units for rehabilitation collage apartments was also a rehabilitation in the lower left hand corner in District six. And then Evergreen Apartments were also rehabilitation. So you can see where we we take a project, we increase unit sizes, maybe we decrease the density in the neighborhood, and then we put a lot of money into it to rehabilitate those units, bring them all up to code, and then put covenants on those buildings so that those affordability units remain affordable. A few examples of some senior and ownership housing projects. The top left corner is the Ramona Park Apartments. They opened up a few years ago in North Long Beach on Artesia Boulevard for 61 units of new construction. The senior arts colony, which is on the upper right hand corner that's at Anaheim and Long Beach Boulevard, new construction for 200 units. Those are senior assisted lower left is all of court in District six, 44 units of new construction, and then the Coronado Project, also on Atlantic Avenue and District six, 48 units of new home ownership construction. Special needs. Housing is very important. We spend a lot of time working with our partners, century villages at Cabrillo. We've got the Cabrillo Gateway at the Villages at Cabrillo, which is 81 units of disabled and supportive housing. The Palace Hotel, which is in District four, which was a rehabilitation of a historic building for transitional aged youth. Those are youth who are transitioning out of foster care and may not necessarily have life skills to be able to survive on their own. And they are extremely link income limited. And then also the Long Beach and 21st Apartments, which is a senior slash special needs project on Long Beach Boulevard. This last one is just opened and will be having a grand opening in the next couple of months. This is an adaptive reuse of a historic church building in the second District at Obispo and a third obispo or Zama Obispo in third. This is the Emmanuel Senior Housing Project. Well. I wish we could show you before pictures. This was an incredible project. But they we the city put in two and a half million dollars into this. Total development costs was about $13 million. We also have a number of projects that are underway or have been approved. You can see Anchor Place again, that's another proje ct at Villages at Cabrillo. This is new construction for veterans and that is underway right now. And then we have 612 units pending or on the books. So they are either in negotiation or under construction. So we've got about 337 units under construction with another 275 that we are negotiating the financial package with various developers. You can see that the type of housing unit ranges the gamut from homeless to disabled to family to family with special needs. So we do run the gamut of how we assist projects. This is the new construction at villages at Cabrillo. An example of that project, again, $4 million and getting $42 million worth of investment. New construction. This will go next to the senior arts colony on Long Beach Boulevard in Anaheim. This was a little bit more pricey for us. $12 million in assistance to get $80 million. Different unit mix with very low, low, extremely low income residents, disabled veterans and seniors in this combination as well. We've done a lot of preservation. You just recently held a tough for a hearing for this very project. This is the preservation of units to keep affordability covenants in place. Century Affordable Development is doing this project and we did put money into this project as well in order to assist them in upgrading it. And in exchange for that, we do get covenants in place that previously did not exist. Habitat for Humanity. This is a four unit project. They are moving into density instead of just single family homes. So this is their first attempt at a multi-unit project. So this is a townhome project that we worked on with Habitat for Humanity, and this is a proposed project at Long Beach Boulevard and PCH. It is a vacant site right now. It used to be the old King Taco building right near the blue line. We are in negotiations with Amcor for this development project and are already committing three and a half million dollars to that project where we would get potentially 100 affordable units out of that project. Just a quick correction, because I'm trying to. I think you meant that. Is that the guy the guy or hero on the corner? Is that not. Talking? Sorry. Yes. All right. I used to go there. Tacos. Do you know what? King Taco used to be there and then it moved. So it's not the current King Taco. It's where King Taco used to be 15 years ago. So it's still there. So this one is a new project that we're working with, Link Housing Link is based in Long Beach. This will be their first project with us outside of the Palace Hotel project. We're looking at 95 units on Long Beach Boulevard at the 1900 block of Long Beach Boulevard. We're looking at $3 million in assistance for a total development cost of around $40 million. So I wanted to get into our resources. As I said earlier, we our resources are diminishing. We no longer have the ability to receive ongoing payments from the redevelopment agency. But we did get a number of loans repaid through the redevelopment agency, including someth ing called the SERAPH, which was the. Blah, blah, blah, blah, blah. Fund special education, revenue, finance, something or other fund. It was a fabulous state to take away of redevelopment dollars to augment education back in the early and mid 2000s. The redevelopment agency borrowed money from the housing fund. We did have to pay that back upon dissolution. So that's $8 million. The downtown project area, also back in the 1970s and eighties, deferred some housing payments to the housing fund. Those were also required to be repaid. So those were repaid to a tune of about $16 million. And then here and there we get other loan repayments that come in, but we can't really guarantee when those those happen. They're sort of like early Christmas presents for us when we find out we're getting a loan closing and getting a little bit of money from a loan repayment. And then as a as debt that the redevelopment agency owes, the city is repaid. 20% of that debt now goes to the housing fund. And so we are starting to see a couple of dollars coming our way into the housing fund. This is the first year we've seen it. It's less than $900,000. So it's not a very sustainable source, but it is still something. So we started the year with $35 million. We expect to get another $6 million in debt repayment, but we've got pending commitments of about $28 million, which leaves us about $14 million. Sounds like a lot, but that could be two or three projects and then that would be about it. We also, as I said, get home dollars and then our housing choice vouchers program through our housing authority is a substantial resource at about $70 million. So all told, if we net out our pending commitments, we have about $86 million that we have available to invest either through our housing choice vouchers or through additional production of affordable housing. Some of the other things that we do that may not be known and that get talked about as great ideas, but we do it all the time. Are developer impact fee waivers for affordable housing projects. We actually do this all the time. Are affordable housing. Developers know about it. They do the paperwork and we grant them fee waivers. It is in the municipal code to allow them to do that. So you as a city council have already taken that step to waive developer impact fees for affordable housing projects. And I gave you a couple of examples and the dollar amounts of those that assistance. We also offer density bonuses. We have had something on the books for quite a while. The state has recently adopted a new density bonus law that we will have to revise our ordinance to match the state law. But it allows you to it allows any developer, particularly a market rate developer, to add units, go above the height requirements if those units that they're going to construct are going to be dedicated and covenanted for affordable projects. And so this really results in a mixed income project where it might have started out as a market rate p roject, but because they asked for a density bonus, it becomes a mixed income project. And I gave you an example early on of Gallery 421, where we have 26 units of affordable housing, we have 26 affordable units in there. And those were achieved through a density bonus. Density bonuses do require us to reduce some of our requirements, most often a reduced parking requirement. So we do look carefully at where those density bonuses occur because they do have the ability to impact parking in certain neighborhoods. We also are required by state law to relax certain development standards as well. And so we also have some new state law that says if you are developing an affordable housing project within a transit area, which we consider to be a half a mile from a transit stop and you are requesting a density bonus, you can also really reduce your needs as well. Just to clarify, when you say transit stop, you mean a rail stop. I do not mean. Any transit stop. Correct. Okay. Yes. We traditionally think of it as light rail, but state law does define it as any any transit stop. That has a headway of less than 10 minutes. And most of our city has a headway of less than 10 minutes for transit. So that theoretically could be anywhere in the city. We tend to focus on light rail because that is fixed and transit routes do have the ability to change over time. But our next focus after light rail is on corridors because we know that transit typically remains on corridors over time. So as the mayor said, this discussion really started over a year ago with a call to action at the mayor's State of the City address and focused on convening a group of individuals and communities, stakeholder leaders to really explore this issue in detail. And that was led through by former Assemblywoman Bonnie Lowenthal. And there were a series of meetings that have occurred over the last year with the Informal Housing Study Group. Those meetings also culminated in three specific roundtables and a resource fair that that staff participated in in the fall. And then that led to the assembly of the report that you have before you. A lot of the issues that we heard in the public were not a surprise to us who have been here working for a while and who understand what some of the community needs are. There is clearly a lack of developable land. We have very high we have very low vacancy rates in our housing stock. We have aging housing stock. We have rising rents. We have density that is focused on one side of the city as opposed to the other side of the city. We need to address mixed income. We need to address seniors, special needs, disabled veterans, low income, large families. I mean, all the different population types we have heard from and and we don't have the ability to accommodate those in the need that that we need to. We also heard from the study group who participated in these roundtables and who participated in these community forums, that that there really needed to be three branches of our focus, if you will. One was to plan and prioritize. The second one is to protect and preserve, and the third is to produce and promote. Planning and prioritizing is really focusing on making sure that this this discussion about affordable housing is, is community wide and that that there is an education piece to it and that we understand that housing needs are are that those are the needs of the community that we're trying to address. And if you can resolve housing needs, a lot of your other needs in the city tend to diminish as well, protect and preserve where we're kind of good at that. We do a lot of rehabilitation, but we do have an aging housing stock and we do have programs that have been put in place by this city council like Prep in order to protect and preserve those units. But those tephra hearings that you sometimes hold are exactly that, where we are protecting and preserving affordable units that may go off the market if we're not able to do those those tax equalization hearings and then produce and promote production of affordable housing is extremely expensive, both for the affordable housing developer and for the city, as you've seen, but promoting the need of affordable housing, promoting the ability for landlords and the willingness of landlords to accept housing choice. Vouchers throughout the city is extremely important as we promote the the need for housing. And then once the need is there, once the need has been identified to actually produce units to address that need. We did hear from the study group that there's a number of data points that they would like us to address. We've not been able to get all of those addressed for this evening, but these are important conversations that we want to have and turn anecdotal discussions into data. So we would rather have a discussion about the facts surrounding utility shutoffs as opposed to the anecdotal evidence on whether it's increasing or decreasing. So these are some of the questions that the Affordable Housing Study Group has posed to the city staff, and we are trying to address those and those those data points will be addressed in the final report. So getting on to tranche number one, the strategy of planning and prioritizing, again, building the case for affordable housing, also celebrating the successes which are part of tonight is to celebrate the success of those units that have been produced or purchased or protected, and then mobilizing broad based community support about the need to provide quality, affordable housing. Synthesizing is making sure that that all of our requirements line up. You know, we have obligations under our housing element. We have obligations under our various housing action plan, our consolidated plan that we do for HUD. All of those documents need to speak together and they need to be, frankly, focused in in the same direction, since they are all housed in one department in the Department of Development Services. We do have th

the ability to synthesize and make sure that those documents, goals and objectives all speak to each other. And then we also need to look at what everybody else is doing to make sure that we're not missing the boat on something. There may be some very unique way of financing or producing affordable housing that is foreign to us and Long Beach. And so it's it is our obligation in to make sure that we're up on those trends and that we can capitalize on those opportunities when they come up. Strategy again, number one, ensure that, you know that this affordable housing plan is the centerpiece of an entire system of community investment, so that when we invest in housing, we're also investing in the surrounding infrastructure. That includes the traditional infrastructure of parks and roads and libraries, but it also includes education. And education is a is a huge infrastructure component that we need to really pay attention to as we're developing our affordable housing. And then also, of course, maintain a database of opportunities, opportunities whether it's city owned land or publicly owned land owned by other entities. Where can we where do we have opportunities to increase density or to produce affordable housing? And then accountability. Make sure that there's continual accountability by the city council, that staff is held accountable, that the city council is accountable to the residents, and that we continue to pursue affordable housing as a legitimate tenant of of a safe and healthy city. Strategy number two for the affordable housing group was protect and Preserve. I talked about that a little bit, but we do have ideas that they've presented and we would like to consider in order to reduce displacement and protect the the investments that people have made in affordable housing. This includes potentially limiting the ability to convert apartment buildings to condos when there is very low vacancy rates. This could be a one for one replacement of all housing units that are lost, and then certainly preserving the stock of affordable housing, which we try to do as much as we can. The third strategy is to potentially look at a local bond measure, certainly encouraged mixed income housing through the adoption of an inclusionary housing policy, and then addressing zoning and regulatory impediments that may be serving as barriers for the creation of affordable housing. As you know, we have recently adopted the down the Midtown specific plan. We also have the downtown plan. Those two came with program year that reduce the requirements of developers for having to do standalone secret documents. It reduces time and it reduces the dollar amounts that they have to spend on that. And so that's an example of a regulatory impediment that we've been able to reduce. Again, continuing to partner with our developers and other community stakeholders continue to frankly go through all the state resources and see if any of those are applicable to us. Encourage proj ect based basing of housing choice vouchers. This is a way for us to capitalize on the ability to put housing choice vouchers into a project to create long term financial stability for the project as well. Adopting an ordinance that paves the way for the development of accessory dwelling units, which we'll be talking about later. And then also addressing the needs of college students, because those are sort of an an unheard from population. You know, you see students, you think they're busy going to college, but there is there is significant homeless issues and affordability issues related to students, college students in this city that frankly aren't addressed. Again, communicate our policies to the state. Focus on streamlining state issues that may be impediments to the local development of affordable housing. Explore new financing opportunities through enhanced infrastructure financing districts. And then providing staff resources. Other staff recommendations that we also came up with was to moderate modify the moderate income definition, to expand it to folks who are earning 150% of the area median income. That was brought to us by our fabulous consultant Mercedes Marquez, support seeker reform at the local and state level. And that would be a dream. And then reduce parking requirements to reduce the cost of affordable housing development citywide. So with that, what we'd like to do is turn it back over to the mayor, get feedback from the study group, the council members of the public conduct additional research, which we discussed, that there was still some research data points that we need to address, finalize this report with recommendations, and we come back to the city council in the near future with housing policy recommendations and then see if we can move this conversation forward. So with that, we've got a number of people here who can answer any questions you might have. But at that, at this point, I'll conclude my report. Thank you. Thank you very much. And I want to thank staff. You guys did a phenomenal job of putting together some data and information. And I know on behalf of the council, the study group and everyone, just thank you for for all that information and for your work. The housing team that we have at the city is the group of unsung heroes. We do a lot of work every single day, and some of them are here. So we can just give a round of applause to all of our housing team because they really do a great job. Thank you. This time we're going to keep going into our study session. I can mentioned before we had different components of this process. We had the roundtables, we had the discussions with developers, with housing advocates, with the community. But we also had this study group led by Assemblywoman Lowenthal, who is, I would say an expert in this area, has done a lot of work on her time on the council and certainly in the legislature and has the relationships in the legislature to hopefully, as we look for resources in the future to help to help have those conversations as well. And so she's going to make a few remarks on behalf of the study group. I want to ask you, as she approaches, I'm going to go ahead and mention them here as a group, and then I'll turn over to Assemblymember Lowenthal. I want to thank of course, I know part of the group. We have Renee Castro, who's here. Thank you, Renee, for your service. We have Andy Kerr from Housing Works. Not sure if Andy's here, if I see him here yet. I know that Brian D'Andrea from Century Housing, who does more to help house veterans than almost anyone in the city. So thank you, Brian for for for your work Christine Pettit and James Scalzo from Building Off the Communities. Jenny Chang from the California Endowment. Josh Butler from Housing Long Beach. Porter Gilbert from the LGBTQ Center. And Professor Moore, Willie Moore from California State University, Long Beach. So I want to thank them for numerous meetings, a lot of work and for us and for being an important part of this discussion as well. Thank you. Give them a round of applause. Sally member. Yes. Thank you so much, Mr. Mayor. We all want to thank you for this opportunity that we've had to discuss the issue. We've met over the past year. We've talked about every possible idea in the world. And I think Amy has done an amazing job of putting it all together in the most comprehensive report about affordable housing that I've ever heard in this city. And I think I've been listening to these reports since the eighties. So I really want to thank you, Amy, and your staff and Patrick, who worked with us, as well as the team. We all worked together on this, and I think everyone is equally passionate about this subject. So hopefully, as you saw in that report, we've worked to incorporate the input from the community, from all of those community meetings, the housing advocates, the developers, the apartment owners and other constituents into the report that you heard just now and that you have in front of you. So it's our hope that the majority of their sentiments are included in the report that you're going to be reading. Their recommendations were vetted by us in our many, many meetings. You saw that we had three major steps. Prioritize and plan affordable housing. Protect and preserve affordable housing. Current housing and producing and promoting new housing. So let me highlight some important context for tonight's discussion. As Amy said, it's an extremely difficult time to find funding. That indeed is your biggest challenge. And we hope you're going to dig deep into every possible source of funding. We have some thoughts about what they're looking at in Sacramento, which is a real estate recording fee, a transaction fee. And that seems like a real potential, particularly an opportunity to fund the housing trust fund, which, you know, has been on the books since I was in your shoes in the 2000. So I'm hoping that something like a real estate recor ding fee has great potential, as it does in the Pacific Northwest, as it does in the city of Philadelphia. And we look forward to hearing your discussions on that. We also believe that we can leverage funding from state and county sources, you know. City of L.A. passed a measure H, H, H. And we have an opportunity you have an opportunity to consider doing that here in the city of Long Beach. So while we hope and I know you hope because you voted on it, that the upcoming measure H would pass for support services. There's a potential for the city actually passing its own bond measure. We'd also like to encourage a deeper partnership with the Long Beach Department of Health and Human Services because of their integral connection between health and housing. Housing is one of the social determinants of health. They have a501c3 Long Beach Cares, which could potentially receive moneys that the city itself cannot. And it's pretty clear that tonight we weren't able to discuss the issue of renters rights. That was a decision that we felt comfortable with, despite the challenge that so many people are having with displacement. But that's a separate issue that has to be discussed at length, at length, at a separate time. So that's really it from our point of view. We want to thank you for this opportunity. We look forward to continuing to work with you. We are available both to city staff and council members as we go forward. And again, Mr. Mayor, I want to thank you. It was such a timely task force and hopefully we've been helpful for this city. Thank you. Thank you. Assembly member. And I'm going to turn this over today to the council in just a minute. I want to thank, of course, her for her service. And so just so that I can just explain kind of the process. So essentially, I hope most people have I know you saw a presentation, but there's actually a pretty detailed report. And so I would encourage anyone that's interested in this topic to please download this report. It's available on the city website. It does say draft on the front of the report because it is a draft. And of course, we're hearing input from the council tonight. These everything that's being discussed tonight that was discussed by staff are ideas, suggestions, conversation and any change that would happen to any sort of housing policy from a built from a building more workforce housing or affordable housing would happen at the council level. And so that would be discussed when the report comes back here in a few weeks after tonight's discussion. So I just want to make sure everyone's aware that this report is online, it's in draft form. I encourage you to download it and please, please read the report. And again, let me go ahead now and turn this over to the City Council for questions and input. Staff is looking forward to hearing from all the council tonight so that this can come back, hopefully with your input and then council can make any decisions that they would like moving forward on this too. On the on the topic of revenue tools and incentives for the production of affordable and workforce housing. And I'll start with Councilwoman Gonzales. Yes. Thank you. I want to thank you, Amy and Patrick and all of your the members of your team for this hard work, as well as the task force. I know many of you and I know you've worked very hard with the mayor to make this all happen. And so I really want to thank you again as well. And so just a couple of questions. I'm really glad we have a comprehensive report on all of these items. Kind of gives me personally a good idea of where we're at here in Long Beach relative to the county and other cities, and also just looking ahead to the years ahead. So first question is the Neighborhood Stabilization Program, what is the current status of that program and what type of outreach have we done? I know it was a very successful program, but I haven't really heard much about where it's at currently. Correct? The Neighborhood Stabilization Program was a series of three different funded grants from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. We got a total of approximately $25 million for three different stages of that. We've expended all the money and we've benefited approximately 100 different households. Essentially what we did was during the foreclosure crisis, we were able to either purchase homes ourselves, rehabilitate them, and then put affordable families in them, or we were able to assist those individuals in buying homes through the foreclosure and then working with them that way. Essentially, the program is wrapped up. We do get some program income from that program, but it's essentially wrapped up. Okay. Thank you. And is there any other type of program that could be? I mean, I don't know what HUD will look like, you know, as it's formulating right now. But is there anything else that we can do statewide, locally, any other programs that we can get creative on that are similar to this? You know, that was a really good stimulus program that we were able to capitalize on to stabilize our housing stock as well. Patrick and I and Elm Hugo's our grant administrator for HUD. We're actually at a HUD conference last week. So the timing of it was really interesting. We are hoping, frankly, that HUD just keeps our budget stable. If HUD is not able to have a stable budget and the United States goes with adopts a different kind of budget, that that results in cuts to HUD in particular, that will clearly impact the resources that the housing authority gets and then that the resources that we receive. We do understand that housing choice vouchers have a higher priority for HUD than home dollars or other grant programs. So if their budget is cut, it is likely that the L.B. CIC would see less money and they would try to preserve the housing choice voucher program to the extent that they can. But that is clearly an ongoing concern. Is the federal budget and how that's going to impact us locally. We did do a bunch of research that we have some of that detailed in the report about potential innovative solutions and how other cities were looking at policies from a land use perspective as well as revenue generation. I'm always careful about impact fees because I want to make sure that we do not unduly burden one half of the house in order to achieve revenue and the other half of the house. So we are trying to find programs that would not create an undue burden for development to occur as well. So some of those ideas are detailed in the report. Thank you. And a couple more questions. So SB 744, obviously, you know, will basically state that parking requirements could be lessened if we are near transit stops. So now that we've clarified which stops means exactly is there a way that we can and I know we do this anyhow, but how can we push it a little further to be able to provide or work with our developers to provide more bike and pedestrian friendly infrastructure within the the buildings and around the buildings because. Yes, we see that enough, I guess. Yes, actually, that is a that is a follow through of the adoption of the bike master plan is to actually implement a modern ordinance citywide that would increase the bike infrastructure both on site for new development and then also offsite infrastructure as well. So that is a to do list with the Department of Development Services and the Department of Public Works to revamp our ordinance for those types of requirements. Okay, great. And I think I'm done here. The only other thing that I'll mention is it's great to see I see so many amazing projects in the first district that I've I drive by and I'm excited about because they are you wouldn't even know that they have affordable housing components in them, which is exactly what we want . I would like to see that we can permeate that same thing throughout the whole city, whether the east side, north, wherever that it isn't just in specific pockets that we're really permeating that throughout the whole city and ensuring that the infrastructure around, just like you've mentioned, is up to standard. So thank you very much. Thank you. Next up, we have Councilmember Pearce. Okay. I just want to say, first of all, that I'm very thankful for the time that staff spent on this, very thankful for the year that the community members and the committee spent on this. I know that as a member of the community that's worked on access to affordable housing for the last decade, that this is a critical time for us. And so, above all, I want to thank the mayor for your leadership and making sure that we're having a really thoughtful and thorough discussion around our housing market. That bird's eye view, I think, is so important where sometimes we we struggle to really grapple with project by project. But looking and being able to redo our bureaucracy in a way that really is supporting affordable housing overall is really important. And to s ay that the situation of affordable housing is becoming urgent in California is just simply an understatement. I think the report outlined that through 2025, there's a shortfall of more than 1 million rental homes to extremely and very low income households in Long Beach, along with 46% increase in rents for one bedroom apartments in the last five years. The highest cost in my own district. That today is very timely. And so I do have several questions, and I'm going to try to go a little slower than I typically do. So I don't miss any things that I have to come back and talk again. So wait with me for just 1/2. I think that strategy one, strategy two and strategy three are all extremely important. And that most importantly, whenever we talk about in strategy two, could you explain to me what we already do with limiting condo conversions? Because I believe there's already something on the books on that. We do have something on the books related to condo conversions. It's frankly antiquated and it's something that we need to address. We talked about it briefly as a work item of the housing element, where, first of all, the process to convert to condos and then also the fee that is assessed for condo conversions is is antiquated. So we would like to modernize our condo conversion ordinance, potentially put controls in place where condo conversions would not be allowed if there are high, vacant, low vacancy rates in the rental market. Great. Thank you for that. Can I just add one thing, Councilwoman, and one thing that I think is important on that conversation is one thing I heard loud and clear from seniors across the community is seniors that are living currently in housing that is affordable to them are really terrified about what's happening in other other parts of the country and the state in losing the ability for seniors to stay in their homes. And so I think part of that conversation, Councilwoman, we also have to involve and I know that our senior commissioner and others are very interested in ensuring that housing for our seniors across the city, there are an incredibly low fixed income that that we can retain that housing for for seniors across the city. Great. Thank you for that, Mayor. I think obviously some of this conversation I know today, we're talking mainly about housing stock and how do we increase and preserve existing housing stock. I think that conversation goes along with the renter conversation when we talk about the fluctuation and making sure that there's stability for our seniors and those that are living on a fixed income and so on. The other question coming up on the one for one replacement, it says one for one replacement of all housing lost to redevelopment. Is that only redevelopment projects or does that include any affordable housing that we have in the city? If a. If A, it's in the coastal zone only, is that correct? It's currently we only have the one for one replacement currently right now in the coastal zone. So if a developer buys a unit project and the income levels of those residents are very low and that developer decides to demolish that housing project and build a 12 unit project, they are supposed to replace those units one for one and make eight of those units affordable. But that is only limited to the coastal zone right now. And so that is, again, is another antiquated rule on our books that we'd like to modernize. Great. I want to just say, I support making sure that we modernize. Not only that. But hold. I'm sorry, because I know this clarified, but isn't that a statewide. Isn't that a coastal statewide regulation? It is. But the issue is whether or not that should be a city wide. I understand that. But yes, but currently, just from my days on the coast commission today, the state of California requires one for one replacement up and down the entire coastal zone in the state of California, correct? Yes. Okay. And or that in lieu fees on the Melos Act, is that determined at the coastal zone? I mean, at the Coastal Commission? No, we can set those as well. And that also needs to be modernized. Great. So I show that we're around 10 to $30000 per unit. Yes. And so as we bring this back, looking at if we can increase that to a more, what does it cost to build versus just a $10,000 a unit that obviously isn't enough to build a a new affordable unit. Correct. Great. Thank you. Okay. Then the other thing on one for one replacement and having the conversation about how do we expand that to city wide outside of the coastal zone. I think before we can even have a discussion around a policy on what that might look like, we go back to the conversation around data and looking at something around a registry. We're able to see how many people are either deciding to move on because they're out of cost. So looking at a rent income survey and potentially looking at a renter eviction registry where we're not necessarily tracking who the landlord is, but we're really tracking how many people are moving on and that why are they leaving so that we can identify the actual housing needs. So I want to be really clear on that one because I haven't talked too much about that. But as I looked at this, just trying to really think about how do we know what housing we're losing if we have individual owners that might decide to convert , which is their right. But knowing what we need to fill in the gaps on, I think is really important. And then the last, I have two more things. There was a conversation around our schools, and I think Assemblymember Lowenthal brought up a great point around the fact that we have so many college students that find themselves couch surfing or sleeping in their cars and that there's a great need for more housing for our students. I'd be curious to see if we could use the Joint Committee to explore using school property to do joint use agreements for college and high school students. And so want to make sure that that was in the report to see if we could explore some of that opportunity, because there's so little land, as we already know, in our city. And then finally, I would like to just talk a little bit about one of the things that we've been doing is talking about the shipping container and knowing that we haven't built any, you know, homes in Long Beach using shipping containers. But knowing that there are a lot of cities throughout the U.S. that are and looking at a program where we're able to ease maybe the permitting process or talk about what we're doing to incentivize some of that use, because we know that while a standard unit, you know, at the Villages might cost anywhere between 150 or, you know, $350,000, to build that, we can do shipping, container housing anywhere between 50 and $200,000 to build, depending on the type of model it is. And obviously, we're here at the port with a lot of shipping containers that are left over from a bankrupt company. So there is a. A unique opportunity for us. So I'd like for us to explore what we're doing to incentivize creative housing opportunities there. And I just want to echo what my colleague said. Councilmember Gonzalez If we are looking at reducing parking requirements, I obviously a second district councilmember could not be very supportive of completely doing that. I would need to make sure that we're talking about biking infrastructure and what we're doing to incentivize all of that. I will end on talking about the importance for local funding. I think that you guys have put together a great program here and research for us, and I definitely have read this thing through a couple of times. And looking at the let's see, looking at the Philadelphia model is something that I would like to ask the city staff to to dove in deeper as we bring back our next report. I think there are some great opportunities there to really fund, you know, our housing trust fund. So, again, I want to thank everybody for your work and thank the mayor for working on this. And I know that, you know, we have had a lot of discussions as a part of the downtown plan. We were able to incentivize development in downtown, and that's been really great. But the fact that we weren't able to develop one affordable housing unit in that downtown plan means that we are in the crisis mode that we're in today. And so as we look at funding sources, I want to make sure that we're not looking at funding sources that are projects that can happen in ten years, but projects that can happen in three that can happen in four. So thank you very much again, everybody, for your work. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. And thank you to my colleagues who already spoke a number of questions that were raised, the thoughts that were raised. I can strike off my list now. Thank you, Chair Lowenthal, on the whole task force for taking on the least controversial issue in our city. Congratulations to you. Good job, city staff. Fantastic job on this report. I got to tell y ou, I love the images. I, I, I, you know, I think and I use this pretty commonly, I show that Bellwood arms project directly next to a market rate housing apartment complex. And I got to tell you, the, you know, I wouldn't say right next to I don't want to single out individual apartment owners, but in that area there are some really bad apartments in really bad shape and the Bellwood arm stands out and it looks great. And sometimes when I speak with residents and neighborhood folks, I'll say, Which one do you think is the affordable housing? Which one do you think is the market rate housing? They can't tell which one is which. And when I tell them Bellwood arms is actually affordable housing, they're blown away. And these are single family homeowners. These are these are homeowners who really care about their community and they're turning their entire perspective around about affordable housing. That's a good thing. And we have to continue to look at imagery like this. So thank you, Amy, and the whole team who put this presentation together. So my my perspective here. And so I grew up as a renter and when I was 25, I bought my first home. And for me, it was it was like achieving an American dream. I was able to really set roots and focus on what I wanted, you know, my next steps in life. I knew where I lived. This was my community. I made a real a deeper commitment to that community. And arguably, a lot of the things that happened since then likely would not have happened if I didn't have that opportunity to purchase that home from being married. When I got married, having my children, when I had my children and making the commitment to serve the public may not have happened if I was still a renter. And I'm concerned and I want to, you know, just shout out the mayor. I'm concerned that that opportunity is slipping away for a lot from a lot of people. They may not have that opportunity to go and pursue that that dream of owning a piece of property. And so it's important that we do address this and we're open minded and we keep all our perspectives together. And we take we we really look at perspectives. And I'm going to use the example of the balcony in the dance floor. Around the dance floor. You know, if you're like me, you're paying attention to the person who's right on the dance floor, which if and you probably spend a little bit of attention not falling over, tripping over anybody, and when you get off the dance floor, as people may tell you, you may if you ask, how was the party? So it was great. DJ was great, had a lot of fun. My dance partner was great, or if the deejay was terribly so, it was a terrible party. Not many people there wasn't fun. But if you were standing on the balcony looking down, you see the changes on the dance floor that are impacted. When the deejay changes music, you'll see the impact of those changes on the dance floor. Other trends are people leaving the dance floor? Are they joining the dance floor? I think both of those perspectives are important and that means we have to bring everybody to the table. The the you know, not just policy makers on the balcony, but people on the ground. You're talking about renters. You're talking about it's small property owners, large apartment owners. You're talking about renters, you're talking about realtors, you're talking about homeowners and folks in the market searching for home. All of those perspectives matter in order for us to get this right. And so and an example of that, I'm chair of Housing Authority this year. And, you know, I learned a lot about the challenges that housing authority is facing with the lease up rate. And we had an opportunity to start beginning those conversations with apartment owners about why is this happening, aside from the fact that, you know, we know that when the market when there's not a lot of vacancy, when rents are up, it. It impacts our housing authority. We know that. But we sat down with them to begin a conversation and we found there wasn't a lot of, you know, a lot of current information about the housing towards voucher program or what we call the Section eight program. People didn't know that you can receive up to a 20% market rate on that program. People had issues with navigating the process. They want more a more streamlined process, more hand-holding with the city. And by sitting down and having that dance floor conversation with the department owners. There's a lot of productive activity and movement happening. So I do want to acknowledge Alison King on the knowledge, the apartment association, all of the apartment owners have been at the table for these conversations. We're going to continue those conversations like as of right now. And that was a big number on the screen, but that represents about 600 families that we can place in housing today. We have the resources to, but we can't find the units to place them.

And it's difficult. The stock isn't necessarily all there, but there's enough for us to move the needle a little closer to the touchdown line if we can, you know, just get more people into housing. So I know. So just a couple questions. I want to get into the context of this presentation a little bit. So I noticed on the slide listing existing funding for affordable housing, the number 86 million in total available funding. But of that amount, almost 70,000 or 79, 70, 80% is the housing choice voucher program. Have we ever in the past used that funding for construction of affordable housing. Not for the construction of affordable housing, but when you project base a number of those vouchers, it does assist in the in the construction of housing. So we have worked with housing authority to provide a specified number of vouchers specifically for a project. And they that helps those the bottom line numbers of that project. It's also my understanding that when you project base, it's not necessarily coming directly from your overall allocation, but tha t you can get an allocation from HUD directly. And Alison says sometimes. Okay. So so as of today, we haven't. But there may be a path to either leverage it or use it directly. There is definitely a path for leveraging housing choice vouchers, for helping the pro forma of an affordable housing developer who is looking for secured rents. Great. Okay. In the slide that refers to rising housing costs. I noticed that the median rent, it said one bedroom was about 1202 bedrooms, about 2000 based on Zillow. And, you know. Zillow looks at a picture over a set period of time of people actually looking for houses, looking for an apartment. They look at listings of people actively searching in the marketplace. But what it doesn't take into account is those folks or those units that haven't had to go into the marketplace because they have long term tenant tenants. Is there a baseline of data that's that's more a more accurate perspective on what rent actually is in Long Beach ? Because, you know, that's one perspective that sort of drives a narrative that rents are at this level and does create a little bit of a demand on. Someone mentioned grandma who who's had that apartment for a long time and may not be willing to go anywhere. It creates a perception, more of a perception than it might that might even exist that, hey, if I boot grandma out, maybe I have a I can collect this rent. But I mean, that may not be the truth. Do we have have we conducted a study? Is there more accurate data than zero in Zillow on what the actual picture is in terms of our median median rents? If you're asking if there if we know of a database that provides existing rents of units that are not necessarily on the market, the answer is I'm not aware of any database that does that. But if somebody out in the audience knows of that database, we are happy to. If anybody knows. You're. Here. You can talk to us later. But we could certainly explore that as part of our additional research. Okay. Well, thank you. I think that's important to understand. Basic, you know, concrete data, what the real landscape is if we're going to use that as a foundation for a public policy conversation. So let's talk about vacancy. So what is what is. I heard it mentioned the low vacancy rate, but I didn't see it in the presentation. What is the vacancy rate in Long Beach? It's about two and a half to 3% right now. So that means that in any given day, of all the units that we have in the city, which is approximately 160,000 units, 160,000 units, 2 to 3% of those may be vacant. Okay. So and what is considered a healthy vacant rate? Vacancy rate. Anything over 5% is much more tolerable. If you get more in the 8%, 10%, that's too high of a vacancy rate. So something between five and 10% would be much more tolerable. So we so it's safe to say we have, you know, between two and 4% gap and where we want to be. Yes, we are constrained. Now, what what does that mean for an apartment owner? What does that mean for a renter when there's low vacancy? What does that what does that mean for them? Well, I'm sure that there is apartment owners who will be able to better address that than I would. But what it means for a tenant is that if you are looking for a place to live, you are in competition with with everybody else who's looking for a place to live. The vacancy rate does not necessarily mean that all of those units are available either. Some of those units may be vacant because they're being taken out of production to be rehabilitated or, you know, somebody's daughter is moving back in and, you know, a family member is going to take it over. So it doesn't necessarily mean that that unit is available for rent. So it increases competition and puts pressure on folks who may need to make very quick life decisions on where they're going to live. And so in a no, we're not focusing so much on on, you know, renter protections in this. But I think it does make sense. And I know that someone mentioned it here today. I think we do need a picture of those who are actively displaced or, you know, under threat of displacement. So we have an understanding what we're dealing with. And the other thing I think we need is like that 3% that 4% of housing. Like, it would be good to me if I understand not necessarily the arena number, but what is it? How many units have to be built for us to be within that vacancy rate within our goal? Right. So how many units is that? 2000 units. That 3000 units. How many units we need to build to bring us into a healthy vacancy rate position? Certainly we can calculate that. Okay. And so and so I'll end with, I think with the conversation, the recommendations on on affordable housing and more housing development. I'm supportive of a lot of the things that I've seen specifically in terms of having a real conversation about density, supporting some of these things that we've we've learned about today with density bonuses. I thought transit oriented development was limited to light rail. I didn't I did not know that those incentives also extend to transit lines, basic, you know, bus lines. And so and, you know, I would like to see us figure out a real strategy around that. So I'm supportive of those things we can do to really incentivize affordable housing. Thanks. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. Thank you. I like Vice Mayor Richardson was very young when I was able to afford the American dream. I worked full time through college and saved my money so that when I graduated from college, I was fortunate enough to buy a condo. And one of the things about this that that is really striking to me is how low our home ownership is. And so when I look at the condo conversion owners, the condo conversion, I see it as an opportunity. But I also see that we need the occupant to have the first opportunity to buy the unit, and we need to look at down payment incentives and incentives to allow them to transition from being a renter to being an owner. Had I no t been able to purchase that first condo, I might not live in a home today because I was able to afford that build up. Sell that property and then move into the home in the community that I had desired. But but part of this is also that there there's not any inventory. Those that I know that want to buy a home are still stuck in the rental market because people are holding onto units. There's a woman in my neighborhood. She owns multiple homes in both Long Beach and Lakewood, single family residences. And she cannot fix up those homes in the way that she wants to to put them on the market. There are lots of things that would get called out in an escrow process. And she's inherited some of these properties from her elderly mother and she doesn't have the resources. I would love to see a program where we incentivize people to sell their properties so that there is more inventory. So young people and people who have lower incomes will have. There'll be greater competition among the sellers and that thus those prices will be a little bit better. Specifically, I'd love to see programs that incentivize and provide down payments or down payment assistance or zero interest rates for police officers that want to transfer and be a part of our police force here in Long Beach. And we go across the country and there are some cities in the United States where police officers make less than $30 an hour. There's a particular city. I think they make $22 an hour. And so so there are incentive programs where whether it's the Police Officers Association and Partnership nonprofit programs, they come together to find a way to reduce that that down payment in the same way that veterans can do a zero down payment with no mortgage insurance. And we also need to not only look at police officers, but we have a high shortage for preschool in child care teachers that are preschool and child care certified. We have a shortage of preschools. We have a shortage of preschool teachers. We have a shortage of people who are credentialed teachers in our child care programs. Let's look at those incentive programs for them as well. First time homebuyer grants are very valuable. I feel that they are a huge component of our ability to be successful. I'd also love to see low income down payment assistance programs. Low income down payment assistance programs can help people move into that dream and pull them out of the rental market. It's supply and demand. The more people we can move from rental ship to home ownership, the more control they have over their expenses for the rest of their life. Page 23 of the report. Which I want to thank development services in the task force. This is an exceptional report. It's a lot of data. Also want to thank the city staff for the amount of time they've spent with all of our council officers going over the report so that we could be informed, coming to council today and and bring information and have dialogs with our community. On page 23, it talks a little bit about the program allocation for home funds. In the first category, it talks about owner rental. Does that mean that we're still giving these programs to owner occupied units? So let me first explain, Toto. When we get home dollars from the federal government, we are required to spend allocate 15% of those dollars towards a certified housing developer organization. And so that's what each photo is. Each photo is an entity who has been certified through HUD regulations and that they are eligible to achieve these dollars. A TOTO organization can either acquire and rehabilitate or build new. And so they can do it for owner or renter units so they can build condos for low mod or they could build apartments for them as well. I think that there's a great opportunity in when we do use the home program, which I know is very limited that we use it on. If we use it on single family residents, which I know are not currently in our plan, but if we do that, they are rental units, rental units with a timeline for sale so that there are opportunities for the people who live in those units to either do a wraparound program or other types of opportunities for financing where a low income person could afford to buy that single family residence. For those that don't know, a wraparound program is when you sell your home over time to the person who lives in it. And without bringing down that that one time cost to a reasonable rate where they be able to qualify in a future year. And I think that those are some great options as well. Additionally on page. 30. 24. I have an item on the agenda tonight. Item number 24, coauthored with Council member Austin related to Granny Flats. We have a large inventory in our city that is off the books and the state of California has already determined that we need to bring it on the books and there are opportunities for us to do that. And we need to make this process easy and convenient and incentivized. We need to know where those units are and we need to make them available. I would even go as far as to say that we need to partner with our open data portal so that people similar. Well, I don't want to claim Zillow for this because as many know, if you look at your actual home value in an appraisal and in Zillow, you'd think you are rich. But people can take ownership of their home and say, I live here. And through our open data portal and a partnership with perhaps the county regional planning, L.A. County Fire, who also does address assessment and verification, and then also the assessor's office. We might be able to find a way where Long Beach homeowners could state. I'm an owner occupied. I have a rental property and here is what I rent it for or I'm a renter and here's what I rent it for. So we could start creating that data ourselves, young people, college students, if we provide the platform. And if our open data portal data be was where we need it to be. And this would be a great opportunity for us to put that in to the market very quickly with partnerships through the Apartment Association, better housing for Long Beach and the other landlords in the community. We would be able to have a wealth of data, especially if we incentivized it. There's a property that I was talking to the property manager and in January 20 units became available and she's using standard marketing and paying for rental websites and all of those things. But if we had our own portal, it would make it more affordable for both the landlord and the renter. It's so expensive as a renter to go on and pay the fees to get your background check and all the different components. And it's expensive and so we need to bring that down. I have a serious concern for real estate recording fees that they'll be passed on to the renter and or the home owner or buyer, and then that makes it even more out of reach. There is such a stack of fees when you buy a home, it is shocking. Your closing costs and fees are astronomical. We need to find a way to partner with the state of California and build that fee into the property tax increment that comes in in that first year. So if you have a home that was originally purchased in, let's say 1990 and then. It has been incrementing through Prop 13 and now goes to the new value which will again be protected by Prop 13. Somewhere in there we should be able to find a way to to subsidize this program. And I look for that to be a policy that we pursue at the state level. I think that that would be very helpful. With that. I want to take a moment to appreciate all of you that came here tonight. I look forward to your feedback and comments. I think that this is a great start and I know it could not have been possible without the lift of many volunteers and a staff that is already hard, hard at work on 17 other priorities. So with that, I want to thank everyone for that. And I hope to hear support for our accessory dwelling item that I think is long overdue. Thank you very much. Next we have council member going to. Take us back to what I had my voice to welcoming everybody here and thanking you for being here. And I want to especially thank the task force for tackling this very complicated issue. There's a lot of moving parts, obviously, to this, where we're talking about affordable housing. You're talking about affordable rents, and we're talking about land use and we're talking about just land that we know for a long time that Long Beach has been built out basically in terms of there's very few opportunities now where we could have an empty plot somewhere and put in a housing development in there that would address all the important issues that we're dealing with tonight, such as affordable housing. One of the most important things of any family or any one individual is to own a home. I mean, it's one of the this the the the point of that to establish a status within our society. If you own a home, you you own the world basically, because you will have somethi ng to sustain yourself with, you know, something that you can go back to, to talking about putting your kids through school, you know, taking a second, owning your house to pay for for tuition or paying for childcare or buying a car. Housing is one of those important issues that affects all of us in one way or another. And unfortunately, as I say, writ large, which is built out there, there's not that that opportunity. So we have to look at other ways of making affordable housing in Long Beach that would create that opportunity for our citizens and residents to get into that dream of of home ownership so that they could do all the other. Uh, things that are important to them. And with that, I had I had a bit of a bit of an issue with some of the verbiage that was being used earlier, because I, I just it just, it just was that this newspeak that we're into nowadays where we talk about protect and preserve. Protect the preserve what? Depends on what you mean. Because you're talking about protecting and preserving, you know, affordable housing and real rents were also me protecting and preserving those areas that are high rent and and and unaffordable for other people. So we I want to be careful with that because if we say, you know, protect a preserve, let's mean protect and preserve low rents, low cost housing and those areas there. And let's not confuse that with a an area that eventually becomes gentrified, because that's what that's what it means as well. And I have a question about that coming up to that. But, you know, gentrification is a big issue. I'm seeing that everywhere. As a member of the Coastal Commission, I see many properties that developers buy and it becomes gentrifying. And that's a big issue because then you're pushing people out from from where they were living before in terms of affordable place to be. And then a developer comes in, changes the model, and before you know it, nobody can live there anymore other than those with with the with the incomes to be able to support that. So having said that, I have a couple of questions that I want to that I want to come to here on pages 30 and 31. When you talk about the density bonus and assembly bill 744 Um. Are these is this bill in terms of, you know, providing those breaks, we're talking about, you know, increased density, obviously reduced parking and relaxing some development standards. Are these options for a developer or are they are they permanent in nature? Are there in perpetuity or are they just for that owner? What happens is happens often. You know, a person buys a property, gets the benefit they want from it, and then sells it, and then another person comes in and then what happens to that property at that point in terms of the density bonus or the the the application of a bill 744 comes in to that property at that point, what happens there? Councilmember We do have density bonus laws on the books right now. 744 does increase the allowance for the density bonus up to 35%. But in answer to your question, in exchange for these waivers of development standards like parking or open space requirements or a unit size, the developer does have to covenant those properties to remain affordable for 30 years. And we do have someone on staff whose job is to focus on every single covenanted property in the city and do annual inspections and income verifications to ensure that those units remain affordable. So when a developer does get a break from providing parking for those units or whatever that that development waiver was, there is a expectation that those units would remain affordable for 30 years. Now, what happens at the end of that time is they can convert to market rate units at that time unless they have sought additional funding from us or, you know, which we saw very recently, was a naturally occurring affordable housing project that was going to be sold, and it was purchased by an affordable housing developer that we worked with that we're providing additional resources to. And in exchange for that, they will be permanently covering those. And when I say permanent 45 or 55 years, depending on rental versus ownership, so we do get something in exchange for the waiver of those development requirements. Is there a number is there data information about how many of those units are there now? Are there some? Yes. Is there a a listing perhaps? Can't find the words right now of of those housing that are maybe at the 30 year limit or this is fairly new that that we're still right in the middle of that 30 year term for individuals to be able to qualify for converting the property. We actually have a listing in the housing authority and excuse me in the housing element of all of those that were achieved through density bonuses and then all of the covenants. And when those covenants expire, we also have a program in the housing element that call for us to monitor those properties where the covenants may be close to expiring so that we can intercede and try to create future protections on that. A recent example in your district was Springdale Apartments. So Springdale Apartments, those covenants were expiring. The developer went through a refinancing process in order to reinvest in that building, and in exchange for that, they agreed to extend their covenants for that reinvestment. So that did protect those units, which could have converted to market rate units. So we do have the data on those units. We also have data on the number of density bonus projects that we have within the city of Long Beach and when those covenants expire. Thank you. As I was mentioning earlier about the. The land that's available. I noticed during the presentation that many of the projects that you put up there were. West of Cherry, to put it lightly. Are there any efforts to incorporate Siri as a whole? I mean, we have we have other you know, we're 55 square miles. But it seems like a lot of these properties that we're looking at being afford able and these projects that are up and coming are in specific parts of the city and don't address other parts of the city. Are there be are there efforts currently being pursued that might incorporate a city as a whole to make affordable housing, say people, individuals who would be interested in living in the in the third District or in the fifth District or in the fourth District, in other areas other than the usual suspects by seven, six, nine. The short answer to that is yes. It's called the land use element. And where we encourage density is where we would like to see development of all types of housing units occur. So there are certain resources of land that were owned by the redevelopment agency or by the Long Beach Community Investment Company, which do make it easier for us to offer that land up. Land is also more expensive in certain parts of town, which do increase development costs. But it really comes down to density and zoning. And where we can encourage density and zoning throughout the city is where we'll be able to see housing developed. Okay. On page 38, I see that you put it here, the working through a voter approval or a local bond measure to establish a one time source of capital raising the city's housing trust fund. I recall that there was a trust fund back in the 2000. That money would. Me mention to, of course, because you were in council at the time. And I recall that at that time there were there was a significant amount of housing trust moneys that were helping to address this housing issue back in that day. What is the status of the housing trust fund now, and is there a history of how those monies have been expended, where it is coming up again? Mean, I would think that we would have wanted to keep that fund healthy. And apparently it's not. So what what's what's the status of that? So the housing trust fund exists is it needs to be modernized as well as from an ordinance perspective, it is narrowly defined so that we do not have the ability to place all of our housing asset money in the housing trust fund. So the housing trust fund exists. It has approximately $160,000 in it. It's very, very limited in what it can do. Instead, we like to focus the conversation on the housing asset fund, which is a very specific fund within a sub fund within the cities accounting, where all of our affordable housing dollars reside, whether it's home dollars or housing trust fund dollars, etc. That's what we get when we talk about the $28 million. The Housing Trust Fund is a subcomponent of that. But really we should be talking about the housing asset fund. And it is our hope that one day the housing asset fund and the housing trust fund will be one in the same. What what would be a projected amount of money that a local bond if we were to put one on generate for either an asset bond or the trust fund or in this case you're talking about combining for both. But what would be what would be a guesstimate as to what we could do with that? Should we put something in the on a ballot at a future time? I sit next to John GROSS in the department head meetings on Wednesday mornings. I have not answering that question. I really need our CFO of the city here in our Treasury Department to be able to answer that question. I couldn't even take a wild guess because I don't want to set expectations. We can certainly research that and get back to. You if we're if we're going to be asked or we're going to have to we're going to have the need to address this issue through a bond measure. I think it would be important for us to know. Understood. Thank you. That's all questions I have for now. Q Council Member Austin. Thank you, Mr. Mayor, and I want to thank my colleagues, first of all, for an answer, asking most of the questions that they actually had. I want to thank you, Ms.. Bodak, and your staff on your team for an excellent presentation. I think we all learned something this evening. The the eighth District, where I live and represent, is home to a few very large of our affordable housing communities. I'm not sure if they were mentioned or in that data. But you know, obviously, the Carmelita House is a county housing facility with over 700 units. We have Gresham 94 units, Northpoint, which was recently refurbished and renovated. They have over 528 units. They're all six and eight. By the way, Seaport Village is right next door, another 200 units. Most of our SEC are Section eight, managed by abandoned. And the we're also building as we speak, over 200 market rate units in my district as we speak with three development projects underway. And so we've been focused on housing quite a bit. There was one question that I did have regarding the housing choice program data from other housing authorities. Um, are the Section eight vouchers currently being utilized in the City of Long Beach exclusive to our housing authority? Or do we share with other housing authorities in the county and city? We do not share our vouchers. So we are a direct recipient of vouchers from U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. So the vouchers that we receive are expended by the city of Long Beach Housing Authority. So we're. Vouchers from, say, a COLA. The County Housing Authority allow four properties in Long Beach to be utilized under the program. Only on a portability basis. What does that mean? What does that. Mean? I'm going to. I'm going to ask Alison King to come on down. She is the manager of the Housing Authority. Okay. I mean, those are from the county to the city. That's it. So a housing voucher is issued based upon the jurisdiction of the housing authority where they have been assigned or allocated. It does, however, allow for any voucher holder to move about the country to any other housing authority with a program. So, for instance, a person from the Long Beach area can decide to move to the Antelope Valley utilizing that voucher and taking it over to the county. They can actually even put it to Hawaii anywhere. There is a program. An individual may use their voucher in those programs. Thank you so much. That clears quite a bit up for me and I was actually going to my next point was regarding data from those housing authorities and are those reflective? But it sounds like if they're portable, they have to report to our housing authority anyway. And so we would have data for all six and eight or anybody using a housing choice voucher in the city of Long Beach. Would that be correct? Absolutely, because our utilization is down based on the low inventory. We are what you call administering the vouchers. So for the most part, you get a choice of either having that voucher absorbed by the housing authority that they put it into. And right now, because our lease up is down, we are absorbing. So the county is fairly leased up because of Measure H and some of the programs that they've done to incentivize owners to participate. And so they don't have a they ability of additional vouchers. And so they administer our vouchers when they go from Long Beach to the county. But if they come from the county to Long Beach because our lease up is down, we absorb that voucher into our allocation. Thank you so much. So I moved to Long Beach a little over 20 years ago. I rented I had an opportunity to purchase a condominium. I took my realtors in here somewhere. I bought a home a few years later where we have been for the past six years. And I've got to say that having a home, having a place to call home, it makes makes all the difference in the world in terms of vesting in a community. And I think everybody that that is the American dream and everybody should have that opportunity. One thing that really kind of jumps out at me is this rental ownership rate. And I'm curious in terms of data, how that or has that changed and where the changes has occurred? Right. Like, is it was it ten years ago that did we see a shift? When did it shift? And where has Long Beach always been at this ratio? We can do a deeper dove into the data, but ten years ago it was approximately 56, 57%. Now we're at 58, 59, almost 60%. So it is creeping upward, but we can certainly go back further using census data to see what that breakdown was. And oftentimes talking to some some of the residents. On on an intimate level. Many of them really, really want to progress. They want to change their conditions, even if they are in low income housing. They want to have that that American dream. They want to to one day own a home. And whatever we do here, I understand. I mean, there is a need to create affordable housing. But I need I know we need to also think about families who are looking to progress on and on and on. Obviously, that is improving our our college promise to our our public school system and making education available. But I also don't want to lose sight of the importance of of us creating great jobs here in this city, because I think that has been something that has been missing. And there may be a real correlation to the the issue of affordable housing and the lack of good paying jobs here. We've lost a lot of jobs over the last 20 years. Shipyard Aerospace. I mean, and I'm not talking a few hundred jobs. I'm talking thousands of jobs that were great paying jobs here. And that has really, really, I think, impacted this, the DNA of this the city in a lot of ways. And so, you know, we had a big debate about the minimum wage of last year. And, of course, we all support that. We want to make sure that residents are being paid for what they paid a decent wage for, for what they do. But obviously, the minimum wage is not going to address our affordable, affordable housing. And so we need to be way more creative in terms of creating great jobs here in the city. I like I said, I was going to be very brief here because most of the the points that I wanted to cover have been covered already. And I'm really looking forward to hearing from the public. So thank you very much for your time. Thank you, Councilwoman Price. Thank you. I just have a couple questions on the report. Can you talk a little bit more about a covenant and how that comes into play, an example of one and what the standard covenants might be? Sure. A covenant is a restriction that is recorded against the property that in one way or another restricts the ability of the property owner to utilize that property. In the case of an affordability covenant, those are recorded through a regulatory agreement with the city of Long Beach and we and the property owner agree that in exchange for financial assistance from the L.B. CAC, they will comply with the covenants. And those covenants are set the term of the affordability. They also we also agree on what affordability level they will be covenant those units to. So when we talk about specific projects and we say 29 units are for very low and 15 units are for low, that is because we have agreed on what the financial value of that of that unit is and what the rents they will be receiving from that unit will be for the life of those covenants. And so that that amount to that determination is basically based on the market value of the property, other properties in the same building and that same location. What amount? The amount of subsidy, yes. We try to subsidize as little as possible is the short answer. How about the amount in terms of the number of units, whether they're very low, moderate, that amount. So that really depends on the availability of additional funding sources that the developer is able to acquire. Typically, what we are seeing right now in this current environment, and I'm going to say right now, is been the last five years is a typical development project for affordable housing will have upwards of six. Eight. Ten and even 12 different funding sources layered together in order to make the project work. Some of that assistance is through the city of Long Beach. If they are awarded tax credits, the y are. It's a competitive process to receive funding through the state tax credit process. They are specifically earmarking their project towards a specific population. Some housing developers specialize in veterans supportive housing. Some developers specialize in family housing, so they will go after funding sources specific to those those categories, if you will. They then come to the city and say, we have a gap. Here's our pro forma. We have a gap of X millions of dollars. Can you assist us? We basically review their performance, determine whether their rents are acceptable per per all the standards. Look at what their other funding sources are. Look at what we our needs are. Do we need more veteran housing? Do we need more senior housing? Do we need more family housing? What is going to be good for the neighborhood? This neighborhood? Maybe we shouldn't have families, additional families in this neighborhood because the schools are already impacted. So we look at that as well when we talk to the developer and basically structure and negotiate financial packages that way. But the developer is the one that comes to us typically and says, here's my income breakdown. I know I can get money for these income levels. Here's the project I'm pursuing. Are you supportive of that? Yes or. No? Okay. Okay. And then in regards to the density bonus, where there is a density, where can a density bonus be offered? So if there's an area that is operating under a specific plan, let's say. Could there be variations in the specific plan in order to offer a density bonus, or would the density bonus be already encompassed in the specific plan? The density bonus is not encompassed in our rezoning or our specific plan. So a developer can come and say, I'm no, I'm only allowed to build a three story project here, but I want to build a five story project because I'm going to do 80 additional units and they're all going to be affordable. We say, thank you very much. Okay, I can you explain what a micro unit is? We hear that term a. A lot, and I would love to have you explain it for everyone once and for all. And Micro Unit is essentially a very efficient, small unit that has the standalone bathroom and has some kitchen equipment in it, but can be as small as 250 square feet for the entire unit. Our current code does not allow for micro units in the downtown area. We do allow units to be as small as 450 square feet, but that is only a small percentage of the overall total of the units in that project. So we are average size of a unit in the downtown must be 600 square feet. You can deviate, 15% of those units can be as small as 450 square feet, but the overall average within the building must be 600 square feet. Okay, great. Thank you. And I want to thank my colleagues for their comments. I heard a lot of great answers to questions that I had as well. Staff really has done a tremendous job with what I consider to be a very comprehensive overview of the issue, and it's s upported by data, which is very valuable. I know that senior housing is a major issue that I hear about repeatedly in the city of Long Beach quality senior housing. And so I think for me, that's an area that I have a lot of passion and interest in in terms of what options we're providing our our residents who are on a fixed income, who don't have or choose not to live with family and who still want to have independence as they age. And so I think that's an area that is definitely worthy of further exploration. And, of course, Councilman Austin's comments regarding homeownership and those of Councilman Mongo are also very important. I think those are areas where we want to be focused on incentives and assistance to the extent that we can to assist our residents in achieving that great ultimate goal. So thank you very much for the report and thank you for the team and the collaboration and feedback that you provided. Thank you, Councilman Gonzalez. Great. And I think what Councilwoman Pryce just said kind of segways to what I had forgot to mention, and it was I failed to mention the California Energy Commission has currently a it's called the Energy Innovation Challenge. And I think it's a local government challenge that was derived from Kevin Dellums, Senate Bill 350. And I'd like us to look into it a bit more. From what I'm understanding, it's an energy efficient mortgage that provides 5 to 15% off a loan for low income residents. And so this was derived from leftover refunds. That was just that was just voted on in the legislature this past year. So it'd be good to look into what we could do there. If there is any program that the the city of Long Beach could connect with the state on, I think that would be worthy. Thank you. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce. Yes, I had. One more thing. I also left off my list. And I do want to echo on home ownership as someone who feels like there are lifelong renter, definitely support everything on increasing homeownership and the micro units. I think when we're looking at downtown and we're looking at some of the unique buildings that we have, reevaluating the need for micro units in a place where we say we want to live, work and play without a car, that those micro units might be an opportunity for us to get more housing for people like in the tech industry. I have several startup companies in my district and probably four of them have come to me and said, You're taking away our parking and we don't have access to affordable rent in in a walkable area. And so really making sure that when we're thinking about energy and that is really important. And then I did have some questions about the recommendation, the last recommendation that says to go to 150. Hold on 1/2. Let me make sure I call this on other staff recommendations and modify the moderate income definition from 82 from 80 to 125. Am I to 80 to 150? Who is the city the one that defines what that is? Or is that at a state level? So we can try t o broaden that at the local level where we have discretionary dollars. So we can start at the local level, increase our definition of what a moderate income resident and their earnings would be in order to assist moderate income residents with specified programs. And then I believe the discussion is to start having those discussions both at the state and federal levels as well. Okay. For me, I guess sort of at a first glance, you know, on the fourth slide, you said that we had the greatest need in between low, very low and extremely low, and that it would seem, you know, to try to increase that AP to 150 isn't really addressing the deepest need that we have for low and very low housing. And so it's I know that it's in here. It's just an area that I guess I have a lot of concerns about. So I wanted to just go on the record and make sure that legally that's something that we could do and that we would continue to be able to get funds for for that . Am I. So I'm putting that out there. Thank you. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. Just something to think about, Councilman Pearce, as we do increase the wages in the city and we do work towards those additional jobs that will be created. One of the things that I think we've done really well and I didn't realize we've done it as well in this report, is the balance between the percentages of people in each income category and the balance of percentages of the units in each of those price points because as we have those individuals. Break those income barriers as they grow their income if they get priced out of a plan. That's where we have a lot of interesting components of how a person who was housed for a good amount of time can then become homeless and cycle into that process. And so I would just caution us against overinvesting in any one income category that that balance has been very healthy for us and successful in allowing our community to grow themselves out of poverty. Just a thought, but I need to add in and I know that our staff will continue to work on that. Okay. Thank you. I'm going to a couple of brief comments here that were not in the report. And I'm going to go to go to public comment, just staff, just some things to consider as we move forward on finalizing this report. One is I'd love there to be some additional focus around our veterans initiative. I think the discussions around Measure H and the funding and I think the Assemblymember brought up Measure H, H, H, which also is a huge veterans component. I think what's happening at the villages at Cabrillo, as reminded today when we were there on the campus and housing veterans, has been incredible. So if there is more conversation about veterans housing, what we're able to do, I know there's some restrictions on that. I'd love to see a little bit more of that. It's an opportunity also to think, I know that the apartment association is here. We we housed in Long Beach in the last two years, 700 veterans that were experiencing homelessness, 700 in the city of Long Beach. And a big part of that was thanks to a lot of the work that's happened here with the villages of Korea. But also, I want to thank the apartment association, because you helped us out and reached out with your members to house a lot of these veterans as well. And so I wanted to mention that areas that we could also I think additionally add is Metro Transit has incredible opportunities now with grants around affordable housing. I know we're just beginning to look at that now. Now that I know that I'm on the board, if there's opportunities to maximize some of those dollars around transit nodes, I'd love for there to be some exploration. Miss Bodak around whatever system we come up with of pushing the envelope when it comes to what we can develop up and down the blue line, I think that there's incredible public opportunity for us to do to be, I think, have a really robust program when it comes to getting those density credits from Metro and getting funding. So I just want to see a little bit more on that, which I know that we're we're working on as well. I am very supportive of micro units. If you read, there's a lot of research and data out there about these micro units. This is an ability for for people to be able to. I know for most of us are crazy. You know, we wouldn't live in a 300 square foot unit. That sounds nuts. But at one point in my life, I would have and I think there's a lot of people out there that would be willing to, if they're able to, to go into that first their first home and be a micro unit that is, you know, 300, 350 square feet and be able to live there, be able to be at a price point they can afford. And I think that's very advantageous to some partnerships with the university and some of these tech startups that are looking for that micro unit support. Let me also just add, and this wasn't mentioned much, but I just want to I want to mention as we get comments as well. I'm a big believer and I support this report. Building housing across the board is important because we know if you're if you're if you're reading what's going on right now in the housing conversations and in the kind of academic studies and in what's happening across the country, when you because we have such a housing shortage and we're in a crisis of actual housing of all types. When you build more housing at for low income folks, you're providing opportunities, obviously, for them to get into the housing market. When you're building more housing, workforce housing or for or moderate income housing, you're allowing folks that might be in substandard housing or in housing that maybe is more low income housing to then move into that middle income housing. And you create space which then incentivizes other folks to move into some of the other housing. Same thing happens when you build market rate. And so I think for Long Beach, it's important that we have a robust program that we we have been building market rate housing in the city. I have supported that effort. That effort will continue. But we also need to look at ensure that we're building all types of housing. And this type of housing affordable in particular right now is where we need the more resources when it comes to state support and a consistent support of revenue so that all the seniors and working people and veterans and others that need that additional support are continue to be part of our of our community. And the last thing I'll say, as a reminder, I want everyone to keep this in mind that what I've been telling folks is over the weekend, the state what I believe we've got to build housing because it's the right thing to do. The whether or not people think it's the right thing to do or not, it's a requirement of the state. And so we have to continue building this housing and we have to continue having this conversation that it's what every city is grappling with. But it's important that we also follow the mandates we're getting from the state of California. And that's an important part of this conversation as well. With that, thank you to everyone for their comments. Please. The mic is open. Come forward. Please say your name and and please give us your comments about today's report. Eric Garcia Councilmembers Don Darnell. I'm a commissioner on the Senior Citizens Advisory Commission. And first of all, I think Amy Bodak and Pendleton Services and Bonnie Lowenthal and her committee really deserve a big, enormous star or something. I mean, they've done such a terrific job. They've given us an encyclopedia on housing. I tell you, it's great. So anyway, I want to thank them. And also, I'm very impressed with the engagement that the council members have here, showing your interest and your really sincerity on things. This is something that I've been overwhelmed with, and I really applaud you for it. The senior services excuse me, the Senior Citizens Advisory Commission has involved in a lot of things, including housing. But for instance, the low income nutritional lunches at this community centers, especially at Chavez Park, we're trying to develop and expand the passport bus for seniors to be able to get better transportation. So that's what I'm really concerned with right now among the housing issues. But for as far as housing, seniors are the fastest growing element of our population, in case you don't realize that. And also, they're probably the most vulnerable for displacement in housing because they're where they're living is it's they wanted to live their lives in place. And a lot of them been there a long time. And when something is renovated, who's getting kicked out? Mostly seniors. So that's something that you should be thinking about. The seniors not only are the fastest growing population. But their being the displaced most. So I think that they're suffering the most then. And I want to bring that to your attention. Also, the LGBTQ community is suffering from housing issues also. I just want to make sure that's included somewhere in our studies. So I just want to bring those forth to you. So include those in your considerations. And I thank you. Thank you, Don. Thanks for being here. Next speaker, please. Good evening. That was certainly a very informative report and congratulations to all of you for all of your input. There were just a couple of things that I that came to mind. Now, I was not able to come to the last meeting, but I do understand that you passed something on the East Side, which was on Norwalk Boulevard, which is a very easily accessible place by transportation. And yet you put in here, we're talking about having affordable housing and creating more housing. And yet that project ended up being an R one very expensive housing element. And I was very disappointed to see that. So it sounds like you're saying one thing, but you're doing something different because that could have, you know, it was a large piece of land in that could have been used for work on the East Side. Roberto It could have been an East Side project. So I encourage you to look at that. You know, the disparity there not to forget the law of economics, supply and demand. If you don't destroy incentives to build or to, you know, create, and that, of course, ends up being a return on money, then you destroy the incentive to build. Please do not forget the cracker boxes that were built in District two absolutely destroyed those neighborhoods. So be very please be very cognizant of density. Something else that could be used. I really like the idea, which I know is coming up in a minute, the granny flat idea that could really go a long way for students and for for the seniors. I mean, you know nice little place in the back of somebody's are one lot. I very highly encourage that micro unit so very much support. I think that's very possible. I've been to Europe, in fact, 85 countries and they do have those kinds of things. And one other thing that no one has brought up is grandfathering in some units that may be illegal, but that, you know, haven't been permitted. So maybe if you could create a process to allow those permits and there's lots of room on the campus for more student housing, I hope you encourage that. And I love the housing project on the Emmanuel Church. I think so. So I think there's some good things that you haven't thought of but continue going on the same path. And certainly we want to be inclusive in our housing. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hello. Bill five, Council District three. Thank you for giving me a chance to speak here. A lot of my questions or what I wanted to say have already been addressed by council. So thank you for having the foresight to know what I was thinking. What I wanted to say is about the medium income. So as a current jobseeker, I see opportunities out there for $11, $12 an hour. So based on that high definition, somebody earning that would have to pay $520 a month for rent. So we obviously don't offer that in our city, but something to put in the back of your head. The other thing to address is extremely low income for those people who make extremely low incomes. I don't know who they are, but again, a knowledgeable peer is something to consider, especially what Mr. Downer said regarding LGBT persons. Trans people earn the lowest and have the most difficult time securing a fair paying job and housing as well without suffering from other tenants who don't like their personal identity. What I'd like to address, though, while I was sitting here listening to the study session, was what if you would go across the ocean and we look at Japan where they have, you know, 20 storey tall apartment buildings and this is the way people live all their lives. We've never consider this. We look at studies across the country and maybe in Canada, but never like Japan, where we have a city at a major world city that's actually houses on a daily basis and it is a family generation after generation lifestyle. I'd kind of like to see that kind of explored. And maybe as Mr. Tauranga addressed people's ideal as to home ownership, we may have to think about home ownership if we become a Japan or I mean Tokyo, or if we come to New York where we're stacked up that high up, you know, home ownership may have to be redefined. And how we live our lives and the residences that we choose may have to be redefined. Right. Thank you for your time. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hello. I'm Myron Woolen. I'm the president of the Long Beach Gray Panthers. And as the Great Panthers, we're concerned about senior housing. And I want to echo Don Downer's report or comments, rather, about how housing affects seniors and how seniors become homeless. And we talked about homelessness as an issue within the council, and this issue of housing affects homelessness and affects homelessness of seniors. I several of my concerns have been echoed by council members and just want to repeat what council members have said. Council a former council member, Lowenthal, talked about HGH and how we should support a bond issue. And I would echo yes, let's support bond issue, but also passed by the L.A. City was. Jay and that was also an approach to trying to find resources to to create money that would be used for housing. And J.J., if you know, if you remember what it was said, that if there any developer would come before the city and ask for a change in zoning laws, then they would be affected by rules that would say that they would have to have certain percentage of the housing that they were planning to create would go to affordable and low income housing. So this I would urge the council members to think about passing something similar to JJ. Now. My other concerns were also echoed by council members. That is the strategic goal number two of protect and preserve. And I would think about is protecting preserving affordable housing. I would echo council member Council member Pearce's comme nts about how do we know what is there, what is available. Whenever a affordable housing unit is removed because it becomes market rate. The council member should pass a resolution that they should then be it should be known and as part of a database that the council creates, that when the housing is lost, the council member knows about it, the council knows about it. They can use this information then to figure out what what housing is needed. Finally, I would like to talk about something that council member Urunga talked about. What is that is how do we know what our needs are? We need to create some kind of a see a database, a way of figuring out one. How what kind of housing do we have? What kind of housing do we need, and what kind of a plan within take ten or 20 years that had how much money we would need to eliminate or go for a goal of removing or pardon me, creating affordable housing within within the city of Long Beach. So I would echo council members concerns. And if there are concerns of of the Long Beach Gray Panthers. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Members of the city council, Gary Shelton. I'm the president of the West Gateway Community Association, which in which we are right now the civic center and 50 square blocks to the north and east and west of here are West Gateway Community Association. We are also concerned about affordability of housing. In fact, that's on our agenda. It's been passed as a as a as an item of interest and concern and activism for us. What I wanted to address this evening, and I hope you guys can make note of this somehow I had trouble shuffling through my copy of the report , which I got from the city clerk today because it was not in sync with the presentation on the screen. But I didn't do too bad of a job. But on page 15, we talk about affordable housing and maybe can just make some kind of a note about that. Whatever affordable housing is and it doesn't say affordable to whom, and I express that more precisely. Talking about on pages 23 and 24, the arena documents the regional housing needs assessment, where the various income levels are expressed in the numbers of people and the numbers of housing that are needed for those people, but not in the dollars that they earn. And it's very important, I think, to understand that median below, median above median low income, very low income, extremely low income, have specific definitions that I think could be included in this report for clarity. For example, I believe that the median income area, median income for a family of four right now is about 62,500 , which would make 30% of that for very low. About 18,000 people who are making $18,000, less or less a year may not think of themselves as in the extremely low income category, but they are. So knowing that could help them. Pages 20 and 21 have a chart on there that shows on the bottom line of the the chart shows that the net available housing asset fund, that's the hou sing asset fund that was spoken of, where all the money reside is about $14 million. Well, earlier in the document, it expresses the average amount if you do the math of what a housing unit costs. What this means is that we have enough money to build about 180 housing units out of the. What we learned on the rent document is a need of about 2860 unit. So I don't know. I can't do the math on that 180 houses over the next five years into 2860 more needed. I don't know what that really means, but it's going to be, I think, decades before those houses are built. Finally, I wanted to point out that on the list of the current and in-progress housing units, there's five or six pages of those that if we break that down into new housing, which is going to expand the housing accessibility to people, only 75% of those units that are listed are new units. The rest are rehab units. And that itself equals only 28% of the arena numbers. Now, I have 8 seconds to make my last point, which was I'm concerned about the classicism that I believe I heard related to home ownership compared to renters. And I think if we were to ask the people out in the community, about 60% of them watching tonight would say, I'm a renter, I'm not a homeowner, but I'm invested in my community. Thank you for hearing. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. I'll try to make this as quick as possible. Good evening. My name is Dr. Johnny Rick. Soda, and I'm a resident, a proud resident of the ninth district. I read the current affordable housing report with great interest for a couple of reasons. I'm a property owner and thus am always interested in the city's efforts to address the issues of housing. Additionally, I work for the University of California as a statistical consultant, and I'm always very interested in the data presented in these types of reports. After reading the part, I had some concerns about the types of data sources used in the background, as well as some of the statements in the report that I feel are unclear and lacked the references to support some of the conclusions. Let me list some of these tonight with the expectation that these issues will be appropriately addressed before the final report is submitted. I have some concerns about. Using data from Zillow as one of the main sources of information on median rent for one and two bedroom apartments. I noticed that if you examine the zip code level data, you will see that it includes very few Long Beach zip codes with the main zip codes being that you see being 90803, which is the Belmont Shore. I think we can all agree that we don't want policy based on data that may be skewed to over represent higher income areas of the city. So I would ask the commission to contact Zillow to verify what zip codes are included in their data and then include those zip codes as part of the report. So with that in mind, I would encourage the Commission to additionally verify these estimates with at least 1 to 2 other in dependent sources. Two I also want clarification on the choice of comparative cities use when discussing housing cost burden. Is there a reason why we don't compare our housing cost burden to other direct neighbors, including Carson, Compton, Paramount and Bellflower? In the report, the commission references L.A., Anaheim, Oakland, San Francisco and San Jose. My question is, are these cities presented more comparable to Long Beach and other metrics that make them good standards to compare ourselves to above and beyond our regional neighbors? I think some explanation of necessity is necessary. On why these and other specific cities were chosen. Third, the report also discusses issues related to overcrowding, stating that overcrowding has become increasingly prevalent. The long these statistics cited in the report are sourced from a publicly available census data. If you go to the website, there was a report called Measuring Overcrowding in Housing, and this report discusses the fact that there are several ways to measure overcrowding, including people per room, people per bedroom and people per square foot. They acknowledge the fact that depending on the measure used, the extent of overcrowding may be under or over estimated. Additionally, they say the prevalence of overcrowding has actually decreased, not increased over time as people standard of living and home ownership has increased. It's important for this report to both cite what metric of overcrowding is being used, as well as provide some longitudinal data on estimating overcrowding in Long Beach. And why do we observe the same decreases over time? Fourth, sometimes the report makes statements that need factual support but are presented to the public as if they may be taken at face value. An example of this is under the multifamily rehabilitation section. It states a great deal of the city's existing multifamily housing stock is older and in need of repairs and upgrades. No supporting documentation, reports or statistics are cited here, even though it makes a very strong assertion. I would ask that the statement and others like it only be included when appropriate research can be presented to substantiate the claims. I thank you for your time and listening to my concerns and I look forward to these issues being addressed in the amended version of the report. Thank you very much. Thank you. Let me actually just go up to Ben Rockwell, who's up there. Ben, go ahead. There is no microphone down here. Okay. Actually, we'll wait to get my copy. We're going to go to the next speaker and I'm going to make for you. Okay, Ben, please go ahead. We'll get your mic. Someone up there, okay. Thank you. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Council members and Assembly Member Barney Lowenthal. My name is Linda Lander. Sorry, I am with Long Beach Affordable Housing

Coalition, and on behalf of our Board of Directors and our Executive Director, Jonathan Newsome, Long Beach Affordable Housing Coalition would like to state our support for the recommendations for the Mayor's Affordable Housing Task Force established in 1993. Long Beach Affordable Housing currently offers 109 affordable housing units in the city of Long Beach. Long Beach Affordable housing strongly realizes much more affordable housing is needed in our city. We are committed to work with the city and other non-profits and for profit developers to address this need in the coming years. Long Beach Affordable Housing will be seeking to develop new award winning, innovative, affordable housing to help address this critical, critical need. Thank you for the opportunity to comment on those important on these important recommendations. Thank you very much. Someone getting a mic up to Mr. Rockwell. Okay, let's go, Mr. Rockwell. Okay. Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Ben Rockwell. I've been living here in Long Beach for 29 years as of this May. We have been just told that the building that I'm living in, Beachwood Apartments, has been just now approved for another 55 years on the very low income, affordable income for persons with disabilities as well as those that are seniors. I thank God that I'll be able to live there until I'm 126 and I plan on loving that full time because I don't plan on dying very soon. As most of you know, I am endeavoring to remain active in keeping this community going strong for all people of all different disabilities and levels. And those of us that are aging and have disabilities, many of us are able to keep strong and advocating for others within the community to help make it go. I thank God for sentry housing and what they're doing to make my apartment units and my apartment better and bring it up to a better standard than what has been. And I thank God for all those of you who have been supporting the affordable housing here and our city. And I thank God that we have the best affordable housing for persons with disabilities of any city in their state. And it was much easier for me to get in 29 years ago than what I could get in to any of the other cities around here on Southern California because I was homeless for two weeks and I got into the apartment building that I'm in. And so I'm still here. And I'm going to remain here, and I'm going to remain active and helping others to have the housing that is needed, especially those of us that are on the very low level of income and need to have a place that is comfortable and affordable. Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Rockwell. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Council members. My name is Shana Llewellyn. I work for AME Living Service. We have been here in Long Beach for 27 years and we have 85 clients. Our clients come from Harbor Regional Center in Torrance and I am a supported living service provider as well as a housing specialist for our company. I work with individuals with developmental and physical disabilities. We try to help our clients to become more independent, and that is may include assistance accessing affordable housing options. However, this has been a great challenge lately. Most of my clients live on SSI of eight 8940 a month. The average rent for a studio apartment is $1,000. There's no rent control here in Long Beach, and that needs to be changed. So does the requirements for renting to low income people. The criteria for writing today is too high for my clients to reach. Landlords expect you to make two and a half to three times the rent, have a 600 an over credit score, and have all the money ready to move in. My clients do not meet any of these requirements. The average wait time for the low income housing is anywhere from 2 to 10 years on a wait list, and no one can sign up on those waitlist right now. You have to apply for more than one at a time because there is a great competition out there and a great need for the housing. So each apartment that you apply for, you have to pay a credit check fee of $30. So therefore, if you decide you want to go for five. To see where the numbers are, all you're talking $150. And most of my clients don't have these funds either. The ones that have saved and scrimped and saved enough money for some of the security deposit, that money comes out of that. So, again, putting them in a position where they don't have enough security deposit. No one will accept anyone else's report either. Each apartment building has to do their own, which again takes away from our clients money. If you have someone to cosign their requirements or even hire and many don't even accept cosigners. Another issue is Section eight Housing recommends a website called Go Section eight dot com. It is not run by them or monitored at all. The listings are old and it is an outdated source of information for anyone on section eight. Also, there are quite a few landlords today that don't even accept it anymore. Delmar Properties has moved into downtown and bought up many of the buildings like Beasley Investments and have begun injecting our clients out into the street, telling them they have a relocation expert to help them find a place which is simply not true. I have two clients right now that need immediate housing within a month or they will be added to the homeless population. One is a 68 year old man. Thank you, ma'am. Just please wrap up. Time's up. Your client, Shannon, is here to explain her problem that she is now facing. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name is Shannon Ryan. Okay, I'm living I was living at 545 Linden Avenue, apartment 21. We found out around Christmas time that Domo Properties bought our building. They promised to help me find a place. They said they lied about the how they are. They now say there is nothing they can do. On January 22nd, my ceiling room caved in from the rain. And. From the rain. But due to the heavy rain we had the new owner Domo properties. But no. I'm terribly sorry, my worker, for me to deal with, not the owners of the new the new buil ding. Gohmert told my worker to tell me to deal with it because the roof caved in. And after the after she spoke to him, he came over to the assess the damage and said that I would not stay there. It was not safe. He graciously put me in a hotel. I've been there for most of February. He only we went to the hotel room one week at a time. We told him we were hoping to find an apartment. We haven't had any luck. So once the course of the first week. We had an inspector come over and he said. Janet, can you come help me, please? Was. Unsafe and it was contaminated due to black mold and the cockroaches that came down with the ceiling. I lost all my belongings, clothes, pictures, furniture in my apartment. There are only gave me three days. 3 hours to get all my belongings. I can't. Can I finish reading for her? Okay. She's on. She works part time on air and food stamps. She has no credit, no money saved. And we've been looking for over a month and no one wants to rent to her. She can't afford high rents like DOMA's that they were going to do. Once everyone was out of the building, they will get it and raise the rent as of the 28th of this month. She will be homeless. She is not asking for a handout, just a hand up. Thank you very much next week and please. Good evening, Mayor. City Council staff in Long Beach Community. My name is Walker Rivera. I am a volunteer program director for Labor Day. Long Beach. Residents Empowered. But I'm also speaking to you as a very low income renter, and I'm impacted by the housing crisis that we're experiencing last year. Leveraged launched with the housing crisis bus tour. We shared stories of rising rents, unjust evictions, displacement, overcrowding, unacceptable habitability issues, harassment, discrimination, as well as all the impacts that these issues have on our health and overall community. Leveraged directly is in support of creating more affordable housing. Yet we want to ensure that you are creating it for those people that are most in need. The extremely low and the very low income people, not just the moderate income or workforce housing. As we learned through the Developers Forum, not only do you need to dedicate a permanent source of funds for them, you also need to work with them in order to give them the time to put these projects together for a more immediate solution. You need to consider policies such as inclusionary zoning and again making sure that you're making it available to extremely low and low income communities, not just moderate income. I hope you can even agree that there is no way that we're going to build ourselves out of this crisis. One reason is because of stories like you just heard. People and families are losing what's already affordable to them faster than you can even build it. For example, four, four, six Linden Avenue, about 20 units, corner of 16, Linden, probably her building about 20 units, all issued 30 to 60 day notices by Mike Dunphy Group of Donor Properties 744 Pine about 20 units, seventh and Pacific Avenue, about 20 units all issued 30 to 60 day notices to vacate. That's approximately 80 units in less than six months that we've lost that have been affordable for families. And these lives have been uprooted, disrupted and communities altered. And for what? For profit. This is an injustice and a downright tragedy. We understand that this study session is about creating affordable housing, but let's not forget that we desperately need resident retention policies to keep people in their homes. Now, we also understand that the solution to our crisis is not is a complex one, but it's an achievable one in order to achieve it. It will require us to have creativity, ingenuity, commitment, responsibility, and most importantly, courage to do right by the people of our city. I'll leave you with one of my favorite quotes by Edmund Burke. All that is needed for the triumph of evil is for good men and women to do nothing. This is your opportunity to do something with equitable, equitable benefits for us all. Addressed the need and not the greed. Thank you. Thank you for it. Next, the police. Good evening, Mayor and Council. My name is Sarah Schoolcraft. I have lived in this town for 30 years as a renter. I am a transgender female. I am a student at Longreach City College. I'm an active member for his congregation, Congregational Church of Longreach. I participate in various activities like MLK and Long Beach Pride. I am speaking as a recent member of Libra, Long Beach Empowered. Up until recently I was reading 97, my primary 16. The building was being sold late last year. The sale closed January of this year. When I found out that the building was being sold and Dome a copy was involved, I feared what happened to the tenants of London was going to happen to me. That's when I contacted Libra because I read in the paper. They were. They were trying to help. I've been living there for two and a half years. I pay my rent every month, even though some months I struggled just to put groceries in my house. Even though I am on a fixed income. The rent was paid and it was affordable to me and I was able to pay it and continue going to school. All that changed when so when the property was sold and Mike Dunphy management took over. During the sale, I experienced harassment, intimidation, threats of being evicted or having my rent raised the point where I couldn't afford it. My neighbors and I formed an association to fight looming displacement, either by eviction or rent increase. We were living there with many health and safety issues, like heaters that were not being or not working. We asked for repairs to get done and we got little in return. We called city code enforcement into those days. Heaters have still not been fixed. One by one. Jim Tamara, who works for Mike Duffy, offered cash for key settlements. People. Out of the unit so they could rehab an increase in rents. We are told the rent would be increased 300 and we were first promised a right to return. But who can afford an increase of 300? When you're on a fixed income, not me. I was a victim of constant pressure and to settle and I just couldn't take the stress adding to my life. Now I find myself homeless. Not being able to find an apartment that is affordable as that one was not only the victim of owners putting profit over people. I am also the victim of gratification of a giant gentrification happening in here due to the downtown plan, because there's not a single affordable housing unit is in it. I'm sharing my story because I am one person out of hundreds. This is happening to. So when the city is considering building affordable housing, you need to build it for people like me. At the same time, you need to create more resident retention policies that will protect good renters for me from being displaced and our homeless population . Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Nikolai Russia. I live in the First District. I'm actually in the West Gateway area, and I am a resident of one of the properties that was highlighted here tonight, which is the gallery for 21 apartments by me and my spouse. My husband moved into the area in 2012. We chose to be downtown urban residents and currently I am a member of a neighborhood organization. I have been part of other organizations that have dealt with housing issues. I've also been a co-chair for the First District Participatory Budgeting Committee, and so I have been involved in my community. This report and this discussion has been very illuminating. It has been able to provide a lot of the fragmented pieces of information that are given, disseminated and provided to the public. I've attended a lot of meetings over the course of the last two years of being involved within my community. And only now is some of this sort of coming to the more understandable. But there are components that are sort of missing. One of them would be that and I have to read from this piece because it's in for referred to be included into the report that. The information that has been provided is based on the density. The encouragement of urban density and being partnered with policies such as the downtown plan, the Long Beach housing element and adaptive reuse ordinances, all of which are intended to provide a sustainable road map for growth, is the reason that I understood that efforts to streamline both permit processing and development for construction of projects have promoted other projects containing commercial and residential units. One of them in which I live in. These these are resulted in some notable changes. For example, the rent was raised $380 when it was time for my lease renewal, along with other tenants at that time. Since we have a monthly community meeting, we tend to sort of talk about these issues just months before the opening of the Current and the Edison, because these are now at the fair market pricing of quotes. This year, the state d increase for this year's renewal are $600, which reflects fair market pricing for rental units in the downtown core. This city has lost some very talented young professionals which have chosen to reside in Long Beach and enjoy the quality of life of living in an urban area. This may account for the drop of average household income that of 69,091, which was reported in 2014 with 59,709 in 2016. As stated in some of the documents provided by the deal being, the housing burden for moderate income households has a direct impact and effect on all of the other categories within this report the low income and the very low income. So this effect is not actually put into the report of keeping track of the rent increases and how this impacts quality of living as well as the spendable income to be used for the relations that are built with neighbors as well as with merchants and patrons in this area. Thank you for you to consider that, please. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Yes, my name is Hollis Stewart and I live in the First District and I'm proud to be here. I'm a member and one of the leaders in the North Pi Neighborhood Alliance and an activist. And I want to say a couple of things here and on other people have covered all the issues of affordable housing, I think, fairly well. Now, since I live at the corner of Fourth and Pine, I'm very much part of the downtown community. I also walk through the West Gate area and I walk up through the will and are in different things like that. And I see a lot of the kind of people who are being described as though they're not. Though they don't need the housing. The low income people, the very low income people, they need good housing and they need housing that is consistent where they're retained able to retain your house. I grew up poor. It's important that poor children have the same school from one year to the next so that they get a grounding and an education that makes them feel like they're important. That's what takes people away from being in things like gangs and stuff like that. It's when you have a lifestyle and a way of living so that in fact, you have some pride about yourself and your family. And if you get pushed out all the time and forced into lower and lower and cheaper looking housing, you feel like. I'm not very worthy. And that's a very bad thing. A very bad thing. I was a psychology major at one point. Nothing is probably worse for people than to feel like they are worthless. And we can't have that Long Beach because all of our people black, Latino, gay, lesbian, transgender, everybody here is a person of Long Beach. Our mayor came from another country as an immigrant. And we have to take in respect and honor all these different variations and make sure ours is a place of love. And that's what I came up to talk about. I also wanted to share with you, though, that somebody put up leaflets up on the front desk outside the look that was put out by the city that refers to outside agitators and people looking for. I am not an outside agitator. I'm not looking for a cushy job. And I'm insulted that my city would have this out there or I felt like I was put down before I spoke. I live in a fairly good building there fourth. And I hope the city didn't put that out there. I don't know. I think I would be surprised if we put that out there. Good. Because I got a group that I want. I won't use their name because I heard people being yelled at a couple of weeks ago. I won't do that. But it hurt because this is my city and I love all of my representatives. I think we have a great city council, a great mayor, good people, and this city is here for all of us, all of us, the landlords, the tenants, everybody knows that's we have to keep nothing we have to build on so that our children. Grow up to be the best they can. So thank you very much. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. My name is Rudy and I live on district and the third district. I get very emotional because this is something that is I'm just going through. I have lived in my current address for five years and a total of 26 years and Long Beach. Would you mind? Tell me what lived on? What? Around where? It's good for me. Okay. Third District. Okay. Belmont and ninth. To be precise, I am speaking today as a renter, a resident of Long Beach and a member of Liberate. I became involved with Libera because of the injustice that I'm personally experiencing. My building was sold a year and a half ago. Since the new owner took ownership. My experience. He changed the whole arrangement of the building and put a lot of pressures and on on us. And raised my rent 270 with a 60 day notice. Um, these. It's a two bedroom. This caused me to lose the roommate that I had, which this. The only way that I could afford. Where I'm living now. I pride myself on being a good tenant. I pay my rent on time every month because if I don't, I get charged $150 plus, he says, $50 thereafter. For each day. So I've never been late on my rent. A He raised my. I a about a month ago, which is in less than a year and a half. He raised more than twice a last month. He raised my rent again, $75, and I lost the second roommate that I just acquired. Okay. So I had to quickly find another one so I could keep the place. When I submitted to. Him the name of the prospect, he said, he told me, Do not get another roommate. I call him up. He did not answer my phone. Two days after that. He served me a move out. A 60 day move up notice. I understand this is I understand this session is to investigate. Options to develop more affordable housing because we are in. A. Housing crisis. I agree with the building. I agree with building. More affordable housing for very low income. Families. Not just for moderate income people. In order to accomplish. Is, the CD needs to consider secure. Impermanent source sources of funds. And policies that are inclusionary zoning. Thank you, sir. Thanks. Thank you. Next speaker, please. G ood evening. My name is Neil Richmond and I live here in Long Beach and I'm active with Lee Bright. And I want to make my comments short to the point. I want to reinforce the importance of a dedicated source of funds that will support affordable housing development. Because, as you know, local, local subsidies, local funding is the foundation on which you can grant tax credits and state and federal and nonprofit funding and really build these complex structures that some which take four or five years to build. And it's really what it's a match. It's a critical match. And the type of funding, whether it's inclusionary, whether it's in lieu, whether it's a bond, those require a deeper level of analysis to look at their feasibility, their economic feasibility. But I want to reinforce the conversation and congratulate the staff for focusing on that issue. There's been a lot of discussion here about purchase and rehabilitation, where people's units get transformed. But for another group, non-profits and other affordable housing providers can come in and purchase buildings, make them affordable, do rehab, use project based Section eight. And the most important thing is therapy one for one replacement in the units. And the other most important thing is that is the right to return for people who live in those properties. And then the final point I wanted to make was on this 150% of AMI for moderate income households, it would be $90,000 for an individual household. So I really want to encourage us to target the resources, as Councilwoman Pierce said, to those who are in the greatest need. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. Makes me completely. Hi. My name is Evangeline Ramirez. I have been living in this community for the last 24 years. I have two kids in college. One is in UC Santa Barbara, the other is in Cal State, Long Beach. And it has been involving my community working like volunteer with different organizations, gladly helping communities at children's clinic helping and the district one for almost 17 years now living on the sixth district. But right now, I'm the community organizer for Long Beach Residents and Power Labor and Europe. You are saying that you bill about affordable housing. But my question is affordable housing for who? We need affordable housing. Yes, but any affordable housing that is built must be built in the most impact that any person families who are living with extremely low, very low and low income people like me, I'm working every day, 12, 14, 16 hours. My it my payment is 10 to $15 by our. And it's really hard for me to parent that. Right now, it's almost 1600 a month. Between 2009 and 2000. We advocating for at the time plan had to include mixed income housing with at least 10 to 15% housing units developed for lower income families and at least 10% of the unions and uniper and new apartments and condominium developments should be set aside on site as affordable to long working families. We also, as the city, to ensure that displaced residents have priority preference for affordable units built within the downtown plan area. We love the campaign to include community benefits in the downtown plan. And now exactly what we said was going to happen is happening. The downtown plan is causing large scale or direct and indirect displacements of low income communities of color. We have long resided in downtown. The downtown plan include approvals for 5000 mark and rate the units. Millions of squares fit commercial and retail uses, and a hundred hotel rooms did not include a single unit for affordable housing. Now the renters, they try to take bachelorettes. Every time that I am looking for an apartment, I have to pay to 25 to $50 for applications and I have to do an application for each one of my kids. It is crazy. I have three kids and for each one I have to pay $25. I cannot have found a place where to live because I cannot pay the place where I'm living. I ask you. I ask you. I really ask you to. Keep people like me in Long Beach because if I don't find a place, I have to move in. It's not fair that I have been living in this city for 24 years, working in the community, giving hundreds of thousands hours. Volunteer and I have to move. That's not fair. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. My name is Wayne Murchison, second district and affordable housing, especially low income or extremely low. My business ended in July, on January 1st in 2011, and I became an active activist by the end of that for social justice. At that time, I became homeless. I was living in my office. There's a lot of people living in offices that you don't even know about. Got to tell you anyways. So I've been essentially homeless for the past last 5 to 6 years. Section eight. It's a long wait, five years, they say, and the voucher is only good for a certain amount of time. And as has been mentioned, a lot of people don't want to rent for that. I've been they've been denied this a disabled status both as a US vet and a regular disability. So my income would be classified extremely low at this time. I basically have no hope of a place to call my own and in the future there'll be an even greater number of people becoming extremely low income homeless people. For many reasons. Somehow income is never tied to. Outflow or market rate costs. It just doesn't work. The numbers. Don't mix. They don't clash. They don't go up. Income just doesn't go up. It doesn't stay commensurate with the cost of living. That's kind of. Horrible. There will be more homeless. People coming out for various reasons you've heard. Here, as well as job losses and everything. Fourth generation robotics. We've got to address reality. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is Suzanne Brown. I'm a senior attorney at the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles in the Long Beach office. And we want to thank the city for dedicating so much time this night, tonight for this important dis cussion. We haven't had a meeting dedicated to housing in a very long time in Long Beach, and we're excited to engage. In this dialog with you. As you've heard from the speakers before me, our housing crisis is incredibly complex and unfortunately there is no silver bullet to solve our crisis. We need a multi-pronged approach to fight this battle. We need tenant protections. As you've heard, people like Eva passionately share her story. To protect against displacement, we need affordable housing creation strategies to build more affordable housing. And we need affordable housing preservation strategies to preserve affordable housing, whether it's a covenanted unit or just an older unit that perhaps a low income family can afford. We also really need better data to capture the magnitude, the massive displacement that is happening across the city as people quietly disappear with 30 and 60 day notices because they're too scared to fight it and get eviction on their credit report. If we could have this data, particularly to show the displacement in downtown, it would be incredibly compelling to help you as policymakers. We're currently in the 2014 to 2021 housing element planning period, and SCAD has calculated that Long Beach needs to build 4009 affordable units, not affordable to 150% of AMI, but to the lower income levels by 2021 to meet our existing affordable housing needs since 2014. In the first two years of this planning period, the city has completed 160 affordable units. So we are nowhere near the need that we need to be at. The city's focus on creating high end residential development, particularly in the downtown plan area, has created enormous pressure on our city's residents. This is why resident retention strategies have become so critical for our population and why it's something that's been repeated so much tonight. Again, we thank you for your time this evening and we look forward to tackling this housing crisis with you. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. City Council members and Mayor Garcia. My name is willing to go. Yeah, and I live in zip code 90 310 District seven. I have been a resident of Long Beach for 25 years. Most of my life I have resided on the west side of Long Beach. I am currently a student at Colby Master's in Social Work, and I'm here speaking in solidarity with liberty. Most importantly. I'm a single mother of two children whose ages are six and nine years old. As a parent, I have a duty to ensure that my children have a roof over their head. I currently work part time at a nonprofit agency making $16 an hour, and that is not enough to secure my own housing. I work with homeless families and every day I am reminded that homelessness is always knocking at my door with all of my responsibilities. I am currently working six days out of the week, not to mention the time I have to make to complete school assignments. I have the energy to help my children with their schoolwork. I personally pay 5

7% of my income towards rent in addition to having to pay for childcare and transportation. When my daughter comes to me and asked me, Mom, I wish I had my own room. It kills me to tell her that I can not provide a space of her own. I will be graduating in May and I'm still fearful about not making enough money to rent an apartment for my children. The average rent for a two bedroom apartment on Long Beach right now is about $2,000, and even if it was less, there still wouldn't change my situation. This means that I will have to make. About $6,000 a. Month to meet the criteria of making three times the rent. This is my reality and the reality of so many other residents in my community. As part of my graduation requirement, I'm assessing the needs of the city of Lumberton, and I have been able to connect and communicate with many families who have been frustrated and fearful of possible displacement. I hear stories of insecurity with being able to make rent, having a hard time finding affordable apartments, and even having to double up with another family to make sure that children have a place to put their heads. This is the reason why I wanted to share my story and let the city know that when you're thinking about building affordable housing, consider building it for the low and the very low income families just as mine. And please consider affordable housing for mixing in communities. I currently have to travel seven miles to take my children to Mark Twain Elementary because I want my children to get a good public education and be in an environment of mixed ethnic groups and cultures. Please hear my story because it reflects many others. Thank you for your time. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Alberto Munoz. I am a member of Livre and also the managing attorney at a nonprofit by the name of Basta. I lived here about when I graduated from law school. I came to Long Beach. I loved how diverse it was economically and ethnically. You could go to a bar, a restaurant, meet a teacher, meet a longshoreman, meet an attorney, and meet somebody who's in a garage band all in the same place that is being lost in the city. And the reason it's being lost is because people are being displaced. I asked to today's meeting. I want to congratulate the City Council in the efforts that you guys are doing to help future Long Beach residents. But nothing is being done to help the residents are living here and who are in the process of being displaced in the framework. In the report, I believe Vice Mayor Richardson mentioned something about a database allocating and keeping in. Keeping in place or just keeping the data of the people that are being displaced out of our communities? I want to make sure that that's included in the report. Another thing I believe that there is a covenant database. Where. People are developers that are getting financial incentives for the city are to comply with with that with those covenants

. We want to know whether those developers are complying and what the numbers in that database are like at the end of the day. As many of you know, 58% of Long Beach residents are renters. I congratulate the council members that are not renters and have been able to escape this this area. But if you are if you truly care about what's happening to the displaced members of our community, I invite you to go to the apartment s13 across the street . Any morning of the day, you'll see around 30 to 40 people being evicted from their homes, losing their homes with nobody to protect them. And that protection should be you members. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening, Mayor Garcia. Council and city staff. Thank you for bringing us all together tonight. That's what we all need is to come together. The city, the nonprofits and the individuals in. The private. Sector. All of us working together because we. Do have a housing crisis. I think we all agree on that. And so we're all saying to ourselves now, having heard all this good information, and I commend you on what you've already done, but we all know we need to do more. What can we do? We all are asking ourselves that. Well, I jotted down a few things that make sense to me. I hope they will. To you as well. I think we should all get. Out there and vote on Measure H. That will. Bring in $355. Million. Annually. To our area, to the long term, the Los Angeles County. That would be an easy thing to do. All right. And then I'm also hearing that it's easier and cheaper and faster to renovate existing buildings we already have here in Long Beach. So let's get together. Let's have some fact finding meetings. Let's meet with the development services. And the housing authority. Let's stop the sale of any more redevelopment property that could be utilized and use the surplus. Mayor Garcia, I commend you on all the roundtables and meetings that you have held. And at the developers meeting. I heard an interesting statement there. That I would like us to research further, and. Many of you may agree on that too. One of the developers mentioned that in San Francisco. It's also impacted in dense population. But in San. Francisco, they're buying up any parking lots. Then they're digging down. They're making parking six stories, all the ways under the ground. And on top of it now they can build more apartment buildings. Why don't we look into that, too? It's a good idea. Yeah. And let's look more seriously to into all those cargo. Containers we have at the port. They're available. To us. And it's possible that they may be a way also to to quickly get more housing, go down and take a look at Porter Lane in Orange County. There is a lovely area down there that we might want to, you know. Take a look at that, too. I think Councilmember Robert Garcia's statement that he made that maybe we could create our housing asset fund in our housing trust fund. We know that years ago Boeing contributed $250,000 and sta

ted. A housing trust fund. Let's just do some research. Let's see if we can combine those and make it useful. We need more funds to. Work with our. Landlords too, because. They're losing out in accepting section eight, usually by up to 60 days. That's two months rent. Some of this could be used to help them. Thank you. And let's all work together because that's the only way we're going to solve it. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name is Elizabeth Waite. I am a junior. Transfer student at Cal. State Long Beach, and I am also a homeless college student. I want to speak a little bit on the issue that was touched on, which is college student homelessness. We are in an in a historically unprecedented state of affairs. We have 13% college student homelessness in this country, and we have even more students who are insecure in terms of their ability to access food. So that is insane, other than the fact that there is a blatantly obvious ethical imperative in front of us when we have people who are without homes that we must respond by addressing that need. It is economically unsustainable to have your intellectual capital that you're investing in not have a stable place to live because they cannot continue to attain a degree and attain education that makes them competitive and gives them an income if they're at risk of dropping out because of the risk to their physical and mental well-being that homelessness presents. I heard that housing in terms of home ownership was mentioned, which is a great goal. But for a lot of. Us, we've given up on home. Ownership and we can't even enter the renter market because it's so competitive. And even if we did enter into the renter's market, we there's nothing legally protecting us from being evicted for some erroneous or unjustified reason. Like somebody else came along and wanted to rent for, you know, more money or whatever, which that's a completely side issue. But what I am saying is that college student homelessness is rampant, it is unprecedented. And it is a. Threat to the economic viability of our city, because college degree attainment. Is so much more. Difficult when you do not know where you're going to sleep at night. And I would highly recommend going on National Public Radio. They recently published a study with the 13% figure in it saying this is an unprecedented issue and absolutely must be addressed. Another thing I'd like to bring up in terms of the scarcity of area provided are available in the city, I would highly recommend that we look towards school busses, repurposed school busses that could be converted into living domiciles because they are very easy to convert. They withstand the elements and it's a trend across the country in terms of where they would be placed. It's a separate issue. I'm sure something could be creatively worked out with people who have driveways or backyards or whatever, you know, means that they would feel free to rent too. But since we don't have so much space to work with, let's work with. The vehicles are actually at our disposal to create safe living environments for people. And yeah, that's that's basically what I have to say. A college student homelessness is it's horrifying. And you're not going to be an economically we're not going to survive economically in a competitive sense if we do not invest in our intellectual capital's basic security. Thank you. Thank you very. Much. Next speaker, please. Hello. My name's Ed White. I'm a. Retired machinist and also owned a little property. Up on Pacific. Avenue. You might know it as a couple of storefronts and some apartments upstairs. And but my best tenant used to be the city of Long Beach, you guys. And when it was the Wrigley Place Community Center and you asked about all the data points for average rents in Long Beach. I can only speak for myself. I've got one bedrooms I rent out for 780. I got a 12 bedroom with a garage. I rent out that for 975. So, you know, I'm just a mom and pop landlord trying to take care of his family, trying to build up a pension pot. For myself and my family. You know, and I think most most of the landlords and landlady in this city is a mom. And pop deals is the same with small businesses. They're all mom and pops. I mean, they're the lifeblood of these of any city, of any community. And I don't like to be compared. With the. Big shots in places on Ocean Boulevard and God knows what. You know. I raise my rents in a while and. And I'm and I rent control. Because. You know, for various reasons, put it that way. But the main reason why I'm able to offer low rent. Is because of Prop 13. It's a life saver. Imagine if I was paying. If my building was. Reevaluated at today's market rates, I'd be telling my tenants, I'm sorry, I'm going to. Have to raise your rent big. Time to cover my overrides. You know, I mean, it's common sense. You know, there's we need a balance. There's so many good, decent landlords and ladies. Out there who need respect as much as, you know, the people over tonight. You know, the renters. They they. Certainly earn the same amount and. Respect and, you know. Don't get don't mess with Prop 13 because. It will be. It's not a good idea. There's a lot of. I had a friend who was a landlady. She died recently. She was charging low rents. You know, the new owner boarded up and he had to raise the rents. Big time in order to pay off his big time mortgage. So it depends on the individual situation. And it takes you know, we've had an amazing crisis since. I agree with the mayor. Let's bring in micro units. Let's whatever up to single room. Occupancy that. Was supposed to be introduced in the late eighties, early nineties. I hope that they're still going. So there's a lot we can do and a lot we can get on with. All right. Thanks. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. Hi there. Good evening, Mayor Garcia. And, you know, I don't even know what district I live in, but I am a resident of Long Beach and I' m really glad I came tonight because I was kind of picturing a different crowd and different stories. And my heart goes out to each and every person here. And if I had a big building, I'd stick them all in it and I charge them 500 bucks a month or nothing. If they couldn't pay it, I would. And that's why

I love this city. It's diverse. We've got an eclectic people here of. All. Economic levels, all different education. It's what makes our city so beautiful. And I really wonder, this housing crisis, somebody said it so beautifully. I think it was George. He said, you can't build your way out of this. And you know what? We can't. No matter how many homes we build, we'll never get out of it. I'm afraid we have more of this coming. But what I would like to ask the city council to do, each and every one of you is to please let's look at this in a different way. Who here has brought a new company into their district or entertained an employer to come here? I love it. That's great. I mean, we lost Boeing. We've lost lots of companies here. And that was really when our city started to slide down. If more people had jobs, that would really be the way to really alleviate some of this housing crisis. There's no reason people shouldn't make a decent living. Every one of them, they're all intelligent. Also. Why don't we? Why not educate people a little more on their rights as renters? I rented out my room for a very reasonable fee of 650 a month. I would love you to come and stay at my place if you want to. 650 I'll even maybe give you a better price than that. But my point is, I really I'm really serious. I love this city. I moved here from the shitty Alby, which was Laguna Beach. This is the real Alby. I love it. Woo! And I mean, I, I would like to see them get educated on their rights. Then they could really hold these people's feet to the fire and be protected, which they should be. And I nobody wants to put anybody out in the streets. But one more thing. Oh, I would like to volunteer. Anybody who investing another way to get ahead in this life is to invest not at the bank, but in the stock market. And I'd be happy to help anyone do that. And I kid you not. That was how I was able to buy my first place. You just buy, you know, stocks that are solid, that are companies. You know, you don't have to have $5,000 to invest in the stock market. And I can show you how to do it. If anybody wants to see me after the meeting, let's do it. Okay, that's it. That's it. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Karen replied. I'm a resident of a had low income affordable housing building in the First District on seventh and Pacific Senior Building. And you're in a great building. It's one of the better ones. Yes. And this has been a great conversation tonight. And I think some real creative solutions have come out of this. I just wanted to mention a couple of things that I didn't notice were in the plan. The covenants that expire. When the covenants expire, the owners have options on what they can do with their property. We're experiencing this in the affordable housing. We found out due to a friendly realtor that our building had been listed surreptitiously on a real estate listing. Meanwhile, the management company and owners are reassuring the tenants that they have no plans to sell the building. Why was it listed on the listing if there were no plans? So this is a scary thing for a seniors on fixed incomes and we need to look at Airbnb and be. I didn't see that mentioned in the report. You know, Airbnb. There was an article on the front page of the L.A. Times that you guys that generated fake news were doing it from their Airbnb apartment that they rented in Belmont Shore. And, you know, we're not addressing that at all as part of our housing crisis. And I think it is contributing, particularly in the wealthier areas and also the empty properties. What's going on with the breakers building? What's going on? Rite Aid. Rite Aid has sat empty. There's five floors in that building and only one is occupied and there's numerous properties in the downtown area that are in that particular classification. Why can't we provide some incentives to the the owners of those buildings to create some creative housing there? And 300 square foot units sound really good to me that live in a 320 120 square foot unit. So thank you for this opportunity and thank you, Amy laughed. I just wanted to say what a great job that her department did and all of you on bringing forth this topic for discussion. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good evening. Thanks for your time and thanks for having us. The report was very thorough and it was a really well well done report and so congratulations and thanks for the work put into that. I'd like to talk about a potential policy solution that I didn't hear about, so I thought I'd give it to you. And you're more than welcome to talk to me more or anyone else in public or any council members of the mayors more than welcome as well. One of the issues that we face when we talk about development and this is the catch 22 or the contradiction of gentrification, is that as we bring these nice projects, which I saw on the screen in their beautiful, is that the the public is doing everything they can. A lot of private landlords, they are doing everything they can to provide housing. All of this work that we're putting in to the city to make our city grow, to provide housing for people when we have a nice project that comes up in an area. What happens is all that investment and all that money that goes into that specific lot, it beautifies the entire neighborhood and all the properties around that lot go up in land value. And this is basically a form of theft, and most of that money makes its way to the banks. So this city, when it focuses, for example, on its bike paths, which is wonderful, that actually makes our city more desirable, that causes land values to rise, which causes the rent to rise, which causes

uses mortgages to rise, which makes it more expensive. So the very good things we do and the good work that we put in and the hard work that we do to make this city great is also what makes it expensive. And that's because there's this giant wealth, this giant bank of money, which is called land values, which is what is forcing the housing crisis. The cost of construction for homes has not gone up in the last 30 years. It's easier and cheaper than ever to build a home. There's plenty of lumber, plenty of electrical wire, plenty of plumbing, plenty of plumbers, plenty of people with the skill and the knowledge and the assets to get the job done. It's just that the land beneath our feet is always going up more and more expensive. Anyone who's a landlord in this room will tell you that capital is a burden. If you own something, you have to maintain it. You have to fall under regulation. The other fold is laws. It's actually expensive to own a house and to try to maintain it. So it's not. The house that goes up in value is the land underneath it. And I have some policy proposals that would help us capture some of that land value, since that land is a product of all of our generative work, including the city and including private development. Like I said, that land value currently is getting sucked up mainly by banks in the form of mortgage payments, even though the banks did nothing to create that land value. That's something the city of Long Beach created, and it belongs to Long Beach and its people. There are policies that can be implemented that would not burden production, that would not weigh heavily on consumption, that could not be passed on to mortgage payers or to tenants. That would reduce mortgage interest payments, make it easier for people to buy a home, make it easier for people to rent, and the funds could be redistributed into schools, into parks, into housing vouchers to let people stay in their home or purchase the home for the first time. There's so much you could do with this money, and it would raise real amounts of money for the city of Long Beach again, without burdening consumption or production or weighing heavily on entrepreneurship. So I would love to talk to you all about that and anyone else in the public as well. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name's Kevin Yeager, and I live in the second district. Mayor Garcia mentioned that as we build more moderate and high income housing, it would allow people to move out of substandard housing and up into those creating more low income housing. And this sounds great, but I'm skeptical that this reflects reality for most workers. Real wages have remained stagnant for decades. Among young college graduates, they're actually in steady decline. So those who do have raises, I think they will be very happy to afford their skyrocketing rents. I don't see them moving up into better housing. I'd urge caution before assuming that all housing developments ben efit our low income households rather than just accelerating gentrification. And I hope to see Long Beach acknowledged that we don't have the socioeconomic mobility that we once had decades ago and ensure that we're prioritizing our most vulnerable communities as we work through this crisis. Thank you for your time. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Good afternoon. My name is Robert Tornado. I was born and raised in the city of Long Beach. I love this city and I love its progressive attitudes towards affordable housing and all the other things that it does that other speakers have spoke about. I think that it's very important that we take in consideration the smaller landlords like myself. This is my retirement. This is what I've done. I have a small business and I don't have somebody funding my retirement. So my investment is my properties. Rent control is not the solution. Rent control would actually make me want to sell my property. And of course, you know what that's going to mean. I'll go sell and buy somewhere else. I have tenants that have been with me for over 15 years, and I think that's a testament to the type of landlord that I am. I take care of my property. I maintain the property. They're nice, they're clean. People want to live there. Not all landlords are the same. So don't think that they are. I know we've heard a lot of stories here that landlords are terrible, but they're not all terrible like that. Rent control is not going to be the answer to this solution. And rent control is not in this report. Just want to make sure they're pretty clear. Right. And I urge you to take a look at the real reason why the tenants on Linden were actually evicted. There is more to the story than they were evicted. Thank you very much. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Hi. My name is Gary Mikovits and I have some handouts I would like to have all of you have and be part of the public record. As I said, my name is Gary Markovich. And, uh. We already use 30 seconds handing out the paper, so I hope you give me just a few more seconds. I came to Long Beach 24 years ago with my husband of 33 years. He's an immigrant to this country. I am the grandson of immigrants. Refugees from Eastern Europe, war torn World War One. I certainly understand what poverty is. I grew up on the South Side of Chicago and I can only share with you. It's very disturbing to me to see what's been happening in our city, where certain organizations, where we have individuals paid to work for these organizations who've been using racial divisiveness and creating tension based on economic disparity that I find very intolerable. But that's not really what I wanted to speak about today, but I really wanted to talk about is the fact that my husband and I over the past 24 years since we came to Long Beach, we're small time investors and we've invested in our community and we've certainly been able to provide affordable housing. I think it's important for you to know that there are landlords that, like myself, have worked with families to keep a roof over their head. During the recession, we didn't raise rents and just recently we raised rents the first time in three years and the highest increase they had was 1.6%. My retention rate of my tenants is over five years right now and 70% of my buildings are minority occupied. And I guess why I'm saying this is because I found it a little bit disconcerting that somebody said earlier addressed the need, not the greed. I want to remind all the renters here that as a landlord, I have to pay a carpenter, a plumber, a tile guy, a roofer, a carpet cleaner, a gardener, an insurance I pay insurance taxes and these fees go up every year. They need to understand what we as landlords are challenged with, with the cost that we have to incur. It's not about greed. And it's very disturbing to me when I think that of the families that I have kept in their homes, when they would have been out on the street otherwise and worked with them. Today, though, what I really want to talk about and ask you to put that out. Oh. All right. Sorry. I had a tenant in 2008 who was renting from me with three other Cal State Long Beach Girls. And I'm speaking for her today because she's not here to come and speak for herself. The other three girls who were in the apartment with her had said, We're afraid of her boyfriend. We want her to move out. And if it weren't for the fact that she did move out, I would have had four dead bodies in my unit because three weeks after she moved out, she was found dead in her apartment near the university. Value the roommate that she currently had under just because of addiction. I would not be able to ask that person to get out. Would not be able to get them out. And I speak for her. Her name is Kate Sue. She was 19 years old at the time. I provided you the information on it. This is not something that is easy to even talk about because frankly, I had developed a personal relationship with her. She used to call me, struggle to pay her rent. I understood what a struggling student was going through, and I always worked to try to keep her in the apartment. But the bottom line is. We just try to wrap it up. All right. I'm giving you some more time, but just wrap it up now. As landlords, I have always felt the stewardship both over my buildings and my tenants. And I believe that it is both my moral and ethical duty to do everything possible to provide safe and well-maintained housing. And if Kate had refused to move out of my building under the policy of just cause eviction, it would have been impossible for me to have Kate move out. And it makes me wonder what might have happened to those young girls. Thinking closing, I will continue to fight for the cause for the cordial and respectful relationship that Henry and I have had with our tenants and will continue to speak out for people like Kate. Okay. I'm sure if Kate were here today. We have we have to wrap it at last sentence

, please. I got to have the same time for everybody. Thank you. If she were here today, she would say just cause evictions are bad policy. Mayor, thank you. Thank you so much. Next speaker, please. I think. Good afternoon, honorable mayor and council people and. Certainly like to thank Assemblyman Lowenthal and Amy Bodak for that great report. You know, it's one thing, first of all, Malcolm and I am a realtor here and a business owner in the city and a member of better housing for Long Beach. You know, it's really one thing to talk about affordable housing, but it's another thing to really be involved into it. And I think this report really gets to the point. You have some positive things that you've put. In this report. These things are really actionable. There is no silver bullet, but we have to take one step at a time. And when we look at some of the positive things in this program that was so well talked about in terms of density, bonus, reduced parking, looking. At impact. Fees that have a nexus to the development, these are. The kinds of things that encourage and just like our governor has and it's the latest state of our redid his program in terms of looking at as apartment. Owners we're not developers but in order to develop housing we need to have some incentives for developers and instead to have an overaggressive legislation looking at incentives to move people in. And I certainly recognize a lot of the accounts. People like Vice Mayor Richardson put us in touch with the. Section eight housing. So we come together to work at better being able to. Utilize how to use those resources. And we look at Stacy mongers. I guess we'll come up later. Sensory housing signed on by Austin. These are all positive things that the council is doing in order to look at these. And obviously the housing crisis is not new to Long Beach. It's it's throughout our state, as so. Many people see. Land costs in California is high. Just what it is. So instead of complaining, we have to take positive steps, as you guys are doing now, and we look at what are the barriers to affordable housing. And that's what we have to address. We have to look at funding sources and all the other things that are available to us. And I think we could just commend the the council and the mayor for putting together this report. I think Assemblyman Lowenthal did a great job. And just one of the thing I'd comment about, there was been a lot of questions about our regulatory agreements. Our company, we manage a lot of properties. They have regulatory agreements. These things are so monitored by the state every year we have to put in all the income certification. These things are so well monitored that they're not going to slip through the cracks. So once again, I'd like to commend the council, the mayor, for taking a very proactive step in working on dealing with this housing crisis. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. Before we up next, Speaker, I'm going to go up actually to Dan who's up there. But I also want to make sure that I think Elaine is the last person. So she's the last person on the list. I'm cutting off the speaker's list. There's more people. Okay. I just. Okay, so then Brenda was the last person on the speaker's list, and then that's it. People need to be in line so that we're fine. Brenda is the last person on the speaker's list. Hunt Before you start, are there more people coming? Okay. I'm going to. We're going to cut it down to 2 minutes here in just a minute because it's going wait. The rest of the agenda is going to move forward. So please try to try to just be as soon as possible. So as is who's the last person that line. My name's Joni. Joni. Joni. Joni. You're the last person in line. Okay. Okay. Great. Please continue. Okay. My dad's going to go. And you're gonna go after Dan. Okay? My name's Dan Mulheron. I'm a councilor. I'm a resident of the eighth council district. I'm very active in a number of political organizations, in other groups and Long Beach. I'm also a landlord and homeowner. I've lived in Long Beach for over 25 years, raised two children with my wife, Beverly. My youngest is transgender, and through Oliver, I've had as many as nine transgender students stay in my house, and at present, his best friend lives there because she was kicked out of her house for being trans. I have been a landlord for many years and have always attempted to try to work with people and overlook some past problems. The proposed renter protections that we have right now would make me pause and not be able to do this. Tenants with past mistakes and lack of work history would give me a problem I'd have to consider after to consider marginalized people that before I would take a chance on them. I'd have to have a strong cosigner, and with these proposals I would have to. If they were to become law, I would be forced to take larger deposits, limit my liability, because like many small landlords, my rent is part of my retirement income. I believe tenants deserve a decent place to live. And but as a businessman and a landlord, I have to pay my bills. I personally am an advocate, as Al Austin knows, for low cost housing for seniors and transgender youth. But is this where the youth would work and get an education? And I know private and public parties can achieve this. However, as a long time housing provider and a homeowner in Long Beach, I believe that these proposals proposed onerous regulations will negatively impact tenants by exposing them to lawbreakers much longer than necessary, hurt homeowners by negatively affecting their property values and the city by adversely affecting neighborhoods. Thank you. Thank you program. Before we go to the next speaker, because I've had multiple council members ask me to clarify this. There are no rental protections that you're talking about in front of the council. So there are some things that are being brought up tonight that are not in front of the council. We're talkin g about building affordable and workforce housing. That's what's on the agenda. And so I know there's other discussions. I know that there's discussions on both sides on different issues. But this is a study session on that issue, not on either on on those other issues that are being brought up. So we want to make sure people know clearly what's on the agenda. I'm also seeing fliers and other things being passed out that have nothing to do with the study session. So I just want to make sure that we are focused on what's in front of us. Yes, ma'am. Good evening. My name is Vicki Nelson. I used to live in Long Beach. I'm an investor, landlord, caregiver and property manager. I have been president of Town and Country Homeowners Association in the eighth District. 5021 Atlantic

Avenue. And I have to say I agree with Roberto Durango regarding the development of affordable housing. And I was wondering why the eighth and ninth District wasn't looked at. Or will it be looked at? I work very closely with Section eight programs. I have been with them for about 20 years. Have good tenants. I'm a very strict landlord and I am going to do my background checks just like I had to buy a house. My first house, my first home was a condo and I work with different programs. I was very poor. Coming up, had roommates. Any means necessary is how my father taught us. Any means necessary? Lived with five or six roommates. Roommates are good. Roommates are bad. Same as landlords and tenants. There's programs out there that help the homeless. I live in Orange County now, but I work with programs such as path topics, harp wa 211 weinger and they pay up to 6 to 1 year tenants rents. But there are guidelines. You can't be using drugs. You can't be moving people in the same guidelines as Section eight. And frankly, I love Section eight program because they monitor also the tenants. I just wish there was more affordable housing in the eighth and ninth District. And in order to clean up 5021 Atlantic, it took a partnership and it took a lot of time and money to get rid of a lot of drugs. I work very close with Long Beach PD. I put six or two's on the properties. You know, it's just I think some of the tenants don't realize what a landlord goes through. At all. And you have good tenants and you have bad. And I'm a grandmother and I am raising three grandchildren. And I have good grandkids. I have bad grandkids. Okay. So I love them. But the bad ones have to know you can't you're not going to rent or live with me if you're not going to keep a job. And do what? Needs to be done. And I always tell them any means necessary. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker. And, ma'am, I just. Just to clarify, there actually is we have built and we will be building affordable housing in the eighth and ninth District. And both the vice mayor in councilmember did speak to that. And we're interested in that. And so just want to make sure we clarify that as well. So thank you. Next speaker. Thank you.

Well, let's swing the pendulum tonight. Protestants and Catholics. I'm sure there are quite a few of us before me. Before we continue, I want to make sure I know where that speaker lives and it's getting larger. And so the gentleman in the green shirt behind Brenda is the last speaker. No. Joanne, are you going to you on the line? Okay. Raise your hand. Okay. Last speaker. That's it. No more. Let's go. Thank you. My opening statement was the pendulum swing both ways. When you see a appears if it's going to go north, it's going to go south, east to west. So in order to do something different, we have to do differently. So I know they are probably atheists or agnostics in the room, but I'm not going to speak to you tonight. Not tonight. But Protestants and Catholics, the next time you go into your parish or your church and those doors open at eight, 11, 9 p.m. am and Wednesday night, Friday night, Saturday night, look at the walls. Look around there. Look up at the ceiling and look down and and then know this. When you walk out of that building, it's going to be empty until the next time you walk in. Those of you who tithe, those of you who give, offering love offerings, peace offerings, wherever you name it, and you put that money in the plate. Write this down. This is your ownership. Deuteronomy 26:12 and 14:28. All that money that you drop in the plate, some of that belongs to the homeless and the poor and the widow and the orphan. Not just your priest, not just your pastor. And you're going to get mad when they buy a Bentley. But you can keep putting that money in that plate because you're not reading your own text. You're not reading your scripture. And then you come to these people here and you're expecting them to do something in faith that you should be doing. Now, we shook a hand shoemaker arm January 25th. Every year we do it every year. But this is where religion meets the road right here. You keep putting that money in their plate and some of it belongs to the poor. They're not going to tell you. So I'm telling you, I'm a pastor. The rabbi, next time you go to the synagogue, any of these places, the faith. You're putting money in those place. They belong to the poor and you think you play it and God doing it. And here's one. And when you going to read your own Bible, your own text, your own religious text. The pendulum is swinging the other way this year. You should know that by the type of president we have. These people appear can't do nothing beyond your own motivation. Landlords if you have people who are homeless. Why allow the city to keep taxing you when you can just say, well, I have a vacancy coming up, let me call somebody and get them in here. When are you going to keep. Start owning your Americanism. Owning your religion. They can next speaker, please. John dilatory address on file also have apartment complex in the second district. And I think you know and I appreciate all the work that went into putting together affordable h ousing. I think it's a great idea that we're finally looking at this and moving forward. And I just have a couple of questions I think that we should still be looking at as well. You know, when you look at those ratios, that 60, almost 60% rental. When I look at the development that's going on, we're still just putting in more and more rental housing and don't know if that's a good or a bad thing. And I wanted to quote from an article from Voice of America this kind of look at this from January 2017. And it looks at homes and why we don't see that many available anymore. This is one of the biggest reasons that young Americans are waiting to. Buy their first home is student debt. Millennials, who used to be considered the prime homebuying age, are an estimated 1 trillion in student loans, according to the U.S. government. So so I mean, it's great. And that's where we need to ask the question, are we looking more at rentals and increase in our rental base and affordable rentals, or are we really looking at affordable housing that people can buy? They you know, they go on to say that in their view that, you know, the millennials, they're buying nice cars, they're going out to dinner and they're staying in apartments. And one of the reasons is because they're moving a lot. The job stability that a lot of us grew up with is not there. We're not working for one company anymore. Most of us are going to have 15. The young woman, young person like her, they're going have 15 jobs in their lifetime. And that means you have to be moving. So really, we have to look at what is this affordable. Housing that we're going to be moving towards. You know, when I look at the college graduates that I rent to in the second District, and that's another thing you kind of have to look at, you got to break them up in different ways. You have people. Probably working. On their bachelors, their high needs, student housing. They've got zero money. They're the ones that are actually putting themselves in debt. When I look at those that are actually working on their masters programs, I get a lot of people like that. They're sticking around for two or three years. Usually it's a couple. One of them's working on their masters. The other one may afterwards, or they're moving for whatever reason after that. So there is affordable housing for our students. It just depends on where they are. And then I know you said you want us to talk about this, but since Councilmember Pearce and also Assemblywoman Lowenthal brought it up, that proposed rental restrictions, they both brought that up. I do not think that should be part of looking at. This affordable housing. They both said that it should it. Should not something totally different. And so I ask that we do not put that in part of this affordable housing. Thank you. Thank you, Mike. Good evening, Mayor Council. My name is Mike Murchison, and like everybody else, I'm proud to be from Long Beach. I'm born and raised here. Growing up in t hird, I now proudly live in the eighth. Thanks, Al. My comments are very short tonight. I represent a lot of business groups, everyone here this evening. I've worked with developer community for at least the last 15 years. And I can tell you this from an affordable housing standpoint, and that's all I really want to focus on in terms of new development. We have to start now. And what I mean by now is everybody's talking about, well, we've got to figure it out. We got to come up with solutions. I'm telling you, Mayor and council, having worked with Amy's department Development Services as fast as they are, it still takes time and it's going to take a year to 18 months to 24 months, depending upon if a property is contaminated or not. So if you want to try to get developers to work with you, whether they're affordable developers, if they're mott income developers, whatever they are, you're going to have to find ways to give them some relief to move things forward quicker, whether it's through development services , whether it's sequel relief seeked at the state, whether it's fees that are waived, whatever it is. But if you want to build housing, that's the only way that you're going to get developers to do it on private property. I will tell you one other thing. One of the most creative ideas I've seen today in Long Beach, I worked with Councilwoman Pierce on it was her idea about containers. I thought that was one of the most unique ideas that ever come across. I was happy to be involved in that. I think you have a ton of containers down on the port that are well worthwhile to pursue. There's plenty of land out there, just depends on how creative you want to be about it. So I would encourage you to continue working with her on. I think it's a fabulous idea. But as it relates to developers, you're going to have to really work with Amy shop to go figure out what you can do to get developers attracted, to want to bring their money forward, to put it in, build affordable housing. Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Good evening. My name is David Kinsler, and I was going to say something that was a rebuttal to something somebody else said. But since you asked us not to do that, I'm going to not do that. But I will take this opportunity for all the people in the audience that loved Long Beach. I am part of a community group called West West Eastside Community Association. For the last 17 years I've come out every fourth Saturday to pick up trash in the alleys in the area around Redondo and Cherry and PCH. So if anybody is interested in making Long Beach a more beautiful place this Saturday or use of a park at Arizona Avenue and 14th, we are going to meet at 8:00 in the morning and go clean. Somalis, you're all welcome to come and join us. Thank you for doing that, sir. Next speaker. Good evening, mayor garcia and members of the city council. My name is Elaine Hutchison and I am a resident progressive. And I have to say with third district and a housing provider and manager, I am here this evening to commend you, Mayor Garcia, for guiding the process that has resulted in this much needed and comprehensive study of affordable and workforce housing. Thank you for bringing this study and draft report forward. I also want to thank the Affordable and Workforce Housing Study Group, chaired by Assemblywoman Bonnie Lowenthal for your work and also for the consultant Mercedes Marquez for your investment of time and the expertise given by each member. I also want to thank Amy Bodak and her staff for the many and I know it is many contributions to this report. We are very pleased that the study is focused upon bringing increased affordable housing to Long Beach, whether newly constructed, reused or rehabilitated. Thank you for considering all possibilities. It was a delightful experience to also see reported and pictures of the good work the city has already done over the last decade. We believe this draft report with all of the research. And that it is the mayor's report. The top elected official in Long Beach puts a bright spotlight on the potential in Long Beach that will attract new development. This is the thing that will ultimately result in the solving the problems more housing. We in the housing provider community look forward to the opportunity for continuing our contributions on the housing issue as the report moves to its final report. Thank you, Mayor Garcia, for your proactive focus on creating new housing in Long Beach. We also thank in advance the Council members for your consideration and time. You will also invest on this report. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Hi. Good evening. A mayor and city council. My name is Brenda. As many of you already. Know, I'm a not Long Beach native. Born and raised. I've been blessed enough to still be here in Long Beach. As you know, I. Know the councilmember around. There mentioned gentrification. I was definitely affected by it myself. And 3000, just about $4,000 into just move was definitely hard into doing. I definitely feel that you guys are heading into the right direction with with building affordable housing. I commend you guys for the tremendous work that you guys are doing to facilitate this. And I do want to echo a few of the speakers in terms of like this is a long term solution. This is definitely great and it's going to alleviate. But what we're dealing right now, the the housing crises that we talk about, I don't really think that you guys really understand or comprehend what that means. I do have the pleasure of working with housing Long Beach, and that has exposed my just my vision to as far as what Long Beach really is dealing with. I was there on the other side with you guys and I was never even a bit close to understanding what what people go through until now. I mean, just shy of working for months with the organization. I had two mothers of officers that worked for the city of Long Beach who thei r mothers were being evicted, and they came to us. And I say, why don't you address the fear? They were hush hush. They did not want to be identified. We are here. We try the much as we can do, but with no rent protections, there is nothing we can do. It is legal to to ask folks to leave in 30 to 60 days. There's nothing that protects these folks to remain in place. And just to. Answer, I. Believe was councilman Vice Mayor Rex Richardson, who asked he'd like to see the folks who have been displaced. Well, I'm kind of I hate to say it, but folks are fearful to come out here. The folks that call me every day, they email me. They're always constantly in our legal clinics on Monday nights between 530 and eight. Those folks don't want to come out. They're already either fearful because they're being retaliated against with or they're already in March of being out. And I've gotten. Referrals from you guys. You guys here help them out. And I like I hate it because it's like there's nothing we can do unless there's a renter ordinance that is passed, like a responsible renters ordinance in which we can all collaborate. Along with landlords, tenants and our legislators to work. Together to find a simple solution to help our renters to remain in place. We need to do something together. Otherwise, we can continue to build and find long term solutions. But what's happening to the folks now having to those children that are being pulled out of the schools and folks who have to relocate? I know it's not easy for you guys to see because you guys are it's not your reality. It's not what you're facing. But I would ask you to reconsider and passing a responsible renters ordinance. Don't be misled. I do have the materials that I'd like for you guys I believe you guys can have.

Thank you. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Just the clerk. Thank you. Good evening, Mayor and City Council. It's been a long time since I've been before you. My name is Robert Fox. I've run for city council myself. I'm the founding president of Alameda Speech Jeanine, and I've been here rather a long time. I want to commend you all on having this wonderful housing study. I think it's really marvelous. I do want to give you a little input because I think it's important we're talking because I want our statistics to be correct. When we were talking about the rental housing of Long Beach being $2,000 for a two bedroom unit, if that's coming out of Zillow, that's not really reliable information because we have a lot of other sources like Craigslist, for instance. I happen to own property here because I was a renter for 25 years, although when I founded Alamitos Beach. But by the grace of God, of my hard work, I bought apartments, you know, and they're in the elevator speech. And I'm not a slumlord, and I don't charge a huge rent because this is my community. But we have to talk about what rents were when I moved here in 1984. I had an $850 apartment. I was making $2,738 a month working for detail s, Gene Shape and Patty Moore, God bless them. But, you know, that was 47% of my wage. And you know, as time went by, that didn't really change. I made a little bit more money, went down to 46%. But this idea that 30% of your wage makes you low income or something. That was a statistic that was actually brought out by Hubert Humphrey in 1972 when he introduced the first housing plan under Lyndon Johnson, which became Section eight housing. So I want to remind you all that we're using a we're using a pro forma that is very outdated, and we need to relook at that because the economy has changed completely. And let's face it, I have a house God bless in Hawaii and I have a house here and. Housing is not real affordable. I get it. So I want to bring another little subject matter up to you, and that is about this restriction on conversions. May I please include in this because of Alamitos Beach having so many own your own apartments, which we do. I think we need to encourage the conversion of own your own apartments into ownership. And here's the reason why nobody can mortgage and own your own. So how would you buy it? Except with cash for 125,000 or 150? If they were converted to condos, you could get an FHA loan with 3% down and that's how you get into homeownership. So I want us to expand our dialog in terms of how we're really talking about because I was a renter and alamy the speech at 1825, 28/2 Street, and then I bought my home on Broadway and it was a struggle, get me, you know, macaroni and cheese for six months. But I did it. And I want to encourage other people to be able to do that, too. So let's look at that conversion thing and maybe. Tweak it a little bit. Thank you very much for your time. Thank you, Robert. Next week, next, bigger but last speaker. Good evening. Thank you. Mayor and Council, for listening to me tonight. I'll make this very brief. My name is Johanna Cunningham. I'm the executive director for the Apartment Association, California Southern Cities. I just briefly want to thank Amy and Patrick for all the work that they did on this study. I appreciate the phone calls and the questions. When they called me and asked, tried to provide them with some information and some input. And I want to thank you for acknowledging the work that the Apartment Association has done. As we. Continue to work diligently and collaboratively with you to try and solve these very severe issues as we proudly work with all. The groups. In the city, we are part of the Hart team, so we work with Section eight, we work with the Housing Authority, we work with the veterans. We work to help housing. You acknowledge that we will continue to work with all of these organizations to help resolve and hopefully come up with solutions to these housing issues. So I wanted to thank the Council for their work on this. Again, I wanted to thank Amy and Patrick for their work on this. And we want you to know that we are here. We're willing to continue to collaborate.

I live in the. Second district as well. I love Long Beach as well. And we're here to help. Thank you so much for your time. Thank you so much. Thank you. Thank you. With that, I appreciate all the public comment tonight. We're going to go and there's a motion on the floor and a second on the floor to receive and file the report, which is the motion as part of the study session motion by Councilman Gonzales and seconded by Councilmember Pierce. Members, please go ahead and cast your vote. Motion carries. Okay. Thank you very much. So now staff will be back with the final report. And thank you all for coming. We're going to just take a 1 to 2 minute recess just so we can all start the council meeting. Killed at night. Okay. We're going to go and start the council meeting. So I just need everyone to please exit the council meeting or take a seat, please. I can take a roll call, please, and have the council members back at their seats. Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilmember Pierce. Councilwoman Price. Councilmember Supernova. Councilwoman. Mango.

Councilman de Andrews. Councilmember Durango. Councilman Austin. Vice Mayor Richardson. Mayor Garcia. Thank you. There's. It's been moved in second. Is any public comment on this item? Seeing nonmembers, please cast your vote. Motion carries out a 19, please. Item 19 Report from Financial Management Recommendation to Adopt Set Specifications Award contract to Cape Toyota of Long Beach for the purchase and delivery of vehicles in an annual amount not to exceed 7,500,000 citywide. Councilman Austin. Yes, I moved the support. But I also would like to mention that it goes to the work contract award, goes to more than Cape Town Toyota. I think it is. A number of vendors here, Caruso, Ford of Long Beach and a few others. It gives our Fleet Department some opportunities to shop for the best price. Thank you, Councilmember Hugo. I'm glad to see that the two of the awardees are members of the seventh District. I appreciate that. Thank you very much. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item saying number of members to be please cast your vote. Thank you very much. And I know our public works director made a note as well. I saw him actively writing. Great. So thank you for that. I'm going to go back to the hearing, Mr. Modica. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. The staff report will be given by Linda Tatum and her group. Good evening, Mayor, and members of the city council. This is a public hearing for a project. It located at 2610 North Lakewood Boulevard. It is a project for a new hotel. And the the subject hotel is at 2016, North Lakewood. And it also includes properties at 41, 41 through 4217 Willow Street. The actions that we're asking the city council to take on this new hotel proposal include a conditional use permit, a site plan review, and to accept a mitigated negative declaration. Like to give a brief presentation on the project. This is a vicinity map that shows the current zoning of the property and the location. What you're seeing there is the four or five freeway at the Lakewood Street Interchange and shown in green there with the arrow is the proposed project site at the site. There is a an existing gas station that is adjacent to the hotel which surrounds the gas station at that northeast corner of Lakewood and Willow Street. I'd also bring to your attention on the other side, on the west side of Lakewood Boulevard, there is an existing commercial car wash and retail establishment. Next. As I said on this project site, the proposal is a new 13 storey in an existing Holiday Inn 13 storey, but also is a vacant two storey hotel that was constructed back in 1978. The proposal before you tonight is the approval of the requested discretionary actions that will allow the existing two storey hotel to be demolished . And they would construct a new six storey hotel and a new two level parking structure on the site where the existing two storey hotel is to be demolished. So again, the entitlements are requested that are being requested are a zone change, a site plan review and a conditional use permit. Just a little bit of background. The zone change is to request an expansion of the existing PD 27 zoning on the adjacent property. That existing PD covers the site that shown to the left there in black. And that's essentially a plan development project that allows hotel and limited commercial retail in that project area. The proposal is to expand that PD 27 to include the subject property on the right that's shown in the red, which would be the subject of the new hotel site. And again, the the existing property owners have for not only the hotel site, but the gas station as well as the property adjacent on the other side, on the west side of Lakewood have approved consented to the requested zone change. A little bit of detail about the proposed project. It is a new six story hotel project with 125 GUESTROOMS. It also has some amenities. Those amenities include additional conference room space. There is also a new fitness facility in the in the hotel room there also including a new a new parking structure that will be atop the existing at grade parking. So it will essentially be a two level parking structure for a total with a total of 385 parking spaces. They will also add a new outdoor pool area and enhance the existing landscaping on the site and around the entire property. This next slide shows the configuration of the site. You can see the existing the round building is the existing Holiday Inn that will remain and you can see the configuration of the parking just to the east of that. You can also see the enhanced the green areas of the enhanced landscaping areas. You also see that they are requesting the closure of one of the driveways on Willow. And you can again see the two level parking structure and of course, the location of the outdoor pool, which is just north of the existing Holiday Inn . And again, just briefly, you can see the building elevations, the six stories. They've you can see the modern architectural style with the two tones of the color and the accent banding and the spaniel class that surrounds the property. It's been designed to complement the existing Holiday Inn structure or to complemented. Also like to just summarize the environmental action that was done on this project in accordance with the California Environmental Quality Act. We staff completed, along with a consultant, we completed a mitigated negative declaration for the project. The public review period was from November 16th through December 16th, and staff did receive a couple of comments from public agencies during that review period. And there were two mitigation measures incorporated in the project. Those two mitigation measures dealt with cultural resources, requiring monitoring of any of any disturbance of the soil on the project site and observance or having monitoring done by Indian tribes. The other mitigation that was required was related to any disturbance of the soil during the excavation and that no construction or other soil disturbance would be carried out during breeding season to make sure that there are no nesting birds on the site at the time construction occurs. Those were the two mitigation measures, and with those mitigation, the Planning Commission considered this project on December or I'm sorry, January 19th of 2017, and they unanimously recommended approval of this project. And staff is recommending that the City Council uphold the Planning Commission's recommendation for approval of this project. I would note that we had there were no public comments during the the period since this project has been posted online. And I would like to acknowledge that closes staff's presentation. But we do have our environmental consultant available as well as the case planner, Gina Cassius, who did the work on this project. That concludes staff's presentation. Thank you, I think, for that presentation. We're going to go ahead and go first to any public comment on this case. No public comment on this issue and the council comments. Councilwoman Mongo. Yes. We are very excited about this project. I know that it has been in the works for several years and it has taken a few different. Changes along the way, but we're very excited to have this new opportunity and additional places for people to stay. It is very difficult to find a room on the east side near the airport now with the amount of business that's going on. And we're very proud to have our new corporate partners and our corporate partners do trainings from individuals all across America and sometimes international, and they come to Long Beach to be trained. And so these are great facilities for them to stay at, especially for those longer term stays, especially for their trainer. So we're excited about this project. Thank you for the work that's been done both by the team at Holiday Inn and the support that they've received from the Conve ntion and Visitors Bureau and the support that they've received from the city staff to make this a fair and balanced project that takes all needs into consideration. I think we have come up with a solution that meets everyone's needs. So if you haven't made it there to see the first revision, we did a ribbon cutting for the Holiday Inn tower several months ago, and I look forward to a groundbreaking and ribbon cutting for this facility. Thank you. Council member Supernormal. Thank you. This area of the fifth District borders the fourth and has kind of a quirky sense because our border is is the four or five freeway. But in this one section, the border changes to Willow Street for a couple of hundred yards. So the property is in the fifth District. But a lot of my constituents ask me about this all the time. I just wanted to ask staff. I know during a construction period, especially something of this magnitude, you would meet with the police department and work out the September requirements. And September is an acronym that stands for Crime Prevention through Environmental Design. And prior to construction starting this, these meetings will take place and you work out all the details. And our police department or in particular has its Espinosa officer in East Division, would work with the construction firm to make sure all security measures are in place. Yes. Council member of the the police department during the course of the site plan review for this project and every other development project, the plans are related to the police department. So PD has had the chance to review the plans prior to their being finalized and they had did provide comments to staff. Those comments have been reflected in the project design. However, it is generally my understanding that police may also be involved during the construction process just for general monitoring of the site as necessary. Okay. Perfect. Thank you. Thank you. There's a motion in a second. Just want to make sure. For the planning staff. Just a note that the. The tower. The current tower has obviously a a lighting scheme that's pretty bright, which I know they've changed and upgraded recently. Which is which is fine. I just want to make sure that the new building that we're paying attention to, what the lighting is going to be for the new building, and so that the two are not in conflict, but that the lighting the lighting scheme is looks great both at night and during the day. Certainly they are. We can make sure that that gets addressed so that they are compatible. Okay. Thank you. Mayor. We need four separate votes on this item. Great. So we'll go in. We have we're going to take four separate votes. We've done public comment for the whole item. And so we have the first of those votes as a motion. In a second, please cast your votes. Motion passes. Okay. You can just please plug in for the second motion to this. You want to read this? Madam Clerk. The. Decker to declare ordinance amending the zoning district map. Okay. Pleased that the motion to second Castro votes. Motion passes. Okay, third vote. Declare ordinance amending the Willow Street Center planned development. Okay. We're just a little delayed on the machine here. Like. Motion passes. Okay. We just need a. So into motion. Can we get a motion in a second? On the third. There we go. Okay. And this is the declaring the ordinance amending the zoning district map. Perfect. Okay. Thank you all very much. And we will be moving on to the next item, which is 21. Communication from Vice Mayor Richardson, Councilwoman Gonzalez, Councilmember Pierce, Councilwoman Price recommendation to request the city manager to work with the Department of Parks, Recreation and Marine and the Commission on Youth and Children to update their purpose and structure to better serve the youth of Long Beach and report back within 90 days. Thank you, Vice Mayor Richardson. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I think a lot of. Mr. Mayor, your attention on the commissions has opened up some opportunities for us to update and modernize. So the Commission on Youth and Children was established in 2003 and is currently overseen by the Department of Parks, Recreation and Marine. At that time, the purpose was to advise and make policy recommendations to the City Council of the Needs, Concerns and Problems of Children and Youth promote coordination with Long Beach Unified School District and other youth based organizations, and to review various city plans that are now outdated. The Commission is a youth adult board consisting of ten adults and nine youth. You know, we've we have very highly, highly qualified and capable committee members, but according to staff, has been challenging to fill all the positions, particularly youth seats. And it's been increasingly difficult to reach a quorum because of that. Currently, 13 of the 19 maximum positions are filled. Additionally, I've spoken with a number of the adult commissioners who feel there's a lack of clarity from the Commission's point of view on the purpose and scope of work as it relates to current city priority priorities. So in working with the mayor's office and working with staff and commissioners, it seems like a good point in time now to pause, assess the current status of the Commission and evaluate how to ensure that the Commission has an updated purpose, a more defined scope, a scope of work based on the city's current programs, our current initiatives. And so while I know that many of our separate Council districts have youth commit youth advisory boards or youth committees, we're also exploring, you know, what might look like if we were to explore the feasibility and advantages of a separate citywide youth youth led commission and an adult commission. So we want the so essentially this motion is asking our commission to look at these things outlined in the recommendation in the background and make some recommend some actionable recommendations that the city c ouncil can, can, can do to make sure we update this commission and take on some of our fantastic work to support our youth. Thanks. Thank you. Councilwoman Pryce. I think I'm. Next. Oh, I'm sorry. You're right. I messed that up. Councilman Gonzales. Well, thank you. I just wanted to thank Vice Mayor Richardson for the opportunity to speak on this. I think it's great. So many of us have middle schools and high schools and definitely elementary schools. And so to be able to get a better understanding of what this commission will provide and do for all of the youth in our city is going to be great. So thank you for bringing this forward. Vice Mayor. Thank you. Councilman Price. Thank you. I, too, want to thank Vice Mayor Richardson for bringing this forward. This this committee has so much potential. And I know that he and I and Councilwoman Gonzales and Councilwoman Pierce all have young children that we're raising in the city, along with other people on the council. And I think that, you know, about a year and a half ago, I brought an item to council that asked the Commission on Youth to come back with an analysis and a report for us on after school activities. And I still haven't received that report, and it's been a year and a half. So I think there's a lot of opportunities for us to really emphasize and focus on the structure and help them give them the support that they need. It's not a criticism. It's more of a maybe just some assistance is needed because that's an area where I think as a vice mayor, Richardson has pointed out to me on several occasions, we all have a common bond, so I want to thank him for bringing this forward. I think it's great and I wholeheartedly support. Thank you, Councilmember Pierce. Absolutely. I want to thank Vice Mayor for bringing this item up. I know through my years of work in organizing that often spaces where we have youth and adults, sometimes our visions are different. Sometimes the way we work is a little bit different, the way that we learn is a little different. And so if we are going to prioritize this commission, which I think we should, I think we also have to challenge ourselves and start to think about how do we engage with the youth if we are looking at two separate commissions or we're looking at having two separate that they then come together. If there's some support for some of that staffing, this commission on facilitation and creative ways to engage with them. And I also know that it's a challenge on us as council members to think about what are we giving this commission to work on so that they have meaningful engagement? And so with that, I just want to say thank you for this. I hope we continue to do great work. And I also would like us to explore is there any connection here with Elba USD? Are we collaborating at all with them? That was some of the original focused. We we now have a joint use committee with the school district and that's where My Brother's Keeper and things like that live

. So this is really taking a moment to look at and reevaluate all of those things and come back specifically with recommendations for this commission. Great. Thank you so much. Thank you, Councilwoman Mongo. And having challenges with our microphone. I'm very excited about this opportunity. I think that there's a lot that can be done. I know that we have a partnership item coming before council as well, and I think that there are a lot of opportunities both after school and with our commissioners and to get a group of students involved . We've actually been discussing in our district what we need to do to recruit younger commissioners that can serve a full term versus seniors in high school for our youth commission. And so we're really excited about this upcoming process we're launching. So I'll use that as my plug opportunity soon to be in the newsletter and then to support this item. I'm really glad that we're having this opportunity. Thank you. I want to make a couple comments. Open it up. First, I. I really am thankful that this came forward. I've been talking to Vice Mayor Richardson about this, as well as to some of the members of the commission. I want to thank some of the members of the commission that are actually here. Particularly want to thank two members of the commission that both wear double hats. And that is Vivienne, who we know also serves on our community college board, my Lulu over here, and as well as Megan Kerr, who also serves on the Long Beach Unified School Board. And the fact that we have these two women who also serve our community and our youth on this board, as well as a variety of other youth and community members, bless you with expertise is a really great resource for us at the city. And so I think that and I think it's important to note that this item is not a reflection of what we want is to empower this commission and we want the commission to work with staff to inform us what is it that we need to do to support the Commission more? And what is how can we restructure the commission in a way? Do we ensure that you both and and everyone else that's involved are successful as commissioners on the Commission on Youth and Children? And so maybe the scope needs to be enlarged, maybe it needs to be smaller, maybe there needs to be other, maybe the membership could be different. I don't think we know the answer to those questions. I do know and I want to note the commission has already started some of this work. And so the commission internally has already been discussing how they can improve their their mission or expand their mission and change it to serve the needs of the community. And so I just want to also recognize staff who's been working with the commission. The commission has been taking the initiative on this issue. And I think this kind of solidifies the Council's support in supporting the work that's happening and beyond as well. So I want to thank and all the members of the commission that are here and tha t are, I know, watching as well. So let's give them a round of applause and thank them for their service. And with that, let me open it up to public comment. Please come forward. It's like the women of education. Good evening, Mr. Mayor. Council Members Megan Curry, district resident, parent and member of the Miami Unified School District Board of Education. It's a it's an amazing commission to sit on. We have some really powerful, knowledgeable people in that room. And the problems that we've run into really are in the very narrowly defined scope of why the commission was created in the first place. It was actually created in conjunction with a city program that no longer exists. So this commission was actually supposed to advise that particular program. So once that program went away, the commission remained. Yet the very narrow scope of our work has to do with a non-existent program. So when we would do our work and have conversations, we really realized that we didn't have any kind of authority or purview to talk about the activities that were really pertinent to the youth who are currently serving on the committee. So I think this is a great opportunity to refocus, look at the priorities of the city, the priorities of this council around the issues of youth and children, and really create a collaborative board that and commission that can work with you could answer your questions. I do apologize. We we met several times to talk about that data. But the reality is the members of this commission do not have the availability to data to create any kind of report and analysis that really is a staff job. So we kept running into was that that wasn't something that we could even actually accomplish. It wasn't for lack of wanting to. I think we had five subcommittee meetings to try and make it happen. So it really is around the technical description of this commission, and I welcome being part of the conversation to restructure it to better serve the city. Thank you, Mr. Speaker, please. Thank you. Good evening, everybody. Happy Election Day to our honorable city council and our wonderful staff. My name is Vivian Marla Zulu, and tonight I am wearing. My commissioner hat. I have had the great sweet chore of serving as the chair of this commission for the past, I believe, 18 months. And I'd like to take a moment to introduce the commission staff there. We've got our our director, Parks and Rec, Marie Knight. We've got our Gladys Kaiser, who oversees the program manager for Parks and Rec. And we've got Joy Warren, who is the superintendent in charge of our commission. We also have one more staff person who's not here, Norma Salazar Walker. They've been great. We, like Councilmember Rex Richardson mentioned we have experienced a lot of frustration serving on this commission. And a lot of the frustration has to do with the fact that we've got so many awesome people on the commission who are doers and we have so many ideas. And there are so many plans that

. We would like to take on and connect throughout the city for our youth. We are educators, we are parents. We are involved with youth in the community, both as our employment, many educators, but also as volunteers. We've got coaches and we've tried. Several. Times to implement programs and introduce new ideas, but we've had some roadblocks and it has to do with the resolution of how the commission was established. Like my colleague Megan Kerr stated, this commission was actually established to support the Long Beach Youth Network, which is has been defunct for several years. There is no longer a Long Beach youth network, so our commission has sort of been in limbo. Now I'm very grateful for the opportunity. We have had lots of meetings to try to evaluate our use. We do have ideas and I would just like to urge the Council to please vote yes to move forward on this action item so that we can have a little bit more flexibility. Also, you know, the structure, the number of commissioners. We've got great youth commissioners. Councilmember Mongeau Emma Parsons in your district is fantastic. She's fantastic. And I would I would love to have her continue as an adult commissioner. So just there are so many limits and restrictions on this particular commission that it would just really, truly be a blessing to us if you would consider expanding and allowing us to spread our wings. Also, I would just like to close that. I believe that this commission, like you all said, has a lot of potential to also educate our community about what our youth, the role that our youth really play in this city and the future of the city. So if you please allow us to do that. I'm sure we can come up with great ideas. Thank you very much. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. Karen recite, I live in the First District and I'm going to talk on this in a couple of positions. I used to work for the Boys and Girls Club and worked with the Youth Commission, which had very dedicated, committed people. I had issues. I tried to get the kids on the commission as youth representatives. And the the nominees tended to be the people that were more successful, the youth that were more. Successful. In terms of grades and academics. And I just want to make sure that. The underrepresented. Communities would be considered as any part of the structure of this committee. And I just want to. I've done a lot of work through the Great Panthers with the number of commissions. And the problems that they're talking about are not just particularly related. To the youth commission and really think that all the commissions. Need to be examined as to what the roles are. The city has shifted its dynamics. So tremendously just in the last just since you've taken office, Robert, and done. A fabulous job. And it's time to look at how do our commissions. Function. So in use more technology. Within the structure of the commissions. And look at what role can the commissions really serve to advance and assist city staff and council members in making our city great. Thank you. See no other public comment. We have a motion and a second. Members, please go ahead and cast your votes. And again, thank you to our speakers and to our two commissioners that spoke today. Thank you. Any public comment? Seeing nonmembers, please cast your votes. Motion carries item nine and then we will go back to item seven. Item nine is a report from Financial Management Recommendation to Adobe resolution approving the annual and five year reports for the transportation improvement fee. Parks and Recreation Facilities Fee. Fire Facilities Impact Fee. And Police Facilities Impact Fees CDI. Thank you. There's a motion and a second. Any public comment? Seeing Non councilmember mongo. Yes, I was actually just speaking with Mr. Eriksson about the potential for a current modification or if this would have to come back. We have a significant amount of impact in some of our parks and rec facilities due to the recent storms and some of the project areas are not specifically outlined on here. And so I was just trying to get a point of clarification if that needs to come back or if I can make a small modification. Mr. City Attorney, would you be able to let me know what I can and cannot do on this item? It would have to come back at a later time to make an amendment to this, because this is an adopt resolution approving the annual fight, the five year reports, and that's a requirement under law that they come and report to you what these impacts, fees were collected and what it was spent on. If you want to change the fee, it would have to be agenda separately. So under this report on page, of course, there's a whole bunch on the page number. Let me turn back on page seven and eight of 13. It has a list of completion date future projects that exceed the amount of money in the fund out not outlined on here. There is significant damage to Hilton Park facilities, Silverado Park facilities and Pan Am Park facilities, but it sounds as though that would have to come back, even though they say future. So, yes, that's something that we'd have to take a look at. There's also some state law requirements about what is maintenance and what is new. So we'd have to we can certainly get the council some information about what other projects could we be adding. We as you're you state, we really do need funding for those. We can certainly look to see if impact fees if they qualify and then where they fit in the priority order. Wonderful. Thank you so much for that. I appreciate it. And I'm glad that we are being strategic about these investments. And I appreciate I'm working with the department heads who have been very mindful of our needs. Thank you very much. Thank you. Is there a public comment on this piece less about. Councilman Andrews. Councilman Andrews. Motion carries a zero. Thank you. Item seven, please. Constant motion carries. Thank you. Next step was item 211. Item 11 is from Library Servic es recommendation to execute an email you with Microsoft Corporation for the programing of Microsoft Digital Alliances, Youth Spark, City Y. Cosme Mission and a second Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes, I have to formally recuse myself, unfortunately, because I work full time with Microsoft. I won't speak on the item, but I will just say thank you. Megan Traver, you're probably one of the most ambitious and hard working principles, and I'm glad the students are here to. Okay. There's a motion and a second. Any public comment saying that? Please cast your votes. No motion. Carries. Okay, motion carries. Thank you. Can we. Oh, absolutely. Come up. Sorry. It's okay. We were trying to be really respectful, and we didn't really know how this works. No problem. Hi, everyone. Thank you so much for having us here. And I just want. To say sorry. I'm the principal at Washington, Megan Traver, and I want to say thank you so much. It's such an honor to work in a city. That. Supports education, public education the way you do. So, thank you so much. And we're just here to speak on behalf of this wonderful proposition about having this digital alliance with Microsoft. We've had the benefit at our school, and I have a couple of students who've. Either attended the program already are going to. Attend a field trip to the Michelle. Obama Library on Monday. And it's just been really an incredible. Experience for our students at Washington. So they're going to be the ones to tell you better than I do. So let me introduce them. Our first speaker is Hazel Santos. Hello. My name is Hazard Santos. Well, first of all, it's a complete privilege and honor to be among you all, including the mayor of Long Beach himself. So I've been. As Ms.. Traver said, I was blown away when I was told to be here. And it's actually very great because the alliance with. Microsoft well has been changing our lives because Microsoft is practically technology. And without technology, our lives wouldn't have been this way as they are now. So I'm also looking forward for this field trip because, well, two reasons. One, because. It helps. The students learn about technology to pursue their passions of their future jobs in their lives. And two, it helps them get a better idea, helps them get a better example of the many, many jobs that are included within their within their lives. So, yeah. That was great. Thank you. Next speaker, please. Very good. This whole thing down. Okay. Thank you. Russell. Introduce yourself first. Okay. Hello. I'm in Alaska. And I just have to say as before, anything else, that it's a great honor to be presented and to talk about this issue. And I am I it's I'm blown away. I there's no words to describe this one. Fulfilling, wonderful feeling is. So I am a scholar. I clearly attend to Washington Middle School and I would like to discuss the topic of the STEM program in which I believe should be supported and should be allowed at that school. You don't realize how important this is to our school. I hate to say it, but school does have disadvantages from our environment to many sorts of things. And our students, they are the most motivated, most hardworking people I've ever, ever known. And I know this better because I am one of them. And not only I'm just seen as all the fact is, my personal opinion is that we score the highest as the most, like people who gain the most in mathematics by the aspect that doesn't prove that they're should prove how motivated our people are, how motivated we want to be somewhere in life. And this damn program helps and proves helps encourage that. As you can see, my my own sister, she went into this program. Stempel had no clue, no idea what was coding and merely once came back. She's like, I think I want to do this. I think I want to pursue a career in technology and coding and mathematics. And I interview also students who also went there and the all to the same thing in I went to a program there it was for women's empowerment and it was hosted by the STEM program and I can say is absolutely amazing what they're trying to do for future generations and that people forget the fact that our future generations help build our society. We are the people that help decide decisions for tomorrow and tomorrow, tomorrow. And this truly, truly, this tampon will definitely help encourage that and help people like look beyond what is in front of the in front of their environment. And that's all I have to say. Thank you and also thank you for a STEM program. Great. Thank you guys very much. Appreciate it. And it all it already had already passed. So I'll get it. I'm going to go over and say, how do you guys. Councilman Pierce? Yeah, I just wanted to say thank you to the students for coming out and speaking in front of us today. It really is inspiring to hear from you guys. Thank you. Thank you. Sir. You did great. Good to see you. Has a great. Picture. Yes, please. From Australia. You too. Well, get them for one. All right. All right. Now, a school without the principal. That's right. She? Cheez Whiz was our favorite man. Yes. Thank you. Thank you. I sent my wife here. Probably. She's in a hurry. Oh. We have such great kids, don't we? Amazing. Good job, guys. You guys were awesome. And the last item that was pulled was slated for 1112, I think. Okay. Motion carries. Thank you. Okay. We're moving on to the next item, please. Item 18. Got it. Got it. All out of 18, please. You got it wrong. I think it's it's correct. Is correct. Okay, guys, I'm. Listening. To the people. What you displayed was not. We display we did a roll call vote, everybody. That's it. That's it, guys. Stop. 1/2 screen, guys. The machines aren't working for the clerk. Okay, guys, we can't have conversations from. I'm going to talk to the clerk. The motion carries. The city clerk has confirmed it. Yes, we're moving on. Item 18. Thank you, Madam Clerk. Item 18 is a report from Economic and Property Development Recommendation to authorize city manager to amend the requirement of a purchase and sale agreement with the L.A.. Be reducing the initial deposit from 500000 to 50000 on the purchase of for sale and future development properties, and to reimburse two 350,000 intended and or for such improvements to the for sale properties along Atlantic Avenue between 55th Street and South Street and 620 and 635 South District eight and nine. Okay. We'll go ahead, Councilman Austin. Well, thank you very much. And before we hear from staff, I'd just like to say that this is an exciting day for Long Beach, specifically the North Village and surrounding neighborhoods. That includes the eighth District and ninth District. Today's council approval of the amended agreement would allow will allow a real chance for more formative project to move forward in North Long Beach. Almost two years ago, in July 2015, when the four former redevelopment properties were up for sale, I had an opportunity to meet with Shaheen Sadeghi, the CEO, and Chris Bennett from the lab, our firm at our former field office in the North Village, one of the properties that was actually for sale. We walked along Atlantic Avenue and South Street and discussed the vision and greater possibilities for this area as it got a better feeling for the neighborhood. Their vision for the project actually grew, and the lab is now looking at investing in a major project here in Long Beach that not only includes those original store fronts in the North Village, but also about 30 parcels, including vacant lots across the street from the Michelle Obama Library. The lab has a true, proven track record of commercial development that demonstrates a unique vision for creating a sense of place and a destination that draws visitors from throughout the region to enjoy unique eateries and boutiques that give a neighborhood a special identity and revitalize character. The Anaheim Packing District, or Central Street in historic downtown Anaheim, are examples of this or the lab A.I.M. in the camp in Costa mesa. It has taken nearly two years to work out all the deal points to move this project forward. In addition to Shaheen, I'd also like to thank Roman Carini from the lab, who was here this evening, work for working with the city to get this to this point and finding solutions to reach an agreement. I'd also like to recognize our city staff in economic development, including DA John Keisler and Sergio Ramirez, for finding creative ways to overcome hurdles in their work hurdles. With all that said, with this deal in place, as I share with Ramon, we now are anxious to see this project move forward in a very timely manner. Many of the storefronts in the North Village have been vacant for several years since the redevelopment agency was dismantled. The residents in North Long Beach have been waiting for this project for many years and they have watched Bixby nose and other corridors in other areas of the city made great strides. I'm glad tonight that this that we're going to use redevelopment sale proceeds to help fast track the the move. Improvements on the existing storefronts in the north village while additional development concepts are being worked on. And if I can borrow of a quote from Casablanca, I think this is a beginning of a beautiful friendship between the city in the lab and the residents and businesses of Long Beach will be the ones to benefit. And so, members, I would ask for your support. I know we have a presentation that I think will impress you all. Thank you very much. Thank you. And, Councilman, we range of comments before the presentation. This is a wonderful partnership between the city and the developer. And I and I totally support this project. It's a way of dealing with our blight. I mean, since redevelopment went away, we have to use creative ways of dealing with our blight. And this is certainly one way of doing that. And I appreciate all the assistance that we're getting from our staff as well as with the owners. Thank you. Councilman Orson. As I mentioned, obviously vice mayor of Councilmember Richardson is not here. He and his staff have also been working very. Very diligently and hard as partners. We have had a shared vision to to really make Atlantic Avenue a destination and an active corridor throughout the city of Long Beach. And this will be a critical piece, if I can just emphasize what this means to North Long Beach. This is would be similar to our L.A. life. Right. You know what L.A. life did for downtown Los Angeles? This project will be L.A. Life for Long Beach, North Long Beach. And so northtown. The best is yet to come. Thank you. And I'm going to hear that we're going to do the presentation. I just want to say I have to first is to the Councilman Austin and Vice Mayor Richardson, who I know I believe is having a a exciting family moment right now. I think his wife is going into labor as we speak. And so he had to exit. But we're very excited. I'll be honest with you. And the councilman knows this. This is one of the most exciting projects we've had. This is this is a a home run project. And I just really want to thank Councilman Austin, Vice Mayor Richardson and the developers for this, because this is, I think, one of the best things that's going to happen to our city in a very, very long time. And so with that, I'll turn this over to Mr. West for the presentation. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Council members, this is part of the dissolution of the redevelopment agency. We're disposing of some of our successor agency parcels in North Lomita and District eight and District nine, and I echo exactly what all the council have said and also the mayor. This is going to be a fantastic development. I'm going to turn it over to the director, assistant director for economic development of Property Services. They put a lot of hard work and equity into these projects to make sure that we have a financial scenario that works both for the city and also for the developer.

And this truly will change the face of North Long Beach when it's concluded. So that John or Sergio. I honorable mayor and members of the City Council, I'm going to actually turn the presentation over to Sergio Ramirez, who is our deputy director, who's embraced this project from the beginning. He's he's the one who's briefing. Our various departments and coordinating the effort. And so, without further ado. Sergio can give us a little bit of an overview of this wonderful project. Thank you, John. Good evening, honorable mayor, honorable council members. As you're aware, one of the key improvement areas in the city is the North Village area along Atlantic Avenue in council districts eight and nine. Since the dissolution of redevelopment, staff has been working to bring forth a truly transformative neighborhood revitalization project to this area. The city has partnered with the land developer of the camp and lab in Costa mesa and Anaheim Packing District to bring a project to this area. In 2015, the successor agency approved the sale of blocks m b, consisting of 18 noncontiguous parcels located along Atlantic Avenue to the land for rehabilitation at the amount of $3.6 million. Subsequently, in 2016, the City Council approved the sale of two future development sites BLOCK C and D, also in Atlantic Avenue to the lab for development in the amount of $2.5 million. Recently, the lab determined that building renovation and improvement work on blocks and B would be funded internally while outside financing would be utilized to fund the development of the future owned properties Box C and D. Further, the lab will initially activate occupancy of rehabilitated properties with internally owned businesses to help establish the area and help bring forth additional private investment due to the transformative nature of the proposed project and proposed capital intensive nature of the renovations and developments. Staff has determined that it's vital for the lab to preserve equity to satisfy the various financial requirements of the proposed future development projects, to assist the lab in preserving cash assets necessary for investment into the project. Staff recommends first reduction of the deposit from $500,000 to $50,000 be made with an increase to the promissory note in the same amount, the city's new note amount would be $6.89 million, an increase of $450,000. Secondly, staff recommends a portion of the North redeveloped project area share of proceeds from the sale be designated to reimburse the lab for tentative improvements and exterior facade renovations in and in an amount not to exceed $350,000. Staff recommends approval of this item and we're excited to collaborate with the developer and all city departments to begin work necessary over the next 12 to 18 months to get this project underway. This concludes our report. Well, John and I are here to answer any questions. And as it was previously identified, Mr. Roman Katrina and is here for th e lab to answer any questions. Thank you. Thank you. Again, impressive presentation and very exciting project. Is there any public comment on this item? Please come forward. The South Council District three has a former employee in Costa mesa. I'm very familiar with the lab. Costa mesa is not Long Beach and the lab works in Costa mesa because it's freeway adjacent and it's off Bristol, which is a huge thruway in the city. So the lab proposal here, North Long Beach is impacted. If you can't make Atlantic whiter, you can't make South Street wider. So it's going to be a traffic problem. We're not really freeway adjacent in any way, shape or form there. I don't know if the residents understand the concept behind what's going there and their land values, how they're going to change. So the development that we will be experiencing here. An ocean is now moving to North Long Beach, which I was just kind of waiting to see when that would happen. So I'm actually excited for a project like this, but I'd like to see Long Beach businesses have first opportunity there in the lab. One is developed. I'd like to see Long Beach employ people that need jobs, get first choice at those jobs as well, but find some way to make the lab, which is pretty hipster down in Long Beach to reflect the community of in customers excuse me but to make it reflective of Long Beach community and where it's going, artists perhaps. People on make it. Hip in our Long. Beach way. But again, the traffic is will be a problem. Parking will be a problem. It's already parking right now. But I think the greatest thing that's happened up there in that particular area is the free Wi-Fi that I can use when I'm up there visiting. Those are my comments. Thank you. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. Hello. I'm Sylvia Contreras, and I just came to say thank you. I've been looking forward to that project to get started. I was looking forward to a michelle Obama library and opened up and I was excited to be there. I don't know how many opportunities I'll have to be at a library opened, but this is going to be an opportunity again, a first timer for a Long Beach resident within walking distance of that time. Yeah, I have thought about the traffic, what's going to happen there? But you know what? What's going to be going on is supersedes that all the way. So thank you very much. Thank you. I see no other public comment and no other council comment. Members, please go and cast your votes. We do have actually a one other comment. I'm sorry about that. Oh, Joe. Sorry to be late. My name's Chris Bennett. I'm with Lab Holding. I really appreciate the opportunity to work in your city and really excited to work on this project. The lab, the company is a little American business. That's where our company acronym came, comes from. And we are focused on providing local independent jobs and local independent businesses. To create. Something that's very unique and Long Beach specific. And that's what we try to do in every community that we work with. And we're very excited to work in Long Beach. Thank you. Thank you very much. With that, we still have having some issues with our ah, our functioning board here according to some people. So let's do a voice vote starting on the end. All right. That's councilwoman. K motion carries unanimously with those members present. Thank you. Moving on to item 25, please. Item 25 is communication from Councilwoman Gonzalez, Council Member Peers and Council Member Turanga. Recommendation to receive and file presentation by Green Education regarding local community efforts to comply with greenhouse gas reduction goals. Item

22 is a communication from Councilman Austin, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Councilwoman Mongo recommendation to request the city attorney to draft a resolution in support of energy upgrade California and the Do Your Things campaign. Councilwoman or Councilman Austin thank you. Thank you. And I'd like to just thank my colleagues on a state large committee for signing on to this item. As we all know, Long Beach has been a leader in supporting policies that promotes sustainability and promote energy efficiency. In 2015, the governor and state legislature approved the Clean Energy and Pollution Reduction Act, which included goals of doubling energy efficiency and reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 40% before year 2030. Part of this initiative has just been launched and which is called Do Your Thing Campaign. The campaign is to encourage all Californians to take actions, either big or small, to better manage personal energy consumption, whether it's turning off a light in an empty room or unplugging an unused appliance or converting to LED light bulbs. Just doing something to be more energy efficient. And a resolution that would promote energy efficiency. We're asking our colleagues, my colleagues, to approve the recommendation for Long Beach to join a Do Your Thing campaign in support of energy of Great California. So moved the public comment saying no public comment without any objection. Motion carries unanimously. As our second public comment period. I think there's a gentleman that wanted to speak come forward. Yes. And you're speaking to. Come on. Thank you. And that concludes our public comment. So next, we'll move on to item 17. Please read item number 17. Report from City Manager Recommendation to consider approval of up to 10.5 million ten year loan to the Aquarium of the Pacific. The Aquarium of Pacific Corporation from the Tidelands Fund District to. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce. Thank you. I want to thank staff for working hard on this. I also want to thank the aquarium for their vision and commitment to expand and make sure that we have a world class facility here in the second district. I wanted to just ask a couple of questions, actually. Could we go to a staff report? Can we just check and make sure we got quorum? We do. No one else can leave. Okay. So let's have a staff report. Certainly.

We've been working on this with the aquarium for some time for their $53 million addition for Pacific Visions. So I'm interested in this over to assistant city manager Tom Modica. He's been working closely with the aquarium. And also we have our finance director, John GROSS, has been intimately involved in these details. So, Tom, the image manager, vice mayor and members of the council and Councilmember Pearce. Yes. As the manager mentioned, this Pacific Visions is a $53 million educational exhibit that is going to include an immersive theater and a changing exhibit gallery. The council considered and approved a $15 million challenge grant. We are the lead donor for this $53 million project, which the city is going to invest about $15 million over the next several years into this. The rest of the project is privately fundraised. So essentially the city will be getting a $53 million city owned facility for $15 million of city investment and allow a wonderful educational institution, the Aquarium of the Pacific, to continue to grow and thrive. This has been their best year yet and revenues are doing very well. But they are looking to the future about how to grow this facility and continue to bring in the roughly 1.8 million visitors, I believe 1.5, 1.8 million visitors a year. So what you're seeing tonight is since the challenge, Grant, the aquarium is in need of a bridge loan. They have a number of contract contributions that are coming in over the next several years that are contributed by donors, including the city. And in order to start with the construction, they need a loan. They've been out to the market to look for a loan. But because of the way that the city's bond indentures are structured, that has proven to be a little more difficult than expected. What this recommendation is, is for the city to be basically the bank for this project and to loan out the money to be repaid and completely by the Aquarium of the Pacific. And so it allows for that bridge loan to proceed. Currently, we're not we are not expecting the loan to provide any impacts or to have any impacts on projects or had those types of adverse impacts. And I would like, in addition to the items that are listed in the staff report, for all the different terms that we would be entering into. I do want to read one additional term that we've agreed on in discussions with the aquarium that provides further protection to the city. Essentially, we would like to add that, quote, The cash from the loan must now be must be from new bond proceeds or the Tidelands operating reserve and any other cash source needs to be approved by the city council. So essentially this changes so that we would go for bond issuance and drop from operating reserve, but we would not be temporarily borrowing any project cash, which was seen as a as a minor eventuality in your staff report. But we are comfortable only restricting to those two and we would come back to council if that very slim possibility ever occurred and have that discussion with council. And with that, we're available for questions. Thank you. We'll go back to Councilmember Pierce. Thank you. Thank you for that addition to the report. I wanted to just ask, can you go over a little bit some of that oversight and explain to us, say they're late on a payment, what's that situation like? And also explain to us a little bit of the oversight with fundraising and how how are we making sure that we're on track for the goals that we have? Yes. So as noted in the staff report, the aquarium continues to fundraise. Right now they have about a $10 million goal. The aquarium has let us know that they believe that they will have that in hand or pledged by the end of the year. So $43 million would be raised to date and that would be the final $10 million that would be raised. The city does sit on the aquarium board. We have an ex-officio member who is there and is able to participate in the discussion and make sure that we're getting updates as part of the terms. They will be giving progress reports every six months on where they are. They are also providing sources and uses and a variety of information about where the money would be coming from and how those funds would be expended. There is also a very complicated document called our implementation agreement. That is from the last time that we did a debt issuance for the aquarium. And it continues to guide the way that we interact with the aquarium legally. And that has a number of protections and safeguards that the aquarium is to be reporting out to the city. And we get those reports regularly and we expect more reports in the future, specifically on this on this project. Great. Thank you. And then I just wanted to remind everybody that, you know, this is something that was early whenever I came on the council and said how much I wanted to support the aquarium, the fact that it's an educational center, the fact that doing a development like this in our community also creates jobs and opportunities for those live locally. And when I think staff are working on community benefits list with everybody and look forward to kind of teasing that out a little bit more and working with the aquarium to make sure that we can continue to provide those good jobs. I think that that is all that I have at this time. And I'll hand it over to you next Councilmember. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman Price. Thank you, Mr. Vice Mayor. And thank you to the staff for the staff report and the clarification of some of the areas of concern, primarily that Tidelands projects that have been committed won't be impacted without further direction of council. And we too are hopeful that that won't be necessary or essential as we move forward. I do think that, as the staff report indicates, there is a notable amount of risk associated with this particular item. And as such, I think it's it's justified and warranted for us to have additional reporting requirements so that we are involved more intimately with the progress and the financials that the aquarium will be relying upon for this $53 million expansion project. So, you know, one thing I just want to make sure based on my reading and I know I don't have the backup documentation that goes with the staff report, but based on my reading of the staff report, it's it's it's my expectation as a member of this council, and I'm sure my colleagues share this expectation that any change in circumstance that would be experienced by the aquarium from now until the fundraising goals are met, that that change in circumstance would be communicated to us so that we can be in a less reactionary position, and we could do some advanced planning if in fact there is a change of circumstance. I hope that the fundraising goals are met. I hope that the financials move along as as we have planned. But if there should be any change in circumstance that is made known to the leadership of the aquarium, obviously the relationship, the contractual relationship that we are extending through the terms of this particular agreement, in my opinion, necessitate better communication between the parties that there has been a changed circumstance, and I believe that's understanding of city staff as well. Certainly that is actually in in the proposal from the aquarium that that level of reporting be in there and that level of of responsibility be in there. And we will certainly be keeping the council informed if there's any material change. That's something we've agreed to with the aquarium. And the city does have, under the implementation agreement, some steps that it can take if, if and when we reached that point, which we don't believe we will. But if it ever reaches that point, then there are some steps that we would be able to take working with the aquarium. So yes, we make that commitment. That's great, and I don't believe that that will be necessary either. I think the the future for the aquarium is very bright. This expansion is very positive for the area, for this city asset. And I you know, I don't believe those those concerns are warranted at this juncture. But there are definitely something that need to be stated in writing and verbally, in my opinion. So thank you. Thank you. I'll just add my comments here that I want to thank both council members and city staff for highlighting the risk associated with this and allowing us to go in eyes open. I personally believe that the you know, the aquarium, the Pacific, one of the best investments we can make of Titans funds is into making sure that we continue to have a world class aquarium and that is an educational institution and continue to be referenced as as such, because it brings such benefit and value to the entire city and to the entire region. So I am going to vote in support of this next. We have Councilman Austin. Thank you. And it has been a long night. And so forgive me for failing and my question has already been answered. Please forgi ve me. But I was reading a staff report. I just want to get some clarification for my benefit and anybody watching at home, what are the actual terms of repayment of this loan since we are a bank in this matter? So I didn't turn to Jon to add any detail. Essentially, it's a $10 million or a net $10 million loan up to a ten year term. Essentially, they would pay the the actual cost of issuance and and and loan the opportunity cost of what the city would have if it were using its cash to invest plus point 5%. So this is fully repaid by the aquarium and with no impact to city projects and they would cover all the cost. John, if you have anything to add, I think you did a great job. I think the key thing to maybe add is that we have some negotiation to do with regard to the loan, but the key aspects of the loan will be that the payments from the aquarium will exactly match our disbursement for the bond issue cost so that there will be no net impact on the Tidelands Fund. Plus, we will get a little extra for our trouble. So it will actually benefit the Titans fund. So the aquarium will repay the loan and then we will turn around and use probably 98% of that money or 99% of that money to pay debt service with no impact on the Tidelands Fund. So I maybe this is a bigger question, but can we bond on the debt we were owed? No, we cannot. It's a very good question. We are actually going to issue bonds using the overall revenues of the Tidelands Fund, not just the aquarium repayment. And in terms of oversight, what type of oversight do we have in terms of. The the. Knowing that we're going to be repaid, that over the 15 years? I think Assistant City Manager Tom Modica described it pretty well. We added have added additional reporting requirements, we have added additional requirements in the budget preparation and we have also added requirements that if there is any issue that comes to the attention of the board that could impact things, they are required to notify us. And then my last question, because these are, I guess, now public funds going into a quayside public, private situation. Are these are there books or are these funds subject to audit? Yes, the the aquarium books are subject to audit. The auditor, the aquarium and the city auditor have worked together to define the terms of who is allowed to audit. And we receive the audited records ourselves and we have added additional authority over the format of that audit report, although we like the way the report is provided now. All right. Thank you very much. Thank you. Is there any public comment on this item? Thank you. Please come forward. You have 3 minutes. That I can. He thinks I support this item. It's pretty good. I like the. Comments that. Councilwoman Susie Price made. As well as Tom. And I know who that guy. Is back there. But everything seems to be in order. One of the main things that I had concerns that I had was a project that this that this big would need to be audited. And it looks I ike this type of stuff has taken place. I know that Susie. Susie mentioned that. Even when we had the Queen Mary that took place, that that she was concerned that maybe the streets and some of the other stuff. I mean, I'm sorry, some of the other tidelands projects that were there that were scheduled. Maybe in a different situation, we may have some issues if the bonds weren't handled. I don't know if that bond went out already. I know it was pretty quick, but as long as we have that covered here with the aquariums, I think that that this is like a win win and this is the greatest thing that can happen. The aquarium is a great place and it needs to get bigger. I know that for sure. And the bigger it gets, the better it is. So. Live long and prosper. Thank you for your comments. We'll take it back behind the wheel. Councilmember Pierce. Yeah. I just wanted to close one more time and just say what a fantastic job. Staff has really done everything from the auditing to the reporting. I know that this has been a big project for everybody and that just one last, really exciting to see Long Beach grow and become a big city that's taking on a little bit of risk to make sure that we can develop our city as we see fit. So thank you again. And I urge my colleagues to vote. Yes, thank you. Thank you. Let's move to a vote. Okay. And then we'll go will be we'll be going on to the rest of the agenda as well. And we also have we also have public comment, which we'll do right after the hearing. Okay. And so with that, we'll begin the hearing and turn it over to the clerk to begin that pass. Report from Development Services recommendation to receive supporting documentation into the record and conclude the public hearing. Approve Zone Change Designations to Park for properties located at Rosa Parks Park District six Cambodian Killing Fields Memorial District six, NAACP Freedom Park District six, Davenport Park Expansion District eight Declare ordinance amending the use district map read for the first time and lead over to the next regular meeting of the City Council for Final Reading District six and eight. Thank you. Mr. Modica. Yes, thank you, Vice Mayor. The staff report for this will be given by Linda Tatum, our planning beer manager. Good afternoon, Mayor, and members of the City Council. This proposal is a request for zone changes for four properties to reflect their current and their future use as city parks. As a part of this action, no physical construction or any change of the use is proposed as a part of this action. However, this action is really just the first step to ensuring that these properties remain as public parks and used as public parks and are recognized as a part of the city's Parkland inventory in perpetuity. And just to give you a little bit of background, in 2015, the State Department of Finance approved the City of Long Beach's, what we call the the long range management plan. And that plan articulated the city's path for disposing of s uccessor agency properties for either sale, development or public use. Several properties on that long range management plan had been acquired specifically for the purpose of adding to the city's parks inventory, and that included the four parcels that we've just described for you earlier. These four properties. Will be subject to both city and state requirements for a process which designates properties as city parks and making sure that they remain as parks in perpetuity. So this rezoning that's being requested tonight is the first stage or the first step in that process. We will come back to you subsequently with another ordinance that officially dedicates these as city parks, and that establishes the second phase. And it will complete the the designation of these as parks in perpetuity. And I would just like to note that this hearing or this item was considered by the Planning Commission in February of this year , and they unanimously recommended of the rezoning action to the city council and a sequel to the California Environmental Quality Act. Is or this project or this proposed rezoning is exempt from sequel. So a categorical it's it's exempt under section 15308 of the California Environmental Quality Act. So in conclusion, I recommend that the City Council affirm the Planning Commission's recommendation to rezone the following four parks from their current zoning to park, which is a zoning designation of P four Park. The first of those is the Rosa Parks Park, and that's located at Alamitos, right where Alamitos and Orange terminate and merge that sort of around 100 and at 16th and 15th just north of orange that currently is zoned are for and the request is to rezone it to P. The second one is the Cambodia Killing Fields Memorial. That's at 15 1501 East Anaheim Street, that's 15th and Peterson that current zoning is a community community commercial we're requesting that that be rezone to P four park. The third is at 2300 Martin Luther King Avenue. That's the ACP Freedom Park. The proposal is to rezone that one from commercial to P. And lastly, we have the Davenport Park expansion that's located at 5550 North Paramount Boulevard. That's at 55 way. And the request is to rezone that property from moderate density residential to P four Park. That concludes staff's presentation and we ask that the City Council consider a positive recommendation for this rezoning request. Thank you, Linda. So at this point, we'll go to public comment. Is there any public comment on this hearing? Saying none. We will close the hearing and take it back behind the rail. Councilman Austin, would you like to speak to this? So moved. I'd like to just encourage support. I want to congratulate and thank staff for their great work on this and let it be for everyone to know how excited we are to move with phase two at Davenport Park in eighth District. Thank you, Councilman Pierce. Yes. I also want to thank staff and I want to provide a fact for us since it's mental health

h month that a physician diagnosed depression was 33% higher in residential areas with fewer greenspaces. So I'm happy to see us adding greenspaces to other part of town and thank you staff for everybody working on this. What a great fact. Thank you so much. Any other seeing no further comments here? Member Members, please cast your vote on the hearing. Out of nine, please. I'm 18. It's yours. Item 18 is communication from Councilman Andrew's recommendation to increase appropriations in the General Fund in the Economic and Property Development Department by 59,009 and 40, offset by the six Council District one time infrastructure funds to fund community improvement and community engagement activities. There's a motion in a second. Is there any public comment on this, saying on Councilman Andrews, anything? Oh, I just want to thank the folks councilmembers for supporting these community improvement efforts in prior years. And I've been able to see an incredible improvement in my district. More residents are calling for pothole, graffiti and illegal dumping items. We have also been able to increase our district drive and route and do immediate dispatch staff to our area, and they need extradition to address these concerns. Let's keep up the good work, you guys. Thank you. Members, please cast your votes. Believe it or not, this is going to be the longest meeting we ever had. So next up is 22. Real quickly, Madam Clerk. 23. I'm sorry, 23. Item 23 is communication from Councilwoman Price, Councilman Andrews and Councilman Austin. Recommendation to request the city manager to prepare a report on the specific areas relating to homelessness and residential quality of life in the city of Long Beach. Thank you. Exit quietly, please. That'd be great. Thank you very much. Councilman Price. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. I want to thank we had about five residents here earlier, but they had to leave to put kids to sleep. And we have one resident who stayed behind. So so thank you and bless you for staying. This item comes as a result of constituent feedback and information that we have received and of course, the great work that the city has done in regards to homelessness. I know this item is long, but I want to talk through just a few things. Long Beach has been making major strides towards addressing homelessness. City staff has made us one of the leaders in the state and how we help the homeless. I want to specifically thank two three of my colleagues who have had an important role in this issue. Councilmember Pearce, with her support of the Hart team, Vice Mayor Richardson with his work on affordable housing. And Councilwoman Gonzalez with her request for data collection, which is very vital to this process. I hope that we as a city can build on this important progress and continue to be a leader in addressing homelessness. This specific item seeks to collect more information that would be useful in actually developing strategies for a long term, multi department tal city approach to homelessness. I've indicated a number of areas in the items, but I'm truly open to any additional ideas from my colleagues on the departments and the departments themselves on ways that we can better address the needs being felt around homelessness and residential quality of life issues. Generally, the spirit of this item is to see how we can expand things that are successful and fill in gaps in addressing areas where we have opportunities. I encourage our city manager to use his judgment and the resources available to him and instructing the various departments that could have an impact on homeless issues. Oftentimes, we think of homeless issues as impacting only the health department or the police department, but that is simply not accurate. The listed bullet points in this item are meant to spur ideas that can get us closer to a long term multi departmental approach to homelessness in the city of Long Beach. Further, with Measure H money coming in, as well as so many of the great progress and successes and stories that we have about homelessness and our individual successes in our districts, how we can help expand our services to be more efficient and effective using Measure H resources and opportunities will be vital. There are so many different approaches that we can take to make an impact on homelessness and with various city departments having unique abilities to have different effects on this problem. This item is meant to establish a multi departmental focus and a holistic approach to homelessness and residential quality of life issues. Homelessness also affects many residents. For more information, with many departments, we can better help those who are suffering from homelessness, as well as residential and business communities impacted by the issues around homelessness. I'm open to suggestions from my colleagues, but I do want to say that this item came about for us because it's something that we've been working on and we've been paying attention to what my colleagues have been doing on this council. And although I know that reports have come back, I know there was some mention that, you know, we've already done some of this work or maybe it's duplicative. You know, looking at, for example, the March 9th report that came back on this issue. You know, there's a lot of good programs and ideas that are that are referenced, but there's really not a lot of details in terms of how we're going to accomplish some of our goals and objectives. We haven't included things that are practical in terms of how our departments can work together and how we can use the resources that we have in the most efficient manner, and having them coordinate with one another as they're taking on their various responsibilities in the community. There is one item I think is Council 100. Is still here. Oh, okay. He did have an item that I wanted to add on here, which was to include a well, I'll wait for him to come back and see if because he's th e second on this motion. So we'll come back. He might want to make that friendly himself, but it involves with our information technology department implementing an online dashboard that could be updated monthly with information that the public can access regarding our data and our our, our, our tracking of of our successes in the city. And finally, I know I have a resident here, but I do want to mention and I promise the residents that had to go home to take care of their kids that I know. I'm very well aware that in my district there was a petition started. The petition was written to the mayor and the chief of police. And I know there's there was a group here tonight that wanted to talk about the petition and talk about why they feel that residential quality of life issues need to be more of a focus when we're talking about the issue of homelessness. So I look forward to hearing from our one remaining member of the public eye today. Thank you, Councilman Gonzales. Yes. Thank you to Councilwoman Price for bringing this forward. I think any additional information we can provide and we can we can receive and figure out is is the best. However, it is very detailed and I know it's very lengthy and I appreciate her being very open and understanding that there have been reports that have come back already. What I would suggest and I have a couple of friendlies, but we have done a lot of work already in this, I think. And I know it's sometimes hard for the public to understand what the city is currently doing being in downtown. A lot of my residents, even though we have seen many individuals experiencing homelessness, they still don't understand the extent to which the city is doing. I personally was at the homeless count, which was on my birthday. Because I wanted to see it for myself. And I think that there's often a lot of residents who do not see that for themselves. They don't see what work we're doing the city departments are doing. I've had stakeholder meetings as well with many of the service providers which are located in downtown. And they don't even talk to each other. So I think there is a gap there in terms of coordinating and what we can do there. So a few things I've been thinking about. We have a multitude of different initiatives. We've passed policies of, you know, the Fuze fellow, I initiated a state of homelessness item, which was the March 9th report that came back. Affordable housing, the heart team. So many of us have had different initiatives, I would suggest and this is my friendly one of my friendly amendments to Councilmember Pearce. I'm sorry Price it is late tonight I'm sorry is is perhaps asking our city management staff to aggregate all of this information and put it all together. I know we can all look it up and register, but to aggregate the successes that we've had, whether that's Fuze fellow and all of the reports, to just have it all in one place for for the public to kind of jump off of that is. I think I spoke to

Kelly Colby, our Health and Human Services Director, some time ago, about even an infographic that shows the services that we're doing some sort of marketing campaign. I don't think people often know the success. Again, the successes that we've had with homelessness and the fact that we're down in our numbers, we just don't we don't talk about that in the homeless count. Information comes back, you know, in a very city like document. So I don't think it's anything fascinating to the eye. Not that it's fascinating information, but I think that we could maybe do a little bit better in marketing, that is coordination in services, because I think a lot of what Council Member Price is talking about is already being done. So is that something that we. Absolutely I think we can certainly do that. And I think that's one of the things the agenda item speaks to, and we can put that together with our team and Instagram. Yes. Okay, great. And then another thing I will say as well in terms of technology, because in speaking with the service providers, I think a lot of the disconnect is with the individuals out on the ground and the you know, I had about 15 stakeholders, First Congregational Church, Rescue Mission, MHRA, all of them in one, you know, all of the churches you can imagine COA all in one meeting and they didn't even realize the services that each other were providing. And I think that again is a big miss. So if we had some sort of a tech, I don't know if there's a platform we can provide for these social service providers. You know, one of them told me, oh, I didn't even know that the church across the street offered this service, whatever service it was. We don't even know what time of day food is being provided, whether it's breakfast, lunch, dinner. So I think that there's a way to. Perhaps streamline that. I don't know if there's a technology platform that could be done again. Maybe it's another infographic. We just need to think a little creatively there. So thank you again, Councilmember Price for this item. I look forward to the information. I will just say, though, that 120 days is a little short. My item didn't come back for a year. So I think that perhaps providing additional time for for city staff to come back with that information would be great. Thank you very much. Thank you. Councilmember Pearce, we we have councilmembers. I'm just confusing my I'm just trying to think I'm just thinking ahead of of the items. Is this okay? I want to thank my colleague. Councilwoman. Oh, you're thinking council member. Councilwoman, I get you. Okay. Councilwoman Price for bringing this item forward. Doing pronouns now. There you go. There you go. I think that's you know, it highlights a lot of the work that we've already done, everything from the Hart team to the previous work, everything with our police department and our health department. And it is a lot of information. But I think that the important thing is that, you know, we had a plan, a ten year plan, and that plans expired. And so going along and saying, where are we at now? What do we need to do for the next ten years, knowing what we know and what we've been able to accomplish. And so I'm happy to support this. Obviously, I think when we're talking about how we provide it. The first question is how do we get information? So how do we know how many people we're serving? How do we know how many calls are coming in? All of that information is so important to be able to deliver better services and to better be able to. City manager. Can you let me know how many times do multiple department heads meet in a month in regards to homelessness? Every week. Every week. And which departments are doing those meetings? It's it's a group of probably six departments PD, Fire, Health, Human Services, Parks and Recreation, City Manager's Office, Technology Services, Public Works. So even information like that, I think is really important to be able to tell our story to constituents and to say we're working really hard, you know? And I think sometimes the biggest challenge is when we're in the weeds doing the work. It's hard to sing our praises. And because we're so busy doing the work and. The teams working really hard. Yeah. And I see that. And I saw that when I came to council in a very different way than when I was outside of council. And so being able to tell that story and to be able to say, here's where we're troubleshooting, here's how we're helping out. So I think this is a good item. I think it's making sure that we know the impact of these things. So like the Hart team, you know, I would love to have one with each battalion. When we talk about the budget, that is something that we've seen them be successful on. So I don't have any amendments or anything, but I just wanted to say, you know, I think it's a good item if we can have enough time to make sure it comes back with, you know, all the information that we want. I think that would be helpful. Thank you. Councilman Ringo. I'll make it quick. The the study is pretty comprehensive. I understand that, but it's all concentrated on Long Beach. South Street in Long Beach. And homelessness is a citywide issue. And there are many areas where we have homelessness up here. And I think that we need to also reach out to our partners in the region, to the county of L.A., to Caltrans, to help us when we have those issues involving the freeway, the underpasses, the river. Because when we have issues that especially in my district in the seventh. We were like. I sent a task force out there. They know what the borders are. They throw stuff over the fence into the county site and in the county say that in doing so, I think that this study, whatever we're doing here, has to include connections or articulation, if you will, with our county contracting and Caltrans and any other agency that that is affected by homelessness. I wish you could include that. Thank you, Councilman Mongo. I think. I have lately been attending the countywide homeless meetings, and I know that in these large meetings we're in discussions and I want to repeat the words of my colleagues that Long Beach is doing. Exceptionally well as compared to of the other even smaller cities that that have sometimes in some categories, considerably more resources. But I do think that we could be instead of recreating the wheel. When we talk about these systems and how to put data online, we have the fire department who hopefully is moving towards the electronic patient system. There's a homeless button in that category. And as we educate people in public safety across the region, it should be a component of doing their job and not a separate mapping system. And I know that we have so many different systems and different departments. I would just. Heed us not to move into a new and another system, but find components of our current systems that can be modified and integrated and posted on open. Data. Thank you. Thank you. Councilwoman Price. So I absolutely. Councilman, your youngest comments are well noted. And I think this should be kind of looking at the region if you look at the different departments. So what we did was we tried to research what opportunities there were in each department. And Councilwoman Pearce is correct. We have done a lot of these things. But if you if you look at the item, for example, we're not saying let's create a Hart team. We're saying we'd like some data on the heart team's successes and can we add more and how much would that cost? So moving into the budget cycle, same with quality of life officers, you know, how effective are they? How much would it cost and how much time would it take us to train them up? So absolutely. And, you know, there was another item that I didn't mention earlier that I know Councilman Austin and Councilwoman Gonzales were involved in involving where the jail, where people donate money to they donate directly to an individual or should they donate to like a meter, artistic meter, and that money would go to a primary source and that would get distributed. And that's a really great idea. Other cities have done that, too. Councilman, you're on this point. So studying what other cities have done is is helpful. But we've done a lot of things. But I think in several of these areas, it's important for us to think about what's the next step. So what are we doing to educate people, businesses and residents about what all the experts believe, which is you shouldn't be donating individually to people. You should be donating to organizations that can help people, that can lead to long term sustainable. So what are we doing in that regards? And, you know, every once in a while you mention an idea and people will say, yeah, we're already doing that. Well, if the council doesn't know that we're doing that, then it's really not we're not able to transfer that to our residents. So if we are doing it, we should know about it. So an d if we are doing it, then the report's going to be a little bit easier to complete than previously had we have thought. So that's great if we're doing it. But if we are doing it, then, you know, is there an opportunity for us to do something better or learn something from another county? Like if you look at the public works section, there's a lot of research in here from work that's been done around the country in terms of service days and opportunities to have job training skills and things like that. And that's based on things that have been done regionally that may not be viable for for our city, but it's something I'd like us to explore. So again, I would like to ask my colleagues for their support. And and I think Councilwoman Gonzales makes a good point about the timing. I think 120 days may be unrealistic, although based on what I've heard, we've already done a lot of this stuff, so it might just be repackaging it. So I would say, you know, as soon as possible and I know I did this. Does the city manager noted the social impact bond item come back? I think we brought that about eight months ago or so. Does that come back yet? No, it has not come back. We can give. You a report tomorrow. I think it's shortly. Okay. Well, we. Weave that in here, too. So if we see something, we're already working on it. I can just come back with this, but I understand these things take time. Thank you. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I just want to applaud, you know, Council Councilwoman Pryce, all the signers and everyone's done work on this issue. It's an important issue across the county. You know, the more we talk about it, the more we engage on it. I don't think we can go wrong. So. So you have my support. Thank you. Great. We're going to let me just add one thing also. I do want to thank and I'm glad everyone else everyone has touched on. This is our staff, by the way, and I see Kelly out there and I just think it's really important to thank you guys are amazing. And you guys get pounded so hard in the community every single day for doing literally God's work and the kind of work that so many folks are not interested in actually engaging on. And your entire team and I've had a chance to meet I'm so proud of them and I'm so proud of all of our partners that are out there every single day. And I see some of them that are here today. So thank you guys for being here. And Mayor, do you recognize Officer Johnny Dotson who's out? WHITFIELD Absolutely. I mean, Johnny, I see our team. You guys are awesome. And I also just I think it's important to note that it is true we have had population shifts. But what what the data is coming back to it were Long Beach is in regards to the data versus every single one of our neighbors and the state of California is amazing what we're doing with the crisis that is across the state of California. And so I applaud you guys for doing that. And that by no no means does that mean that we still don't have serious issues and that we haven

't seen population shifts here? And that's cause major concerns for a lot of neighborhoods. And so we know that is obviously true. I will I will say what I think is important. We're doing, I think, almost more than than most cities and agencies. And what's great about Measure H is it would allow us to double our capacity. And so I know that you guys are working as part of the budget process that we're actually going to see pretty dramatic increases in the budget around homelessness issues. And I think in all departments, I think, Mr. West, I know that you're working as part of your budget to present kind of what all the departments are doing around homelessness. And so I think that's something that we all have to look forward to, and I appreciate that. But I want to go back to something that Councilwoman Gonzales said, which I think what struck me is part of the big issue is that we're also we're not communicating, I think, as probably well as we should be what we're doing and then listening to the neighborhoods about what it is that they're seeing on the ground at what we can do to address those things. And so, I mean, the conversations around what is actually happening, what our neighborhood partners are doing, how we communicate that to the community, does the council have all the information that they need to be kind of ambassadors in their neighborhoods and get the information out? So I think those are all actually very valuable conversations that I hope that we also have in the course of the next few weeks and months ahead as this reports put together. So I think it's a good item and I think it's good it's always good to have more information and have more conversations about a topic that we're all working on pretty, pretty strongly. So thank you to all of the council people that signed on to this. And Councilman Andrus. Yes. And real quickly. I want to thank Mrs. Price to bring this item forward, because I think with her hard work and compassion and with which we all should have for the homelessness, I think we really make a difference in Long Beach. We have to continue to work as hard as they have been because this is all over the country, homelessness, and we must have that compassion to really get serious behind trying to help out our fellow brothers and sisters. Out there struggling. Thank you very much. And we're going to go do a public comment. Please come forward. We're going to have this this lady go first, sir, just because she's been waiting for a long time. Go ahead, ma'am. Thank you. Good evening or good morning. Whatever it is by now. My name is Lauren Wakefield. I live in Belmont Heights in District three. Excuse me. I knew this would happen. I would really urge you to take a look at that petition that you've all been given. The 1300 people who signed it have included 1300 comments. And we have a very different outlook on this problem than you're presenting right now. First of all, this is not about homeless people who are si ncerely down and out and in need. We don't see it as a homeless problem. We see it as a public safety and a crime problem. And that's really what's happening with us. Long Beach receives a lot of grant money to provide services to the homeless, yet we've been told that 90% of that population refuses those services. And we were told that by your city homeless outreach coordinator. Even if we invest more money into more programs, there's no way to compel people to use these services. I'm asking the city to go to the heart of the problem by addressing this firm as props 47 and 57. These laws have released a tidal wave of criminals to the city and other cities. Drug abusers and thieves are doing very well thanks to these early release laws. There was supposed to be a period of public discussion regarding. The nonviolent peace. I ask the city to please address their concerns with the state. We're also asking the city to give feedback to the state on that egregious law that says stealing anything valued at under $950 is okay. That alone is causing a huge amount of chaos in the community. People are stealing everything, walking out of vans at traffic circles. With value about $1,000. A day, and that's just what they catch. While the state may take some time to change this ill conceived law. Can we draft some type of local ordinance that addresses it, please? It should not be just a misdemeanor to steal something valued under $950. Please untie the hands of law enforcement, even with the stifling limitations of the props. We have city ordinances that could be enforced. Please streamline the police paperwork, give us more police officers and patrols, and let the vagrants and criminals know we're not going to continue to lie down. And roll over. And while we're very appreciative of being. Put on the agenda. Tonight, we can't wait 120 days to see results. Crime is escalating. The community is at a boiling point. We must have budget for public safety, increased police and general protection for the public. Don't wait until businesses and the tax base flee. And tweekers, vagrants and criminals are all that's left in our city. Thank you. Thank you very much. Next speaker, please. You're here. You know, it was good what she said. Okay, Council. This. I have to ask this. I have to ask this. Why do we always see a unanimous vote? It seems like you. But before we got here, because then I'm hearing people talk and I'm hearing them say, okay, are they talking as if it's already been done? And I don't really like that. And I mean, you have a diverse, diverse group of people here, and it seems like it's already we don't have it. We're just here to show up and see what you guys are going to do. It's supposed to be we the people. This is supposed to be America. It seems like it's getting more and more socialist and. Ms.. Pierce, when you were going asked what was up about that happy birthday, Karl Marx. Because, you know, I'm American. I don't I don't think that's funny

. I don't see George Washington on your Facebook. But Karl Marx, let's make sure. Sure. We're talking about this topic. Right? Well, this is the topic, communism and socialism. And I'm a capitalist. I'm a free market person. So that is the topic. So so I'm asking her that's not representative. I can ask her. Well, I'm making my statement so I don't like that at all. I'm here to tell you. I don't like I don't like plain whatever you up with that. I don't like none of that. You know, we need to keep America for Americans. This is the topic. And as far as as far as homelessness, it needs to be helped. But I was here when you passed for $25 million to help them. I don't see nothing changing out there like the lady just said. Most of that and most of us know this isn't these are just crazy people. These are straight tweakers and dopers. They don't want to get inside. They don't want a job. They don't want no money. They don't want the hotel part of the GTA because that would be less smoking. They doing, let's call it what it is. A lot of people don't want that. They want they want to be out there with a cop doing what they're doing and then you acting like, okay, we need to keep our poor and money. No, we don't know that. A lot of people need to be in jail. And then the streets that no goes on out there. I know the stealing. I know when it gets dark. What's going to go on out there? Hi. Everybody's paying. Who works? All these working people paying. So let's stop playing, playing joke, playing games here and acting like there's a different problem. And all this money game, whatever it is, conspiracy, the RICO that needs to be dealt with right here. This seems like a racket to me, that's all. I leave it at that. It needs to stop. Just turn around and really get to doing something and you know, that's it. Thank you, Nick Speaker, please. Good evening. I'm Gary Morris, and I live in Mm Heights. I do real. Kind of big experiences with homelessness. One is president of my. Association and again. Councilwoman Price's my constituent. Thank you. And my constituents talk to me about this issue frequently. And they want something done now, sooner rather than later. And second, I have a board member who spends most of her time on just shopping cart retrieval, which is an associated issue to transcend homelessness. So that's how we do it. You know, in terms of how it affects me. Probably the most dramatic affect for me is we have a property in the Willmar Historic District on a Sunday morning going to work to work on it. I drove by on Anaheim inside a guy laying on the sidewalk. So I drove past and then I thought, you know, be a better guy, turn around, go check them out. So I called PD. They came up and picked him up. He was. Dead. So it was cold. It was sunny. It was Sunday. And it's a real issue. I see a separation between and homelessness, I think the two different issues. I agree that people don't always want to come in from the streets. I don't personally u nderstand it, but I've seen it. I've experienced it with a friend of mine. He chose to live on the streets, chose alcohol, chose meth. I don't get it, but it's a problem. 120 days may seem short for y'all. But from my side of the where I am. Sooner rather than later. And I appreciate Commander Griffin, Officer Dodson. For all the work they do for us and everybody else who I don't know. We really appreciate it. So thank you. And approve this and move on with it quickly and come up with a hard hitting strategic plan to solve these issues. Thank you. Next week, a police. Hello again. It's Silvia Contreras, District eight. And I do believe that we do need to help the homeless. But I have a different perspective. So. One of the things that I love is I love history. With that, I could tell you this from what I've read. Homeless and prostitution have been way before Christi's homeless back then, probably very different from today. Some years ago, I did a study on child support. Blessings. Maybe people know this, maybe they don't. But it wasn't until the mid to early 20th century that if a woman was divorced or her father or her husband passed away, the children went to the husband's family regardless. And if they didn't like her, they could kick her out. Eventually it came where the woman can take care of the child. So where does that come with this? Is that in the process of child support? I've also had had done the study that a lot of men don't want to pay child support, so they become homeless. And that to me is like a flip. So do we help those men that are homeless because they don't want to pay child support? I've always wondered, what are we doing to be able to find out why are they homeless? We know the problem is homeless, but why are they? So in order we know. In order to have a solution, we should really delve into the. Problem right now, homeless is very general. And then let's figure out those programs is also very general. So what can we do to drill down to the cause of the problem to really help it out? That's it. Thank you. Thank you very much, Nick. Speaker, Police. Minister. How are you? Good morning, you. Good to see you. Good to see you. I know. We all know each. I think the best thing all you can do is keep studying everything to create more jobs. LE True, but it's no. I know all of you working on the contract for the search tonight and we know about the Starbucks coffee. You know, that's part of my business support for managing more people to know managers won't let city council team load more people. No, no, no. To support the store. I love they live Long Beach. Well, we love homemade stuff. So that's your chance to speak. So the gentleman at the podium is speaking. From the stables. Manager Willow Lumby is telling me all of you came out there, me and Deanne, to talk about different things and put save the gold medal and any goals with those kids a couple. So. I think that's all. How? Save for the night key. Starting to create more chance for me. Sandy Hall's been here a lot of years lately. They got all the money and make it crazy, man. Thank you so much. Thank you. You have a good night. Have a good night. You too. See you tomorrow. Okay. Okay. Thank you so much. Yes. Next picture, please. Hello. My name is Paul Gomez here from Long Beach. I do want to thank all you guys for the hard work you guys are putting in on the homeless situation. And Officer Dawson, I know he puts in a lot of hard work, too, and been to some of the meetings he's had. And but when I walk outside my door, it's a totally different picture than what I'm hearing. I walk outside my door and I see, like Miss Wakefield said, nothing but basically tweakers and thieves. When I say thieves, the guys that are standing on my corner, they're riding around brand new bikes every day. They're stealing my bicycle. I'm retrieving my bicycle from them. I'm calling the Long Beach PD and I know their hands are tied. They come to basically hand my bike back to me and they can't take the guy to jail. I ride a nice bike, a really nice bike. They steal my girlfriend's bike at the same time. I retrieve her bike from another guy. It's just it's a cycle that is it's a cycle that's just not stopping and it's just getting worse and worse. I walk outside my door. I live in a nice place. I walk outside my door. I'm embarrassed to bring my friends over. I live in waterfront property and you walk outside and there's the same guy that still do bikes holding a sign. I help me with food and the same guy that's holding that sign is walking into CVS or Gelson's and walking in and walking right out with everything he wants. And and it just seems like there's nothing being done about it. I know you guys are working very hard at it and and the statistics look great and everything, but that's not what I see when I walk out my front door and I don't know what the fix is , but something's got to change. It's like this. This problem wasn't here years ago. There was the few homeless guys we had in our neighborhood. Everyone kind of knew them, waved at them. They were nice guys. These are a bunch of drug, drug addicts and a bunch of thieves. At the end of the day, what I see the majority of them, and it's just very disappointing that nothing's being done in my eyes to fix a problem. I know we're working at it, but that's not what I'm seeing. So whatever you guys can do to help out. Greatly appreciate it. Thank you, sir. Officer Dodson, for all your help, too. Thank you. Thank you, sir. Next speaker, please. Hello. First things first. Humanity predates Holmes. So homelessness obviously existed before Holmes have existed. But I myself was very curious about whether there were just not enough not enough shelters or or why people weren't going to the shelters. Because you obviously have you have your your drug addled individuals who are not exactly capable of handling being around other people. So they tend to not go to shelters. They tend to be o ff on their own loners sort of situation going on there. But there are plenty of people who are homeless, who aren't drug addled, who are who still don't seem to go into the to the shelters and such. So I have asked I've taken up the opportunities I've had to ask them, because if you want to know about something, ask people who are most involved with it. If you want to know about the Dakota Access pipeline, talk to people who are engineers in the field and find out what the actual hazards are. Not listening to a hullabaloo and all sorts of other things. So what I've been hearing is that it's it's an issue of sanitary, unsanitary conditions. They're better off. They they their they they have a better chance at maintaining some level of comfortable cleanliness on their own, washing up in whatever bathroom they can find or come. Across using a bar of soap and a and a and a and a washcloth. And wherever they can, they can they can make it happen. And maybe catching a shower at some some certain place they found that's decent, because when they've gone into shelters, they come out with bedbugs. So then all of a sudden, instead of just going in and getting a night's sleep or what have you, a gal told me about having to, you know, then shave her entire body and and go replace all of her clothing. And it's so I'm not I'm not trying to throw the the shelter operators under the bus. I've never stayed in one. I don't know what. I haven't experienced it myself. But if everybody I've talked to has had issues with it, then it's there's there's something going on there. There's a missing link as far as making sure that it's that it's a safe, healthy environment for people to go into. And I'm not sure exactly what be taken. Bedbugs are really terrible, so I don't have a great solution for it. But that's that's what I've heard. So it's not necessarily that there aren't enough beds. Um, so that's it. Thank you very much. Okay, next speaker, please. And then these are the last three speakers that are on the line. Hi. Thank you. My name is Amanda moore. I am a resident of the second district and totally brand new. Into local government. And this is trial by fire tonight. Wow. I, I just wanted to maybe make. Some suggestions about how to better involve the community in dispelling a lot of the fear and the unfounded will. Unfounded fears, certainly losing your bike again and again and having to retrieve it again and again and going through that is a hassle. It's wrong, it's criminal, it's not right. But a lot of these criminals that are making these they're making these choices. They have severe mental health problems. And we spoke about that earlier tonight. And it was passed, which is great. I think we'll. See quite a bit of decrease once Buck. Is completed and we're able to use that. But perhaps if you can work with neighborhood associations directly and people in the neighborhood to sort of engage the community. Members to have to. Be reminded of compassion for thes e people that they are you and I, we have been there before. I have never been homeless, but there is nothing to say that I could maybe be homeless. At some point. And I would want. To be treated with the same respect and compassion that any human. Deserves. So whether they have committed ridiculous crimes or not. We still need to give these people chance after chance. To help them. And I think talking with residents, dispelling fear and mental health outreach will help as well. Thank you for your time. Thank you. Next speaker, please. I know it's late. My name is Ramon. I'm from the fifth District. I don't know what it takes to. All my life, I've seen a lot of the homeless in Long Beach. I've. I run across the community and I see it all. I don't know what it takes to help this issue. It's an extremely tough nut to crack. I thought I saw it all until one day Stacy Mungo held a meeting in in Hartwell Park in a golf course cafeteria. And I heard Marie Knight say that she the city, spent about a half a million dollars trying to clear out tunnels that were in Eldorado Park. And I was just freaking out. That was amazing to me to hear something like that. I have helped some of the homeless. I've been fortunate enough at least not to be in a situation like that. But I've also helped two veterans get off of the homeless stuff after, you know, a long time working with them and just saying hello and giving them some of the information with a multi-service center that Stacy Mungo's chief of staff, Christine, gave me. And it got them to completely change her life. So I just wanted to just say thanks to this, the city and the community at least for having the multi-service center. It's been such a an important aspect of the city that I mean, it it doesn't it's so difficult to find just to help one person and they just keep working at it and they keep working at it. And you just got to say, you know, you're doing a yeoman's job just like what the mayor has said. So I just want to thank Johnny Dobson and and Commander Griffin for all the work that they've done. I know that we're kind of moving them around. We're not able to help them too much. But anything that we can do is is great. And I just want to thank the city for all its work that it's done. Thank you. Finally, Mr. Breland. Yes, Larry Bond. When I was a young kid, we used to go down to the riverbed in the San Gabriel River. It was before it smelled and was all trees. It's a riparian area, bamboo. And yes, we were down. There were hobos and were hobos. Now we have homeless people and those are guys who just didn't want to be inside. But here's here's an issue. In the last recession, we had a 15% unemployment. And people could go from a good paying job, have a house, have a car, and lose a job, lose the car, lose the house and be homeless. Those folks we have truly have to take care of. Safety net has to be there. But I'll never forget the igloos that L.A. City put up for the homeless. Remember that? Off of the freeway. And what happened? They took them out because the people wouldn't. The homeless people wouldn't go in. They wouldn't go into those igloos because they had rules. And the rules were you couldn't smoke pot and you couldn't do crack or cocaine. The homeless people don't like rules. So what scares me is you're going to build a whole bunch of houses and you're not going to have any guests because now we're going to have marijuana is going to be okay unless we put a nonsmoking rule into those homes. If you say, okay. Homeless, you can come in and. You can smoke pot. And by the way, you have a bed. Budweiser won't have another bud. Bud. And so we'll have high people in our thing like everybody. Nobody has a solution to this because there is a multi layer of schizophrenia, of drug addiction, of alcoholism. I don't know the thing, but I just say let's be cautious on how much room we spend on homeless housing versus fixing the solution with the people. Anyway, thank you for listening. Thank you very members was called and cast your vote. Councilmember Mongo. Councilmember Andrews wishing Karis thank you. Motion carries. Okay. We're going back now to item nine. Item nine is a report from Development Services. Recommendation to request city attorney to drive an ordinance amending the Long Beach Municipal Code. Chapter 18.21 maintenance of long term boarded and vacated buildings to include vacant lots citywide. Thank you. Quick staff report, please. Mr. Vice Mayor, members of the City Council. This is in relation to the previous item that you just heard. And without vacant lots it's really hard to do urban AG. So at this point I'm going to turn it over to Alison Spindler, a planner in the Planning Department, who is presenting this item. Thank you. Thank you, Amy. And good evening, Mayor, and members of the City Council. As you heard, in May 2016, the Council requested the city manager to explore the feasibility of a citywide vacant lot registry ordinance to address the negative impacts of vacant lots throughout the city. This request followed successful implementation of a revised foreclosure registration program and the ongoing success of our vacant building monitoring program. The intent of a vacant lot registry is to protect neighborhoods from negative impacts associated with those lots, particularly those that are not well kept up, which are associated with decreased perceptions of neighborhood safety and decrease neighboring property values. The proposed ordinance amendment before you tonight would require vacant lot property owners to register with the city, would implement stronger maintenance and upkeep standards, and would provide proactive inspections by code enforcement to help mitigate those negative impacts associated with vacant lots while creating opportunities to activate such slots for community serving users. As we just heard through AB 551, the Urban AG Incentive Zone Act or for potential development opportunities staff identified 618 lots across the city that would be required to participate in this registry should the ordinance be enacted. Concurrent with data collection and analysis of these lot staff research registry programs in other cities across California and the country, based on these examples, we've come up with a basic set of standards, including where we the abatement upkeep, curb painting and white vinyl split rail fence that would be required. Having this proactive registry and expanding the vacant building monitoring program to include those lots would allow staff to leverage existing programmatic infrastructure, including notification to owners, quarterly fees, inspections and abatement by code enforcement in the case of negligent, negligent or non-responsive owners. Finally, the staff proposes that the registry be made publicly available through Data Lab, the city's Data Open Data Platform to allow neighbors, community members and potential developers alike to access this information. As requested earlier this evening. You heard during public comment on the last item all the benefits that come along with vacant lots, especially for access to healthy food for communities that may not have sufficient access today. And those are often the same communities that are disproportionately impacted by vacant lots. Therefore, Stafford recommends authorizing the Director of development services with the discretion to grant case specific temporary fee exemptions for vacant land owners who agree to allow their lots to be used for specific communities serving uses such as urban agriculture. Urban greening. Community programming. With potential adoption of well, with the adoption of the UAV program before you tonight, tax incentives will be available, as you heard, for these property owners, in addition to not having to pay the fee associated with this registry. Therefore, you may be aware on average that produce in L.A. travels about 1500 miles before consumption. So localizing food sources can help reduce vehicle miles traveled while increasing community resilience to climate impacts. You'll recall some discussion about vacant lots earlier this evening during the study session on the land use element, which also supports these similar programs and policies. Once implemented, staff recommends conducting an annual review of demo permits to identify new vacant lots, and staff will work with the community to verify any additional lots not identified through the initial analysis. This concludes my presentation and I'm happy to answer any questions. Thank you so much. I want to just acknowledge staff. This has been a conversation that has gone on for years. So the first policy I actually worked on as chief of staff for my predecessor, Councilman Neal, was a foreclosure registry. It was the purpose was to crack down on the blight, crime and violence associated with vacant foreclosures at a time when we have plenty of them in our city. It went on to be wildly successful.

It was award winning city. Staff did an amazing job on that. The idea here is to capitalize on that success, to translate some of those same tools and lessons learned from vacant buildings and vacant foreclosures and now place it on the problem of vacant lots. We know that some of these lots of sat vacant for 20, 30, 40 years. There are constantly problems in terms of code enforcement. And we want to add another tool to crack down on these vacant lots. And so a year ago, we asked at the same time that we look at this stick of cracking down on vacant lots and the carrot of urban agriculture incentives so that we can sort of look at a comprehensive approach to modernizing and updating some of these some of these lot. So if you see there was a theme tonight. So we talked about access to farmer's markets. We talked about cracking down on vacant lots. And we talked about incentives to encourage urban agriculture. Hopefully, this sends a clear message to the public that our city is serious about making sure we have access to fresh fruits and vegetables. We know that in areas where we may not have as many grocery stores, Whole Foods, Trader Joe's Sprouts, you name it, those happen to be the same areas that happen to have too many vacant lots where you don't have a demand on our land and development. Those are some of the same areas don't have some of these amenities and services. So the hope is that these all come together in a way that really comprehensively looks at the problem. I want to thank city staff and thank Councilwoman Gonzalez for her support and along this whole conversation, her staff and all the city council. Linton here on this. Thanks, Councilwoman Gonzalez. Yes. I just wanted to say thank you as well, because I know the same things that the vice mayor Richardson said. I think the vacant lots have been a persistent issue in many of our communities, and it's great that will now have, you know, some movement on some of these, especially with fresh produce. And I know are there additional community serving uses that we can look at that have been talked about? Aside from just gardens, is there any other examples that we can take a look at? Yes. At this point, we've kept it rather broad to be community serving users at the discretion of the director of development services. But we talked about urban agriculture, other potential greening opportunities that could be, for example, at Pocket Park as well as potentially pop up businesses or programming. But that would be case specific as we work to. Implement the ordinance. That is fantastic and thank you so much for working on this. I'm excited. We love pop up parks. Any way we can get them. So thanks so much. Perfect. Perfect. Thank you. Any public comment on this item saying nonmembers, please cast your vote. Motion carries. Five. Please report from Development Services. Financial Management Recommendation to award eight contracts for as needed plan, review and inspection services and an annual aggregate amount not to exceed 725,000 for a period of two years citywide. Can I get a motion in a second, please? 25 three public comment on this. No public comment. Please cast your vote. Motion carries. Thank you. I know that just before we move on to the next item, this Mr. Ross, I, you know, just taken a glance at that. A lot of great companies on there. None I saw from Long Beach. And I'm not sure if that's. Maybe. I'm not sure. There aren't companies in Long Beach that can do that, that level of work. But I think that it's always kind of disappointing when we don't see local companies on these large, you know, these large awards. And so I know that I know that obviously we probably did a thorough search as possible and maybe there aren't local folks that do the work, but just something to consider. And I know we've obviously adopted the item. So so I do I'm going to have Amy Barack responded that because it this this council has made it clear to us to use local talent when we can. And sometimes it just doesn't work out that way. So. Amy. That's absolutely correct. We are actually having a very difficult time finding qualified folks who will act as contract land checkers and inspectors. For, I think, to have made a point of. Order. So we passed the motion. Now we're talking about can I can I motion to reconsider until we have the staff report. I'm fine. Fine with that motion to reconsider second. Okay. I was in favor of motion. Reconsider, say. Okay, so we're back on the item. Misspoke. Yes, sir. Thank you. So we do have vacancies in our planning, our building department, in both the plan checker and the inspection classifications. That is a reflection on the very tight job market that we have. And so we do have the ability to contract out while we're going through recruitment on those positions. We have actually had a very difficult time working with firms in actually getting any firm to be able to supply us with contract staff for those positions. And it is true that we do not have the Long Beach businesses who are able to put to supply those needs for us. So we have had to go outside the city for a number of years for those services. Thank you. Councilman Ashton, did you have any? No. Okay. Thank you. There's a motion in a second. We did have a comment, cable, a comment and say no additional public comment. Members, who is going to cast your vote? And so let's give them all a round of applause. Thank you. And we're moving on to our first hearing of the night, which is always first on the agenda. Madam Court hearing number one. Report from Financial Management Recommendations received supporting documentation into the record. Conclude the hearing and grant an entertainment permit with conditions on the application. The Queen Mary 1126 Queen's Highway for Entertainment with dancing for a non chip event only District two. Mr. WEST. Thank you, Mr. Mayor. Members of the Council, the staff report given by Sandie Singh Palmer, our purchasing a nd Business Services Manager. Good evening, Honorable Mayor and members of the City Council. Tonight you have. Before you an application for entertainment with Dancing. For Urban Commons Queensway LLC doing business as the Queen Mary. Located at 1126 Queen's Highway, operating as a hotel in Council District to all of the necessary departments have reviewed the. Application and it provided. The recommended conditions as contained. In the hearing packet. I, as well as the police department, stand ready to answer any questions Council may have. And that concludes staff's report. Thank you. There is a motion and a second. Councilman Pierce. Yes. I just want to ask my colleagues for their support for this. I want to thank staff for all of their work. I've looked through the conditions and I think that we have the right conditions for the property and this location. You know, Urban Commons has done a great job about trying to activate the queen, not only in the ways that we've historically used it, but even including Thursday night, local night and things like that. So I really do appreciate all the work and I continue to look forward to seeing them progress. Thanks. Okay. Thank you, Councilman Gonzales. Okay. Public comment on this hearing. Seeing no public comment on the hearing, I'll close the hearing and to come back to a vote. Then there's a motion and a second. Please cast your votes. Was here for our hard working Kiwanis. One more time. Okay. So next, we're going to take up our charter, our commission appointment. So we'll move two items, 26 and 35, which will be hurt together. And I'd like to recognize first our personnel and service, civil service committee chair Al Austin for appointments to our Charter Commissions for Harbor Planning and the Citizen Police Complaints Commission. Thank you very much, Mr. Vice Mayor. I like the way you need to read the item. The clerk Can we just move in? Okay. All right, go ahead. Continue. So, a little earlier today, our personnel, the Civil Service Committee, made recommendations for appointments to the civil to the Harbor Commission, to the Planning Commission, and I believe to the Citizen Police Complaint Commission reappointment as well. You got to bear with me. Get into my agenda items. And so the appointments the man made recommendations to appoint Bonnie Lowenthal, former city council member, former state assembly member, a longtime public servant in this city, and somebody I believe is very worthy of an appointment to the Harbor Commission, as well as former city council member Frank Callanan, who who's also been nominated and recommended by the Civil Service and Personnel Committee to also be on the Civil Arms Harbor Commission, as well as are before I go to the post through the Planning Commission. It's also are we looking at the appointments of the PCC? Desmond Fletcher. Confirmation for Desmond Fletcher. And there was one other. Re-appointment of Richard Lindemann to a second term on KPCC, two miles and Evan to the At-Large second term on KPCC, as well as Christian Cooper, to an appointment as a third district resident to the Citizen Police Complaints Commission. These were all made, voted on and recommended by the Personnel and Civil Service Committee with glowing recommendations. And again, I think the mayor has done himself with glowing appointments. I'd like to make a recommendation, a motion to approve the committee's recommendation and allow for comments of our. Guests that include Adam as well. This list that we approved last. So these are these. Are no longer the same prime minister. Again. These are. Those lists. That went through the Personnel Civil Service Committee. And so that's my recommendation. I move to to approve. Thank you. So, Councilmember Pierce, I have you queued up on a motion. I believe Councilman Austin intends to make the motion on the charter commission appointments. You want to. Tells me you want to. Okay. So it's been moved by Councilman Austin. Next, we'll hear from Councilmember Pearce. I just want to say that I think that these are great commission appointments. Earlier today, we had the opportunity to discuss the Harbor Commission and the Planning Commission. And it's great to have commissioners that have led that have experience leading that care not only about industry, the environment, but our neighborhoods. And I'm really honored and hope that my colleagues will support me and my other colleagues in appointing some great commissioners to our city. Thank you. Fantastic. Next, Councilwoman Price. Thank you. I, too, want to congratulate all of the appointees this evening. I especially want to recognize one of my predecessors, Frank Colonna, who will be resuming in his service in a more public light Frank. Many people don't know because he's very, I think, very humble and well-meaning and really cares about the city. But ever since he left the city council, he's been very actively involved in improving our city on the Rivers and Mountains Conservancy and has helped with so much of our efforts with wetlands and the Colorado Lagoon and all the things that are so important to many parts of our city. And he does that kind of

under the radar without much fanfare because he loves the city. So I'm looking forward to having him working with us as a member of the Harbor Commission. And same with Assemblymember Lowenthal. Commissioner Lowenthal. What what should we. There's so many titles that we're going to need that we're going to need out our all the former vice mayor. But. Yes, and, you know, we I think all of us enjoy a very good working relationship with our harbor commissioners. They help educate us on the issues that are facing the industry and the changes in the industry. So I look forward to that continued relationship with both of you and to all of the commissioners. Welcome and thank you for your service. Thank you. Councilmember Urunga. Thank you, Vice Mayor. I was a member of the Civil Service and

Personnel Committee earlier today that made the recommendation to here today. I said a lot of great things, man. And you all should have been here, man. That was awesome. So I'm not going to repeat everything I said and those of my colleagues, but I will say that I, as a former employee of the city of Long Beach, I worked with for these two individuals, Frank Luna and Buddy Lloyd, that when they were in the city council and it was a pleasure to work for them at that time. And this is an honor for me to be here in the days to approve and and push forward your names through these commissions. So congratulations and looking forward to working with you in the future. Thank you, Councilwoman Gonzalez. I, too, and extend my congratulations to each of you. It's awesome that all of you have extensive backgrounds. I've been doing a little bit of research and all of you, and it's just incredible the amount of talent that we have in Long Beach now representing us. And it's awesome more even more awesome to have someone from the first District representing our harbor commission, which is exciting. And also to you, Frank as well. I know we spoke as well over the weekend and I'm also very excited for you to join our harbor commission and I look forward to working with all of you in so many different facets. Congratulations again. Thank you. Next, we have Councilman Andrews. Also, I'd like to congratulate each and every one of you and good luck. I don't know what you're getting into, but still good luck. Thank you. Councilmember Supernova. Thank you. And congratulations to all the nominees. I know you'll do a great job. Also want to make special mention of Richard Lindemann re-upping on the Citizen's Police Complaint Commission. If that name is familiar. He ran against me in 2015 and I nominated him for that commission. So it's a special individuals volunteer to serve under those circumstances. So thank you, Richard. Councilmember Elanga. I would I would be remiss if I did not also congratulate all the other appointees. Hey, you know, Frank and Bonnie, you're so overwhelming that I forgot to also congratulate the other appointees to the various committees. And I know you'll do a good job. Thank you. Thank you, Councilman. Mongo. I just want to I just want to thank everyone and remind the community watching at home that we still have commission seats available and that this is a not only a great honor, but a great responsibility. And we appreciate those who have agreed to step up because many others often say, no, there is a lot of scrutiny and there's a lot of requirements. And so not only do we appreciate that you have already given so much of your lives to public service, but here you come again on another round of giving back. And so thank you so much for what you do. It really is a thankless job. We appreciate you. Thank you. And I'll insert my comments here. So I'll say to Bonnie and Frank, congratulations and welcome to both of you. The vote hasn't had.

Yeah, but I think you'll be okay. You know, as you know, from current vice mayor to two former vice mayors, I got to say, you know, you know, you're making it look good here. What you're doing since leaving the vice mayor seat. So I'm really proud of both of you. I do want to say, before we open up the public comment, I want to congratulate all of the new appointees that were mentioned. And we will have two separate votes on the rest of the folks that are coming up. But before we go to public comment, I'd like to invite both Frank and Bonnie up. They'd like to just introduce themselves for folks who may not have but may not know them. I know we all know them, but to the folks watching, they may want a new introduction to our and to new harbor commissioners. Thank you so much for your comments, for your welcome and for your understanding of our past service. Service in the First District, in the state assembly, on the school board. The harbor is very special to me. I think the harbor accounts for one out of three jobs in the Southern California region. So the work that we do is going to be very critical for economic development, for the future of this entire region. And I just want to tell you that I've really never left the city family. I may not be on your side of the dais, but, you know, once you're on the council and once you work for this city, the passion really remains. So I thank you. I look forward to working with you. Thank you, Mr. Coloma. Thank you, vice mayor. I also want to thank Mayor Garcia and all of you for all the support that you've given not only now, but as we've worked together in the past few years on a lot of things. You know, one thing, it's always nice to come back home and Long Beach is such a great city and our port is just an enormous resource and we all rely on it. It feeds families, puts Rousseau for people's heads, provides the kind of goods and services that the entire country depends on. And so we have a lot of work ahead of us, but at the same time, we need to really stand tall and proud of the kind of port that we have from when it first started. And it was just a glimmer maybe 50, 60 years ago. And you look at it now and it's thousands of jobs and billions of dollars of our economic vitality. So I want to thank you all. I'll do the best job I can for each and every one of you, as well as our residents of the city, and look forward to working together. This is a great opportunity and I'm so excited about doing it and very privileged, by the way, for your support. It's really an honor. Thank you. Thank you for those comments. So according to our city attorney, we're going to do one public comment for everyone. So I'm gonna go ahead and move forward with all the rest of the commissions that we have here. So well, now we're here are charter appointments. So to the Economic Development Commission, we have Steve Goodling, who's no stranger to city hall. Steve Goodling has been the president and CEO of the

